KNAPP BURNED CENSUS PAPERS, SAYS JANITOR

Destroyed Her Records, Worker Testifies

ALBANY, N. Y., May 24.—From the lips of Hugh Hawthorne, a janitor at Syracuse University, the jury at the second trial of former secretary of state, Florence E. S. Knapp, today heard how Mrs. Knapp herself burned papers, which the prosecution alleges were official census records.

The first woman state official is on trial a second time on a charge of stealing thousands of dollars in census funds.

Hawthorne, in addition to establishing that Mrs. Knapp herself had burned census records, declared that he had burned several boxes and bundles containing records at her direction. This is the second time since the beginning of the Knapp case that she has been directly connected with the destruction of census records.

The specific charge against Mrs. Knapp is that she stole a $2,857 check made out to her step-daughter, Mrs. Clara Blanche Knapp, who declares that she never did any census work. Other evidence shows that Mrs. Knapp obtained $17,000 of the $24,000 paid to her relatives whom she was generous enough to place on the state payroll.

MINE JUDGE AIMS NEW INJUNCTION

Forbids Any Meeting of Strikers

(Special to The Daily Worker)

PITTSBURGH, Pa., May 24.—"Any congregation of mine workers in a public place will not be considered peaceful by the court," is the decision of C. S. Turnbaugh, common pleas judge, in an injunction granted by him to the Morris Coal Company in Cambridge, Ohio, according to reports received at the office of the National Miners' Relief Committee.

Operators Move.

The granting of this injunction, the most drastic ever issued by a court, comes coincidentally with announcements from numerous coal operators in this area that they will attempt to open their mines on a non-union basis. Oral Daugherty, deposed head of the United Mine Workers of America in Eastern, Ohio, is helping the operators by propagandizing for abandonment of the strike. He is openly supported by the business men of that district.

Andy Plechady, a striking miner of Dillonvale, Ohio, declares that plans for continued mass picketing wherever an attempt to open operation occurs, are being made in meetings now being held throughout Eastern Ohio.

Ask For Relief.

"Don't worry, we'll keep on fighting," he said. "The only thing that bothers me, is that the kids are hungry. That last relief shipment you sent us sure was needed. If you keep on helping us, we'll fight on until we win!"

The National Minerh' Relief Committee urges that funds be sent them immediately so that another shipment may be sent to the hungry miners in this famine-ridden area.

Lancaster Paper Being Edited in Prison Cell

LANCASTER, O., May 24.—The Lancaster Daily Gazette today was being edited from a cell in the Fairfield County Jail, by William T. Lewis, editor, who began serving a sentence of ten days and a fine of $20 and costs on charges of contempt of Court.

Lewis' sentence was meted out by Justice of the Peace, E. W. Boerstler, after a gazette editorial of last night criticised the Squire for fining a man $10 and costs after he was found guilty of assaulting a young woman and leaving her unconscious on a

Centralia Lawyer

George Vanderveer, shown in the picture, was the attorney for the Centralia frame up victims, now in Walla Walla jail. The growing mass protest is expected soon to force open the doors of the penitentiary and compel the authorities to free the Centralia victims.

WORKER-PEASANT TROOPS GAINING

Canton Reactionaries Murder 162

SHANGHAI, May 24.—The workers and peasants troops have succeeded in defeating a detachment of Li Chai-sum's troops in the vicinity of Canton, according to information received here.

Martial law has been declared in Canton. Twelve labor leaders have been executed.

More than 150 persons, charged with "Communistic activity," were executed on the siland of Hainan, it is reported.

VANCOUVER, May 24. — The worker-peasant government in Swatow has sent a note to the commanders of the American and British military forces asking the immediate withdrawal of warships and marines from the city, according to a report received here by the Canadian Morning News, left wing Chinese newspaper.

PEKING, May 24.—A critical battle is being fought in the vicinity of the city of Hokien, 100 miles south of Peking, by the Kuomintang troops and the forces of General Chang Tsolin.

WASHINGTON, May 24.—A formal request that the United States convoke representatives of the European powers to "consider the Manchurian question" will be presented to Secretary of State Kellogg by Dr. C. C. Wu, special envoy of the reactionary Nanking regime.

Wu will be received by Kellogg late this week or early next, it was announced at the state department.

NEGRO STRIKER TELLS OF MINES

Colored Harlem is hearing the story of George W. Hawkins, miner-preacher, concerning exploitation of colored men in western Pennsylvania mines. Hawkins was evicted from his home at Fredrickstown, Pa., along with other striking mine workers. He has set up Negro Miners' Relief Headquarters at 200 W. 135th St.

Colored labor agents, says Hawkins, are scouring the country for mine strikebreakers, scattering fanciful tales of high wages, but the misguided workers find only hard, dangerous work at 33 cents an hour and even less. They are not permitted to leave company premises. Their transportation expenses are taken from their pay, instead of being borne by the company, as promised. Tags are taken from the coal cars; thus cutting their wages.

Hawkins is explicit before Negro audiences in telling how white coal and iron police crack colored skulls. "Lord only knows how these poor people stand it all," he says. "The best thing the strikebreakers can do is to pull a strike themselves. They can't be no worse off than they are

Fascist Officials Admit Torturing Political Prisoners

MASS TRIAL OF 32 COMMUNIST PARTY LEADERS

Torture Militants Who Were Jailed in Milan

(Special Cable to The Daily Worker.)

ROME, May 24.—The head of the Milan Security Police, Bocchini, has been appointed to investigate the tortures in police prisons and police responsibility in the Milan explosion.

He examined police officials who declared that political prisoners were tortured at the order of Nudi, Pacenza band which was also responsible for the explosion. Nudi is general-inspector in the Home Office and Pacenza is his subordinate.

Bocchini discovered that political prisoners were tortured in an underground chamber by the Milan police praesidium.

(Special Cable to the Daily Worker).

ROME, May 24.—The great trial of the 32 members of the Executive Committee of the Italian Communist Party will be held in secret on May 28. Neither the public nor representatives of the press will be allowed at the trial.

Fascist newspapers will receive "official" reports. There will only be three defending attorneys for the defendants. The trial will last three days.

MINE GUILT TO BE COVERED UP

State to "Investigate" 200 Deaths

(Special to the Daily Worker)

MATHER, May 24.—Announcement by the state of Pennsylvania of a police investigation into the responsibility for the Saturday mine explosion which resulted in the death of over 200 miners was made yesterday by Deputy Secretary of Mining John Ira Thompson. That the so-called "investigation" will have for its purpose the complete "white-washing" of the open-shop company officials is seen in the fact that Thomas has ordered out all state rescue workers from the Mather Colliery Company pit and has turned the mine back to the company.

This is intended, no doubt, to permit the company sufficient opportunity to eliminate all traces of its guilt. The "investigation" will then declare the officials "innocent" of the killings.

Tragedy on Large Scale.

MATHER, Pa., May 24. — The pitiful procession of mothers, wives and children of the victims of the open-shop Mather mine file by the charred bodies, mutilated beyond recognition.

According to official count, 197 are known to be dead in Mather. Others still entombed, are not expected to survive.

Other new catastrophies bring the total death toll to 289.

In Kinver, Kentucky, more than 75 miners are trapped in the Black Mountain Mine. Four bodies of miners who had been thrown clear of their companions by the explosion which wrecked the level leading to the lateral on which the men worked,

ANOTHER DEATH DUE TO RADIUM

Public Beginning to Demand Action

ORANGE, N. J., May 24.—With a suit of five doomed young women against the United States Radium Corporation for $1,250,000 pending, it became known today that the death of Miss Elizabeth Dunne at a hospital in New York more than a year ago has been traced to the same plant.

Five Orange girls who were employed at the radium plant are victims of radium poisoning and doctors have pronounced their cases incurable.

Miss Dunne, who had formerly lived at Waterbury, Conn., was employed by a watch and clock company that used radium supplied by the Radium Corporation. At the time of her death the cause was given as radium poisoning but the case was considered of minor importance then However, as a result of the connection with the present situation here, an investigation has been started in Connecticut to determine whether there are any radium poisoning cases among the watch and clock manufacturing centers there.

Meanwhile, with the almost certain death of Miss Grace Fryer, Mrs. Quinta McDonald, Miss Katherine Schaub, Miss Albina Larice and Mrs. Edna Hussman, and the possible poisoning of at least 100 others there is a mass feeling of protest rising.

There have been 14 deaths in Newark and Orange due to radium poisoning. Many other cases are now being treated at a local hospital.

The trial in the action brought by the radium victims is scheduled for Monday.

SCORES WALL ST. CONTROL OF CUBA

No marines need be sent to Cuba. More than one and a half billion American dollars already occupy "the sugar bowl of the world," making her president a lackey and her sovereignty a joke. So says Senor A. R. Ruiz, Cuban secretary of the All-America Anti-Imperialist League, in a statement on the present situation in Cuba given out today by the United States section of the league, with headquarters at 39 Union Square, New York.

"Wall Street alone has more than 150 million dollars invested in Cuba," adds Senor Ruiz, "and woe to the

CALL FOR CLOAK SHOP CHAIRMEN CONFERENCE

The date for the first of the series of big conferences of shop representatives of the workers in the ladies' garment industry has been set in an official call issued yesterday by the National Organizing Committee. These conferences, intended as the first organizational steps to be taken by the N. O. C. in its drive to rebuild the union destroyed by the right wing and the bosses, are to be called in every center where women's clothing is manufactured.

Conference June 2.

The declaration, which is signed by Louis Hyman, chairman, and Rose Wortis, secretary, calls upon the workers in the cloak and dress shops thruout Greater New York, whether they be union, non-union, or registered to elect immediately representatives to the conference which will begin Saturday morning, June 2 in Webster Hall, 11th St. and Third Ave.

After relating how the National Organizing Committee was formed at the conference of rank and file representatives and delegates locked out of

McNARY-HAUGEN UP AGAIN TODAY

May Try to Pass Bill Over Coolidge Veto

WASHINGTON, May 24.—A decision on the question of attempting to enact the McNary-Haugen Farm "Relief" Bill over the President's veto was postponed until tomorrow by the Senate, Agriculture Committee today, due to the absence of farm bloc leaders. There were indications the Committee would recommend that no effort be made to enact the bill into law over the President's objections, as the feeling persisted that it cannot command the necessary two-thirds majorities in both branches of Congress.

The wealthy farming interests in the west are reported to be greatly disappointed at Coolidge's action, who for the second time in as many years showed his loyalty to his Wall Street masters by rejecting a bill that would have meant a victory for the farming lobby.

The McNary-Haugen bill had the support of such "spokesmen" for the farmers as the Pullman boss, Frank O. Lowden, Vice-President Dawes, Senator Curtis and Senator Watson.

JOBLESS WORKER SENDS "DAILY" $5

Must Raise Fund to Move Paper At Once

Though out of work for more than five months because of illness, Bertha J. Leib, a worker of West Roxbury, Mass., has sent $5 to the $5,000 fund to help move The DAILY WORKER to its new home at 26-28 Union Square.

In a letter to the Daily this worker writes:

"I cannot but realize that The DAILY WORKER must be kept afloat no matter what sacrifice it may involve. And at this time in the history of the class struggle in America The DAILY WORKER is indeed the organizer, agitator and propagandist for the as yet poorly organized, economically and politically backward American workers, dominated as they have been by the fossilized, treacherous leadership of the defunct Gompers and his counterparts, the Greens and Wolls.

"The very life of the labor movement depends upon such organs as The DAILY WORKER. Therefore, those who are seriously interested in its fortunes must support it to the very limit."

This letter is typical of others that The DAILY WORKER has received. But the $5,000 goal is still a long way off and the Daily cannot move or function properly until it is reached.

Workers, follow the example of this unemployed worker. Send in your contributions at once together with the attached coupon.

BILL ATTACKS BOSSES' GRAFT

NEW ORLEANS, May 24.—A bill has been introduced in the state legislature now in session, by Representative W. S. Jones of Jackson parish, that provides "that where a corporation collects an assessment from its employees for the payment of a physician it shall not be allowed to retain more than ten per cent for such services."

It is said that many companies are now retaining more for the collection of the assessments than they pay over to the physicians and it has become a serious matter in many of the industrial centers, notably New Orleans.

Another bill has been introduced by the same representative making nine hours a legal day's work in the state of Louisiana, and provides that when a person works more than nine hours out of the twenty-four he shall be paid at the rate of one and a half time for all over the nine hour period.

COMINTERN HAILS HISTORIC LABOR GATHERING HERE

Mass Demonstration to Open Meet

In endorsement of the National Nominating Convention of the Workers (Communist) Party, which opens with a mass demonstration at Mecca Temple tonight, the Political Secretariat of the Communist International has sent the following greetings to the convention:

Comintern Greetings.

"The Comintern greets the raising of the Communist banner in the election struggle in the United States. The American campaign comes at a time when the workers of Germany and France have shown their full confidence in the Communist Party leadership of the struggle against the bourgeois parties and the reformists within the ranks of labor.

"Your fight is taking place in a country where the capitalists, with the full support of the American Federation of Labor and the leaders of the "socialist" party, are employing the most brutal oppression, as exemplified in the case of the seven years' agony and murder of Sacco and Vanzetti, in the measures taken against the heroic miners and by the cunning corruption of the labor aristocracy.

"By developing the class struggle, you are accelerating the growth of the Communist Party which fights against the capitalist offensive and Imperialist aggression in Nicaragua,

CHICAGO TO HOLD RELIEF CONCERT

Fine Program For Next Sunday

CHICAGO, May 24. — Numerous Chicago labor organizations are combining to support a benefit concert for striking coal miners and their families in Ohio and Pennsylvania who have conducted a thirteen months fight against the coal operators and now face starvation. Under the auspices of the National Miners' Relief Conference of Chicago the concert will be held at Wicker Park Hall, 2040 W. North Avenue, Sunday, May 27, at 3 p. m.

The Lithuanian Singing Society, the South Slav String Orchestra, the Freiheit Singing Society and Mandolin Club, the Ukranian Singing Society and the Czecho-Slovak Turner Club, have volunteered their services for the event. In addition to the musical groups several first class soloists will be heard.

Miners direct from the field of struggle in the coal valleys of Ohio and Pennsylvania will tell of their historic battle for the right to live. This is the second concert on the miners' behalf this year and will be followed by an intensive city-wide drive for funds by the National Miners' Relief Conference in co-operation with other labor organizations and fraternities.

NEGRO, WHITE WORKERS FORCED APART

Southern Union Officials Destroy Solidarity by Prejudice

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., May 24.—Here within a stone's throw of the Alabama coal fields where labor conditions for both races are so bad that no sensible person would waste time on differences of race or color, Negro and white workers are separated by a chasm of racial prejudice and ignorance. Even organized Negro and white workers know scarcely anything of each other. Race prejudice is so prevalent among white union officials that they refuse even to meet in any general assembly with Negro union members.

ALTHOUGH Negro brickmasons may join the union with white brickmasons, they are not allowed by the union officials to work on jobs with them. Because of this discrimination, few Negro brickmasons have joined the union. In fact ever since the revival of the Ku Klux Klan after the world war, Negro organized workers and white organized workers have been driven apart. Old labor leaders say the klan is responsible and thus seek to evade responsibility.

IN Mobile there is also a complete estrangement between organized Negro and white labor. White labor officials are strongly opposed to mixed unions and are even opposed to receiving Negro delegates to the Central Labor Union. The net result of this attitude on the part of white labor officials is that Negro workers are losing confidence in unions.

Boston Capmaker Meeting Condemns Zaritsky's Conspiracy to Wreck Union

MEMBERS EXPOSE RIGHT WING PLOT ON OPEN FLOOR

Will Fight "Submission To Bosses" Policy

(Special to The Daily Worker)

BOSTON, May 24. — The Boston capmakers at a membership meeting of Local 7 last night categorically condemned Max Zaritsky, president of the Cloth Hat, Cap and Millinery Workers International for his campaign to destroy all local unions serving as stumbling blocks to his policies of submission to the employers, and for his numerous unsuccessful attempts to break the Boston union.

After a discussion lasting for many hours, in which Zaritsky and his clique in control of the International was denounced by the members from the floor, the meeting unanimously voted a resolution of condemnation of the union wreckers. The meeting was held in Capmakers' Hall, 28 Hayward Place.

In the discussion the membership showed that they will not be terrorized by the threats and intimidations used by Zaritsky and his clique in their attempt to force upon the members the acceptance of his plan of taking away the leadership of the local from the existing militant administration, and giving it over to his henchmen and appointees.

The recent intensification of the destructive activities of the right wing were clearly brought out. It was revealed that the "worthy" president ordered on May 9 a membership meeting with the supposed purpose of taking up trade questions of vital importance to Boston capmakers.

At this meeting Zaritsky tried to smuggle through a motion to give control of the local over to the General Board. But when the membership protested Zaritsky was forced to call a special meeting to consult members before he would make any such steps. Instead of such meeting he called a club meeting of his right wingers to which he also decoyed a small number of members.

There Zaritsky announced that he does not intend to call the promised meeting; that he is not going to keep his promises or be guided by the constitution. "The local," he declared, "is taken over already." He advised local officers be ignored by the members; and that in a few days he will send one of his lieutenants to establish law and order in Boston.

It was also brought out how Zaritsky had visited the shops making preparations for his program through deals with bosses. How he canvassed members to come to his club meetings.

The resolution adopted condemned the Zaritsky's plan to do away with the forty hour week and introduce piece work into the trade. It condemns his intention to break up all locals which are resisting his plans of submission to the bosses. Resolution also expresses its solidarity with the four thousand members of local 43 who are fighting against Zaritsky's attempt to destroy their local, take away their right of managing their own affairs and safeguarding their hard-won conditions.

SCORE WALL ST. CONTROL OF CUBA

Need No Marines—Yet, Says Militant

poor Cuban who dares to interfere with American interests in this 'sister' country. Upon him will fall all the wrath of the Lord."

The army of occupation includes dollars invested in land, government bonds, railroads, mines, manufactures, banks, public service companies, commerce, tobacco and sugar, according to the American Chamber of Commerce in Havana.

The greatest of these is sugar. Sugar has been more than 81 per cent of Cuba's export for the past 21 years; of sugar shipped from Cuba more than 83 per cent has gone to the United States. Eight hundred million disciplined U. S. dollars strongly intrenched in Cuba's sugar industry effectively dominate Cuban economic life, says Senor Ruiz.

Provoke Crisis.

Partly as a result of financial crisis 'provoked by American interests,' Cuban lands are so rapidly being sold and mortgaged to Americans that "soon Cubans will hardly own enough ground to plant their flag on," asserted Senor Ruiz.

World Culture Gets Big Boost By Experiment

BOSTON, Mass., May 24.—Scholarship in American universities hit the high-water mark yesterday when Fred Smith, a student at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology won the intercollegiate ice cream eating championship.

Smith, whose papa is a prosperous business man in Kansas City, claims to have accomplished the feat in the interests of the science of chemistry.

The scholar was in a Back Bay drug store when companions suggested the test.

By eating the three quarts and by the aid of a clinical thermometer, Smith found that the body temperature gradually steps downward and that a raccoon coat and a hot water bottle are great assets provided there is boiling water in the bottle.

MORE BAY STATE HATRED OF LABOR

6 Month Jail Terms For Mothers in Mill Strike

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., May 24.—The savage hatred of labor always manifested by the Massachusetts courts was again displayed Wednesday when Judge Milliken sent two strikers, both mothers, to prison for six months. This act has succeeded in awakening the resentment of the 28,000 textile workers on strike against a wage cut here, to the highest pitch since the strike first began almost six weeks ago. They are Mrs. Angelina Tsoupreas and Mrs. Christina Simores. Frank Cunha, another striker was sentenced to 30 days.

Struggle Becoming Keener.

Although the International Labor Defense, which has volunteered the aid of its organization to the Textile Mills Committee in the task of providing legal aid and other defense work, has succeeded in obtaining the release of the three strikers on bonds of $500 pending an appeal, a bitterness hitherto undeveloped is being displayed by the strikers. The lack of sharpness in the struggle till now is mainly due to the fact that there has been practically no scabbing in the strike, the walkout being practically 100 per cent effective.

Picketing this morning had a greater attendance than any of the last few days, in spite of the increased police cordon around the mills.

In addition to the prison sentences imposed the two women were fined $45 and $20 respectively. Two other women pickets arrested several days after the first arrests were fined $60 and $40 each. They are Mary Valente and Mary Silvia.

Cops Maltreat Women.

The two women were arrested May 10 while picketing the Pemaquid Mill. They had defended themselves against being manhandled by the police, one of whom subsequently testified that the women had scratched him, and that they had carried bricks, although admitting that the bricks were not used.

The Textile Mills Committee, which is a national body, organizing textile workers thruout the country, intends to announce that the New Bedford section in charge of the strike, will formally establish a New Bedford union, which will be part of the T. M. C. by affiliation, it was unofficially learned yesterday. It is believed that an official statement from the T. M. C. will be forthcoming in a few days.

The merchants, clergymen, and other interests depending for their very existence on the steady expenditure of the workers' wages, are continuing to organize "mediation committees" daily. The determination of the strikers, however, is such as to preclude the belief of an immediate ending of the struggle, unless the wage slash order of 10 per cent is unconditionally rescinded.

WORKERS PARTY MEET TONIGHT

Cuba and the whole Caribbean region as well as in the suppression of the Chinese revolution.

"Harmonious and strenuous work of all the Party forces, together with the most active elements of the workingclass, will spell success. Long live the Workers (Communist) Party."

Mass Demonstration.

Tonight Mecca Temple will witness one of the greatest workingclass demonstrations against capitalism and capitalist domination in government, that has ever taken place in the history of American labor. The mass demonstration, with thousands of workers as participants, will mark the formal opening of the National Nominating Convention of the Workers (Communist) Party. The convention will mark a milestone in the struggle for workingclass independent political action in nominating candidates for the coming presidential election. A National Campaign Committee will also be selected.

Hundreds of delegates, members of the Workers (Communist) Party and delegations of militants from the trade unions, from the mines, textiles and other industries, and from fraternal organizations, who are to take part in the great opening demonstration in Mecca Temple, have arrived in New York City for this event.

The great auditorium of Mecca Temple has been hung with red banners and bunting and the walls and platform have been decorated with signs and emblems bearing the principal slogans of the Workers (Communist) Party in the coming campaign. An atmosphere of enthusiasm pervades the hall and the visiting delegations.

Plans Completed.

Final plans for the opening of the convention have been completed and arrangements for the disposition of the vast crowd which, it is expected will fill the large auditorium to overflowing, have been made. The committee in charge of the convention has issued an especially urgent appeal to all those participating in the convention to be present at 7.30 p. m. sharp.

After the preliminary celebration which will consist of singing and music by the Hungarian Workers' Symphony Orchestra of 50 musicians a number of leaders of national standing in the revolutionary movement in the United States will address the convention. Among the speakers will be William Z. Foster, Ben Gitlow, B H. Lauderdale, Ben Gold, Senator Charles E. Taylor, James P. Cannon, Scott Nearing, William F. Patton, Lovett Fort-Whiteman, Anita C Whitney, W. W. Weinstone, Tom Rushton, Stanley Clark and Scott Wilkins. Jay Lovestone will be chairman.

Following the convention, a Red Welcome Fest will be held for the delegates on Saturday evening. The committee in charge of the welcome fest announces that it will be one of the livest receptions ever held in New York.

DELEGATES TO CONVENTION ARE ARRIVING HERE

O'Brien Of Arizona Visits Daily

The first delegate to the Workers' Party National Nominating Convention to arrive in New York, William O'Brien of Phoenix, Arizona, visited the Daily Worker office yesterday and discussed the labor situation in his state with the editors.

Conditions Bad

O'Brien, who is a member of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, local 1089, spoke on the situation in his own state.

"Conditions in general," he said, "are pretty bad. Work in the mines is slow now. And the situation of the farmers in the state is even worse. They are being bled right and left by the Water-Users' Association, and by the other business interests which control the products of the farmers. Graft is evident everywhere.

"Only recently the Chamber of Commerce of Phoenix created a fake hullaballoo about a building boom in the cit ,yI the city. Immediately thousands of men, mostly migratory workers, flocked to the city. Upon their arrival, they discovered the ruse, to their own loss.

"There is some building going on, but not enough to accommodate even a third of the workers in the city.

Misleaders Control.

"The unions are weak. For the most part they are controlled by reactionary officials, men under the control of the American Federation of Labor."

B. H. Lauderdale, of Texas, also arrived here. He will speak at the huge mass meeting to be held this evening in Mecca Temple.

were taken out of the mine. The others are still buried under debris.

Another explosion in the non-union mine of the Yukon Pocahontas Coal Company in West Virginia, cost 17 more lives, according to incomplete reports received at the office of the National Miners' Relief Committee. It is believed that many others are still buried in the pit.

A cave-in at the old Alpha shaft of the Consolidated Copper Mines at Kimberly, Nevada, cost four more lives. According to reports received here, working conditions at this mine are highly dangerous. This million-dollar corporation has neglected all safety precautions. Officials at practically all of these mines were quick to say that their mines had recently been "thoroughly" rock-dusted, "and the explosion, no doubt, was caused by gas and not by coal dust."

But the miners tell another story. "Sure they rock-dusted the mine—near the mouth," one Mather miner declared.

All Non-Union.

All four mines are operated non-union. Throughout the strike fields, miners are talking about the boys who lost their lives in the scab pits, principally because there were no pit committees to insist upon safety precautions.

The National Miners' Relief Committee is standing behind the strikers in their fight for safe working conditions, a strong union and decent wages. Anthony P. Minerich, chairman of the committee, urges that contributions be sent to the relief office at 611 Penn Ave., Pittsburgh, Pa., so the work may be continued and expanded, and to save the coal diggers from returning to non-union mines.

Chicago Workers Meet.

CHICAGO, May 24.—A large mass meeting, attended for the first time by hundreds of workers formerly inactive because of the right wing terror, was held here Wednesday night. The meeting was addressed by Louis Hyman, chairman of the national organizing committee, Joint Board Manager Levin and other leaders of the left wing delegation barred from the fake right wing convention.

After hearing a report of the plans of the N. O. C. for re-building the union, and after listening to Hyman's estimation of the Sigman convention which accomplished only the creation of two new vice presidents, and the unanimous voting of a tax of 3 days pay, the assembled workers unanimously voted to join actively the fight led by the N. O. C. for the regaining of union conditions.

Tolerance Group Calls Meet.

A big mass meeting of registered workers has been called by the Tolerance Group, which formerly was a part of the right wing Sigman union and is now affiliated with the National Organizing Committee. The meeting will be held in Cooper Union, Astor Place and Fourth Ave., Monday evening immediately after work. A record attendance is expected.

At this meeting the leaders of the Tolerance Group will set forth their reasons for breaking away from the right wing, of which they were former staunch supporters. They will also state their reasons for aligning themselves with the N. O. C. and its campaign to rebuild the shattered I. L. G. W. U.

Senate Passes Postal Pay Bill Despite Veto

WASHINGTON, May 24. — The senate today passed the postal pay increase bill over President Coolidge's veto by a vote of 70 to 9.

The bill became a law by the senate's action, as the house yesterday enacted it over the veto by a vote of 319 to 42. The bill will increase the pay of night workers in the postal service.

CORRUPTION UNDER THE GOLDEN DOME

"Leak" Traced to Booze Cellar in Gov. Fuller's State House

BOSTON, (FP) May 24.—The State House gang that danced in glee when Sacco and Vanzetti were burned, are up to their necks now in one of the biggest rum graft messes yet uncovered in 10 years of prohibition. Herman A. MacDonald, Gov. Fuller's hard boiled secretary, and Gen. Alfred F. Foote, commissioner of public safety, and in yesteryear an admirer of booze, are implicated by four Boston parsons in allegations that seized liquor stored in the State House basement has trickled into thirsty legislative throats.

Gen. Foote is the new head of the Massachusetts national guard and has charge of the state police patrol, the Bay State replica of the Pennsylvania cossackry. It was the state police patrol who did their stuff with a will on the day of Sacco and Vanzetti's electrocution, clubbing and riding down the great throngs demonstrating for the two doomed workers. Later, on the day of the funeral, they broke up the procession at numerous places, knocking mourners right and left with billies. Foote will also have charge of the New Bedford textile strike situation when manufacturers' provocateurs begin stirring up trouble with the workers.

ALTHOUGH the rum scandal has been an open secret among State House newspapermen for months, MacDonald and Foote were held too powerful to be exposed. A state employe about to be disciplined for political waywardness spilled the beans finally in a letter. This boiler inspector, with many union firemen and engineers who worked in the basement as legislators and their friends swilled near-by, have produced diaries and other formal evidence, naming names and dates.

THE committee named to probe the scandal consists of those under attack and others known to be friendly to a bottle. Gen. Foote, one member, was wont to make a public display of the destruction of cases of poor Canadian beer, but choice stocks never ran down sewers. Foote and MacDonald are also known to have taken the state police boat out into the sacred waters of Massachusetts Bay, there to disport themselves to the accompaniment of choice liquors and two winsome damsels.

You a Patriot? Then Cough Up With 10 Bucks

"A brilliant spectacle; a magnificent demonstration of patriotism and an inflexible determination to safeguard our institutions, was the May Day celebration held at the bandstand in Prospect Park."

This is the rapturous description applied by the secretary of the Brooklyn Citizens' Patriotic May Day Committee in form letters just sent out, and which thru some curious accident found its way into the office of The DAILY WORKER.

"The parade of the veterans of three great wars of the U. S.," the letter continues, with the stars and stripes unfurled to the breeze, to the tune of our national anthems by four bands, thru the streets of Brooklyn, was a ringing declaration of the loyalty and devotion to all that America stands for.

"No expense was spared in making this May Day meeting a magnificent patriotic demonstration. Your organization is accorded the privilege of contributing to the cause by sending a contribution of $10."

Edwin P. Maynard of the Brooklyn Trust Company is treasurer and Albert D. Schanzer is secretary. All open shop, labor hating bosses are invited to contribute to the worthy cause.

ASK SUPPORT FOR THE "COAL DIGGER"

Save Union Committee Issues Appeal

PITTSBURGH, May 24.— An appeal by the national miners' Save-the-Union Committee in behalf of the "Coal Digger," the official organ of the rank and file of which Pat Toohey is editor, has been sent out requesting the workers of all trades to rally in support of the organ, to subscribe to and read the paper.

"There are many things which the workers can do to help the Save-the-Union movement," the appeal declares, "but among the most important is that of supporting the Coal Digger, its official organ.

Miners Ask For It.

"Hundreds of letters reach the Save-the-Union headquarters from striking miners asking that they be sent the Coal Digger free. As far as possible these requests are complied with. However, as the struggle becomes more and more intensified, the financial burden becomes heavier, and the Save-the-Union Committee finds it difficult to comply with the miners' requests for free copies of the Coal Digger. The reason the miners ask for free copies is evident to everyone. The miners have been on strike for over 3 months. Tho relief rations, given out by the Lewis machine, is constantly growing smaller, while those miners who dare to speak one word in criticism are being cut off from relief altogether.

Workers Must Help.

"The workers from other trades must come to the assistance of the fighting miners. Subscribe and read the Coal Digger. But, not only should the workers read the Coal Digger themselves, they must help the striking miners get the paper also. This can be done by sending contributions to the Save-the-Union Committee. For every dollar that the Save-the-Union Committee receives, a miners' name for a year's subscription will be added to the mailing list.

The rates are: 1 year $1.00; six months 50 cents. Bundle rates: Above 50 copies, 3 cents per copy. Below 50 copies, 5 cents per copy. The publication address is 119 Federal St., N. S. Pittsburgh."

MORE GOLD FOR WALL ST.

STARR GETS SUBS TO 'DAILY WORKER' IN NEW TERRITORY

Workers in Two Jersey Cities Eager For Paper

Having made inroads in territory never penetrated before, Arthur Starr, special DAILY WORKER subscription agent, arrived in the business office of the Daily yesterday with 26 new subscriptions.

The 26 subscriptions were all the result of a few days' work in Newark and Plainfield, N. J. Fifteen new readers were secured in Newark and 11 in Plainfield. The Plainfield subscriptions are particularly significant as there have never before been subscribers to The DAILY WORKER in this city. No unit of the Workers (Communist) Party exists in Plainfield and this was therefore virgin territory.

Starr, who is a student in the National Training School, is one of the 12 special DAILY WORKER agents now covering various parts of the country in the Daily's new subscription drive. He reports that both in Newark and Plainfield, particularly the latter city, workers showed unusual interest in the paper. Among the 11 subscriptions secured in Plainfield were three for striking miners, an evidence that the workers are following the struggles of the striking miners and the efforts of The DAILY WORKER to provide them with the only English language newspaper that fights on their side.

Starr has returned to his territory and promises to send many more subscriptions. He, as well as the other DAILY WORKER agents, should be aided in every possible way by all class-conscious workers.

SCHWAB'S POLICE EXTEND TERROR.

Clubs Respect Neither Women Nor Children

(Special to The Daily Worker)

PITTSBURGH, Pa., May 22.—Coal and iron policemen, attached to the Slickville mine of the Bethlehem Mines Corporation, now roam the highways clubbing strikers and strike sympathizers found on the public thoroughfares.

At 3 o'clock in the afternoon of May 17, Mike Evanovich, a striking miner was driving in his car with three other men through Slickville, where one of Charlie Schwab's mines is located. Coal and iron police stopped his machine and peremptorily ordered him to let them get into his car. Evanovich refused.

Beaten—Arrested.

The "yellow dogs" then struck him on the face bringing blood from his nose. They pulled him out of his car and hit him with blackjacks. Then they compelled him to drive his car to the company jail. There he was lodged in the cellar, beaten with fists and knocked down.

Schwab's thugs then brought him a book which he was asked to read. The coal and iron police boasted that they had more power than the state constabulary and had power of arrest on public highways as well as on company property.

"Arithmetic" Used.

Evanovich was charged with disorderly conduct and resisting an officer. On the first charge he was fined $5.000 by a company squire and the addition of costs brought the amount to $12.00.

Tony Morelli, another striking miner, was stopped by coal and iron police while driving his car through Slickville, accompanied by three other miners. Morelli was hit in the arm with a blackjack and dragged from his car. The four miners were taken to the office of the Bethlehem Mines Corporation, beaten and let go without having any charges preferred against them. There were four "yellow dogs" and one deputy sheriff in the gang.

Morelli and his wife have been beaten by coal and iron police several times recently.

Also Dynamite.

The operators, through their hired thugs, are trying to terrorize the miners. They do not stop even at attempted murder. On the morning of May 16, dynamite was exploded on a road between two strikers' homes in Slickville.

Discontent among the miners in Slickville is growing. The bosses are going through the mines warning the coal diggers that they will drive every strike sympathizer and every member of the "Save-the-Union Committee" out of Westmoreland county. The miners declare that their fight to organize in Westmoreland county has only started.

MUSCLE SHOALS BILL.

WASHINGTON, May 24. — A slightly modified Muscle Shoals bill was reported today by the house and senate conferees following a second session to iron out differences in the bill as it passed the two branches.

100 Militants Are Arrested in Argentina at Request of Fascist Ambassador

BOMBING EXCUSE TO BREAK DOCK WORKERS STRIKE

Explosion May Be Plot Of Fascist Agents

BUENOS AYRES, May 24.—After the Italian Ambassador Count Martin-Franklin had issued a statement attributing the bombing of the Italian consulate to anti-fascisti, the police here arrested more than a hundred workers active in the radical movement.

The arrests were made on a particularly broad scale because of the transport strikes in Buenos Ayrés, Rosario and Sante Fe, which have alarmed the authorities in the three cities.

BUENOS AYRES, May 24.—Two separate bombing attacks were made in Buenos Ayres yesterday. The first against the Italian Consulate, in which five persons were killed, and the second against the Boca branch of the Nuevo Banca.

Thirty-five persons were injured in the explosion at the consulate, and of these, two died later in the hospital, bringing the total deaths in the first attack to seven.

The Italian bank where the second bomb exploded is located in the southeastern section of the city, and is largely patronized by Italian residents of Buenos Ayres.

The explosion took place in the cellar. The building was crowded at the time. Two of the dead were immigrants. The wounded included Giacomo Frangiolo, a clerk, and Capt. Nicoletti.

Whether or not the bombs were planted by Mussolini agents, as is believed to have been the case in the Milan bombings, or whether the bombing was done by misguided opponents of the fascist regime is unknown.

HOOVER FUND STILL RISING

Now Over $300,000, Testimony Proves

WASHINGTON, May 24.—Herbert Hoover's slush fund continues to rise. Testifying before the senate committee that is conducting an alleged investigation of presidential campaign expenditures, Claudius H. Huston, of Texas and New York, a Hoover backer, declared that he had received $51,500 in contributions to the Hoover fund.

This places the total Hoover figure at $300,745, the highest sum thus far admitted by any of the candidates.

FASCIST ATTEMPT ALARMS FRENCH

MARSEILLES, May 24.—Protest against the activities of fascist agents in stirring up separation sentiment on the island of Corsica has taken the form of a huge mass meeting to urge that the fascists be barred from the island. The protest came as the result of French action in suppressing the fascist paper, Il Telegrafo, which the authorities allege attempted to interfere in the recent election campaign.

While it is believed that the island is thoroughly French in feeling and does not desire a union with Italy, the action of the fascist agents has caused considerable alarm among the French officials.

'SANDINO STAMPS' ON POSTAL CARDS

Anti-Imperialist League Answers State Dept.

"Sandino Stamps" will continue to be sent through Uncle Sam's mails, the All-America Anti-Imperialist League, 79 Union Square, originator of the stamps, announced yesterday.

Designed for use as stickers on envelopes, the stamps show a marine's huge hobnailed boot crushing trees, buildings and people in its path, and bear the legend: "Protest Against Marine Rule in Nicaragua."

Post Office authorities returned Sandino-stamped envelopes, undelivered to the senders, and were upheld last week by the refusal of the courts to grant the league an injunction against this censorship.

With Sandino stamps on envelopes definitely banned, the administrative committee of the league has decided to print a facsimile of the original stamp on the reverse side of government postal cards. Sale of these cards will be pushed as soon as they are received from the printer.

Commenting on the decision, Manuel Gomez, secretary of the league said: "In denying our plea for an injunction, Federal Judge Thomas D. Thatcher based his decision on an affidavit from Secretary of State Kellogg, swearing that there is no 'Marine Rule' in Nicaragua.

IRISH OFFICIALS IGNORE PETITION

DUBLIN, May 24.—The government of the Irish Free State has frustrated an attempt of Eamon de Valera to present a petition to the Dail Eireann calling for abolition of the oath of allegiance to the king. The application to present the petition was based on article XLVIII of the Free State Constitution which authorizes a referendum on the request of 75,000 voters.

The signatures were collected, but Professor W. E. Thrift moved that the petition be not presented until the government had considered a procedure for such cases. The Dail passed the motion.

It is understood that the government will work to delete article XLVIII as likely to prove embarrassing in the future.

PLAN U. S. LOAN FOR ENSLAVING NICARAGUA PEONS

Kellogg, McCoy and Bankers Confer

WASHINGTON, May 24.—Special arrangements for the complete economic enmeshment of Nicaragua thru a proposed loan of $12,000,000 were given a new impetus at yesterday's conference between leading officials of the United States state department cooperating with leaders of several large financial interests. Secretary of State Kellogg, Dr. W. W. Cumberland, who has recently completed a financial survey of Nicaragua in the interest of the New York bankers and Brigadier-General Frank R. McCoy, chosen by President Coolidge to "superintend" the pending elections in Nicaragua, were at the conference.

The long projected loan by the American financiers to the Nicaraguan regime placed in power by the American marine corps was the chief topic of discussion and it is intimated that announcement of the loan may be forthcoming in the near future. It is generally estimated that the loan will amount to at least $12,000,000.

Dr. Cumberland, reporting favorably on the power of the Nicaraguan authorities to raise the loan by taxes on the peons, increased by customs duties, urged the practicability of lending the money. He pointed out that while $6,089,000 would be used for the consolidation of debts incurred by the leaders of the government, approximately $6,000,000 would still be free for consolidating American power thruout the country by thoro organization of the Nicaraguan constabulary officered by Americans, by reimbursing the United States for expenses incurred in superintending the Nicaraguan election, and by a full payment of all American claims for alleged damages incurred during the recent fighting.

After outlining the sources by which the American bankers will secure the proposed loan, Dr. Cumberland added that the Nicaraguan cost of maintaining the projected Nicaraguan railroad to the east coast would be $900,000 per year more than operating expenses. He therefore indicated the fruitful possibilities for investment of American capital in constructing a parallel causeway to Bluefields.

The bankers, Secretary Kellogg and Brigadier-General McCoy are said to have found themselves in perfect accord on the Nicaraguan loan.

HAMBURG POISON GAS INTENDED FOR SPAIN

(Special to the Daily Worker)

BERLIN, May 24.—The social-democratic organ, the Vorwaerts, is attempting to use the poison gas catastrophe in Hamburg as propaganda against the Soviet Union. It has been proved, however, that the phosgene gas was being supplied to Spain for its imperialist war in Morocco. The last deliveries of the gas to the Soviet Union were made in 1923.

The gas factory Trotsk in the Soviet Union was closed down in 1923.

BERLIN, May 24.—Following a cabinet discussion of the poison gas explosion at Hamburg when the whole population was menaced it was officially stated today that neither the German government nor the Reichswehr was involved in the storage of the phosgene gas.

A statement in the German press, which was said to have been officially inspired, demands an international agreement prohibiting the use of poison gas in warfare.

Some of the 250 asphyxiated victims in the hospitals at Hamburg are undergoing acute agony as a result of breathing the fatal fumes.

IMPLICATE MORE IN DONETZ PLOT

Kalganov Says Czarists Gave Orders

(Special Cable to the Daily Worker).

MOSCOW, May 24.—Many others of the accused in the Donetz Basin conspiracy were seriously compromised by detailed testimony given by Kalganov, whose examination was continued yesterday.

The defense lawyers attempted unsuccessfully to confuse Kalganov. Kalganov had declared that those who had participated in the conspiracy had acted in accordance with instructions from former mine owners who first desired to keep the mines intact but who later demanded the reduction of coal production by all possible means including the destruction of machinery.

Samilov, former mine owner, was then examined. He admitted all of the charges levelled against him. He declared that the sabotage was possible because the control over the higher engineers was superficial.

MASS UNREST ON RISE IN INDIA; TROOPS MENACING

Sympathy Spreads For Textile Strikers

BOMBAY, May 24.—The strike of the textile workers at Bombay, Sholapur and other large industrial centers continues unbroken in spite of the persistent efforts of the government police and troops to terrorize the strikers.

Thousands of men and women, workers in the huge Bombay mills, some of the largest in India, are maintaining their strike altho the agents of the British authorities are endeavoring to spread discontent talk among the workers.

Detachments of police and troops, who maintain a menacing attitude towards the strikers, have failed to break the strike which is reported to be stronger today than ever.

Sympathy for the striking textile workers has spread thru all sections of the Indian working class and is leading to a rapid rise in mass resentment thruout the country. The government has repeatedly evinced alarm at the number of local disturbances which have indicated the growing unrest.

Fear is still expressed by the authorities that the workers on the Indian railroads will walk out in sympathetic strike with the textile workers.

WORKERS COULD NOT SLEEP BEFORE SENDING AID IF THEY SAW NEW BEDFORD STRIKE NEED

(By a Worker Correspondent)

NEW BEDFORD, Mass. (By mail).—I am enclosing one of the handbills given out by the relief for the strikers in New Bedford. Maybe you can use it? We are still all on strike and will stay on strike until we get our demands. You know, comrade, that if they cut our wages, which are now about $17 a week, by ten percent, we can't live. We would have to move away from here or just die. If all the workers could see what goes on here they could not sleep before they sent us help.

—MEIXOS.

Editor's Note: The following are some extracts from the handbill from New Bedford. It is issued by the Workers International Relief which is supplying food and clothing to the textile strikers. The address of the Relief is 12 Rodney French Boulevard, New Bedford, Mass.

Joseph Madeires and wife have nine children, the oldest 16 years, the youngest 7 weeks. This family of eleven has been living on the wages of the father, which were $17.00 before the strike. He was employed as a speed tender in the Potomska Mills.

There are thousands of such families in New Bedford, Mass., where 30,000 textile workers are on strike against a 10% wage-cut, the second one this year.

Since the war there have been four wage-cuts totaling 45% and now another wage-cut is being forced upon these already miserably under-paid workers.

Well known economists estimate that it takes $1,800 a year to keep a family of five in food, clothing and shelter on a very moderate basis. One naturally asks how a family of eleven lives on $17.00 a week, which, when lost days are discounted, amounts to about $950 a year. The answer is that they do not live—they just exist. Their food lacks nourishment, their clothing is poor and mostly rags, altho they weave the finest of cloth. Their housing is unsanitary, overcrowded, without baths, and very poorly furnished. Thus they habitate, existing without joy of life.

Is it any wonder they are on strike? Ten per cent off the present wage means $15.30 a week. Some strikers say, we might just as well drown our children and ourselves as die a slow death by starvation.

We urge you to send us as large a contribution as possible, so that we can bring bread and milk to the children and a little soup to the adults. With your help we can do it.

Hell Is No Worse Than Working in Steel Mills Is Opinion of Correspondent

BETHLEHEM STEEL WORKERS SLAVES OF BOSS GREED

Labor for Famine Wages at Blazing Furnaces

(By a Worker Correspondent)

BALTIMORE, Md., (By Mail). Sparrows Point, Maryland, where the Bethlehem Steel Co. is located strikes you as an impressive place especially at night. It seems like the so-called HELL. You must cross a large body of water to get on the Sparrows Point, and after you arrive a feeling comes over you that this is another little world of its own that belongs to the Bethlehem Steel Corporation. If you don't believe it, just inquire from the army of company police that is owned by the Bethlehem. Every building, house, theatre, grocery store, hardware store, dry goods store, drug store, garage, fire department, court and even the ten churches belong to the Bethlehem.

Hell.

To get a real impression of Hell move to the center of Sparrows Point and look around within the radius of a mile or two and see all the different departments sending out their fire sky high. The flame and glare from the furnaces illuminate the whole surroundings. Over there is the open hearth dept., where many furances standing in a row under a giant building, are aglow day and night melting the scrap iron, copper and other minerals that go to make steel.

There is the bar mill, where the iron is taken from the solid ingot form and heated and then rolled into bars or slabs. They have a rail mill here that is one of the most modern in the country.

Another giant department that is practically an industry by itself takes bars of iron and with modern machinery makes wire and nails that would astonish the average human. A slight example of one little department in this wire mill where they make nails not more than thirty-five or forty men are engaged in turning out fifteen hundred kegs of nails in ten hours. Machinery does the trick. Ah! The bosses are all smiles when they walk through this department and see a hundred machines running full blast and hardly a man in sight.

4 Blocks Long.

Over there is Tin Mill Junction, a building that has a length of four city blocks. In this building stands forty-eight giant furnaces where iron bars about a half-inch thick and two and a half feet long and a foot wide are placed in the back through a door on a moving platform goes through the furance and after a certain length of time is heated enough to be rolled out to the shape of tin. Each furnace has seven to eight men in front who run the iron through a certain rolling and doubling process until it has assumed the proper gauge tin. The seven men compose a group and get paid according to how much good tin they make. If you step into the tin mill and watch these workers at this job, a thought comes to you that something is wrong in Denmark.

Eight solid hours these men keep at a furious pace hanling red hot bars in front of furnaces that are throwing out an intense heat. The air is stifling. There is so much smoke due to inadequate ventilation that you can hardly see the men on the next furnace. Every man in light under shirts, sweating, dirty, wild eyed rushing, anxious for high tonnage. Real automatoms. The tonnage is fixed by the bosses at such a rate that the most skilled worker on the furnace gets $6 while the others in the group earn from $4.25 to $5.50 for eight hours.

In the olden days when horses were quite common, I saw horses tug at heavy loads, and sweat, but in Bethlehem it is a common sight to see men work as if inhuman, strain, work fast, sweat, swear, and all for a few slices of bread. Some price to pay.

Pipe Mill.

They have a shipyard down here. The blast furnaces down here stand out along the docks where huge scoop shovels reach down and empty a ship in very little time. Here the crude ore is run through a process in the blast furnace, and after melted poured into a ladle and sent right over to the open hearth, melted and poured into the furnace. Compare this method to some mills where they have to buy the pig iron from another company and melt the pig iron in their own furnaces. Here they just take the iron that ordinarily make pig iron and put in the melted form right in the furnace. The pipe mill here turns out thousands of feet of pipe a day. The pipe mill is reputed here for needing less than fifty per cent of men that is ordinarily required in other pipe mills. Then there is the big sheet mill where heavy iron plate is made from the rough bar form. There is a big gas plant here where they make the energy to drive all the machinery and fire for the furnaces. Here is ten or twelve giant industries in itself of the iron family that only 15,000 men are employed in and it would be safe to say that fifteen years ago these same industries without modern machinery such as this place is equipped with would necessitate the employment of 100,000 men.

There are a great number of workers who live in the company-owned houses, while there is also a great mass of workers who come down from Baltimore each day on the street car line. Steel workers don't get up 9 or 10 a. m., like bankers, we get up at 5 a. m., if the on the day shift, in order to get breakfast and take the hour ride down to the mill. Its funny how all of us fall asleep on the car until we hit the Point, then automatically and disregarding the "No Smoking" sign on the car, everybody begins to light up a cigarette as though to nerve themselves for the day's task. This winter the cold winds blew off the bay and sent us scurrying up the long slushy roads to the different departments and we would run to escape the discomfort of the weather, only to step in the mill to enjoy a real discomfort of the clanging of bells, the shrieking of whistles, cranes running up and down overhead with tons of iron on small slings of wire, the heat that radiated from the furnace felt comforting at first but then with the new shift coming on and a warming up started, we were forced to stand in front of the small air pipes that are meant for cooling us off. The shift that finished was happy to leave, but when they left with their sweaty bodies and open pores out in the cold the expression on their face changed. Even the climates are against us. Pneumonia, severe colds and cramps are our lot.

Starvation Pay.

Workers whose duties confine them close to the furnace work eight hours such as in the tin mill, sheet mill and open hearth. It would be the wrong impression, however, to suppose that furnace workers get eight hours because the boss has any particular love for them and it would be wrong to believe that eight hours is the standard here in Bethlehem. Only twenty-five per cent of the men work eight hours while the others work from ten to thirteen hours not counting a half hour extra for lunch. It is a well established fact that the boss would have a greater tonnage daily if they had a four hour shift but this would not be desired by the bosses. Bethlehem figures pay for each man according to the lowest possible amount of money it takes for a man or his family to exist, so in this case if a man were getting four and a half dollars a day for a eight hour day, this would mean for a four hour day he would have to receive the same amount of money in order to exist, and would necessitate the raising of hourly rate or tonnage. Thus you find the eight hour day forced on the worker because of the extremely low wages. These workers on the furnaces would not be making ridiculous demands if they ask for a four or six hour day with more pay.

It is interesting how they arrive at the final rate of pay for piece-work. With the introduction of a new machine or some kind of work, a fair standard of pay is set, then in the course of time the bosses with their time clocks and statistics figure out the established high production made possible by inducing the worker to a high speed as a result of pay being placed on each article produced. As the case may be, the worker may be getting $6 or $7 for eight hours. Suppose the production is 200 for eight hours at three and a half cents apiece which makes seven dollars. The boss takes the figure of 200 and tells the worker the pay is now two and a half cents which for 200 would make five dollars. The worker raises his production to 225 making about $5.63 for eight hours. To the scheming boss this is still too much as they figure a man should not earn more than fifty cents an hour on skilled work, so he inaugurates a new scheme and if the worker don't like it, he is told to quit but with the new workers in place, the new standard is set like this ten hours' work at two cents a piece. The older worker who quit was making on an average of 25 an hour. This new man will make 25 or 250 in ten hours for five dollars and with experience raise his production to possibly 300 which makes $6 for ten hours, then the worker finds himself at the mercy of another wage cut to meet with the Bethlehem minimum of $5. Here is already accomplished a low rate of pay as well as a higher standard of production. This is a typical policy instituted in Bethlehem.

Automatons.

Senator Wheeler at on open forum speaking on China, showed much indignation over the terrible conditions that the Chinese coolie must endure and praised America where we have modern civilized methods. Mr. Wheeler would drop this assertion if he should step in Bethlehem and see the human automatons going full speed rolling red hot tin, piece-work, jumping about, piece-work, group piece work, where if one man slackens down, he threatens the bread supply of the whole group and their families. China's coolie system has nothing on the coolie system in Bethlehem under the Coolidge regime.

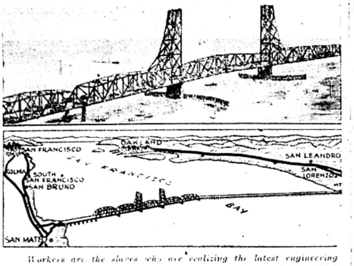
Where Workers Slave Long Hours At Low Wages



Workers are the slaves who are realizing the latest engineering triumph of American capitalism. The project is the new bridge which when completed will span San Francisco Bay, carrying the road from San Francisco to Hayward in Alameda County. It is repeted to be the longest highway bridge in the world. To finish the job as quickly as possible, the contractors speed up the bridge workers inhumanly. The pictures show two sketches of the projected bridge.

Calls Longshoreman Union Delegate an Official Bookie

(By a Worker Correspondent)

Mr. Frank Madann is the delegate of Local 856 of the International Longshoremen's Association, I. L. A. Of all the delegates he is the most hated by the rank and file.

He is not at all interested in trade unionism. Instead of coming among the longshoremen and trying to organize them into the union, the fellow tries to urge the workers to bet on horse races. On the bets he makes money.

When a worker complains about mistreatment on the job and violation of the union rules, Mr. Frank Madann tells him in plain English, "Keep quiet and go to hell." If you protest you are given a "physical examination" by some strong arm guys.

Some time ago the membership of the Local protested against Madann for his negligence in attending to his functions as a delegate. Madann then made a gesture of attending to his work. He did nothing of the kind, however. Now he is pursuing the same old tactics again.

This will keep on until the longshoremen elect men who are real trade unionists and not bookies in office.

It is about time we did something to kick out Joseph P. Ryan, Madann and the rest of the gang from the union.

PACKING-HOUSE MEN ARE SLAVES IN SIOUX CITY

Have to Lay-off Every Third Day of Speed-up

(By a Worker Correspondent)

SIOUX CITY, Iowa, (By Mail)—As a comrade and a worker I will endeavor to describe conditions in Sioux City.

As is to be expected, the packers dominate and run this city. Being the largest employers of labor, they set the wage scale for the rest of the bosses, and you can be sure that it isn't too high. They pay from thirty-seven and one-half cents to forty-two and one-half cents for unskilled labor, and up to seventy-three cents for skilled labor.

The speed-up system here is terrific. In some departments they drive the workers to such an extent that the men have to lay off about every third day as they can't stand the grind.

Whenever they think that any of the men are getting too friendly with one another, they lay off a whole bunch of them, for they are afraid that there might be some labor activity going on on the quiet.

It is very hard to organize inside the packing plant, as there are so many stool-pigeons posted all over. Because of the economic pressure the bosses can put on men with families to support, so many of the men are afraid to attempt to organize. But conditions are ripe for it, for the men are all in a discontented mood and receptive to propaganda.

There ought to be one grand house-cleaning clear down the line from Green to the smallest craft official.

—FENTON.

LABOR PARTY IS ONLY HOPE FOR WORKING CLASS

Tammany Bosses Use Workers as Pawns

(By a Worker Correspondent)

Many workers are under the impression that Tammany Hall will do personal favors for them if they are in good with the Tammany Hall bosses. I, too, was under that impression once. I was once a member of one of the Tammany clubs in New York City. I always voted the democratic ticket. I knew that Tammany wasn't very honest, but still I had hopes that, if I was in good with them, I would some day receive a personal favor.

About two years ago I was unemployed. I tried all over to find a job, but I was unsuccessful. I decided to apply for a city job. I told one of the captains of my district about it, and he told me that he would use his influence in my behalf. After hearing this promise I filed an application for a job in the street cleaning department with the Civil Service Commission.

It is already two years since I was examined and I am still on the waiting list. The politician who promised to use his influence in my behalf did nothing for me. He told me that he was not able to do anything for me because there are too many men on the waiting list for city jobs.

Let my instance be an example to other workers who may expect personal favors from Tammany Hall. The politicians cannot and will not do anything for you. They are not interested in you at all. They are only willing to use you as a tool for their own crooked ends.

I am now in favor of a Labor Party and would support it in the coming election.

Charge Commissioner Higgins Stalls for Time in Street Cleaning "Probe"

CHARGE TAMMANY MAN PROTECTING ACCUSED IN GRAFT

"Investigation" Is Put Off by Official

Deliberate stalling for time in order to permit those chiefly responsible for the $200,000,000 street cleaning graft either to escape or to prepare their alibis was yesterday charged against Commissioner of Accounts Higgins, who is conducting the so-called investigation.

Shield Tammanyites.

Postponement of the investigation which was to have begun yesterday was ordered by Higgins, who is believed to be trying to shield the guilty henchmen on the ground that two material witnesses who had been subpoenaed to the hearing did not appear. One of them, Frank C. Gannon, suspended superintendent of the Brooklyn department, has been missing since Monday.

Gannon, whose department contained at least 3,000 fictitious names with a probability that the graft there totaled many millions yearly, telephoned to Higgins that he would appear this morning, according to a statement by Higgins. Some doubt was expressed of the identity of the person who had phoned, by those who earlier had charged that Higgins, one of the old Tammany guard, is shielding his cronies.

The second who failed to appear is Gannon's brother-in-law, Edward Yunker, an employe in a department store who is said to have been complicated.

Higgins admitted that he had examined both witnesses previously but would not state what he had learned. Revelations thus far have indicated that millions of dollars yearly have gone in graft to Tammany henchmen and that many officials "higher-up" have shared in the loot. Recently Mayor Jimmie Walker denied that he has profited from it by declaring: "I am not a thief."

CHICAGO PLANS MINERS' RELIEF

Big Week Drive to Begin Saturday

(Special To The Daily Worker)

CHICAGO, Ill., May 24.—To ring every worker's doorbell in Chicago and request help for the striking miners from every worker resident in the city is the object of a week's drive for miners' relief being staged by the National Conference for Miners' Relief here. The week set aside at a recent conference of labor and fraternal organizations is May 27th to June 4th.

At conferences of foreign language speaking and fraternal organizations, the most active and enthusiastic delegates were chosen as captains for definite districts comprising five blocks. During the week these captains will get the aid of volunteers each of whom will undertake to call on every house in a specific block.

In this way it is planned to cover workingclass sections of the city on behalf of the starving miners and their destitute families. In previous efforts not nearly as well organized a large amount of sympathy was revealed among workers for the miners and their fight.

NEW HAMPSHIRE PLANS A PICNIC

MANCHESTER, N. H., May 24.—Five units of the Young Workers (Communist) League of New Hampshire are planning a big picnic to be held some time in June either at Penacook or at some other place to be announced soon.

The Young Workers League of Gardener, Mass., will also participate in this affair, which is expected to be the best summer affair that the league has ever held.

Fascist Imperialists Take Black Flag to North Pole

The dirigible Italia, shown in the picture, carrying General Umberto Nobile, Mussolini's flying delegate to the Arctic, over the north pole. The episode astonished a number of polar bears, who have been so long outside the pale of Rome that the significance of the event was impaired for them.

ATTACK OUSTING OF SOL AUERBACH

Nearing to Speak at Protest Meeting

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., May 24.—Clarence Miller, district organizer of the Young Workers (Communist) League, has issued the following statement on the recent dismissal of Sol Auerbach, instructor of logic, ethics, and esthetics, from the University of Pennsylvania:

"It has been mentioned that the reason for the dismissal of Auerbach from the U. of P. was that he spoke at a meeting supposedly under the auspices of the Communists and that a Communist spoke at the meeting. I wish to deny that the meeting was held under the auspices of any Communist organization, while it is true that I, as a Communist, spoke at the meeting. I accepted the invitation of the Student Delegation to Soviet Russia to speak at the meeting because I was interested to help as the proceeds went for the relief of the striking miners.

"The fact that the professors are trying to hide the real issues for expelling Auerbach is another example of academic hypocrisy.

"The University of Pennsylvania is largely supported by the endowments of financiers, bankers and capitalists who gain their money by exploiting the workers. It is therefore no wonder that they try to suppress any favorable information concerning Russia where the workers have done away with the rule of capitalists. It is no accident that, at this time, steps have been taken in several universities and colleges to crush ideas that may be in the interest of the workers or against the military scheme of Wall Street. I refer to such celebrated cases as the expulsion of students from the College of the City of N. Y for their stand against militarism.

"The Young Workers (Communist) League will do all in its power to develop a broad movement of protest against this case. Dr. Scott Nearing who, like Sol Auerbach, was expelled from the U. of P. because of his radical ideas, was also charged with a petty technicality. We will arrange a protest meeting at which Dr. Scott Nearing will speak.

"(Signed) Clarence Miller."

TEACHERS' UNION FIGHTING YELLOW DOG IN SEATTLE

School Board Head Is Afraid of Labor

SEATTLE, Wash., May 24. — Injunction proceedings has been instituted by the Teachers' Union of Seattle against the Board of Education to restrain the board from imposing the "Yellow Dog" contract on the union high school teachers. Vanderveer who defended the Centralia victims in 1919 is the attorney for the union. The first move of the School Board has been an attempt to throw the case out of the court on the ground that "the remedy for the situation is the polls and not the courts."

Like Any Other Boss.

Using the typical open shop arguments of the steel trust or the coal corporations the School Board maintained its right to deal with its teachers as any private employer with his workers. If the "people do not like it, they can elect a new Board of Education." Under rigid cross-examination the spokesman for the School Board was forced to admit that the Board considered the teachers' affiliation with organized labor dangerous to the schools and that this danger was particularly evident in the power of labor in the political field. The School Board does not want its policies to be "dominated by labor." While admitting that at least 60 per cent of the children in the Seattle schools came from workers families, he stated there is not a single member on the School Board representing organized labor. He held it justifiable for the Chamber of Commerce to determine the policies of the board, but dangerous for the union to do so.

Union President Speaks.

The president of the union spoke for the teachers, pointing out that the union was formed after years of effort for the improvement of working conditions thru the High School Teachers' League had availed them nothing. The League is a company union approved by the School Board. It admits as members school principals and teachers having rating power thus exerting pressure on the teachers and preventing them from discussing freely and openly their complaints against the school policies. The president of the union failed to state fully the aims and purposes of the teachers' union, and militants in the union were bitterly opposed to the policy of caution and hesitancy which he adopted thruout the cross-examination. Fear of losing their jobs has gripped many of the leaders of the union who will necessarily be discriminated against if the union should take an aggressive stand.

On the witness stand Dave Levine, President of the Central Labor Council testified to the lack of authority on the part of the A. F. of L. and central bodies to call a strike. Whatever militancy exists in the teachers' union to carry on the fight to a finish is being destroyed by the Central Labor Council which prefers backstairs maneuvering, vote bribery and other such sordid bargaining with the politicians to gain their end.

North Chicago Active In Miners' Relief

WAUKEGAN, Ill., May 24.—Relief work for the striking miners in North Chicago and Waukegan is gathering momentum.

Two adult conferences and one youth conference have been held thus far at which plans have been made for organizing the work on efficient basis. Sub-committees have been appointed to carry on various activities for relief purposes.

The conferences have made plans to hold a gigantic picnic on July 8th. The picnic will be held at the grounds maintained by the Waukegan Finnish Workers' Club six miles west of the city.

Both the youth and the adult conferences have resolved to work together on all major activities thus avoiding the duplication of work in the community.

Show "Mechanics of Brain", Sovkino Film

Prof. John B. Watson, leader of the behaviorist school of modern psychologists, lectured last night at Town Hall, at the showing of a motion picture directed by himself, which dealt with the cause and cure of fear in children. The film illustrated several of the radical principles which Watson incoroporated in his recently published book on the psychological care of children.

Another feature of the program, which was arranged by the American Society for Cultural Relations with Russia, was a showing of the Russian film, "Mechanics of the Brain," which was made in the laboratories of Prof. Ivan Pavlov, world-famous psychologist.

Welcome, Red Delegates!

The red flag of Communism flies tonight for the first time above a national convention called for the purpose of nominating candidates for president and vice-president of the United States and for launching a national election campaign. Far be it from us to assert that this is the first Communist Party convention, for there have been many and stormy Communist conventions in the United States in the past eight and a half years—but this is the first which is called for the specific purpose of putting the revolutionary party full speed into the parliamentary struggle.

Only six years ago the Communist Party convention held in Michigan was raided resulting in wholesale arrests followed by a series of criminal trials in which the only charge was that of "assembling," in connection with the Communist aims. The Communist Party today is an incomparably stronger, a better organized and a more thoroughly trained revolutionary organization, and is vastly more active and influential in the class struggle in the United States than it was six years ago when a solemn judge declared that its existence could not be permitted and that its leaders could not be allowed at large. Our revolutionary party has thrived on persecution.

Today's opening of the convention marks an epoch for the Communist Party of America. Not only in its increased participation in election campaigns, but because at the same time it has become a power in the trade-union struggles which it is learning how to link up with the parliamentary and other political struggles. If in 1922 the infamous Harry Daugherty as U. S. attorney general instigated the prosecutions of the Party out of fear that it would inevitably find its place at the head of big struggles such as the coal and railroad strikes of that time,—in 1928 it is true that the Communist Party is playing a leading role in mass strikes and is, in fact, the only force that now offers the workers any leadership in the struggle against the employing class. In the tremendous struggle of the coal miners, the textile workers, the needle trades workers, for the right to live and to organize, in the resistance of workers in this country against the bloody imperialism in Nicaragua and China, in resistance to the open shop offensive and the police alliance of socialist party bureaucrats and trade union misleaders,—it is the Workers Communist Party which alone always and invariably is recognized at the forefront of the workers' fighting line. Many times more severe struggles will be met by our Party in the future; many more solemn judges will pronounce it illegal in strenuous times to come, many the tragic repressions and sufferings,—but the Communist Party is nevertheless on the road to becoming a mass party and the recognized leader of all the struggles of the American working class.

Our brother Communist Parties have only in the last few days made splendid records of revolutionary working-class participation in the sham elections of bourgeois "democracy" in Poland, France and Germany.

Their eyes are now upon us.

Let us so conduct a revolutionary campaign in 1928 as to make them proud of our common membership in the Communist International. Not with illusions in regard to capitalist elections, but to utilize these election campaigns for the mobilization and development of the American workers revolutionary movement.

Railway Workers Suffer Lay-Offs

CHICAGO, May 24.—The downward trend of railroad employment continued in February, according to the interstate commerce commission. Its monthly report shows that in one year, more than 112,000 railroad workers lost their jobs and 175,184 who were on the payrolls in 1923 have been forced to look elsewhere for a livelihood.

The railroad wage total for February was $221,813,084, compared with $228,171,570 in February 1927. The decline of 2.8% in wages is almost exactly equal to the decline of 2.7% in total railway revenue. Wages are absorbing about the same proportion of the railroad dollar as a year ago.

The average railroad wage for February was $138 compared with $133 in February 1927, the difference being largely accounted for by the day added by leap year. For workers paid on an hourly basis the monthly averages were $131 this year and $125 in February 1927.

The report contains a chart tracing the changes since 1916 in the wages of freight engineers, firemen, conductors and brakemen as a group per 1,000 ton-miles of freight handled. This chart shows graphically how the railroads have cut the wage cost of traffic in spite of the wage rates these employes have been able to maintain.

Shopmen Hit.

Reductions in force compared with a year ago as usual bore down most heavily on the shopmen, their numbers having been reduced 42,723 to a level 116,423 short of February 1923. The number of train and engine men has been reduced 23,560 to a level 36,157 below February 1923. Reductions in other departments compared with February 1927 are maintenance of way cut 24,064, clerks 11,059 and miscellaneous employes in the transportation department 10,752.

Operating statistics issued by the commission indicate that the lay-offs in the maintenance of equipment department have not been made at the expense of the cars and locomotives. Apparently the remaining employes are speeded up. In February 5.9% of the freight cars were reported in bad order compared with 5.7% in February 1927. The percentage of locomotives in unserviceable condition was 16.5%, compared with 16.8% a year ago.

Some of the leading railroads, however, show a decided change for the worse, the percentage of bad order locomotives mounting to unwarranted figures. This is especially noticeable in the New York Central system and the Baltimore & Ohio figures.

To be in good shape railroads should have not more than 15% of their locomotives and 4% of their freight cars on the sick list. The non-union Pennsylvania reports 12.7% of its engines and 6.2% of its freight cars in need of repair.

WASHINGTON, (FP) May 23.—Employes who demanded a wage adjustment from the Kansas City, Mexico & Orient Railroad and whose claim was put up to the first "advisory board" ever appointed under the terms of the Watson-Parker rail labor mediation law, have lost out. The special board, appointed by President Coolidge, has reported that the slight raise offered by the company is all that the road can now afford to pay. For a substantial raise in keeping with the increased cost of living since their pay was last adjusted, the employes are expected to "wait and hope."

The White House attitude on this decision is that if the workers are not satisfied with a microscopic increase in pay, there is not much use in trying to please them in the future.

1 Killed, 3 Near Death In Factory Explosion

AUBURN, N. Y., May 24. — Marion Dessie, 15, was burned to death and Rose Zucchero, 16, and Frank Catalano, 39, are near death as the result of an explosion and fire which destroyed the plant of the Auburn Fireworks Company, near here. The chances for the recovery of Rose Zucchero are slight, physicians said.

The blast was caused by a spark which fell into powder where the girls were working. This might never have happened had the company installed a necessary partition in the factory, workers said.

Illinois Miners to Fight Fishwick to the End

By ARNE SWABECK

What was once the proud backbone of the United Mine Workers of America, the Illinois District, is now being ground to pieces between the cunning policy of attacks of the operators and the sell-out of the union officials.

Fishwick Backs Operators

Moreover the Fishwick administration by its dealings with the operators has conceded point after point of gains won thru battles of the past. The result of its treason has been to eliminate any respect which it once may have enjoyed amongst the rank and file. Its own machine powers have been broken down. It has now the operators only to depend upon to come to its rescue. The latter have been willing, and in an effort to stop the rank and file opposition movement, on April first changed their policy and rapidly re-opened many large mines for operation but alas, after a few days of work, there were jobs only for a small force.

The mine bosses appearing at the shaft, picking those who were permitted to work, eliminated all who had shown themselves good union men.

From company unionism to complete union destruction is now the road laid out for the Illinois miners. The former is already taking place, but to the operators this means only a make-shift until they can proceed to the next step. That is, unless the rank and file opposition prevents this, to attempt to crush this opposition is the task the operators have assigned to their tools, the Fishwick administration.

Save-Union Forces Gain.

The situation would be a hopeless one indeed without the militant opposition to this treason represented by the Save-the-Union Movement. Undoubtedly, this movement is gaining despite the lack of available forces, and the fact that the union machinery is in the hands of the enemy.

The first inevitable results of the treasonable policy of separate agreements are now showing themselves. Its ultimate result must be wage cuts, and union destruction has long been acknowledged.

Result of Separate Agreements

The first results are that several local unions have themselves on their own hook signed separate agreements involving wage cuts. The Fishwick administration condemns these actions by the local unions and lifts their charter, while it tries to justify its own separate agreements which are in no way different. All the separate agreements signed give no protection whatever to working conditions. Men working on tonnage rate are compelled to clean out their own dead work lay their own tracks, etc. This is indirectly a wage cut.

Seven local unions in the north where the mines are small and the coal vein not very deep, fell into the trap of the separate agreement policy and made their own settlement on the basis of a wage cut, below the Jacksonville scale. The proceeded to form a new union, for which the state of Illinois most readily granted a charter.

In the heart of the southern field local union No. 959 also fell into the trap and signed its own agreement as proposed by the mine superintendent appearing at the local meeting providing for a wage cut to 9 cents per ton for machine runners or a flat rate of $10.07 a day. The revoking of the charters by the Fishwick administration is a maneuver to throw dust in the eyes of the coal miners, and shield its own policies. These local unions made a serious mistake, yet they did precisely what had been done by the district officials before. The whole separate agreement policy is responsible.

Prior to April First W. J. Jenkins, the president of the Illinois Coal Operators Association, referred to John L. Lewis as having promised wage cuts. In a statement issued he said that Lewis had given, "definite promise that he would take it upon himself to guarantee that Illinois would secure needed relief by April first." The relief sought by the operators was the wage reduction.

Miners Rebel.

Open rebellion has been the answer by the miners in many instances to the now unvariable conditions in the state, particularly those created by the contract for loading machines, conveyors, and other mechanical devices. Unemployment has increased, the speed-up has increased thru complete lack of working regulation. In DuQuoin the men struck against it and were literally forced back to work. Numerous resolutions of protest have been adopted by the local unions, some petitioning for special convention to rectify this evil. The DuQuoin locals have begun petitioning for special conventions to abolish all sub-district officials who to them appear perfect parasites.

In this situation of chaos, confusion, and betrayal, the corrupt officials in a last effort to stem the tide of opposition are resorting to an intensification of their celebrated policy of expulsions. To the many victims of the past have been added those who signed the special convention call for Belleville, May 19th, some having been expelled for 99 years.

However, in this respect also the machine power is broken down. It has become a myth. Those cited for expulsion refused to appear before the district court, and the following answer made by the old fighter of Belleville, Luke Coffey to this summons is typical.

"Walter Nesbit
United Mine Workers of America
Springfield, Ill.
Gentlemen:

"Received your document. It appears to me that your henchmen and stoolpigeons of local 4638 would proceed along the line of the constitution and prefer charges against me in my local union.

"I realize that appearing before this board would be like going to law with the devil and holding court in hell."

The task of the Save-the-Union movement is made so much more difficult by this terrible wreckage of the once so proud backbone of the United Mine Workers of America. Knowing however, that it presents the only remedy for this dismal situation of chaos, confusion, and betrayal it is proceeding undaunted to perform its task.

Buffalo "Prosperous," Open Shop City of Low Wages

By SCOTT NEARING.

OUR train pulls into the Lehigh Valley station at six o'clock in the morning,—into Buffalo, Queen City of the Lakes; the Buffalo of the Lackawanna Steel Co., and of the machine tool industry; the Buffalo of more than 500,000 human beings; the great, prosperous, open-shop, low-wage city that stands guardian over the capitalism of Western New York State.

Rain.

The streets are muddy.

The air steams.

We adjust our bags and prepare to walk one block on Main Street and three blocks along Exchange Street for the train connection.

We push open the station doors and step on the Main Street pavement.

What a sight!

As though a high wind had scattered an ash dump across the wide street; scattered tin cans, waste paper, barrel hoops, packing boxes, broken bed-springs, wrecked auto bodies.

But the rubbish on Main Street is from a human dump.

Unemployment.

The street is filled with men, waiting for the employment offices to open,—more than 150 of them within the block. Black men and white men: Central Europeans, Irish, Italians, Mexicans, Americans. The slaves lined up on the slave market of Buffalo,—job seekers in a city where tens of thousands already are unemployed.

The numbers of men increases as the doors of flop-houses open to disgorge their lodgers,—bleary-eyed; unwashed; unshaven; hungry.

One man stops in front of us. He is jocular. Evidently he has already had a drink or two.

"What do you say, friend?" he asks. "Will you stake me?"

"What is it you want, food?"

"Just that! I've got a piece of bread. All I need is a bit of boloney."

The man is dressed in blue overalls, with broken shoes. He is gaunt, haggard. Perhaps it is hunger; perhaps it is booze. One thing certain: a good home, a good job, a good diet, good friends and good books do not carve lines like that on a man's face.

"Well," he insists, "will you risk it? What do you say?"

All about there are other men, watching, speculating. Some of them are bums. Others are workers, broken from their families, who have been out of a job and down on their luck for months.

Frightful! This human scrap-pile along the Buffalo slave-market.

We walk the grimy street, beside the squalid buildings whose chalked windows and announcement boards tell of "shipments;" "field hands;" "helpers" wanted at poverty's own wage.

So this is Buffalo! this the rich, prosperous America! the world's greatest capitalist empire, beginning to hit the down-grade, economically, as Britain hit the down-grade more than thirty years ago.

The wreckage on this scrap-pile was once alive. Before the profit system smashed them, they were men. On its fertile soil, with its place in the Great Lakes chain, it would be possible to replace Buffalo by a beautiful city, filled with healthy, happy workers and their families.

On your toes, militants! To the task, builders of a great future. The "system" is rotten ripe for change!

REPORT SHOWS U.S.S.R. UNIONS IN LEAD

By LELAND OLDS.
(Federated Press).

The Soviet Union and China today account for a third of the world's army of trade unionists. They are the only countries in which organized labor appears actively on the upgrade. This is the story told by the Canadian department of labor in its annual survey of trade union membership throughout the world.

The gains in trade union membership in the U. S. S. R. and China between 1926 and 1927 more than offset losses in trade union strength in other parts of the world and they were chiefly responsible for the gain of nearly 2,000,000 in the total number of trade unionists. Trade unionism once flourished chiefly in western Europe and the United States. The center of gravity appears to be shifting toward eastern Europe and the Pacific.

Soviet Russia Leads.

The aggregate organized workers at the close of 1927 in the 47 countries covered by the report numbered 40,355,764. At the close of 1926 the figure was 38,388,956. At the end of 1922 the world total was 44,136,355. Conditions in Germany, Austria, Poland, Czechoslovakia and Spain were responsible for the shrinkage which even the great gains in Soviet Russia and China could not make good.

Soviet Russia leads with 10,000,000 trade unionists, just about 25% of the world total. This marks a gain of more than 2,000,000 over the previous year and of more than 3,000,000 in the last 5 years. Great Britain has the second largest contingent of the trade union army with a 1927 total of 5,531,000. The United States ranks fourth.

Losses and Gains.

Trade union figures for 16 countries as reported by the Canadian department of labor for the end of 1922 and 1927 are:

Trade union membership	1922	1927
Australia	700,000	800,000
Austria	1,128,054	756,392
Belgium	920,000	726,126
China	300,000	3,000,000
Czechoslovakia	2,000,000	1,379,779
France	1,406,748	1,068,046
Germany	12,595,947	5,077,309
Great Britain	5,128,648	5,531,000
Holland	664,048	517,914
Italy	2,099,900	2,234,520
Mexico	710,000	838,000
Poland	822,777	539,089
Russia	6,857,000	10,000,000
Spain	1,305,113	453,378
Sweden	381,018	436,812
United States	4,152,592	4,045,736

Eyes on the East.

Other countries with more than 100,000 trade unionists at the end of 1927 are: Argentine 120,000; Brazil 104,000; Canada 290,282; Chile 162,000; Cuba 100,000; Denmark 274,428; Hungary 267,885; India 195,000; Ireland 148,501; Japan 235,000, and Switzerland 261,713. Latin America as a whole reported 1,352,000 organized workers.

Including Soviet Russia and the United States, countries bordering on the Pacific Ocean have about 20,000,000 trade unionists, nearly half of the world total. Because of the increasing competition from low-wage areas all the organized workers throughout the the organized workers throughout the world are fundamentally interested in the ability of workers in Asia and Africa to organize and raise their living standards.

HANdOuTS

IT is rumored that Secretary of State Kellogg will get the Nobel prize for promoting international peace.

We suggest awards to a number of other benefactors of humanity:

Morris Hillquit, for the self-sacrificing spirit which he has displayed in mulcting fat fees from labor unions.

Mrs. Knapp, for honesty in office.

Mayor Walker, for services rendered to several million straphangers.

Calvin Coolidge for the fearless and courageous manner in which he has exposed the predatory interests of Wall Street.

Andy Mellon, for exposing Harry Sinclair's contributions to the republican campaign fund.

SOL AUERBACH, 21-year old instructor at the University of Pennsylvania has been fired for advocating the recognition of the Soviet Union. The authorities told him that "it was felt incompatible for a teacher in the department to take a stand publicly on a public question." We hereby suggest that Nicholas Miraculous Butler be canned from Columbia for advocating publicly the repeal of the Prohibition amendment.

THAT horse fair of braying mules, euphemistically referred to as congress, is shown with lantern-slide vividness in an endearing scene by the publication of the following item in the Washington News, Scripps-Howard tabloid: "This newspaper proposes, from this time forward, to publish as news the appearance on du of any so-called dry member of the house or senate in an obviously intoxicated condition . . . When a fire-eating prohibitionist wanders aimlessly about the senate chamber during the discussion of important business and finally interrupts to ask the presiding officer, 'Whass bizness before house?' or when a similar exponent of the Volstead act has to hang hard to the edge of his desk while his legs weave unsteadily under him as he attempts to make a speech, or when a champion of the 18th amendment relapses from maudlin inattention into snoring sleep in the midst of a senate session, the News will undertake to make his condition clear to its readers."

No sooner had the above announcement appeared than Senator Caraway of Arkansas flew into a rage, grew white about the mouth and demanded that the News print names. The News thereupon burst forth in its true capitalist colors by remaining silent. On account of the libel laws it cannot be said that Senator Caraway was ever drunk. It has been noted, however, that Senator Caraway wanders absent-mindedly about the house while it is in session, that his line of progress is not the shortest distance between two points and that he has been known to interrupt the presiding officer in order to be better informed as to what is going on. It is also indisputable that he comes from Arkansas.

THE righteous members of congress are quite irritated at their tactless brothers. These dignified people who have sufficient sense of morality to do their illegal drinking in their paramours' apartments scorn those who drink ostentatiously. Any respectable shyster despises the man who performs with a lead pipe. Congress is irritated. What august body busily engaged in the important business of dividing the loot of a nation wants its attention distracted by silly roysterers?

Vetoes Farm Bill

CALVIN COOLIDGE

The Vermont Kewpie Cal Coolidge has been squeezed in the stomach again by big capital and emitted a veto of the McNary-Haugen farm bill. The man who usually writes Cal's speeches for him is on a vacation and so the style of this one is as unrecognizable as the stomach of the fat man in the reducing ads. Of course it's common knowledge around the white house that the president never does anything for himself any more except sleep at home and expectorate. In fact the above is a recent photograph of Coolidge posed for him by a friend.

CLOAK SHOPS ARE ALREADY PICKING REPRESENTATIVES

Cooper Union Mass Meet Monday Evening

Outstanding among the numerous events that can be recorded and that show the rapid mobilization of the masses of workers in the ladies' garment industry for the re-unionization of the trade by the National Organizing Committee are, first, the big conferences of shop representatives scheduled for next Saturday, and second, the mass meeting in Cooper Union which the Tolerance Group is calling for Monday evening, immediatly after work.

The headquarters of the National Organizing Committee announces that many shops have already sent in notification of the fact that their delegates to the conference have already been chosen and many more will pick representatives early next week. The New York drive for the regaining of union conditions in the shops will be officially begun at this conference. Similar gatherings of shop delegates conferences are being arranged for other cities.

Cooper Union Meet.

The detailed plans for the inauguration of a campaign to rebuild the union and rid the trade of the Sigman bureaucracy which have been worked out by the N. O. C. will at this conference be transformed into action.

All preparations for the mass meeting in Cooper Union, which the Tolerance Group called when they severed relations with the Sigman union, of which they were functionaries, are completed, it was learned from the leaders of that group. This meeting, called especially for the reregistered workers, is to hear the reasons for the groups' affiliation with the National Organizing Committee.

Philadelphia Meeting.

PHILADELPHIA, May 25.—Discussion by the membership of the accomplishments of the fake convention in Boston was prevented by Sigman's vice-president, Reisberg, at a meeting of Local 5 here several days ago.

After Reissberg's report was delivered, the membership demanded discussion. This was immediately met by Reisberg's announcement that he would not allow a discussion from the floor, in spite of the protests of the entire attendance. Reisberg's report consisted of statements that the fake convention had created 2 more vice-presidents and emphasizing the importance of the membership's paying the 3 day tax also decided upon there.

Austrian Students Hold Demonstration

MUNICH, Bavaria, May 25.—Bayonets of the Austrian guard dispersed a crowd of men and women demonstrating against the Italian consulate in Innsbruck, according to despatches from that city.

The attack by the guards follow the trampling of the Italian flag the Italian consulate building in Innsbruck by Austrian students. Innsbruck authorities believed that the incident had been closed locally by the enforced salute of the flag by members of the Austrian guard.

The salute, however, brought on a new outbreak when the crowd which attempted to force its way into the city hall where the mayor had posted a bulletin stating that trampling of the flag was "senseless." Only the bayonets of the soldiers kept the masses at bay.

The outbreak is the result of the terrorist policy pursued by agents of the Italian government in the Italian Tyrol.

'DAILY' IN CRISIS; MUST RUSH FUNDS

Nearly Suspended Need $5,000 to Move

The DAILY WORKER nearly suspended publication yesterday. Such is the financial condition of the paper that had a certain comparatively small sum not been raised within a certain time, there would have been no DAILY WORKER today.

This is nothing new in the life of The DAILY WORKER. The only English language newspaper that fights for the workers is compelled to wage a constant struggle for existence, with suspension of publication a constant threat. It is the workers of this country who by their contributions make it possible for the Daily to continue to exist against such desperate odds.

The financial crisis of The DAILY WORKER is by no means over. The DAILY WORKER has appeared today; it may not appear Monday. This crisis makes it increasingly difficult for the Daily to begin making any concrete plans to move to its new home at 26-28 Union Square. Much money is needed to enable The DAILY WORKER to exist; $5,000 is needed for moving and alteration expenses. This money must be raised and raised at once.

Workers, the need is great. Rush all possible funds immediately to the office of the Daily, 33 First St. New York City.

7 MINERS KILLED IN NEW ACCIDENT

Contract System Leads To Deaths

(Special To The DAILY WORKER.)

WILKES-BARRE, May 25.—At least seven miners were instantly killed and a number of others injured are not expected to live as a result of an explosion in the Cunningham contractor-operated mines of the Hudson Coal Company here today.

Ambulances were rushed to the mine and removed the injured to the Wilkes-Barre general hospital.

Union officials of the treacherous [illegible] machine in District 1 are held equally responsible with the [illegible] deaths inasmuch as these officials have refused to fight against the vicious contractor and speed-up system. This among other practices have been shown to have caused accidents which have taken nearly three hundred miners' lives in the last month.

It is expected that the death sentence will be brought against the arrested victims.

American Marines Torture Civilians in Nicaragua

EXPOSE DETAILS OF IMPERIALIST REIGN OF TERROR

Says Sandino Can Hold Out Indefinitely

LONDON, May 25. — A detailed description of marine terror in Nicaragua, accusing the American forces of murder, pillage and torture, was published today by the London Daily Herald, organ of the British Labor Party. The article was written by a special correspondent who has spent some time in the war area.

That most of the Nicaraguans killed by marines were civilians and not combatants is one of the indictments against the marines in the article.

The writer gives specific details of marine terror.

Torture Old Man.

"The house of Colonel Marin, a known Sandino follower," he says, "was burned by marines and his mother taken away with her hands tied behind her back and a noose around her neck. Santiago Herrero, a wealthy farmer, 'refused to speak' when his place was invaded by American troops and was shot and later it turned out that he was dumb.

"Ca[illegible]livia, a farmer in Pedernates, outside the combat zone, denied suggestions that he was a Sandino sympathizer. On December 26, 1927, twelve marines entered his hacienda while he was absent, burned the house, demolished sugar cane and destroyed 120 loads of corn. His son was taken to a near-by creek and shot and the SPARROWS POINT, Md., (By Mail).—Seventy-five per cent of the workers at the Bethlehem steel plant here work ten, twelve and in a lot of cases, thirteen hours a day. Electricians, painters, carpenters, ship workers, yard and maintenance men, oilers, shearmen, machine operators, thread cutters, bundlers, cranemen, plumbers, millwrights, inspectors loaders and the hundreds of other jobs that are necessary to keep the mill going as well as take care of the product through its finishing process. The before-mentioned trades work ten hours not counting half hour lunch. These men are divided into two shifts changing about, one week day and the following week at night.

I failed to mention the laborers of Bethlehem who compose a big slice of the workers here. Where Faulty Subway Construction Wrecked a Grocery Store

A grocery store at 746 St. Nicholas Ave. crashed into a subway excavation near the foundation of the building. The faulty construction had been dug too close to the store. The picture shows the wreckage after the collapse and part of the store left standing. On many construction jobs, the contractors speed-up the workers so that proper buttressing of the excavation is neglected.

PICKETS DEFY ORDER TO STOP STRIKE SONG

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., May 25.—Despite a menacing squad of over 25 police centered around the gates of the Nonquit, Page and Hathaway Mills, more than 600 striking textile workers conducted one of the most enthusiastic picketing demonstrations yet held since the 30,000 textile workers here went out on strike against a wage cut of 10 per cent, which resulted in the complete shutdown of 58 factories.

Three automobile loads of overseers petty foremen, and other straw bosses continuing to work during the strike were jeered and hooted by the assembled workers in spite of continual threats of immediate arrest. This is the spirit manifest after 2 women strikers were sentenced to 6 months each in jail.

Defy Police.

The police were also openly defied by the strikers when they ordered a halt to the singing of strike songs. After the captain's orders the singing was lustier than before. No arrests were made.

While picketing led by Fred E. Beal, organizer for the Textile Mill Committees was going on, relief cards were handed out, which the workers later exchanged for provision supplied by the Workers' International Relief.

A delegation of Harvard students, members of the Harvard Liberal Club, arrived here several days ago to study the strike situation, and are reported to have frankly declared that they were definitely aligning themselves with the Textile Mills Committee, favoring their policies in conducting a strike to that of the bureaucrats in control of the Textile Council. They also participated in the picketing.

Police Close Hall.

The Police Department has again ordered the closing of the Northern Hall of the T. M. C. Their previous attempts to deprive the Mills Committee of hadquarters failed when a public hall permit was secured. The new attempt is made on the same hypocritical charges. The International Labor Defense, who volunteered all legal and defense work for the strikers, announced that they will fight to obtain a permit. Failing this, a new hall in the north end will be secured.

TRY GAS BOMB ON JAILED STRIKERS

Workers in Cells Used for Police Experiment

KENOSHA, Wis., May 25.—Kenosha police exhibited a hitherto unheard of cruelty when union hosiery workers, locked up in cells under charges of shouting at scabs, were made the targets for police tear bombs. Helplessly exposed, without warning and without a chance to get out of range of the poisons, 11 unionists were bombarded with tear gas as part of a so-called police "experiment." The burning sensations and acute pain in their eyes, nostrils and throats persisted for many hours causing them to shed involuntary tears even the next day in court.

Police smilingly pronounced the experiments as satisfactory.

Protests by the whole population are gathering strength, particularly as the victims were held over night on charges that were later thrown out of court, while a strikebreaker arrested by a deputy sheriff for firing at pickets was released by the station police without booking.

The Kenosha Trades and Labor Assembly has vigorously denounced the use of the police as a strikebreaking agency in behalf of the Allen A Hosiery Co. The firm locked out its union workers Feb. 15 when they declined to operate 2 machines instead of 1 and to tear up their union cards in the American Federation of Full Fashioned Hosiery Workers.

BRIDGE WORKERS OUT ON STRIKE

Strikebreakers Sent to Smash Walkout

One hundred and fifty concrete workers and skilled men are out on strike in the huge bridge construction now almost completed in Staten Island, to connect New Jersey with New York. The workers, who quit work on Thursday, demand an increase in wages of 2[illegible] cents per hour.

Strikebreakers were sent to take their places yesterday by Ike Silverman the notorious strikebreaker, who broke the Union Gas Company strike, the Bush Terminal strike, and many others, several years ago.

Wretched Wage For Cotton-Gin Slaves

WASHINGTON, May 25. — Workers in the seasonal cotton-ginning industry receive an average wage of $18.94 for a work-week of 64½ hours, according to figures released recently by the United States bureau of labor statistics.

20,000 OUT OF WORK IN HOUSTON

Laurence of Texas Here for Convention

Harry J. Laurence, delegate from Houston, Texas, to the Workers (Communist) Party Nominating Convention arrived in New York yesterday. In a statement given to The DAILY WORKER, he said that the labor conditions in Houston are of the "very worst."

"In February," he said, "the City Council published a report that there were 13,000 unemployed workers in Houston. This, in all probability, means that there were several thousand more. The Longshoremen's Union, which is the biggest labor organization in the city, is controlled by the bosses. In order to enter it, a white man must pay something over $40 and a Negro over $80. This is a rather clear indication of the general situation in Houston."

NEGROES OBSERVE HAYWOOD'S DEATH

Memorial Planned Here For June 1

Many Negro workers are planning to attend the huge memorial meeting in the Central Opera House, 67th St. and Third Ave., Friday night, June 1, in honor of William D. Haywood, Communist and pioneer enemy of Jim Crow tactics in the labor movement.

When Haywood first started to organize American workers, even many I. W. W. representatives segregated Negro workers from the whites in the South, comrades who were closely associated with Haywood recall.

One such case was the huge lumber strike in St. Charles, La. "Big Bill" came to address the workers and found they had assembled in two halls, one right above the other, the blacks in one and the whites in the other.

"What's this for? Put 'em together," thundered "Big Bill."

"But it's never been done in the South," gasped the local organizers.

"Then it's time it was," said Haywood, and he did not speak until all the workers, whom he called "comrades," were seated together before him. From that time on Negro workers by the thousands rallied to Haywood's call.

Haywood's friendship with Negro workers dated back to his youth when he slaved in the mines of Nevada, Utah and Idaho, swinging his pick side by side with Negro miners. One of his regrets about being exiled from the United States was that he could not help organize the Negro workers along with the whites.

The memorial meeting is being held under the auspices of the New York district of the Workers (Communist) Party. Haywood, who died recently in Moscow, will be buried at the wall of the Kremlin.

The district committee of the Young Workers (Communist) League has decided to call off the League anniversary mass meeting, June 1, in order to make it possible for all workers to attend the Haywood memorial.

THE FORD BELT KEPT MOVING FASTER

Automobile Bosses Invent Sly Ways of Intensifying Speedup

By ROBERT W. DUNN,
(Federated Press).

DETROIT, May 25.—Speed-up of man and machine rules the Detroit automobile industry, piling up workers on the job market in long queues of the unemployed, even in the busiest seasons.

Speed-up is manifested in various ways. The conveyor line may be screwed up a little faster. The stop watch men may observe that workers, by sweating more, can turn out more per hour.

The layoff method, or the mere rumors of layoffs, may be used to put fear in the hearts of hands. The workers' names and production records may be put on a blackboard and competition encouraged. The gang or group piece-work system may be used. Or the management may fire a few workers during a slack period and ask the remaining workers in the section to do the work formerly handled by the fired employes.

For instance, here is a Dodge worker who writes that "in the Duco work we now spray the Victory Six with two coats instead of one, and at the same price." A Packard man writes, "In the body division we used to do six jobs a day. Now we do eight, and 20 per

CLASS STRUGGLE EMPHASIZED AT BIG PARTY MEET

Great Enthusiasm At Demonstration

Militant class struggle was the keynote struck at the opening of the National Nominating Convention of the Workers (Communist) Party last night when almost four thousand workers crowded into Mecca Temple, 133 West 55th St., to greet more than 250 delegates from all sections of the country and representing virtually every industry.

The convention marked the opening of the election struggle which the Workers (Communist) Party will carry on against the capitalist parties and the socialist party reformists.

Fight Bureaucracy.

The necessity of the struggle against capitalism and labor bureaucracy and reformism was sounded by Jay Lovestone, general secretary of the Party, who acted as chairman and William Z. Foster, member of the secretariat and secretary of the Trade Union Educational League.

Delegates from the mine field, the textile mills and other basic industries, farmers from the west and south—all emphasized the tremendous tasks now facing the workers and farmers thruout the United States.

The struggle against the bureaucracy of the American Federation of Labor and the class collaboration schemes of the bosses, the socialist party which has openly allied itself with the enemies of the workers, the struggle against American imperialism in Nicaragua and China, the defense of the Soviet Union — these were among the major forces with which the American workers and farmers must contend, the speakers pointed out.

The central committee of the Workers (Communist) Party has adopted a draft platform which is proposed to the convention. The text of this platform appears on pages four, five, six and seven of this edition of the Daily Worker.

Activity Urged

Against the setting of red banting and revolutionary banners and emblems, the delegates stressed the necessity of increasing political activity in the coming election campaign.

In addition to Lovestone and Foster, the speakers were Ben Gitlow, member of the Secretariat of the

GREET WORKERS PARTY CAMPAIGN

Communists in France, Germany, Hail Meet

Greeting the National Nominating Convention of the Workers (Communist) Party which opened here with a mass demonstration at Mecca Temple last night, the German Communist Party, which made big gains in the German elections, has sent the following endorsement to the convention:

"Following its victory, the German Communist Party sends its fraternal greetings to the Workers (Communist) Party and expects that the American Communists will put up as gallant a fight against our common class enemy in the coming election campaign, as have the Communist Parties of Poland, France and Germany in their recent elections.

"Bear in mind that we are a single united front of the workingclass and that no ocean or frontiers can separate us. Your success will fill the world proletariat with joy and hopes for greater action on your part. Your victory is our victory and every success won brings us nearer our goal.

"Your slogan must be, 'Class against class.' Fight against the oppression and exploitation of the whole world, especially on the American front at this time.

"The eyes of the international proletariat are upon you, the hearts of workers everywhere are with you. Forward, bravely!"

The following message, greeting the Workers (Communist) Party Convention has been received from the French Communist Party.

"On the eve of the presidential elections, the French Communist

American Engineer Involved in Sabotage Conspiracy to Wreck Donetz Mines

WORKERS TESTIFY ENGINEERS AIDED WHITE GUARDISTS

Technician Admits He Receives Bribes

MOSCOW, U. S. S. R., May 25.—The trial of the conspirators in the Don sabotage plot proceeded yesterday with the examination of Samoilov, who described the hostility of the engineers to the Soviet Government.

Foreign engineers, Greiling, an Englishman, Koester, a German, and Murphy, an American, nourished a hostile spirit among the engineers, it was revealed.

Samoilov testified further that the former mine-owners were kept informed about the activity of every engineer. He referred to a mine which sabotagers blew up.

Often Struck Workers.

Witnesses among the Donetz workers, then examined later, testified that Beresovsky, Samoilov and Kolodub, who had exploited workers before the revolution, had often struck workers and had neglected the security measures which might have prevented accidents.

During the occupation of the Don Basin by the counter-revolustionist, the engineers gave the White Guards a list of Communist workers who were then executed.

Babenko, a renegade of peasant extraction, also a technician was then examined. He admitted that he had participated in the sabotage plot and that he had personally received 13,500 roubles for flooding mines. Donetz workers who were then examined testified that before the revolution Babenko, Kolodub and other were hostile to the workers. Babenko, they charged, abused and even beat workers, while Kolodub denounced workers to the czarist police and caused their arrest.

Brutality Charged.

The evidence of the two old Donetz miners which made a deep impression charged Babenko with brutality to workers before and after the revolution. They charged that he had flooded the mine of Novosovsk.

Faced with this testimony Babenko was compelled to admit his guilt.

Another worker, Limarov, who as a Red Guard had been taken prisoner by the White terrorists and forced to work in the mines, declared that Babenko had treated the workers brutally and had threatened to have workers shot by the White Guards.

MINE OFFICIAL IS LEADER OF ARMED SCABS AGAINST STRIKERS

(Special to the Daily Worker)

NEW LEXINGTON, Ohio, May 25.—Skulls were cracked and shots fired when 5 scabs under the direction of their superintendent attacked a picket line of striking miners who marched on the Mid-Hocking mine of the Sunday Creek Coal Company near here, Wednesday. A 14-year-old boy, son of a striker who joined his father on the picket line was the most seriously injured, according to a report of the affair relayed to the National Miners' Relief Committee.

Charges of shooting to kill have been filed against Louis Powell, mine superintendent, who is said to have produced a shot gun and fired on the pickets when they approached the group of scabs who were about to enter the mine. Powell was disarmed by the strikers. The charges against him are filed by Ed Jones, Paschal Jones, John Gail and Pearl Brown.

Joe Reynolds, Powell's assistant, faces charges of assault and battery. He attacked several strikers without provocation after the superintendent had ordered the charge on the picket line.

Overwhelmed when the union miners turned on them, the attacking scabs summoned Sheriff McNabb and several deputies who beat back the strikers though he failed to make any arrests.

The miners of Hocking Valley continue their fight to save their union against tremendous odds. Oral Daugherty, former sub-district official who was expelled from the mine workers union when he advised the strikers to go back to work for whatever they could get, is attempting to smash the union by advocating a separate union of Ohio coal diggers.

Starvation Stalks Land.

Scarcity of food is creating the appearance of extreme famine in many coal digging communities on strike in the Hocking Valley. Bread is at a premium. Milk, even for infants, is a luxury no longer thought of by mothers. Coffee, canned milk at best, but usually not milk at all, and a little bread is the daily ration of children who are hardly old enough to walk. Undernourishment has sapped the vitality of many towns to the point where only an insuperable fighting spirit keeps mass picket lines going daily. Only relief sent by the National Miners' Relief Committee is keeping these miners alive.

Victim of Tenement Fire and Rescuer

Victim of a fire-trap tenement at 261 McDougal St., Helen Monghan is in the hospital today recovering from burns. She is shown here with the fireman who rescued her. He formed part of a human chain, risking his life in the swing to the window where the trapped woman stood.

FLOOD THREATENS FLEEING WORKERS

Collapse of Utah Dam is Expected Momentarily

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, May 23.—A repetition of the St. Francis dam break resulting in the death of over 400 is feared here. More than 3,000 men, women and children of three central Utah towns were encamped on mountain side here today as water rushed thru a break in the tip of the sixty-foot Pleasant Valley Dam, near Castlegate, threatening collapse of the structure.

A force of five hundred men worked throughout the night plugging the leaks and bolstering the dam with sand bags, cement and earth with the result that the eroding effect of the accumulated material was checked.

The breakdown of the St. Francis Dam resulted from faulty construction approved by corrupt officials, it has been revealed.

Britains Love the Queen But Need the Cash

LOVE for the British Empire on the part of Englishmen living in the United States is apparently extremely low. Yesterday was "Empire Day," observed thruout England and all its colonial "possessions" on the anniversary of the birth of the portly Queen Victoria, and plans had been completed for the annual Empire Day dinner, scheduled for Thursday night at the Waldorf. Speakers were to include Sir Esme Howard, British ambassador and other monocled celebrities.

"Lack of interest," however, prompted the sponsors of the celebration to call the dinner off, it has just been learned. For when the anxious Britons took inventory they found to their great chagrin that only 163 out of more than 5,000 accepted the invitation to honor the dead queen.

FREE 'DAILY' SUBS NEEDED BY MINERS

400 Join Workers Party In Six Weeks

The striking miners in the Pittsburgh district are "strong" for The DAILY WORKER. This is the gist of the report of John Casper, DAILY WORKER agent in District 5 to the business office of the Daily. Casper arrived in New York yesterday to attend the National Nominating Convention of the Workers (Communist) Party.

"Hundreds of striking miners have come to me and told me how much The DAILY WORKER means to them," Casper said. "Most of them had never read the Daily before and were eager to get it regularly. But they had no money to subscribe. 'As soon as this strike is over, we'll subscribe to The DAILY WORKER out of our first pay,' many of them told me. 'It's the best paper in the world.'

"During the past six weeks more than 400 of these miners have joined the Workers Party. Every one of them needs The DAILY WORKER every day. If the readers of the Daily only realized this, I'm sure that many more would provide these striking coal diggers with free subscriptions."

Workers, the miners are fighting for all of us. Help their fight with a free sub. Send it in at once to the office of The DAILY WORKER, 33 First St., New York City.

SPEED-UP GROWS IN FORD PLANT

cent of the men have been laid off. And in the hood painting department of the same plant they used to turn out 16 jobs a day. Now 38 are required. And of course several men were fired."

AT the Ford plants, most famous for their race track speed, the soldering department has increased production from 85 to 80 pieces per hour in one year. At one of the Fisher Body plants where they used to make 150 to 160 bodies a day, they now finish from 235 to 240 with the same number of men on the job. At the Hudson plant they more than doubled the output for the same number of men in one year, at the same time reducing the wage an average of 10 cents an hour.

The worker is of course not permitted to organize to stop this increasing application of speed-up.

If the worker cannot keep up with the pace, he is "recommended for a transfer," writes a Detroit worker. This means that he is sent to another department "where he ordinarily cannot last a week."

Some workers contend that the bosses are really unnecessary, except to check on quality or performance. Said one, "The machine I'm on goes at such a terrific speed that I can't help stepping on it in order to keep up with it. The machine is my boss." And the new machine may be the boss that fires him from the job altogether.

Frat Boys Get Spanking for Going to Dance

Because they violated a rule of the college in attending a dance, 37 "young men students" of Upsala College were indefinitely suspended last Tuesday, it became known today. Three others, theological students, were let off with severe reprimands and told that they would have no more ice cream for the remainder of the semester. All the suspended students were members of a students' organization called the Improved Order of Exalted Ululae.

The dance was held in the Hotel Montclair, Montclair, N. J., and was given by the female progenitor of one of the naughty students. When interviewed by reporters, the sobbing mother said that the college was "doing my son wrong" and that "none of the poor children deserved such cruel punishment."

Upsala College is a coeducational institution maintained by the New York and New England Conference of Evangelical Augustana Synod. The no-dancing rule was put into effect a year ago.

HAIL WORKERS PARTY SUCCESS

French Communists Greet Convention

Party sends fraternal greetings to the American workingclass and its vanguard, the Workers (Communist) Party. The French Communist Party hopes that the masses of American workers will rally under the banner of the Comintern borne by the Workers (Communist) Party.

"To the American workers the presidential election ought to be only an episode in the struggle against the imperialist plutocrats and their agents, the reformists in the labor movement. It should be one means of rallying the revolutionary proletarian forces for direct American capitalists, a battle in which the heroic Pennsylvania miners are taking such a splendid lead.

"Long live the Workers (Communist) Party! Long live the proletarian struggle of the American workers against imperialism and the reformist traitors! Long live the Communist International!"

Making the World Safe For Democracy

"The marines are stationed in various navy yards and posts in the United States, and also in Haiti, Nicaragua and China. The location of [illegible] units is in accordance with the government policy."

GREED OF COAL BARONS CAUSES MINE MISHAPS

Speedup Renders Safety Devices Useless

By LELAND OLDS, (Fed Press).

The probable death of more than 190 coal miners in the explosion at the the non-union Mather mine near Waynesburg, Pa., emphasizes the criminal folly of leaving safety precautions to the mercy of profiteering owners. Only when the miners' union has a voice in every mine in the country will the hazards be reduced to the minimum.

Inadequate Dusting.

The U. S. Bureau of Mines reports that although 463 mines operated by 239 coal companies were being rockdusted in 1927 it is improbable that even 50 of these mines were adequately rockdusted. Few of the mines were found employing adequate measures to ascertain whether their rockdusting would prevent or limit explosions.

In all coal mines not decidedly wet, says the bureau, "all open accessible parts should be kept rockdusted to such an extent that any dust to be found on ribs, roof, floor or timbers will have an incombustible content of 65 per cent or over. There should be a systematic periodical sampling of dust from mine surfaces with prompt determination of the incombustible content and with subsequent redusting where analytical work indicates incombustible below 65 per cent. In general surfaces should be sampled at least monthly, but sampling should be done more frequently where there is reason to suspect high combustible."

"Rockdusting to be effective," says the bureau, "must be made an integral part of everyday mining operations; this means that mining companies must rockdust in essentially the same manner that they timber, blast, ventilate and haul. Where rockdusting becomes daily routine work its cost will be nominal and seldom should exceed 1 per cent per ton of coal produced. Until rockdusting becomes a part of routine daily coal mine operation, it will remain more or less ineffective and the coal mines will continue to be subject to widespread explosions."

No Safety Measures.

One cent a ton to protect coal miners against such tragedies as that which just snuffed out 190 lives at Mather, Pa. And yet the profiteering operators fail to carry out safety measures worked out years ago in the experimental mine of the government bureau. According to the bureau's report rockdusting has been extended to mines employing 100,000 underground workers or only about 21 per cent of the U. S. total. These mines produce about 24 per cent of the country's bituminous output.

Early evidence suggests that the Mather explosion was caused by sparks from an electric cable whose insulation had been severed by a cutting machine used in modern machine mining. If so the tragedy was closely connected with the speeding up of production in this non-union mine. The sparks ignited coal dust insufficiently mixed with the incombustible rock dust which would otherwise have rendered the subsequent explosion unlikely.

Father, Daughter, Victims Of "Prosperity"

The picture shows Edward Cromwell, of Bridgeport, Conn., recently released from the jail where his wife had him placed when he insisted on having more children. They had had 13, nine of whom had died. Cromwell's wages never exceeded $30 a week when he could find work which was not often. The children who lived are employed folding elastics for which they make fifty cents a gross. The eldest girl is shown at the right.

DEATH HOLDS STAKES IN GAME WITH MINERS

By ED FALKOWSKI (Federated Press).

SHENANDOAH, Pa., May 25.—Death seems to compete with the coal companies for increased output in the anthracite. It may come as the climax to an explosion, or simply in the pathetic and miserable form of crushing a man to death in some tight corner.

That is the way it come to George Navitsky, a lifelong miner, who was caught between the cylinder of an air "lokey" and the timber as he was standing on the side of the gangway track to let the "lokey" pass. He was crushed, dying a few hours later at the Shenandoah City Colliery.

A more dramatic death was that of Adam Evanovsky, 55, of Minersville who was killed when caught in an explosion in breast No. 3 of the Lytle Colliery. He was preparing the shot and had set fire to the fuse. A defect in the explosion caused it to backfire. The force of the explosion caught the man and hurled him down the face of the breast, killing him outright.

Mining is a constant game with death, with the miner playing to outwit it at every point. It becomes grimly humorous after a time. The miner whose head is fanned by a lump of rock that just missed crushing him will let loose a few hot words, and laugh. "Missed me that time!" he says. But he knows that some day it won't miss him. "If it gets me, it'll be just too bad," summarizes his attitude.

Day after day with heart-sickening regularity ambulance bells clang as some fellow is being hauled home from the colliery. Women grow hysterical, fearing it may stop at their home. As it passes, their tears dry, and they resign themselves to the tragic recurrence of death. "It's just a part of life," they whisper, as they shrug their shoulders and put pepper in the soup for the men.

MARINE TERROR IN NICARAGUA

Tortured Civilians, Says Correspondent

body was found shortly afterwards.

"In January John Bolton, an American, was murdered near Bluefields. The marines brought in seven natives who were alleged to have confessed. Before a judge, one man, Escobar, said the confession was extracted from him by torture. The proceedings were immediately interrupted and the prisoners were marched back to the barracks. Escobar refused to reenter his cell, made a dash for the gate and was shot and killed. Later it was proved that he had nothing to do with the murder.

"In another instance a religious festival was taking place in an Indian village north of Bluefields. Many of the Indians were drunk and marines appeared to restore order. They turned on a machine gun, killing four and wounding five. The Nicaraguan military commander on refusing to sign the marines' report was brought to Bluefields and ill-treated until he consented to sign a dictated statement."

Workers Aid Sandino.

Virtually every Nicaraguan worker and peasant is a Sandino sympathizer, the article says. In spite of the terroristic methods employed by the marines, the writer declares that the Sandino nationalists can hold out almost indefinitely.

MASSES CHEER 4 AUTONOMISTS AT COLMAR TRIAL

Hundreds Burst Into Court Room

PARIS, May 25.—Violent scenes followed the sentencing of four of the Alsatian autonomists on trial at Colmar when thousands of men and women, who been massed around the court house four hours in expectation, burst into the court room to shake the hands of the convicted men. Court guards and police attempted to break up the spontaneous demonstration and blows ensued.

The four convicted men are Dr. Georges E. Ricklin, the reputed director of the autonomist movement, Paul J. Schall, former editor of the Zukunft, an autonomist paper, Joseph V. Rosse and Joseph Faschauer.

"I implore you, Ricklin do not judge France by this verdict," some one cried over the heads of the throng.

Andre Berthon, Communist deputy, sprang to the window of the court house and urged the masses to drape their houses in black as a protest against the "iniquitous verdict."

International Labor Defense Increases Its Activity Thruout New York City

DEFENDS CLASS WAR PRISONERS; SPONSORS MEETS

Plans Many Affairs and Conferences

The various branches of the New York Section of the International Labor Defense are showing great activity according to Rose Baron, secretary. Mass meetings and conferences, as well as social events, are giving evidence of the increased scope of the work of many of the branches.

Great progress is being made by the Brownsville branch. This branch recently held a conference to consider the question of the persecution of workers throughout the world. Resolutions were passed demanding the release of the Hromada prisoners in Poland, Bela Kun in Austria and Mooney and Billings in the United States. It was also decided to hold a big mass meeting on June 1st as a preliminary step towards the campaign to liberate Mooney and Billings.

The Sacco-Vanzetti Branch is planning a strawberry festival and June dance for June 16th at Rose Garden, 1347 Boston Road, and the Hungarian Yorkville Branch is planning an outing for June 10th.

A successful open-air meeting was recently held by the Yorkville English Branch and it was decided to hold an affair, possibly a moving picture show, in the near future. This branch has been increasing its sales of the Labor Defender, organ of the International Labor Defense, and has enrolled six new members.

A membership drive will soon be launched by the Williamsburg Branch and leaflets will be widely distributed for this purpose.

The Down-Town Branch recently sponsored a successful entertainment while the Jugoslav, Polish and Czechoslav Branches are planning a joint picnic for sometime in July.

New impetus has been given the general membership drive of the New York Section of the I. L. D. by the formation of a branch in Union City, N. J., with a membership of fifteen. This branch is planning to start active work immediately.

PHILA. FUR UNION IN PARLEY CALL

Endorses Boston "One Union Demand

The resumption of the offensive of the fur workers in New York against the bosses and right wing for the reestablishment of the union has become more than a temporary outburst of resentment, events yesterday showed.

Demand Conference.

At a meeting of the executive board of the Philadelphia Local 53 a resolution was adopted to endorse the demands made by the Boston local on the general executive board. The Boston local demanded a conference of all International locals, which was to lay the basis for the rebuilding of the union. The Boston demand also stated that the war carried on by the International officialdom against the New York membership be immediately stopped, because the internal struggle was destroying the entire union.

The executive board of Local 53, it was learned, also intends to call a membership meeting of the local in order to secure the members' endorsement of its plan. This meeting will be held some time next week.

The New York furriers have in the past few weeks voted condemnatory resolutions at the meetings of even the right wing locals. They have also held protest demonstrations in spite of the police terror in front of the right wing Joint Council offices.

Right Wing Scared.

The last demonstration of about 1,000 fur workers in front of the Joint Council has thrown a scare into McGrady and Stetsky. The fact that on their own Joint Council delegates are also beginning to raise the demand for one union has caused the right wing heads to resort to measures so frantic as to completely expose their demoralization and impotence.

At a meeting of the Joint Council last Tuesday McGrady called on Shiplacoff, socialist leader, to make speeches to those Joint Council delegates endorsing the "One Union" demand of the workers. Several workers attending that meeting reported the scene as the most laughable they ever experienced. First the socialist chief made a threatening speech, then McGrady and Stetsky made speeches.

McGrady said that he "would not stand for any more demonstrations." He declared that "anybody starting trouble would be thrown out, if a dozen cops are necessary in the union office every day."

Shiplacoff threatened the recalcitrant Joint Council members that a big drive will be begun against all the Communists by other union heads. To prove it he said, "I have just come from such a conference."

McGrady's lieutenant, Alex Fried, at one time convicted for burglary, declared that he will stop local meetings. He was met with the prompt retort, "You haven't got the guts!" After all this speechmaking the insurgent delegates continued their defiant attitude till about three in the morning when the meeting ended, without the "one union group" being brought into line again.

Putting Across the Word of "God"

Notables of Holy Mother Church met recently to consider ways and means for getting a little more punch into the word of "god." Prominent journalists in the picture are, from left to right, cardinal Hayes, Simon Baldus, Edward S. Dore, and Charles S. Ridder, of the Catholic News.

TAMMANY HEADS IN STREET GRAFT

Disclose Bribery in City Contracts

While evidence at the $200,000,000 Tammany street cleaning graft investigation opening yesterday disclosed the existence of bribery in connection with the virtual purchase of contracts from responsible city officials, charges of the operation of a corrupt Tammany political ring in the Bronx were [illegible] the very doors of the de[illegible]inistration at a meet[illegible]ard of Estimate over [illegible] Ma[illegible]immie Walker pres[illegible]

Admission of Frank [illegible] Gannon, suspended superintendent of the Brooklyn Street Cleaning Department that he had received $4,000 of an $8,000 bonus paid to the Remsen Sand Company, of which he is part owner, for the privilege of dumping refuse on land owned by that concern, featured the opening session of the investigation into the operations of the street cleaning department.

Pays $8,000 Bribe.

The Brooklyn Ash Removal Company, it was revealed, which has the contract with the city for the removal of refuse in Brooklyn, paid this amount to Gannon's firm. Gannon also admitted he knew that the contract itself had been "negotiated" between the firm and the city by Edward Junker, his brother-in-law, who received from the ash removal company a reward of $1,000 for his services.

Junker, according to his own testimony was merely the "contact" man. Gannon, his brother-in-law, he intimated, had received the major reward. The "land" on which the refuse is being dumped, it was brought out, is a swamp. The company which has the contract with the city is paid at the rate of 58 cents per cubic yard. The contract amounts to many thousands of dollars weekly.

Mock Investigation.

Commissioner James A. Higgins before whom the investigation is being conducted, at the opening of yesterday's session produced several checks made out to Junker and to Gannon's firm to show that the above transactions had taken place.

Higgins, who has been assigned by Mayor Walker to "investigate" the graft in the street cleaning department after trying for nearly two weeks to stall off the investigation, is now seen to be preparing for an official "whitewash." Confirmation of this charge came with his announcement during yesterday's session that the head of the street cleaning department, Commissioner Alfred A. Taylor, known to be the leading figure in the $200,000,000 graft ring, and who appeared at yesterday's hearings, was there at his (Higgin's) personal invitation as an "official courtesy." Higgins paid a tribute to the head of the street cleaning department for his "aid and cooperation."

More Tammany Graft.

Charges that a political ring is operating in the Bronx of which Aldermanic President Joseph V. McKee and Borough President Bruckner, together with other Tammany politicians, are the leading figures were hurled in the teeth of Mayor Jimmie Walker at a meeting of the Board of Estimate yesterday.

Edwin Alexander, millionaire real estate operator of the Bronx, appearing before the board in support of a particular site for a new Court House, charged that no improvements could be made in the Bronx without the support of (and by implication) without bribing this ring.

SPORT MEET AT BIG JAMBOREE

Proceeds to Go to Joint Defense

The Joint Defense and Relief Committee, Cloakmakers and Furriers, are completing the final preparations for the jamboree and carnival to be held at Starlight Park on June 9. Workers' fraternal organizations, unions, women's councils, and other sympathetic organizations, in addition to continuing their direct contributions for the defense of the nine left wing furriers in the Mineola case ers' union, are preparing to make the huge carnival a success.

One of the features of the carnival will be the Joint Defense Athletic Meet. This will equal any of the meets held in the American colleges during the last week, the Sports Committee says. There will be a 100-yard dash, a 220-yard dash, half-mile relay, 1-mile run, 3-mile run, hop skip and jump, high jump; running broad jump, standing broad jump, shot put, gymnastics and swimming. Anyone desiring to enter any of these events should communicate immediately with the "Sports Committee" Joint Defense, 41 Union Square, Room 714.

There will also be a soccer tournament, held under the auspices of the Metropolitan Soccer League, which is affiliated with the Labor Sports Union of America.

Proceeds of the affair will go to help the defense of the nine workers who were framed up in Mineola, and sentenced to serve from 2½ to 5 years in jail; and also for the 18 leaders of the cloakmakers who face jail terms.

BARBERS WIN IN 7 WEEKS STRIKE

After seven weeks of strike the Journeymen Barbers, members of Local No. 913, J. B. I. U. of A., of Brooklyn, New York, have returned to work under signed agreements, having gained a complete victory.

During the seven weeks nearly 900 master barbers signed the agreement of this local union restoring the wage-cut of $5 to the $35.00 weekly formerly paid, in addition to reinstating the working conditions, which prior to April 3rd, had been repudiated by the Independent Master Barbers' Association.

MORE SHOPS OUT IN DENTAL STRIKE

The workers in two more laboratories yesterday joined the strike of the 1,000 dental mechanics in New York and New Jersey now on strike for recognition of their union and better working conditions. With new additions to their ranks almost daily, the dental strikers are certain that the strike will be won, and that the Dental Owners' Association will be smashed.

Louis Greenberg, a dental laboratory owner, was yesterday released for trial on June 1, as a result of his assault on a striker.

Mediators of the state department of labor were again unsuccessful in attempting to settle the strike yesterday. The dental bosses have refused to negotiate, it was said by the union. Picketing by the dental strikers is being enthusiastically kept up.

MUTILATED BODY FOUND.

The body of an unidentified man found in Kill van Kull, off Bayonne may be that of one who drowned in the recent sinking of the dredge Navesink, police said today. The right leg and arm were cut off, seemingly by the ship's propeller.

BETHLEHEM STEEL WORKERS SLAVE 13 HOURS A DAY

Negroes Speeded Until They Sweat in Cold

ing under a perfected speed-up system. Here is an instance of common labor work under a speed-up system. Laborers engaged in loading box cars can increase their pay from the hourly rate of thirty-seven cents an hour to about thirty-eight or thirty-nine cents an hour by increasing the tonnage handled in the day time. This scheme of driving hard all day and loading up to maximum each worker will probably net them after a period of two weeks the princely sum of five dollars.

Most people picture a Negro labor gang as a slow moving group who take their sweet old southern style time about doing things will become changed when they see how Bethlehem trains their workers. Actually on a cold day, a group of Negro laborers were perspiring from working so fast and steady the whole day loading box cars, doing two men's work and getting two cents extra an hour.

37 Cents An Hour.

The standard pay of laborers is thirty-seven cents an hour, work ten hours and 99 days out of a 100, the foreman will come around and say, want to make some money for yourself. Work two hours overtime which is straight hourly rate. Extra pay for extra time is bygone history in Bethlehem. Such irony. The poor Negro workers who have the worst dangerous, unhealthy jobs in the mill and live under the most terrible conditions get ready to go to work at 5 a. m. and probably return home about 8 or 8.30 p. m. Their pay is $22.50, if they work a full six day week. Most of them work seven days bringing their pay up to about $25.

Shylock had nothing on Bethlehem when he wanted a man to forfeit a pound of flesh for payment of six thousand ducats. Bethlehem demands from every worker, every day in the year not only his flesh and blood but also demands every drop of energy in payment for three dollars and seventy cents to possibly five and a half dollars. Quitting two minutes before the time subjects a worker to dismissal and probable blacklisting in every department. The superintendent has a circular letter posted on bulletin boards to the effect that men are warned about knocking off before whistle, laying special emphasis on the fact that men are paid from whistle to whistle.

The steel worker has not only inhuman working conditions to contend with, such as speed-up, extremely low pay, wet and cold working places smoky, unhealthy and etc., but must also contend with the greed of the bosses. The bosses would much rather make a cheap grade of iron in the open hearth and have the men in the tin mill, sheet mill and other departments work on the iron and having half of it come out scrap for which the worker never gets paid for. The boss works out a lot of scrap this way at the expense of the workers' time and trouble. Such things as underpaid mechanics to fix broken down machines cause loss of pay to workers who are working piece-work and have no comeback when they only make one or two dollars a day as a result of broken-down machine. At the beginning of the week, on warming up turn on the furnaces, the workers can only produce about half production, but nevertheless, putting in full time does not entitle them to the average pay as they work piece-work.

Stool-pigeons.

Injustices abound right and left above and below for the workers, and especially those that dare to rebel against the scheme of things. There are plenty of police assigned to each department, as if in preparedness for an outbreak of workers. There many low duties such as keeping a watch on early quitters, loafing, and snooping around toilets. Steel mills have plenty of stool-pigeons and here in Sparrows Point, as a result of a small strike in 1919, has left a group of privileged scab jobholders and special concession holders on the Point. The company-controlled magistrate plays special cain with the workers and the pay of many a worker has been handed over by the company to the company court.

Not only are the 15,000 workers effected by these injustices, but the wives and children suffer many hardships. Many families of steel workers know the terror that came over them when their father, brother or husband was brought home dead, crippled, burned, or on crutches from the slaughter pens of Bethlehem Steel. It can be easily imagined what luxuries the children of steel workers have when their father gets about twenty to thirty dollars a week. Walking through the streets where the lowest paid workers exist would convince anyone that the long greedy hand of Bethlehem has left its thumb print on these workers.

The workers of Bethlehem are in despair as a result of the different wage cuts ranging from 5 to 40% have been imposed on them in the past three months. The cuts in wages on the already underpaid workers was like putting salt on a flesh wound. Bread has been taken off their table and placed on the tables of those who have too many diamonds and throw away plenty of cake.

We workers of the Bethlehem Steel need a strong working class party that will fight for us against the few privileged class who hold us in slavery and impose on us hunger, want, ignorance, wars and hatred merely to satisfy their own ends and disregard the welfare of the millions of workers. We workers of Bethlehem Steel realize that the bosses can only do these things when they have control of the political machinery.

We want a working class ballot to represent labor.

'Worker' Exposed Oil Strike Betrayal

(Special to the Daily Worker)

BAYONNE, N. J., May 24.—John Tammassi and Tom Borsirio were arrested yesterday before the Tidewater and Standard Oil Company plants here distributing copies of The DAILY WORKER containing an account of the betrayal of the Tidewater strikers by their company union leaders and generally exposing the speed-up and slave conditions in the oil trust.

Twenty-five hundred Tidewater workers who struck last week against the inhuman conditions under which they are forced to slave at the plant of the tSandard subsidiary were forced back Tuesday through the betrayal of the company union officials working together with the mayor of the city.

WORKERS PARTY DRAFT PLATFORM OF CLASS STRUGGLE

"All Political Groups Except Communist Party Defend Capitalist Society"

The following is a draft for the election platform of the Workers (Communist) Party proposed by the Central Committee to the convention. This draft failed to include some amendments considered acceptable but omitted for lack of time.

American Imperialism

President Coolidge said to the big bankers and manufacturers in Philadelphia: "We hold a great treasure which must be protected." In the name of the working class and the exploited farmers of this country the WORKERS (Communist) PARTY raises the question: Who owns the 'great treasure,' in whose interests must it be protected, and who bears the burden of its protection? And our answer is: The 'great treasure' is owned by a handful of powerful bankers, manufacturers, and railroad magnates. The only share of it the workers and working farmers receive is exploitation and poverty, and all the burden of defense of the 'great treasure' of American Imperialism rests on the shoulders of the industrial and agricultural workers.

America is today the most powerful country in the world. America's wealth, the "great treasure," mounts up to 400 billion dollars. Half of the gold of the world is now in the possession of the United States. With but seven per cent of the world's total population America controls the bulk of the world's resources, 44 per cent of the world's coal, 70 per cent of the oil produced, 52 out of every 100 tons of steel, 60 per cent of the cotton and corn, and half of the world's railways, copper and pig iron.

A gigantic accumulation and concentration of capital is going on. The total amount of bank deposits is now over 56 billion dollars. These are over 1,000 factories in America employing more than 1,000 workers each, with a total of about 2½ million workers. Of all wage-earners in manufacturing over 56 per cent work in those 10,000 factories each of which turn out annually products to the amount of a million dollars or over.

Trustification is asserting itself with irresistible power. Consolidations of railways, big combines and mergers in all industries are the order of the day. The United States Steel Corporation has a capital of 1.4 billion dollars. A food trust is attempting to put 2 billion dollars into one powerful corporation. The recent consolidation of the Brooklyn Edison Company and the Consolidated Gas Company of New York resulted in a merger of over one billion dollars. Five powerful companies control almost half of the whole national output of water power, and eleven groups control 80 per cent. Eight companies control three-fourths of the anthracite coal. Two companies exercise control over half of the copper resources of the country.

A process of centralization similar to that in production is going on in the field of distribution. There are today 3,893 chain store organizations controlling 101,536 retail outlets in thirty merchandise fields. These chains realized in 1927 a volume of business estimated at almost six billion dollars or 16 per cent of the total retail business of the country. The anti-trust laws function today not as instruments of "trust-busting" but as a means of trustification.

The United States is the leading country in respect to capitalist rationalization. The productive power of American industries has increased tremendously. In a decade productivity per employee in American manufacturing has increased 33 per cent, cost of management has decreased 12 per cent, but wages per unit of production have increased only 2 per cent. Over-development of industrial productive capacity is one of the basic features of American Imperialism.

Finance capital is almighty today. Banks and industries are merged. The climax of this development was marked by the fact that J. P. Morgan, head of American finance capital, became the head of the United States Steel Corporation, the country's biggest industrial company. Hand in hand with the trustification of industry goes the trustification of State power. The Government of the United States is today an administration of finance capital. The identity of the dominating personnel in finance capital and government administration is complete. Finance capital sends its direct representatives to the Cabinet as well as ambassadors to foreign countries.

Trustification, high tariff, monopoly, merger of trusts and State power, growing export of capital—this is the picture of American Imperialism today.

The stabilization of European industries, and the decline of British imperialism have increased competition on a world scale. The United States imperialism is in a growing measure dependent on the world market, and it struggles for world hegemony in every corner of the world—from Latin America to China. It is engaged in murderous competition for the Russian market as well as for the markets of the British Empire. Increased competition, increased struggle for the resources of raw material and for the export of capital, high tariff walls, and ever-larger armied aand navies create a growing menace of war. A second world war is inevitable. Wars on a smaller scale are going on today in a period which the spokesmen of Imperialism call the era of "world peace." American Imperialism is conducting a war of extermination against Nicaragua, is participating in interventions in China, and is an active accomplice of the capitalist conspiracy against the Soviet Russia.

Two main antagonisms lead today towards a world conflagration. One is the chief capitalist antagonism between British and American Imperialism, which has taken the place of the pre-war British-German rivalry. The other one is the general capitalist conspiracy against the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics.

Although British Imperialism is today the most reactionary force in world politics, American Imperialism is the leading power and represents the most dangerous, most aggressive force of world capitalism. There is an ever-clearer crystallization of the two poles; on the one hand, the counter-revolutionary pole to defend capitalism against the growing revolt of the colonial peoples and the working masses of the capitalist countries under the leadership of the United States; on the other hand, the revolutionary pole under the leadership of Soviet Russia, around which all the oppressed peoples of the colonies and all the expoited workers of the world rally.

Wealth and Poverty

The United States is in the richest country in the world. "Uncle Shylock" is the creditor of all countries. The world owes the United States today not less than 23½ billion dollars. The number of millionaires is growing fast. In 1919 there were only 65 incomes over a million; in 1926 there were already 228. In 1919 there were only 189 incomes between $500,000 and $1,000,000; in 1926 the number was already 465.

In his 1926 address to Congress President Coolidge said: "The wealth of our country is not public wealth but private wealth. It does not belong to the Government; it belongs to the people." The prodigious wealth of the country is private wealth, but the "people" who own it are not the workers and exploited farmers. They are the few millionaires. The country is growing richer, but the share of the millions of working people in the wealth of the country is decreasing and the share of the few powerful millionaires is increasing with amazing speed. One per cent of all recipients of any income in this country receive not less than 20 per cent of the whole national income and get not less than 86.2 per cent of all corporate dividends. One per cent of the population possesses today not less than 33 per cent of all wealth; 10 per cent own 64 per cent; and the poorest 25 per cent possess only 3½ per cent. The overwhelming majority of the "people" to whom President Coolidge refers are born poor and die poor. The Federal Trade Commission states that about one per cent of the estimated number of decedents owned about 59 per cent of the estimated wealth, and more than 90 per cent was owned by about 13 per cent of the decedents."

The accumulated wealth is not distributed equally. Hand in hand with the growing fortunes of the few millionaires goes the growing exploitation and poverty of the unskilled workers, Negroes, and exploited farmers. Even President Coolidge was forced to admit in his Hammond dedication speech that there is a "considerable class of unskilled workers who have not come into full participation in the wealth of the nation." The share of the wage-earners in the national income has decreased. The manufacturing wage-earners received only 40.1 per cent of the "value product" in 1925 as against 44.8 per cent in 1921. The wages of the shamelessly exploited four million agricultural workers amounted in 1920 to 2.3 per cent of the national income and in 1926 to only 1.4 per cent. The "democratization" of wealth is only a capitalist myth. Bankers and industrial magnates own the big corporations. The workers do not possess more than one per cent of all stocks and bonds. "High American wages" is today the most popular publicity stunt of American and international capitalism but high wages embrace only a thin aristocratic stratum of the working class. The overwhelming majority of wage-earners is not able to earn even sufficient to fulfill the most elementary needs of a decent life. In the middle of the most advertised prosperity, in the summer of 1926, the Federal Bureau of Labor statistics estimated that the average wages for "common labor" were 43.6 cents an hour. The United States Department of Labor was forced to admit that many millions of workers are receiving wages of only $10.34 a week.

President Coolidge made the bold declaration that "the people are prosperous," but reality shows that people work on starvation wages, that the overwhelming majority of the nearly 60 per cent of the workers still work more than 48 hours a week, that women and children, Negro and foreign-born unskilled workers are exploited at least as mercilessly as the most exploited strata of the European working class. The prosperity of the "people" is best illustrated by the miserable shacks of the Southern cotton fields and the poverty-stricken slums of the Eastern cities. In his 1926 address to Congress President Coolidge said: "The power of the purse is the power over liberty." A handful of millionaires exercise power over the purse, and they exercise power over the liberty of the overwhelming majority of the United States. A handful of powerful millionaires own all the means of production—the factories, machinery, mines, railroads, water power—of this country, and are thus in a position to force the overwhelming majority of the people into wage slavery. The wealth of the few is the poverty of the many; the liberty of the few is the bondage of the masses.

Indictment of American Capitalism

Overproduction and starvation, overtime and unemployment, accumulation of wealth and accumulation of poverty—these are the features of capitalist prosperity for the workers and working farmers. The very fact that there can be such a thing as overproduction as long as the needs of every member of society are still unsatisfied is the most terrible indictment against capitalist economy. Capitalist society is unable to control its own forces of production. As the President of the United States Chamber of Commerce put it in his speech of May 10, 1928: "there has been an economic thunderbolt of increasing production unloosed by industry."

Unemployment is a permanent phenomenon in capitalist society. There is at any time 1½ million unemployed. The constant industrial reserve army is one of the props of capitalist society. The present depression with its 4 or 5 million unemployed workers brings untold misery. The labor of millions of children is one of the basic institutions of capitalism. Peonage no better than chattel slavery, Jim Crowism, and lynching are acknowledged sources of present day capitalist prosperity. The shameless exploitation of the unskilled foreign-born workers and the oppression of the whole races are parts of the capitalist system. The modern industrial serfdom of company towns is in existence to the glory of the "freest" constitution in the world. Capitalist industry conducts in the form of industrial accidents extermination against the working class. The infamous speed-up system causes the workers to age prematurely. Old workers are thrown away like slack, like useless by-products. Not less than 1,800,000 old people are forced to live the life of "dependents." Sickness and early death are the punishment for poverty. The United States Public Health Service states: "Both sickness and death are much more frequent among those with low incomes than among those with incomes adequate to comfortable living."

Capitalist decency and morality is symbolized by almshouses, brothels, slums, and bootleg saloons. Prostitution of science, literature, and art is on the same level as prostitution of women. There is a crusade against the "crime move," against petty larceny by the poor, conducted by those who are guilty of large-scale corruption and lobbying. With the exception of backward and impoverished China and India the powerful and rich and civilized United States is the only country which does not have any social legislation. Jingoism, militarism, robber wars against Nicaragua and China— these are the results of American capitalism.

President Coolidge summed up in the following way his picture of American capitalism: "Those are some of the economic results which have accrued from the American principles of reliance upon the initiative and the freedom of the individual. It is the very antithesis of Communism." And President Coolidge is right. American capitalism as it is—with all its economic, political, and moral results—is the very antithesis of Communism. There is no other alternative. The issue is capitalism or Communism. The Workers Communist Party of America declares itself the deadly enemy of capitalism. It has as its aim the overthrow of capitalism, the establishment of a workers' and farmers' government, the establishment of a Communist society in which the means of production will not be the private property of the few, a society which will not be based on profit but on labor, which will not be founded on class divisions, which will eradicate imperialist wars as well as class wars, which will be able to eliminate poverty.

The Parties of Big and Small Business

With the exception of the Workers (Communist) Party all political parties and groups are defenders of the present capitalist society.

The two old capitalist parties, the Republican and Democratic, are the twin brothers in the expression of the interests of the bosses.

The Republican Party, which in the interests of the then revolutionary capitalism conducted a war against chattel slavery, is today working in the interests of the new counter-revolutionary capitalism for the perpetuation of wage slavery. The Republican Party of today is nothing but the party of trusts, of finance capital, of the biggest business interests of the country.

The Democratic Party was in the early stages of its history the party of slavery, against Northern capitalism and in the interests of the Southern plantation owners. Today, though many times masked with phrases of liberalism, it stands for the perpetuation of the peonage of Negroes in the South and for the maintenance of wage slavery throughout the country.

There are no real political differences between the two big political parties. Both are parties of capitalism; both are the enemies of the working class. The very existence of the two-party system is the most reactionary factor in American politics, is one of the factors which is responsible for the lack of an independent mass political party of the working class. Both capitalist parties try to put up the semblance of being defenders of the farmers, vying with each other in putting forward fake "farm relief" measures. The "struggle" between the Republican and Democratic parties is a staged fight, a mock struggle. There are no political issues between these two parties. On the question of tariff, prohibition, taxation, imperialist war, farm relief, League of Nations, and all other discussed political issues there is much more division within each party than between the two parties.

The main slogan of the Republican Party today is "Prosperity." But reality shows depression and unemployment. The main slogan of the Democratic Party is: "Honesty in Government." But reality shows at least as much corruption on the party of Democrats as on that of the Republicans. Tammany Hall can successfully compete in corruption with Teapot Dome.

There are several classes combined in each of these parties. Both still mirror in many respects the old sectional and regional groupings of the country, but in both there is an outspoken, decisive dominance of finance capital. Both are one of the basic issues: the oppression of the working class, the maintenance of the exploitation of the workers and working farmers, and the robber policies against the colonies and semi-colonies of American imperialism.

The group of so-called Progressives is by no means better than the Republican "Old Guard" of the Democratic heroes of Tammany Hall and the "solid" South. In 1924 the bulk of the so-called progressive group supported the LaFollette movement, which betrayed the interests of the working class and the working farmers and helped to lead into peaceful channels the discontent of the masses. In 1926 the attitude of the so-called Progressives is still more cowardly. They have even deserted the idea of a third party, and have gone back meekly into the old capitalist parties. Senator Wheeler came out openly in support of Al Smith who is the embodiment of the new Tammany Hall, who is the hero of the labor-smashing policies in the needle trades. Senators Borah and Norris and their Republican colleagues are equally untrustworthy. Borah's empty gesture of "outlawing" war serves only as a cover for Kellogg's imperialist wars and war preparations. Senator Shipstead, who still usurps the name of Farmer-Laborite, is betraying the interests of the workers and exploited farmers in the most shameless way, is supporting the anti-labor injunction policies of the courts and the Nicaraguan war. These "progressive" Senators and Congressmen are in many respects more dangerous enemies of the workers and working farmers than the official spokesmen of big business, because they hide their capitalist face and create illusions in the minds of the masses. All these Progressives and semi-Progressives serve as a group of the pesent capitalist society and must be combatted by all honest workers and farmers.

The official leadership of the trade unions, the whole bureaucracy of the American Federation of Labor, is today part and parcel of American imperialism. Under the leadership of the most corrupt trade-union bureaucracy in the world the A. F. of L. has become a mere organization of the labor aristocracy, an instrument of class collaboration with the bosses instead of a means of struggle against big business. The capitalists are conducting the most murderous offensive of the open shop and wage cuts against the workers. The answer of the leaders of the A. F. of L. is a joint proposal with the American Bar Association for a Federal anti-strike law. The trade-union bureaucrats are today the partners of the bosses. They are trying to wrench the weapon of the strike from the hands of the workers. The whole infamous system of labor banks and trade-union insurance, trade-union capitalism is nothing but the most elaborate system of class betrayal. The leadership of the A. F. of L. does not conduct any struggle against wage cuts or for higher wages and shorter hours. The trade-union bureaucracy sabotages the great task of organizing the unorganized. The worthy heirs of Gomper—Green, Woll and Co.—are the advocates of the "Monroe Doctrine of Labor" are the spokesmen of a "labor imperialism." They have come out openly for a policy of common exploitation of all Latin-American peoples by the capitalists and workers of the United States. The B. and O. plan, the Mitten plan, compulsory arbitration, the transformation of the trade unions into semi-Fascist and semi-company unions—is today the policy of the A. F. of L. These corrupt misleaders of labor are helping to keep the workers in the camp of the old capitalist parties by maintaining the sterile and treacherous policy of "reward your friends and punish your enemies" within the capitalist parties. There cannot be a successful revolutionary mass movement of the working class in America without smashing the whole edifice of the labor aristocracy and its corrupt bureaucratic leadership.

The Socialist Party of America, which still claims to be a working class party, is in fact a party of the lower middle class. Its leadership has become part of the bureaucracy of the A. F. of L. Its whole ambition is to inherit the traditions of the La Follette third-party movement. The militant spirit of Eugene Debs has been completely wiped out from the Socialist Party. In Wisconsin the Socialist Party is an official party of the capitalist administration. In New York the Socialist Party has substituted the red-white and blue flag of patriotism for the red flag of revolution. In Reading the city officials of the Socialist Party have pledged themselves to "understand that their responsibilities will be those of capitalist officials rather than of Socialist Party members." James H. Maurer, one of the councilmen elected by the Socialists in Reading and Vice-presidential candidate of the Socialist Party, declared: "We are going to give the workers a typical working class government, but if there is a strike in Reading while we are in power, the capitalist employer will have his property and life protected as never he had it before."

The Presidential candidate of the Socialist Party, Norman Thomas, is the worst kind of pacifist, a typical Preacher, who performs the greatest service for Mexican imperialism by creating illusions about the League of Nations, about the possibility of preventing wars by peaceful means. The Socialist Party today is an advocate of the League of Nations, and is a supporter of the hypocritical "peace offensive" of Secretary of State Kellogg. The Socialist Party is uttering some critical phrases about the war in Nicaragua not because it is an imperialist war in the interests of Wall Street but only because it is "unauthorized and unsanctioned by the people or Congress."

The Socialist Party of today is for the protection of capitalist law and order, is against revolution, is against the working class government of Soviet Russia, and supports every measure of the A. F. of L. bureaucracy for class collaboration. The Socialist Party has transformed its party organization from a membership organization into a ward organization of voters. It has shifted its class basis from a working class entirely and definitely to the lower middle class. The last national convention of the Socialist Party in April, 1928, went so far as to drop the class struggle pledge that applicants for membership had to sign in the past.

The small sects, the Socialist Labor Party and the Proletarian Party have become completely fossilized, and do not play any role in the political life of the country or in any of the struggles of the working class.

The Workers (Communist) Party is today the only real revolutionary working-class party. It is the sole party which has a program for the workers and working farmers. It is the only party which conducts a relentless struggle against capitalism, against the old parties of the bosses and against the corrupt labor bureaucracy and the treacherous Socialist Party.

The Workers Communist Party is the party of the class struggle. It is the deadly enemy of class collaboration because it is the deadly enemy of capitalism. The Workers Communist Party is the champion of the interests of the working class and the working farmers. It is the advocate of the most exploited stratum of the working class, of the unskilled workers. It is the champion of the oppressed Negro race. It is the organizer of the struggle against imperialism, against imperialist wars. The Workers (Communist) Party is the only Party which fights for the interests of the working class, working farmers, and the oppressed Negro race; and that is the very reason why all the forces of the old capitalist parties, the bureaucrats of the A. F. of L. and the leaders of the Socialist Party are united against the Communists. The Republicans, Democrats, Socialists, and labor bureaucrats have a common platform. That platform is Red-baiting, anti-Communist.

In its 1928 election campaign the Workers (Communist) Party offers the following program against trustified capital and in the interests of the working class, working farmers, and oppressed Negro race:

The Curse of Unemployment.

There is a heavy economic depression over the country with a very heavy unemployment in its wake. Bread-lines are long. Hypocritical "charity" is in its flower. Even conservative Senators estimate the number of unemployed at four million.

The curse of unemployment is the most terrible plight of the working class. The cyclical crises of capitalist industry bring with them time and again the untold sufferings of mass unemployment. But there is unemployment not only at times of crises; it is here at all times. Unemployment on a mass scale is a "normal" phenomenon of this glorious capitalist society.

The very technical progress—the development of new machinery, the increased productivity of labor—becomes under capitalist conditions a source of growing unemployment. The introduction of new machines has decreased the number of workers. The opening up of new markets cannot keep pace with the speedy development of technique. The introduction of machinery makes the skill of the workers superfluous. Large masses of unskilled workers can take the place of the skilled. The time of apprenticeship is being greatly shortened. Young workers and even children can take the place of adults. A growing number of women are entering into industry.

The introduction of machinery creates the basis for mass production. Mass production with its murderous competition ruins the lower middle class and drives its members as workers into the industries. Monopoly capitalism ruins the farmers and forces them to sell their labor power as industrial workers in the cities. Mass production opens up hitherto backward agrarian regions industrially. A large-scale industrialization of the South is taking place, and has driven hundreds of thousands of Negroes into the industries. Despite all prohibition of immigration there is an annual influx of hundreds of thousands of workers from other countries.

Under present capitalist conditions, it is inevitable that there be a constant industrial reserve army of jobless. Even in the best periods of prosperity, the number of jobless is estimated at one and a half million. In 1927, the factories produced 26 per cent more than in 1919. During this same period, the number of wage-earners employed in manufacturing decreased by not less than 980,000. Eleven per cent fewer wage-earners than in 1919 produced in manufacturing in 1927, 26 per cent more products. In other words, each worker produced 42 per cent more. The same tendency manifests itself everywhere. The railways had in 1927 almost 200,000 less workers than in 1919. The number of "superfluous" miners is near to a quarter of a million. In manufacturing, mining and railroading, there were almost one and a half million fewer workers employed by the end of 1927 than in 1919. During the last few years, there has been a continuous movement of population from the farms to the cities. In 1925, 834,000, in 1925, 1,020,000, in 1927, 604,000 more persons left the farms for cities than the cities for the farms. A large proportion of these bankrupt and ruined farmers became industrial workers or rather tried to become industrial workers. Even Secretary of Labor Davis has been forced to raise the question:

"Is automatic machinery driven by relentless power going to leave on our hands a state of chronic and increasing unemployment? Is the machinery that turns out our wealth also to create poverty? Is it giving us a permanent jobless class?"

A capitalist writer characterizes the present unemployment as a "technological unemployment, not cyclical—an unemployment developing gradually, almost unawares, like creeping paralysis, in the midst of unprecedented prosperity, the by-product of improved technological efficiency."

Unemployment is indeed the "creeping paralysis" of capitalist society. It represents the most vicious contradiction of the present economic order. The more machinery, the higher the productivity of labor, the more unemployed. Labor itself produces unemployment. Unemployment of one part produces overtime for the other part of the working class. The pressure of unemployment forces wage-earners to accept jobs at lower wages and longer hours. The fear of unemployment is the most powerful chain which binds the workers to wage slavery. The fear of unemployment increases competition among the workers. Unemployment lowers the power of resistance of the workers on the job. The working wage-earners are forced to accept overtime. Overtime again makes new masses of wage-earners superfluous. Unemployment creates overtime, and overtime creates unemployment. The bigger the factories, the more expensive the machinery, the greater is the tendency of the capitalists to lengthen the working time instead of increasing the number of workers. Hand in hand with the increasing accumulation of capital goes a relative and today even an absolute decrease in the number of workers.

The hypocritical advocates of capitalism lament about the existence of unemployment and call it the "greatest blot on our capitalist system" (Owen D. Young), but in fact the existence of a constant industrial reserve army is not a hindrance to capitalism. Quite the contrary. It is one of the basic conditions for the existence and maintenance of capitalism. Technical development, new inventions, the introduction of new labor saving machinery, will not cease. The opening up of new markets will not go at the same speed as heretofore. The industrialization of the colonies, the increasing competition with Europe, the existence of non-capitalistic Soviet Russia, and the revolt of the colonial peoples are the narrowing limitations.

The present depression is not an "accident." It has been brought about by prosperity itself. Disproportion between production and consumption, which is a part of the general anarchy of capitalist production, is responsible for cyclical crises. Saturation of the automobile and building construction markets, overproduction of oil, the world coal crisis, the migration of the textile industry to the South, the limits of installment buying, the restriction of the farmers' market, the effects of American export of capital and of the stabilization of Europe, the increased competition with Europe—these are the basic features of the present economic depression.

There is no cure for unemployment under capitalism.

Shortening of the working day alone would not do away with unemployment. A general shortening of the working day would result in general part-time work, in perpetual overproduction, would bring about a crisis in permanence.

High wages alone cannot cure unemployment. It is futile to try to "convince" the capitalists to increase wages for the purpose of increasing the purchasing power of the workers. The capitalists will never sacrifice a portion of their profits, by transforming it into wages for the purpose of broadening the home market. Just the opposite is the policy of imperialist capitalism. It is cutting wages everywhere, and trying to increase its exports for the foreign markets.

Neither can public works alone cure unemployment. Public works would tend to increase the forces of production, and would in the long run tend to reproduce unemployment on a larger scale. Higher wages, shorter hours, and public works would not cure unemployment, but might bring about a certain limited and temporary relief.

Unemployment is a world phenomenon today. The constant industrial reserve army has always been in existence, but the present chronic unemployment has assumed such proportions that it is no longer a prop of capitalism but an organic defect, one of the basic sicknesses of postwar capitalism. Unemployment is a horrible curse upon the working class. It is the most powerful weapon in the hands of the bosses. It chains the worker to wage slavery. It brings tormenting uncertainty into the life of every wage-earner. It breaks up the family of the worker by driving the women and children into the factories. It brings about moral degradation, creates a slum proletariat. There follows in its wake a growing criminality. It is the foundation of prostitution. In other words, it embodies and sums up capitalism as a whole.

Demands.

1. Unemployment insurance. A federal system of unemployment insurance should be established. A federal law must be enacted immediately by Congress providing for unemployment insurance for all wage-earners without ony exceptions or disqualifications. The amount of compensation shall be full wages for the entire period of unemployment, the maximum to be $30 per week. An unemployment insurance fund shall be created, fifty per cent to be contributed by the employers and fifty per cent by the state. The amount contributed by the state shall be raised by special taxes levied against inheritance, high income, and corporation profits. The administration of unemployment insurance shall be carried by unemployment insurance commissions, composed of representatives of trade unions, organizations of the unemployed, and factory committees.

2. Immediate enactment of a federal law providing for a general 40-hour, 5-day week working time and forbidding all overtime.

3. A federal law should be enacted providing for immediate emergency help for all workers who have been unemployed two months or more, consisting of eight weeks' wages for each worker. The average received during the last four weeks of unemployment shall serve as the basis.

"No Capitalist Cure for Unemployment 'Creeping Paralysis' of Capitalism"

4. Establishment of public kitchens by municipalities to provide for all unemployed workers and their families.

5. Municipal provision for supplying free medical treatment, medicine and hospital care to all unemployed.

6. Public works. The federal, state and city governments should devise schemes for improving the roads and bridges of the country, improving the rivers, canals, docks and harbors, setting up electric power stations, reforestation, land drainage and land reclamation, extension and electrification of railways. On all public works trade union wages and conditions must be guaranteed by law.

7. Immediate abolition of all vagrancy laws. Protection of unemployed workers from arrest on charges of vagrancy.

The Offensive of the Bosses.

The working class of this country is facing a great crisis. A general offensive of the bosses is being conducted against the workers, an offensive to smash the whole trade union movement, to lower the standard of living of all workers.

The trustification of capital, the erection of huge monopolies, the all-embracing nationalization have increased the power of the bosses tremendously.

The capitalists are using all methods of rationalization mercilessly. Wage-cuts everywhere—in the shoe, textile, automobile and rubber industries and in mining. A whole system of speed-up has been put in operation. The stop watch, group piece work, bonus system, efficiency engineering, the conveyor or travelling-belt system, increase mass production and intensify the exploitation of the workers. Concentration of industries, Fordization, technical innovations, and the wholesale introduction of new machinery is the order of the day. The lengthening of working hours is attempted everywhere, with especially disastrous results for the unskilled workers. An injunction mania raves against every movement of the workers to resist the effects of rationalization. All the forces of the government—the police, state constabulary, the coal and iron police, the most infamous spy system—are mobilized against the workers. The open-shop drive, the "American Plan," is today the official policy of the capitalist class on the whole front. Company unions are being set up by the bosses, and strenuous attempts are being made to company-unionize all existing trade unions. All the combined forces of the bosses and their government are concentrated to prevent the organization of the unorganized masses in the basic industries.

The trade union bureaucracy of the A. F. of L. has met the general offensive of the bosses by a general surrender. There has never been in the history of labor such a shameful capitulation as the treachery of the A. F. of L. leadership and of the Socialist Party in the present grave situation of the American labor movement. Instead of fighting the shameful efforts of capitalist rationalization, these misleaders try to cooperate in introducing speed-up systems and capitalist efficiency. They put forward the "union-management cooperation" policy. They babble about "industrial democracy." They have elaborated the "higher strategy of labor," the notorious theory of Matthew Woll about the three stages of the American labor movement: the stages of conflict, of collective bargaining and of worker-employer cooperation. They proclaim the passing of war and truce and the coming of the age of permanent peace between the bosses and the workers. The trade union bureaucracy has dropped the last semblance of any resistance to company-unionizing the trade unions. They have come out openly for the Watson-Parker Bill and for a federal anti-strike law. They have dropped their previous petty trust-busting program and have become the high apostles of "efficient" trusts.

The results of the offensive of the bosses and the treachery of the trade union bureaucrats is the growing crisis in the labor movement. Trustified industry is out for a general open shop. The trade unions have been driven out from all basic industries. For the first time in the history of the A. F. of L. the number of organized workers has decreased even during a period of prosperity. The climax of the struggle was reached in the present fight of the United Mine Workers of America. This most powerful and most militant unit of the American labor movement has now been broken to pieces and delivered to the mercy of the operators.

The present depression has ruthlessly exposed the notorious formula of the trade union bureaucracy about "mass production, high wages and low prices" as the foundation of permanent prosperity. Millions of workers are jobless, desperately walking the streets. The crisis in the labor movement and the depression have exposed the true meaning of all class-collaboration plans. They show up the so-called profit-sharing, employee stock-buying, group insurance, B. and O. plan, Mitten scheme, and other systems of "union-management cooperation." The smash-up of the labor bank of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers is beginning to open the eyes of the workers to the disastrous effects of trade union capitalism.

Despite all the treachery of the labor bureaucrats, the workers are beginning to resist. The long struggle of the textile workers in Passaic, the Haverhill shoe strike, the battle of the Colorado miners, the firm and solid front of the needle trades workers in New York, the strike struggle of the textile workers in New Bedford and Fall River, and the heroic struggle of the Pennsylvania and Ohio miners who have already maintained their fight against the whole world for fourteen months, are the first powerful signs of the defensive struggle of the working class. Despite all the sabotage of the misleaders of labor, the vast masses of unorganized workers are beginning to organize themselves. The first attempts to organize the automobile workers have been made. The needle trades workers and the textile workers are being organized into independent unions. The mill committee movement of the textile workers, the shop chairmen movement of the needle trades, and the Save-the-Union movement of the miners are the most promising signs of a fighting future.

The Workers (Communist) Party of America considers it as its duty to mobilize the masses for a relentless struggle against all harmful effects of capitalist rationalization. The workers must understand that rationalization in a capitalist society, with the means of production in private hands, can only intensify the exploitation of the workers. Rationalization in the interests of the whole of society can be carried out only in a Communist society in which the means of production are the property of the whole nation.

Demands.

1. Shorter hours of labor. A 5-day week. A minimum of 36 consecutive hours rest in seven days.

2. Fight for high wages. Strike against wage cuts.

3. Fight for the protection of the workers from the bad effects of capitalist rationalization, of the technical advances of mass production. Struggle against the speed-up system.

4. Organize the unorganized. The American working class cannot successfully resist the power of the trusts without building up a powerful organization of the workers in the basic industries.

5. Destroy company unions. Abolish the B. and O. and Mitten plans. Eradicate trade union capitalism.

6. Save the unions from the onslaught of the bosses and the treachery of the bureaucrats. Amalgamation of craft unions into industrial unions. Democratization of the trade unions. The present corrupt leadership must be driven out.

7. Trade union methods alone cannot wage a successful fight. Trade union struggle must be supplemented by political struggle.

The Heroic Struggle of the Unions.

There has never been a more heroic struggle than the present strike of the hundreds of thousands of miners. They are fighting against the whole capitalist world. They are not only up against the coal operators, who are in close alliance with the big railroad companies and banks and backed by the government, but are also betrayed by their own leaders.

There is a deep-going crisis in the mining industry. The industry is unorganized. Production is in a chaotic state. Each of the 7,000 coal companies produces as much as it can. There is a murderous competition for markets. The mines are able to produce twice as much coal today as industry and consumers can absorb. The operators are closing down mine after mine, creating heavy unemployment. At the same time, the new labor-saving machinery is being introduced, aggravating the unemployment situation everywhere. The miners are being forced to increase their daily output by speed-up and longer working hours, this making themselves in growing numbers superfluous. The operators say that the industry is faced with the problem: either it must get rid of its superfluous coal or its superfluous miners. They are driving out 250,000 miners from the industry.

The government has exposed itself frankly as the instrument of the operators in the present struggle. It has mobilized everything against the miners. Courts, injunctions, the national guard, state constabulary, judges and sheriffs are at the service of the operators. Every miner must now clearly see that the government is but the organization of the bosses. The operators themselves sit in the government. The Secretary of the Treasury, Mellon, a member of President Coolidge's cabinet, is one of the biggest shareholders of the most unscrupulous Pittsburgh Coal Company. The governor of Pennsylvania, Fisher, was a member of the board of directors of the Clearfield Coal Company. The officials of the government are either the bosses themselves or their paid agents. In the company towns the coal operators exercise directly state power in the form of coal and iron police and company gunmen. The coal operators there own everything—land, streets, buildings, stores. The local judges and sheriffs are paid by the operators, as has been proved by the Senate Investigating Committee. The Senate Investigating Committee itself is nothing but a smoke screen to deceive the workers, to create illusions in the minds of the miners. The miners have no constitutional rights in the "freest" country in the world. And there can not be any real democracy and freedom in a society in which the few own everything and the masses do not own anything.

The miners must win the present strike. To win the strike means higher wages and better conditions. But they cannot win the strike unless they get rid of their present leaders. The Lewis machine is nothing but the agent of the bosses in the union. It sold out the struggle of the miners to the operators and to the government. The Lewis machine does not want to win the strike. Its whole history is but an uninterrupted betrayal of all the fights of the miners. It betrayed the miners in 1919, in 1922, in 1925, and it has betrayed them in the most shameless way in the present struggle.

District after district was lost for the United Mine Workers under the leadership of the Lewis machine. In 1919 the miners' strike tied up 70 per cent of production; the present strike only 20 per cent. The Lewis machine criminally neglected the necessary preparation for the strike. It sabotaged the organization of the unorganized. It has signed up individual agreements. It has betrayed the cause of a national agreement. It has split the movement by ousting everybody from the union who wants a militant struggle. It is cutting off relief from every striking miner who dares to criticize it. It is trying to enforce a yellow dog pledge of starvation. The last vestiges of democracy have been eradicated from the union. Lewis stole the elections. The Lewis machine is not a leadership set up by the rank and file, but a leadership set up with the aid of the bosses over the rank and file. From June to December 1927, while the striking miners were starving on a dollar or two relief Lewis drew $11,093.66 in salary and personal expenses.

The mining industry is in a crisis. The issue is: Who shall pay the expenses of the crisis? Shall it be solved at the cost of the operators, or of the miners? The miners, and with them the whole labor movement, must multiply their efforts to combat the onslaught of the operators. The defeat of the miners would be a defeat for the whole labor movement.

Demands.

1. Lewis must go. The rank and file must take over the union.

2. The unorganized miners must be organized. The big organization drive must be intensified and sped up.

3. Win the Pennsylvania and Ohio strike. Insist on a national agreement. Fight against wage cuts and for the Jacksonville scale. Mass picketing and mass violation of injunctions against the workers. Mass resistance to evictions.

4. It is the duty of the whole labor movement to organize relief for the starving and struggling miners.

5. Railroad workers, don't haul scab coal!

Colonies and Imperialist War.

Increasing rivalry with the other imperialist powers and brutal exploitation of the economically weaker, more backward peoples—these two features characterize the foreign policy of United States imperialism at present.

Wall Street's dollars and marines are extending their domination over ever greater sections of the world. Wherever there is a revolutionary upheaval United States imperialism is on hand and ready to crush it. United States imperialism is in a conspiracy with Great Britain against the Russian revolution. It cooperates with Japan and England in the interventions against China. United States imperialism supported Great Britain in her ruthless intervention in Shantung. United States warships and thousands of marines are "pacifying" China, and Washington admits that Admiral Bristol is empowered to call out the whole Pacific fleet against China if United States imperialist policy requires it. United States imperialism goes hand in hand with Japanese imperialism in Shantung against the armies of Chiang Kai-Shek, but at the same time its representative, Admiral Bristol, cooperates with Chiang Kai-Shek in crushing Soviet Russia.

The military dictatorship of United States imperialism is exercised more ruthlessly than ever before over the Philippines, Hawaii, Porto Rico, the Panama Canal Zone and the Virgin Islands, Cuba, Haiti, Panama and Liberia are today reduced to vassal states of United States imperialism. The independence of all the Caribbean and Central American republics has become more than a tragic farce in view of their increased bondage to Wall Street. The Havana Conference, which was called in the name of Pan-Americanism, was only the instrument of United States imperialism. The Monroe Doctrine, which once served as a defense against European powers, is today the most aggressive means to conquer all America for the United States. The pressure of Wall Street forced Mexico to surrender her natural oil and land resources to dollar imperialism. The appointment of Morrow, the employee of Morgan, as United States Ambassador to Mexico exposes the whole Latin-American policy of the United States as the policy of finance capitalists. The fake "good will" flights of Colonel Lindbergh tried to exploit the sentimental illusions of the North American masses for the conquest of Latin America. Large parts of Central America and South America have already been reduced to a state of semi-colonies of United States imperialism, and Wall Street and its White House agency are trying to transform them into true colonies.

The most disgraceful action of United States imperialism is its robber war against Nicaragua. President Coolidge disclosed in his speech of the 10th of February, 1927, the true meaning of the Nicaraguan war: "If the revolution in Nicaragua continues, American investments and business interests will be in danger." The infamous, bloody crusade against Nicaragua is the most typical, naked imperialist profit-war ever conducted.

United States imperialism cooperates with British imperialism against China, against Soviet Russia, against Nicaragua; but at the same time there is a murderous competition and increasing imperialist rivalry between the two robber powers. There is hardly any part of the world in which there is no open or covert struggle between English and American imperialism. United States imperialism is breaking up the British Empire by catering to Canada and Australia. United States imperialism has successfully challenged Great Britain's financial hegemony. There is a permanent rubber struggle and oil war going on between America and Great Britain. The fiasco of the Three-Power Naval Limitation Conference in Geneva and the American slogan for a "second to none" navy show the irreconcilable nature of this imperialist antagonism. The present cooperation of the United States government with Japan in China has in it the germs of future conflicts on the Pacific.

The present "peace conference" of Secretary of State Kellogg under the slogan to "outlaw war" is nothing but an imperialist maneuver. United States imperialism aims through the Kellogg treaty to diminish the European big powers, and tries to render futile any attempt of the European powers to build a bloc against United States imperialism. At the same time the Kellogg treaty tries to unite all the capitalist powers, not under the leadership of the League of Nations, but under the leadership of United States imperialism against the Soviet Union. Despite all empty talk about "outlawing" war, imperialist antagonisms are steadily growing, and there is increasing resistance against the aggressive imperialist policies of the United States. The growing competition with Europe, the organization of European trusts and cartels, the tariff issues with Germany, Great Britain and France, the questions of the war debts and the Dawes plan, the domination over the Pacific, the growing revolt of the Latin-American countries—all these conflicts are pregnant with future imperialistic wars.

The whole policy of United States imperialism is today a policy of preparedness for imperialist wars. The entire country is bristling with bayonets. The United States has never before had such a big army and navy. No other country in the world has spent as much for its navy as this country. In 1926-27 Japan sent $119,000,000, the British $299,000,000 and the United States $334,000,000 for navy purposes. In 1928 the appropriation for the United States navy has already reached $369,000,000, and for the army $394,000,000, together $757,000,000. In his last message to Congress, President Coolidge came out openly for the big navy program. On December 14, 1927, the big navy program was introduced into the House of Representatives, appropriating not less than $725,000,000. Federal government expenses for past and future wars amounted to 82 cents out of every dollar spent in 1927. It is estimated that in 1928 Congress will directly or indirectly vote about two billion dollars for military purposes on land and sea and in the air.

United States imperialism is making the most elaborate preparations for war. The workers and working farmers must know that wars under capitalism are inevitable. "Small" wars are going on all the time, even today, and the next big imperialist world war is already looming up. The next world war will be even more devastating than the first one. The whole life of the entire country will be subordinated to war purposes. The whole population will be mobilized. The whole country will be turned into a huge munition factory. The phrase about "outlawing war," the promises about preventing war by arbitration, and the babbling of the socialist party about democratizing the League of Nations of the European robber powers, are only designed for one purpose; they distract the attention of the masses from the war danger, from the real revolutionary struggle against imperialistic wars. Disarmament is impossible under capitalism. Compulsory arbitration is a reactionary utopia and delusion. Only the proletarian revolution can be the way out from the present situation.

Demands.

1. Not a man, not a gun, not a cent for the imperialist army and navy.

2. Down with the imperialist war against Nicaragua. Defeat Wall Wall Street's war in Nicaragua! Marines sent to Nicaragua must refuse to fight against the National Liberation Army.

3. Immediate withdrawals of all American troops from Latin America and from the colonies of the Pacific. Immediate withdrawal of United States warships and marines from China.

4. Complete and immediate independence for all American colonies and semi-colonies.

5. Hands off Mexico.

6. Abolition of the regimes of United States Customs control or "supervision" of finances in Latin America.

7. Abolition of all extra-territoriality privileges of the United States in Asia, Africa and Latin America.

8. Abolition of the present mercenary army and navy, and struggle for a toilers' militia. Election of officers by the soldiers and sailors. Full right to vote and hold office for the members of the military forces.

9. Fight for the abolition of the whole system of infamous imperialist "peace" treaties. Down with the Dawes Plan! Cancellation of all debts of the last imperialist world war! Immediate withdrawal from the World Court and refusal to enter into the League of Nations.

Defense of the Soviet Union.

The whole world is under capitalist domination. The socialist republic of the Soviet Union is the sole country in which there is a Workers' and Farmers' Government. The very existence of the Soviet Union is the best proof that it is possible to overthrow capitalism and emancipate the working class. The example of Soviet Russia shows that socialism is not a dream. It is a fact—and a fact that looms big in the history of mankind—that under the leadership of the Russian workers, a nation of 150 million, not less than one-sixth of the earth, has been able to free itself from the yoke of capitalism and establish a workers' republic (which has maintained power for over ten years in spite of all the capitalists of the world.

The capitalist countries are carrying out a ruthless rationalization at the expense of the workers. Only the Soviet Union is carrying out a Socialist rationalization for the benefit of the nation as a whole. The proletarian dictatorship in the Soviet Union expropriated the capitalists and big landowners. The workers control the industries. The working farmers received the land of the big landowners. Soviet Russia is building Socialism now, and is taking the first steps toward a higher, a collective type of agriculture. There is the most complete system of labor protection and social insurance in Soviet Russia. One of the first steps of the proletarian revolution was the introduction of the 8-hour day and at the tenth anniversary of the existence of the Soviet Republic the Soviet Government established the 7-hour day. While the courts and the government of this country are smashing the unions in the name of the constitution, the Code of Labor Laws, Paragraph 155 of the Soviet Union, runs:

"In accordance with Statute 16 of the Constitution of the Soviet Union, all organs of the State must render to the industrial unions and their organizations every assistance, place at their disposal fully equipped premises to be used as Palaces of Labor and trade union halls; charge reduced rates for public services, such as posts, telegraphs, telephones, railroad and shipping rates, etc."

There is a sinister conspiracy of all capitalist powers against the Socialist Soviet Union. Great Britain is the leader of the imperialist coalition, but the United States government is actively participating in it. The United States government refuses to recognize the Soviet Government, to recognize the very existence of one of the most powerful countries in the world, for the sole reason that the workers, and not the capitalists run that country. The United States government and its officials seize upon every opportunity to fight the Soviet Union. Ambassador Herrick's shameful statements in Paris, the American loans to finance the anti-Soviet policies of Poland and Finland, and the rejection of the goldbullion sent to the United States are convincing proofs of the hostile policy of United States imperialism toward Soviet Russia.

The Soviet Union is the only power which has reduced its military forces. It made the historic offer at the last international conference at Geneva for an immediate and complete disarmament of all countries. The capitalist governments refused to accept the proposal of the Soviet Union because the very nature of capitalism is aggression, oppression, and war. All capitalist armies are deadly enemies of the working class, but the Red Army of workers and peasants of the Soviet Union is the defender of the working class of the whole world. The solidarity of the working class of all countries must be with the only Workers' Republic in the world.

Demands.

1. Defend the Socialist Republic of the Soviet Union, the champion of the cause of the working class of all countries, against the conspiracies of the capitalist powers.

2. Immediate recognition of the Soviet Government by the United States Government.

3. Promotion of trade with the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics by the granting of sufficient credits by the Federal Government, as a means of stimulating American industry and absorbing the unemployed.

4. Establishment of direct connections between the American and Russian working class.

Capitalist Democracy and the Government-Strikebreaker

Many workers foster illusions as to the possibility of achieving their emancipation from the oppression and exploitation of capitalism through the election of a majority of the members of the legislative bodies and executive officials of the capitalist government. The American Federation of Labor and the Socialist Party help to maintain these dangerous and futile illusions. The national platform of the Socialist Party states: "By intelligent use of the ballot, aided if need be by industrial action, all class divisions and class rule can be abolished." It is one of the foremost duties of the Communists to destroy such illusions and to expose all those yellow Socialist misleaders of the workers who help to create these illusions.

The present government is a government of the capitalists. It cannot be transformed into a government of the working class, and its sole purpose is to defend the interests of private property and oppress the workers, working farmers, the Negro masses, and the colonial peoples.

The Constitution of the United States was drawn up by bankers, big land-owners, and rich merchants of 1787, admittedly against the working masses. As Madison, the "Father of the Constitution," put it, the Government ought "to protect the minority of the opulent against the majority. It is an illusion to think that the majority of the people of the United States can change the Constitution. The vote of two-thirds of the members of the legislative bodies of three-fourths of the forty-eight states is required to initiate any movement for an amendment. On this basis one-fourth of the States, which may be the smallest ones and in which there may live only one-fourteenth of the population, can prevent any change of the so-called "democratic" Constitution.

The Constitution contains a whole series of notorious "checks and balances" for the sole purpose of making it impossible for a majority antagonistic to the ruling class to make its will effective. The members of the House of Representatives are elected every two years, the President every four years, and the members of the Senate every six years, so that a complete change of Government can be made only through elections spread over six years. The elections are not at the same time, because the Father of the Constitution wanted to give a chance for the "cooling off" of any mass discontent which might express itself in the elections. The Senate has a veto over the decisions of the House. A special joker of the Constitution is that a newly elected Congress cannot come into session until thirteen months after its election, thus giving a chance to the repudiated Congress to intrench its will by new legislation. The President can veto the actions of both houses of Congress, and over and above the House, the Senate, and the President stands the Supreme Court, which can nullify laws which all three have passed, declaring these laws unconstitutional.

Only a minority of the people entitled to vote participate in the elections, and large sections of the population of voting age are disfranchised. In the South the 5.7 million Negroes of voting age are today as much disfranchised as in the darkest days of chattel slavery. The 6.3 million foreign-born, unnaturalized workers of voting age are disfranchised because they are "aliens." The disfranchised Negroes and foreign-born workers together constitute almost 20 per cent of the population of voting age. The youth between the ages of 18 and 21 is entirely disfranchised. The hundreds of thousands of migratory workers, who cannot comply with the residential qualifications, are likewise robbed of their elementary political rights.

The two-party system, which in the South is in reality only a one-party system, is again one of the props of American democracy, preventing the splitting-off of the bulk of the working class and working farmers from the parties of big business.

Elections are very expensive in this country. Campaign funds are huge; they run into millions, and big business is able to buy as many and as high offices as it likes. On the other hand, working class parties, which rely only on the support of the exploited workers and farmers, are poor and are not able to compete with the rich capitalist parties.

Big business controls thousands of newspapers. Thirty million copies of poisonous capitalist propaganda every day fill the minds of the masses. Big business has a monopoly of the schools, churches, moving picture theaters, radio, and the whole machinery of propaganda and agitation.

And when, despite all obstacles and barriers, some representatives elected by the votes of the working class get into the legislative bodies, big business prevents their functioning by simply kicking them out. This was done in the case of the Socialist members of the Cleveland City Council because they protested against the imperialist war. The same procedure was repeated in the case of the Socialist Assemblymen of New York State.

Under such circumstances to prate about "democracy" is hypocrisy and conscious betrayal of the working class. The present big business democracy of the United States is in reality nothing but a dictatorship of the capitalists. The 1928 election platform of the Socialist Party, which accepts the present constitution as a basis and demands only a "modernized Constitution," is thereby accepting the present capitalist State and the perpetuation of the oppression of the working class.

And if there is anything big business is unable to push through by "constitutional" means, it does it unscrupulously by unconstitutional means. Corruption is inseparable from capitalist government. There are very few countries in the world which show such a rich picture of governmental corruption. The Teapot Dome scandal, the Sinclair-Burne affair, the dirty deals of Daugherty and the other members of the Harding-Coolidge cabinet, and the campaign funds of the Republican Hoover and the Democrat Al Smith are but a few examples of the venality of leading politicians. And if any of them are caught, there are still judges and fixed juries to save them. It is proverbial that no rich man has ever been convicted in this country.

Democracy, corruption, and naked force and violence are the chief methods of capitalist dictatorship. Government by injunction, raids and deportations, penitentiaries for political prisoners, troops crushing strikes, frame-ups and lynchings — these are the realities of the unwritten Constitution. Today it is more true than ever before what George Washington, the first President of the United States, said: "Government is not reason; it is not eloquence—it is force."

With imperialism the Government has grown into a mammoth monster of centralization. The country has never had such a huge government apparatus. In 1851 the number of federal civil service employees was only [illegible]; by 1912 it had mounted to [illegible]; while today the figure (exclusive of army and navy forces) is not less than [illegible]. The number of Government employees—Federal, state and local—in the whole country today mounts up to a total of three million. This gigantic apparatus of bureaucracy is entirely in the hands of the capitalists. There is a complete merger of trustified capital and government. The leaders of big business—Hoover, the efficiency expert; Mellon, the richest man in the country; Dawes, the banker; Morrow, the errand boy of Morgan; Hughes, of Standard Oil; Coolidge, the strikebreaker; Fall and Daugherty, the kept men of the oil magnates—have or had seats in the Government. Governmental power is being concentrated more and more in the hands of the executive and judicial departments at the expense of the elected legislative bodies. The President, above all, has assumed almost unlimited power. He has control over appropriations of funds, over tariff, runs the foreign policy of the country, and decides questions of war and peace. The actual constitutional form of the "freest" democracy in the world is today that of an unconstitutional monarchy.

The working class in its struggle for emancipation cannot "take over" the present apparatus of government. The proletarian revolution will destroy this apparatus and will build its own based on the factories as units of production and not on territorial congressional districts. The State form of the rule of the working class will be the councils of the workers, which will serve not as "talking shops" but as working bodies uniting legislative and executive power.

Demands.

1. Abrogation of government by injunction.

2. Prohibition of the use of guards, gun-men, deputy sheriffs, militia or Federal troops in labor struggles.

3. Unrestricted right to organize, to strike, and to picket. Unrestricted right of free speech, free press, and free assemblage for the working class.

4. Abolition of the Senate, of the Supreme Court, and of the veto power of the President.

5. Judges should not be appointed. They should be elected by the working people, and should be removable at any time. Legal aid should be gratis for all wage-earners.

6. Franchise for all foreign-born and migratory workers and for the youth between the ages of 18 and 21. Enforcement of the franchise for the Negroes.

7. Abolition of the anti-syndicalist laws and the Espionage Act.

8. Repeal of all industrial court laws.

9. Abolition of secret anti-labor organizations.

10. Abolition of censorship over moving pictures, theaters, radio.

11. Immediate release of all political prisoners.

A Labor Party.

There are many strikes and labor struggles in this country, but there is no political mass party of the working class in the United States which can today rally millions of wage-earners. America is the only highly developed industrial country in the world in which the bulk of the working class is not yet politically independent. IT IS A MOST VITAL NECESSITY THAT THE MASSES OF WORKERS SHOULD UNDERSTAND THAT THE ECONOMIC STRUGGLE MUST BE SUPPLEMENTED BY POLITICAL STRUGGLE. Without economic fights, without building unions and conducting strikes, the workers would be unable to improve their living conditions, hours, and wages. But no permanent gain can be achieved by the weapon of a mere economic struggle. The most powerful trade union can be paralyzed by the almighty Government of the bosses, by its troops and injunctions. The workers may even be robbed of the results of a successful strike, because the increasing cost of living can nullify higher wages. MERE ECONOMIC STRUGGLE CANNOT FREE THE WORKERS FROM EXPLOITATION AND OPPRESSION. Political struggle is also necessary. But it must be political struggle in the interests of the working class and carried on by political organizations of the working class. Many workers participate in political struggles but on the side of the bosses. Today the bulk of the workers—even those who economically, in their trade unions, by their strikes, fight the bosses—support the political parties of the same bosses, the republican and democratic parties. This is a fatal mistake, because it means that the workers themselves help the capitalists to hold their grip on the state power. Those workers who still remain in the camps of the republican and democratic parties are helping the capitalists to be the bosses of the courts, to use injunctions and armed forces to crush the trade unions and to paralyze the strike movements of the workers.

The workers have made several attempts to link up their trade unions and other labor organizations into a labor party. In certain places farmers labor parties are now in existence. The Workers (Communist) Party supports the formation of those labor parties which are based on trade unions and other organizations of the working class. It is willing to participate in the formation of such labor parties, because it considers this the first decisive step toward independent political action by the working class, the first step of the workers to break away from the parties of the bosses. At the same time the Communist Party considers it its duty to tell the workers frankly that a labor party has its limitations and that it will not be able to lead the workers in their final struggle to their emancipation only a Communist Party can do that. Only under the leadership of the Communist Party can the American working class emancipate itself from the double yoke of capitalist exploitation and oppression.

It is to the interest of the workers to participate in all election struggles. It is necessary to fight for the election of workers to the various legislative bodies. It is necessary to run workers' candidates for offices. But it is a dangerous illusion to think that the workers can assume power by electing more and more members of congress or executive officials. The workers can never seize power by the revolution can the working class swing into power. The most important aim of participation in election campaigns is the mobilization of the working masses for the struggle against the bosses. The chief usefulness of representatives in legislative bodies consists in securing a public tribune for the cause of the working class, from whence it is possible to expose the actions of the bosses and arouse the militancy of the masses. The workers must know that political struggle is much broader than mere election struggle. They must know that political struggle is in the interests of the working class only if it is conducted in the form of a politically independent working-class party. The notorious "non-partisan" policy of the A. F. of L., which calls upon the workers "to punish the enemies and reward the friends" within the capitalist parties and capitalism itself. The policy of the socialist party, which promises the workers that they can assume power, abolish classes, and control the industries by the "intelligent use of the ballot," is an equally base betrayal of the working class. The I. W. W., which restricts itself to mere "industrial action" because it is afraid that through political activities it will lose its revolutionary integrity, has actually become a sectarian and reactionary organization.

Demands.

1. Independent political action of the working class, formation of a labor party on a national, state and local scale.
2. A genuine Labor Party must be based on trade unions and other labor organizations, and on factory, mill, and mine committees of the unorganized workers. A genuine Labor Party must exclude all politicians of big and small business, and must include as a true federated body all sections of the working class, without any discrimination, which accept the general principle of the class struggle and are willing to fight for the interests of the workers and exploited farmers.
3. We call upon every worker: Affiliate your trade union to the Labor Party and you yourself join the Workers (Communist) Party.

Social Legislation.

There is hardly any labor protection and even less social insurance in this country. The aim of labor protection is the safeguarding of the workers from the harmful conditions of production. The aim of the United States government today is the safeguarding of the capitalists from the "harmful" effects of trade union organization. There is no law setting a maximum to the working day or against overtime. No law guarantees a weekly rest for the workers. No legal yearly holiday is assured the wage-earners. Very few compulsory rules exist or are enforced for safety and sanitation. Labor inspection is ineffective. America is the leading country of the world in the field of industrial accidents. In industry there occur annually 25,000 fatal accidents and 2½ million accidents causing temporary disability. In 1927 there were no less than 2,224 casualties on the mining field of battle. New York state alone had in 1926-27 in structural iron work not less than 21,606 accident cases which required compensation. In the metal mines there were 2,865 accidents per 10,000 workers. In other words, one worker out of every four was the victim of an accident.

There is no social insurance deserving this name in the United States. No care is taken of the unemployed, of the sick, of the old, of invalids and cripples. No help is given to families of deceased workers. As substitutes there are only the voluntary organizations of fraternal societies. Some of the trade unions try to build up some insurance schemes. All those small-scale organizations are very limited in their effect and mean an additional burden for the workers. The group insurance of the employers means the enslavement of the workers to a certain corporation. The private insurance companies are fleecing the working masses. There is a general lack of security in the life of the working class of America. No worker grows old as fast as the American worker. Speed-up and lack of labor protection drives him to premature old age. Scores of poisons, extreme heat and dampness and dust, and lack of sanitary measures ruin the health of the toilers.

The lack of labor protection and social insurance in the United States, in the richest capitalist country in the world, is brought out in bold relief by comparison with the Workers' Republic of the Soviet Union. The Socialist Republic of Soviet Russia has the most complete system of labor protection and social insurance. Her social insurance provides the following benefits: temporary disability benefits; benefits for child birth, infant nursing, burial of insured persons and members of their families; pensions for widows; permanent disability benefits; pensions to family in event of bread-winner's death; unemployed benefits; maintenance of rest homes, sanatoria, and health resorts for workers; free medical aid.

In Soviet Russia all forms of social insurance are under the management of the workers and are maintained at the expense of the state. Factory inspection and all state protection of labor organs are under the direct control of the trade unions. Compulsory yearly vacations on pay are assured. The 7-hour day is guaranteed by law. The law forbids systematic overtime. There is a legal weekly rest of 42 hours. Special protection of women and children in industry has been enacted. A large range of sanitation and safety measures in all factories has been instituted.

There is a world of difference between the lack of labor protection and social insurance in the United States of America and the complete system of labor protection and social insurance in the United States of Socialist Russia—the difference between a capitalist and a socialist country.

Demands.

1. Federal law for social insurance in the case of sickness, accident, old age, and unemployment for all wage-earners. The administration of all social insurance measures should be in the hands of the workers. The expenses should be covered by the state and the employers.
2. Federal law for the enactment of the 40-hour, 5-day week, forbidding all overtime. The law shall provide for a six-hour working day in especially dangerous industries. Immediate enactment of a federal law providing for 36 consecutive hours of weekly rest for all wage-earners.
3. Federal law for compulsory rules and technical measures for safety and sanitation.
4. Establishment of effective labor inspection; inspectors to be elected by the workers themselves.
5. Free medical treatment, medicine, and hospital care for all wage-earners.

Tariff and Taxation.

The propaganda agencies of the bosses are spreading the fallacy that the workers do not pay taxes. In reality the workers and working farmers are the classes of society which bear the burden of the bulk of all taxation.

Direct and indirect taxation and tariff revenues weigh down upon the shoulders of the working masses. The taxes are the basis of public expenditures. Public expenditures, however, are nothing but the costs of maintenance of the state apparatus of big business. The collection of taxes from the masses is a method by which the exploited are forced to pay the expenses for the upkeep of the system of exploitation and oppression.

Both parties of big business have been vying with each other for years to lighten as much as possible the burden of taxation for the big capitalists, transferring the burden of taxation to the backs of the workers and exploited farmers. The various tax-reduction plans of the government have had only one signal aim: to cut the taxes of the rich and to cut even more the taxes of the richest. Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, who himself is one of the richest men in the country, is brazenly following the policy of cutting down the super-tax on high incomes, and declares that he is against tax exemption of low incomes, on the ground that the payment of taxes creates for people with low incomes "a sense of part ownership in the government." The most outrageous privileges are enjoyed by the parasitic owners of federal, state and municipal securities. This rentier class, which is completely divorced from the process of production and whose only connection with industry is coupon-clipping, owns today no less than 16 billion dollars of such securities, which are wholly exempt from all taxation.

The most vicious form of indirect taxation is the tariff. The tariff raises the cost of living for the working class, and increases the price of industrial goods bought by the farmers. The United States has the highest tariffs in the world, despite the fact that the industries of this country are the most highly developed and enjoy the strongest position.

Trust monopoly and tariff go together. The chief function of tariff is to secure unlimited monopoly to the trusts. The tariff helps to exclude foreign competition. It makes it possible for the trusts to raise the prices of their products to the buyers of this country by an amount nearly equal to that of the tariff. At the same time it makes it possible for the trusts to sell their goods below cost price in foreign countries, thanks to the surplus profits they make in this country.

Trust monopoly and high tariff are the most dangerous factors working for new imperialist wars. The larger the territory "protected" by tariff the greater the amount of super-profit. The trust monopolies, therefore, have a tendency to expand the territory of the United States, to occupy new regions.

The high tariff wall around this country forces the other countries likewise to "protect" themselves by tariff walls. This hinders or even prevents the export of American products to other countries. But accumulation of capital is going on with increasing speed, and American big business, instead of exporting goods, is exporting capital on an ever-greater scale. The next step is again the "defense" of the investments of American bankers in foreign countries. A strong army and a "second to none" navy are necessary. War threats, war danger, and wars are the order of the day. The "protective," "defensive" tariff is in reality the most offensive weapon in the hands of big business.

The tariff policy of both parties of big business exposes the emptiness and unprincipledness of their so-called struggle against each other. The republican party was originally the party of tariff, because it represented the growing manufacturing interests of the North. The democratic party was originally the party against tariff, because it expressed the interests of the large plantation owners of the South. But with the change in economic conditions both parties are altering their positions on tariff. The industrialization of the South has created a section of the democrats to come out as advocates of high tariff. On the other hand, the international bankers of the North who have invested billions in Europe and are afraid that Europe will not be able to pay her debts if she can not export industrial products to this country, are now in favor of the lowering or abolition of the tariff and are making their influence felt more and more in the high councils of the republican party which they dominate.

The interests of the working class are against high tariff. At the same time it would be an illusion to think that "free trade" would be a permanent relief for the toiling masses. Free trade under capitalist conditions is as much a capitalist institution as high tariff.

Demands.

1. Abolition of all indirect taxes.
2. Exemption from all kinds of taxation for all wage-earners.
3. Tax-exemption for all working and exploited farmers.
4. Graduated income tax, starting with incomes above $5,000 and increasing gradually, so that all incomes over $25,000 per year are confiscated.
5. All tax exebptions on bonds, stocks and securities must be abolished.
5. All tax-exemptions on bonds, taxes on great fortunes must be introduced.
7. Tariff on all necessities of the working class and on all goods used by the farmers must be abolished.

The Plight of the Farmers.

For two decades the conditions of the farmers have been growing steadily worse. The working farmer is becoming poorer and poorer. Millions have been driven away from their farms. Other millions are bankrupt and are only nominally owners of their farms. Tenantry is growing. The standard of living for the farmer and his family is becoming lower and lower. Hardships, suffering and poverty are features of the life of the working farmer.

The working farmer is today in an increasing measure only nominally the owner of the land. The mortgages and other debts are an unbearable burden on the exploited farmer. The product of his labor no longer belongs to him but to his creditors. The total amount of debts of the farmers (mortgages, personal and commercial) is the stupendous sum of 15 billion dollars, which, at 6 per cent means an annual tribute of 900 million dollars to the bankers, merchants and other leeches of capitalism. The number of exploiting absentee owners is steadily increasing. In 1880 tenant farmers were 25.6 per cent of all farmers; in 1925 they were already 38.6 per cent. Farmers are forced into bankruptcy by hundreds of thousands. In the Middle West between 1920 and 1923 no less than 22.5 per cent of all farm owners and 35 per cent of all tenants lost their farms by bankruptcy, by foreclosure, or retained them only—as the government expresses it—by "the leniency" of their creditors.

At least 40 per cent of the whole agricultural population, 4.2 million people, are neither owners nor tenant farmers but simply agricultural workers, who own nothing but their labor power. The agricultural workers have the lowest standard of living are forced to work the longest working day and under the worst conditions in the whole country. Their wages are actually decreasing. The introduction of new machinery is replacing them by tens of thousands. They are unorganized, isolated, and completely at the mercy of their employers and the state power.

The working farmers are in the most disastrous condition, because they are up against trust monopoly. The farmers are forced to pay the highest percentage of taxation. The taxes of the farmers have been increased in a most alarming fashion. They amounted in 1913 to $624,000,000; today to $1,436,000,000. The general property tax is directed chiefly against the farmer rather than against other property owners. The local taxes increase the burden of the working farmer to an intolerable degree. Even Secretary of Agriculture Jardine was forced to admit that the farmers spend not less than 30 per cent of their net income for taxes.

Merchantization of agriculture is another reason for the ruin of the farmers. The number of tractors, which in 1920 was 229,000, by 1925 had grown to 506,000, and in 1927 amounted to 700,000. The use of combines is spreading, each of them displacing three harvest hands. The poor farmer is too poor to buy expensive machinery. His farm is too small to utilize machinery to its full extent.

Industry is trustified and by virtue of its monopoly is able to control the prices of machinery and all the other goods the farmer must buy. At the same time big business is able to dictate the prices of all products the farmer must sell. There is a whole series of special forms of exploitation to which the farmer is subjected. He is at the mercy of the powerful capitalist agencies of distribution of farm products, the railroads, meat packers, milk trusts, huge elevator combines, gamblers and cotton brokers, banks, and the government farm credit legislation.

The basic reason for bankruptcy of the working farmer is trust monopoly, is capitalism.

All agricultural credit is in the hands of the banks. The cooperative organizations of the farmers are chained to capitalism by means of credit. Tariff, which is supposed to "protect" not only industrial products but agricultural products as well, operates only in the interests of the big trusts. All the promises of the republican and democratic parties have amounted only to betrayal of the farmers, and have only been in the interests of the bigger landowners and farm banks.

The big lesson the working and exploited farmers must learn from their own desperate situation is that they must break off their alliance with the bankers and other factors of big business and must form an alliance with the working class. The fate of the McNary-Haugen "farm relief" bill and the McFadden branch banking bill is the best proof of the futility of any alliance of the farmers with the bankers. The farm bloc in Congress which speaks in the name of the working farmers, but is in fact the expression of the interests of the big landowners and farm bankers, made a bargain with the representatives of Wall Street to the end that both bills should pass jointly in Congress. Indeed, both bills passed. But President Coolidge, as the highest exponent of big business in the government, signed only the McFadden banking bill and vetoed the McNary-Haugen "farm relief" bill. And the so-called friends of the farmers—banker Dawes, millionaire Lowden, the farm bloc, the "Progressives" such as LaFollette, Norris, Shipstead and their ilk—are only enemies of the exploited farmers in the disguise of friends.

The working and exploited farmers and the industrial and agricultural workers must fight shoulder to shoulder against their common enemies; against big business, against the trusts and against the government of capitalism.

Demands.

1. A five-year moratorium on farm mortgage debts, including debts on chattels.
2. Protection of the working farmer against monopoly prices. Essential lowering of the prices of all trust products which the farmer uses.
3. Protection of the farmer against special exploitation by distributing agencies of production, by railroads, meat packers, milk trusts and grain elevator combines.
4. Federal law against forced farm foreclosures.
5. Abolition of all federal and local taxes on working and tenant farmers.
6. The land shall belong to its users.
7. Complete freedom to organize and strike for the agricultural workers. Federal law to guarantee a seven-hour maximum working day and a 36-hour weekly rest for all agricultural workers. Yearly vacation with pay for all farm laborers. Extension to agricultural workers of all benefits of social insurance and labor protection legislation demanded for industrial workers.

Oppression of the Negroes.

American white imperialism oppresses in the most terrific way the ten million Negroes who constitute not less than one-tenth of the total population. White capitalist prejudice considers the Negroes as a "lower race," as the born servants of the lofty white masters. The racial caste system is a fundamental feature of the social, industrial and political organization of this country. The Communist Party declares that it considers itself not only the party of the working class but also the champion of the Negroes as an oppressed race and especially the organizer of the Negro working class elements. The Communist Party is the party of the liberation of the Negro race from all white oppression.

There is a "new Negro" in process of development. The social composition of the Negro race is changing. Formerly the Negro was the cotton farmer in the South and domestic help in the North. The industrialization of the South, the concentration of a new Negro working class population in the big cities of the East and North, and the entrance of the Negroes into the basic industries on a mass scale have changed the whole social composition of the Negro race. The appearance of a genuine Negro industrial proletariat creates an organizing force for the whole Negro race; furnishes a new working class leadership to all Negro race movements, and strengthens immensely the fighting possibilities for the emancipation of the race.

The Negro tenant and share farmers of the South are still, despite all the pompous phrases about freeing the slaves, in the status of virtual slavery. They have not the slightest prospect of ever acquiring possessing of the land on which they work. By means of an usurious credit system they are chained to the plantation owners as securely as chattel slaves. Peonage and contract labor are the fate of the Negro cotton farmer. The landowners, who are at the same time the merchants and the government of the South, rule over the Negroes with a merciless dictatorship.

There is the most dishonest and disgraceful "gentlemen's agreement" between the two capitalist parties against the political rights of the Negroes. The famous Fourteenth and Fifteenth amendments of the constitution amount but to a scrap of paper. They were never carried out for a moment. The Supreme Court has upheld all state laws which disfranchised the Negroes. Sheer force prevents the Negro from exercising his so-called political rights. The federal government has never made any attempt to reduce the representation of those southern states which violate the constitution, as section two of the Fourteenth amendment of the constitution provides. The republican party, the party of Lincoln, has sunk so low that it has provided for measures to segregate the Negro delegates to its 1928 Kansas City nominating convention. Lynch law is the hold over the Negroes. The terror of the Ku Klux Klan is the constitution for the Negroes. They are burned alive, whipped to death, hunted to death with dogs in the name of white civilization.

There is a general segregation policy against the Negro race. Separate residential sections; Jim Crow cars; separate schools for Negro children; exclusion from "white" hotels, restaurants, theatres and railway waiting rooms; exclusion of Negroes from juries which try Negroes. Negro teachers can not teach in white schools. The white masters try to reduce the Negroes to illiteracy. According to the 1920 white census, there were 4 per cent illiterates among the whites and 22.9 per cent among the Negroes. The southern states spend hardly any money for the education of Negro children, but provide lavishly for the education of the children of the white.

In the cotton states the Negro farmers live in shacks together with their animals. In the cities the Negroes do the unskilled, the most disagreeable, most hazardous work and are crowded into the worst sections of the city. The death rate of the Negroes is much higher than that of the whites. In 1925 it was 11.8 per thousand for the white and 8.2 for the Negroes.

The southern plantation owners and their government have tried to keep the Negro farmers and agricultural workers in the southern cotton fields by force. But even their brutal terror has not been able to check the mighty migration from these cotton plantations to the industrial centers of the northern and eastern states. This migration is an "unarmed, Spartacan uprising" against slavery and oppression by a capitalist and feudal oligarchy.

The Negro fled from the South, but what has he found in the North? He has found in the company towns and industrial cities of the North and East a wage slavery no better than the contract labor in the South. He has found crowded, unsanitary slums. He has exchanged the old segregation for a new segregation. He is doing the most dangerous, worst paid work in the steel, coal and packing industries. He has found the racial prejudices of a narrow, white labor aristocracy, which refuses to recognize the unskilled Negro worker as its equal. He has found the treachery of the bureaucracy of the A. F. of L. which refuses to organize the Negroes into trade unions. The lynchings of the South are replaced by the race riots of the East. The employing class tries to arouse the racial hatred and prejudice of the white workers against the Negro workers with the sinister aim to split and divide the ranks of the working class.

The Communist Party considers it as its historic duty to unite all workers regardless of their color against the common enemy, against the master class. The Negro race must understand that capitalism means racial oppression and Communism means social and racial equality.

Demands.

1. Abolition of the whole system of race discrimination. Full racial equality.
2. Abolition of all laws which result in segregation of Negroes. Abolition of all Jim Crow laws. The law shall forbid all discrimination against Negroes in selling or renting houses.
3. Abolition of all laws which disenfranchise the Negroes on the ground of color.
4. Abolition of laws forbidding inter-marriage of persons of different races.
5. Abolition of all laws and public administration measures which prohibit, or in practice prevent, Negro children or youth from attending general public schools or universities.
6. Full and equal admittance of Negroes to all railway station waiting rooms, restaurants, hotels, and theatres.
7. The War and Navy Departments of the United States Government should abolish all Jim Crow distinctions in the army and navy.
8. Immediate removal of all restrictions in all trade unions against the membership of Negro workers.
9. Equal opportunity for employment, wages, hours, and working conditions for Negro and white workers.

The Foreign-Born Workers

Next to the Negroes the foreign-born workers in the basic industries are the most exploited, most persecuted stratum of the toiling masses of this country. There are almost 14 million foreign-born in the United States. The overwhelming majority belong to the working class. Nearly half of all the foreign-born is toiling in the manufacturing and mechanical industries. The majority of all industrial workers of America, not less than 58 per cent of the total employed in American industries, is foreign-born. Steel, coal, textile automobile—all these industries are based on the sweat of the foreign-born workers. Cut off by differences in language and customs, the foreign-born workers are an easy prey of the employing class. Their fate is the longest hours, the lowest wages, the worst housing, the poorest schooling. Scores of state and federal laws discriminate against the foreign-born workers. There is hardly a state in the United States which has no special laws discriminating against the foreign-born workers. According to the law of some states, the foreign-born has no right to read newspapers or books not printed in English. He has no right to keep dogs or a gun or a rifle. He can not teach in public schools. According to the laws of nine States, a foreign-born worker cannot be employed on public works. Some states do not allow public meetings to be conducted except in the English language.

But all this discrimination is not enough for 100 per cent Americanism. The Coolidge administration is carrying out an offensive against the foreign-born workers as part of the open-shop drive of the bosses, is planning a whole series of vicious measures against them. The foreign-born workers are to be registered. They are to be finger-printed and photographed like criminals. If naturalized, they are to have their citizenship papers taken from them, if their conduct does not suit the bosses. They are to be deported, if they participate in strikes or make speeches in strike meetings. The Chairman of the House Immigration Committee, Albert Johnson, during the powerful demonstrations demanding freedom for Sacco and Vanzetti, uttered the threat: "Aliens domiciled in America should remember that if they partake in anti-government demonstrations here they are liable to deportation under the 1919 Act."

These is a whole series of bills before Congress which are aimed against the foreign-born workers. The Brand Bill, the Hawes Bill, the Ashwell Bill, and other products of American Fascism try to reduce the foreign-born workers to modern industrial serfs. The Brand Bill would compel all foreign-born not only to register but "to report at such times and such places" when "in the judgment of the president the interests of the national defense so require." The same Act would decree that "whenever any alien is temporarily absent from the district in which he is registered, he shall report at such times and places and give such information in regard to his movements as may be required."

The immigration laws which restrict the freedom of movement of the foreign-born workers and discriminate against the peoples of Asia is part and parcel of the system of American imperialism. The newest demand of the bosses, as expressed in the nortorious Brand Bill, is to give full authority to the president to regulate, restrict or enlarge the immigration quotas according to the actual needs of the different industries. The apostles of 100 per centism are not the enemies of the foreign-born workers, if they can use them as strikebreakers, as helpers "in industrial needs."

The labor aristocracy, under the leadership of the A. F. of L. bureaucracy, shares with big business the profits derived from high tariffs and restriction of immigration. High tariff is the material basis for the prohibition of immigration. They were erected together and they will fall together. The platform of the Socialist Party for 1928 shows the true colors of this renegade party in not demanding unrestricted freedom of immigration and the repeal of the infamous immigration laws, but calling only for the "modification of the immigration laws to permit the reuniting of families."

The Workers (Communist) Party of America is equally the party of the native-born, the foreign-born, and the Negro workers. It is the party of the whole working class. It fights the offensive of the bosses against the foreign-born workers. It fights against nationalist prejudices which divide the ranks of the workers. Its slogan is: Workers of all languages and races in America unite!

Demands.

1. All workers must unite against the common enemy, the capitalist class, to prevent the enactment of new laws (to register, fingerprint, and photograph) against foreign-born workers and to abolish all existing laws of discrimination.
2. All workers must wage an active campaign to uproot the prejudices fostered by the employing class against the foreign-born workers and to draw the millions of foreign-born workers more and more into the political life of the country and the class struggle.
3. Immediate repeal of the immigration laws. Abolition of all restrictions in immigration.
4. Equal pay for equal work for native and foreign-born workers.

Working Women.

The number of working women is steadily growing. There are today in this country 8½ million working women over the age of ten.

The capitalists are the apostle of the family, but they do not hesitate to break up the family life of the working class, if the needs of industry make it necessary. They cannot resist the call of the profits. The number of adult and married women in industry is growing fast. It had reached in 1920 almost two million. Manufacturers prefer women, because they offer less resistance than male workers to capitalist oppression. Male workers are often replaced by women, because the introduction of new machinery makes the skill of male workers superfluous. As a general rule, women work in less well-paid occupations and receive lower wages for identical work. Such and not different is the logic of capitalism. Working women need more protection. They are weaker than the male workers; therefore, they get less protection and are subjected to greater exploitation than male workers.

The Communist Party is by no means against women working in industry. It considers it as social progress, but it calls on the worker to fight the harmful effects of industrial work on women and to struggle for the adequate protection of working-women. Only a Communist society can lift the double burden of housekeeping and factory work from the women of the working class.

Demands.

1. Prohibition by law of night work, overtime and job work for working women.
2. The law shall provide for an allowance throughout the period of pregnancy and child-birth to the amount of full working wages.
3. Legal enactment of a special allowance for working women during the nursing period of nine months. Nursing mothers shall have a half hour's leave every three hours in all working places.
4. Equal pay for equal work for male and female workers.

Youth, Child, Labor, and Education.

Exploitation of children and young workers is one of the pillars of American capitalist society. Children's blood and young boys' and girls' sweat are a growing source of profit for big business. According to the 1920 census, there were over one million working children between the ages of 10 and 15. To increase the shame there were 378,000 toiling children between the ages of 10 and 13. There are no statistics on the work of children under the age of 10—that is the sole reason why there is no report about the scores of thousands of the smallest children of the working class slaving to the glory of our dollar civilization.

There are almost four million young workers and at least one million boys and girls in industry alone. Steel and iron, coal and textile factories are the chief "playgrounds" of our working-class youth. Technical progress means progress of youth and child labor. It is one of the biggest achievements of American democracy that the Supreme Court of the United States, that notorious guardian of American liberties, declared any laws forbidding child labor unconstitutional.

The propaganda agencies of capitalism boast about the wonderful progress in education. They forget only that the sole aim of the educa- tion of the children of the working class is to implant in their minds as early as possible a feeling of awe towards capitalist society. Education is class education in this country. Higher education is too expensive for the children of the working class. Primary education is too conducted in the spirit of jingoism and religious prejudice. According to official statistics, in 1920 only 73 per cent of the pupils reached the sixth and only 58 per cent the eight grade. In other words, almost half of the children did not even graduate from the elementary school. The schools are overcrowded. Anti-evolution laws prevent the teaching of natural science in many states. In the South Jim Crow education prevails. The famous "acadamic" freedom is only a legend.

"Quit Capitalist Parties! Join Communists! On to Workers, Farmers' Rule!

Under capitalism, education is a monopoly of the master class. Only a Communist society will break this monopoly and will abolish the class character of education, transforming it into social education, making it compulsory, universal and equal.

Demands.

1. Compulsory abolition by law of child labor under the age of 16, and state maintenance of all children at present employed. Abolition of underground work, night work, overtime, and work in dangerous occupations for all young workers. Six-hour working day for all young workers between the ages of 16 and 18.

2. A $20 minimum wage for young workers.

3. Establishment of workschools in factories for the training of young workers in industry. These work schools should be modeled on the work schools in the Soviet Union, should be under the control of the young workers belonging to trade unions and workers' factory committees. Young workers to receive full wages while attending work school.

4. Immediate utilization of schools as feeding centers for children of unemployed workers, whether of school age or below it. These stations should be under labor-parent control. Free clothing and free medical treatment by the schools for the children of the unemployed.

5. Every young person 18 years of age or over must be given the right to vote. Old enough to work—old enough to vote.

6. In schools at present: (a) Free and equal education from the elementary schools through the universities. (b) Immediate relief from overcrowding by building new schools. (c) Abolition of religious and Jingoist instruction; abolition of Jim Crow education. (c) No discrimination against teachers on account of "subversive" political opinions; right of teachers to organize.

Housing.

Nothing brings out into bolder relief "equality" under capitalist conditions than the matter of housing. The members of the master class dwell in the swellest apartments, in the most luxurious places. They mobilize the clean, broad streets of the "respectable" residential sections. The workers are segregated into the most disagreeable unsanitary sections of the crowded cities.

Congested tenements, miserable slums are the main quarters for proletarian homes. Death has a bigger toll in the workingclass sections, especially among the children. Rent is unbearably high for workers. On the average the worker is compelled to spend more than 25 per cent of his wages on rent. According to the law of social justice in capitalist society the higher the income the lower relatively the rent.

The government—federal, state and municipal governments alike—are doing nothing to relieve the housing shortage and to reduce the high rents. Building speculators do not construct homes for the workers, because the poorly-paid wage-earner is not able to pay the high rent demanded. Scores of thousands of workers are forced to live in lightless rooms without adequate plumbing and heating, with insufficient ventilation and water supply.

In striking contrast to the criminal attitude of the American capitalist government towards the housing situation are the measures of the Workers' Government of the Soviet Union. The Workers' Government of the Soviet Union nationalized all dwellings of the capitalists to the workers. It turned over all the palaces and villas of the capitalists to the workers. It lowered the rent for wage-earners so much that unskilled workers pay only a nominal rent. The building of homes for workers is an essential part of the whole constructive program of the Soviet Government, which spends hundreds of millions yearly to erect houses for wage-earners.

Demands.

1. Municipal fixing of low rents for workers. Rent for wage-earners should not amount to more than 10 per cent of their wages.

2. Municipally built houses should be rented to the workers without profit.

3. Tax exemption for all houses rented to wage-earners.

4. Immediate enactment of state laws providing for the abolition of the right of eviction of landlords against wage-earner tenants.

5. Compulsory repair by the landlords of all workingclass homes in bad condition.

6. Immediate establishment by muncipalities of homes to shelter the unemployed.

7. Municipal aid to workers' building co-operatives.

Prohibition.

Prohibition, as it is "enforced" and violated in this country is one of the most outstanding examples of capitalist corruption and hypocrisy.

The Workers (Communist) Party takes the following stand on the prohibition issue.

Prohibition was introduced in the interests of the manufacturers. As the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Journal put it: "We believe there is no question of greater importance to American manufacturers, the great employers of labor, than prohibition." The prohibition of the consumption of liquor decreases the needs of the workers, and thus tends to decrease the price of his labor power. The introduction of prohibition was part and parcel of the big rationalization campaign of the employing class. It makes the worker more efficient, more adaptable to the machinery. It is the link in the chain of the general speed-up. The enforcement of prohibition is a typical class measure. Rich people are exempt from its enforcement. Its whole burden falls upon the proletarian elements.

Prohibition embodies in the most classic manner the basic views of the employers toward the workers. The worker gives his life not only during the working hours but all day and all the time to the capitalist. Eating, drinking and sleeping, the worker serves only one sole purpose: the maintenance of his labor power for the capitalists. The very fact that the worker consumes the food which he buys for his wages forces him to sell his labor power again. It does concern the capitalist how the worker eats and drinks. If the worker spends his wages for liquor, if he gets drunk Sunday night, if he is not fit for work Monday morning—that does not constitute a violation of the interests of the worker but it constitutes high crime against capital—it amounts to a defraudation of the labor power which belongs to the capitalists.

These and none other are the views of the capitalists concerning the private life of the workers. Prohibition is nothing but the realization of these views.

On the other hand, the driving force behind the movement against the enforcement of prohibition, for the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead Act, is the powerful alcohol capital which still has tremendous vested interests in the beverage industry.

The "enforcement" of prohibition created a huge governmental machine of prosecutors, spies, provocateurs and courts. This machine tends to increase the power of the capitalist government and is a virtual part of its strikebreaking apparatus.

The lack of enforcement of capitalist prohibition has created a powerful bootlegging industry with a capital of hundreds of million dollars. The hazards of this industry are compensated by extremely high profits. An elaborate system of an underground capitalist world is hiding itself under the surface of respectble capitalist society. It has its own spies, provocateurs and gunmen, who are often utilized against the labor movement against striking workers. The combination of the twin brothers, capitalist prohibition enforcement and capitalist bootlegging, has created an unheard of amount of corruption, crime and hypocrisy.

The stand of the republican and democratic parties on the prohibition issue is a model example of capitalist demagogy. It is not an issue between the two parties but rather one within both. Very often from wet throats issue dry voices. The playing up of prohibition as a major political issue serves only one purpose. It covers up the lack of any real difference between the capitalist parties, and distracts the attention of the workers from the real major class issues of the toiling masses. Especially shameful is the position of the Socialist Party of America on the prohibition enforcement, because "further persistence in this tragic farce threatens a complete breakdown of law and order." Many members of the employing class also, who favor prohibition from the point of view of capitalist efficiency, are against strict enforcement, because they realize its impossibility under present conditions and likewise are concerned lest the faith of the masses in "law and order" be shaken.

Alcoholism is one of the most terrible social diseases of capitalist society. Alcoholism is caused by capitalism itself. Insecurity of life, the monotony of standardized factory work, the low cultural level of the masses and desperate poverty are the reasons for this social disease. Only a Communist society can cure alcoholism by elevting the cultural level of the masses, by diversifying labor, by putting an end to insecurity of life, and by eradicating poverty. The struggle against alcoholism is a part of the general struggle against capitalism. Only the overthrow of capitalism will sweep away the despicable bootlegging industry and the equally despicable, corrupt, hypocritical capitalist prohibition enforcement.

Demands:

1. The Workers (Communist) Party favor the repeal of the Volstead Act and the Eighteenth Amendment.

2. Dissolution of the federal and state prohibition enforcement apparatus.

3. Energetic propaganda against alcoholism as one of the most malignant social diseases under capitalism.

Forward to a Workers' and Farmers' Government.

This is the platform of the class struggle. These are the demands the Workers (Communist) Party puts forward in the present presidential election campaign. But none of these demands, and not even the total of these demands, exhaust the program of the Communist Party. We call upon the workers to rally around the Communist Party in a relentless struggle for these demands which realized, would protect the toiling masses against the most harmful effects of trustified capitalism. But even the realization of all these demands would not liberate the workingclass from the double yoke of capitalist exploitation and oppression. Only the full realization of the entire program of the Communist Party can bring about the emancipation of the working class. The Communist Party has the following aims:

The formation of the proletariat into a class;

The organization of the toiling masses in an independent political party which combats all capitalist parties;

The representation of the most general international interests of the workingclass as a whole as expressed in the principles and practice of the Communist International;

The overthrow of capitalist rule;

The conquest of political power by the workingclass.

American imperialism is very powerful. Capitalism in this country is still on its upward grade, but it is becoming more and more part and parcel of world capitalism, which on the whole has entered into the last declining stage of its development.

United States imperialism will not be able to bribe broad sections of the workingclass for many more years. It is not the sole workshop in the world as Great Britain was for decades. There are other mighty imperialist powers limiting the expansion of United States imperialism, competing with it on every front. The menace of new imperialist wars is looming up ever bigger on the horizon.

The very existence of the Socialist Republic of the Soviet Union, which freed one-sixth of the earth from capitalist influence and expansion, is again a limitation to the growth of United States imperialism. The forces of the proletarian revolution are gathering in other countries, too. The more than three million votes of the Communist Party of Germany, the over one million votes of the Communist Party of France, the election victories of the Commenist Party of Poland, which, though driven underground, was able to rally the majority of the Polish workingclass—are as many indices of the growth of the legions of the workingclass revolution.

The struggle for liberation of the oppressed peoples of Asia, and the growing resistance of the suffering peoples of Latin America constitute another limitation to the forward development of United States imperialism. There are inherent contradictions within American imperialism which work with irresistible force to break up the whole system. The anarchy created by the private ownership of the means of production results inevitably in murderous competition, crises and wars. The class character of American capitalist society must lead without fail to class wars. The sharpening contradictions within American capitalism will arouse gigantic forces which will be strong enough to overthrow it. The alliance of the 17 million industrial workers, the 10 million Negroes, and the 7 million exploited tenant farmers and agricultural workers will constitute a powerful bloc which will be able to crush the present dictatorship of the bosses.

The upheaval of these exploited and oppressed masses, who will establish a workers' and farmers' government, will organize their own state apparatus in the form of workers' councils and will break the monopoly of the capitalists over the means of production.

A Workers' and Farmers' Government of the United States will expropriate all large-scale industries, railroads, super-power plants, meatpacking plants, grain elevator combines. It will nationalize all large land estates, and will hand them over to the mortgaged and tenant farmers and agricultural workers. It will nationalize all banks and commercial institutions. A Workers' and Farmers' Government of the United States will free all American colonies immediately, will grant the right of full self-determination to all Latin-American peoples, will realize full social equality for Negroes. It will disarm the master class and will arm the working masses.

Forward to a Workers' and Farmers' Government! Forward by means of relentless class struggle. The Workers (Communist) Party is the party of the class struggle. It is the deadly enemy of capitalist society. It fights for the complete unity of the working class, for the united struggle of native-born, foreign-born, and Negro workers against the common enemy: trustified capital.

The Workers (Communist) Party calls upon all workers and exploited farmers to leave the old capitalist parties.

Workers and exploited farmers vote for and join the Workers (Communist) Party!

Rally around the platform of the class struggle!

Down with capitalist rule!

Forward to a Workers' and Farmers' Government.

"YELLOW DOG" IS FORCED ON MINER

Signs Away All Rights to Operator

PITTSBURGH, Pa., May 25.— Promises to work under inhuman conditions are being signed by non-union miners who have been lured into eastern Ohio to work in mines which are attempting to reopen on a non-union basis.

The promises are employment agreements, known to the union miners as the "Yellow Dog Contract." A typical "Yellow Dog Contract' is that entered into by W. R. Coffman with the Wheeling and Lake Erie Coal Mining for employment as a machine helper at the Dillon number one mine near Dillonvale, Ohio.

Speed-Up.

Coffman's contract brought to the office of the National Miners' Relief Committee extracts a promise from the "employe" as he is designated in the contract to "work faithfully and efficiently for the employer while this agreement is in force. . . ."

"The employe shall be paid at the rate prescribed in the Employer's Wage Scale hereto attached" is the first stipulation made by the contract. Coffman, working at the mine for two months to date, has seen no printed wage scale. Inquiries from guards bring him equally little information.

Covered with neat legalistic wording, the "catch" in the agreement reads: "Employer shall operate said mine during the term of this agreement, whenever, in its judgement said mine can be operated at a profit and shall make use of the employe's services hereunder to the fullest extent possible consistent with the economical operation of said mine. Employer guarantees employe hereunder at least [illegible] each thirty days. . . ."

The employer also makes "sacrifices" as is demonstrated by the following clause in the agreement. "The employer agrees that it will not operate its said mine as a closed union shop during the term of its agreement with employe and that it will not enter into any agreement with any union affiliated or connected with the United Mine Workers of America."

It doesn't do for a miner to remember the phrase civil liberties once he has signed a "Yellow Dog Contract," says Coffman. The miners who breathe a word about unionism in the hearing of any company stool pigeon will find himself discharged and perhaps beaten and arrested for violation of the clause in his contract which reads: "The employe agrees that he will not . . . make any effort . . . to bring about the unionizing of employes of said mine or any other mine . . . and that he will not at any time, foment, advocate, or take part in any strike of employers' employes."

Suit of Radium Victims To Come Up On Monday

The case of the five women poisoned while working in the plant of the United States Radium Corporation will be given a hearing at the Orange N. J. Chancery Court on Monday. The women contend that they were poisoned because they followed instructions to point in their mouths the brushes with which they painted the dials of watches, and have brought suit for an aggregate of $1,250,000.

Physicians give them less than a year to live.

LINES HOLD FAST AT MUTTON MINE

Mass Picketing Grows Stronger

(Special to The Daily Worker)

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., May 25.— The largest mine operating under the Jacksonville scale in eastern Ohio is on strike as a result of mass picketing conducted under the leadership of the Save-the-Union Committee since April 16. The Mutton Hollow mine of the Shadyside Coal Company near St. Clairsville, scene of a mass demonstration April 21, which resulted in the arrest of 77 pickets, including 51 women, has been closed down since Wednesday, May 23.

Forced to Act.

The strike was called by sub-district officials after miners of the Mutton Hollow pits had dropped their tools to join the strike of their union brothers who had been picketing the mine which was working by separate agreement.

Following the strikebreaking policies of the Fishwick-Lewis machine in Illinois, the sub-district officers of the union asked that the mine owners re-employ diggers who had gone out at the call of the Save-the-Unionists. When the mine owners refused to take back "any man who had left the mine because of anti-Lewis demonstrations," the sub-district officials were compelled to call the remainder of the Mutton Hollow employes out on strike.

Mass Picketing Grows.

Mass picketing at the workings has intensified since the victory scored by the Save-the-Union forces on Wednesday. New vigor is evident on the picket lines which have been held before the mine in an effort to forestall any attempt of the bosses to bring in scabs.

"We've won one victory," exclaimed Mrs. John Barto, one of the women who spent three days in the St. Clairsville Jail as a result of the April 21 demonstration. "Now we're going ahead to win our big victory against the coal operators."

YOUNG MINERS TO HOLD CONFERENCE

Prepare for Big Meet at Belleville, June 9

BELLEVILLE, O., May 21 (By Mail).—A conference of all youth delegates attending the special district convention of the United Mine Workers of America, District 12, was held during the second day of the proceedings.

Over twenty delegates from every part of the state took part in the conference. Recognizing that the young miners were not sufficiently drawn into the struggle to oust the corrupt officialdom in the union, the youth delegates took up the question of mobilizing the young miners thruout the state in some organized manner.

To Hold Enlarged Meet.

The conference went unanimously on record for the holding of an enlarged conference embracing Belleville and the surrounding territory. Organizers were selected to immediately go back into their localities and begin to work for the conference. Methods adopted for this work was the organization of young miners' groups in the local unions, conference committees, and mass meetings called to rally the young miners behind the conference.

The date for the conference has been set for June 9th to be held in Belleville, Ill., at ten o'clock in the morning. Already Local 705 in O'Fallon has endorsed the young miners' conference and has elected two delegates. The conference has also been endorsed by Local 303, Orient, Ill.

Important Role.

Gerry Allard, secretary of the provisional committee, in making his report for the convention showed how the youth in the coal mining industry have never been considered in the union activity. He pointed out how necessary the youth is in the industry and how it plays an ever greater role in the affairs of the union, making all the more necessary for the progressive forces to win over the young workers and draw them into the struggle.

Little Augie's Aide Also Slain by Rivals

Louis Fabrizio, chief aide of ex-Little Augwie, notorious gangster, who was killed last October, has also been shot. Little Augie, as well as his lieutenant Louis Fabrizio are well remembered by the needle trades workers here for their activity as sluggers assisting the bosses and the right wing in breaking the strikes of the garment workers here.

Fabrizio was shot during the early hours yesterday morning while fixing his automobile on 2nd St. and Ave. B.

Literature Squads and Their Functions

By A. GUSAKOFF.

It is quite some time since the literature squads were organized. They helped the Party greatly in stimulating literature sales and literature distribution. They helped to put the "Communist" on the news-stands, and in making open-air meetings as well as indoor meetings, a real success as far as the distribution of literature is concerned. They helped to activize a number of comrades, who never before paid any attention to this particular field of work. In fact, this work was considered by many of secondary importance.

A Responsible Task

Today, there are still many shortcomings, which greatly hinder our work. These shortcomings must be pointed out and corrected. One of the worst short-comings is the fact that many, or it can be said, a great majority of the members of the literature squads do not yet understand that their work is important Party work; that by coming to meeting at the Madison Square Garden or other places to sell literature, they are functioning as a committee which is assigned this specific task as any other important task is assigned them by the Party. However, we see the reverse. Comrades who are members of the literature squads either accept other Party work at the meetings or merely come down as visitors ready to take in the program of the meeting as any worker, not as members of the Party. And much time is spent looking for them in the hall. This is a shortcoming which must be corrected immediately. Comrades who have certain work to perform at meetings must understand that the Party must be taken into consideration first, and when thru, they may enjoy the program. The comrades of the literature squad must remember that the literature committee depends upon their cooperation, and of course is left helpless if comrades do not report, or if they accept some other work at that meeting.

System Necessary

Another shortcoming which must be overcome is the fact that our literature agents, as well as the members of the literature squads, have not yet developed a systematic way or organizing their work. It has been pointed out many times that the literature agent of each unit is the captain of his squad. He is responsible for the work of his squad to the section literature agent and for the work of his unit in this field of activity. But we are confronted with a situation where many members of the literature squads are much more responsible than the literature agents.

We also know that whenever it is necessary to mobilize the comrades for a large meeting, the success of which benefits not only the literature department, but the Party as a whole, we must depend upon the help of the section literature agents. This means that there is not enoug initiative in the units and that the literature agents are not yet on the job. This of course must be remedied.

The unit literature agents must begin to take their work seriously, develop more initiative, watch over their squads, see that they are on the job, and that more comrades are drawn into literature work. Especially now in the summer months approaching, when many open-air meetings in the various parts of the city will be held, it will be necessary to cover all of these meetings with literature. We must emphasize the importance of the literature squads working more systematically than ever before.

200 ATTEND BIG SAVE UNION MEE

WHEELING, W. Va., (By Mail).— The calling of a mass meeting at Maynard, Ohio on Monday by the sub-district officials to distract the members from a "Save the Union" meeting failed completely. Only six "loyal" members were present to hear Davis, International organizer, speak.

Not far from the Polish Hall where the six "loyal" members of the union sat and listened to the speech of Davis, the S. U. C. held their meeting and over 200 rank and file miners attended.

This shows clearly that the rank and file is with the S. U. C. and that they know that the "sweet sounding phrases" of the sub-district officials are nothing more than promises which will not be carried out.

innish Trade Union Movement Advancing

By N. WALLARI.

As a consequence of the latest efforts for the achievement of unity in he world trade union movement, the innish Confederation of Trade Unions has entered into the international labor movement. Finnish trade unions were represented at the Coechagen conference last February, here with the Norwegian and Russian trade unionists, the question of world unity was carefully handled. This active participation in the world unity movement has, perhaps, made he Finnish trade unions objects of ome interest.

innish Workers For Class Struggle.

The central body of Finnish trade unions, the Confederation (Ammattijarjesto) was organized in 1907. At he national congress in 1920 it was decided to transform the federations from a craft to an industrial basis. Now the industrial form of organization is general. Our trade union movement is strictly for the class struggle and our organized labor as a whole is very hostile towards the principle of class collaboration.

The development of our trade union movement, as far as the numerical strength is concerned, is expressed by following figures at the end of each year:

ear	Branches	Federations	Members
1907	470	23	25,194
1908	608	32	24,009
1909	601	26	19,928
1910	599	26	15,346
1911	644	26	19,640
1912	639	22	20,989
1913	733	24	28,031
1914	729	23	31,226
1915	729	23	30,150
1916	770	22	41,804
1917			160,695
1918 Suppressed by white guardists.
1919	812	21	40,677
1920	971	24	59,470
1921	909	23	48,589
1922	897	22	48,176
1923	886	22	48,146
1924	885	22	47,312
925	840	18	50,472
926	900	18	62,058
27	978	17	75,846

The big membership in 1917 is due o the revolutionary period of that ime and therefore should be taken as exceptional. Taking into account only the so-called normal times we see hat the membership is now greater han ever before.

Social Democrats Fight Workers.

The drop in membership after 1920 due to the furious fight of social mocrats against the trade unions. They have been very hostile towards rade unions because the rank and le took a revolutionary stand and elled the reformist leaders from official positions of trade unions. In 19[illegible] it was decided by referenm to affiliate with the Red International of Labor Unions. More than o-thirds voted for the R. I. L. U., others for independence. The Amsterdam International has hardly 20 per cent of the members of trade unions as its sympathizers. But even these workers are against affiliation with Amsterdam. It is demanded only by social democratic politicians, who are not members of any trade union. Still they are trying to dictate their will upon the great masses. In order to get the whole trade union movement under the political tutelage of the social democratic party the social democrats formed in 1926 a special organization of their own. During this year they have formed also many rival trade union organizations. By these they are trying either split or capture our fighting trade unions. The workers regard these organizations as scab organizations.

Side by side with the social democratic politicians and leaders the white bourgeoisie has fought against our trade unions. Very often we have been denied even the most elementary civil rights. The freedom of association and assembly has been infringed time and again by authorities. A few examples may suffice to show it.

Lumber, Transport Strike.

In May, 1922, the lumber and transport workers of North Finland went on strike in order to improve their miserable wage and working conditions. Some social democratic newspapers as well as those of the bourgeoisie branded the strike as Communistic. All the members of the executive district body of trade unions, which was in charge of the struggle, were arrested and later on sentenced even for three years to penitentiaries. The Supreme Court of Finland approved the sentences declaring the General Confederation of Trade Unions as a criminal body. Heretofore no special action has been taken against that central body, but the judgment of Supreme Court hangs as a Damoclean sword over our trade union movement. The only ground for the decision of Supreme Court was the above described wage conflict.

On August 3rd, 1923, the authorities arrested about 300 organized workers all over the country. Among those arrested were the whole executive committee of the socialist labor party, the parliamentary fraction (27 deputies of the Diet of 200 seats) of the same party, editors of different party organs and all the most active party workers. All the nine party organs were suppressed, party offices closed and properties confiscated. In short, the whole party was suppressed.

Suppress Labor Party.

In June, 1924, the Superior Court of Turku sentenced 189 of the accused to penitentiaries for terms ranging from 6 months to 11 years. They were sentenced for high treason. As the party was suppressed hundreds of trade unions that were affiliated with the party were deprived of all the rights guaranteed in the constitution of the country.

Already in the autumn of 1923 the minister of the interior ordered the authorities to suppress all the trade unions formerly affiliated with the socialist labor party. So began a general drive against our trade unions. According to the speech of Comrade Jokela, vice chairman of the General Confederation of Trade Unions, in parliament at the end of 1924, 400 trade union organizations were suppressed. These, of course, have been reorganized, but these persecutions describe how difficult is the position of our trade unions. And still the social-democratic politicians side themselves with the bourgeoisie as far as militant labor movement is concerned.

Although persecuted, our trade unions have been able to carry thru many victorious strikes during the last three years. Especially in the building industry the employers have been compelled to submit to collective agreements quite favorable to the workers. But perhaps the greatest of the struggles of recent years was the outcome of the general lockout of metal workers that lasted for 7 months. Locked out metal workers numbered 10,000. They presented to the employers demands for higher wages, which were partly won. Most of the strikes of last years have been victorious and all the workers are convinced of the benefits of the trade union movement.

No Wage Cuts---Merely "Reducing Labor Expense"

By SCOTT NEARING.

There have been no "wage cuts" in Springfield, Massachusetts. Estimates place the number of unemployed at 21,000. The Westinghouse plant, which ordinarily employs 6,000 workers, has only about 3,000 on the pay-roll. Part time, reductions in piece rates, shifts of workers from department to department and from job to job have been frequent. Thousands of Springfield shop hands are making less per hour and per week than they made a year ago or even six months ago but there have been no wage cuts. The bosses are too clever to cut wages. They are merely "reducing labor costs."

Labor Saving Machinery.

How are they bringing this about? First, by the extensive introduction of machinery that converts skilled workers into machinery tenders. Skilled craftsmen are being replaced every day by labor-saving devices. The craft worker with years of training, finds himself on the labor market, rubbing elbows with a boy directly from the farm who exceeds the craft worker in youth, health, vitality.

Even where there have been no new machines the same process of cutting labor costs is in full swing.

I spoke with one die-maker who had been earning 75 cents per hour in a Westinghouse shop. He was laid off his die-making job and shifted to another Westinghouse plant.

"What work did you get in the new plant?" I asked.

"Assembler of radio sets."

"Did you get full time work?"

"Yes."

"At what rate?"

"Fifty cents an hour."

Another die-maker also earning 75 cents an hour had been transferred to another department in the same plant. He was a die-repairer in the new department.

"How much wages did you get on the now job?"

"Sixty-five cents an hour."

Several other men told the same story.

Out of date bosses like those in New Bedford might cut wages. Not the bosses of Springfield machine shops! They dealt with their workers man by man.

Some walked the streets.

Skilled Jobs Vanish.

Some saw their skilled jobs and their "high" wages vanish over night. They joined the factory mass workers.

Others, laid off at one wage-rate and re-employed at another, found less money in the pay envelope.

Springfield is an open shop town. The workers have no organization to which they may turn for protection. While earnings have been falling, speed has increased; the pace has grown harder.

Workers with families have bought on the installment plan: houses, furniture, equipment, clothing. Prices remain high. Income falls. Payments cannot be met. The workers lose their purchases as well as their part payments.

There have been no wage cuts in Springfield. There will be none. The workers are already doing more work for less money and when the present cycle is completed their standards will be definitely lowered, while the incomes of the bosses will be larger and surer.

Russian Players May Visit Us Soon

Berlin is welcoming a new group of young Russian actors, similar to the Moscow Art Players and the Habima Players, who came on from Moscow for a stay, and may later follow their better known predecessors by coming to the United States.

These young people have established themselves in the Theatre des Wettens and have answered all expectations. Their first play—a musical comedy drama—met with even greater success than their second. The plays are given in Yiddish, but make use of old Jewish stories.

In their latest offering, "The Trip of Benjamin the Third," they have managed to combine humor and superb acting in the usual Russian manner. The company is planning to travel across the Atlantic, and its reception in America should be equal to that accorded the Moscow Art Theatre.

LUNA PARK'S 25th SEASON IN FULL SWING

Attendance for the first complete week of operation at Luna Park was good despite the somewhat cool weather which prevailed, according to Arthur Jarvis, general manager of Coney Island's amusement park. This year the park is having its Silver Jubilee, celebrating Luna's twenty-fifth anniversary.

The free circus acts consisting of John Agee, with his trained horses and bull, Martin and Martin with their aerial act; Adele Nelson and her baby elephants; together with Bill Rice Trio, clown acrobats, vied with the other attractions in entertaining the crowd. Other features include: Mexican Pete, assisted by May La Belle, "Covered Wagon Days of the Wild West"; The Mile Sky Chaser; Chateau Thierry; "Thrills," "It," "Shooting the Rapids" and the new ride "Tilt-a-Whirl."

Luna's swimming pool will open on Decoration Day. The pool will remain open until midnight this year.

PEOPLE'S CHORUS TO GIVE FREE CONCERTS

The People's Chorus of this city, L. Camilieri, conductor, will give three special concerts at Town Hall, on Thursday evenings, May 31, June 7 and June 14.

The features will be singing by units of the People's Chorus, soloists on the stage and from the audience, demonstrations of simple sight reading and singing methods and singing by the audience. There will be a different program at each concert. Admission will be free. Invitations may be had at 41 East Forty-second street.

Broadway Briefs

Rockaway's Playland, the new amusement park, will open on Wednesday, May 30. The park has been rebuilt on the site of what was known as Thompson Park, Rockaway Beach.

Germany and Russia will soon see a new ballet, which has just been completed by Sigmund Romberg, composer of "My Maryland," and other operettas. It will be staged in Berlin this summer by Lina Marette and her ballet, and by Marion Gering at the Meyerhold Theatre, Moscow.

Vaudeville at the Broadway Theatre next week will include: Joe Wilton and Rex Weber; Abbott and Bisland; Bert Spence and Edith True; The Misses Halstead and Daniel; Johnny Herman. On the screen will be "Hangman's House," from the Donn Byrne story. June Collyer, Earle Foxe and Hobart Bosworth have important roles.

The company engaged for Channing Pollock's "Mr. Moneypenny," include: Hale Hamilton, Donald Meek, Margaret Wycherly, Catherine Dale Owen, Ruth Nugent, Frank Sylvester and Robert Vivian.

Adams and Walling rented the Frolic Theatre yesterday for their presentation of "The Fast Worker," the comedy by Fred Ballard and Charles A. Bickford, which they will present next month.

"Dorian Gray" at the Biltmore Lacks Dialectic Reasoning

At the Biltmore Theatre they are playing David Thorne's adaptation of Oscar Wilde's "Picture of Dorian Gray," staged by Augustus Thorne. Everybody else agrees that it is no good, and I do too. There are a number of minor reasons, such as the tawdry properties, the lack of rehearsal by the cast (evidenced by stumbling and forgetting of lines), the rather clumsy left-handed way that Dorian stabs his best friend, the altogether too stiff robes of the seraph in the quite superfluous prologue, the apparent discomfort of the actor in the title role, as though they had hurt his face trying to make it beautiful, etc.

But many a play has survived such things, and more likewise, if it had one grand redeeming feature. Thorne Bros. evidently placed their faith in the salacious reputation of Wilde and liberal use of his epigrams. This is where they showed a real Christian conviction that things are, "as they were in the beginning, are now, and evermore shall be." This high church theory is not true of anything, but least true of humor. When Wilde, years ago, said, "No woman can really talk, women only talk about themselves," "American girls conceal their parentage as well as English women conceal their past," "I like men with a future and women with a past," "All influence is immoral," "Bad acting is the only deadly sin," etc. (I quote from memory but I have done no violence) these things sounded very devilish and witty. I think the main failure of this play is the inability of the Thornes to realize that time flies, and all of Wilde's clever observations, new in their day, have been tried, theorized, in most cases refuted, and the world is tired of them. Humor that has become philosophy is detestable to the philosophy of humor.

The theatre was full of people who were attracted by the fatal fame of Oscar Wilde. They got very weepy over the sugar-sweet religious flavor which this drama, like all things meant to be wicked, like Wilde himself, never escapes.

Let's not talk about the actors. I have a sort of suspicion most of them were represented by their understudies anyway.

American Opera Company to Appear in 20 Cities

Plans for the coming season of the American Opera Company will include seasons in New York, Boston and Chicago, with proposed engagements in twenty cities between New York and the West. The company will be under new managerial and organization direction, and a number of new artists are to be added to the organizations, the announcement states.

The artistic direction continues the same as that of last season, with Vladimir Rosing as artistic director, and Frank St. Leger as musical director, and approximately the same singers, with the addition of a number of new American artists. Announcement of the cities to be visited, and of the detailed artistic personnel and repertoire for the 1928-29 season will be made shortly.

There are rumors that Richard Strauss' "Salome" will be revived at the Metropolitan next season with Maria Jeritza in the title role. Mme. Jeritza is scheduled to sing the part of Herod's daughter in San Francisco the coming summer. "Salome" was given a single performance at the Metropolitan more than twenty years ago.

Leif Ericson's Discovery of America To Be Filmed Here

The early discovery of America, when the Norsemen came over to the North American coast, will serve as the story of an important film now being considered for showing in the large cities. For the past five years Carl Stearns Clancy has been gathering material and collecting and condensing Icelandic sagas recording Leif Ericson's voyage to Vineland. These will be transferred to the screen as "The Viking Ship, a Saga of Sarging Seas."

Mr. Clancy plans to produce as a road show this story of America's original discovery by the Norsemen. Capt. Gerhard Folgero, who two years ago sailed a forty-two foot open boat from Oslo to Philadelphia and Chicago, will serve as navigator for the fleet of Viking ships that will appear in the picture. He is now in Norway supervising the designing and construction of these ships. Only one authentic "dragon" has been built in nearly a thousand years.

Johan Ball, after six months of research work in Scandinavian museums, has designed Norse wardrobes for the cast. Emmet Crozier will adapt Mr. Clancy's original story.

Screen Notes

"Youth Astray" will be shown for the first time in America at the Cameo Theatre beginning today. Peter Ostermayr directed a cast of Germany's younger cinema talent in this production, alloting important roles to Nina Vanna, Andre Mattoni and Mary Johnson.

"Morgan's Last Raid," will be Tim McCoy's next starring picture for Metro. The story is by Madeline Ruthven and Ross Wills.

"The Veil of Happiness," will feature the program at the 55th St. Playhouse beginning this Saturday. The cast, composed entirely of Chinese, is headed by Shu-Hou, Tiang-Liang-Tchao and Jodi Li.

Two important roles have been cast for Universal's production of "Show Boat." Emily Fitzroy will play Parthenia Ann Hawks and Alma Rubens the role of Julie.

The Greenwich Village Theatre will show beginning today the Ufa special, "Decameron Nights," based on one of Bocaccio's tales. Lionel Barrymore and Werner Krauss star in the production.

Olga Baclanova, Moscow Art Theatre importation, now to be seen as the Duchess in "The Man Who Laughs," has been signed to a Paramount contract. She recently appeared with Pola Negri in "Three Sinners," and with Emil Jannings in "The Street of Sin."

F. W. Murnau has completed his second American made picture, "The Four Devils," for Fox Films. Following his work on "The Four Devils" Murnau will take a brief vacation before starting on "Our Daily Bread."

The role of Tarzan in the Universal screening of "Tarzan the Mighty" will be played by Frank Merrill. This is an adaption of Edgar Rice Burrough's story entitled "Jungle Tales of Tar-

"Stephen Trombolt's Wife," a novel by Hermann Sudermann, has been purchased by Metro and will be filmed under the title of "The Wonder of Women."

MAXIM GORKI WRITES TO ROMAIN ROLLAND

(Published in "Pravda" March 23, 1928.)

Sorento, January 29, 1928.

My Dear Friend:

I have read the "Letter of the Russian Writers Living in Russia." I doubt very much whether the letter was actually written by Russian writers. These could not possibly have said that the "classics are forbidden in Russia." Only recently the State Publishing House issued a splendid edition of all of Dostoevsky's works, including even his counter-revolutionary "Demons"; as well as the whole of Pushkin and Gogol. They are preparing for publication the works of Turgeniev, as well as a complete edition of Tolstoy's works in ninety volumes (edited by Tolstoy's friend, Chertkov). Today there are published in the Soviet Union the selected works of Bunin himself, as well as of Kuprin and Shmeliev. Nor have they forgotten old writers like Mamin-Sibiriak and Garin-Michaelovsky.

From the reports of the public libraries, where Tolstoy and Dostoevsky occupy leading places, the Russian writers know very well that the classics are not forbidden in Russia. Every year young Russian writers visit me. How could they be "dying of hunger" and yet take distant journeys abroad? It seems to me I have the honor of enjoying the full confidence of these writers. In intimate conversations with them I have asked them: What group of Russian writers could have made such charges against the Soviet Government? For reply I received only a [illegible]ptical shrug of the shoulders.

[illegible]ou say you have been informed [illegible]t Russia has no literature. What a strange statement! I am astonished at the tremendous fertility of the new Russian literature, of the new writers, of whom there are hundreds and whose number is increasing. This confirms my deep faith in the creative powers of my Russian people. The Russian people are beginning to acquire self-consciousness, are beginning to understand its right to the free development of its creative powers in all walks of life.

This year alone has brought us several talented writers from whom one can expect good work. These are: Fadeyev, who has written a novel called "Destruction"; Leonid Borisov, Nina Smidovna, and the poet N. Tichonov, who has written a fine book. I could also mention a long list of important new Russian writers. There are, for example, Leonid Leonov, Babel, Vsevolod Ivanov (who at present edits the magazine "Krassny Nov," although he is not a Communist). All of these have made a niche for themselves; as have also Constantine Fedin, Vladimir Lidin, Boris Pilniak, Serge Semenov (a worker gifted with an original talent and influenced by Knute Hamsun); Zoschenko, who wastes himself on short stories, but none the less has talent; there is no doubt that he is gradually progressing from humor to satire. Then there is also Kataev, the author of "Wastrels," who writes in the Gogol manner; and the rapid growth of Jakolev and Kaverine; and so on and so forth.

It is not necessary to list all those who deserve not only to be mentioned but also to be praised. Of non-revolutionary writers I could mention a whole list: Sergeev, Tsunski, Michael Prishwin, Constantine Treniov, Nikadrov, Veresaiev, Ivan Volgov, Olga Forsh, Alexi Chapigin (who recently [illegible]blished his splendid novel "Stenka [illegible]zin") the poet Serge Klichkov (who writes much and well); Alexi Tolstoy (who works sincerely and remains a marvelous story teller) and Ivan Novikov (who has just issued a volume of stories).

In my opinion there are now at the head of Russian literature two extraordinary artists: Serge Tsenski and Michael Prishwin. The latter has sent you his novel, "The Pursuit of Happiness." Undoubtedly I have omitted to mention many other talented authors. I have not had a chance to read everything, and besides I do not wish to burden you with a list of all the writers. I have also omitted mentioning the poets, among whom there are many well known talents like Pasternak, Tichonov, Asseyev, Szharov, Kazin, Selvinski, Oreshin, and others.

There is also being created a new literature among the peoples of the Caucasus, among the Circasians and Osetins as well as among the Tartars of Kazan. Yes, a beautiful literature flourishes and is developing today in the Soviet Union. I am enthusiastic about it, and regret that Europe pays so little attention to this great literary movement and takes no interest in these creative forces; it is more inclined to seek for sins, to show enmity, not knowing and not wishing to know the good which is there.

It's possible (I recognize it myself) that the good does not yet exist as extensively as we should like to see it; but one must not forget that Russia is a country of 150,000,000 people, that only ten years have passed since the Russian people suddenly began to live a cultural life and began to grasp the idea of culture. There are already in the Soviet Union villages which have only 140 inhabitants and subscribe to 32 publications. Newspapers, magazines, pamphlets and scientific publications are issued in thousands of copies.

I am convinced that the hundreds of writers in prose and verse who are now functioning in the literary field will within five or ten years become brilliant stylists.

M. GORKI.

P. S.—The "Letter of Russian Writers," which has created such a furore in the foreign press, has been repudiated by the trade union of Russian writers. In the ranks of this organization are all the writers of all the nationalities in the Soviet Union. With the exception of myself, there is not in Russia, as far as I know, a single writer who is not a member of this trade union.

A Craftsman in Fiction of Nice Details

THE CLOSED GARDEN. By Julian Green. Harpers. $2.50.

Reviewed by EDWIN ROLFE.

IN this, his second novel published within a year, Julian Green definitely proves herself to be a master literary craftsman. Written with a tireless realism that takes in the most infinitesimal details, the minutiae of its characters' lives, the book attains in its wholeness a certain power and dignity which places it above the literarious miscarriages which are continually flooding the book market. Its style is straightforward and sustained, its story simple and complete. The author limits himself to a definite narrative, and exploits the characters and situation of that narrative to their utmost. He affects no pseudo-esthetic poses; he indulges in none of the petty methods of so-called modern sophisticates. When the story ends, he does not continue and embellish it in a weak diminuendo. The bottle filled, he sensibly corks it, and leaves it complete.

The story concerns itself with the depiction of the decay of an ordinary bourgeois family in a little town in France. Adrienne Meseurat grows up under the tyrannical surveillance of an invalid spinster sister and a retired self-satisfied father, who frustrate her attempts to make contacts with the people around her. Until her eighteenth year she bears the burden of an inhuman solitude, that finds its only expression in morbidity. Then she falls in love with a man more than twice her age, whom she glimpses from a distance in the street one day. Not knowing him, she sustains this irrational attraction with a thousand self-illusions. Discovering this, her father makes her a prisoner in the house. The culmination of this comes when she accidentally kills her father. Then, when she confesses her love to the man and is told that it is not reciprocated, she becomes completely mad.

There is only one fault to be found in "The Closed Garden." The characters live in a world completely their own, unaffected and undetermined even to the slightest degree by anything at all except their own limitations. This, actually, is an impossibility. But the treatment of this limited sphere is so excellent that the author may be forgiven for it.

MEMOIRS OF HAYWOOD

Autobiography To Be Published Soon

INTERNATIONAL PUBLISHERS, who are preparing for publication in June the memoirs of William D. Haywood, who died last week, were informed by their Moscow representative that the remaining chapters of his manuscript had been dispatched to New York.

The book, upon which Haywood has been working during the recent years, is autobiographical. Starting with a description of his boyhood days in Utah, he tells the story of his apprenticeship to a farmer at the age of eleven and his going to work in a mine at fifteen, when he joined the miners' union, of which he was destined later to become the leader.

The struggles in the western states, the famous Moyer-Haywood-Pettibone case in which he, together with the other officers of the Western Federation of Miners, were charged with the killing of Governor Steunenberg of Idaho, of which they were acquitted, his left wing fight against the officials of the socialist party in 1912, which led to his expulsion from the National Executive Committee and later from the party, his activities in the I. W. W., the position he and his organization took during the war, the trial of the more than 100 members of the I. W. W., his conviction and his joining of the Communist Party, his life in exile in Soviet Russia during the past seven years—all these stages in his life and activities in the American labor movement are intimately described in this book.

GREAT ARCTIC EXPLORER

Roald Amundsen Deflates Some Braggarts

ROALD AMUNDSEN; My Life As An Explorer. Doubleday, Doran & Co. $3.50.

Reviewed by N. SPARKS

ROALD AMUNDSEN is the last of the true Arctic explorers, the honored list headed by the names of Henry Hudson, Sir John Franklin and the other seekers of the Northwest Passage, down to Dr. Nansen Shackleton, Scott and Amundsen himself and the conquest of the North and South Poles. The Arctic explorers have been a peculiar race. Necessarily they were nearly all naval-officers and fairly jingoistic, and their expeditions bore to a certaint extent a militaristic stamp. For the most part, however, they were true scientists, deep students of the technique of travel over Arctic ice, and physically perfect specimens, ready to endure incredible hardships for the sake of science and whatever honor they could get. Air travel, however, and the general decadence of capitalism have put an end to the line. In place of Nansen, Amundsen and Scott, the "heroes" of the present expeditions are the upstart Byrd, a naval aviator who knows nothing whatever about the Arctic, and the fascist monkey-on-a-stick Nobile who knows still less. Expeditions by such as these represent little more than great advertising schemes for their respective military machines.

The present book seems to have been written by Amundsen chiefly with an eye to vindicating himself before the American public after his recent troubles, financial and otherwise. Here he tells how he came to be an explorer, describes his apprentice trip to the Antarctic where he served with Dr. Cook, and tells how he finally realized the dream of centuries (emptied by now of any economic utility), of discovering and navigating the Northwest Passage. There is a short account of the dash to the South Pole, of the airplane flight with Ellsworth, and an extended ventilation of the difficulties with Nobile on the dirigible flight over the North Pole.

Amundsen takes the time to explode the myth of the "sportsmanship" of the British ruling class. He recounts how the prize of $100,000 offered by the British Government for the discovery of the Northwest Passage was divided between two Englishmen, neither of whom had actually been thru it, and how Lord Curzon (the author of the famous ultimatum to Soviet Russia) publicly sneered at his discovery of the South Pole at a banquet in London.

The uninhabited wastes of the North and South Poles support no people that can be exploited, nor do they contain any known natural resources. Nor was Amundsen a naval officer, and none of his expeditions were sponsored by any navy or government. As a consequence he had a constant terrific struggle to finance his expeditions, and had steady uphill going, except during the war when for a time he became a shipowner and sat content to exploit the danger of others, and then in 1917-18 when he allowed himself to become a tool of the American propaganda machine visiting the trenches and lecturing in America.

Amundsen deals at length with the flight of the dirigible "Norge" and the attempt of Mussolini and Nobile to turn it into a propaganda scheme for fascism. To get the full impudence of the fascist braggart Nobile one must read the account in detail "It is now clear," says Amundsen "that their offer was a deliberate effort on the part of their government to gain for the present Italian political regime . . . a world-wide advertisement." In every way Nobile showed him that he had modelled himself on the arch-bully Mussolini Tremendous in words, Nobile proved himself useless in action. Three times he nearly wrecked the ship over the polar ice and only the intervention of the Norwegian pilot saved them. Meek as a lamb while there was danger, Nobile became a lion when the trip was all over and carried out his instructions of appropriating the glory for fascism. In Seattle after the success of the flight Amundsen says "The Italian consul had evidently received instructions from the Italian government to do everything possible to make Nobile's return a triumph. In this task his efforts were ably seconded by the local Italian fascisti . . . They had succeeded in creating the impression before our arrival that the flight was largely an Italian undertaking and that Nobile was, with us, chief in command of it." For the Italian mechanics who helped man the dirigible Amundsen has nothing but praise.

The "Norge" expedition marks the close of Amundsen's career. The discoverer of the Northwest Passage discoverer of the South Pole, leader of a flight from Europe to Alaska over the North Pole, and collector of a wealth of scientific material, Amundsen is unquestionably the greatest living Arctic explorer, and the most successful of all.

Reader Praises Burck's Cartoons

To Feature Editor:

As a reader of The DAILY WORKER, I was very glad to see that A. B. Magil accorded Fred Ellis the recognition which his splendid work deserves. I believe, however, he was not quite just to the work of Jacob Burck, who has contributed a number of excellent cartoons to the 1928 book.

Burck's cartoon on the St. Francis dam break was one of the best that the paper has ever run, I believe, both for political content and drawing.

LIBERTY AND OTHER CHARMING ILLUSIONS

LET FREEDOM RING. By Arthur Garfield Hays. Boni & Liveright. $2.50.

Reviewed by SENDER GARLIN.

"INDIGNATION boils my blood," writes Hays, "at the thought of the heritage we are throwing away; at the thought that, with few exceptions, the fight for freedom is left to the poor, forlorn and defenseless, and to the few radicals and revolutionaries who would make use of liberty to destroy, rather than to maintain, American institutions."

The author of this book with its ironic title is a busy New York lawyer.* He files briefs for influential corporations, supervises the writing of last wills and testaments for aged and wealthy clients, and negotiates the transfer of valuable real estate in various parts of Manhattan Island. He is quick-witted, fluent and persuasive. Also, he gets lots of publicity in the newspapers.

"Let Freedom Ring" narrates some half dozen cases with which Hays happened to be connected between the years 1922 and 1927. They include the notorious Scopes Evolution trial where W. J. Bryan crooned his great faith in obscurantism, made his heavenly valedictory and died several days later; the murder trial of Dr. Ossian H. Sweet, Negro physician of Detroit, who shot in self-defense following an attack on his home by a gang of Nordic rowdies who objected to his moving into an "exclusive" neighborhood; the suppression of the play, "The Captive," and the attempt to ban The American Mercury in Boston.

Intense and dramatic are the chapters dealing with the activities of the coal and iron police in the coal regions in Pennsylvania and the eleventh-hour attempts to save Sacco and Vanzetti from the electric chair.

Hays naively divides the world into two classes: "tyrants" and "lovers of liberty." He quotes copiously from the Declaration of Independence and the Bill of Rights, and ringing words from the dissenting judicial opinions of Justices Holmes and Brandeis.

The author's chief argument is based upon the theory that "those in power have so little faith in our institutions that they fear that Americans would be corrupted by radical propaganda to a point where they would rush to overthrow their institutions."

Hays likes the capitalist system. He complains ruefully tha "radicals would make use of liberty to destroy American institutions." Of the existence of a fundamental class relation Hays seems not to have the slightest suspicion, however. Coal operators in Pennsylvania who refuse to permit strike meetings in company-owned towns are "tyrants," according to Hays. Massachusetts judges, university presidents and millionaire governors who sanction the murder of two foreign-born workers are "intolerant."

ARTHUR GARFIELD HAYS

Does it seem surprising, then, to learn that Hays actually approached a number of Pennsylvania businessmen and lawyers (pensioners of the former) with the proposal to form a branch of the American Civil Liberties Union in order to fight for "free speech" for the terrorized coal miners?

I suggest to Mr. Hays that he turn to Page 316 of his own book and read carefully the following paragraph:

> "Sacco and Vanzetti were realists. They were not deluded. To most of us, the trial was a farce; the result an atrocious miscarriage of justice. To them, it was a logical outcome. They were victims in class war. . ."

Propaganda For Schools

(Federated Press)

Responding to "hundreds of demands from schools," Standard Oil has obligingly put the "facts of the oil industry" into a booklet which refrains, however, from using oil as a title. "Petroleum" is mailed free for use in schools, following the example of National Electric Light Assn., which sees to it that pupils have desirable information on the power trust and its activities.

"Rewards" of Genius Under Capitalism

By HENBY.

"YOU can't socialize geniuses or inventors."

This is one of the pet arguments of the individualists against the possibility of a Communist state of society. They cling to the idea that the creation of work of art, and the invention of new wonders in the realm of science and mechanics, come full-formed from the brains of certain god-like men and women.

"Communists cannot change that," say the defenders of the status quo; and they feel confident they have settled the matter.

So it is always interesting to note proofs that, even in our present capitalist state, inventions are actually communal things, and that most of our world-famous inventors have gained their great reputations not from their own achievements alone, but from having credited to them the discoveries of countless unknown workers, great and small.

For instance, a few weeks ago a New York newspaper printed a story in which it named Thomas A. Edison as the inventor of the stock ticker. Immediately they received two letters of protest. One claimed that the ticker had been invented by a man named Scott. The other claimed that the ticker had been invented by one, Callaghan. The truth is that Callaghan first patented the stock ticker, and later Scott patented some improvements on it. Then about a dozen years later Edison came forth with a ticker which infringed on the former patents, and he was sued by Callaghan and had to pay large damages. But he bided his time, and when the Callaghan patent expired, he slipped in with his own improvements and gained control of the patent rights—and, that is more important, control of the market.

And like every other worker the inventor in our present order is given a minimum wage while he is in his prime, and is discarded in his old age. The benefits of his genius go to mankind and the profits to the capitalists who own his patents. Under Communism not only would society benefit by the inventor's labors, but he would get all the benefit and not merely what the exploiters found it profitable to give. Incidentally, the inventor himself would be provided for along with his other fellow workers.

Antisemitism and the World Proletariat

ONE of the worst forms of national enmity is antisemitism, that is to say, racial hostility towards the Jews, who belong to the Semitic stock (of which the Arabs form another great branch). The Czarist autocracy raised the hunt against the Jews in the hope of averting the workers' and peasants' revolution. "You are poor because the Jews fleece you," said the members of the Black Hundreds; and they endeavored to direct the discontent of the oppressed workers and peasants away from the landlords and the bourgeoisie and to turn it against the whole Jewish nation. Among the Jews, as among the other nationalities, there are different classes. It is only the bourgeois strata of the Jewish race which exploit the people, and these bourgeois strata plunder in common with the capitalists of other nationalities. In the outlying regions of Czarist Russia, where the Jews were allowed to reside, the Jewish workers and artisans lived in terrible poverty and degradation, so that their condition was even worse than that of the ordinary workers in other parts of Russia.

The Russian bourgeoisie raised the hunt against the Jews, not only in the hope of diverting the anger of the exploited workers, but also in the hope of freeing themselves from competitors in commerce and industry.

Of late years, anti-Jewish feeling has increased among the bourgeois classes of nearly all countries. The bourgeoisie in other countries besides Russia can take example from Nicholas II. in the attempt to inflame anti-Jewish feeling, not only in order to get rid of rival exploiters, but also in order to break the force of the revolutionary movement. Until recently, very little was heard of antisemitism in Germany, Great Britain, and the United States. Today, even British ministers of state sometimes deliver antisemitic orations. This is an infallible sign that the bourgeois system in the west is on the eve of a collapse, and that the bourgeoisie is endeavoring to ward off the workers' revolution by throwing Rothschilds and Mendelssohns to the workers as sops. In Russia, antisemitism was in abeyance during the March revolution, but the movement regained strength as the civil war between the bourgeoisie and the proletariat grew fiercer; and the attacks on the Jews became more and more bitter in proportion as the attempts of the bourgeoisie to recapture power proved fruitless.

United States--'Friend' of China

The complicated play of imperialist politics and war strategy in China leaves many readers in confusion about the relationships between Japanese imperialism, United States imperialism and the various so-called "nationalist" military leaders. Conflicting interests in the Pacific and in China leading towards war between the United States and Japan are causing many to assume that the depredations of Japanese imperialism in China will be resisted by the United States.

It is true that a sharp conflict of interests between the United States capitalists and those of Japan points toward a future war, and it is true that some of these conflicting interests are to be found in China. The effect of the Japanese declaration in regard to its predominating interests in Manchuria, and Kellogg's reply to the effect that the United States does not recognize the predominance of such Japanese interests, is to sharpen the impression of the conflict between the two imperialist governments.

But this taken alone is too simple a picture. The existance of the conflict of interests does not alter the fact that the United States is now, with arms, aiding the Japanese depredations and violence in China. The imperialist United States is no less an enemy of the Chinese masses than imperialist Japan, and the two enemies of the Chinese masses have interests which coincide as well as other interests which conflict.

When Kellogg blurted out that his Wall Street masters recognize no special interests of Japan in Manchuria, the Japanese government responded with the informal remark that this has nothing to do with her, as she claimed no such interests—a statement which, though untrue, indicates present collaboration between Japan and the United States against China.

The predatory imperialist government at Washington has not suddenly become the redeemer of oppressed peoples. There are some indications that Wall Street has even a considerable satisfaction in the present course of Japan.

Not only can the Wall Street government find gratification in the pressure of Japanese imperialism on the Manchurian borders of the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics, but it is entirely possible for the Wall Street government to be reconciled to the operations of Japanese troops for a certain time, provided these operations do not transcend certain limits fixed between the two rival imperialisms. For instance, an editorial in last Monday's N. Y. Times declared:

> ". . . Japanese influence has been sufficiently strong to isolate that section from the evil effects of China's civil wars. By maintaining peace in Manchuria, and by operating the South Manchurian Railway with a high degree of efficiency, the Japanese have made of this portion of China a haven of refuge and prosperity. . . .
> "That Japan would use her influence—and her troops, if need be—in order to prevent the extension of the civil war into Manchuria has always been obvious. Her formal statement to this effect is only disconcerting if it is to serve as the starting-point of a new policy under which Japan would work for the ultimate annexation of Manchuria. . . ."

No-one should forget that the so-called nationalist generals, Chiang Kai-shek, Feng Yu-hsiang, Yen Shi-shan and Li Chai-sum have long ago severed their last threads of connection with the cause of national independence of China and are now serving only as adventurous traders in blood with the foreign imperialist powers.

The capitalist press correspondents will continue to write of Chiang Kai-shek as the "nationalist" leader and of the United States as a friend of the same cause, but intelligent workers here will understand that the only forces which can defend the Chinese masses are the worker-peasant armies such as are meeting with considerable success in reviving the revolutionary cause in the vicinity of Swatow.

Only the movement of these masses under the hegemony of the Chinese working class can embody the Chinese revolution. Against these masses the United States forces will use every instrument of violence and trickery.

The ruling classes of the United States and of Japan will some time call upon the masses of these countries to slaughter each other for the profit of the rival imperialisms, but they are now calling upon the masses of both countries to support the endless bloody crimes of both imperialisms against the Chinese workers and peasants.

The enemy which the American workers must fight, in respect to China, is the imperialist government of the United States not less, but even more, than that of Japan.

BUILDING TRADE JOB NOTES; PLUMBER VOTE

It's the little things that count, runs an old saying. I am going to write about the hits and bits that occurred on my job for the past few days.

A carpenter who came to ask the boss for a job, asked him among other questions, "How is business?"

"Not so good," replied the boss.

"Why?" asked the workers. "A boss doesn't make much money nowadays. In former years, the bosses made more money, now the workers take good pay and are too independent," said the carpenter boss.

"Then," said the worker, "why don't you go to work for a boss?"

"I am too old to work and will have to spend my days as a boss," was the reply. And so ended that conversation.

A lather told me that 800 men are out of work in the Brooklyn lathers' local. Those who work do so on an average of two days per week.

The plumbers on our job were discussing the coming elections of Local No. 1, which will be held next month.

I learned that there is great dissatisfaction with the present officers of Local No. 1.

The present officials were elected as "progressives" but they betrayed the plumbers in the new agreement of Local No. 1 and the Brooklyn Master Plumbers Association.

MacDonough and Crain do not get along very well with one another. The fight has no principle in it whatsoever. It is a question of who is to get more of the spoils. They hurl attacks at one another. What they tell one another to do and where to go doesn't look well in print.

The real rank and file progressives of Local No. 1 are expected to nominate a full slate. All plumbers should support the progressives in the coming election.

—CASSELL.

A Correction

In yesterday's DAILY WORKER the following headline appeared "Labor Party Is Only Hope for Working-class." This is a dangerous misstatement of the position of The DAILY WORKER on the labor party question. It is likely to cause confusion and illusion. The DAILY WORKER will comment more fully in a later issue.

How Far Does the Frame-Up of Bonita Go?

By SIDNEY BLOOMFIELD.

Sam Bonita, militant president of local 1703 U. M. W. of A., the victim of a most disgraceful frame-up, must rot in the pen from six to twelve years. Bonita is not the victim of the direct capitalist forces alone. People who have enjoyed the confidence of Bonita have worked against his best interests. Sam has been betrayed by those in whom he trusted.

A Militant Miner.

Sam is a simple worker who is fanatically religious and who is never without a bible in his pocket. Yet he is an honest and militant rank and filer who was in the fore-front fo the struggle against the contractor system and associated with the progressive forces in his local who, on the basis of the struggle for the Save-the-Union program, had swept all reactionaries out of office. This victory of the progressives was not accepted ungrudgingly by the reactionary elements and contractors. They at once instituted a reign of terror hardly paralleled in the annals of the labor movement. One after another, Tom Lillis, Peter Reilly, Alex Campbell, and Sam Grecio — all progressive officials were, excepting Grecio, fatally shot from ambush by hired gun-men.

Sam Bonita, who was trapped and fired on by Frank Agati, a reputed contractor, bully and personal body guard of Cappelini, returned fire, thus putting an end to the depredations of this gunman. Bonita, together with his colleagues Adam Moleski and Steve Mendola were arrested. Judge McClean, who is also a general in the army, inflicted the maximum sentence upon Sam. Mendola and Moleski, who were held as accessories, were mysteriously released on the eve of the local elections on $10,000 bail each. The defense committee which carried on splendid work in their behalf as well as in behalf of Bonita was neither advised or consulted about the matter of their release, bail being posted thru an arrangement between the lawyers, politicians and the so-called friends of the defendents. Knowing that they were popular men, the forces at work for state senator-elect Lanning Harvey utilized this release as political campaign material for the capitalist candidates.

Together with the I. L. D., the defense committee realized that a victory for Bonita means a victory for the progressive rank and file and a defeat for the contractor system as well as a defeat for all the enemies of the labor movement. With the conviction that the fight to save Bonita is a fight for the whole working class the committee labored unceasingly, exhausting every means trying to appeal the case. But every avenue was barricaded against the committee whose labors were in vain.

Lawyers Betray.

After having paid $3700 to the defense lawyers, Frank Flannery, Harold Flannery, and John Dando, the committee held several fruitless conferences with them. Each time they refused to appeal the case, giving as their excuse that they did not want to be scoffed at by the court since there were no legal grounds for an appeal. At each conference we were told by the lawyers to keep quiet, not to rouse mass sentiment and in a year or more from now they woud go to the pardon board and ask for a pardon if we would pay them the remainder of $5,000. Needless to say, a pardon will not be given so simply to Bonita in a state so hostile to labor.

After going thru much red tape I finally gained admission to the Luzerne county jail, where I talked with Sam for about a half hour. Sam had been scared stiff by the lawyers, Frank McGarry, James Kearney, and the rest of the Brennan men. All of them, supposed to be close friends of Bonita, have betrayed his confidence in them. They kept coming to see him almost daily, and they were permitted to stay with him as long as they desired, while the members of the committee who were sincerely active in his behalf, were very rarely admitted and only a few minutes each time, which made it almost impossible to talk to Bonita. I was the only representative of the committee who stayed a half hour with him.

McGarry, Kearney and the lawyers kept telling Sam if he dared to appeal to higher courts he would be re-tried and convicted of first degree murder and the consequence would be that he would receive a much worse sentence. These lawyers and his so-called friends knew that they were lying to Sam. I tried to convince Sam that such advice was plain treachery and that there must be a reason for this anxiety to keep him in prison until everybody would forgot about him. Altho we could not convince Sam to authorize us to engage new counsel and to carry on thru an appeal, the reason for all this concern about Bonita upon the part of the lawyers and his so-called friends soon same to light.

Why did McGarry and Kearney take such pains to visit Sam so frequently and always to counteract the committee's work? Why were the lawyers visiting Sam almost daily and staying with him for hours at a time? Were they really so vitally concerned about him? Why did Dando agree to take one of our committeemen to see Sam, only to break this promise and then after himself talking to Sam for two hours, tell us that Sam does not want to see anyone? Why were they so anxious for Sam not to appeal but to wait more than a year and then ask for a pardon? Why were Moleski and Mendola released upon bail on the eve of the election with the strict injunction by Judge McClean to stay out of union activities?

Guilt of Brennan Gang.

Why did the lawyers appear at the jail every time a committee-man tried to get in to see Sam? Why was the warden so anxious to know what Harold Flannery and I were talking about after I had talked with Bonita? Why did McGarry, Kearney and the rest of the Brennanites work together with the lawyers and against the committee? Why does Brennan want to investigate the murder of Campbell, Lillis and Reilly and also the killing of Agati? Does not Brennan know that Agati was the enemy of Campbell, Lillis and Reilly, and that even a capitalist jury stood 11 to 1 for acquittal of Bonita? What does Brennan wants to investigate about Cappelini's gunman Agati?

These Brennan people know that Bonita is a popular figure and is with the Save-the-Union forces and if Bonita were out of jail, McGarry would lose his job as president of local 1703, and that Bonita would be the logical man to replace Cappelini, thus preventing Brennan from getting the office of the district presidency. In short, the whole Brennan machine as well as the Cappelini-Lewis machine would be most likely defeated if Bonita were out today. Brennan, McGarry, Kearney, the lawyers—all of them are well aware of this. That is why they are all so keenly interested in lying to and keeping Sam in jail. The betrayal of Sam Bonita must be placed where it belongs—at the door of the Brennan gang in league with the lawyers, contractors and the Lewis gang.

Illinois Miners Are Again in Control of Their Union

By GERRY ALLARD.

The district convention, called by the rank and file miners of Illinois, has accomplished the necessary steps to save and rebuild their union. Two hundred and forty-nine delegates from 78 local unions gathered at Belleville to take up the problems that were confronting them and to oust the reactionaries from leadership. The spirit of the convention was very high as reflected by the rank and file who time after time pointed out the necessity of taking these steps to save the union.

At this convention no millionaire labor leader appeared. No pot-bellied, diamond-studded labor faker infested the atmosphere of the convention. The Lewises, Fishwicks, Greens, Farringtons, were not present at this convention. Toughened, grim, determined coal diggers gathered there to report their grievances, to oust the reactionary machine, to rebuild their union into an organization which will help rally the miners of America to immediate action against the onslaught of the coal operators.

Elect Voyzey President.

George Voyzey, local union 413 of Springfield, was elected president of the United Mine Workers of America, District 12. Luke Coffee, the chairman of the convention was elected vice-president. Coffee is the fighting president of local union 705, O'Fallon and resides in Belleville.

Danial H. Slinger, of Belleville was elected secretary-treasurer. The new officer were elected unanimously and were greeted by thunderous applause.

Greetings to the convention were received from John Brophy, whose illness has recently kept him from active participation in the miners' fight. His message was received with an ovation.

Greetings were also received from Tony Minerich, Mother Bloor, Thomas Meyerscough, from the Indiana State Convention, Powers Hapgood and many others.

The reactionaries of district 12, led by Walter Nesbit, the former secretary-treasurer, formed a picket line several blocks away from the convention and tried to divert the miners from attending.

The first night of the convention was marked by a fist fight that occurred at a restaurant when George Voyzey, Freeman Thompson and John Watt were attacked by 15 sluggers led by Nesbit. The three militant fighters succeeded in routing the thugs. In the skirmish Nesbit suffered a black eye and several other marks. Thompson was badly slugged. The next day following the fight the three militants who had been arrested and released from prison were greeted by the delegation.

Henchmen Exposed.

The indictment against the machine officials charged them with conspiracy with the operators beginning with Frank Farrington. The policies of the betrayer, Farrington have never been changed. Harry Fishwick worked in conjunction with Farrington in every respect. "The Fishwick machine has continued these policies begun by Farrington and approved by the Lewis machine," the indictment read "to the point of splitting the union, losing all the conditions won through hard fought battles of the past, deviding the Illinois miners against themselves, and completely selling out to the operators by working hand in hand with them to smash the union." The policy of separate agreements after the rank and file had issued a mandate opposing separate agreements, was bitterly condemned. "The policy of separate agreements is a policy of destruction," was the statement of the indictment.

Brand Sell-Out.

The contract extended to the operators by the officialdom giving the bosses unlimited rights on the mechanical loaders, conveyors, and other machinery tending to increase unemployment amongst the miners, the weakness of the officialdom to fight the case of the miners, stealing of votes, packing of conventions, expelling militant miners, the railroading of the miners from Zeigler to prison, and several other indictments were branded in the charges against the reactionary labor fakers. The convention then proceeded to elect its own officers.

A resolution was unanimously adopted abolishing the appointive power of officials, abolishing the district executive board, and a committee to direct the work of the miners in district 12 was set up.

The Coal Digger was accepted as the official organ; resolutions for a special international convention, the release of class war prisoners, a call to all members that had been expelled by the Lewis machine to return to the organization, condemnation of the frame-up of the Zeigler miners and demanding their release, miners relief, all other resolutions were adopted unanimously with the rank and file discussing them at length.

Watt Speaks.

John Watt, Vice-President of National Committee, was received with a thunderous applause. He eloquently pointed out the situation of the coal mining industry, the role of the Lewis machine and the task of the rank and file members in their epochal struggle.

The young miners showed a spirit of determination to fight side by side with the adult miners. A resolution introduced by Gerry Allard calling for the immediate mobilization of the young miners through a conference to be held June 9th in Belleville was adopted. The young miners held a conference of their own, elected Gerry Allard as their district secretary and immediately laid the basis for organization work.

A committee of 20 young miners was elected to take charge of the provisional youth conference.

Scores Unable to Come.

The convention deliberated quite actively upon the many problems. Scores of miners were not permitted to come due to the financial condition of the miners themselves. Most of the delegates hiked or came in Fords that they could borrow. The spirit of the convention was fine in every respect.

Dan Slinger, newly elected secretary-treasurer of the district, closed the convention by saying: "There can be no hesitation on our part, there can be no doubts, nothing but determination to return to our respective localities and build an organization that will lead and fight for the miners of this country."

HANdOuTS

A NEW way of expressing friendship has been hit upon by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., principal owner of the Consolidation Coal Company, who has just announced he will show his kindness for his slaving miners by shutting down ten plants and discharging twenty per cent of his men. Rockefeller is willing to admit it is not purely an act of self-sacrifice on his part, his statement saying he felt "reduction of tonnage as well as of miners would be constructive benefit on both sides." A fellow who expresses his love in this unique manner is the kind of a man who would slip fly-paper into his wife's corset as a mark of esteem, toss a concrete dog biscuit to his collie as a symbol of affection and tip his waitress with a Canadian dime to show his regard.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE'S plans to deliver this year's Memorial Day address at the Gettysburg battlefield, where no president has had the courage or naivete to make a speech since Abraham Lincoln's day, shows the progress of the republican party. Lincoln is supposed to have scribbled out the classic political speech of nineteenth century capitalism on the back of an envelope on the train en route to Gettysburg. Several days before the hour of Coolidge's address, however, the speech Coolidge is to deliver on the graveyard of American chattel slavery was run off by the thousand in the government printing plant at Washington. It was then sent broadcast through the mail to newspaper offices, to be set in advance and held in type for release when the great moment arrives. It is probable that Coolidge didn't even have to write the speech himself. He isn't a great hand to write.

It is always dangerous to attempt to predict literary verdicts of the remote future. But the advance press copy of the address Cal Coolidge will deliver across the flag-wound 2-by-four pine railing at Gettysburg May 30 is at hand. And it does not seem likely in hearing a reference to the Gettysburg address that anybody in the remote future will ask: "Which Gettysburg address?"

Twelve of England's most prominent military clowns, including Sir Eric Geddes, who is said never to have seen a trench until the armistice, last week put on their masquerade costumes and amidst great ceremony were inducted into the Order of Bath by King George V. These militarist [illegible] try to keep secret the manner in which the order originated which is as follows: King Henry IV established the order at the beginning of the fifteenth century. A soldier knelt before the sovereign to be knighted but the king couldn't bear the unique odor of the military man. He thereupon addressed him in these words, "This brave fellow requires rest and refreshment after his prolonged heroism. Take him away and give him a bath and fresh raiment and sustenance. Then bring him again before me, to be knighted."

OFFICIALLY and unofficially Rome and Washington are getting closer and closer. According to a dispatch yesterday the board of governors of the National Press Club at Washington has voted a non-resident membership to Premier Mussolini, who is the owner of the Rome newspaper D'Italia. And another dispatch said that Mussolini had directed that an active membership card in the fascisti party be given to Luigi Barzini, editor of the Corriere di America. The first thing we know Mussolini will be sending word to the pope that the next Mussolini baby is to be christened Calvin.

MORE EVICTIONS OUST THOUSANDS IN MINE FIELDS

Open Shop Operators in Mad Drive

(Special to the Daily Worker)

PITTSBURGH, Pa., May 27.—Tents are being rushed by the National Miners' Relief Committee to the families of five unorganized miners on strike at Elm Grove near here who were evicted from their company-owned homes last Friday.

These evictions are part of a total of 1,400 which are now in progress at Elm Grove. The five families, threatened with the loss of their homes found themselves unable to find new dwellings for less than $30 monthly. Unable to pay this amount because of the poor pay they had received prior to their walk-out, the miners were forced into the streets Friday by deputy sheriffs armed with eviction orders.

Wholesale Evictions.

Preparatory to re-opening Crow Hollow Number one mine on a non-union basis, the United States Coal Company has asked Federal Judge Benson Hough, of Steubenville, Ohio for eviction orders against the striking miners now occupying company quarters. One hundred and sixty-one families are affected by the contemplated evictions, according to information reaching the National Miners Relief Committee.

Nearly 600 families have been evicted from company houses in eastern Ohio since April 15, it was estimated yesterday at the relief committee's headquarters. Two-hundred and ninety families were forced from their dwellings by the coal operators on April 15. A wholesale eviction order enforced a month later left 185 more families homeless.

CONVENTION HITS FINNISH TERROR

Social - Democrats Aid Fascist

Charging that the social-democrats aided the fascists of Finland in the murder of more than 15,000 militant workers, the National Nominating Convention of the Workers (Communist) Party passed a resolution expressing its solidarity with the masses of Finland and calling upon workers of the United States to aid in the struggle for the release of victims of the fascist terror who are now in jail.

The text of the resolution follows:

Torture Workers.

"The fascist government of Finland, aided by the benevolent assistance of the social-democrats, not satisfied with the wholesale execution of 15,000 revolutionary workers immediately after the Civil War of 1918 and starving to death of 15,000 more in the prison camps, has ever since that date persecuted, arrested and tortured the workers of Finland in the most beastly way. Workers have been persecuted, tortured and jailed for belonging to the trade unions. They have been jailed and tortured for voting for working class candidates or participating in working class political action. They have been tortured and jailed for the "crime" of participating in the formation of independent political parties of the workers. They have been tortured and jailed for protesting against Finland's preparations for entering into a war against the Soviet Union as the tool of British and American imperialism. Above all, the most brutal torture and the longest jail sentences and death have been the lot of those charged with revolutionary Communist activity.

"The Finnish government, aided by the Finnish social-democrats, has suppressed the press of the militant workers. The social-democrats have played the role of spies and informers, pointing out the active militants to the fascist government of Finland When the fascists were too weak to hold onto the government against the mass protests of the workers, the

OHIO CITY SENDS FUNDS TO 'DAILY'

Youngstown Answers Paper's Plea

In response to a telegram telling of the critical financial situation of The DAILY WORKER, $37.50 was immediately raised by the Workers (Communist) Party of Youngstown, Ohio, and sent to the Daily.

As soon as the telegram arrived, a general membership meeting was called by Mary Fradin, secretary-organizer of the Youngstown Workers Party, and the money raised at once, despite the fact that most of those present had just come from a meeting at which they had contributed to the fund for miners' defense. A number of unemployed workers were also among those who contributed.

The contributions were as follows: Goorevitch, 50 cents; R. Williams, $5; Sembels, $2; Turko, $5; Sharky, $1; Fradin, 50 cents; Pentar, $1.50; Lubetsky, $1.50; Landers, $10; Fartic, $2; S. Sirotnic, 50 cents; F. Sirotnic, 50 cents; Been, $5; and N. and B. Blumentall, $3.

The crisis of the Daily is not yet over; the danger sign cannot yet be removed. Keep your fighting Daily alive! Give it the opportunity to grow stronger! Send all contributions at once to The DAILY WORKER, 33 First St., New York City.

TAMMANY GRAFT TRAIL CREEPS ON

While the creeping trail of graft exposures was slowly reaching up into the camp of the higher-ups in the Tammany Hall democratic machine a trail which, it is believed, would lead to Mayor Walker and Al Smith himself, if it were really followed out, a jury in Albany convicted Mrs. Florence E. S. Knapp former republican Secretary of State, on a charge of grand larceny carrying with it a maximum penalty of ten years. None of those guilty, it is expected, will actually be punished for their crimes. Sentence of Mrs. Knapp who was convicted nominally for having diverted to her own use a check of $2,875.06, but who was shown actually to have stolen several hundred thousands, has already been postponed to the autumn.

Suspend Another.

Investigation of the $200,000,000 Tammany graft in the street cleaning department led to the suspension Saturday of James Minchin, Borough Superintendent of the Bronx who is the third ranking officer in the uniformed service. MURDOCH, BEAL AND 3 OTHERS TAKEN TO JAIL

Strikers Are Closing Their Ranks

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., May 27.—The 27,000 textile mill workers out on strike in protest against a 10 per cent wage cut are redoubling their efforts as a result of the arrest here on Saturday of William T. Murdoch, secretary-organizer of the Textile Mill Committees, Fred Beal, and three other militant strikers.

The five who were arrested by the police were declared to have been involved in a "disturbance" at the Hathaway Mill some days ago. This act is seen by the strikers as a continuation of the series of attempts to railroad their leaders into prison, in an effort to break the backbone of the strike, which is now in its seventh week.

After more than six weeks of struggle, the spirit and morale of the striking workers is just as fresh as ever, the leaders report. Picketing goes on day after day. The arrest of Murdoch, Beal and the other three strikers has aroused the men to a more militant stand than ever.

The police, at the instigation of the mill owners, are hampering the defense in every way possible.

Eight Harvard students who came here to watch the strike and study conditions have been addressing strikers' meetings.

The Fighting Slogans of the Big Meet

ALONG the balcony of Central Opera House where the great National Nominating Convention of the Workers (Communist) Party took place, the fighting slogans of the revolutionary workers of America were displayed:

"Use the campaign to spread Communism."

"A vote for the Workers (Communist) Party is a vote for the class struggle, the abolition of capitalism, the dictatorship of the proletariat and for a Soviet U. S. A."

"We greet the victory of the German Communist Party."

"The struggles of the Chinese workers and peasants is our struggle."

"The Negro workers and farmers are our own brothers in the struggle against capitalis toppression."

"The imperialists are preparing for a new world war."

"FIGHT against the Wall Street war in Nicaragua; support the struggle of the Nicaraguan people against Wall Street; demand the withdrawal of American forces from Nicaragua."

"The working class women and youth must be mobilized against capitalism."

"Victory in Germany—victory in france—victory in Poland. This is our year; vote Communist."

"Join and build the Workers (Communist) Party of America. Support the miners' struggle against the coal magnates; against Lewis—for a powerful union in the mining industry."

"We honor the memory of John Reed, C. E. Ruthenberg, William D. Haywood."

WORKERS PARTY NOMINEES WILL CARRY COMMUNIST PROGRAM TO ALL TOILERS IN AMERICAN FACTORIES AND ON THE FARMS

Platform to Mobilize Workers On All Immediate Issues For Class Struggle 296 Delegates Include 25 Representatives of Negro Toilers

Tumultuous Demonstration At Nomination of Working Class Leaders Lasts 45 Minutes; International Is Sung

On a platform that completely represents the interests of the American working class in every sphere of political and industrial action, William Z. Foster and Benjamin Gitlow will bear the standard of the Workers (Communist) Party in the coming election campaign. This was the decision of the National Nominating Convention of the Workers Party which concluded its three-day session at the Central Opera House, 67th St. and 3rd Ave., yesterday.

The convention which selected Foster and Gitlow to bear the standard of the Party was the most representative working class gathering ever held in the United States. Twenty-five Negro workers, ten farmers, young workers and women workers were among the 296 regular delegates from every section of the country and from virtually every industry who adopted the program, drawn up by the Central Executive Committee, and nominated the two militant working class leaders as the Party candidates for president and vice president.

150 Fraternal Delegates.

In addition to the regular delegates, more than 150 fraternal delegates, including representatives from Nicaragua, Chile, Mexico, Haiti and Canada, came to the convention to express their solidarity with the Party in its struggle against capitalism and its allies—the socialist party and the trade union bureaucracy.

A demonstration that lasted more than three quarters of an hour greeted the nomination of Foster and Gi low. Hundreds of delegates lifted th two working class leaders to thei shoulders and marched around the huge hall, singing the "International." Young pioneers, carrying banners and placards, and cheering the Party and its standard bearers, joined the pr cession.

A Revolutionary Program.

Foster and Gitlow were proposed as the Party candidates by Robert Minor, chairman of the nominating committee. The nominations were seconded by Richard B. Moore, one of the leaders of the American Negro Labor Congress; Ella Reeve Bloor, 67-year old labor veteran, and Lucy Parsons, widow of Albert Parsons, one of the victims of the Chicago Haymarket frame-up.

In accepting the nomination, Foster emphasized the fact that it was a clear-cut revolutionary working class program that the Party was putting forward, not merely candidates.

Platform Emphasized.

Accepting the nomination he declared: "I feel it the greatest honor to become of the standard bearers of the Workers (Communist) Party.

"I realize that it is the program of the Workers Party that is being put forward and not any individual. But if there is anything in my past experience in the class struggle that is of any value to the Party, I feel i my duty to offer that.

"This convention has shown that the Party has begun to obtain a grip in the working class of all sections. It is not enough, however, that our Party take the lead in the industrial struggle. It must advance in the political field as well."

A Complete Expression.

The platform which was adopted after careful deliberation, following the presentation of a report by the platform committee, headed by Jay Lovestone, is a complete expression of the demands of the American working class in every phase of industrial and political life. Speakers at the meeting stressed the fact that the struggles for immediate demands served to mobilize and organize the American working class for the struggle against capitalism and imperialism.

The Party Demands.

The program calls for the protection of the unemployed, the immediate abolition of all vagrancy laws, the control of the mine union by the rank and file, national mine agreements and the Jacksonville scale, the withdrawal of American marines from China, Nicaragua and Haiti, the cancellation of war debts, the immediate recognition of the Soviet Union, the abrogation of injunctions, the r lease of class war prisoners, politi action of the working class thru

PARIS, May 27. — The former French deputy Vaillant Couturier has been again sentenced to eight months in jail and a fine of 1000 francs. Australian Labor Party Will Bar Communists

WELLINGTON, New Zealand, (By Mail).—At the annual conference of the Labor Party held in Wellington during Easter week, a proposal to admit members of the Communist Party into membership in the labor Party was defeated.

Nine votes were cast for the admission of Communists to the Labor Party and 106 votes against it.

PEPPER GREETS BIG PARTY MEET

Hails Convention in Cablegram

The following cablegram has been received from John Pepper, member of the Executive Committee of the Communist International who is now in Moscow:

"As a soldier in the army of the Workers (Communist) Party I salute the big National Nominating Convention. The very fact that hundreds of delegates from almost all the states of the United States have come together to adopt the platform of the class struggle, to nominate the only genuine working class candidates for the presidency and vice-presidency, to declare war against capitalist exploitation and oppression, to organize the struggle against United States imperialism, is a major achievement of our Party.

"The election slogan of the republican party is "Prosperity." As a fact, this "prosperity" means unemployment, wage-cuts, open-shop drive, untold sufferings for the working class.

"The election platform of the democratic party is 'Honesty in Government.' Reality shows corruption, graft, lobbying in the camps of both capitalist parties.

"Farm Relief" is the slogan of republicans, democrats and progressives. In reality, 'farm relief' means growing mortgages, increased tenancy, merciless taxation, bankruptcy and ruin for the farmers.

"'Social and Political Equality' is the favorite phrase of all upholders of the constitution. Reality shows disfranchisement of the foreign-born workers, of the youth, of the Negroes. Democracy amounts, in fact, to the

EULALIE MENDES, GIRL TEXTILE STRIKER, COMES TO THE COMMUNIST PARTY CONVENTION

ALIE MENDES runs a speeder the City Mill at New Bedford, At least she did until six weeks ago, when nearly 30,000 textile workers walked out of the mills in reply to a ten per cent wage cut.

Eulalie was in New York Friday, Saturday and Sunday. She came to the National Nominating Convention of the Workers (Communist) Party to tell of the fight in New Bedford.

Only 18 years old, Eulalie is vice-president of the New Bedford Textile Workers' Union, which is affiliated with the National Textile Mill Committee. She is also a member of the executive committee of the strike committee.

She looked a little frightened as she stood on the platform at Mecca Temple last Friday night. Four thousand New York workers who came to greet the opening of the first National Nominating Convention of the Workers Party listened intently to the dark-eyed young Portugese girl.

"The workers of New Bedford sent me here," she said, "to tell you of the big fight we are carrying on against the textile bosses. I understand Mr. Butler is going to run for senator in Massachusetts. But many of the workers think he is not a good candidate for them because he is friendly to all the bosses and himself owns several big mills.

"We all think a better candidate for us would be Albert Weisbord," she said as thunderous applause broke over the huge auditorium. "The Workers sent me here," she concluded, "because they are convinced that the Workers' Party is fighting for them."

Eulalie was eager, alert and enthusiastic during the Saturday session of the convention at Central Opera House. She was asked about conditions in the New Bedford mills before the strike.

"More than half of the workers in the mills are young girls and women," she said in response to a question.

"How much do they earn, Well, many get as little as $7.90 a week for a 44-hour wek. Thousands of men earn about $16 a week."

"What is the highest pay anybody gets?"

"Sixteen dollars."

"Many of them have five or six kids, don't they?" she was asked.

"Sure, some have nine, ten and many of them have twelve children."

Eulalie spoke of her chum Diana Susa, who is 22 years old. "She only makes $9.40 a week for 44 hours," Eulalie said.

"How much does she pay for board and room?"

"She has to pay $7 a week for food and $1 a week for a room."

"That doesn't leave her much for other things, does it?"

Eulalie explained that her friend washed her own clothes and made her own dresses.

"We are fighting for a 40-hour week," she explained, "a 20 per cent increase, no speed-up and the recognition of our union. We will fight until we win no matter how long it takes us."

Workers Party Convention Lauds Smashing of Donetz Basin Conspiracy

RECOGNITION OF U.S.S.R. DEMANDED AT MONSTER MEET

Resolution Adopted Unanimously

The following resolution condemning the imperialist sabotage plot in the Donetz Basin of Soviet Russia and demanding the recognition of the Soviet Union was unanimously adopted at the opening session of the Workers (Communist) Party Convention at Mecca Temple, 133 W. 55th St., Friday evening:

Resolution on the Shaktinsk Trial in Moscow.

Whereas, the Soviet Government has put on trial before the Court in Moscow a group of engineers and technical experts formerly occupying important positions in the socialized coal industry of the Donetz Basin; and

Whereas, it has been established by the investigation of the Soviet authorities that these technical experts have systematically sabotaged the development of the coal industry criminally have destroyed technical equipment of the mines, disorganized production thereby causing untold losses in damage to the workers and peasants of the Soviet Union and retarding the building of Socialism in the Workers Republic; and

Whereas, it has also been established that these technical experts have carried on their treacherous and counter-revolutionary activities on the industrial field at the direction and with the financial support of the former owners of the Donetz mines which are now part of the socialized industries of the Soviet Union owned by the workers and peasants; and

Whereas, it has also been established that several powerful capitalist groups in Germany, France, England and Poland were backing financially and directing the criminal sabotage of the technical experts now on trial and that the latter have been cooperating with secret service agents of several capitalist governments; and

Whereas, these facts clearly indicate the existence of an extended conspiracy of world capitalism in alliance with the Russian White Guard to disrupt the building of Socialism in the Soviet Union, to weaken it economically and politically in preparation for open imperialist war upon the Workers Republic; and

Whereas, the crime of these technical experts becomes even blacker in the face of the great consideration high salaries and other privileges accorded them by the Soviet Government and the toiling masses of the Soviet Union for the purpose of encouraging these experts to work freely and in an atmosphere of trust for the economic upbuilding of the country;

Therefore, we, the workers of New York and vicinity, assembled in Mecca Temple to greet the Workers (Communist) Party Nominating Convention, do hereby resolve:

1. That the safety, security, well being and success of socialist construction in the Soviet Union is the greatest concern of the workers of the entire world.

2. That we condemn this newest capitalist conspiracy against the Soviet Union, as inimical to the vital interests of the toilers throughout the world and that we express our deep- satisfaction with the success of [illegible] Soviet authorities in uncovering [illegible]s conspiracy and bringing the cul[illegible]its to trial before the toiling masses [illegible] the world.

2. That we call upon the court of the Soviet Union to mercilessly crush and stamp out this conspiracy, meting out adequate punishment to those proved guilty, and that we also call upon the working class of America and the entire world to redouble its vigilance and to intensify its preparations for the defense of the Soviet Union against the threatening war of the imperialist powers.

Further, that we demand of the United States government the immediate recognition of the Soviet Union.

Quota Law To Separate Mother and Children

Another example of the great hardships suffered by the foreign-born workers in the United States as a result of capitalist laws aimed at them is the case of Mrs. Emma Gallanti (shown above with three of her children). Deportation orders will allow some of the children to remain here with their father, a worker in Hermine, Pa., while Mrs. Gallanti and the other children must return to Italy.

THERE'S NOTHING DOING FOR THE OLD MINERS

By ED FALKOWSKI, (Federated Press).

HAZLETON, Pa., May 27.—Economy is throwing the old men out of the anthracite mines. One colliery has established a record by laying off three in one day.

The cycle of the miner's life is from the breaker through the mine back to the breaker. Breaker work means picking the rock out of coal as it rushes down chutes from the rollers where it has been crushed to required sizes after being dumped from the mine cars. Minus the rock, it flows down to the carloading pocket. Usually this work is very light and is done by boys. Formerly miners started their careers at the age of 8 as breaker boys and frequently worked in breakers so far from home that they had to start walking before daylight, and returned home again in the dark.

Child labor laws and machinery have left the breakers largely as the final workhouses for old men too weak to perform heavier jobs. After a lifetime of exhausting work in the mines, the miner always made the last lap of his run at the slate pickers' table.

Laying off old men, even when they can do the work, is an economy measure on the company's part. They have often had to pay compensation for old men who died while at work.

Laying off old men amounts to killing them. Few miners live long after they have lost connection with the mine. They linger for a few years withering away, until one day they are found dead on the street or in a cellar or in bed.

CHICAGO WORKERS TO PICNIC MAY 30

Progressive Unionists Plan Annual Event

CHICAGO, May 27.—Chicago has often in its history been the center of militant trade unionism. It has been the scene of many hard fought strikes as well as the center where militants have often gathered to exchange their experiences of the past and make plans for greater activities for the future. On Wednesday, Decoration Day, militant workers from trade unions and from unorganized industries will again gather. This time not to consider the serious aspects of the movement but to meet their friends of old times and to enjoy themselves.

Chicago workers have shown that they understand the need of progressive methods and of militant action when the employers attack their organizations. That was proved in the great demonstration against the Landis award. That period saw the beginning of the Trade Union Educational League as a leading force within the progressive movement. It has been active since. It will surely face yet greater probiems and greater tasks in the future with a demand also for greater activity.

The gathering of militants on Decoration Day is under the auspices of the Chicago local of the Trade Union Educational League. It is the annual picnic and will be held at Viapi Grove at Park Ridge, Ill. It is needless to mention that there will be plenty of enjoyment for young and old, refreshments and good speakers. Two teams of young workers will compete for the baseball championship.

TEXTILE COMPANY UNION IS FAILING

Boss Organization to Fight Organized Labor, Is Itself Dying

By ART SHIELDS.
(Federated Press).

DANVILLE, Va., May 27.—This is the story of the decline of the company-union in the biggest cotton mill in the south—the Riverside and Dan River Mills of Danville. The Danville company-union is one of the few in the south, for textile heads in this region usually take the same attitude as the United States Steel Corp., that company unions are a waste of time.

The Danville experiment began 10 years ago as an offset to labor unions in the mill, and attracted much attention throughout the south. The big $15,000,000 company is a landmark of industrial development, and the city of Danville, with its population of 32,000, stands at the gateway of the southern division of the cotton manufacturing industry.

A plan of industrial democracy, the company union is called, and for short it is usually named "the industrial democracy."

A member of the house, a skilled worker, gave me the history of the plan. His statements were confirmed by a former member of that body.

"The people here believed the promises of the company when they introduced the plan. That's why they dropped their union," he said. "We had one to two thousand members of the American Federation of Labor. Then the boss men said they were putting in industrial democracy and there was no use in paying dues any more to the old union. They said the company would cooperate and improve conditions with the new plan. They distributed membership cards to sign, and a few of the boys who held out were told they'd be fired if they didn't sign.

"In three months unionism was dead except among the loom fixers. Some of the loom fixers thought there was no use for their union with industrial democracy, but the others said they'd better wait and see how the plan worked. Well, for a while it went pretty well. There were meetings of the congress every week and a lot of bills passed improving sanitary conditions in the mill. That was when the new ventilating system was put into the new concrete weave shed.

"But that didn't last. After a while meetings were held only twice a month, and now only once a month There were wage cuts in the mill. We found it was no use bringing in any bills about wages or hours. The 10-hour day stayed."

The company can veto any bill through the senate of overseers or the cabinet. This is the course the bill takes. It is introduced in the house of representatives, and the speaker refers it to a committee. Next month, if there are no obstructions, the bill goes to a vote on the floor If it passes, without further delay, it goes next month to the senate of overseers where the bill is again shuffled from floor to committee and back again. If it gets by this upper house of bosses the cabinet accepts or rejects. If the bill is accepted it returns to both house for final ratifications. Endless red tape. Only the house can introduce bills, but the senate of overseers can recommend and the bosses' recommendations are persuasive.

"No bills passed this session," said my informant, "though there were a few amendments." The session began in the summer of 1927. So it goes: the congress sits, and nothing is done, and the average employe hardly knows that industrial democracy exists, except when the shop is notified of election day.

TOOHEY ACCOUNTS FOR TWO CHICKEN DINNERS

More than 300 regular and fraternal delegates to the National Nominating Convention of the Workers (Communist) Party here were guests Saturday night at the most mirth-provoking and spontaneous gathering ever held in the history of the Communist and left wing movement.

William W. Weinstone, organizer of the New York district of the Workers (Communist) Party turned the meeting over to Scott Nearing as permanent chairman. Nearing called first upon Pat Toohey for an accounting.

"This banquet is indeed unique," were the opening words of Toohey who is secretary of the National Miners' Save-the-Union Committee, "because this is the first banquet at which I have been able to swipe two orders of chicken."

Encouraged by Toohey's example others in the hall were seen to do likewise. Towards the end of the evening, while Richard B. Moore of the Negro Labor Congress was delivering his more than ordinarily eloquet harrangue on the north meeting the south, Scott Nearing was seen to have slipped down in his chair in the act of devouring, it is said, his third portion of chicken at the same time exchanging signals with Jay Lovestone, executive secretary of the Party, who was putting away his own fourth order.

Throughout the proceedings two dark horses for the presidential and vice-presidential offices on the Communist ticket were held in complete leash. On several occasions William Z. Foster and Benjamin Gitlow, the two suspected ones, made frantic attempts to speak, but were kept in check by Comrade Polbureau.

Chairman Nearing, who announced himself as a member of the Stump-speakers' Union, with credentials to use a bottle in one of three well-known methods on the author of any political speech, managed to have the rule fairly well observed with the exception of Rebecca Grecht, who recited the Imprecorr, only more so.

One of the outstanding events of the evening was the account by David A. Griffin, a Negro delegate from Seattle, of his trip deluxe over the country to New York. The account of how he "beat his way" will be written up by Bert Wolfe, in a sort of Communist poetic epic, it is believed, and should not be told here in too great detail.

Juliet Stuart Poyntz, head of women's work, engaged in a bit of repartee with Nearing, Weinstone, Minor and Lovestone as to whether women were oppressed, suppressed or repressed. None of her remarks, she insisted, were to be taken personally.

organization of a genuine labor party, the eradication of race indiscrimination, the abolition of legislation against the foreign-born, the prohibition of night work by women, compulsory abolition of child labor, the municipal fixing of low rents and other advances for the workers.

Working Class Basis.

The thoro working class base of the convention was clearly in evidence thruout its sessions. Reports were delivered by mine delegations from Ohio, Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Illinois. Representatives from the New Bedford textile mills, headed by Eulalia Mendez, from the Bethlehem steel mills, from the Detroit automobile factories and from Akron rubber factories analyzed the problems of workers in the basic industries.

A good deal of the work of the convention was carried out by the following committees:

Press, Alexander Bittelman, chairman; Ways and Means, Alexander Trachtenburg, chairman; Resolutions, James Cannon, chairman; Campaign and Propaganda, Bertram D. Wolfe, chairman; Platform, Jay Lovestone, chairman, William W. Weinstone, secretary; Credentials, Jack Stachel. Rebecca Grecht was elected secretary of the convention with Tom Foley as an assistant.

UNEMPLOYED BILL TO BE ISSUE IN LABOR MOVEMENT

N. Y. Council Plans Big Drive

Further plans in the campaign for a national unemployment bill were yesterday announced by the New York Council of the Unemployed following the announcement Thursday of a drive which will be carried to the city, state and national governing bodies.

According to the plans announced, the Unemployment Insurance Bill, which provides for work or wages to all unemployed, will be presented for discussion and approval to the organized and unorganized workers of this section. Mass meetings will be called at which the measure will be adopted. A petition campaign is planned in which hundreds of thousands of signatures will be secured.

Systematic Drive.

The adoption of the bill by the workers will be followed by a systematic campaign to place city, state and national representatives on record in regard to the bill.

The bill itself made public Thursday is drawn up in five sections containing: Persons to be Covered, Those Eligible to Receive Benefits, Method of Creating the Fund, and Method of Administering the Act.

The main provisions are for a $10 a week payment to all unemployed workers from the day they become unemployed, and the payment of a bonus by the government immediately to those jobless workers who have been out of work for two months.

Two Part Fund.

The money for the payment of the insurance is to be derived from a fund created in part by the government and in part by industry. The share of the government is to be secured by an income, profits and corporation tax on earnings over $5,000.

RAILROAD MAN OF IOWA A DELEGATE

other delegates — two from Kansas, one from Nebraska, and another from Iowa.

Patton, who was born in Missouri, went to work at the age of 16. He worked at all branches of railroading and when he was mustered out of service by the company was working as a waymaster.

"MOSTLY farming and railroading around my country," Patton told a DAILY WORKER reporter. "Tenant farmers? They are increasing by the hundreds every month. The bankers met in Des Moines a few days ago and served notice that they'd foreclose their mortgages as rapidly as sheriffs of the different counties could perform the service.

"You know they want to eliminate 40-80 acre farm. They can't make money fast enough out of that What they want is the 640-acre minimum. That's the only way they can make use of the tractor profitably."

A mass workers' and farmers' party is bound to develop, Patton said.

"And this convention," he said, "will assist it materially."

Texas Delegate Tells of Farms

"THE farmers in the south and west will follow the crimson banner of the Communist Party just as soon as they understand our program," said B. H. Lauderdale, deelgates from Texas, attending the nominating convention of the Workers (Communist) Party.

Lauderdale has been a farmer in his state for many years and is a member of the Farmer-Labor Union. A member of the Communist Party since 1919, Lauderdale was for many years a left winger in the old socialist party. For some time he was state secretary of the party in Texas.

"Tenant farmers in my state are progressively increasing," Lauderdale said, "and they can hope for little from the old capitalist parties."

Petrov also admits having received 3,000 rubles. Tchernoknishnikov, although chairman of a branch of the Engineers' Union, secretly worked against the Soviet government, damaging machines and turbines.

Worthy of Confidence.

"The National Convention pledges itself to be worthy of the confidence of the Communist International, and solemnly promises to enter into the election struggle—which will be a struggle against all capitalist parties and against the corrupt bureaucracy of the American Federation of Labor and the renegade Socialist Party—with the true platform of the class struggle, as a champion of the working class, working farmers, and oppressed Negro race and as an organizer of the struggle against United States imperialism.

"The National Nominating Convention sends through the Communist International its fraternal greetings to the German, French and Polish Communist workers, whose recent election victories are a source of inspiration for our own struggle against the most powerful imperialism in the world.

"We express our admiration towards the working class of Soviet Russia, which, under the leadership of the Communist Party, is building up the magnificent edifice of socialism, is establishing the 7-hour day, is making the first steps to organize collective agriculture, showed itself as the sole promoter of world peace in Geneva, and is defending the only Workers' Republic against the whole world of capitalism.

"Long live the solidarity of the international working class!

"Long live the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics!

"Long live the Communist International!

"Hail the American proletarian revolution!"

PROTEST ATTACK AGAINST CHINA

Mass Meeting Planned In California

LOS ANGELES, May 27.—Six mass meetings of anti-imperialist protest will be held on the Pacific Coast the coming week. San Francisco, Oakland, Los Angeles, San Diego, and Berkeley will hold the gatherings, beginning Monday. The purpose is to arouse Chinese and Japanese sentiment in America against Japanese intervention in China and to demand the immediate withdrawal of all U. S. Military and naval forces in Chinese territory.

The meetings, which will be held under the auspices of the All-America Anti-Imperialist League, are being arranged by the Sun Yat Sen Society, the Chinese Students Alliance, and other organizations affiliated to the United States section of the league.

International Meetings.

Most participants and speakers will be Chinese, but on each occasion there will be one Japanese and one American speaker. American speakers will harass U. S. imperialism, demanding immediate withdrawal of the 3000 marines and 741 regulars now concentrated in the Tientsin area, while Japanese orators will belabor Tokio's covetous aggressiveness.

In announcing the meetings, Y. Y. Hsu, Columbia University student and former editor of Kuo Yat Pao, Kuomintang daily, published in San Francisco, said that a determined effort would be made to crystallize anti-intervention sentiment in America, and to get them to join with the Chinese in demanding the recall of the Japanese armies.

Hundreds Arrested.

"The Japanese nation is not by any means united in this imperialist policy," said Hsu. "The government has not got confidence or support of the Japanese workers. In order to avoid open protest at home against its Chinese policy it has been obliged to have recourse to the severest policies. Japanese trade unions and political parties have been suppressed. Offices have been raided, newspapers closed down, and several hundred persons have been arrested."

AUSTRIAN METAL UNION OFFICIALS GIVE UP DEMANDS

Dismissed Workers Not Re-Instated

VIENNA, May 27.—The Austrian Metal Workers' Union today gave up all their strike demands. As a result, the Alpinemontan Company retains its right to employ workers without any previous mediation on the part of the union. It may therefore continue to employ fascists.

The radical workers who were dismissed at the beginning of the strike have not been reinstated. The bourgeois press, as a result of this abandoning of the strike, declares that the "traditional radicalism of the Austrian unions has become a myth."

TEACHERS STRIKE AGAINST NANKING

NANKING, (By Mail).—The public school teachers of Nanking have gone on strike against the Nanking government. They have issued an appeal which severely criticizes the policies of the Nanking regime.

HERBERT ZAM, secretary of the Young Workers (Communist) League—"The youth is gaining a foothold in the armies of American imperialism. The workers have learned political lessons from these struggles."

The conflict between American and British imperialism is raging in every part of the world."

Announcing the "Great" Publicity Race to the South Pole

Fat contracts with the capitalist newspapers and publishing firms, and boosting war preparations were not known to the old time arctic polar explorers who gave their lives in scientific polar exploration. SURVEYS EXPOSE COMPANY UNION

Silk Hose Company Is Union Hater

In an effort to avoid unionization of its employes, the Real Silk Company, one of the most vicious anti-labor silk hosiery firms, instituted a system of company unionism combined with yellow dog contracts. A recent investigation made, laid bare the vicious exploitation of the young workers in the plant, most of whom are girls.

Two research bodies have just completed a study of Real Silk's policy of yellow dog contracts, anti-labor injunctions, company unionism and exploitation of women workers. The study also included a survey of the Hosiery Workers' Union. Their conclusion upholds contentions of the union, which has been forced to fight for its life in Indianapolis against individual contracts employes are forced to sign, binding them not to join the Federation.

Probers found the 9-hour day and 50-hour week in force at Real Silk. Because the firm sells directly to the consumer through 10,000 salesmen who ring doorbells from coast to coast, the work is highly seasonal. Christmas and Easter rushes mean girls must work as high as 62½ hours a week. 860 workers are employed at night.

Real Silk, the investigators discovered, has a thinly disguised company union known as Employes' Mutual Benefit Assn., specializing in paternalistic insurance benefit schemes. Employes told them that E. M. B. A. is all right for "small things," but what the boss says goes so far as complaints, wages and hours are concerned. The company union's duties and rights are conveniently vague. Wage rates are submitted to E. M. B. A. after workers have been informed that they are "free to quit." Of course E. M. B. A. ratifies the wage reduction.

The president of E. M. B. A., a worker, is too busy at his machine to take care of workers' complaints, so the assistant to the manager subs for him. The manager is the court of final appeal.

New England Politician Tells Mill Slaves to Grow Food in Back Yards

Wage-cutting textile bosses note with approval the clever solution for the high cost of living-low wage-problem discovered by Charles E. Adams of the Massachusetts commission on the necessaries of life. Adams, well paid politician, advises Haverill shoe and textile workers to grow their own food in their back yards. Unionists wondered why Adams stopped short there. Why not hand looms for workers to make their own clothing at home and a general return to feudalism?

BUREAUCRATS APE BOSSGOVERNMENT

Fake Labor Meet Starts May 30

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 27.—The American Federation of Labor will not be represented in any capacity at the 11th International Labor Conference, according to an announcement by William Green, president. The conference, which is a creation of the League of Nations begins to meet May 30 in Geneva.

This statement was officially issued, it is believed, because a few A. F. of L. chiefs want to go there as individuals. This is therefore counter to the official A. F. of L. attitude, which always conforms with the policy of the American ruling class.

However, since the representatives of the American plutocracy send "unofficial observers" to the League of Nations sessions, so the A. F. of L. does likewise. John H. Walker, president of the Illinois Federation of Labor recently left to fill that capacity.

Soviet Union Builds 17 New Creameries

A newly equipped mechanized creamery has commenced operations in the Vologda province. Its capacity is 6,200,000 pounds of milk yearly. In addition seven new creameries are being constructed in the province with a capacity of from 33,000,000 to 35,000,000 pounds of milk yearly.

In the Novosibirsk district the construction of seventeen new creameries has commenced. A number of them will be equipped with modern machinery, the American Russian Chamber of Commerce reports.

NEW SHOE MACHINERY PLANT

A shoe machinery plant is being equipped at Saratov and will commence operations in June, according to the American Russian Chamber of Commerce.

REFUGEES WILL FIGHT FOR KUN

Big Meeting is Held in Leningrad

LENINGRAD, (By Mail).—Representatives from twelve countries attended a meeting in Polish Club here May 5th to protest against the extradition of Bela Kun, Hungarian Communist leader, who was arrested in Vienna. Chinese, Hungarian, Rumanian, Korean and other political refugees attended the meeting.

A sharply worded resolution protesting against the arrest of Bela Kun and demanding his release was adopted. The resolution said in part:

"The Hungarian and the international proletariat opposes the demand of the Hungarian murderers for the extradition of Bela Kun and demands his immediate release."

Numerous factory meetings have been held in Leningrad to demand the release of Bela Kun.

PLAN NEW FACTORIES.

The American Russian Chamber of Commerce reports that it is planned to construct twenty-six new plants in the northern Caucasus during the next five years. The list of proposed new factories includes a cellulose plant, a bottle plant at the mineral springs, a textile plant in Kabarda, margarin and soap factories and a macaroni factory. About $160,000,000 will be needed to carry out these projects.

MONEY SENT TO INDIA STRIKERS NEVER RECEIVED

Gift From Russian Oddly Lost

BOMBAY, May 27.—Leaders of the 50,000 textile strikers here are demanding to know what has become of the $5,000 check sent to the Indian strikers by the Russian Textile Workers' Union. The money was sent in April and has never been received by the textile workers.

In spite of the order of the British police prohibiting all picketing the thousands of strikers have organized a picket corps of over 1,000. The picketing is in the hands of a strike committee composed of Indians themselves.

Not only do the textile strikers have to face the terrorism of the the British police, but they are also called on to meet the treacherous conduct of their alleged "friends," lawyers, politicians and professional men are anxious to use the textile strike for their own personal ends.

The leaders of the strikers have approached the Indian railroad union leaders with a view to concerted action between the two great branches of Indian industry. Sympathy for the textile strikers is spreading among the railroad men, especially since the recent massacre of railroad shop workers by British troops at Howrah, and the government is considerably alarmed.

Thousands of scavengers who have been on an independent strike at Howrah have further intensified the strike feeling in this section.

Fascist Airship Lost; Plan Rescue Expedition

COPENHAGEN, May 27. — Oslo, Norway, reports that the airship Italia's expedition base ship, Citta di Milano, and also the Vadsoe radio station heard faint S. O. S. signals from the airship saying that it was in great danger, but gave no position. Other messages received said that the Italia was drifting along with the wind to save gasoline.

All things, at present, indicate that there will be another rescue hullaballoo, from which several new fascist heroes will emerge.

Ban Young Workers from Kenosha Strike Meetings, Correspondent Writes

MASS PICKETING DEMANDS BRING EXPULSION RULE

Call Out Unorganized, Communists Ask

(By a Worker Correspondent.)

KENOSHA, Wis. (By mail).—At a meeting of the 330 workers locked out of the Allen A Hosiery Mill here, Louis J. Budenz, a leader of the strikers, announced that "hereafter no one will be allowed to attend strike meetings with the exception of those on strike and their immediate relatives." A representative of the Young Workers League of America, who is also a correspondent for The DAILY WORKER, was asked to leave the hall.

Police Attend.

At a previous meeting the day before Budenz had declared that all strikers' meetings are open to representatives of the Kenosha News and the police, as well as to the sympathizers who care to attend. What made Budenz declare that all meetings are closed to strikers just one day after his former statement.

Since the beginning of the lock-out of the 330 workers, the leadership of the strikers represented by the pseudo-liberal Louis F. Budenz and the vice president of the American Federation of Full Fashioned Hosiery Workers, have refused to carry on any real militant tactics to win the strike.

The Young Workers League, local Kenosha, took the lead in pointing out to the strikers the necessity of calling out the hundreds of unskilled workers who are working for the Allen A. Co. The League has also demanded that mass picketing be conducted in order to keep out scabs. At present there are over 150 scabs working for the Allen A Co.

Makes Bluff.

Budenz objected to the leaflets issued by the Young Workers League in a conversation with a League representative. But he was forced to make a bluff of allowing the strikers to picket the Allen A mill as the strikers were growing impatient with his doing nothing to violate the injunction. He therefore allowed the strikers to picket for half an hour when the scabs were leaving the mill two or three times a week. In this way he intended to keep down the discontent that would have arisen among the strikers if picketing had not been allowed.

However, the Young Workers League continued to issue leaflets calling upon the strikers to organize daily mass picketing from early in the morning until night, and the importance of calling out the unorganized was stressed. Hundreds of copies of The DAILY WORKER were distributed to the strikers.

It was then that Budenz determined to keep out of the meetings the representatives of The DAILY WORKER and members of the Young Workers League, in spite of the fact that the League representative helped picket the plant whenever the strikers threw a picket line around the Allen A Co., while Budenz would ride away in his machine to the hotel Dayton.

PEPPER STRESSES ELECTION FIGHT

ruthless dictatorship of big business. Racial oppression is a basic institution of American white civilization.

"The heroic struggle of the miners the splendid strike of the textile workers, the solid and firm front of the needle trade workers are proofs that the American working class is beginning to resist the offensive of the bosses. The Workers (Communist) Party of America plays today the role of the spokesman and organizer of all struggles of the American working class. All the forces of American capitalist society are united today against the working class. There is one big united front from Coolidge, Hoover and Al Smith to Green, Matthew Woll, Norman Thomas and Maurer for the defense of capitalism. The Workers (Communist) Party is the only genuine working class party, the only revolutionary force against imperialism against yellow socialism, against trade union capitalism.

Stronger Than Ever.

"The Workers (Communist) Party is today stronger than ever before in its history. It is the only hope of the American working class. A powerful election campaign will immensely strengthen the Party, if the Party understands how to mobilize the masses, how to appear as a true defender of the workers, working farmers and oppressed Negroes.

"Every Party member must understand the demand of the day: A fighting front toward the deadly enemy, toward capitalism, and absolute unity within the ranks of the Party.

Seamen Are Left On Rammed Vessels

OFFICER KNOCKS DOWN CRIPPLE

Worker Dragged Off to Station House

(By a Worker Correspondent.)

A prime piece of police brutality was executed recently between 26th and 29th Streets where thousands of unemployed fur workers assembled in the vain hope of getting work.

Without warning the Tammany thugs violently shoved and drove the workers in all directions. The slightest protest was made an excuse for slugging and arrest.

Lately while standing with some other workers on the corner of 6th Avenue, I witnessed one of these acts of police brutality. Suddenly and without warning a pug-faced bull charged in upon a group of workers and threw a poor, deformed worker on his back. This worker cannot get around without the aid of a stick. With an effort he rose to his feet and defied the officer for his cruelty.

The agent then began to threaten the cripple and used his fists, finally pulling him off to the station. This brought forth a loud cry of protest from many of us, but other cops quickly came on the scene and began to punch and kick any worker who was near them. They finally got hold of a woman worker and dragged her off to the station house.

The agony of the crippled worker was so apparent that hundreds of workers gathered behind the bulls. The poor man declared that he was only too willing to go peacefully and that he was not afraid of the policeman or of his higher-ups. But the cop seemed to get brutal satisfaction from the way he handled his helpless victim. In this fashion we all proceeded to the police station in 30th St. There the victims were taken before the judge.

Several of us wanted to gain admission by putting ourselves under charges, but we were thrown out.

This in short is the meaning of civil liberty in the United States. This is indeed the land of the "free and the brave."

Only when the American workers learn to free themselves from their illusions about capitalist "democracy," and organize themselves as a power to fight as a class against the capitalist class which stands for brutality to and oppression of the toiling masses, will they have a real democracy under a workers' and farmers' government.

Worker Arrested at Open Air Meeting

Arrested while conducting an open air meeting Wednesday, Charles O'Brien, a member of the proletarian party, appeared yesterday morning before Judge Rudish in the Fifth Ave. Court, Brooklyn.

O'Brien said a member of his audience had started a fight with him while he was holding his meeting at 52nd St. and Fifth Ave., Brooklyn. A policeman was called, who arrested O'Brien on a charge of disorderly conduct.

Judge Rudish postponed O'Brien's case until next Tuesday. He is being defended by Carol Weiss King, representing the International Labor Defense, which also furnished $500 bail for him.

Calls Daily Worker Real Eye-Opener

(By a Worker Correspondent)

DULUTH, Minn., (By Mail).—I am reading The DAILY WORKER whenever I get a chance to buy one on a stand and I like it very much. It sure is an eye-opener. If the majority of the working class read your paper and took your advice, this world would be a better place to live in.

Your paper teaches the working class to believe in its own power, to do away with militarism, unemployment, and instead to have better working conditions, old-age pension laws, and many other good things.

FINNISH WHITE TERROR SCORED

Convention Urges Aid For Victims

social-democrats, pretending to represent the workers, stepped into power and gave Finland a fascist government. When the enraged workers attempted to throw off the corrupt socialist bureaucracy in control of some of the trade unions, the government steps in on behalf of the socialists, jailing, persecuting the militants. And when the Communists and left wing workers get control of the unions, the fascist government suppresses the unions or initiates fresh persecutions and puts back the social-democratic treacherous leaders by use of police force and fascist terror.

"Now a new wave of suppression of the working class press and organizations has been initiated, making it extremely difficult for the Finnish working class to organize a determined fight against the preparations for an attack on the Soviet Union now being organized in Finland under the leadership of British military officers, and making it also extremely difficult to defend the interests of the workers and exploited peasants against the brutal attack of the master class and the government. The Okhrana, or secret police of Finland, tortures scores of Communists and militant workers and peasants in their dungeons, denying the right of legal defense or of any communication with the outside world whatsoever. Even medical assistance is denied them.

Socialist Treachery.

"Whereas, the National Nominating Convention of the Workers (Communist) Party of America, assembled in New York on May 25, 26 and 27 for the purpose of planning the presidential campaign of the Party, has been given a report on the brutal White Terror conditions enumerated above; and

"Whereas, we learn that Mr. Hupli former social-democratic member of the Finnish cabinet, who last year in the name of the social-democratic party of Finland, persecuted the working class of Finland, as official butcher for the fascists, is now in America with the head of the Bank of Finland, Ryti, to secure direct financial assistance from the Wall Street bankers to support the crumbling rule of the Finnish fascist government and to secure financial assistance in preparing their war on the Soviet Union;

"Therefore, be it resolved, that this National Convention (1) declares its solidarity and support to the tortured struggling and heroic Finnish working class; (2) demands the immediate and unconditional release of all workers and peasants in the jails of fascist Finland; (3) demands the immediate granting of full and free right to organize for the Finnish working class, and (4) calls upon the workers and the working class press of the United States to protest the presence in America of the agents, socialist and fascist, of the bloody Finnish government, and to support their brothers, the Finnish workers and peasants, in their struggles.

"Down with the fascist government of Finland!

"Down with the social-democratic butchers!

"Long live the Finnish Communist Party!"

"SOCIALISTS'" RECEPTION IS COLD AFFAIR

Los Angeles Workers Want Class Struggle

(By a Worker Correspondent)

LOS ANGELES, Cal., (By Mail).—A jackass as candidate for the presidency was advocated last night at the open forum, 730 South Grand Ave., by a man who acted as a representative of the Church of Rome as well as in behalf of the Berger-Hillquit-Thomas combination of the "socialist" party. The incident caused a lot of laughter and clapping of hands at the expense of the "new socialism" of the S. P.

Socialist Platform Suits Republicans.

Lew Head, "canned" as editor of a Pasadena capitalist paper, spoke on the subject, "The socialist party platform." He dealt with a few of the main planks, such as public ownership, unemployment insurance and civil liberties, etc., and his defense of the instrument ran along the same lines as reformers' speeches generally do. "This platform is a practical one," he declared. "LaFollette sympathizers and any liberal republican can vote for it," he continued. "Then it must be reactionary," a voice said. "Instead of going forward, the late Robert M. LaFollette advocated a move backwards to 1776."

Announcement of the meeting read in part, as follows: "The National Convention of the socialist party just held in New York City adopted what many believe is the finest platform in its history." Yes, "the finest"—because the class struggle has disappeared from it, others suggest.

Few S. P. Sympathizers Present.

"How many 'socialists' are here?" Mr. Head wanted to know, as he began speaking. Something like 30 "yellow" hands went up, or a little less than four per cent of the estimated total of 800 hands (400 persons) present. "Good!" he shouted. "I am glad to have some sympathizers!" he continued. Then he proceeded to tell a story about an Irishman who also was out looking for sympathizers. The man was advised to go to Boston, Mass., "where nearly all the Irish are on the police force." Well, the police strike in that city made Boston famous, for a while, and put Coolidge into the White House. But the fame changed into infamy, however—through the Sacco-Vanzetti case. What Head really meant by his sympathy tale isn't clear. But, anyhow, "socialists" in the trade unions have found numerous policemen sympathetic enough to help them beat up left wingers in the labor movement.

Silent on Class Struggle.

During the question period, workers wanted to know the stand of the "socialist" party on the class struggle class collaboration, recognition of the Soviet Union, whether the S. P. believed it could get rid of slavery by putting a piece of paper into a ballot box, etc. As announced at the beginning, the speaker refused to answer "critical questions." He admitted however, that he did not see anything about the class struggle in the S. P. platform.

Jackass Advocates.

"Why not leave all social ills to the Catholic Church?" a man, who claimed to be a non-proletarian socialist, asked. Laughter all over the house. "Well, this is no joke, I really mean it!" he declared. Storming applause and laughter. This man later spoke in behalf of the "socialist" party. He didn't say anything in favor of it, however, and ended his three minutes speech by saying that he was in favor of a jackass as candidate for president, as pointed out at the beginning of this article. He would vote for such a creature, he said. Prolonged applause. As the names of the S. P. candidates for president and vice-president were not mentioned at all at the meeting, it isn't clear, with what part of the animal kingdom Thomas and Maurer are classed by the "socialists" of Los Angeles.

The chairman, Dr. Clinton J. Taft wanted to hear from "socialists." But with the exception of the one who acted as the representative of the pope, all kept silent—even the S. P. secretary, Anderson, who was seen in the audience.

Workers Answer S. P. "Keynoter."

Frank Spector, secretary of the local I. L. D., characterized the S. P. as the "fink left wing of the capitalist parties." The platform doesn't mention class-war prisoners such as Mooney and Billings, he said. It has a lot of space, however, for throwing "slurs on Soviet Russia," he declared.

Rose Rubin, representing the Workers (Communist) Party, was held back for some time by Chairman Taft who wasn't any too anxious to hear her, it seemed. The S. P. has given up the class struggle; the miners' strike not mentioned, and nothing said about the organization of the unorganized, she said. The policies of the "socialists," republicans and the democrats are almost the same, she continued. Head said, as pointed out above, that "any liberal republican can vote for the socialist platform."

Queen Silver, atheist lecturer and writer, also spoke. She was raised in the class struggle, she said. But the S. P., being capitalistic like the republican and democratic parties, has separated itself from the masses now she pointed out. Capitalists like unemployment. Therefore no unemployment insurance can be hoped for, she declared.

"The End of St. Petersburg" Opens Tonight at Hammerstein

THE New Sovkino film to reach America, "The End of St. Petersburg," latest of the motion pictures made by the Russian Soviet government, will have its premiere tonight at Hammerstein's Theatre.

'Alexis Davor

Arthur Hammerstein, owner of the American rights, to the film, will present it. The showing will be featured by a score composed by Herbert Stothart. A symphony orchestra, under the composer's direction, will play the music.

"The End of St. Petersburg" was directed by W. J. Padowkin. Natan Zarchi is the scenarist. The art director is Serjeij Koslowski.

Prominent in the cast are Paul Petroff, Katrina Kaja, Alexis Davor, Naton Golow, W. Obolensky, and Serge Alexandrowsky. None of these persons ever appeared before a camera prior to their participation in the making of the film. Director Padowkin, who with S. N. Eisenstein, is recognized as the foremost among Russian film directors, refused to engage a professional actor for the film. Upon a director, he contends, rests the weight of the enterprise. His patience having been taxed, he explains, by the desire of professional actors to depart from realism in his film, "Mother," and so he dispensed with them in "The End of St. Petersburg," his newest film. The cast was recruited from the fields, the factories, the offices, the police and the army. The film will be shown twice daily at Hammerstein's Theatre.

Tailors Still Fight Milwaukee Lockout

MILWAUKEE, May 27 (FP).—The tieup of the Adler clothing shops, the biggest in Milwaukee, is complete since the firm locked out its union workers a month ago. Strikebreakers under police protection are failing to produce suits and are brought in and out of the shops as a blind to deceive the unionists, according to manager Piepenhagen of the Amalgamated joint board.

WAGES IN SHOE INDUSTRY ARE AT LOWEST EBB

More Out of Work Now Than Ever Before

BOSTON, May 27.—The shoe workers in New England at the present time are going thru a most terrific period of unemployment. Even the small town shops which left the big centers in order to reduce wages are working on part time. It may be pointed out that wages in these small town shops are anywhere from forty to seventy per cent of the Lynn scale. W. H. Creighton, the largest shoe company in Lynn, has gone out of business. This means that thirty-five hundred shoe workers are now thrown out on the streets. This seems to be the general situation in the New England shoe industry, concern after concern, either quitting or moving to the small towns or St. Louis.

Betrayed by Leaders.

Meanwhile the manufacturers are intending to put over another ten per cent cut and as usual we see the Boot and Shoe leading the way. According to today's "Boston Herald" the local in Haverhill agreed to take a ten per cent cut in order to keep the manufacturers from moving out of town. This is treachery of the rankest kind for the following reasons.

First; the Haverhill scale is already ten per cent below the Lynn scale, thus the demand of the Lynn manufacturers for a cut is strengthened and the demand of the other centers for an increase is weakened.

Second; the members of the dominating union in Haverhill, the Shoe Workers' Protective Union, defeated the attempt of their officials and the manufacturers to put over a similar cut last fall by a spontaneous strike.

Third; it is a well-known fact that the only reason the concerns staying in Lynn and Haverhill remain there is that they produce a fairly high grade of shoe, and therefore cannot take any chances with the far less skilled help which they would find in the small towns and the middle west. We can then see that the move of the Boot and Shoe local in Haverhill is nothing more than an attempt of the officials to get the manufacturers to force the workers to join this ultra-corrupt organization which organizes by offering to get the workers to accept a cut in their already far too inadequate wages.

But for once these harpies have reckoned without their host. The workers have decided that it is now time to build a Shoe Workers' Union that will aim at one hundred per cent organization, that will determine its policy on the basis of bringing the scale of all the markets to the level of the highest market and thus do away once and for all with the curse of the shoe workers, namely, that of one market scabbing upon the other.

THERE ARE MANY LESSONS IN THIS

A Strike Would Have Brought Action

WASHINGTON, May 27 (FP).—By a vote of 70 to 9 the senate passed and thereby enacted into law—the bill granting an additional 10 per cent in pay to post office clerks working at night. The house had already passed this measure by a margin of 319 to 42 after it had been vetoed by President Coolidge.

This measure, designed to reduce night work in post offices and thereby remove a serious menace to the health of postal workers, was vetoed on the ground that it was expensive. The postal workers' organizations made a concerted effort to convince congress that the cost was slight.

As in the case of the bill granting special allowance to fourth-class postmasters for heat and light—which was likewise enacted despite a Coolidge veto—the majority of members in the house and senate had in mind the political advantage of having post office workers and rural postmasters in a friendly attitude.

Civil Liberties Union Quizzes College Heads

In an effort to discover what censorship is exercised by college authorities on students' meetings and publications, the American Civil Liberties Union has sent out questionnaires to several hundred college presidents, student papers and liberal organizations all over the country. The union is seeking to get the facts of the situation during the current college year in order to be prepared for an active campaign next fall in institutions where students are restricted in hearing speakers on public questions.

Mrs. Knapp Guilty.

ALBANY, May 27.—Mrs. Florence E. S. Knapp, former secretary of state on the republican ticket was convicted on charges of first degree grand larceny in connection with the theft of funds and padding of payrolls in the census bureau over which she had charge. While the specific charge and conviction was that of having diverted to her own use $2,875.06, it has been disclosed that hundreds of thousands of dollars have been stolen in this way. Judge Stephen H. Callaghan indicated that sentence would not be passed until autumn. The maximum penalty is ten years in prison, but it is believed that Mrs. Knapp will be able to use political influence to keep her out of jail.

BAKERS UNION WINS STRIKE

Local 1 Forces Silvers to Settle

The six weeks' strike of the Amalgamated Food Workers, Bakers' Local 1, against the Silvers' Cafeterias ended yesterday with a victory for the union and the granting by the company of the demands of the bakers.

In surrendering to the union which has been fighting a militant battle, the company agrees to employ only union help and to meet other union standards. The strike was called six weeks ago when the restaurants shut out members and attempted to operate open shop.

Union officers yesterday attributed considerable credit for the victory besides the fighting spirit of the bakers themselves, to the cloakmakers, furriers, printers and other workers of the sections in which the struck restaurants are located for their solidarity in supporting the strike, by withholding patronage from those places.

INTERESTING CHANGES IN JUNE NEW MASSES

A new New Masses has appeared to wage its lone cultural fight against the bourgeoisie. The June issue, which has just come out, is the first since the April number.

The month of April produced a crop of rumors to the effect that the New Masses had gone under. These rumors are best contradicted by the June number which shows that the New Masses is more alive than ever.

But it is not the same New Masses. Many changes have occurred. Egmont Arens has resigned as editor and Michael Gold, one of the most popular working class writers in this country, is now at the helm. The magazine is different in appearance and make-up—a change towards greater vividness.

There is also a change in the editorial policy. A statement of policy issued by Gold declares:

"The magazine is to be more proletarian. We are going to dig up new worker-writers—also get unedited accounts of work by workers—a kind of sublimated workers' correspondence.

"The magazine is to print almost no political articles. It will be, of course, definitely workingclass and revolutionary in its political loyalty, but will not attempt to discuss tactics, etc.

"The New Masses can live only as the organ of the human and artistic revolt of the workers."

In support of this policy the current New Masses contains an entire page of poems by Martin Russak, a Paterson silk weaver, which has never been published before, poetry by two other young writers, Edwin Rolfe and Herman Spector, a contribution from an inmate of a poorhouse and interesting letters from workers. Other contributors are John Dos Passos, Ezra Pound, Michael Gold, Dudley Nichols and Kenneth Fearings. The cover design is by Hugo Gellert.

And most important of all: the new New Masses is 15 cents instead of 25—a great difference to the workers for whom it is intended.

Metal Union Heads Agree to Wage Cut

SIOUX CITY, Iowa, May 27.—After winning $1.12½ per hour pay by a two week strike in 1927, to have remained in effect till July, 1929, the leaders of the Sheet Metal Workers' Union here recently accepted the proposal of the employers that wages be reduced to $1 per hour. This wage was being paid the workers before the successful strike. The union belongs to the American Federation of Labor.

CAPITAL UTILITY MERGER SHELVED

McAdoo Lobbied For Anti-Union Measure

WASHINGTON, May 27.—Senators Copeland of New York and King of Utah, democrats, voted in vain in the senate district committee to report out the $50,000,000 merger scheme whereby Harley P. Wilson of the North American Company, utilities magnate, would get a monopoly of street railways, buses and electric power supply in the national capital. William G. McAdoo was lobbyist for the merger. Four opponents killed action on the scheme for at least a year. In the capitalization is about $25,000,000 of water, and with it goes a determination by Wilson to wipe out the local branch of the Amalgamated Street and Electric Railway Employes' Union.

Organized labor demanded, and was refused, a code of labor relations to be written into the merger bill.

MORE OFFICIALS ARE IMPLICATED IN STREET GRAFT

Higher-Ups Pull Wires to Escape

Four petty employes yesterday were confronted by the possibility of imprisonment on charges of payroll padding and forgery in the New York department of street cleaning, while executives who profited to excess sit back pulling political wires to keep themselves out of prison. Evidence presented to a jury by District Attorney McGeehan is expected to show that financial manipulations by department officials netted graft totalling between $5,000,000 and $7,000,000 annually.

It was learned this morning that two more employes of the Bronx street cleaning department have been arrested on forgery charges and two others were indefinitely suspended.

The four who are on trial are William J. Lougheed, garage foreman, whose confession was the basis of the present war on grafting city employes; Benjamin Stoeber, his assistant; Charles A. McGee, assistant general superintendent; and William J. Oswald, district superintendent.

The latest arrests for forgery were those of Max Schmillowitz, 1466 Grand Concourse, foreman of the branch at 1450 Brook Ave., an employe of the department for 31 years.

Cleveland Women Meet For Miners' Relief

CLEVELAND, May 27.—Ten delegates representing as many women's organizations were present at a conference for miners' relief called by the Women Workers' Progressive League of Cleveland.

The conference decided on a house-to-house canvass, a lawn festival and a picnic as means of raising funds in the very near future.

A committee was formed for the purpose of visiting women's organizations not represented at the conference for the purpose of getting them to affiliate with the conference.

The Women's Conference for Miners' Relief is a permanent organization for the duration of the strike and declares its solidarity with the strikers and their families. The following executive committee was formed: Sadie Van Veen, chairman; Esther Schweitzer, secretary; Anna Johnson, Anna Pitt and Della Nostic.

Foster and Gitlow Carry the Red Flag to the American Masses

The end of the National Nominating Convention of the Workers (Communist) Party marks the opening of an election campaign such as the United States has never before known.

Foster and Gitlow, who are the carriers of the red banner of the Communist Party in this campaign, were our candidates also in 1924, and these are the same two-fisted fighting men of our class as they then were. But otherwise there is a vast difference.

The Communist Party is something more than it was in 1924. In a Communist campaign, the men and women who best embody the aims and policies and leadership of the Party are made chosen as candidates, but in reality it is not individuals but the Party itself which is the candidate. And the Communist Party of America has passed through a tremendous process of development in the past four years.

The Communist Party of America has during the past four years gone through the test of fire, the test of actual leadership of masses of workers in struggles against the capitalists. In every important strike that has occurred in the United States for four years, the Workers (Communist) Party has played a leading role. In every case the red line of Communist workers has been the line of fiercest attack and hardest resistance on the picket line. So it was in the Passaic strike, which was a lightning-flash over the world of American labor marking the storm which now is raging in several fields of struggle. The intense struggle in the needle trades of New York, Chicago and other big cities was again one in which the Workers (Communist) Party inevitably became the backbone of the workers' forces.

In the great miners' strike now in progress, the forces of reaction, the open-shop bosses, the government, the state "cossacks" and the bureaucratic traitors in the labor movement testify no less plainly than the desperately fighting mine workers themselves, that without the activities of the Communists led by their Party, the mine workers would have been crushingly defeated many months ago.

All of these struggles have been marked by two features. A greater and ever-growing participation of the government, local, state and federal, in direct use of violent repressive measures and the accompanying legal forms against the workers, and, second, the appearance of the trade union bureaucracy more clearly than ever before in history in the role of violent strike-breakers obeying the same central direction which leads the individual coal operators and every captain of coal and iron police or city gunmen.

The results are inevitably the disillusionment of many thousands and tens of thousands of workers begin to realize the true nature of class collaboration. When bosses and $12,000-a-year trade union "leaders" are openly seen in common counsel for the admitted purpose of breaking a strike, when the affidavits of officers of trade unions appear on warrants for the arrest of pickets as an ordinary phenomenon, when trade union bureaucrats openly declare that any union wishing to elect other officers than agents of the employers shall be deprived of its charter—then the transformation of the mind of the large sections of workers inevitably begins if the Communist Party's activity is sufficiently positive.

At the same time the constant operation of injunctions, police, state troops and federal courts, presidents and "mediators" in more and more flagrant action against the working class in general and against each strike in particular,—tends to wear away the illusions and to politicalize the working class. The terror of the capitalist state expressed in the cold blooded murder of Sacco and Vanzetti and the ceremonious welcome to the agents of European fascism by "democratic" functionaries of the state, more or less slowly undermine the stupid faith of multitudes of toilers in capitalist "democracy." The opening of actual warfare against the peoples of Latin America dissolves the mist of "peaceful" patriotism, and the piling up of armaments, huger than ever in history, slowly open millions of eyes.

In 1924 the old and prison-tortured Eugene V. Debs, who was loved by the American working class because he represented in their eyes everything to which the socialist party is antagonistic, could still be palmed off as the "leader" of that party of treason, and it was then also possible for the traitors to wreck the movement for independent political action of the working class by presenting the LaFollette petty-capitalist republicans as the "labor party." But in 1928 the socialist party has to come before the workers as the Hillquit party, the Berger party, the party of the Reverend Norman Thomas, the party of Morris Sigman and the "Little Augie" gunmen-strikebreakers, the party which now fully identifies itself with the Lewis bureaucracy in destroying the United Mine Workers and breaking the strike. In short, tens of thousands of workers know today what was concealed from them before,—that the socialist party repudiates the class struggle and lines up with reaction nationally and internationally.

When the working class sees the open purchase of two presidents of the United States with bribes, when the working class sees Harry Sinclair, the bribe-giver, walk free from the criminal court while the same capitalist courts hold Mooney and Billings in life-long imprisonment and send Sacco and Vanzetti to death —under these circumstances, the Workers (Communist) Party comes before the working class of the United States with a program of living class struggle. This program reflects the needs of life of the working class. It reflects all there is of working-class revolutionary tradition, and at the same time it reflects all that there is of resistance to the capitalist class offensive which is now striving to crush the labor movement into nothingness.

Our Party and our standard bearers, Foster and Gitlow, speak in this election campaign with the only voice that can be called the voice of the working class.

With a stronger and more seasoned Communist Party, and with a field in which there is not even a semblance of any other claim upon the loyalty of the working class, and with a working class certain important sections of which have gone through disillusioning experiences in the past four years, the red standard of Communism should receive in this election a vote that will startle the enemies of our class.

And our candidates will make clear to the workers in this campaign that these sham "democratic" elections cannot be the means of freedom for our class—that only the working class revolution can liberate them from the growing exploitation and repression.

THEY CALL IT A LOAN — By Fred Ellis

Prosperity Among the Neighbors

BY SCOTT NEARING.

ONTARIO, Canada, is prosperous—after the capitalist fashion, with profits mounting and workers barely holding their own against the rising cost of living.

One worker described wages and conditions in a machinery plant—one of the largest shops of Toronto.

Machinery Replaces Men.

"Working forces are greatly reduced as against last year," he said. "There are fewer orders, but above all, there are fewer jobs. Machinery is replacing men in every production department."

This statement was repeated by workers in other shops. Rationalization is proceeding. Machines are taking the places of workers. Skilled men are becoming machine feeders.

One big machine plant in Toronto worked an eight and a half hour day —half a day on Saturdays, Some departments had shut down on Saturdays because of slack orders.

"How about Negroes?" I asked.

"Hard to say," the worker answered. "The plant is run on the piece work basis. Everyone is hired at a piece rate."

"Any minimum?"

"Yes, 35 cents per hour." Those who do not make more than that as piece workers are paid 35 cents as time workers."

"Do many get the 35 cent rate?

"Yes, the hour-men. Also many workers who fail to make their piece rate because of low production or because of slowing up in the departments."

"How much do the piece workers get?"

"Up to 60 cents. Usually under 50 cents an hour."

"Is that a good wage?"

"Yes, very good. There are a few skilled men, working in the more important machines who make 60 cents and 65 cents an hour. But they are the exception."

In Hamilton (pet name, among the bosses, "The Birmingham of Canada") I found workers doing heavy lifting work in wire mills and steel mills for $12 a week. Several men were working for $11.

Next I asked about unions in the Toronto plant. The worker said:

"No unions at all. And no one seems to take any initiative in organizing the workers. There are two anarchists and two Communists in our shop but they are so busy trying to make a living for their families that they cannot do much in the way of organization."

Wave of Strikes.

The worker with whom I was speaking had been trying hard to study in the evenings. But the pace was beyond him.

"When I am working 8½ hours piece work," he said, "I am too worn out to study. I find it impossible to hold my attention or to keep awake."

A wave of strikes is sweeping thru Eastern Canada. Two months ago the workers in the General Motors Plant at Oshawa, Ontario, walked out in opposition to a wage cut. There was no union in the plant. Subsequently the men were organized and affiliated to the American Federation of Labor. On April 16th the Structural Iron and Steel Workers of Toronto and Montreal walked out. A few were union members. Other strikes have occurred among unorganized workers who are entirely out of contact with the labor movement.

Among all these strikes, the strike of the 5,000 General Motors workers is the most significant. General Motors has thus far been as bitterly anti-union in Canada as it is in the United States. The workers at Oshawa had not even been approached by the A. F. of L. organizers. They took the matter of defense into their own hands.

Canadian labor is on the move. Piece work, drive and wage cuts are pushing them to action. Even the unorganized are using the weapons of the labor struggle with the vigor and precision of labor veterans.

Sigman & Co., Bankrupts, Ready to Resume Business

The tragic comedy enacted at Convention Hall in Boston is at an end. There was a grand finale. Sigman, Dubinsky, Schlesinger and Breslau fell into each others arms and from now on will live happily (but not forever after). The farce that was staged as a convention of the International Ladies' Garment Workers Union is over, and now the cliques are once more face to face with the grim realities—a union shattered and destroyed as a result of their treachery; their coffers empty; their prestige (if ever they had any) gone; themselves discredited and despised, the objects of the burning hatred of all those who hope for and aspire to a real union representative of the workers.

For almost two years the yellow "Forward," the mouthpiece of the pogrom chieftain Sigman, has been printing screaming headlines about their amazing victories; how they defeated the Communists; how their union blossomed forth to its full glory; how grateful the workers were for having been saved from the "despised Communists." Pictures were printed of fake lines of workers waiting patiently for a chance to pay dues to the Sigman locals. The Communists were dead, buried and forgotten. But in spite of all these proclamations, which have been printed numberless times over and over again, the clique sent its emissaries to Boston weeks before the convention in order to prepare the ground for their convention and fortify themselves against the rage of the workers.

Raise Red Scare.

The most horrifying hair-raising stories were circulated in Boston about the dangerous Communists, who were coming there to disturb law and order and the lives of the peaceful citizens. Thru the good offices of prominent capitalist politicians, who undoubtedly received due renumeration, the police force was fully arrayed to meet the disturbers of the public peace. Guarded by a cordon of police, who completely surrounded the convention hall and who had driven away our legally elected delegates and the rank and file of the Boston workers, Sigman, the chief pogrom leader, opened the so-called convention.

And lo and behold! The dead Communists had risen from their graves and once more became the target for Sigman's attacks. The beautiful myth about the reconstructed union built up by the clique, was entirely dispelled. Such pillars of the "machine" as Ninfo, Breslau, Dubinsky and the others, made open declarations of bankruptcy on the floor of convention hall. From the mouth of Dubinsky came forth a flood of glaring incriminating indictments against himself and the entire administration, responsible for bringing the ruinous war upon the union.

Bankruptcy Admitted.

The following is an excerpt from Dubinsky's speech at the convention:

"The moral of the membership is at the lowest point in the history. The tax collected is evidence of that. In normal times the tax paid is about $250,000. Now it is only $46,000. That shows the confidence of the membership. I started a drive for dues to try to remedy this situation in some way, but it met with very little success.

"We had to take the $400,000 unemployment insurance fund, we had to borrow some of the money there, six months ago; then when that was tied up we had to go to the fund for more money; we have signed notes for it and there is not another nickel that we can borrow.

"Now, if you reject this referendum, what are we going back to New York with? I am going back to my locals with these presents: with a tax of $30 or $40; with the referendum submitting the election of the international officers to the membership, rejected; with resolutions passed which do not mean anything; with all our problems left unsolved; with nothing done. Now, I have gone to my local before with many difficult things, but I have not the courage to face them after this. You pass resolutions that the membership must be compelled to pay dues. But how can you compel them when they have not the spirit that makes them willing?"

These telling truths and indictments against his own administration, which Dubinsky was compelled to affirm on the open floor of the convention, have long been known and communicated to the workers by the Joint Board. For a period of almost two weeks these cliques of self-seekers who are callous to the sufferings of the workers, were engaged in a mad wrangle for power at any price. Dubinsky, who thru his entire career had sneered at the idea of democracy and had instituted a fascist dictatorship in his own local which was shattered only thru the heroic struggle of the cutters during the past 19 months, suddenly became the champion of the referendum. It was indeed an unusual and astounding spectacle to see the cynic, Dubinsky, prating of democracy and the rights of the membership. The speech of Dubinsky, revealed more openly than anything else the spirit of despair that is permeating the entire clique. Like a pack of hungry wolves they are ready to jump at each others' throats in order to save themselves from annihilation. This was the meaning of the speeches delivered by Dubinsky, Ninfo, Breslau and the rest, and of the open struggle on the floor of the convention.

The attacks against Sigman, with whom they share the responsibility for the ruinous war, were but a desperate attempt to sacrifice him in order to save themselves; just as Sigman himself had done with Feinberg and Pearlstein during the struggle of the Joint Action Committee in 1925.

Blackest Convention.

The trade union movement of this country has many reactionary conventions on record. The I. L. G. W. U. itself has gone thru the notorious Boston convention of 1924, which had spent eleven days in unseating the delegates representing the largest locals of the international. This was followed by the Philadelphia convention where against the most determined opposition of the delegates representing 80 percent of the membership Sigman elected himself as president of the international. But never in the history of our own or any other union, was there a convention, supposedly representing the workers, that was so barren of any accomplishments and so undisputedly bankrupt.

For almost two weeks the so-called convention was in session, but not a single decision concerning the welfare of the thousands of struggling workers in the industry was made. It was nothing but a conspiracy to further betray and sell out the workers. The 40-hour week, which the cloakmakers had won during the long and bitter strike of 1926 and the other gains of the woskers were officially ceded to the bosses, Sigman openly declaring that the bosses cannot afford to observe the 40-hour clause of the agreement to which they had affixed their signatures.

The struggles and the achievements of the workers were condemned in the most outspoken terms. They have decided to levy a three-days tax on the workers in order to fill their empty treasury and stave off the day of their ultimate defeat; this tax they hope to collec thru the good offices of the bosses as price in return for their treacheries.

Discover Vast New Iron Ore in the U. S. S. R.

Results of prospecting carried on at the Magnitnaya Mountain showed that it has large deposits of ore rich in iron. The resources of the prospected area alone amounted to 118,000,000 tons of iron ore. As prospecting has been carried on in a comparatively small area there can be no doubt that the deposits of ore will amount to more than 160,000,000 tons.

It is interesting to note that iron can be obtained from the Magnitnaya deposits exclusively on the surface without the necessity of sinking shafts, states the American Russian Chamber of Commerce.

IT was bad enough to have to buy flowers and white gloves. But patrons began to complain against the management of the Baron Hirsch Cemetery, of Port Richmond, S. I., when aged mourners fainted on the long trek from the cemetery entrance to the graves. The long walk was too much for them. The management would not permit automobiles to enter the cemetery proper. Attorney General Ottinger investigated. And the investigation disclosed the fact that the mourners' cars were not allowed to enter the cemetery because the superintendent of the cemetery had a restaurant at the gate.

THE archealogical blue ribbon for 1928 goes to The Outline, the British weekly. The relic which this magazine has just unearthed is Rudyard Kipling. The editor in the May 12 issue of the journal proves himself oblivious to his readers' sensibilities by publishing a photograph and biography of the former English writer. The writer of the biographical sketch maligns Kipling by accurately repeating some of his thoughts, of which there has spread over the world a deep forgetfulness. The rather impure carcass of Kipling's philosophy is dug up as follows: "He struck again that note which was the note of Nelson, a good feeling towards the other nations, 'the lesser breeds without the law,' but a firm and steady conviction that the English were the superiors of all, better fighters, better rulers, better lovers, better friends."

THINGS are breaking nicely for the campaign publicity bureau of the republican party. The outstanding publicity stunt of the republican campaign was to book President (himself) Coolidge for this Memorial Day address. The word has been passed around to all the first, second and third rate orators of the solid south to play down their stuff next Wednesday and give Cal Coolidge a chance on the rostrum made famous by Lincoln's invocation of armed republicanism. Well, down in Montgomery, Ala., lived Capt. William Knox, 89 years old, who was born in the original confederate "White House" and who became aide de camp to Jefferson Davis when he was inaugurated president of the Confederacy. It was feared that some of the old spirit would revive in Capt. Knox and that he would sit in the front row at Gettysburg next Wednesday afternoon and give Cal Coolidge the razz. But not for nothing does Cal Coolidge carry around in his coat pocket the shoe from his electric physical culture hobby horse. Capt. Knox died yesterday.

Paid Agent Exposed in Army Propaganda Plot

WASHINGTON, May 27 (FP).—Rep. McClintic of Oklahoma, addressing the house, read a report from a postal inspector exonerating the National Council for Prevention of War from the charge, made by an army propagandist in the employ of the war department, that the council's printed matter was sent out under the frank of Rep. McClintic. Such use of the congressional franking privilege is illegal. McClintic had opposed the big-navy bills.

Rep. Andrew of Massachusetts and Res. Britten of Chicago, big-navy advocates, had spread a report that printed arguments against the big navy construction program, issued by the council, had come to many persons enclosed with a speech by McClintic, in McClintic's franked envelopes. One Harold Weeks of Wellesley Hills, Mass., made affidavit that he received such an enclosure.

PITTSBURGH UNIT SENDS ‘DAILY’ AID

More Funds Needed to Keep Paper Alive

Street Nucleus 3, Workers (Communist) Party, of Pittsburgh has responded to The DAILY WORKER'S appeal for funds by sending $10 to keep the Daily alive and help it to move. This is in addition to $48 previously contributed by this nucleus.

"We realize the importance of an English language organ in the American class struggle," writes M. Blaskovic, DAILY WORKER agent of this nucleus in sending the contribution. "And we shall do more for it despite all difficulties. We must all unite our forces thruout the country to ensure the continuation of the fight of which The DAILY WORKER is the bold leader."

The contributors to the additional $10 sent by this nucleus are: M. L. Landerman, $5; H. Ceccilni, 50 cents; E. Lartis, 25 cents; M. Ceccilni, 25 cents, and G. Catinaro, $4.

Not only are there not sufficient funds to enable the DAILY to move to its new home, but there is not enough money to meet the daily expenses of issuing the paper. The DAILY WORKER must have the immediate help of the workers of this country. Don't delay. Rush all funds at once by mail, special delivery or wire to the office of the DAILY, 33 First Street, New York City.

JUDGE PAROLES SCABS, POLICE

No Protection Given to Miners

(Special To The DAILY WORKER.)

PITTSBURGH, Pa., May 27 (By Mail).—In a gesture of impartiality, the coal kings' courts of Allegheny county placed 13 striking miners and 15 coal and iron police and strikebreakers on six months' parole following their arraignment before visiting Judge James A. Chambers on charges of inciting to riot and assault and battery, according to reports received by the National Miners' Relief Committee.

"No Discrimination."

The parole sentences were passed on all defendants "without discrimination" though the most serious charges were those made against a two groups of scabs who were charged with inciting to riot.

None of the accused company [illegible] entered defenses against the charges made by the strikers. The clashes out of which Thursday's court hearings grew, took place at the Coverdale, McMurray and Castle Shannon mines of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Company during the period from July, 1927, to the beginning of the present year.

PICKET MILLS DESPITE STRIKE HEADS' ARREST

(Special to the Daily Worker)

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., May 28.—Despite the arrest of William T. Murdoch, Fred E. Beal, strike leaders, and 5 other active strikers heading a picket line at the Hathaway Mills, and despite the absence of the leaders who were compelled to be in court today, picketing this morning was the best attended and more enthusiastic than at any time since the 28,000 workers walked out of the cotton manufacturing mills in a fight against a wage cut more than six weeks ago. Mills in the south end were picketed by 1,000 strikers and over 300 patrolled the gates of the north end plants.

Trial Postponed.

Later in court, the International Labor Defense, providing legal aid for the strikers, succeeded in obtaining a postponement of the trials of Murdoch, Beal and the other five till Thursday. After their release on bail they went to the halls to address strike meetings.

Protest meetings against the fast intensifying police terror were held by the International Labor Defense, in the north and south end halls of the Textile Mills Committee. Robert Zelms, of the I. L. D., spoke at the meetings in addition to the union heads.

Another striker was arrested yesterday noon and is charged with disorderly conduct.

N. Y. PRESS BEHIND POWER INTERESTS

Gave Much Space to Utility Group

WASHINGTON, May 28. — New York newspapers have served as publicity and propaganda organs of the power interests, it was established at the Federal Trade Commission investigation today.

Fred W. Crone, director of the New York State Public Utility Information Committee, testified his organization distributed a weekly bulletin among 1,000 New York newspapers, but denied any attempt was made to influence colleges or schools.

Under questioning by Robert E. Healy, commission counsel, Crone said the bulletin and publicity released sometimes were printed verbatim in the newspapers.

Crone admitted his advertising account had steadily increased, but denied that there was any connection between this and the amount of space he was getting in the newspapers. "I don't think an editor would use our stuff unless he felt it had some public interest," he said with apparent seriousness.

CONCERT PROGRAM AT BIG CARNIVAL

Starlight Park Hired for Joint Defense

A very important feature of the Starlight Park Jamborse and Carnival has been announced today. The Defense Committee has succeeded in securing the Hungarian Workers' Symphony Orchestra composed of fifty men, who will render a classical program. The orchestra will be conducted by Alfred Kugel.

The carnival at Starlight Park on June 9th promises to be one of the most unusual and joyous affairs of the season. A variety of entertainments will be provided to suit the particular tastes of all present. Numerous teams of proletarian sport clubs will participate in baseball, soccer games, track and fields events. These sports clubs are also preparing spectacular calisthenics, as well as other different features. A battle royal between the different national sport clubs for the championship is in store for the amusement of our workers. Water sports have also not been neglected, among which will be swimming races and exhibitions. Amateur wrestling and boxing has been scheduled for the evening. The Impartial Workers' Schools are preparing a picturesque ballet. There will be a march of the athletes, the Pioneers and the children of the Impartial Workers' Schools. The dance hall will be free to all. A much looked-forward to event will be the evening camp fires, on the field where all will join in proletarian songs.

We want to call the special attention of all comrades and sympathizers, that the Joint Defense Committee has only taken over three places from which to sell food and drinks. These are the large restaurant, the booth on the field and the booth inside of the dance hall. Be sure to patronize these. All the others belong to private concerns. Tickets can be obtained at the Defense Headquarters,

Legal Bickering Delays Suit of Radium Victims

NEWARK, N. J., May 28.— Raymond H. Berry, counsel for the defense, in the proceedings against the United States Radium Corporation by the five women who were poisoned while working for the firm and are expected to die soon, after a deluge of legal wrangling, moved to postpone the cases of the five women until June 18.

The entire day in court was taken up with a series of legal bickerings, and it is doubtful, Judge Mountain himself admitted, whether the "cases" will be disposed of until after June 30.

Parading Fascists Stab Three in Boston

SEVERAL WORKERS HURT IN ASSAULT BY BLACKSHIRTS

Police Jail Four Anti-Fascisti

BOSTON, May 28. — Three anti-fascist workers were stabbed and several others bruised and battered late yesterday when a group of jeering anti-fascists was attacked by more than 400 Fascisti and Italian World War veterans, who were parading to Faneuil Hall to celebrate the 13th anniversary of Italy's entry into the World War.

The fascists, enraged by the persistent booing of the group of anti-Fascists, led the attack with drawn knives. Police reserves, arriving on the scene, arrested four anti-Fascists, while only three of the followers of Mussolini were taken into custody.

DISTRICT 5 MINE SESSION OPENS

Special Convention to Oust Lewis-Fagan

(Special to the Daily Worker)

PITTSBURGH, May 28. — More than two hundred delegates are assembled here for the special convention of District 5 of the United Mine Workers of America called by the Emergency Committee of 100 representing as many local unions to take action on the crisis in the union and the treacherous conduct of the Lewis-Fagan machine.

The larger percentage of the credentials to the convention are formally signed by local officers and sealed. The remainder, bearing the signatures of presidents and secretaries, were accompanied by the explanation that their seals had been confiscated when they refused to sign pledges of allegiance to the present policies of the John L. Lewis administration.

Rank and File Acts.

When requests for approximately 100 local unions for a special district convention failed to evoke any response from the district union office, the locals took matters into their own hands and issued a call for the special convention signed by miners from 100 different locals. The district convention provides that special conventions shall be called when fifty locals apply.

According to the Emergency Committee, all district offices will be declared vacant and a new set of officers, in agreement with progressive policies, will be elected to replace them.

Warning that locals participating in the convention will be expelled which were issued from Patrick Fagan's office, have failed to stem the flow of credentials coming to the committee's headquarters, Carboni said.

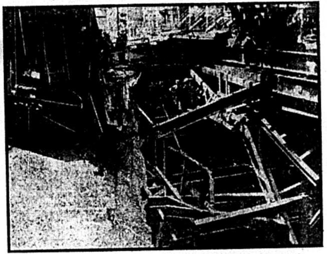
Where Careless Excavation Killed Negro Boy



The cave-in of the subway excavation at St. Nicholas Ave. and 148 St. caused the death of a Negro boy and the destruction of a grocery store near the tunnel. The picture shows the debris after the cave-in, which is believed to have been causd by careless shoring of the sides. This is the second time within a few months that there has been a serious cave-in along the line of the City's new subway.

BLOOR TRIMS LEWIS, CONVENTION IS TOLD

"We are now going to hear from one of the young coal miners attending the convention," James P. Cannon, chairman of the Saturday morning session of the Workers (Communist) Party nominating meet, announced. But Jim looked rather merry and many of the delegates thought there was a hitch somewhere.

Laughter followed by prolonged cheering and applause met the sprightly entrance on the platform of Ella Reeve Bloor—"Mother Bloor" who began like a gattling gun:

"I've just come in from the coal fields of Indiana," she said. "They're fighting like hell there against both the coal operators and the Lewis gang. And they know that the Workers Party has been in the lead wherever the battle was the thickest and the danger greatest."

Mother Bloor, past 65, is carrying on the fighting tradition of Mother Jones, 98-year-old labor veteran of the Western Federation of Miners and of the once-militant United Mine Workers of America. Bloor hopped toward the front of the platform, laughed gaily, and leaning forward shouted:

"You know, John Lewis and his henchmen tried to steal my honorary membership away which I hold in the United Mine Workers of America. Mother Jones and I are the only women that have this membership," she said proudly. "But he missed this time—for my card is in my son's safe is Philadelphia."

Bloor is always found where there is a big labor fight on. This week she is hustling back to the Indiana coal fields to continue her work there.

"We were sitting in a little hall, a group of miners. There were no seats, so we sat on boxes. There were no lights, so the coal diggers brought their carbide lamps. They were reading aloud from The DAILY WORKER—and you know it is full of great mine news. Then one of them spoke up: 'A year ago everybody was afraid to mention the word socialism; now everybody is talking Communism.'"

Mother Bloor doesn't have to use the railroads when she's on her way to take part in a fight of the workers. She "bums" her way around the country, and workers everywhere greet her warmly. Last summer she simply jaunted across the continent on a tour for The DAILY WORKER.

SOVIET FILM TO OPEN WEDNESDAY

Threat to Sue Compels Grant of Permit

Fear that the legal action threatened by Arthur Hammerstein would expose in open court the politics in censorship, the New York State Board of Film Censors has finally granted a permit for the opening of "The End of St. Petersburg," a Soviet film, after compelling the Hammerstein Theater, Broadway and 53rd St., to delay the premiere till tomorrow evening. The opening showing was to have taken place last night.

After reviewing the film, which tells a story of the November revolution of 1917 in Soviet Russia, the State Board of Censors told Hammerstein that no permit would be forthcoming till sanction was obtained from the State Department in Washington. Immediate inquiries made by the impresario in Washington, elicited the information that the matter was entirely up to the local censor.

Hammerstein's threat to sue for the release of the film, which has been hailed by foreign critics as a masterpiece, finally resulted in a permit granted yesterday, according to information obtained from the Hammerstein offices. It is generally conceded that the authorities realized the embarrassing predicament they would have been in if they had attempted to explain the reasons for refusing a permit in a public court.

It was also learned that Hammerstein has contracted for three more motion picture films from the Soviet Union.

NOMINATING CONVENTION HIGHLIGHTS

In Which Mother Bloor, Cal Coolidge, and Many Others Figure

"OUR job is not to 'Americanize' the Communist Party; it is to communize the American labor movement," snapped Jim Reed, veteran fighter from Rhode Island, in his speech before the convention.

Full of all kinds of proletarian pep, Mother Bloor came to the convention fresh from the coal fields of Indiana. "In Terre Haute, the home town of the late Eugene V. Debs," said Bloor, "a socialist party member asked me: 'Are you still trying to organize the working class?' And I said, 'You poor boob, we're just beginning.'"

"WORKERS PARTY NOW NATIONAL," LOVESTONE SAYS

Big Demonstration for Foster and Gitlow

The first great Nominating Convention of the Workers (Communist) Party came to an end late Sunday night, having accomplished greater and more stirring results in its two days of deliberations than even the most enthusiastic members of the Party had anticipated.

A platform which will carry the message of struggle to all sections of the working class and landless farmers, two standard bearers, Wm. Z. Foster and Benjamin Gitlow to whose popularity nearly one hour of steady demonstration by over three hundred delegates and two thousand visitors testified, a unification of the Party activities through the launching of the first great political campaign, an imbuing of comradeship and class solidarity between Negro and white workers, native and foreign-born workers—these were the high-lights of accomplishment by the convention.

A National Party.

That the Workers (Communist) Party of America has in the most real sense become a national party with a prospect of winning the leadership of large sections of workers and landless farmers, Negro masses, native Americans as well as foreign-born workers in all sections, was the major conclusion drawn from the three days' convention proceedings by Jay Lovestone, general secretary of the Party, in summing up at the last session of the convention, Sunday night.

"Chief among the results of this historic convention," Lovestone said, "is the fact that there has been completely exploded the notion that our Party is an organization east of Chicago. This convention with its delegations from the scenes of struggle from every section of the country, from the mine fields, from the textile areas, from the Negro workers, from the farm sections, from all states from Maine to Texas and from California to Massachusetts, is an evidence of the hold which our Party has secured over the American working class."

Greatest Gathering Yet Held.

The first convention of the Workers' Party and the most stirring and demonstration gathering, in the opinion of old fighters in the labor movement, ever to be held by a political gathering of workers in America, came to an end with the singing of the International, with hand shaking of delegates figuratively across the continent, with a determination by these delegates to go forth to the workers of their sections bringing to them the spirit of enthusiasm and fire which embued the great convention.

"The platform which we have here adopted is the best working class platform ever to be written for the workers of America," Lovestone further declared in his summing-up remarks. "With it we can go to the various sections and industries of the country, conscious that we have the issues, the slogans, the program which the workers themselves will fight for."

Demonstrations Continue.

"Are you satisfied with your candidates?" was the question asked of the delegates by Bertram W. Wolfe, agit-prop director of the Party in beginning his final words of instructions to the convention. The demonstration which had earlier lasted nearly for an hour began again.

That it is the Party which is being put forward and not merely individual candidates was, in fact, the repeated emphasis of Foster and Gitlow in their speechs of acceptance.

Plan Campaign.

Plans for the coming campaign as indicated in the report of Alexander Trachtenberg, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, include the division of the country into a number of election districts. In each of these a committee will be formed which will charter an automobile, a "Red Special," which will be used to carry the Communist candidates to the various sections of the district, to raise funds and to carry on propaganda, sell literature, etc.

In addition candidates Foster and Gitlow as well as other prominent Party members and candidates will tour the country.

BISHOP WILLIAM MONTGOMERY BROWN REACHES HIS TENTH REVOLUTIONARY BIRTHDAY

BISHOP William Montgomery Brown, expelled from the Episcopal Church for telling the workers to "banish the gods from the skies and the capitalists from the earth," was unable to attend the National Nominating Convention of the Workers (Communist) Party. But "fortunately I can read all about it in The DAILY WORKER, the most thrillingly interesting and brilliantly illuminating of all American newspapers."

That is what he said in a letter of greetings to the delegates at the convention. The letter follows in full:

"Comrades: It would be great for me if I could be with you in my place as a delegate from Ohio to the greatest political convention that will be held in the United States this year. Unfortunately I must be content to remain at home, but fortunately I can read all about it in The DAILY WORKER, the most thrillingly interesting and brilliantly illuminating of all American newspapers.

"It is great to be alive in this age when everything, everywhere is changing so rapidly. Ten years is not a long time to stay in a cemetery or a dead world where things seem to be standing still, but ten years like those through which we have just passed are different. They comprise a whole epoch in human history.

"It is a wonderful time in which to be young like us. Mrs. Brown and I are among the youngest in the Communistic movement. We are only ten years old, that is we have had only about ten years of real human life. All the sixty odd years which we spent before were at best only a preparation for the life that we are now living.

"It is true that during many of those years I was an orthodox bishop in an orthodox church, the Episcopal church, but that made no difference as to my deadness. Orthodox bishops of orthodox churches are about the deadest of all people. The only person on earth who is deader than an orthodox Episcopalian bishop is a 100 per cent American patriot.

"The world ten years ago was a world of radicals and conservatives. It now consists of revolutionists and reactionaries. That is a tremendous gain because both sides now want great changes to occur. The only argument is as to what sort of changes they shall be.

"The revolutionists see the great stream of life flowing into the infinite sea. The thought that occurred to them is to build a ship strong enough to ride the waves, to embark on it and explore the infinite.

"The reactionists see the same great stream of life flowing into the same infinite sea. The thought that occurs to them is to organize a gallant bucket brigade and to lug water back up the mountain side and pour it into its original hole.

Hard at Work.

"Both sides are hard at work. The revolutionists with their ship building and the reactionists with their bucket carrying. So far all the success has been with the revolutionists. If the reactionists succeed no better during the next ten years they must give up leaving the ocean as full as ever.

"If the revolutionists succeed as well during the next ten years their whole international fleet will be afloat following the greatest flagship which is already proudly riding the waves headed towards that delectable country where poverty and slavery and war are unknown.

Co-Worker of Tom Mann Is Communist Candidate for Governor of Delaware

GEORGE NEWCOMB SEES SPREAD OF RED INFLUENCE

Other Delegates Give Views

George Newcomb, candidate for governor of Delaware on the Communist ticket and a delegate to the nominating convention of the Workers' Party just closed, yesterday expressed his confidence on the prospects of the Party in his state. Newcomb is a veteran of the class struggle not only of the United States, but also of England and of Europe. A score of years ago, it was learned, Newcomb was an organizer in the British labor movement under Tom Mann.

Predicts Great Fight.

"Many forces are being unified to make the great American working class"; Newcomb declared, "this will be one of the important campaigns in labor history. Our Party will make a record in Delaware."

The slogan which perhaps made the greatest impression on the convention and which is destined to become a classic in the future of the Party is the one issued by James Reed, delegate from Rhode Island: "Our purpose is not to Americanize Communism; our task is to Communise the American working class."

Harry J. Lawrence, veteran fighter from Houston, Texas, created considerable interest by his parable of the Boll-weevil and the Banker: "The boll-weevil bites the cotton crop when it's young; the banker takes in the cotton crop when it's grown; which is the greater insect?" he asked.

Knew Lenin.

Martin Henderson, one of the oldest veterans of the class struggle in American and Europe who knew and worked with Lenin, summed up in a word the central lesson of his experience: "Once a revolutionist, always a revolutionist! Those who have deserted the struggle, those who sold out," he declared, "were never really revolutionists in their heart; that is what my fifty years of experience in the class struggle have taught me."

William J. White, member of the Central Executive Committee and a delegate from Pittsburgh, told of the conditions in the steel mills, the great tasks ahead for the Party and called for energy and determination to carry on the political campaign.

A Correction

In the national edition of The DAILY WORKER yesterday, the report of a cablegram received at the National Nominating Committee from John Pepper at Moscow referred to Comrade Pepper as "member of the Executive Committee of the Communist International," which is erroneous. It should have read, "member of the Central Committee of the Workers (Communist) Party of America," as it correctly appeared in the city edition.

Capone, Gang Leader, Has a Partner Now

CHICAGO, May 28.—The ushering in of a new era in strikebreaking and intimidation of workers is seen in the announcement that Alphonse Capone, gang boss and politician known as "Scarface Al," has become a partner in the Sanitary Cleaning Shops, Inc., owned by Morris Becker.

Of course, the aim of the new partnership is entirely altruistic. In fact, it will be Capone's job to act as a protecting shepherd to the workers of the Sanitary Cleaning Shops, according to Becker, who protests that the sole purpose of this new alliance is to protect his place of business and his employes from the gunmen hired by unscrupulous competitors. The cleaning and dyeing business, it seems, has been split up by an internal war, with gunmen playing the leading roles in the fray.

Workers in the cleaning and dyeing trade are, however, said to be skeptical of the purity of this holy alliance and look upon a gangster on the premises as a step towards greater efficiency in mobilizing scabs and slugging workers in case of strikes.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., May 28.—Despite the efforts of the District Executive Board of District 5, United Mine Workers of America to check the Special Convention called by the "Emergency Committee of 100," by sending warnings in the form of threats of expulsion to all local unions if they should attend, the credentials are still arriving and a good representative convention has assembled at the Labor Lyceum, 35 Miller St. Pittsburgh, according to reports from the committee.

Resolutions dealing with every phase of the miners struggle are also coming in and the various committees are busy preparing their reports to the convention. These credentials cover such subjects as the crisis in the mining industry, the need for the removal of the old officials, and the election of new officials. These are supplemented by demands that no more dues be paid to the old officers. In fact, the slogans of "Lewis and Fagan Must Go" are made very emphatic.

RED CAMPAIGN IN 48 STATES, PLAN

ported for the resolutions committee by Arne Swabeck reporting for the committee.

Alex Bittelman, chairman of Press and Publicity, reported that a national election campaign publicity manager will be selected. Publicity will be organized and centralized. The Party platform will be printed in full in pamphlet form. Certain special sections will be printed in leaflet and small circular form as propaganda for various sections of workers, farmers, Negro and foreign born workers, etc.

In his acceptance speech Foster emphasized the necessity of mobilizing the masses for the overthrow of capitalism thru the struggle for immediate needs.

A Communist Government.

"When a Communist heads the government of the U. S., and that day will come as sure as the sun rises, sooner perhaps than any of us think—that government will be a Soviet government and behind that government will be a Red Army," he said. "In the meantime we must organize around immediate demands in preparation for the final revolutionary struggle which will abolish capitalism altogether.

Referring to the danger of capitalist war, Foster declared that "we are entering this political campaign to wage a battle on every front. We must arouse the workers to the danger of a world war, the antagonism of the capitalist powers, the attacks on the Soviet Union, the camouflage so-called peace treaties—all prove conclusively that a capitalist war is in preparation. In fact, it is here now."

Attack on Unions.

Touching on the trade union situation, Foster declared that "the trade union movement thru the attack of the capitalist class supported by the labor misleaders is being destroyed. The socialists have united with the labor bureaucrats and are in many cases leading this reaction. The center of the struggle against the attack against the trade union movement has been the miners' union in which the Communist Party has inspired the leadership of the workers.

"The slogan 'Lewis must go' will be written in red ink in the history of the American labor movement. Our Party is not a party of mere vote-getters.

Expose Capitalism.

"We wage the political struggle in order to utilize this means to expose the capitalist system on every field."

Foster also laid special emphasis on the campaign for the rights of the Negro workers. "We will go down south," he said. "In the land of lynchings and Jim-Crowism, we will fight against lynchings and Jim-Crowism."

"The democratic party," he declared, "no less than the republican party, is the party of big business—Al Smith no less than Herbert Hoover. Nor is the socialist party any less the party of the capitalist class. The record of the socialist party has been best seen in the events that followed the world war in Europe, capitalism would have been destroyed."

Gitlow in accepting the nomination as vice-president declared:

"It is indeed a great honor to be nominated as one of the standard bearers of the Workers (Communist) Party of America. This convention brings out a note of defiance and challenge to the whole bloody capitalist class of America. We here declare to the Ohio gang which put into power the Harding and Coolidge administrations, to the pirates of Tammany Hall, that the Communist Party in the coming campaign will expose in letters of crimson the lurid record of these parties of expolitation."

Pointing to the danger of an imperialist attack against the Soviet Union, Gitlow declared:

"We understand the full meaning of events now being planned by the American imperialist government in cooperation with the imperialist governments of Europe.

"The so-called peace treaties which are now being prepared are the signals to us of the coming war. It is no accident that provision in these treaties specifically excludes the Soviet Union. The war danger involves an attack on the Soviet Union.

"The capitalist press tomorrow will say that this is a 'Red' convention. We are proud of this fact, for there is a country over which the red flag flies which has captured for the workers one-sixth of the globe. If the capitalist government of the United States persists in its refusal to recognize the government of the Soviet Union, a time will soon come when a Soviet government in the U.S. will recognize the Soviet Union."

Referring to the question of political prisoners, Gitlow pointed out that the coming campaign of the Workers (Communist) Party must be directed towards freeing these workers. "We have at this convention," Gitlow declared, "the victims and the relatives of victims beginning with Lucy Parsons—1886—and bring up to the present day when Mooney and Billings are still in prison.

"We shall not forget that Sacco and Vanzetti were murdered; we must not forget the millions of victims of unemployment; our campaign is also an industrial campaign."

In concluding, Gitlow stated:

"We declare that in the event of an attack on the Soviet Union we will defend our own true country, the Soviet Union."

Judge Upholds Tossing Coin in $15,000 Suit

CHICAGO, May 28.—Simply because a jury flipped a coin to decide a $15,000 damage suit is no reason for setting such verdict aside. At least, such is the opinion of Circuit Judge David Brothers, one of the upholders of America's world-renowned "justice." He so ruled yesterday in upholding the award of that sum to Mrs. Mary Dibbell in a suit against the Checker Cab Company.

The verdict was protested on the ground that it was determined by the flipping of a coin. Mrs. Dibbell's counsel explained that the jury stood nine to three for the $15,000 award, with the minority favoring $12,000. The coin toss was reported to have ended an eight-hour deadlock.

PICKET MILLS IN SPITE OF ARREST

To Try Strike Leaders Thursday

despite a 10 per cent wage cut, the mill-owned city authorities are trying to prevent the T. M. C. from holding another mass meeting here.

An announcement to this effect was made yesterday by the chief of police following the arrest Saturday of the leaders of the New Bedford Mills Committee. The first mass meeting of textile workers held here last week, which had as the main speaker Albert Weisbord, the Passaic strike leader, has already resulted in the enrollment of hundreds of workers here into membership in the Textile Mills Committee, with large numbers increasing the enrollment daily.

Despite the fact that the chief of police has notified the hall owners here not to rent any meeting places to the National Textile Mills Committee, Peter Hegalias, speaking for the Fall River organization, declared that a meeting will be held regardless of whether they have a hall or not.

Not only are the mill barons fearful of the speedily developing strike sentiment, but the officialdom of the American Federation of Textile Operatives, at the head of which is a "labor leader" who is also one of the city's police commissioners, are using all the resources at their command to stem the tide of feeling for strike action.

Even among the Textile Council membership an increasingly strong movement is afoot to take another strike vote, over the heads of the administration if necessary. The council officials, at the first vote, taken when the wage cut was put into effect several months ago, announced that the strike vote was lost by several ballots short of a two-thirds majority. At that time the union membership openly charged faked vote counting.

The announcement of Peter Hegelias for the T. M. C., also states that the second Fall River meeting will be held next week.

RUSH SIGNATURE DRIVE FOR OHIO STATE ELECTION

Militant Labor Leaders on Ticket

CLEVELAND, O., May 28.—Following the National Nominating Convention of the Workers (Communist) Party in New York City, enthusiastic reports of which have reached here by wire, the drive to collect 30,000 signatures to put the Party on the ballot in Ohio is being pushed with new vigor. The total of signatures has been placed at 30,000 in order to obviate any possible conflict with the state authorities.

Many In Drive.

A score of labor and fraternal associations, many of whom were represented by delegates at the National Convention, are already actively engaged in the signature collection. The societies will also organize mass meetings thruout Ohio to support the election campaign in the state financially.

The petition lists for this work are obtainable at the headquarters of the Workers (Communist) Party at 2046 E. 4th St.

The State Nominating Convention of the Workers Party at Cleveland nominated a full slate. Among the workers' candidates are William Patterson, of Toledo, who will run for governor; Carl Hacker, of Cleveland, for lieutenant governor; Bruce Smith, of Toledo, for secretary of state; Sarah Vervin, of East Liverpool, for treasurer; Edwin Blank, of Lima, for attorney-general; Joseph Cooper, of Youngstown, for state auditor; Israel Amter and Joseph Wilnecker, of Toledo, for senators.

All of the candidates have militant records in the labor movement in Ohio.

Leaders on Ticket.

Outstanding leaders of the Ohio workers' struggles are on the county and district tickets, too. Frank Sepich, of Neffs, one of the courageous leaders of the Eastern-Ohio miners and John Foley, of Cleveland, spokesman of the Cleveland unemployed movement, are some of the candidates for U. S. congress; Sadie Van Veen, secretary of the Women's Progressive League and leader of many political campaigns, Milosch Boich, Cleveland, Christoph Kraven, also of Cleveland, Abraham Eleff, John Fromholz, Thomas Bradley and other prominent Communists are on the Cuyahoga county ticket for state senate and assembly.

Judge Paroles Scabs and Coal Police arrested took place at Coverdale last November. Three of the coal and iron police were charged with pointing firearms.

"The paroles will be as a club against us to keep us off the picket line," one of the strikers who appeared before the court confided to a representative of the National Miners' Relief Committee following the trial. "The paroles don't mean a thing to the coal and irons. They were just paroled so that the club could be used against us. And we can't protest because the judge will say that he treated everybody alike."

PAPER AIDS HORTHY LOAN PROPAGANDA

Fascist Delelgation of "Kossuth Pilgrims" Is Further Exposed

NOT many weeks ago a large delegation of Hungarian fascists appointed by Horthy, the white-terrorist regent of Hungary, toured the United States in the guise of "Kossuth pilgrims."

Their purpose was to use the unveiling here of a monument to Louis Kossuth, Hungarian patriot, as a pretext for spreading propaganda for a huge loan from Wall Street to Hungary to bolster the tottering fascist regime of Horthy, which has tortured, killed, exiled and imprisoned thousands of workers and farmers.

The Workers (Communist) Party, the International Labor Defense, the Anti-Horthy League and other working class organizations of this country exposed the purposes of the fascist delegation in New York, Washington, Pittsburgh, Cleveland and other cities visited by the delegation. The heads of the delegation denied that they were here for any other reason than to honor Kossuth, although they called either formally or informally not only on Kellogg but on President Coolidge and the mayors of cities, whose favor is always sought in floating a foreign loan.

There have been signs from time to time that the Hungarian fascist loan propaganda was at work, maintained by agents and sympathizers in this country of the Horthy regime.

A NEW example of the assistance which the Horthy fascists are receiving from nominally neutral agencies in the United States is found in a story nearly a column long in yesterday's issue of a leading New York capitalist daily paper. The story is carefully designed to stimulate interest in the loan which the Horthy regime seeks here, to enable it to carry the heavy burden of its repressive uniformed and secret police force with which it perpetuates its power. The following is the lead sentence in the story:

"Bankers who have been studying the loan situation in various parts of Europe have been giving more attention to Hungary, which is said to offer considerable promise. While Germany and some other countries of Central Europe have drawn rather heavily on the surplus capital resources of the United States, and in the case of Germany there is prospect of further financing of considerable proportion, conditions in Hungary indicate that the investor looking for new business abroad will probably find it in various Hungarian industries."

THERE follows material on current financial, industrial and agrarian history of Hungary intended to stimulate confidence in the industries and estates owned by the supporters and appointees of the Horthy government as well as in the Horthy regime itself.

Militant American workers who faced police clubs and bullets to demonstrate against the Horthy delegation, notably in New York, understood these facts at that time. Their experience showed also the similarity between the Horthy terrorist police and the police force of Tammany Hall and that of the state department at Washington.

The House of Morgan, yesterday's New York newspaper story shows, will soon be slipping the fascist regent of Hungary a few million dollars to hire still more police and build still more jails for the workers.

FASCISTS CAUSE DISORDERS IN DALMATIA TOWNS

Treaty's Unpopularity Is Widespread

PARIS, May 28.--Outbreaks against the Italian populations of a number of Dalmatian villages and cities have broken out with unusual violence, reports from Trieste state. The Italian consulate in Spalato is reported to have been stormed and the Italian flag torn down from the steamship offices at Pola. Crowds of Italians are said to have provoked the Slovene population in several smaller towns. Spalato is a Dalmatian port with a considerable Italian settlement. Pola, at the tip of the Trieste peninsula, is a former Austrian naval base.

The outbreaks are said to have taken place as a result of the widespread unpopularity of the Nettuno Treaty by which the Jugo-Slavian government guarantees special privileges to Italians living in Dalmatian villages. The government is expected to ratify the treaty within the next few weeks.

Ratification is expected to be the issue in the Jugo-Slav parliament soon when the opposition will maintain that the treaty places the Italian business men in a privileged position thruout Dalmatia. The government asserts that the floating of a loan is impossible while the tension with Italy continues.

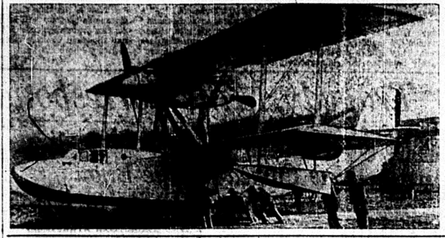
BRITISH MINERS ARE UNEMPLOYED

Mines in South Wales Fire Many

LONDON, May 28.—Unemployment is rapidly increasing thruout the British, Welsh and Scotch coal fields, according to statistics made public this week.

There are now 934,000 workers employed in the mines, 700 fewer than were employed last week. The total number of employed last year was 1,028,000, and 1,106,200 at the same time two years ago.

French Imperialism Will Hop Off Again From Brest to New York



The picture shows the flying boat, La Frigate, in which Lieutenant Paris, of the French navy will attempt to fly the Atlantic from Brest to New York. This will be the first French attempt since Coli and Nungesser disappeared. The French government is not content to have the most powerful submarine fleet in the seas but is paying special attention to flying as well.

PROTEST AGAINST CHINESE TERROR

231,000 Murdered by Kuomintang Leaders

MOSCOW, (By Mail).—The League of Chinese Workers has directed an appeal to the workers of the world calling upon them to protest against the white terror in China. The appeal declares that the number of victims of the white terror already exceeds 231,000.

"The leaders of the Kuomintang are the hangmen of the Chinese people and stand in the services of the imperialists. The appeal demands moral and material assistance from the international proletariat for the fighting Chinese workers."

Cop Runs Amuck, Kills Taxi Driver, Wounds 2

An excited Tammany Hall patrolman, visualizing a citation from above and his photograph in the Graphic, shot and killed an innocent taxicab driver, shot and wounded a second and with his club struck and seriously injured a third here early yesterday after a holdup in the Actors' Inn, 31 East 7th St. The drivers were bystanders. The bandits had fled when the officer arrived. The officer is Patrolman Victor Hertz. The dead driver was Louis Nishkin, 1140 Eastern Parkway, Brooklyn. Isidor Temes, 3808 Church St., Brooklyn, the second driver, is in Bellevue Hospital, probably fatally wounded.

IMPERIALISTS FIGHT TO CONTROL PANAMA

American interests in Panama accuse the British of military espionage and of efforts to secure control of large territories adjacent to Panama Canal.

According to an American newspaper of Panama City, "The Panama American," a British mining syndicate, has been carrying on extensive explorations in the interior of Panama, in preparation for military operations against the Canal.

According to this newspaper, the British company, Panama Corporations, Ltd., holds concessions of 4,500 square miles in Panama, has spent millions of dollars in the past four years on extensive surveys and explorations, without producing any ore or other tangible results. The Panama Corporations, Ltd., is under the control of Duncan Elliott Alves, a former member of the British parliament.

The American newspaper says: This British territory constitutes more than one seventh of the total area of the Republic of Panama. The Alves British Panama Corporation controls eight times as much of Panama's territory as the United States occupies in the Canal Zone. . . . If the purpose of these alleged mining operations was to acquire a military knowledge of the Isthmus of Panama and the canal defenses, the damage has already been done."

The same paper accuses the British of having influenced the Panaman Parliament to reject the recently proposed treaty, enlarging American control of Panama, and with having secured the passage of laws hostile to American interests. It asserts that the British company proposes to construct a road for motor-truck transportation across the Isthmus in competition with the Canal.

MEXICO FEDERALS DEFEAT BANDITS

SIGMAN, BANKRUPT, OFFERS BARGAINS

Attempt to Resume Business Is Met by Workers' Offensive

The dramatic gesture in issuing the manifesto to take in the expelled providing they pay up their dues on which they had laid so much hope, has passed without even as much as a ripple. The cliques stand fully exposed before the workers, who know that this manifesto which takes for granted that Sigman and the "Forward" are the bosses and sole rulers over the cloakmakers who must bow in submission to their orders, is but a new fake maneuver to press money from the workers to continue the pogrom and perpetuate the cliques in power.

The warning of President Green, under whose leadership the Miners' Union has been forced into a life and death struggle and the entire trade union movement reduced to a mere shell, to the effect that if the workers exercise their right to rule over their own destiny and choose leaders in whom they can place their confidence, their charter would be revoked, demonstrates that the reactionary bureaucracy feels that it has lost its hold over the workers and can only maintain itself in power by force and violence.

The final deal for the division of spoils, patched up by Hillquit, which makes room for Schlesinger and one other vice-president, may for a time appease the Schlesinger opposition and give Dubinsky, the champion of democracy, who has concluded this deal even behind the backs of his own delegates, the courage to face the members of his local, the sum total of his accomplishments being the 3-day tax on the membership and the addition of two more vice-presidents.

We can expect that in the very near future screaming headlines will appear in the "Forward" describing the enthusiasm with which the members of Local 10 accepted the report of Dubinsky. However, this deal will undoubtedly be short lived as is already indicated by the prediction of Leary of the "World," who is a good authority on matters of internal dispute within the ranks of the cliques. It is no idly prophesy to state that they will be at each others throat again.

At the first contact with the workers, on their return from the fake convention the cliques will find that the day of their domination has gone by; that if there were any workers who up till now had harbored any illusions as to the possibility of building a union with Sigman and Schlesinger, the fake convention has opened their eyes and has completely dispelled their false hopes. These workers are now looking in another direction for the solution of the problems facing the union.

To Drive Out Fakers.

While the pogrom chiefs were conspiring under closed dors to defraud and further enslave the workers, the unseated delegates representing the locals and Joint Boards of New York, Chicago, Los Angeles and other centers, as well as the delegations sent by the various groups in the union, which have been striving to bring about unity for the purpose of rebuilding our shattered organization, sat in conference earnestly deliberating on the problems confronting the workers in our industry today. One after another these workers from shops arose on the floor of the conference to relate their tale of woe and oppression both from the employers and their agents, the union bureaucrats.

These delegates sounded forth the call for unity of action to rebuild the organization, to which they had devoted the best years of their lives. There was unanimity of opinion on all the measures adopted toward raising the union from its present chaotic condition. The delegates present were actuated by one central thought, one aim—to unite the workers and begin the work of reconstruction. Toward this one goal all hearts beat in unison.

Honest Elements United

The conference considered the economic conditions in the industry as well as the question of internal administration. It was decided that as a first prerequisite for the rebuilding of our union it was necessary for all constructive elements to unite into one mighty front. It was necessary to bring about fundamental changes that would widen the foundation of the organization and draw into active participation the largest number of workers from our industry.

Accordingly, the conference decided to initiate a national movement for the organization of the shop chairman councils as permanent institutions to serve as the direct contact between the central body and the workers in the shops. It was decided to organize rank and file organization committees whose duty will be to take up the task of organizing the thousands of workers who have been forced into the open shops as a result of the pogrom. The conference clearly analyzed the causes of the present breakdown of conditions and decided that only thru a unified national organization campaign can the workers hope to re-establish the gains secured in past struggles and to forge ahead to new victories.

The conference of delegates representing the rank and file of our union elected a National Organization Committee under whose guidance and leadership the workers of our industry will take up the struggle not only against the bureaucrats, but against the bosses who are today the main support of the cliques. With the spirit of courage and determination characteristics of the fighting workers of our trade, the conference decided to make immediate preparations to put these plans for the reconstruction of our union into effect. The conference decided that the 40-hour week, the increase in wages, the unemployment insurance fund and other gains of the workers must be restored to them and that only the workers themselves thru their own organized power can enforce these gains. The conference expressed solidarity with the heroic striking miners, textile workers and all other workers who are struggling to organize and save their unions from the onslaughts of the bosses and the reactionary cliques. It issued a call to all workers to unite and organize themselves not only on the economic field, but on the political field as well. The conference took cognizance of the fact that if the needle trade workers are to fight effectively for the improvement of their conditions this cannot be done unless all the branches are united into one powerful, amalgamated union of needle trade workers.

To Fight On.

The word and sentiments uttered by the delegates at this conference found an echo in the hearts of the thousands of workers of our industry who are today slaving in the sweat-shops throughout the entire country. It was a challenge to all the forces of darkness, that regardless of the obstacles in the way, regardless of the suffering, the misery and persecutions, the workers of our industry, who in the past had distinguished themselves by their militancy both against the employers and their agents, are determined to take their destiny in their own hands. With the same spirit with which they fought and won the strike of 1910, that signalled the birth of our organization, they will go forth to the great task of rebuilding our union so that it may once more stand in the forefront of the American trade union movement and thru its militancy pave the way for a strong and powerful labor movement that will fight for the emancipation of the workers.

LARGER PROFITS, MORE WORK, BUT SMALLER WAGES

New Figures Show How Speed-Up Operates

By LELAND OLDS.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—More production with fewer workers and reduced payrolls is the record of manufacture during the first quarter of 1928, according to federal reserve board figures. The board shows that the displacement of labor which has been strikingly characteristic of the years since the war is still in progress. Automatic machinery and speedups have not yet taken their full toll of American productive workers.

Factory production for the first quarter of the year exceeded the same period of 1927 by 1.2 per cent, but working forces were reduced on the average 4.7 per cent. This means that the average factory worker produced 6 per cent more in the first 3 months of 1928 than in the same months of 1927. As wages remained practically stationary the factory owners get about 6 per cent more production for each $1 of wages.

Treating production and employment in the first quarter of 1927 as 100 per cent, the figures for 1928 in the industries for which they are available are:

In iron and steel, food products, lumber products and the cement brick and glass industries production per worker this year increased 10 per cent or more over the 1st quarter of 1927. Leather production per worker was up 6.3 per cent, tobacco 4.5 per cent and paper and printing 4.4 per cent.

CHARGE FASCISTS QUASHED FACTS

Arms Shipment Finding Suppressed

PARIS, May 28. — Reports that Italian initiative caused the pigeonholing of the findings of a committee sent to investigate the shipment of arms from Italy to the Hungarian government, are being widely circulated on the Continent. While no official statement can be adduced it is understood that responsibility for the suppression did not originate in Budapest.

The report is of the investigating committee to go before the League council in June. The suppressed report was to have come up for consideration in March.

Considerable stir was created in Central Europe several months ago when a shipment of arms, labeled agricultural instruments, was discovered on the Austro-Hungarian frontier, 400 miles off the route of shipment. The arms had been sent from Verona, Italy, and were alleged to have been captured from the Austrians during the war. They were destined for the Horthy regime in Hungary, it is charged.

4 Communists Face Death to Flee Hell Hole

The distance of 800 miles of the stormy stretch of the Pacific Ocean between the Masafuera Islands and the Chilean mainland was braved in an open rowboat by four Communists who preferrd to risk death than to remain in that hell to which the Spanish dictator, Ibanez, has sent about 300 Communists and other militant workers.

The four used for their escape a boat which capsized and was shattered on the rocks of the islands when a party of gendarmes rowing toward the island from a transport ship were drowned. The four Communists repaired the boat and ventured out into the open sea without sufficient provisions and with no knowledge of navigation. Nothing has been heard of them since.

VARE, MELLON IN ELECTION FRAUD

Two Machines in Vote Stealing Role

WASHINGTON, May 28. — The Vare machine in Philadelphia and the Mellon machine in Pittsburgh were guilty of "cheating and vote stealing" at every election in Pennsylvania since 1922, former Governor Gifford Pinchot testified today at a hearing by the senate elections committee on the contest of William B. Wilson, (D) to unseat Senator-elect William S. Vare (R) of Pennsylvania.

Pinchot said his charges of fraud were based on what he was told by election officials, what he read in newspapers and "my general knowledge of election conditions in Pennsylvania." His testimony frequently provoked arguments between Roland B. Mahaney, counsel for Wilson, and Francis Shunk Brown, Vare attorney. Scores of objections, raised by Brown, were sustained by the committee.

PROTEST THRUOUT SOVIET UNION TO RESCUE BELA KUN

Mass Meetings to Fight Against Extradition

MOSCOW, (By Mail).—In all the factories of Leningrad dinnertime meetings were held to protest against the danger of extradition hanging over Bela Kun. The resolutions which were adopted demanded energetically the release of comrade Bela Kun.

In Kiev and other places in the Donetz Basin mass meetings of the workers have taken place against the arrest and the possible extradition of Bela Kun. A great meeting of the Hungarian workers living in Moscow was held and protested against the arrest of Bela Kun. The meeting appealed to the world proletariat to use all its forces to secure the release of the leader of the Hungarian revolution.

The meeting sent a telegram of protest to the Austrian government. The Executive Bureau of the Red International of Labor Unions has addressed an appeal to the workers of all countries calling upon them to organize a protest action of solidarity against the danger of extradition hanging over comrade Bela Kun.

VIENNA, May 28 (FP).—Trade union membership is again on the increase in Austria, after years of post-war depression, during which the total membership reported to the national trade union center has alarmingly fallen off. In 1920 the full-paying membership was reported at 777,000; in 1921 it was only 641,000; in 1922 it rose to 850,000, and in 1926 it had fallen again to 595,000. Last year it was 603,000, and now it is probably near 640,000.

FOREMEN SPIT IN EAGLE PENCIL SLAVES' FACES; LEAD US, IS DEMAND OF THE WORKERS

(By a Worker Correspondent)

I am an employee of the Eagle Pencil Co. and have been for quite some time. Not long ago you carried on a campaign even to issuing of a shop paper. I understand this was done on the initiative of the Young Workers League. Even tho the campaign was carried on with special attention to the youth, the general agitation was such that elderly workers were equally affected. I can safely say in some cases elderly workers were more stirred than the youth.

I am writing you in the hope that you will again carry the great vision—"Workers of the world, unite"—to the Eagle Pencil Co. The Eagle factory is an old establishment.

The conditions under which we labor are unsatisfactory that there is always a grumble in our hearts. The premises are old and stinking. The ventilation is poor, in summer time it is unbearable. Ask the men in the rubber department. It is a common thing for men and women to faint away at their jobs.

And the wages—but what wages! Many of us abstain from cigarettes so that we can manage the week. Family men receive as little as 18 dollars for a week's work. A 50-hour week! Not long ago we received a wage cut. Since we are so totally unorganized, so completely in a blind alley, what else could we do but accept? I have seen men cry as they accepted the cut.

We are suppressed and terrorized and bullied in a thousand ways. Often at the slightest provocation we lose our jobs. The foremen are insulting and provocative to the most surprising degree. They spit in our faces but we are unorganized and must meekly bend the back, figuratively speaking. I say that some day they will overdo their oppression and a spontaneous strike will be the outcome. I say, let but a spark be applied and a gigantic conflagration will result. One hundred per cent will we march on the picket line.

Now is the time for you to begin your work. Win our confidence so that we will know upon whom to depend, upon whom we can always depend. I write to you in the name of the other two thousand wrokers whom you cannot desert. Sure as we eat to live we hate our boss.

Organization Is Bitter Lesson of Mather Tragedy, Mine Correspondent Writes

COAL COMPANY NEGLECT BLAMED FOR DISASTER

Cossacks Control All Approach to Scene

(By a Worker Correspondent.)

MATHER, Pa., (By Mail).—I started from Pittsburgh to visit the Mather mine disaster and observe personally the conditions there after the explosion that trapped nearly 300 miners working under the open-shop system of the Mather Collieries Co. of Cleveland, Ohio.

I got to Fredrickstown and there I met two striking miners and they took me to the mine in a car. When we got near the company's property we met two state police and they asked us if we had a pass to go in. I answered that we had no pass but I had relatives in there. In reply they told us to leave the automobile there and proceed on foot. So we did.

We walked about 10 minutes and came to a bridge. There we met other state troopers and coal and iron police. I approached one of them and I told him that I came a long way to see about one of my dear friends who had worked in the Mather mine for a long time. I gave him the name. The police said that nobody could go in without a pass. It was impossible to convince them.

We turned back and planned to go across the ten mile creek and try to get in through the railroad. On our way back we met a miner from Fredrickstown who had worked in the Mather mine, and he escaped death because he got drunk the night before the horrible disaster occurred. He recognized me because I spoke in a few meetings in Fredrickstown for the heroic miners' strike that has been going on bitterly for the last 14 months. He approached me and asked what was I doing around there. I told him that I tried to go into the camp but it was impossible.

"Well," said he, "come with me." So we all jumped on the car and tried a second time. We reached the bridge again. When we got there he showed the cossacks his working card and we passed.

In the Camp.

We are in the camp. It appears to me a military camp. Everywhere you go you see coal and iron police, with the criminal look, state troopers, with brutal faces, soldiers, red cross and even the "starvation army." There is an army of priests of different nationalities to calm and "comfort" the afflicted families. A real army camp, with all the agents, the defenders of the capitalist class.

They are all there to protect and defend the interests of the company and the master class in general. The priests are there to tell the people, in the name of "god," that this explosion was not because of criminal negligence on the part of the company, but the "devil" caused it.

The Steel Shaft.

We walked toward the shaft, but a state cossack pushed us back. I tried to go into the hall transformed into a morgue. But there was no admission for those who have no pass. The hall is the place were many miners celebrated many marriages and today is transformed into a dead house.

Horrible Scene.

The scene is horrible. Every place you see men and women, children and old people crying. They stay there for hours and wait patiently for their dead husbands, relatives or friends. Everyone asks the other if he has anyone trapped by the infernal explosion.

A casket was laid on the front of the hall steps with a dead body inside. A miner named Roby from Uniontown, Fayette county, Pa. On the top of the casket was a bag with his tools in it. It was unbearable, horrible.

Speed-up System.

The speed-up system in this mine and in all scab mines is used to a large extent. The company has tried to lay the blame on the scab machine man. But the facts are that due to the acceleration of production, the protective system is neglected by the company.

Due to these conditions there is no doubt that the explosion was caused by the speed-up system that violates all the protection laws.

The accumulation of excess gas is due to the defective ventilation system.

The payroll of the company shows from 700 to 750 miners employed. When the explosion occurred it was at the time of changing the two shifts.

All Improvements.

The capitalist press talks so much about this "pretty" and "modern" village of Mather mine, so I was curious and I visited all the houses I could. The only improvement that I saw is the electricity and cold water supply, no washtub, no bathroom, no toilet no hot water supply, etc.

In the camp you find a few churches to keep down the people. Also there is a movie, a company doctor, who refuses to visit the patients in case of strike, etc. There is also a company store. I asked a miner what prices the company charges for food. He told me that the prices are much beyond the private stores outside the company property. A bag of flour that you can buy for $1.20 in a private store in the company store costs $1.95.

The capitalist newspapers never mention these facts of highway robbery that every company store practices against the miners.

The only weapon that can compel the operators to institute an effective protective system for the lives of the coal diggers is a powerful organization of all the miners in the United States. The non-union miners, if they want to prevent and eliminate more explosions, and improve their working conditions, their wages, etc., must realize the importance of having a union.

The non-union miners must rally around the Save-the-Union movement.

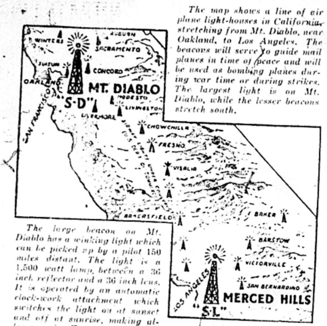
Lights Which Will Guide Mail Planes, Bombers



The map shows a line of air plane light-houses in California stretching from Mt. Diablo, near Oakland, to Los Angeles. The beacons will serve to guide mail planes in time of peace and will be used as bombing planes during war time or during strikes. The largest light is on Mt. Diablo, while the lesser beacons stretch south.

The large beacon on Mt. Diablo has a winking light which can be picked up by a pilot 150 miles distant. The light is a 1,500 watt lamp, between a 36 inch reflector and a 36 inch lens. It is operated by an automatic clock-work attachment which switches the light on at sunset and off at sunrise, making allowance for seasonal variations.

EXPLOITED FARMERS AND THE ELECTIONS

By ALFRED KNUTSON.

It can be said today that the Communist Parties of the world under the leadership of the Communist International, are the only truly working class parties and the only organizations that are fighting on the side of the farmers and workers as a class. This is really one of the most outstanding characteristics of the present political period.

Take a look at Europe. In Germany and France the social democratic leaders, who participate in the governments of these countries, the Brauns and the Briands, have completely forgotten the working class and fight on the side of the capitalists. These so-called "benefactors of mankind" have become the worst enemies, the worst persecutors of the farmers and workers.

Glance at the situation in England. Tho MacDonalds, the Snowdens, the Hendersons and Thomases, are mere tools of the capitalist class. They are known as working class leaders but they mislead the farmers and workers at every turn of the road. They are for world capitalist imperialism and against the farmers' and workers' world organization—the Communist International.

In China the Kuomintang, led by the Chiang Kai-sheks, betrayed the farmers and workers of China, and this organization is now hand-in-glove with the imperialists and the native capitalist class. The one party in China that is leading the farmers and workers for the attainment of a better standard of life is the Communist Party, affiliated with the Communist International.

This is true all over the world—in some 50 countries where Communist Parties are organized. Here in America it is especially becoming more and more evident that all capitalist parties, middle class parties, "progressive" parties and the socialist party, are merely instruments for perpetuating the rule of the exploiters. They don't want to fight for the interests of the farmers and workers. The socialist party, supposedly a workers' organization, has even gone so far as to eliminate from its party pledge the idea of the class struggle altogether.

It is therefore of great importance that the one Party in the United States that is holding aloft the banner of the class struggle has decided to participate actively in the coming election. I refer to our Party, the Workers (Communist) Party of America.

On the questions of unemployment, the miners' struggle, the agricultural crisis, Nicaragua and China, the Soviet Union, it is the one Party that speaks straight out, gives the unvarnished facts and bases its analysis upon the fundamental interests of the farmers and workers. All other parties are either openly espousing the capitalist cause or else they are pussyfooting and very timidly speaking for the workers' interests—tactics and methods of struggle which can only play directly into the hands of the capitalists.

This is illustrated quite plainly in the agricultural situation. We have numerous farm organizations like the Farm Bureau and the Farmers' Union, farm organizations so-called, but which are simply adjuncts to the capitalist system and in every political campaign they line up with the capitalist political parties. They mislead the farmers by making them believe that the farmers will be helped by electing republicans and democrats.

The "progressives" in congress, who hail from the great west, the principal farming region of the country, are "strong" for farm relief but not for the exploited farmers and are very much afraid to fight the robbers who are responsible for the farmers' plight. These politicians are good go-betweens for the well-to-do farmers and banks and grain combine and the Wall Street capitalists. They hold the farmers in line so they won't rebel.

The political issues that must be raised now in the farming section is not the McNary-Haugen bill, which is merely a capitalist maneuver to appease the capitalist, but such basic issues as land for the users, nationalization for the marketing system, a farmers' credit system, a political and economic alliance between the farmers and the city workers and a workers' and farmers' government.

Only one political party in the country stands for these things and that is the Workers Party. The Farmers' Union, the Farm Bureau and the "progressives," and the socialist party are against this program. They merely fight for capitalist remedies which are useless to the farmer, being only temporary measures, and in the end meaningless and of no real value.

The farmers of America will find in this political campaign that the Communist Party is the one Party that is strictly for the exploited farmer and at all times can be depended upon to stand with them in their fight against the banks and the grain and cotton thieves.

We expect, and rightly so, that the Communist Party in the present political campaign will train its guns particularly against the pseudo-progressive element and establish itself securely as the Party which is championing the cause of the millions of landless farmers and farm workers in the farming west and other sections of the country.

This is a big job but the Party will do it. In the 1928 political campaign we can make a good start. Let's make the most of the situation and dive into the campaign with the greatest energy and enthusiasm.

SCHOOLS ORDER CHILDREN NOT TO MASS PICKET

Principal Fights Save Union Committee

(By a Worker Correspondent)

WHEELING, W. Va., (By Mail).—Our public schools, supposedly a place where our children are taught and trained to fight lifes' battles and struggles, but actually the breeding place of obedient wage slaves, have come out openly in the present struggle of the striking miners to aid the coal barons.

This was evident when Prof. Albert F. Meeks, principal of the Lansing public schools ordered the miners' children from a "Save-the-Union" meeting recently, and threatened them with punishment if they would not obey. "Those god damned—those damned agitators are telling lies." Thus the teacher of morality and decency continued to rave and use obscene language in the presence of small school children. The miners' children are forbidden to attend the meetings of their parents who are on strike and listen to the truth but are forced by threats to listen to the clever propaganda of the schools and obscene language used by the instructors.

The children of various schools report that they are instructed to go home immediately from school and not to go to the picket lines. The miners' children, however, understand that they can help in this struggle and they are doing their utmost. The children know that by winning the strike they will get wholesome food and better clothing. They understand why they are forced to live in such miserable conditions and why their parents cannot give them good food and better clothing.

During this bitter struggle of the miners for better working conditions and a decent living standard the eyes of the youth have opened and they are beginning to see the true condition of affairs and understand the scheme of things in present society. No longer do they believe the well-known stories of opportunities; of freedom and equality; of patriotism and heroism. They see that their heroes, the state guardsmen and police, are used to shoot down their fathers and brothers and to beat up defenseless women and children. Instead of freedom and equality they see peaceful meetings of their parents broken up and speakers arrested.

The youth have been taught many valuable lessons during the coal strike. They now realize that there is a class struggle in America. It has also showed them that society is divided into two large antagonistic groups which during an industrial dispute clearly show themselves to be two distinct groups, one the oppressor, the other the oppressed. The children themselves are a living refutation to the lies of "prosperous" America. It has also taught them that the strength of the workers is in organization and mass action.

Young workers, unite! Do not be fooled by the schools and the press. Fight against military training in the schools and the glorification of war. Fight against the exploitation of young workers in industry. Organize and unite!

DRAMA

New Comedy at the Bijou Theatre Fails to Click

AN UNIMPORTANT comedy called "Skidding," written by Aurania Rouverol, is now playing at the Bijou Theatre. Announced as the winner of a drama league contest in Pasadena, Cal., its amateurish background is constantly displaying itself so the audience can never seem to realize that they are viewing a legitimate production. While the cast is quite capable and the direction of more than ordinary ability, the production just does not click.

The plot is the major weakness of the play. Concerning questions which for the most part were burning issues a decade ago, the play at the very outset prejudices the audience by the age of its theme. It tells of a girl who had to choose between married life, which according to the prospective husband, means staying home and taking care of the home, or on the other hand, participating in politics.

The play also tells how the family of the girl who happens to live in Idaho, have difficulty in keeping the home fires burning. In other words, to prevent skidding, thereby giving rise to the title. The play points out how the daughter comes home from post-graduate work in political science with a desire to participate in politics, while her father is a local politician and republican party candidate for judge running for re-election. The rest of the family consists of two married sisters, chafing under the yoke of wedlock and various other assorted relatives who all have their complaints to add to the general discord.

The cast includes Walter Abel, Burr Caruth, Marguerite Churchill, Clara Blandick and Louise Carter, who for the most part give capable performances.

The play is produced by Hyman Adler and Marion Gering. It is rumored that Miss Gering, who is responsible for the staging, was at one time connected with the Meyerhold Theatre in the Soviet Union. If so, she evidently forgot a great deal since she arrived in this country.

APRIL STEEL ORDERS LOW.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 28.—New orders of fabricated structural steel in April, as reported to the department of commerce by the principal manufacturers, were only 63 per cent of capacity, based on total orders of 186,024 tons reported by fabricators with a capacity of 293,750 tons per month, as against March orders of 69 per cent of capacity.

Wisconsin Child Labor In Many Mishaps in 1927

MILWAUKEE, May 28.—In Wisconsin employers are required to pay double or triple compensation to children injured while illegally employed, according to the nature of the violation of the law involved. In 1927 extra compensation payments ranged from less than $20 to nearly $5,800, and the aggregate amount of such compensation payments ranged from compensation under claim cases settled during the year was more than $16,000, indicating that the law is not being enforced very vigorously.

POLICE STOLE MEXICANS' PAY IN LOS ANGELES

Workers Were Relieved Of Wages

(By a Worker Correspondent)

LOS ANGELES, Cal., (By Mail).—A car, in which four Mexican workers were riding, was stopped by two uniformed officers at Macy and Main Streets recently. Enastacio Ramirez charges he was searched and his billfold taken away from him and when it was returned it was minus a $20 bill. Two others were also "relieved" of smaller sums, it was reported to police.

The two officers admitted they stopped the men and searched them, but denied taking their hard-earned cash.

The officers were "searched," but no money was found. So they were restored to duty pending a "complete" investigation by the red-baiting chief of detectives, Herman Cline.

The three other victims were: T. Perez, Theodore Schavez and Ramiudo De Leon.

El Heraldo, the most liberal of the three Mexican dailies here, is making a very big thing out of this alleged robbery by members of the "law and order gang," an outfit which has been in the habit of giving police protection to high class crooks for years, according to the L. A. Ill. Daily News.

The new city hall was dedicated on April 26, 1928. Mayor Cryer said in his dedication speech that there was no graft of any kind in this city. Today, however, nobody is trying to deny that it is here. And it is here to stay until the capitalist system is overthrown.

BOSTON REPORTS SHOW JOB CRISIS CHRONIC IN U. S.

Employment Average is Down 20%

By LELAND OLDS.

BOSTON, (FP) May 28.—A slight decline in manufacturing in April is announced by the Massachusetts department of labor. It records a drop of 2 per cent in employment and of 4.2 per cent in wages compared with the preceding month. Here is evidence that the steady down, down, down of the employment curve in Massachusetts has hardened the statisticians in the state house. They are apparently so used to recording declines that nothing less than a complete shutdown of industry would shock them.

Unemployment Chronic.

Employment in Massachusetts factories has fallen 10 per cent since April 1927. It is about 20 per cent under the average for the 5 years 1919-23. This means that wide-spread unemployment prevailing a year ago has grown far more serious.

Only 2 of the 20 leading industries in the state have resisted the downward trend. These are jewelry and rubber footwear. All the rest show fewer employes this April than a year ago. The sharpest decline is a drop of 28.7 per cent in workers in the manufacture of textile machinery. This industry is employing just half as many workers as in the years 1919-23.

Spindle Hours Fall

Declines in employment compared with April 1927 in other leading industries were cotton goods 17.6 per cent, foundies and machine shops 15.1 per cent, rubber goods including tries and tubes 14 per cent, boots and shoes 13.4 per cent, woolen goods 12.5 per cent, hosiery and knit goods 11.3 per cent, clothing 7.8 per cent.

The situation in the cotton mills is also reflected in the report of the U. S. department of commerce. The 9,686,946 spindles in Massachusetts mills averaged only 114 hours in April compared with 278 hours for North Carolina, 301 for South Carolina and an average of 206 hours for the country as a whole.

SUPERIOR AIDS MINERS' RELIEF

Cooperatives of Workers and Farmers Help

By JACK OBLAN.

SUPERIOR, Wisc., May 28.—The splendid response of all working-class elements to the heroic unequal miners' struggle is reflected in the splendid work done by the Striking Miners Relief Conference of Superior, Wisconsin.

Superior is a semi-farming city, situated at the most western point of Lake Superior. It has a population of 40,000 and occupies an area of 42 square miles.

Co-operative Center.

Superior is the center of the most highly developed consumers' co-operative organization in America. The Co-operative Central Exchange with its 14,000 members is organized as a co-operative wholesale society, having done last year a business of over $1,250,000. It is composed entirely of workers and poor farmers.

The workers here are fairly well organized for a town of this size and with the general backwardness in its development in the U. S. The backbone of the local movement are the splendidly organized Finnish workers.

The workers in this city took a lively interest in the heroic miners' struggle.

American Imperialism Cutting Wider Swath

WASHINGTON, May 28. — The average value of American foreign trade with the Central American countries, Honduras, Costa Rica, Guatemala, Nicaragua, Panama and San Salvador, for the five years 1910-1914, was $54,938,000, and in 1926 it was $123,024,000—that is, it had a little more than doubled. Exports to these countries averaged $37,569,000 for the five-year period 1910-1914, and were in 1926 $75,051,000.

The holdings of Americans in these countries increased in value from $41,000,000 in 1912 to $209,000,000 this year, an increase of more than five-fold.

The average value of our trade with Mexico for the five-year period from 1910 was $123,570,000, and in 1926 it was $304,300,000. In 1912 the value of Americans' holdings in Mexico was $800,000,000, and this year it is $1,-288,000,000 an increase of 61 per cent.

Political Prisoners

Even the nearest relatives of the prisoners will be carefully selected. Only those who are not suspected of being Communists will be allowed within the prison.

Lost in Arctic Ice Fields Pope's Blessing Seems Wasted

The dirigible Italia, shown in the picture, is reported to be lost in the ice wastes north of Siberia. The airship is believed to be off Lenin Land. The Italia carried a crew of fascist imperialists, under General Umberto Nobile, to the North Pole where they dropped a cross especially blessed by the pope, directly on top of the earth.

TRUST IS FACING FINANCE EXPOSE

But There Are Millions In Trust Lobby Fund

WASHINGTON, May 28 (FP). — While the federal trade commission proceeds with its hesitant exposure of the power trust's efforts to stamp out all discussion of public ownership of utilities in the United States, question has been raised as to when the financial structure of the power companies and their holding companies is to be probed.

Within the next month the workers will realize that there must be some very strong reason for the anxiety shown by the utility magnates that the capitalist press, schools and libraries should be prejudiced against public competition with their game. That reason will be found in the tax laid upon the public in the form of excessive rates. Back of these extortionate rates is a mass of juggled bonds and watered stocks.

The "water" in public utility stocks is said to have reached a total of $2,-000,000,000 about a year ago. Electricity costs twice as much in the United States as in Ontario. The explanation floats on a sea of water pumped into stocks by promoters.

CHICAGO HOLDS MEET TO DEMAND RELEASE OF KUN

Resolution Drawn Up and Passed

CHICAGO, Ill., May 28.—At a meeting held in Northwest Hall here, to protest against the extradition of Bela Kun to Hungary, where he faces certain death, the following resolution was drawn up and passed unanimously:

"Whereas, the arrest of Bela Kun, valiant fighter for the working class, by the Seipel government of Austria constitutes a violation of the right of political asylum, and

"Whereas, the proposal to extradite him to Hungary where he was formerly head of the Hungarian Soviet government, signifies certain death for him at the hands of the present Horthy murder régime in Hungary, be it

"Resolved, that we workers of Chicago in mass meeting assembled at Northwest Hall on May 25, 1928, call upon the Austrian government to release Bela Kun unconditionally, and be it further

"Resolved, that copies of this resolution be sent to the Austrian diplomatic representative in Washington, D. C., and to the general press."

TEACHERS LOSE IN SEATTLE COURTS

SEATTLE, (FP) May 28.—Though the court would not make permanent the union high school teachers' temporary injunction against the school board, the board has agreed not to enforce its yellow dog contract until the issue has been decided in the Washington state supreme court.

Local 200 of the American Federation of Teachers has wide labor and popular support, but the board has the backing of the Seattle chamber of commerce. The high school union which was only recently organized, now has almost 700 members.

One school board member has stated that the board can and will fire any teacher it pleases on any ground. The stage is set for a desperate battle involving the right of teachers to belong to professional organizations of their own choice.

Little Change Reported In Skilled Job Shortage

WASHINGTON, May 28 (FP). — Unemployment among trade union members in 24 cities in the United States fell from an average of 18 percent in March to 16 percent in April, according to reports made to the American Federation of Labor from its representatives in these cities.

These figures take no account of unemployment among men and women who are not trade union members. Non-union workers have a poorer chance of employment than trade unionists.

SEEK TO GAIN NITRATE LINE

BUENOS AYRES, May 28.—Offers have been made the Bolivian government by an American firm, operating chiefly in the Argentine, to purchase the Arica-La Paz Railroad for $20,-000,000, according to reports from La Paz. The Bolivian section of this line was recently turned over to Bolivia by the Chilean government.

The line, on the Chilean end, taps the important nitrate regions and is regarded as a strategic capture for the American interests.

Fascists Ask Rumanian Newspaper Suppressed

VIENNA, May 28.—Premier Mussolini has sent a demand to the Rumanian government ordering that the newspaper Adeverul be suppressed, because this paper has taken an anti-fascist attitude. The Rumanian government has intimated that it is unable to carry out this demand owing to the lack of a suitable legal apparatus.

158 MORE JOIN INTERNATIONAL LABOR DEFENSE

St. Clairsville Miners Become Members

LANSING, Ohio, May 28. — At a mass meeting held recently under the auspices of the International Labor Defense here, which was addressed by Carl Hacker, Cleveland district organizer of I. L. D., one hundred and fifty-eight miners, women and other workers joined the organization.

A few weeks ago, when 51 women were detained in the St. Clairsville jail for three days and nights, Hacker went there for the purpose of finding out why they were being held, especially since they had done nothing more than protest against the arrests of three of the leaders of the Save-the-Union Committee. Hacker was ordered to leave the county with the threat that if he ever came back he would immediately be arrested.

The meeting which was organized under the auspices of International Labor Defense with Hacker as the speaker, was a very enthusiastic one, and neither the sheriff nor any of his aids were present. A meeting is being planned for St. Clairsville in the very near future.

John Lewis and John Rockefeller

Under the caption, "The Cure for Coal," the New York Sunday News publishes the following editorial:

> "John D. Rockefeller jr.'s Consolidated Coal company decides to close ten of its mines in Pennsylvania and West Virginia.
> "The action results from a tip said to have been handed the soft coal industry two years ago by John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America.
> "Its object is to begin the process of shrinking production to fit demand, which alone can halt strikes, riots and shutdowns in the soft coal industry.
> "The cure is a painful one. No one but will sympathize with the workers and employers thus caught in the economic mill. But, administered from within by the industry or from without by government, it is the only cure there is."

John D. Rockefeller Jr.

John L. Lewis

With this unusually clear admission by a big capitalist newspaper that capitalism and the supporters of capitalism within the labor movement have no cure for the conditions which are driving the workers in the mine industry to desperation, except to drive them to further desperation, the capitalist newspaper publishes the very handsomest portraits of John L. Lewis on one side and John D. Rockefeller jr. on the other.

The first part of what the News says is undoubtedly true—that Lewis did actually convey to scab coal operators and to John D. Rockefeller jr., the psalm-singing scab coal operator, his readiness to accept such a plan.

John L. Lewis agrees to this; Rockefeller does it; a capitalist sheet admits that "the cure is a painful one" and offers its "sympathy" to the thousands of mine workers and to the poor, starving Mr. Rockefeller alike for the pain they have to endure.

But the News, of course, lies when it says "it is the only cure there is." Mr. Lewis, Mr. Rockefeller and the capitalist editor all know perfectly well that there is another cure, and that they are lying when they say that labor conflicts, which they call "strikes, riots and shutdowns," will be a thing of the past when they throw thousands of workers permanently out of employment, to add to the five million already unemployed.

Rockefeller wants to increase the amount of surplus value that he can get out of each man who digs coal, by lengthening the number of hours that each one works beyond the working time necessary to keep each one alive. If a miner works six hours a day, Rockefeller will have to pay at least enough to keep him alive enough to work; and if each miner works eight or nine hours a day, Rockefeller need not pay him any more than just enough to keep him alive.

Mr. Lewis, who is a business man like Mr. Rockefeller, but whose business is in selling out labor unions and "the labor vote" to the big capitalists—Mr. Lewis also has something to gain. The best and bravest of the coal miners are on his trail, and are now exposing his treason. Mr. Lewis wants these mine workers thrown out of the Union. He has a common interest with Mr. Rockefeller. Also Lewis thinks that if he can reduce the once-magnificent structure of the United Mine Workers to the character of a company union, the operators may well afford to let him run it for them and to continue the $12,000 a year salary which the miners are getting tired of paying. Mr. Lewis thinks also he may get into a "Teapot Dome cabinet" as secretary of labor if he shows himself a useful servant to the Rockefellers who pay for the republican party to which Lewis belongs.

But the capitalist editor lies when he says there is no cure. There is no cure under the capitalist system. But there is a cure, by overthrowing the capitalist system, and the rule of the Rockefellers and their stool-pigeons, in the Unions such as Lewis.

The interesting editorial on the two Johns was published on the same day that the platform of the Workers (Communist) Party was adopted and William Z. Foster and Ben Gitlow were nominated as the red candidates of the working class for the coming election.

All workers should study this Communist platform which clearly shows them that there is indeed no "cure for coal" under capitalism, but it also shows the immediate steps to take to "cure" Messrs. Lewis and Rockefeller and also those steps to take to liberate the working class from slavery and unemployment.

Capitalist "Confessionals"

By LELAND OLDS,
(Federated Press).

CHICAGO, May 28.—That money power rules America is acknowledged by Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland in the Atlantic Monthly under the title, "The Imperialism of the Dollar." Ritchie, who has been considered by business interests as the plutocratic lieutenant and Coolidge of the democratic party, makes a show of exposing the irresponsible domination of the banking oligarchy as a warning to big business in whose interests he works.

Ritchie believes it obvious "that new and startling developments of deep social and political significance are taking place in the power of money, and that these developments are giving the dollar, as the symbol of that power, a truly imperialistic aspect." He holds it "not extravagant" to say that the power dominant in America today is the power of money.

The politician touches briefly on the new devices and investment forms by which financial leaders "are managing to separate the legal ownership of the dollar from the legal control of what the dollar represents." He says: "Ownership may remain in the individual, but power is concentrating in great banking and investment organizations with world-wide financial relations and inter-relations, which are able to organize not only the accumulated wealth but the credit of mankind into the most effective sort of power the world has ever known."

Ritchie enumerates the various avenues through which "the banker is by way of becoming the authentic leader of the social order." The banker, he holds, secures this power "not so much through the control of money as through the control of both public and private credit." The investment banker "is gradually acquiring a mortgage on the industry of the nation—he dominates practically the whole field of industry and enterprise." The ownership of wealth "is becoming abstract and depersonalized."

Finally he admits what has been said of all autocracies that have risen to power and decayed in the past:

"The power of money is not as everlasting as the rock of Gibraltar. A money power that is politically sterile or indifferent, or politically selfish or shortsighted, may well be riding for a fall."

Miners Rally to Workers Party

By REBECCA GRECHT.

The membership drive carried on by the Pittsburgh district of the Workers (Communist) Party of America during the last four weeks has made great headway among the striking miners in western Pennsylvania.

Big Gains for Workers Party.

Over 350 miners and their wives have joined the Party in Washington and Allegheny Counties alone. Fourteen new units have been organized in the most important mining centers, each with a membership ranging from fifteen to thirty five, and more are in the process of formation. Never in the history of the Party in this district has there been such an enthusiastic response among the miners to the call of the Party and such a rapid steady influx of these heroic fighters into the ranks of the Communist movement.

The bitter struggle in the soft coal fields, now fourteen months old, is opening the eyes of the strikers in western Pennsylvania to the character of the capitalist system of exploitation which oppresses and enslaves them. They are learning what class war means. They are beginning to understand how the bosses' government functions. Injunctions, evictions, the reign of terrorism which has been established in the organized and unorganized fields by coal and iron police and state troopers, brutal clubbings of men and women pickets alike, breaking up of progressive meetings have given daily demonstrations of the open alliance existing between the coal operators and the government in the assault upon the miners.

Ever greater numbers of the militants who are today battling to save the union, organize the unorganized miners and restore union conditions in the industry, realize that the present fight is not an end in itself, but is a part of the great struggle going on in America between the working class and the capitalists, a struggle which will end only when the workers themselves assume power and take control of industry and government.

Miners Loosing Illusions.

The striking miners who are joining the Party in western Pennsylvania have been through several severe conflicts. They remember the strikes of 1910, 1919, 1922. No past strike, however, has been so protracted and bitter as the present one. Never before has there been such a determined attempt to destroy the miners union and thus help to demolish the organized labor movement of America—an attempt which obviously has the open or tacit support of government officials.

Senate Investigation Failed.

Added to this the complete failure of the senate investigation of the coal strike. Whatever little hope existed among the miners when the senate investigating committee first began its very arduous labor in March on the eve of the primary elections in Pennsylvania that this would lead to a favorable settlement, has today collapsed. While coal operators and corrupt mine union leaders "testify" in Washington, evictions of hundreds of strikers families in Ohio and Pennsylvania proceed. Injunctions and sheriff's anti-picketing proclamations are even more drastically enforced. The slugging campaign of state troopers and coal and iron police increase in violence, and the coal operators calmly and deliberately continue with their plans to smash the union at any cost.

The aggressive strikers see through this investigation as a political maneuver. They recognize that the senate, like other government bodies, backs the operators, and that the miners cannot expect to win their fight through action of congress or any other government agency.

As these facts sink into their minds, many of the progressive miners lose their illusions about capitalist democracy and freedom. The gospel of "peace and harmony" between worker and boss no longer blinds them to the truths of the class struggle. They are turning to the Workers Party for guidance and leadership, for a solution to their problems, to their bitter struggles and suffering.

Party Units Established.

In Washington County, new units of the Party have been established in Meadowlands, Houston, Washington, Mollenauer, McDonald, Cherry Valley and Fredericktown, while the membership of the Coverdale and Canonsburg units have been more than doubled. Throughout the Allegheny Valley, which has developed into a progressive stronghold and has been the center of attack by the reactionary union machine, the most active strikers are joining the Party. New units have been organized in Renton, Russelton, Rural Ridge, Kinlock, North Bessemer, Harwick, and Harmarville. Miners have also joined the Party in Daisytown, California and Bentleyville.

It is significant that miners' wives are seeking admission into the Party, as in Bishop, North Bessemer, Rural Ridge, and Russelton. They are the leaders of the progressive women in these mining camps. They have demonstrated their fighting spirit and understanding of the issues involved in the struggle by their activity on the picket line, in relief work, in the fight against the reactionaries. Now they are entering the Party together with their men, for the first time in Western Pennsylvania, again showing that a new era has indeed opened for the women in the mining camps.

Many of these miners have in the past supported the republican or democratic party. Now, they declare, they are through supporting the parties of the coal operators, the railroad and steel trusts. They have learned in the struggle that the capitalist parties are merely the tools of the bosses. As some of the miners express it: "Before we voted for the boss, now we're going to vote for ourselves and support our own party—the Workers Party."

Leave Socialist Party.

Former members of the socialist party are also joining, as in Meadowlands, Bishop, and Cherry Valley. They are emphatic in their assertions that the socialist party has ceased to represent the workers, that it supports Lewis and the coal operators in its opposition to the progressive miners movement. The action of James Maurer, former secretary of the Pennsylvania State Federation of Labor, and now vice-presidential candidate on the socialist ticket, in uniting with the most reactionary elements of the Pennsylvania labor movement to fight the progressive delegates to the recent convention of the Pennsylvania State Federation of Labor, has proven to these miners the complete bankruptcy of the socialist party.

The organization work carried on by the Party in the last month in the mining camps has definitely shown that the active miners in western Pennsylvania look upon the Workers (Communist) Party as the only political organization that fights for the interests of the workers. Appeals to build the party are received with enthusiasm.

Party Appeals Successful.

In Cherry Valley, for instance, where the Party had had no connections formerly, 10 members joined at the first meeting, 13 at the second, and 11 more at the third, with the number of miners asking to be admitted steadily growing. In Renton, at a meeting of about 40 miners, 34 joined the Party, stating that they would double the membership without any difficulty. The same can be said of Bishop, Kinlock and other centers.

The success of the campaign for new members has indicated that the Party, with correct methods and increased activity, can gain a mass following in many mining camps. This points to splendid possibilities for the Party's presidential election campaign in western Pennsylvania.

The miners are beginning to drift away from the capitalist parties, as was seen in recent primary elections held in western Pennsylvania, when in Washington, Fayette, and other counties, the vote was reported the lowest cast in many years in these sections. The socialist party has been discredited. Among the active progressives the Workers Party is now recognized as the only political party that represents the workingclass and merits the workers support.

The National Nominating Convention of the Workers (Communist) Party met in a period of increasing reaction and intensified struggle. For the striking miners in the bituminous coal fields especially, this convention assumes great importance. Without doubt an effective drive for the Workers Party candidates will stir the mining camps in western Pennsyvania and lead to highly favorable results.

New forces are developing in the coal fields. Our Party will receive the support of new proletarian masses who have been awakened by their bitter fight, their daily experiences of class war and class government.

Another Milestone Along the Imperial Road

By SCOTT NEARING (Fed. Press).

Figures published by the United States department of commerce show that the American Empire has become the chief lending country in the world. Another milestone along the imperialist highroad!

Before the war the business men of Great Britain were the world's chief lenders. Indeed, British foreign loans in 1913 totaled about $20,000,000,000, as compared with $8,000,000,000 for France; $7,500,000,000 for Germany and $3,000,000,000 for the United States. In prewar years the loans of the British Empire were more than equal to the loans of Germany, France and the United States combined.

Tables are Turned.

The war turned the tables. Postwar developments clinched the American position. Today the business class of the United States is lending more than the business class of any other empire.

From 1920 to 1927 Great Britain loaned abroad $4,121,000,000. During the same years, U. S. foreign loans were $6,836,000,000, or 65 per cent more than the loans made by British business interests. Each year, from 1920 to 1927, with the exception of 1923, the foreign loans of the United States exceeded the foreign loans of Great Britain.

In Early Stages.

The United States is still in the early stages of its foreign loan development. In Great Britain, from 1921 to 1924, foreign loans exceeded in amount the loans to home industry. From 1925 to 1927 British foreign loans were 44 per cent and domestic loans were 56 per cent. In the United States, loans to home industry were 4 to 7 times as great as the foreign loans.

The United States has just begun the practice of foreign lending. Its total income, total annual surplus and total capacity for capital export are far in excess of Great Britain. The future holds promise of a titantic struggle in which U. S. bankers will steadily push British bankers out of the foreign investment field.

U. S. Bankers Replace British.

Already British investors have been driven out of the U. S. market. In 1913 they invested $111,000,000 in the United States; in 1927 $1,500,000.

U. S. bankers, meanwhile, have replaced British bankers in Latin America, Canada and even in Europe as the leading investors. In Latin America, for 1927, U. S. bankers placed $359,000,000 in loans; British bankers $118,000,000. Latin America was formerly a stronghold of British financing. British bankers sent $323,000,000 to Canada in 1913— cent of their total foreign loans. In 1927 British loans to Canada were only $51,000,000, compared with $368,000,000 loaned in Canada by U. S. bankers. The Canadian investment market was almost exclusively British prior to 1900. Until the war, British lending predominated. In 1927 U. S. loans were more than 5 times British loans. Even on the continent of Europe, at Britain's back door, in 1927 U. S. loans were $571,000,000—more than 4 times the British total of $130,000,000.

Marine and Dollar Diplomacy.

With the sweep of this rapid expansion in the foreign investment field solemn assurances from Hughes and moralizings from Coolidge are dry leaves in the wind. Words are idle. American business interests are spreading investments far and wide with the knowledge and usually with the approval of the U. S. department of state. Threats to "American lives and American property" will be repeated wherever interests are endangered. With the spread of investments go inevitably the wider and more frequent resort to marine diplomacy.

HANDOUTS

SCARFACE AL CAPONE, formerly chief gat impresario of Chicago's world of vice has entered the cleaners' and dyers' trade and been made a partner to Morris Becker in the Sanitary Cleaning Shops, Inc. The New York Times mistakes the appearance of a crook in business for a piece of news and prints the story on the first page. But this isn't the first time that a gangster has found himself behind a counter. How sad is the downfall of a good bandit. If Capone's demoralization continues he will end up as president of the Chamber of Commerce.

AFTER Stanley Clark of Oklahoma, Anita Whitney of California and B. H. Lauderdale of Texas had spoken at the Nominating Convention the capitalist reporters were at last ready to admit that the Workers (Communist) Party was not a sect of New York needle trade workers.

Among the technical advances of capitalism may be noted the radio by which we may hear songs without having to see prima donnas.

Increased clarity, politically, on the part of the New York Times is indicated by its admission that the social-democratic government of Germany will have to make some concessions to the working class "due to the pressure of the Communists."

The robbed man on the road,
Till the Samaritan drew nigh,
And true compassion showed;
And yet the robberies went on

And organize a "Drive," that pays
A salary or two;
But who, or what, the "Chest" relieves,
We leave the road still to the thieves.

The following item from the leading fascist news organ, L'Impero, besides being an uncommon specimen of drivel contains a piece of news of great importance to J. P. Morgan. The excerpt concerns A. P. Giannini, an Italian banker of San Francisco and is as follows:

"Originating from Italy, one of the poorest countries with the poorest banks, Signor Giannini has succeeded in financially dominating the United States, the world's richest country.

"This indicates the real strength of that empire of civilization which tomorrow's Italy will become. As Napoleon once dominated Europe through France, so this modern Italian financially dominates America through the United States.

"He has conquered the Americans at their own game. . . Giannini, until yesterday a great Italian citizen of America, is now a great citizen of Italy. . . Countries become great through such citizens and Rome founded the greatest political and human civilization in the world through such personal abnegation and honesty."

WHITE GUARDIST DONETZ PLOTTERS CONFESS GUILT

CONGRESS CLOSES AFTER DOING BIT FOR BIG BUSINESS

Record One of Blackest in Recent Years

WASHINGTON, May 29. — The first session of the 70th Congress, notable for the efficient aid which it rendered the big business and banking interests of the country, ended this afternoon at 3:30. Within an hour after the Senate had adopted a resolution to adjourn in order to prevent further discussion of the Johnson-Swing Boulder Dam bill, the House approved adjournment by a vote of 175 to 9.

Although defeated in his attempt to prolong the session for a vote on the Boulder Dam measure, Senator Johnson succeeded in making his bill the first order of business when Congress convenes again in December.

The record of the session is one of complete subservience to the big industrial and financial interests. Among the measures that were passed by Congress during the session were the revenue bill, which will cut taxes of big business corporations, the Jones-White merchant marine bill which provides for loans at low rates to the shipping interests; the public building bill which will grant fat sums to big contractors.

The appropriations made by Congress during the session are expected to exceed $4,500,000,000—appropriations which are larger than those made by any congress since 1919-20 when great fiscal appropriations were made for the war.

A bitter fight between Senator Bruce die-hard Democrat from Maryland, and Senator Johnson marked the close of the session.

NEED FUNDS FOR 'DAILY' AT ONCE

Workers Must Unite in Saving Paper

Delegate after delegates to the National Nominating Convention of the Workers (Communist) Party spoke in glowing terms of The DAILY WORKER and emphasized its importance to the American workers. This is in corroboration of numerous letters that the paper receives daily from workers in various parts of the country, telling how indispensable The DAILY WORKER is to them.

Yet despite this fact the paper is in such great financial straits at present that it finds itself faced with the imminent possibility of suspension, in addition to having no funds to move from its present quarters to its new home in the heart of revolutionary activity at 26-28 Union Sq.

The wokrers of this country have been generous in contributing to The DAILY WORKER before. But they must give even more or be deprived of the only English language daily newspaper that fights for them against the capitalists and the labor betrayers.

Workers, this is a time when every cent counts. No matter how small your contribution, send it in at once. Solicit your friends, your shopmates, your trade unions, your clubs. Don't delay. Rush funds immediately to the office of The DAILY WORKER, 33 First St., New York City.

City Inspectors Ask an Increase in Wages

Salary increases of 20 per cent for Municipal Civil Service inspectors will be requested in a resolution to be presented to the Board of Estimate by the Allied Departmental Inspectors' Union, it was announced by that organization yesterday.

The last increase given to these inspectors was in 1920, when the three grades were given increases ranging from [illegible] to $400, bringing the salaries for the three grades to $1,350, $1,[illegible] and $2,560.

PASS McKELLAN AMENDMENT.

WASHINGTON, May 29. — The Senate today passed McKellan amendment to the corrupt practices act extending the penalties to congressional primaries.

The amendment is yet to be acted on by the house.

RED FRONT FIGHTERS MARCH 100,000 STRONG

(Special To The DAILY WORKER.)

BERLIN, May 29.—The tremendous strength of the militant sections of the German working class was in clear evidence yesterday when 100,000 Red Front Fighters participated in a huge parade and demonstration that marked the fourth birthday of the organization. More than 700,000 working men, women and children turned out for the demonstration which was one of the most enthusiastic that Berlin ever witnessed.

The workers' quarter was a forest of red flags. Over a hundred thousand Red Front Fighters from all parts of Germany assembled at four meeting points and joined a monster march toward the Lustgarten.

Delegates from similar working class organizations in Great Britain, France, Czechoslovakia, Austria and Switzerland attended to express their solidarity with their German comrades.

Cheer Marchers.

Masses of workers lined the streets and lustily cheered the marchers.

6 TO DIE FOR PRISON REVOLT

Men Protested Against Jail Conditions

SACRAMENTO, Cal., May 29.—Six prisoners, on the framed-up charge of killing a fellow prisoner, George Baker, in Thanksgiving Day riots at Folsom Prison last year were found guilty last night, with the verdict carrying the death penalty for all.

This latest action of the authorities is a result of a revolt last November of the prisoners in Folsom Prison against the horrible conditions existing there. The six men who are to die were the leaders of this protest uprising, and gave themselves up in order to save the rest of their fellow-convicts from a similar fate.

The men who are to be legally murdered are Anthony Brown, Walter E. Burke, Roy E. Stokes, James Gregg, James Gleason and Albert H. Stewart.

TO CHOOSE TICKET AT STATE MEETING

All Party Units to Elect Delegates

Following the successful conclusion of the National Nominating Convention of the Workers (Communist) Party, which hundreds of delegates from all over the United States attended, the Executive Committee of District 2 yesterday announced that the New York State Convention will be held here on June 10 at the Workers Center. The convention will choose the workers' candidates for the 1928 elections in New York state.

The following is the full text of the convention call:

To All Units of the Workers (Communist) Party in New York State.

To All Workingclass Organizations In New York State.

Dear Comrades:

Call for State Nominating Convention.

The New York State Nominating Convention of the Workers (Communist) Party to put forward state candidates in the 1928 elections, to adopt a state platform, to outline ways and means of conducting the election campaign in this state will be held Sunday, June 10, at 10 a. m. at the Workers Center, 26-28 Union Square. This convention follows the National Nominating Convention which has put forward William Z. Foster and Benjamin Gitlow as the standard bearers of the Party, which adopted a platform of class struggle against capitalism and which demonstrated that the Workers (Communist) Party is entering earnestly into the campaign to mobilize the masses behind a platform in the interests of the working class.

PIECE WORK FOR TAILORS

Beckerman Foists New System On Men

The first open organizational step on a wholesale scale toward shackling the tens of thousands of workers in the men's clothing industry with the chains of the degrading piece work system, was taken yesterday by A. Beckerman, boss of the New York Joint Board of the Amalgamated, when he declared that he intended to grant this system of slavery to a dozen large manufacturers.

The bosses in question made this demand several days ago, with the threat that refusal meant the breaking of negotiations with the union and their removal to suburban towns.

The intended general granting of this demand to the bosses is made with the union about to enter negotiations with the employers' association for a renewal of the agreement.

Beckerman's decision to grant piece work to the 12 bosses, is understood to be a forerunner to the concession of this point to the whole industry when a new agreement is signed. Whenever he granted piece-work to individual firms hitherto, he always declared that it was done only because of peculiar necessities in the individual case.

About six of the largest bosses in the trade have already been allowed to instal this system, and are pointed to by the bosses and the right wing as very successful. These firms have admitted that their profit balances are much larger.

Deliberate Decision.

The decision of Beckerman to grant the piece work system is deliberate. The entire union membership has registered its hatred against this method of work at numerous membership meetings. The opposition of the mem-

District 5 Miners Oust Lewis Officialdom

RANK AND FILE WILL NAME OWN OFFICERS TODAY

Tony Minerich Elected Chairman

(Special to the Daily Worker)

PITTSBURGH, May 29.—Ousting the treacherous officials of the Lewis-Fagan machine in District 5, over two hundred delegates in a special convention here, representing over one hundred locals in the district voted this morning to take over the union once more for the miners.

Rank and file delegates at the convention rose to cite proof after proof of strikebreaking activities on the part of the Lewis officialdom in this section, and unanimously declared their offices vacant. Grey haired delegates who have been militant fighters in the union for over thirty years denounced Pat Fagan, president of the district, and Lewis for expelling them together with thousands of others in their attempt to disrupt the organization.

Minerich Chairman.

Anthony Minerich elected chairman and Tom Myerscough, secretary of the convention. Striking miners from Westmoreland county who have recently been organized, were seated as fraternal delegates. Mine women from auxiliaries also as fraternal delegates occupy the first few rows in the hall.

Resolutions demanding a complete change in the strike and union policy, and calling miners to disregard the illegal expulsions of progressive locals and individuals, eliminating appointive power of international president, for a fight for the Jacksonville scale of wages, for nationalization of mines, one national agreement were unanimously passed.

Special resolution calling for equal pay for young workers and their more active participation in union affairs precipitated wide spirited discussion.

Charles Wilson from the New York City Children's Relief Committee was given a great ovation when he pledged the children's support to the strike.

"Even the children are with us," sixty-year-old Milke Harrington from Avella said.

Organize Children.

The convention endorsed the organization of children and women and condemned the Boy Scouts and

TRY TO BUY OFF 5 RADIUM SUITS

Trial Set for June 8 After Long Delay

Efforts on the part of representatives of the United States Radium Corporation to buy off the five plaintiffs in their suit for an aggregate of 1,250,000 for their doomed lives were continued yesterday when it began to appear impossible to postpone the case under the New Jersey statute of limitations.

These efforts so far have been unsuccessful.

The trial of the suits of the five women, Katherine Schaub, Grace Fryer, Albina Larice, Quinta McDonald and Edna Hussman, was today set for Friday, June 8, in the Supreme Court Circuit in Newark. The date was set after it was seen that the wrangling on the part of the defense counsels, who wanted to postpone the trial until they could secure their own "radium experts" from the west, would continue indefinitely.

The case has already been considerably delayed due to an extraordinary congestion in court, which strangely made its appearance as soon as the five suits against the United States Radium Corporation were filed.

MILITARY CAN'T STOP HAYWOOD MEMORIAL

In spite of the Veterans of Foreign Wars' efforts to stop the memorial meeting in honor of the late William D. Haywood, which is scheduled for the Central Opera House, 67th St. and Third Ave., Friday night, the New York district of the Workers (Communist) Party is going on with its plans for the meeting, William W. Weinstone, district secretary, announced last night.

"Let Department Commander Jean A. Brunner, of the New York State Veterans of Foreign Wars, attack us morning, noon and night, we shall still hold a mighty memorial meeting in honor of Comrade Haywood," Weinstone declared.

"The Veterans of Foreign Wars will meet with no more success in attempting to block our Haywood memorial meeting than the American Legion did a few months ago in threatening to interfere with the Lenin memorial

STRIKE LEADERS ARRESTED DAILY

Mill Committees' Power Irks Authorities

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., May 29.—Enraged by the fast growing prestige and authority of the Textile Mills Committee as the real leaders of the 28,000 textile workers who have been on strike here more than six weeks, the police are daily increasing their attempts to damage the already strongly intrenched strike machinery by continued arrest of its leadership.

After a strike meeting held yesterday afternoon in which over two thousand strikers participated, William T. Murdoch, head of the New Bedford Committees, and Lameras and Porter, two active figures in the strike were again arrested. This is the second time Murdoch has been arrested after a meeting in the past few days. The usual charge of "disturbing the peace" was preferred against the jailed men. Murdoch and Fred E. Beal, a Mills Committee organizer are to come up for trial Thursday for leading a large picket demonstration before the gates of the Nonquit Mills.

Arrests Incentive.

The sharpening police policy of making numerous arrests in order to discourage the picketing has not only been a complete failure, but on the contrary, has resulted in a heavy increase of the turnout of strikers to the picket line. Admission of the heaviest picketing since the strike began is made even by the capitalist press, as well as the employers' trade journals.

ROCK DUST KILLS 1 A WEEK

Subway Workers Never Told of Danger

CHARGES that operators of the rock drills which are boring into the rock bed of Manhattan for subways and building sites are dying off at the rate of one man a week from a recently discovered lung disease were made yesterday at a meeting of the Welfare Council held at the Russell Sage Foundation.

The charges are that rock dust from the hammer drills used by the 1,500 men in the craft now in the city was congealing in their lungs as a rock-like coating, resulting in a disease known as silicosis. It was found that the lungs of 75 men recently examined had all been affected.

Expert chemists of a large insurance company were at work [illegible] had discovered, among other harmful substances, traces of arsenic. Physicians were loath to make public the results of investigations, and therefore classed the men who were dying from the disease as victims of tuberculosis.

The disease was discovered four years ago, after the abandonment of the old type drill, in which water was used for keeping down the dust. But this drill, altho much safer than the one now in use, was discarded in favor of the new one, which, altho it is quicker in operation, permits dust from the rock to fly straight into the nasal passages of the men operating them. But even this had been known all these years, nothing had been done to acquaint the workers who operate them with their [illegible]

BOUGHT USELESS MACHINES FROM GERMAN FIRMS

Worked With Czarists, Evidence Shows

(Special Cable to the Daily Worker).

MOSCOW, May 29.—More confessions of guilt in the trial of technicians in the Donetz sabotage trial were made yesterday.

The electrical engineer Nikishin, who was examined, pleaded guilty and declared that the engineer Koester had delivered two useless and antiquated machines from the German firm, Knapp. Nikishin had pointed out that the machines were useless while Kalganov and the German engineer Sebold had declared that the machines were excellent and should be used. Nikishin, who promised to make no trouble, received 400 roubles thru the German representative of Knapp, Badstieber, who is also accused of being participated in the plot.

The machines in question were later removed from the mines as completely useless.

In answer to a number of questions put to him by Krylenko, prosecuting attorney, Nikishin declared that the machines were not only useless for the mines concerned, but were altogether useless. He declared that Gorletski has issued instructions that no machines made in the Soviet Union were to be purchased as he had ordered useless foreign machines.

Krylenko pointed out that Badstieber had already admitted that the

REPORT EXPOSES MINE TERRORISM

Pennsylvania Not Alone in Brutalities

(Federated Press.)

More police violence, brutality, violations of civil rights, prosecutions for opinion, and corporation control of workers' lives exist in Pennsylvania today than in any other state of the union. In these words "The Shame of Pennsylvania," Civil Liberties Union pamphlet, opens its report on state police, coal and iron police and special deputies vs. striking workers. Against eight reported police assaults and prosecutions for opinion in the rest of the country in the first quarter of 1928, Pennsylvania reported 28 cases.

Worst Offender.

"Today Pennsylvania is the only state in which a sedition or criminal syndicalism law is still actively used," continues the report. "It is the only state with so highly organized a state police force, conspicuous for its brutalities against strikers. It is the only state with thousands of private policemen doing public duty, as do the coal and iron police in the mining and steel districts. Added to them are hundreds of privately paid deputy sheriffs. It is the only state in which coal and steel companies so completely dominate so many communities."

The Civil Liberties Union recommends abolition of the coal and iron police, shearing of state police authority in industrial conflicts and repeal of the sedition act.

No Difference.

EDITORIAL NOTE: While agreeing with the above report that in Pennsylvania is to be found the most extreme examples of coal and iron police terrorism, The DAILY WORKER does not accept the apparent implication that other states are free from these atrocities. There is little choice between Pennsylvania and Ohio, for instance.

Philippine Independence Committee Denounces United States Rule in Islands

SENDS APPEAL TO WORKERS' PARTY CONVENTION HERE

Asks Aid in Freeing Workers

Bitter denunciation of the United States government policy in the Philippines and an appeal to the American working class to aid in securing the freedom of the workers in these islands was made by the Indpendence Committee of the Philippine Association of Chicago in a greeting to the delegates to the nominating convention of the Workers (Communist) Party, which has just closed its sessions here.

Deceives Philippines.

"The leaders of both the republican and the democratic parties, ever since the imposition of American sovereignty on the Philippine workers, have given us promises," the statement declares. "But still no independence has been given. President Coolidge has placed Colonel Stimson in the place vacated by the death of Governor Wood. And any sound-minded person who knows the contemptible and notorious activities of Col. Stimson in Nicaragua will interpret Coolidge's action as a challenge to the Philippine aspiration for independence. The vetoing of the Philippine plebicite, the conspiracy which is now going on between the rubber, oil, sugar, coal and power imperialists, and some of the officials at Washington to grab all the natural resources of the Philippines, all show that the promises given us for freedom by the American ruling class are no more than damn lies. . .

"As long as the United States government is in the hands of the republican and democratic parties, the Philippines will remain as subjects," the statement declares further.

In greeting the convention of the Workers Party, the Philippine Independence Committee declares that it was voicing the sentiments of "the Philippines as a whole."

Only Party of Working Class.

"In closing," the statement reads, "we wish and hope that your convention will succeed in selecting a man as a candidate for the presidency of the United States who can bring the American workers back to their right party, the Workers (Communist) Party of America.

"Long live the Workers (Communist) Party of America, the party of the American working class, and the friend of the oppressed masses throughout the world."

The message is signed by Anacleto Almenana, chairman, D. Samonte, H. Calpio, E. Lictawa, F. Soriben and V. Sarmiento.

NEGRO DELEGATE TO CONVENTION TO BUILD DAILY IN SEATTLE

After a valuable stay in New York city where he arrived via the rods to attend the National Nominating Convention of The Workers (Communist) Party, David A. Griffin, Negro delegate from the Washington district, ir on his way back to Seattle via the rods.

On his return to the northwestern city, Griffin will take an active part in the organization of The DAILY WORKER subscription activity in Seattle and thruout the Northwest.

Before setting out for the West, Griffin stopped at the office of the DAILY WORKER to pledge his cooperation in intensifying the subscription drive in Washington. He painted a lively picture of conditions thruout his district.

"The Washington district is entering one of the most important periods in its history," Griffin stated." Under the direction of the new district organizer, Swanson, every effort is being made to push the work of the Party in the mines, on the ships and the harbor front, in the lumber camps and the fruit fields and orchards.

"Not the least part of this organization work is the spreading of The DAILY WORKER," Griffin continued. "It is the hope of the workers in the Washington district to bring the DAILY WORKER to thousands of workers in industries thruout the state who have hitherto had no chance to read their militant class working class organ."

With this end in view, Griffin assisted in working out special plans for the distribution of The DAILY WORKER in Seattle on the basis of Worker Correspondence. According to the arrangements made yesterday, Griffin will urge workers in various Washington industries to write about conditions on their jobs. Then several hundred copies of The DAILY WORKER in which the letter appears will be distributed to other workers on the same job. It is hoped in this way to interest hundreds of workers in their militant daily.

"Increasing the DAILY WORKER'S circulation is one of the most important activities before the Workers Party in the northwest," Griffin asserted, "and I am going back to take my full share in it."

"My coming to New York was important," he said, "but the tasks for which I return to Seattle are no less important. That of spreading the circulation of The DAILY WORKER is not the least among them."

Warren Act on Parade Is Held Politics

Declaring that the action/of Police Commissioner Warren in first refusing and then granting the memorial day permit to hold a parade in Queens was purely political and an attempt to gain bigger support for the Smith campaign, the Citizen's Memorial Association and Republican Club of Queens has refused to accept the last minute permit to hold a memorial parade in Queens, in which the Ku Klux Klan was to have participated. In refusing it, the association also delivered a thinly disguised political piece of bombast and declared that Warren's action was "an insult to the intelligence of this community and an attempt to nullify and rend asunder" the organizations.

Warren, trickster

The Memorial Association also added a proviso to the resolution refusing the permit calling for the distribution of warnings to "every civic organization in the United States" against "Tammany Hall or any of its representatives."

If the Ku Klux Klan makes any attempt to parade in Queens today it will be stopped by the police, Commissioner Warren stated yesterday. The arrest of all members of the Klan who attempt to parade was also ordered by the commissioner.

NO HALT TO HUGE U S BREAD MERGER

Formation of Gigantic Trust Continues

WASHINGTON, May 29 (FP).—The optimist Sen. LaFollette introduced in the Senate, May 28, a resolution directing the Federal Trade Commission to reinstate forthwith the complaint against the Continental Baking Corporation which the Commission, by majority vote, dismissed on Apr. 2, 1926.

In a statement issued when he offered this resolution, the Wisconsin senator reviewed the history of the case, which revolves around the attempt of the Ward interests to erect a nationwide bread trust. The Federal Trade Commission majority, with Commissioners Nugent and Thompson dissenting, suddenly ordered its counsel to drop the complaint, on the ground that the Department of Justice had filed suit against the proposed merger. On the same day the department of justice had dropped its prosecution, making a compromise in the federal district court under the name of a "consent decree."

"Contrary to the popular notion of this notorious consent decree," La Follette said, "neither the Department of Justice nor the Federal Trade Commission has done anything sufficiently adequate to the situation to allay the just fears that a nationwide bread trust is still actually in the making."

A subcommittee of the senate judiciary committee recently reported on this affair, after hearings, holding that the Continental Baking Co. go off without punishment after violating the anti-trust law.

Newark Workers Will Hold Kun Protest Meet

URGE MINERS TO SHUN BRENNAN

Kearny is Also Called Cowardly, Useless

(By a Worker Correspondent.)

PITTSTON, Pa. (By mail). — I want to write to you as I am a member of Local Union 1703. The situation in District No. 1 is getting worse than at any time since our Local Union 1703 voted to go back to work under the 30-day proposition of the conciliation board. Most of our members were forced to go back as we were starved out by the coal company. The conditions are becoming worse in Local Union 1703.

Local Union 1703 has a grievance committee of our men and out of the four, two are the worst kind of rats you ever saw. As to one of the committee by the name of James Kearney, he is the worst kind of a fakir you could find. He is supposed to be, or he prides himself on being, an intelligent man. I would like to ask him what his standing in union affairs is. For when a progressive miner approaches him to take up a grievance, he plays a hide and seek game and does nothing for the miner and lets the rest of the committee fight the case. I would like to know where he gets money to sport around and get drunk half of the time as nearly every night in the week he is full of moonshine. He is absolutely cowardly and yellow and does not do anything at all. At the present time he is on the investigating committee.

He also sticks with McGarry. I think that the miners should see what he is doing and kick him out of our local. Especially kick him out of the place where he is now.

Conditions in District No. 1 are getting worse. We are having at this time a special convention to see if we can clean out the murderous machine of Lewis and Cappellini. I would like to advise the miners not to have anything to do with the type of men like Brennan for Cappelini's place. Brennan was in office at one time. He did us good. Cappelini is absolutely a fakir and a murderer. We must only elect people into office who have a program and who will fight for the interests of the miners and not for themselves as Brennan, Harris, McGarry are doing at this time. —S.

have felt the heavy hand of the government in their struggles: injunction after injunction has been issued against the furriers, the cloakmakers; the police have been used brutally against the traction workers and capitalist terror has struck heavy blows against the workers of the entire state. Behind this terror stand the two political parties of capitalism and their masters, the big industrial and finance interests of the country.

The socialist party has been allied with the union-wreckers of the city and state, with the misleaders of the A. F. of L.—the Greens, the Wolls, in their class-collaboration policies which have meant no organization for the unorganized workers and treachery and disorganization of the organized workers. In New York state, unemployment has mounted steadily and no relief has been given to the hundreds of thousands of workers that are jobless.

The State Nominating Convention, as part of the national campaign, will be the starting point for the mobilization of the New York workers for the 1928 elections. It will organize the workers against the Smith and Tammany Hall machines, against the republican and socialist party. Open struggle against the socialist party as the party of the betrayers of labor which has ceased to be proletarian and has become definitely a party of the small businessmen. Against Thomas and Maurer with their policies of peace and surrender to the bosses! For the struggle of the working class against their exploiters! For the organization and strengthening of the working class! For their emancipation from capitalism! For the establishment of the rule of the workers through a workers' and farmers' government!

All units of the Party in New York state are urged to elect delegates on the basis of one for every twenty-five members or major portion thereof. Every unit is entitled to at least one delegate.

All working class organizations sympathetic to the program of the class struggle are urged to elect at least two fraternal delegates to this convention and to participate jointly with us in opening the campaign in New York state.

To cover the expenses for the State Nominating Convention which includes the transportation of delegates from up-state New York, every unit is to pay $1 per delegate. A nominal fee of $2 is requested from the organizations sending fraternal delegates.

Yours for a campaign for the working class.

FORCE PIECE-WORK ON N. Y. TAILORS

Degrading System to Be Granted By Beckerman

bership is so great that Beckerman has to face a powerful opposition in this betrayal even on his own right wing Joint Board.

The method used by Beckerman in coercing his machine lieutenants to agree to the betrayal was learnt when the details of the last few days events were made public. Beckerman, after receiving the demands of the bosses, told his minor officials that he intended to grant them, and would hand in his resignation, if they refused to endorse his action. He actually stayed away from the Joint Board office for three days. The threatened loss of their "little Mussolini" was sufficient to cow them into acquiescence.

Resentment Strong

The resentment by the workers to this latest act of arrogant betrayal is reaching fever pitch. The workers point to the fact that all policies of the union have been a steady submission to every demand of the bosses. Instead of discipline being used as an answer to such a demand made by bosses, the Hillman policy is more than merely submitting to boss demands. It is a conscious policy of making the industry more profitable for the bosses at the expense of the workers. This summarizes the opinions of the workers.

The organization of progressive workers in the union intends to call mass meetings to mobilize the membership against this sell out," it was learnt. Although Beckerman's job holders agreed to grant piece work to the 12 bosses, the question still must come for sanction to the Joint Board.

Attempts to obtain an official statement from Hillman on this question failed yesterday. He was declared to be conveniently "out of town."

President Coolidge showed me and my staff a cordiality which astonished even the servants at the White House," the Prince said. He talktd to us for more than twenty minutes, and asked us questions about Italy and Mussolini, expressing the best wishes toward both."

strikers' children in the picket demonstrations has particularly aroused the ire of the city authorities. At a demonstration yesterday morning in front of the Page mills, the police pulled off the line all members of the Strikers' Childrens' Clubs, an organization being built by the Textile Mill Committee. When Murdoch, again leading the demonstration, invited the children back into line the police took him and a striker named Latern to the police station. As they were being taken away they were enthusiastically cheered.

Not Enough Police.

Asked why Murdoch and Beal and only 5 others were arrested out of the many hundreds participating in the picketing of the Hathaway Mills, Police Chief Sam McLeod said: "All persons were equally guilty, but I didn't have enough police to arrest all of them."

Commenting on Brunner's characterization of the founder of the I. W. W. as "a confessed criminal because he jumped bail after he was convicted," Weinstone said, "Haywood's war trial was one of the grossest examples of the steam-roller injustice of capitalism."

"Even The Nation, a merely liberal publication, admits this," Weinstone continued. "In a recent editorial that weekly states, 'In 1917 the war gave the enemies of the I. W. W. their opportunity. At a farcical trial Haywood and 97 colleagues were convicted without a pretense of individual trial. To Haywood it only proved again the reality of the class war'."

Among the prominent leaders of the Workers Party who will speak at the Haywood memorial are Jay Lovestone, national executive secretary of the Party; Robert Minor, editor of The DAILY WORKER; James P. SINGLE VIRGINIA LOCAL LOOKS AHEAD

247 Denville Loomfixers Beat Wage Cut, Talk of Affiliation

DANVILLE, Va., May 29 (FP).—Existing side by side with the company union in the big Danville cotton mills is the sole independent labor union of consequence in any southern cotton manufacturing plant. This is the Southern Loomfixers' Association, whose one lodge is in the Riverside and Dan River Cotton Mills. Its 247 members include 90 to 95 per cent of the loom fixers in the company's employ.

The loomfixers' local survived the industrial democracy scheme that wrecked the other unions after the war, and this group of craftsmen is proud of its organization.

"Our wages run $3 to $7 over the highest weavers," said Robert Mosely, president of the local. "Ten years ago when the weavers were organized, their highest wages were as much as ours."

From another man comes the story of the posting of a 10 per cent wage cut notice four years ago. A committee of loomfixers waited on the boss and said the sign must come down or they would go out. It came down. Wages have fallen somewhat since the war, but not in proportion to the other workers.

BUT now the loomfixers are uneasy. Employment is slack. Wage cuts are spreading elsewhere. "That cut in New Bedford made us mighty scarey," said one mechanic. There is talk of joining the American Federation of Labor. Tentative negotiations were conducted with the machinists but there is a sentiment towards the United Textile Workers.

Outside of Danville hardly any southern loomfixers are unionized and in a labor dispute the places of the local men might be filled in a few days from nearby North Carolina mills. Within the Danville mill the loomfixers are less than 5 per cent of the total employes.

THE rest of the 6,200, weavers, spinners, etc., have nothing but the company union. The loomfixers also are nominally in the company union but their real functioning is outside.

Slack times bring weakness to an isolated organization. There is speeding up, called "doubling up," which is not being resisted. "Doubling up" means fixing more looms, for the loomfixers, and weaving at more looms, for the weavers: There is more individual production per day, but the piece-rate is reduced.

CANADA UNIONS INCREASE 15,678 DURING ONE YEAR

Membership Report for 1927 is 290,282

Canadian gains by the Int. Association of Machinists and the Brotherhood of Carpenters & Joiners were chiefly responsible for the 15,678 increase in the membership of Canadian unions reported for 1927 to the Canadian department of labor. The international union group as a whole showed smaller gains. The independent All-Canadian Congress of Labor, including the One Big Union and the Canadian Brotherhood of Railroad Employes, appears as a lusty young rival to the Trades & Labor Congress of Canada, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

Total membership of Canadian labor unions in 1927, as reported to the department, was 290,282. This compared with 133,132 in 1911 when the department began gathering statistics and with 175,799 in 1913, the last prewar year. In 1919 Canadian trade union membership reached a peak with 378,047. But the sharp deflation of the postwar years brought it down to 260,643 in 1924. Since that year the total membership has been slowly rising.

The growth of the socalled international trade union group has not kept pace with the progress of the Canadian movement. This group is composed of unions centering in the United States, chiefly those affiliated with the A. F. of L. and the railroad brotherhoods. In 1911 these international unions had 119,415 members, or about 90 per cent of all the organized workers in Canada. In 1927 their membership had increased 51 per cent to 180,755 but this represented only 62 percent of the total membership of Canadian unions. In the interval the number of Canadian trade unionists had increased 118 percent.

The Canadian membership reported by leading unions in 1922 and 1927 was:

* End of 1921—no report for 1922.

The Trades & Labor Congress of Canada reports 140,195 affiliated members. Its paidup membership at the end of the year was 114,362, an increase of 11,325 over the previous year. On March 16, 1927, unions not affiliated with the international bodies formed the All-Canadian Congress of Labor which reports an affiliated membership of 46,279. The most important units in this congress are the O. B. U. and the Canadian Brotherhood of Railroad Employes.

R. R. Group Largest.

Railroad employes form the largest group of organized workers in Canada with 82,822 or 28.5 percent of the total. Public employes, personal service and amusement trades rank second with 32,700 or 11.3 percent of the total. Other groups are building trades 30,751; other transportation and navigation trades 25,507; mining and quarrying 25,027; metal trades 22,237; printing and paper making 12,291 and clothing, boots and shoes 11,908.

The Milwaukee Leader Aids Imperialists

By supporting the "Airplane Model League of America," the "Milwaukee Leader," socialist organ, becomes a lackey of Wall Street imperialism.

Of the many organizations that are preparing the youth for the next capitalist butchery the "Airplane Model League" occupies a prominent place. They call for the organization of the youth into clubs to study the mechanics of airplanes. In this way they become good material for the vested interests.

Among its officers are Commander Byrd, who has before acted as an instrument for the militarism that is sweeping the country.

The purpose of this movement is avowedly to train the youth for the next imperialist war. It is sponsored by the "National Aeronautic Association" in conjunction with over 50 capitalist newspapers. It is time that the workers who still remain within the socialist ranks know that the socialist party no longer represents the workingclass, but lines itself beside the most reactionary movements in the country. —GADFLY.

Friends of Soviet Union Stress the Danger of War at International Meeting

IMPERIALISTS IN DRIVE TO BUILD ANTI-USSR BLOC

France, Britain Try to Win Over Germany

(Special Cable to The Daily Worker.)

BERLIN, May 29. — The full conference of the friends of the Soviet Union opened Sunday morning in Cologne. A praesidium was elected which consisted of Lawther of the British Independent Labor Party, Cannone, of the French C. G. T., and Siewert of Germany.

Twenty-eight delegates were present, among them representatives from Great Britain, France, Belgium, Germany, Switzerland, Austria and Czechoslovakia. Thirteen social democrats were included. The German authorities refused to grant visas to the delegates from the Soviet Union.

Fight War Danger.

Lawther who spoke on the war danger declared that since the last conference strenuous efforts had been made to draw Germany into the bloc against the Soviet Union. Chamberlain's reply to Kellogg's note, he said, showed that the negotiations were being transformed into an instrument against the Soviet Union.

Cannone declared that the attitude of France toward the Soviet Union was being radically altered. France is now becoming the most vicious leader in the anti-Soviet bloc, he declared, and its policy was the support of the socialists.

Trade Union Unity.

Beck of Germany declared that a fighting international and trade union solidarity were the only guarantees for peace. Rossi of Italy who spoke on fascism declared Italy was a powder magazine, which would lead to new imperialist wars. He appealed to workers to support the Committee against fascism.

Resolutions on the war danger, trade union unity and fascism were adopted. The congress has been closed.

JAPAN IN NEW SHANTUNG MOVE

Bars Fighting at Ports; Strike in Nanking

SHANGHAI, May 29.—Notification that Japan would prevent all seafighting between northern and southern war-lords within twenty miles of various ports in Shantung and Manchuria was given to the Peking and Nanking governments today.

Among the ports listed by the Japanese authorities are Tsingtao, Chefoo and Lungkow, large port cities in Shantung as well as Taku and Chinwangtao in the province of Chihli.

Replying to the Japanese memorandum of May 18th to the effect that Japan would take "necessary steps" to safeguard its Manuchurian "interests," the Nanking government declares, "such measures constitute not only interference in China's domestic affairs but a flagrant violation of the principle of mutual respect for territorial sovereignty."

CAL SIGNS FAKE SALARY INCREASE

WASHINGTON, May 29.—President Coolidge late yesterday signed the Welch bill increasing salaries of about 135,000 government employes who are in classified civil service. The increase becomes effective July 1.

This increase, for which the government employes had fought for a long time, maintaining that the United States was paying them so little that many were unable to feed and clothe their families, will do little to actually better their condition. When distributed among all of the 135,000 workers involved, the actual increase will be but a drop in the bucket compared to what the workers need in order to live.

One class, however, which the bill will benefit, is that composed of the well-salaried officials, all of whom are granted a rather substantial increase.

FARMERS MAY MARCH.

KANSAS CITY, MO., May 29.—Prospects of Kansas City as a tented city during the republican convention were seen today following receipt of telegrams and press dispatches indicating a march on the convention by farmers to press demands for a farm [illegible] platform.

Emanuel Levine — John Schmees — Max Bedacht — Herbert Benjamin — Lucy Parsons.

The Party plans to carry on an intensive drive in every state of the union. REVOLT LOOMING IN VENEZUELA

Zulia Will Proclaim Independence

MARACAIBE, Venezuela, May 29. --Reports that large sections of the population in the state of Zulia are on the verge of an armed outbreak against the Gomez dictatorship have been received here. The reports state that the movement is being supported by a number of local leaders and exiles from outside the country.

The government is making vigorous denials that the movement in the state of Zulia are assuming serious proportions but rumors of an armed uprising persist.

The plan of the discontented groups is to secede from the Venezuelan union and establish an independent republic, it is intimated. The government has issued a statement saying that it will never recognize a seceding state.

Unrest which has been rife in Venezuela since the government bloodily repressed a series of demonstrations is believed to be acute in Zulia.

STRIKERS TIE UP ARGESTINE PORT

Bahia Blanca Workers Defy Terrorism

BUENOS AYRES, May 29.—Reports received here from Bahia Blanca late last night state that the efforts of the authorities to end the strike which is tying up the southern port remain unavailing. Picket lines have been thrown about the wharves and demonstrations along the water front continue in spite of terrorism by the local police.

Ship owners and merchants believing they are faced with a situation similar to that which tied up the northern group of Argentine ports a week ago are urging the authorities to adopt the sternest repressive measures against the Bahia Blanca strikers.

The walkout at Bahia Blanca is part of the wave of strikes by which the Argentine dock workers are fighting off the wage cuts and increase in hours that the owners are attempting to force upon them.

It is believed that the present strike will result in the same widespread agitation as followed that at Rosario and Santa Fe when thousands of workers in both parts, and in Buenos Ayres, walked out in a general tie-up which included railroad men, dock and crane tenders, taxi drivers and others.

Bahia Blanca on Blanca Bay is the largest port south of Buenos Ayres.

The first trans-Atlantic radio message in shorthand was sent out from New York today to a banquet held by the National Gregg Shorthand Association, in London.

Morrow to Report How Well He Did by Bosses

WASHINGTON, May 29 (FP).—Ambassador Dwight Morrow is about to arrive in Washington to report to President Coolidge the success of his mission in Mexico. He has restored cordial relations between Washington and the Mexico City government. The oil lands dispute is settled to the advantage of the American oil operators. Obregon, sole candidate for the presidency, is at outs with Morones, head of the conservative labor movement and member of the Calles cabinet. Mexico is no longer to be regarded as a "red menace across the Rio Grande," or as seeking to "establish a Boleshvist hegemony southward to Panama."

MEXICAN TROOPS DEFEAT BANDITS

150 Reactionaries Are Killed in Fight

MEXICO CITY, May 29.—Reactionaries who waged a two-day battle at Manzanillo, Colima, in an effort to seize the city, lost 150 men. This includes many prisoners who were executed by the federals.

There were numerous casualties among the residents of the city. Reactionaries occupied part of Manzanillo on Friday and Saturday. Gen. Rafael Sanchez, director of military operations in the state of Colima, rushed reinforcements to Manzanillo. Meanwhile the federal gunboat Progreso in the harbor kept the positions of the reactionaries under fire.

There were about 800 counter-revolutionists in the attacking force.

machines were useless and that he had given bribes to a number of other accused.

Andrei Kolodub was then examined. He denied all of the charges made against him. The prosecution read the experts' report on the conditions of the Ayuta mine where Kolodub had directed the boring operations. The report was crushing for Kolodub.

Aided White Guards.

Kalganov declared that Kolodub had accepted five thousand roubles for aiding the sabotage. Kolodub's brother, Emilian, himself a former mine owner was then examined. He attempted to withdraw the partial confession of guilt which he had made previously, but was forced under cross-examination to admit that he was guilty of nine cases of sabotage.

The accused denied that he was a counter-revolutionary, but Kryelnko produced the evidence of the Czarist Captain Prudentov, ex-leader of the White Guardist espionage in the Donetz Basin, who declared that both of the Kolodubs, Beresovsky, Babenko and others had worked for the white guards and had denounced many workers to the monarchists who were then court-martialled and shot.

Coolidge Signs Bill Reducing Corporation Taxes

WASHINGTON, May 29.—President Coolidge signed the tax reduction bill this morning.

This measure repeals all the excise taxes originating in the war and reduces the corporation tax by one and one-half per cent. It reduces taxes $222,495,200.

FASCISTS ATTACK SERBS IN ITALY

Many Outrages are Committed

PARIS, May 29.—Outrages against Jugo-Slav nationals have taken place at Bari and Bologna, according to reports from Milan and Rome. The hostile demonstrations were led by fascists allegedly in reprisal for the attacks on the Italian consulate, merchants and shipping companies in Spalato, Zara, Pola and other Dalmatian towns, where the Italian population provoked an outburst of popular resentment.

A number of Dalmatian students have been induced to go to fascist headquarters in many towns, demanding that punishment be meted out to the Jugo-Slav nationals, the reports state.

Mussolini, however, is making a show of guarding the Jugo-Slav and Austrian official buildings thruout Italy. Citizens of both countries have been engaged in anti-fascist demonstrations during the last few weeks.

Mussolini has announced that he will review the present anti-fascist situation which involves Jugo-Slavia, Austria and the Argentina, nationals from all of which have shown hostility recently.

CALCUTTA RAIL WORKERS STRIKE

More Than 4,000 Cotton Workers Join

CALCUTTA, May 29.—Police reserves are being held in readiness with the spread of the textile and railway strikes.

More than 4,000 cotton workers joined the textile strike here today. Railway workers are already out. Large picket demonstrations are being held in front of the railway shops at Lilloah.

Unrest is spreading in other cities.

BOMBAY, May 29.—The textile strike which involves more than 150,600 workers continues to tie up virtually every textile mill in the city.

The textile unions charge that a large sum of money sent to them for relief by workers of the Soviet Union has been confiscated by the authorities.

Dawes Makes Bid for Presidency

WASHINGTON, May 29 (FP).—Vice-President Dawes made his first open bid for the republican presidential nomination, May 28, when he broke a tie vote in the senate between the administration reactionaries in both parties, who demanded adjournment by 5 o'clock next day, and the liberal-progressives in both parties who demanded that congress stay in session. Dawes voted with the liberal-progressives who wanted to stay at work, and against the reactionaries who wanted to defeat the Boulder Canyon Dam bill and other measures by going home. The big-navy group also voted to stay—to pass their own bill.

Robinson of Arkansas, democratic floor leader, proved himself once more a good Coolidge republican. He voted for adjournment. Johnson of California, demanding that the Boulder Dam bill be first brought to a roll-call, rallied the opposition with the help of Norris, Walsh, Wheeler and Wagner. Dawes' vote against the Coolidge program was deliberately cast in order to impress the "rebels" in the Kansas City convention with the idea that Dawes is in sympathy with the west and is a man of the common people, devoted to public duty.

MILITANTS FROM ALL SECTIONS OF GERMANY GATHER

Must Fight War Danger Speakers Declare

Many workers fell in line to give the Fighters food and drink.

The streets leading to the Lustgarten were packed.

Thirty speakers addressed approximately seven hundred thousand workers from numerous platforms. Thaelmann, Leov, Pieck, Pfeiffer, Overlach and numerous delegates from foreign militant workers organizations appealed to the workers to fight against the danger of an imperialist war and against the treachery of the social-democrats.

Fascists Stay Away.

The workers troops then marched past in military parade, raising their fists in salute as they passed the base in Friedrichshain, where the leaders of the Red Front Fighters stood. The march of Fighters lasted from four-thirty until nine-thirty.

The German fascists, who on other occassions have tried to attack and break up meetings of the Red Front Fighters, discreetly absented themselves from the demonstration.

URGE CANDY WORKERS TO JOIN THE UNION IN FIGHT ON SPEED-UP, STARVATION WAGES

(By a Worker Correspondent)

A very enthusiastic meeting of workers representatives from [illegible] candy and chocolate factories was held last Saturday evening. The foundation for a militant union was laid and plans formulated to start an organization campaign among the thousands of exploited slaves of the many candy and chocolate factories in New York City.

A joint organization committee was appointed which issued the following appeal to the workers:

Every man and woman working in, and for, the chocolate and candy factories at whatever job he or she may hold, must stand ready for action and fight for better working conditions. Don't be afraid—you have nothing more to lose than the savage, inhuman speeding-up at your work, the starvation wages which they pay you for your exhausting drudgery, the snooping and spying on you, inside and outside the factory and the many wily tricks and dirty chicanery you have to put up with at the hands of the bosses. Only these you run a chance of losing, nothing else.

Fellow workers, get ready to fight for a decent, human treatment and the immediate wage raise. Don't you think it's high time to stand up and demand the granting of these reasonable demands? General organizers will be around explaining all about the union that is being formed. Make your application when you are approached. Fall in line. Let us all work and fight together for a better life for all.

Bring Out Scabs Is Young Workers' Appeal at Kenosha, Correspondent Says

DEMAND ALL DAY MASS PICKETING TO WIN STRIKE

Strikers Told Labor Party is Vital Need

(By a Worker Correspondent.)

KENOSHA, Wis., (By Mail).—Enclosed is a copy of the leaflet which the Young Workers League of Kenosha gave out at the picket lines recently. It's the third time they've distributed them. The men are getting gradually tired of Budenz's tactics and they are glad to get the leaflets. —ALLEN-A.

To Striking Workers of Allen-A.

The march, open-air meeting and dance last Saturday were powerful demonstrations of the workers of Kenosha. The thousands of Kenosha workers who participated in last Saturday's affairs, pledged their solidarity with the militant young strikers of the Allen-A Co. Young Workers League of Milwaukee came all the way to Kenosha to participate in Saturday's demonstration. Another group of the Young Workers League came from Chicago. All this was further proof that you have the support of the overwhelming majority of young and adult workers.

What must be done now in order to win the strike? The remaining unorganized, semi-skilled and unskilled workers must be called out on strike. These workers are piling up profits for the company by remaining at work. That is one of the reasons why the All-A Co. has been able to hold out so long against the strikers.

If these unorganized workers were not of any value to the company, they would have been discharged long ago. The firm employs them because their labor is profitable. You must get them out on strike and deal a really powerful blow at the Allen-A Co. When this open-shop firms sees that other workers in its employ are joining the ranks of the strikers it will give up its vicious struggle against the union and come to terms. Discuss this among yourselves and take definite action to call out the unorganized.

All Day Mass Picketing.

In the last few days, you have occasionally picketed one of the Allen-A plants as the scabs were leaving for home. What were the results? The scabs saw that your ranks were still strong and unbroken—and that you intend to fight on until you win. This causes dissention and pessimism in their ranks and eventually some of them will quit scabbing and get out of the firm.

However, more effective results can be obtained if you organize regular shifts to picket the Allen-A Co. from the time the scabs go to work in the morning until they leave for home. This all-day picket line should be held around both plants of the Allen-A Co., the one where the full fashioned work is done by the scabs, and the other plant across the street.

Special efforts can then be made to call out the unorganized semi-skilled and unskilled workers on strike. This all day picketing of both plants, will prove effective in keeping away any would-be scabs from entering the Allen-A Co. in the morning, and would, in a short time, completely demoralize a large number of the scabs. By holding all-day picket lines about the two plants, the scabs will see how determined the union forces are. Fellow workers, we ask you to see that this is done immediately in order that you may win soon. Your strike must not be allowed to drag along for months, giving the company time to import additional scabs and professional strikebreakers.

A Labor Party.

Whether democrats, republicans or so-called independent progressives are in power, the government remains an instrument of the bosses against the workers. In every strike of the workers to better their conditions, the government supports the bosses by issuing injunctions and sending police to beat and arrest the workers. Even in the so-called progressive state of Wisconsin, where LaFollette was idolized as a friend of labor, arrests are being made in Kenosha of strikers against the labor-hating Allen-A Co. and in the widely advertised model city of Milwaukee, where a "socialist" mayor has been in power for twelve years, strikers against David Adler and Sons have been arrested constantly.

Wages in Wisconsin are just as low as in other states. Child labor exists here as everywhere thruout the country. Workers are unemployed and the open-shop is entrenched here as everywhere thruout the state, including the "model" city of Milwaukee. [illegible] there is a law on the books of the state of Wisconsin, prohibiting importation of gunmen and professional strikebreakers, it is not carried out, as is evidenced by the importation of thugs by Allen-A while the state and city authorities refuse to take any action.

The workers cannot look to any of the bosses' parties for aid. They can expect nothing from the democratic, republican or independent parties that serve the interests of the bosses. Nor can they expect anything from LaFollette, who denounces the two old parties before the election and then goes back to them when the elections are over. No, the workers must organize a party of their own, a Labor Party, which will fight for the interests of the working class. It must be a party composed of workers and poor farmers, with a real working class program. Its candidates for public office must be representatives of labor organizations.

Follow, workers! Rally to your demands. They are:

1. Organize regular daily mass picketing around both plants of the open Allen-A Co.
2. Call out on strike all unorganized workers who are at present employed in the Allen-A Co.
3. Immediate withdrawal of the $25,000 guarantee made by the union to the Allen-A Co. The union must not guarantee a cent to the Allen-A that the workers will speed-up and produce as much with one machine as with two. There must be no speed-up!
4. No agreemen with the Allen-A Co. unless they accept the closed shop where only union workers will be employed.
5. An 8-hour day, a 5-day week.
6. Two weeks vacation with pay.
7. A party of, by, and for the workers, a Labor Party.

Negro Worker Risks Life For Young Girl

Manuel Silver, a Negro barge captain, leaped into the East River recently in order to rescue a young white girl who was drowning in the icy water. Silver is shown with his wife, indicating the spot where his courageous rescue was made. Scores of these barge captains, both whites and Negroes, make a bare existence around New York harbor where they are among the most exploited of harbor workers. Their barges are often overloaded so that they sink in the heavy harbor wash. Drownings are frequent from this cause.

TRAMP, TRAMP, TRAMP, GO STARVED THOUSANDS

(By a Worker Correspondent.)

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (By mail).—Every summer a great call is issued thruout Oklahoma, Kansas and Nebraska and the Dakotas for harvest hands. A good many workers come out from the east, also, some from as far away as Maine, and many from other New England states.

No Jobs.

But be warned this year if the newspapers print long articles about the thousands of men who are wanted in the harvest fields. Don't come west as you can't get a job in the fields at any price.

Last year there were 1,700 "combines" in Oklahoma alone, which threw 4,000 harvest hands out of work. This year there are so far 4,045 "combines," which cuts out all jobs. One north-east county alone has 600.

The above is the official statement appearing on page 15 of the May 8 issue of the Oklahoma City Times.

All the more northern states have been supplied with "combines," which make them as bad as Oklahoma. Besides, there is absolutely no work to be had in the big towns of Oklahoma.

Shoot Starving Worker.

Early this morning a poor starving worker broke into a restaurant for food and was shot. He was taken to the Oklahoma General Hospital in a dying condition. This is the third restaurant that has been entered for food within one week.

Men are breaking into high school cafeterias here for food.

Five thousand dollars was lately paid to a visiting Chicago preacher for four days' "work" here, while all the way from Grand Ave. south on Robinson St. to the Frisco tracks, hundreds of unoccupied workers, many of them married, were starving and begging for even a loaf of bread.

Mothers "Hustle."

Lots of unemployed married workers here have been forced to stay with the children at that lousy place called home while their wives are compelled to take to the street and "hustle."

I saw a good woman, a christian, and the wife of an unemployed laborer, being forced into this the other day. She said it was either that or starve and when she heard her little ones crying for something to eat she was driven to it.

And yet capitalism doesn't want to destroy the home! The rats!

I am broke and out of work, but there are thousands like me here. Just stand at Robinson and Reno any day and all you hear is tramp, tramp, tramp, just like clock work.

DISTRIBUTER OF LEAFLET QUIZZED

(By a Worker Correspondent.)

BAYONNE, N. J., (By Mail). — A member of the Young Workers League, Sol Berman, was arrested recently for distributing leaflets to the oil strikers in Bayonne. Here are some of the questions that the police asked him in the black maria, together with the worker's replies.

Police: Are you a citizen of the United States?

Worker: Sure I am.

Police: Are you a Communist?

Worker: Yes.

The worker was arrested after the strike had been called off. After the judge, Markey, had questioned him he was released. —S.

NO UNION BOOKS FOR EMPLOYEES OF AMALGAMATED

Workers Disillusioned About Officials

(By a Worker Correspondent)

Last Saturday I had lunch with a group of my friends. We were discussing the necessities that a working girl has today. In the group of six, two were operators, one was a saleslady and three were clerks in the Amalgamated Bank.

One of the operators has been out of work for a long time. She had a chance to observe all the beautiful and wonderful things you can buy if you have the money. She turned her head and said to the clerks in a half-serious, half-humorous way, "You are lucky girls to work in the Amalgamated Bank. I suppose you are getting good since you yourselves are the union."

"What Union?"

The answer was sad. The clerks told us that none of them belong to the Bookkeepers' Union. They pay no dues. They have no union books and if they are working overtime, they do not get paid until three or four weeks later.

When I heard this I told them I had heard talk of a strike at the bank a few weeks ago for discharging a clerk for being active in the Bookkeepers' Union. They asked me if I knew how it was investigated and told me it was thru the press. "O," they said, "we long for the time when we shall belong to a union like yours and be protected against hiring and firing, against reductions in wages, increase in working hours and discharge for union activity.

About Amalgamated.

When I heard this beautiful dream of my friend about my union, I did not want to disappoint her, but I told her a little bit about the "wonderful" things in the Amalgamated of which I am a member.

Here are some of things I told her. On paper we have a powerful union, but not in the shops. When the union was in the shop we had a chairman. Today we have a collector as well as business agents and organizers.

Since the Amalgamated gave up all its principles of class struggle it has gone far with compromises. So the workers have lost their confidence in their union leadership. Today the Amalgamated is surrounded by business agents, organizers and strongmen, not for the organization but for the machine, to keep the workers back from constructive work.

We, the workers, knowing the wonderful possibilities of our union, have lost no real respect for it. Altho some of us keep quiet, deep in our hearts we feel very bad about it. If anybody dares to say anything, he or she is condemned as a Communist or a destroyer of the organization. But we are watching for the time when all the workers will understand that they have no real union now and then they will get busy with organization work and will make improvements in our working conditions.

At the last convention two years ago, the Amalgamated decided to establish a forty-hour week instead of the forty-four. We worked hard, very hard for it, but they came to the conclusion that the easiest way of getting the forty-hour week is by bringing back the old sweat shop system of piece-work.

There is not enough organization among the workers. The new inventions, the speed-up system, overproduction without the control of the union, and piece work are ruining.

All this shows that the present leaders are carrying the organization backwards. We are going from bad to worse. I wonder how far we can go in that direction. —F.S.

BOYS FORGOTTEN IN LOS ANGELES JAIL FOR WEEKS

Judge Irate; Now About 600 Labor Prisoners

(By a Worker Correspondent)

LOS ANGELES, Cal., (By Mail).—Mr. G. A. Arnold, 668 West 27th St. San Pedro, lost his automobile March 9. San Pedro, a seaport of Los Angeles, is the "Fink City" of the lumber trust, shipping interests and the fishing industry, etc. This place was the hottest hell-hole of police brutality in the country during 192?-1924. Even Upton Sinclair was arrested for reading the Constitutions of the United States and the state of California. The reading took place on private property, "Liberty Hill," with the consent of the owner, a liberal-minded woman.

Now, to come back to the main story, two young men, Babe De La Cruz and Marvin Dennison, were accused of having "borrowed" Arnold's auto. The boys were arrested in Nevada City by Deputy Sheriff Dan Crowley, who transported them back to the Los Angeles County Jail, March 21. They were put under $1,500 bail each and "forgotten" for two months without a hearing.

After two months' loss of memory by the police department, the "mistake" was discovered. The youths were brought into Municipal Judge Baird's court for arraignments. Police Officer E. R. Dunthy of San Pedro was made the "goat," in a way, but the judge also attacked 'police department inefficiency," saying, in part, as follows:

"This outrage of constitutional rights of these men is directly traceable to the gross inefficiency of the police department," exclaimed Judge Baird. "There is absolutely no reason why men should be thrown into jail and kept there for two months because police officers fail to carry out their duties."

No Los Angeles judge, or any other judge, had anything to say against the wholesale violations of the constitutions of this state and nation during the free speech fight in San Pedro in 1923 and 1924. The "ire" of judges was not "aroused" over the jailing of more than 600 innocent workers at one time, the railroading to San Quentin, the kidnappings and the hot water "cure"—which tortured women and children to death. The notorious Oaks, former chief of police in Los Angeles, got away with his brutalities and other forms of lawlessness—without protest by legal lights who are decorating the benches in courts of law.

Well, these boys were sent to jail and permitted to rot there. The police department, however, is very busy these days protecting gamblers and other crooks from getting in close contact with smelling jail-birds.

"Get Me in the Movies" a Good Satire on Hollywood

A delightful farce based on contemporary life in the movie colony in Hollywood, California, called, "Get Me In The Movies" is now playing at the Earl Carroll Theatre, where laughing audiences are nightly enjoying this satire about the cinema capitol.

Written by Charlton Andrews and Phillip Dunning, the latter one of the authors of "Broadway," the play is the first serious attempt to portray Hollywood life since Glenn Hunter appeared several seasons ago in "Merton of the Movies." While written along the lines of broad farce, the play in an unusually entertaining manner manages to bring out a great deal of the things the motion picture fan has been reading and thinking about for many years.

The play mirrors the adventures of Johnny Loring, winner of a scenario contest, who from the day he arrives in the cinema center is constantly annoyed by potential movie queens and their mothers who request his help in placing them in the movies.

In an amusing manner the various girls tell him they are willing to "pay the price" for fame, but none of the offers tempt Johnny who remains true to his sweetheart. In addition the contract he has signed with the motion picture corporation states that he is not to recommend any one for parts in any of the company's productions.

The part of Johnny is superbly played by Sterling Holloway, remembered for his fine work in the Garrick Gaieties" and the "Grand Street Follies." Mr. Holloway's portrayal of the soda jerker from Sheboygan, Wis., who won the scenario prize, is one of the finest characterizations on Broadway today. His tall ungainly figure, his mop of yellow hair, all add realism to his part of a country youth bewildered by the host of motion picture beauties who want to use him as a means of gaining prominence in the battle for fame.

Of course, in the end Johnny triumphs, but the complications leading up to that make an enjoyable evening at the theatre. While not of any permanent importance, the play is th equal of many of the current successes along the Rialto.

In addition to Mr. Holloway, capital performances are given by Mildred Van Dorn as his sweetheart; Helen Baxter as a movie star and by Lenore Sorby and Sheila Trent as two of the girls willing to "pay the price." Other members of the cast include Courtney White, Alan Devitt and Evelyn Carter, Carrington Hathaway.

3,500 GARMENT WORKERS ATTEND BUILD UNION MEET

Honest Elements Now Out of Sigman Union

Crowding the isles from the speakers' platform out into and almost filling the lobby of Cooper Union,, 3,500 cloakmakers came to the meeting called by the Tolerance Group last night, and tumultuously applauded the the announcements of the group leaders that every member of their group had sent in his resignation as paid and unpaid functionaries in the fake union of Morris Sigman.

Striking the keynote of their statement of position B. Kaplan, former chairman of the right wing Local 2, declared that "there is nothing left for any honest element remaining in the right wing union to do but join with the National Organizing Committee and fight with them for the building of a real union.

The high pitch of enthusiasm was reached when Joseph Borachovich was introduced as the representative of the National Organizing Committee. Borachovich welcomed into the ranks of the cloak and dressmakers all elements regardless of political beliefs whose primary desire is to build a real cloakmakers' union and again regain union conditions destroyed by the 19 war on the membership conducted by the right wing.

Other speakers for the Tolerance Group declared that the only conclusion that can be reached after they saw that the Sigmans and Schlesingers intend to continue the fight on the members is to join the struggle of the N. O. C. Two of them, Louis Goldstein and Philip Greitz announced that at 4 p. m. that day they had sent in their resignation as business agent in the Sigman local. Other speakers were Nathan Steinberg, A. Silverstein and A. Guteson. Philip Gretizer was chairman.

Unanimously, all the thousands present rose to adopt the following resolution:

"Whereas the leaders of the International have rejected the demand of the 'Tolerance Group' (which is also the demand of the thousands of cloak and dressmakers) for an end to the internal struggle, on a basis where all elements shall unite in order to rebuild the union, and restore union conditions, and have thus demonstrated that they are determined to continue the destructive war in our union.

"We, the assembled cloak and dressmakers, declare that we support the open and decisive action of the Tolerance Group, which realizing that nothing further can be expected of the International, has affiliated with the National Organization Committee, which has set as its object to unite all the constructive forces for the rebuilding of our shattered union.

"We declare that the time has come when we, the workers of the shops, who have suffered mostly from the destructive war, must unite our forces and begin to build the union.

"We call on all registered members together with us to rally around the National Organization Committee, and do all in their power to help rebuild our union, and once more reestablish union conditions which we have won thru many years of struggle and sacrifice.

"We pledge to do all in our power to the end that the shops, in which we are working, shall together with us join the National Organization Committee, so that with united forces we may build our union on a basis where it shall be controlled to truly serve the interests of the members.

ART SCREEN FOR MINERS' RELIEF

The first screen presentation of the Moscow Art Theatre, "Polikushka," will be shown by Council No. 1, United Councils of Workingclass Women, next Saturday evening at the Burke Theatre, Burke and White Plains Avenues. The proceeds of the performance will be given to the National Miners Relief Committee, 799 Broadway, for the relief of the striking miners and their families.

The art of complete harmonious acting by which the Moscow Art Theatre has decisively influenced the European stage, is for the first time transferred to the screen in "Polikushka." The role of the main character is played by J. M. Moskvin, the greatest Russian actor.

The picture, taken from the story "Polikushka," was written by Leo Tolstoy after the proclamation by Czar Alexander II in 1861 announcing the emancipation of the serfs, and deals with the life and lust for drink of "Polikushka"—the lowest of all the serfs in the service of the Pokrovskoye estate.

The film depicts the Russian village and provincial town of the period, showing the misery and drudgery of the lives of the peasants. Moskvin's realistic acting makes it one of the outstanding pictures of all time.

All workers and sympathizers with the miners' struggles for the right to live are urged to attend the showing of this film next Saturday evening.

CONCERT PROGRAM AT BIG CARNIVAL

Starlight Park Hired for Joint Defense

A very important feature of the Starlight Park Jamboree and Carnival has been announced today. The Defense Committee has succeeded in securing the Hungarian Workers' Symphony Orchestra composed of fifty men, who will render a classical program. The orchestra will be conducted by Alfred Kugel.

The carnival at Starlight Park on June 9th promises to be one of the most unusual and joyous affairs of the season. A variety of entertainments will be provided to suit the particular tastes of all present. Numerous teams of proletarian sport clubs will participate in baseball, soccer games, track and fields events. These sports clubs are also preparing spectacular calisthenics, as well as other different features. A battle royal between the different national sport clubs for the championship is in store for the amusement of our workers. Water sports have also not been neglected, among which will be swimming races and exhibitions. Amateur wrestling and boxing has been scheduled for the evening. The Impartial Workers' Schools are preparing a picturesque ballet. There will be a march of the athletes, the Pioneers and the children of the Impartial Workers' Schools. The dance hall will be free to all. A much looked-forward to event will be the evening camp fires, on the field where all will join in proletarian songs.

We want to call the special attention of all comrades and sympathizers, that the Joint Defense Committee has only taken over three places from which to sell food and drinks. These are the large restaurant, the booth on the field and the booth inside of the dance hall. Be sure to patronize these. All the others belong to private concerns. Tickets can be obtained at the Defense Headquarters, 41 Union Square.

TAMMANY GRAFTS $500,000 IN HAUL; PAYROLLS PADDED

Bronx Garage Yields Big Swag to Officials

Fully a half million dollars of graft in one garage alone during the short period of three years is the record of the Tammany Hall street cleaning department as revealed in the opening address yesterday by Assistant District Attorney Ryan to the jury which was selected last Friday to try Charles A. McGee, assistant general superintendent of the department and William J. Oswald, Bronx district superintendent.

In the address to the jury, prosecutor Ryan showed that the stealing was effected through payroll padding by means of fictitious names of persons never actually employed. This graft took place in the garage at Cromwell Avenue of which William J. Lougheed was foreman and Benjamin A. A. Stoeber was assistant foreman. Lougheed and Stoeber have pleaded guilty and will testify for the state.

Thus far no reason for the voluntary confessions of Lougheed and his assistant who have revealed the existence of hundreds of thousands of graft yearly in the Tammany street cleaning department alone has been advanced officially. But the readiness with which the prosecution has been willing apparently to grant them immunity as state witnesses, their seeming anxiety to implicate even themselves lends credence to the charge that Al Smith, Morgan-spokesman in the New Tammany Hall, is making a show of fumigating some of the vile-smelling spots of the city administration in preparation for his presidential campaign.

It is recalled that the New York World, now chief defender of Al Smith, was the paper instrumental in securing the confessions of Lougheed and Stoeber.

Lougheed, prosecutor Ryan declared, carried an emergency weekly payroll of $3,390. Of 126 emergency workers which he certified to have carried, only 32 were actually employed. This scheme, Ryan showed, could not have been carried out withwithout the knowledge and connivance of their superiors, McGee and Oswald.

It is believed, however, that those higher up in graft will as usual escape punishment.

THREE MILLINERY PICKETS JAILED

Three pickets of the striking Millinery Hand Workers' Union, Local 43, were arrested yesterday morning before the shop of Rothschild and Hershison, 63 W. 36th St., on charges of disorderly conduct and hailed into Jefferson Market Court, 6th Ave. and 10th St., from which they were later released on suspended sentences. The arrests followed a militant picketing demonstration of union members at both the uptown and downtown shops.

During the lunch hour and in the afternoon the strikers were joined by a large number of other union members on the picket line. The strike, union officers say, is going strong. Many new members are coming to the union seeking to work at union shops.

The millinery fighters are fighting against the attempts of the officers of the international union to destroy the local which grew from 400 members to 4,000 in the two years of its militant leadership.

Five Men Rescued From Burning Rum Runner

BOSTON, May 28.—Five men of the super-speed boat Humpe, of Philadelphia, sunk at sea off Nantucket, faced arraignment today on liquor smuggling charges following a rescue from the flaming Humpe by the crew of the United States Coast Guard Cutter Paulding. At the time of the rescue the sea about the craft was covered with burning gasoline from the Humpe and the men were in a dory. When all had been rescued, the Paulding fired a shot sinking the Humpe, which had burst into flames during a pursuit by the Paulding.

DENTAL OWNERS SEEK TO SETTLE WITH STRIKERS

Laboratory Workers in City-Wide Strike

A large group of dental laboratory owners, disregarding the policy of the Dental Manufacturers' Association, met last night to draw up a resolution in an effort to effect an agreement whereby the workers, out on strike throughout greater New York for two weeks, should go back to work with all their demands granted.

This move was made because of the powerful united front put up by the strikers.

An attempt on the part of the bosses to import strikebreakers from other cities, and from the employes of members of the National Dental Manufacturers' Association, last night, was frustrated. The workers of Pittsburgh, Cleveland and Chicago refused to scab on the striking workers in New York.

Jobs Demanded for 1,000

This failure, it is believed, prompted the bosses' meeting last night.

According to a statement given out by the strike leaders, the strikers will not mediate unless the employers' group is large. This means that the bosses proposing settlement must be able to provide employment for about 1,000 workers.

At meetings held yesterday in the Labor Temple the strikers demonstrated again that their spirit is as fresh if not better than it was at the inception of the strike.

Hall Is Filled

The first meeting of the day, which began at noon, completely filled the hall. A roll call showed that not a single striker was absent. They cheered repeatedly while a statement on the demands was being read and pledged that they would continue to fight until the union was recognized and their demands granted.

At present the industry is completely tied up. Over 95 per cent of all those engaged in the trade in Greater New York are out on strike.

The Hope of the Working Class

We go before the working class in the presidential election with Communist candidates for the national offices. The Communist Party, the sole revolutionary political party, the only party holding to the aims and the class-struggle policies of our class, enters into the elections of the capitalist "democracy"—not in harmony with the purposes of those elections, but with the revolutionary purpose of mobilizing the masses of toilers of industry and country against the very capitalist state which seeks, through those elections, to support itself by deluding the masses.

Necessity compels the capitalist class to put through the puppet-show of elections "by the people" while the Sinclairs, Mellons, Morgans, Ryans and Rockefellers choose a new president.

The Communist Party takes advantage of this necessity of the capitalist class. It participates in the election by complete and merciless exposure of the fact that from such election can come no change in the political power which rules the country, and that this power can be overthrown only by the actions of these masses outside of the parliamentary forms.

The working class of the United States is deeper in the illusions of capitalist so-called "democracy" than the workers of any other country in the world. This is what the capitalist press and politicians mean when they boast that "there are no classes in America." And this is expressed in the fact that this is the only country in the world where the working class and the most exploited farmers are by habit, by tradition and by present practice inside of the two political parties of the capitalist class.

This historical fact is explained in the draft platform adopted by the National Nominating Convention of the Workers (Communist) Party:

> Today the bulk of the workers—even those who economically, in their trade unions, by their strikes, fight the bosses—support the political parties of the same bosses, the republican and democratic parties. This is a fatal mistake, because it means that the workers themselves help the capitalists to hold their grip on the state power. Those workers who still remain in the camps of the republican and democratic parties are helping the capitalists to be the bosses of the courts, to use injunctions and armed forces to crush the trade unions and to paralyze the strike movements of the workers.

To bring about the divorce of the masses of exploited workers and farmers from this hideous alliance with their worst class enemies, to break up their habit and tradition of support of their own oppressors, the Communist Party, in connection with its campaign for its revolutionary ticket and platform and ticket, advocates the formation of a labor party.

Is there any inconsistency between in the Communist Party's actions in calling for 100 per cent support for the Communist Party, and at the same time calling for the formation of a labor party? Certainly not. But there is danger that many workers may nevertheless misunderstand the demand for the formation of a labor party. Of course it is easy to make the mistake of thinking that the Communist Party wishes to substitute a labor party for itself. But nothing could be more absurd or more dangerously misleading. The Communist platform says:

> The Workers (Communist) Party supports the formation of those labor parties which are based on trade unions and other organizations of the working class. It is willing to participate in the formation of such labor parties, because it considers this the first decisive step toward independent political action by the working class, the first step of the workers to break away from the parties of the bosses. At the same time the Communist Party considers it its duty to tell the workers frankly that a labor party has its limitations and that it will not be able to lead the workers in their final struggle to their emancipation. Only a Communist Party can do that. Only under the leadership of the Communist Party can the American working class emancipate itself from the double yoke of capitalist exploitation and oppression.

The Workers (Communist) Party fights for the formation of a labor party and against the treacherous policy of the trade union bureaucrats in selling out the working class through the agency of the "friends" among the politicians of the enemy class, and no labor party can lead the working class to victory. Only the Communist Party can do that.

But keep a true perspective. No labor party can lead the woorking class to victory. Only the Communist Party can do that.

In a Communist election campaign the greatest possible mobilization of the working class must be accompanied by the greatest possible building up of the membership of the Communist Party.

Votes for Foster and Gitlow must be accompanied by tens of thousands of new members of the Workers (Communist) Party.

That is what we will call success in the coming election campaign.

THE MIGHTY SEAT

(A seat on the New York Stock Exchange was sold for $365,000—News Item)

Three hundred thousand dollars for a seat!
Is this the jeweled throne that one might meet
In fairy tales, or chair with crooked arms
Of gold where sits a witch to weave her charms!
Oh, stranger far this seat of which I tell,
For it was built of blood and flesh in hell
And set aloft upon this mighty place,
And there a puppet sits with twitching face
And rakes in profits with a trembling hand.
He gambles half a kingdom in a strand
Of ticker tape. He paid a paltry sum—
Three hundred thousand dollars! Easy come
And easy go! While round about him beat
The sounds of anguished voices and of feet
That race in terror to retrieve their loss,
For all their golden stocks have turned to dross.
At touch of this cruel wizard in his chair
A thousand heads are bent and gray with care.
This chair has all the mystic power to make
A man more rich than Midas. For the sake
Of profits men crouch here before this throne
And snarl among themselves over a bone!
The symbol of the system and its power,
This throne shall crash when strikes the workers' hour!

Organizing the Young Workers

By HERBERT ZAM.

On May 5th and 6th a Labor Youth Conference was held in New York. In spite of deliberate efforts on the part of some elements in the conference to disrupt it, or to doom it to impotency, the conference marked progress in the work for the organization of the young workers.

Militant Demands.

This progress was due entirely to the militant demands of the young workers who were present as delegates, and their insistence on refusing to be sidetracked from their purpose.

The conference was originally arranged by the Brookwood Labor College. Altho this was the second conference, the first one having been held in Katonah, N. Y., and altho Tom Tippett, in commenting on the second conference remarked that the first one had been "hot air" and the second one must do something, the Brookwood administration from the very first endeavored to confine the conference within the strait-jacket of "educational," or to quote Mr. Tippett, make it another "hot air" conference. The young workers, however, refused to permit the Brookwood administration to act as a brake on their activity, adopted a number of resolutions dealing with their pressing problems, and elected a committee to carry on the work after the conference.

To those acquainted with the first conference, it was very evident that, considering that this was the second conference, that it was in New York, and not in Katonah, etc., the second conference was narrower than the first, altho the number of unions having representatives was about the same.

Brookwood Tries To Sabotage.

This narrowness was due almost entirely to the deliberate efforts of the Brookwood administration to limit the conference. Thus, for example, no effort was made to obtain the endorsement of the New York Central Trades, which had endorsed and participated in the first one; the committee which the first conference had set up was not permitted to function; no representatives were sent to the trade union to ask for the election of delegates. This narrow policy was a result of the fear which animated Mr. Muste, the head of Brookwood, that a broad conference would result in him losing control of it.

When the conference opened, a still further effort was made to reduce the conference by the exclusion of the delegates representing the Young Workers (Communist) League. The Young Workers (Communist) League had been officially invited to participate in the conference. After the names of the delegates were sent to Brookwood, a reply was received, over the signature of Muste, thanking the League for its interests and for having elected delegates. But at the last minute, a third letter was received saying that the League had been invited thru a mistake of the "secretary" and would not be permitted to participate. Naturally, the Young Workers (Communist) League had no intention of permitting this omasculation of the conference by eliminating the organization which had been most active in the work for the organization of the young workers, and which was the only organization that really defended the interests of the toiling youth. The delegates therefore came to the conference and presented their credentials with a request for the body itself to act on the matter.

Mr. Muste was not present at the opening session, and Mr. Saposs acted as chairman, much to the regret of the delegates and undoubtedly of Mr. Saposs himself. Mr. Saposs ruled that the delegates from the Young Workers (Communist) League could not be seated. This evoked such a storm of protest from the delegates, that Mr. Saposs was compelled to withdraw. A motion was unanimously carried to select a credentials committee to pass on the delegates. Mr. Saposs wanted to appoint the credentials committee. The delegates voted to elect it. The credentials committee of three was elected, it met, and brought in a unanimous report, in which it recommended the seating of all delegates who had come with regular credentials from their organizations, including the delegates representing the Young Workers (Communist) League.

Being a good liberal, and believing in "democracy" in the trade unions, and having regard for the will of the majority, Mr. Saposs promptly ruled the report of the credentials committee out of order!

Needless to say, Mr. Saposs brought down a storm upon his own head. The delegates wanted to know why they had elected a credentials committee. Mr. Saposs had no answer. The delegates wanted to know whether the delegates to this conference had anything to say about the affairs of the conference, or whether the delegates were so many dummies for Mr. Saposs to practice parliamentary procedure on. Mr. Saposs shrugged his shoulders. Like a good democrat, he was impervious to the "ravings of the mob." Cool, collected, dignified, like the hero in the Western picture, Mr. Saposs pulled out his watch, and in a solemn, strike-me-dead tone, declared that he would adjourn the conference unless everything became quiet and his dictatorship was adopted before five minutes were up.

From Trust to Finance Capitalism

By SCOTT NEARING.

Thirteen New York bank stocks are selling at more than $1,000 a share. The Chemical National stocks sell at an even $1,000; Herriman National, $1,120; State Bank, $1,170; Bankers Trust, $1,200; Colonial Bank, $1,200; Manufacturers Trust, $1,220; Brooklyn Trust, $1,340; Hanover National, $1,420; Central Union Trust, $1,725; Fifth Avenue Bank, $2,275; King County Trust, $3,200; United States Trust, $3,400; First National, $4,650.

Men who originally paid $100 for First National shares (or who were given $100 shares by the First National Bank) and who have held on to their property can now sell the shares for 46 times the original price—an advance of 4,500 per cent! The shares of this particular bank were selling at $1,100 five years ago. Within that five years they have increased more than 300 per cent in price.

The original price of bank stock represented the amount of capital subscribed by investors. The market price indicates the present earning power of the bank. The enormous difference between the par value and the selling value of these bank stocks is the result of the great earning power of a modern banking enterprise. Banks not only issue money but, far more important, they issue credit on which they collect regular interest just as though they were loaning money. They also engage in various other forms of business activity, and, if they are well handled, pile up surplus wealth at a rate which exceeds that of even the most prosperous manufacturing industries.

The last 30 years of the 19th century were the years of big business. The first 28 years of the present century have been the years of big banks. Banking profits are eclipsing business profits as bankers rise to their position of supreme power in the economic system.

Every important city of the United States carries the record of these huge bank profits in the rapid growth of luxurious bank buildings and fine office buildings controlled by banks. Bank buildings are today the outstanding monuments to United States business prosperity. They indicate the position of the banking interests in the business world.

The present era in the United States is the era of the bankers. It is no longer necessary to produce wealth in order to make money. In fact, it is the producer who stays poor while the banking interests roll up their huge surpluses.

After all, it must be so.

From competitive capitalism to trust capitalism was one step.

From trust capitalism to finance capitalism is another. Business interests in the United States have just taken that step.

Circulate Power Trust Propaganda in Public Schools

WASHINGTON, (FP) May 29.—Two pamphlets issued by the New York State Committee on Public Utility Information and circulated among high-schools and parochial and private schools of high-school grade, in New York State, came into the evidence taken in its power trust propaganda probe, by the Federal Trade Commission. Fred W. Crone, director of the Committee, testified as to how the power trust argument had been put into the hands of teachers and pupils.

Sixty thousand copies of "Know New York State" were first sent out, the power trust publicity bureau circularizing all school principals with sample copies.

Smithsonian Like the Rest.

Like the "state pride" pamphlets used by the trust in other parts of the country, this one recited the industries, resources and possible development of New York capital, and emphasized the public utilities as the great triumph of human genius and faith, based upon the right of private profit. Then another pamphlet was issued, to follow the first, entitled "Servants of Progress." This was devoted to the utilities, and contained the same false statements regarding the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission's achievements in government ownership and operation of giant power that are found in the S. S. Weyer report printed by the Smithsonian Institution and in the report of Prof. Stewart of the University of Minnesota. Crone's bulletin for May, 1928, noted that 44,000 copies of this pamphlet had been placed in the hands of classes in 490 high-schools in the state.

Organized Propaganda.

Beside poisoning the minds of young people toward public ownership of the electric industry, Crone's committee was busy with adults. Speakers were trained by the use of handbook he prepared. A year and a half ago the task of talking the voters of New York state over to an eager support of the power trust was formally organized in a speakers' bureau. The state was divided into ten districts, and in each district a director, who was a utility executive, formed a subcommittee whose duty it was to place speakers upon every possible program. Kiwanis clubs, Rotary clubs, chambers of commerce, schools, clergymen's associations, clerks' picnics, labor union meetings—all were included in the systematic canvass for gullible listeners.

Millions at Stake.

The big idea was—and is, for the machine is now running at full speed in very county of the state—to make voters and future voters hate the idea of public competition with the power companies and gas companies.

Millions in annual revenue for the power combine are at stake in the game of bluff.

So it comes about that Crone issues a speakers' handbook and keeps a record of the number of speeches made in each of the 10 districts, month by month. Women employes of the companies are given special training as speakers before women's clubs. Men and women employes are sent to talk before schools. Executives of the companies direct this school-speaking campaign, and report the number of column-inches of newspaper publicity given these propaganda talks. As the papers increase the space devoted to the propaganda, the companies increase steadily their expenditures on paid advertising. Of course they do not wish to influence the good-will of the press!

Movies and Radio.

Moving pictures are used as propaganda by many of the companies, and series of radio talks are given, under the pretext of household science and cooking hints. This system catches the women who do not read the newspapers, or who would never read newspaper articles dealing directly with the issue of private versus public ownership.

So the network of lines of suggestion has been woven over the people of New York in the past few years, until it is so perfect that any discovery on their part that they are being robbed of millions of dollars annually through the private power combine will be made only by merest chance or through political earthquake.

HANdOuTS

A PICTURE of the unbounded generosity with which capitalist officials spend the public's money can be seen in the admission of Borough Superintendent Frank C. Gannon of Brooklyn to Commissioner of Accounts Higgins in the street cleaning graft that, for the life of him, he couldn't just recollect to whom he had paid $4,5000. This piece of change had apparently just been misplaced somewhere like an umbrella.

THIS is an example of the way science advances under capitalism:

A professor at the Michigan State College stood on the street corners of various cities watching the women go by, according to a newspaper dispatch. The dispatch estimates he "studied the walking habits" of 11,000 women. And now, according to the dispatch, an article by the professor on "The Walking Habits of the Female of the Species" is going to appear in the next number of the Journal of Heredity.

The socialist campaign managers are laying great hope, it is reported, in the fact that Norman Thomas is a Presbyterian in good standing. What with Al. Smith being a catholic, they say, Norman should have easy sledding in the solid south and other liberal neighborhoods.

The Nation for this week grabbed a few free articles in the form of opinions on the Broun-World rift. Interesting indeed are the comments of such bourgeois intellectual leaders as William Allen White, the paunchy editor from Emporia, Kansas, David Lawrence, editor of the United States Daily and H. L. Mencken of Baltimore.

Lawrence, whose "impartial" paper has just been exposed as being in extremely unplatonic relationship with the Power Trust, declares that not being a lawyer he has no fervent opinions on Broun getting the gate.

"The editor still is boss," avers White. "The employee still has his royal right to resign or be fired."

The crowning contribution is offered by Mr. Mencken, intellectual leader of the younger as well as some of the older set. "I ascribe the whole sad affair to prohibition," he says. "I long for the return of the saloon as it was when I was young and happy."

Public Benefactor

C. C. PYLE, Chiropodist.

The friendly looking fellow in the picture is Mr. C. C. Pyle, promoter of the cross country foot race which has just been concluded in New York. Picture shows Mr. Pyle waving goodbye to his wife as the caravan set out from Los Angeles several weeks ago. The derby is said to have resulted in thousands of dollars for Employer Pyle and thousands of bunions for the rank and file hoofers, some of whom are said to have corns all the way up to their knees. Promoter Pyle, however, says he is willing to make the sacrifice of all this pain on the part of his co-workers, for the sake of science. He has invented a bunion cure which, he says, will be a great boost for humanity and his bank account. During the derby Pyle himself contracted a few bunions but not on his feet. He rode all the way in an automobile.

MRS. KNAPP has finally been convicted. Afflicted with a fashionable nervous breakdown, she will now be sent by her corps of publicity agents to the usual exclusive sanitariums, where she will be attended in columns of newspaper print by the leading nerve specialists of the country. Despite her critical condition, the story of her lone and heroic battle against unbelievable odds will within a short time begin to appear serially in a well-known New York tabloid under the title, "The Heart of a Woman." After being pardoned by Gov. Smith because she has suffered enough, she will leave for a European trip supported in her great sorrow by the faith that whatever happens, royalties will not desert her.

MOSCOW, May 30.—Peasant revolts against the fascist regime have taken place in southern Italy, according to reliable information received here. The peasants of St. Agatha have taken over the estates of large landowners.

The arrest of Communists is still widespread, particularly in Rome, where in spite of the rigid censorship, the workers are aware of the trial of the leaders of the Communist Party of Italy. The trial has perhaps been postponed. No foreign journalists have been admitted.

Ordered 4,000 Workers Executed

(Special Cable to the Daily Worker).

MOSCOW, May 30.—Kladko, former agent of the White Guards in the Donetz district testified that Kolodub, Berasovsky, Kalganov and Eliadze, all of them accused of having participated in the Donetz sabotage plot, had reported revolutionists to the White Guards, who executed them.

In reply to a question put to him by the court, Kladko declared that approximately four thousand Donetz workers had been executed.

Favino, a working woman, testified that Kolodub had handed a servant, Polya, to the White Guardists for execution because she was accused of having stolen a dress.

In the evening the engineer Nashivotchnikov pleaded not guilty. The accused admitted that sabotage had been performed but denied that he himself had participated in it. Kalganov and Berasovsky declared that Nashivotchnikov had consciously participated in the sabotage.

TO "PROBE" SMITH CAMPAIGN FUNDS

Not All of the Dirt Has Been Spilled

WASHINGTON, May 30.—The senate campaign fund investigating committee will send a sub-committee of two members to New York Friday and Saturday to hear additional testimony touching the presidential campaign in behalf of Governor Alfred E. Smith.

Senators Bratton (D) New Mexico, and Steiwer (R) Oregon, will constitute the sub-committee. The senators would reveal neither the nature nor source of their new lead.

Prior to their departure for Manhattan tomorrow night, the senators will hear Senator Heflin (D) of Alabama, standard bearer of the anti-Smith clans and Representative Snell (R) New York, chairman of the house rules committee, who yesterday was appointed chairman of a special house campaign funds investigating committee.

WASHINGTON, Mayy 30.—A subcommittee of the senate campaign funds committee will devote Friday and Saturday to an inquiry into republican primary expenditures in Ohio. The hearings will be held at Cincinnati.

Senators McMaster (R) of South Dakota and Barkley (D) Kentucky, will constitute the Ohio sub-committee.

The subject matter of the inquiry was not divulged. Neither has it been definitely determined whether the senators will go to other Ohio cities.

Newark Judge Offer to Act As Mediary

A definite move for buying off the suit of the five doomed women now suing the United States Radium Corporation for a sum of $1,250,000 was made yesterday by counsels for the defense in an effort to save several hundred thousands of dollars for the corporation.

Federal Judge William Clark of Newark announced that he would act as a "disinterested mediator" in an effort to bring about an agreement between attorneys for both sides and "settle the matter" out of court.

This latest move toward outside settlement has greater significance than it appears to have on the surface, because Judge Clark was at one time associated with Raymond H. Berry, counsel for the five women, in the same law firm.

'DAILY' CALLS FOR QUICK AID IN CRISIS

Workers Asked to Rush Immediate Funds

Yesterday was the capitalist memorial day. To the readers of The DAILY WORKER this day means nothing. But it is a day which the readers should take advantage of by remembering those to whom the workers owe allegiance. For The DAILY WORKER, the organ of the class-conscious workers of this country, memorial day meant another day of financial crisis. The readers of the paper have not as yet realized the true nature of this crisis. It is one of the most serious that the Daily has ever experienced.

The workers of this country, who are compelled to fight on so many fields, must fight to save their Daily. They must fight with money, with the dollars that they can manage to scrape together. And they must do their fighting at once. If they delay, it may be too late to save The DAILY WORKER.

The DAILY WORKER has called upon the workers before and they have always been ready to do their utmost. Workers, you must not fail now. Show what the capitalist memorial means to you by remembering your fighting Daily with dollars. Rush all contributions to the office of The DAILY WORKER, 33 First St., New York City.

SCAB MINE OWNER ATTACKS PICKETS

Coal Diggers Show They Are Not Pacifists

PETERSBURG, Ind., May 30.—Efforts by William Johnson of Indianapolis, superintendent of the Gibson Coal Company and president of several scab mines in West Virginia to force the dispersal of a mass mine picketing demonstration yesterday led to his injury.

Johnson had brought eighteen scabs and thugs from the Vincennes coal fields, planning to force the opening of his mine under the 1917 wage scale of $5 per day. More than 400 miners from Pike and Gibson counties had gathered at the shaft when Johnson and his scabs charged the pickets. In the disturbance, Johnson is said to have been beaten up although not seriously, it is believed.

The Gibson Coal Company recently acquired the mine from the Neal Coal Company and immediately began plans for scab operations.

LEADERS REFUSE TO STOP MARCH, TWO ARRESTED

Murdoch Now Jailed Four Times

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., May 30.—Organized police terror to break the solidarity of 28,000 textile strikers, fighting the New Bedford Cotton Manufacturing Association to regain a ten per cent wage slash, was begun in earnest yesterday.

For the first time since the strike began more than six weeks ago, a squadron of police charged a picket line of about 500 strikers patrolling the mill gates at the south end, and after several efforts succeeded in breaking it up.

Leaders Arrested.

Again the leaders of the Textile Mills Committee, which is organizing and leading the picket demonstrations, were arrested. William T. Murdoch, secretary of the T. M. C., A. Adao, Piser and Porter, leading members of the strike committee, were arrested after they refused to obey the order of the police chief in charge to halt the picketing. All the above have been arrested several times already, this being the fourth time for the union leader Murdoch.

Strikers Sing.

The line of parading and singing strikers formed again and again in spite of the numerous concerted attacks upon them.

In court later, heavy bail bonds were demanded for all arrested. Murdoch, already under bail for several charges of "disturbing the peace," etc., was compelled to furnish three times the original amount of securities for his release. NEW AUTO TRUSTS BELIEVED PENDING

Chrysler-Dodge Merger Seen As Forerunner

Announcement that the Chrysler Corp. and Dodge Bros., Inc., had formed a huge automobile combine with assets between $450,000,000 and $500,000,000, is believed to be the forerunner of similar mergers aiming at more effective trustification of the automobile industry. The Chrysler-Dodge trust will rank next to General Motors Co. and the Ford Motor Co. in production and yearly sales.

The Packard Co. and the Pierce-Arrow Motor Car Co. are among those mentioned as seeking to absorb smaller competitors. In addition to elimination of competition, the aim of this new trustification wave in the auto industry is more and more speed-up and defense against attempts on the part of the workers to organize.

Both Chrysler and Dodge stocks, as well as the stocks of several other motor companies, rose yesterday.

Threaten Children who Attend Save-the-Union Meet

Children of the striking coal miners of Lansing, Ohio, were recently ordered away from a Save-the-Union meeting by Albert F. Meeks, the school principal. DELEGATES READY TO LAUNCH DRIVE

All Workers To Get Communist Message

Heading for the far west, middle west, south and every section of the country, delegates to the National Nominating Convention of the Workers (Communist) Party are now on their way home, ready to launch the great presidential campaign of the only working class party on a huge, nation-wide scale.

All the delegates, imbued with the enthusiasm that pervaded the two and a half days of the historic convention, are determined to bring the names of William Z. Foster and Ben Gitlow, candidates for president and vice president, respectively, of the Workers Party, and the militant working class platform on which they stand to all sections of the American working class, both organized and unorganized.

In addition to the national candidates, the delegates will also wage active campaigns for the state and county tickets of the Workers Party. Communist candidates will seek the workers' support in practically every state.

Under the direction of Alexander Trachtenberg, chairman, the Ways and Means Committee is now making plans for the division of the country into election districts. When these plans are finally worked out, all the election machinery of the Workers (Communist) Party will be set in motion.

MINERS FACE FEARFUL NEED; BABIES STARVE

(Special to The DAILY WORKER.)

PITTSBURGH, May 30.—At nearly half a dozen special district and sub-district mine conferences during the past week, the subject of relief for the striking miners became one of the most important orders of business. In all cases, it was recognized that unless funds being received by the National Miners' Relief Committee, 611 Penn Ave., of this city increased immediately, the most serious consequences to the mine strike would surely follow.

Many Conferences.

Save-the-Union conferences have been held in Indiana, in Ohio, in Illinois, in the anthracite within a week. Another is now in session here. At each of these, mine delegates reported of the fearful suffering and need of the wives and children of the coal diggers. Delegates from the non-union fields of West Virginia reported that thousands of miners would come out on strike if some measure of relief could be assured them.

Evictions which are continuing in the cases of hundreds and even thousands are making the necessity for tents literally a problem of life and death. Babies and young children must live weeks without milk, on scraps of bread, no meat, no vegetables.

The National Miners' Relief Committee yesterday issued a most urgent appeal to the workers and sympathizers of the country to increase their contributions for relief. "There never was such a need before," the appeal declares. "A dollar a week will actually save the life of a child, five dollars will insure life for a baby for five weeks. These children of our class whose fathers are fighting that we may have a better world to live in, must not be left to die. All contributions should be sent to 611 Penn Ave., Pitsburgh."

In No Hurry to Probe Vare Election Fraud

WASHINGTON, May 30. — The Waterman committee investigating the Pennsylvania senatorial elections, in which Senator-elect William S. Vare defeated William B. Wilson, will conduct further inquiries in Philadelphia on July 19, Senator Waterman (R) of Colorado announced today.

Tho it has been proved that Vare stole the election and that vote-juggling was particularly flagrant in Philadelphia, the fake investigating committee is in no hurry to learn the facts.

PUSH MOVE FOR UNION BUILDING

Cloak Conference Sat. to Launch Drive

BOSTON, Mass, May 30.—Not only in New York, but in the out-of-town locals of the International Ladies Garment Workers' Union, some of the right wing elements are finally arriving at the conclusion that the union smashed by the Sigman war on the membership cannot be rebuilt without the aid of the left wing forces. This was demonstrated at a joint meeting of all the executive boards of the Boston locals held Tuesday.

Must Have Progressives.

Sigman's follower in the Boston union, vice-president Amdur, reported to the joint meeting that an "organization campaign" will be started. In the discussion that followed even some of the right wing members of the executive boards declared that without the participation of the progressive union members no organization work could be done. They went so far as to openly announce that without the election to leadership in the union of the progressives, no real union work could be accomplished, adding that a number of functionaries necessary to fill places on the executive boards could not be obtained unless the progressives participated.

After this discussion the Sigman vice-president declared that if progressives were elected as functionaries the entire locals would be expelled, as was done in New York and Chicago.

Posen Resigns.

Business agent Posen, last week sent in his resignation to the Boston union administration. His resignation was turned over to the board of directors.

Similar revolts against the union-breaking administration of the I. L. G. W. U. are developing nationally. In New York, the Tolerance Group,

RECORD MILITARY BUDGETS INSURE NEW AGGRESSIONS

Gettysburg Peace Talk Cloaks Threats

GETTYSBURG, Pa., May 30.—In an address, remarkable for its frank and undisguised espousal of the role of dominant imperialism now played by the United States among the capitalist world powers, President Calvin Coolidge, speaking here at the famous battle ground of the Civil War, yesterday served notice on these world powers that the United States hereafter would use every means at its command to enforce its world supremacy.

"Our Investments."

"The world-wide interest of the United States," he warned, "make us view with peculiar disfavor any danger of war among other nations. Our investments and trade relations are such that it is almost impossible to conceive any conflict anywhere on earth which would not affect us injuriously."

That the barely disguised threat of the United States to enforce its dominion was no mere verbal warning was emphasized by the Wall Street spokesman in the following words:

"Our country is making outlays in excess of those ever before made in time of peace for the purpose of national defense."

"Our naval force necessary for the protection of commerce," Coolidge declared, "needs to be strengthened in cruisers and other auxiliary craft. Such construction is already under way and plans are maturing for the necessary increases. Our air force is being steadily improved and enlarged."

"Peace and Stability."

Under a thin camouflage of seeking to "promote general peace and tran-

RED CROSS FIRM LAYS OFF MEN

Johnson Fires All Who Ask for Raise

(Special to the Daily Worker)

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J. (By Mail). — A large number of the yard workers have been fired and the rest are waiting for the same. A majority of the carpenters have been laid off and now they can take a long vacation for themselves. A majority of the painters have been laid off and now they can watch for their pay envelope. A number of the machinist were laid off some time ago, and another bunch will be laid off soon.

The workers in the gauze department have not had any work for weeks. The workers in the bandage department are handled like footballs. They are kicked around from one floor to the other. The work they get is so bad that they hardly make two dollars per day. And when any of the women workers in these departments dare to kick, the foreman is ready with his answer, "If you don't like it you can go home. There are plenty of workers who are ready to take your job for even less wages."

The workers in the warehouse slave like mules for 45 cents per hour, and when they ask for an increase, they are fired out of the factory.

The men workers in the glass department have all been fired and women have been hired to take their

WORKERS ARE READERS OF BEST BOOKS

Survey Shows Wage-Slaves Outdistance Lawyers and Doctors

WEST BADEN, Ind., May 30.—That the wage-slaves of capitalism, those who have to fight for their few precious spare moments of reading, are nevertheless the readers of the best literature, and that the lawyers, the doctors, the business men, the capitalist class, in other words, are practically indifferent to good reading, is the testimony of Charles H. Compton, assistant librarian of the St. Louis Public Library and first vice-president of the American Library Association.

In an address delivered here yesterday before the second general session of the American Library Association Convention, Compton gave the results of a survey he had made of hundreds of readers in several libraries.

Even the so-called intellectual, Compton's survey showed, is being outdistanced by the worker in the amount and quality of his reading.

THE kind of books Compton chose as his "standard" of good reading, it was noted, militated against the workers. He chose the so-called classics, some of the more "advanced" of the modern fiction authors and some of the poets. Nevertheless, his survey proved what those who best know the working class movement have always maintained: That the workers, mentally, morally and practically, are the constructive force of society even under the capitalist system.

"I took the records," Compton reported, "of approximately 100 readers of William James, 100 readers of Carl Sandburg, and 100 of Homer, Aeschylus, Sophocles and Euripides in translation. There was not a lawyer on the list of James or Sandburg or the Greek classics. There were a few doctors, a few ministers. But the bulk came from what we consider the uncultured and certainly the humble occupations."

A TEST letter sent out to these readers by Compton indicated that they "really understood and appreciated these books," Compton declared.

It is believed that if Compton's standard of good reading had been more nearly a general one, to include something of modern social problems, science, history and travel, the results would have been even more favorable to the workers.

NEGRO DELEGATE TO COMMUNIST CONVENTION TRAVELS MANY ROADS WITH EMPTY POCKETS

David A. Griffin, Negro delegate from Seattle to the National Nominating Convention of the Workers (Communist) Party, travelled more than 3,000 miles with empty pockets on trains of various sorts to arrive in time for the opening of the convention last Friday.

Griffin is one of the most active Negroes in the Communist movement.

Having made up his mind to attend the convention, Griffin did not let 3,000 miles and the fact that his pockets were empty stand in his way. At 9 a. m. May 13 he boarded a passenger train at Seattle, Wash., and made Avely, Idaho.

At this point he decided to try a different type of train and so swung himself aboard a freight that took him to Mosolu, Mont., where he caught the crack "Olympian," which landed him safely in Minneapolis on the morning of the 16th.

Griffin remained in Minneapolis for 24 hours, looking over the sights of the town, and then boarded the Pioneer Express at St. Paul. His next stop was Milwaukee, where he had an opportunity to get some food before catching another train within half an hour for Chicago.

At this point, after having covered almost two-thirds of his trip, Griffin experienced his first real difficulty. A "guardian of the law" began playing a game of tag with him. But Griffin arrived in the great packing center at 10 a. m. on the 18th. He immediately made connections with the Workers Party office in Chicago and remained in the city for two days.

Boarding an excursion train on the 20th, he went as far as Fort Wayne, Ind., where he hopped on a freight train for 30 more miles. Here somebody roared: "Hey, you! Come on down! Don't you know better than to ride a mail train?"

"I thought I was lost," Griffin said. "But fortunately the train began to move. And I moved out with it."

"After a short rest in Buffalo I went down to the Erie yards," Griffin continued. "But I was stopped by two husky 'bulls,' along with three other 'travellers,' an Italian and two Poles. I though my journey seemed ended and I had visions of spending the days of the convention in jail, far from home and friends. But I realized it was no time for social-democratic defeatism or compromise. Only revolutionary methods could save me. So I just broke away. Dodging thru several streets, I ran into a garage and slid under one of the cars. For two hours the two cops hunted for me but they never thought of looking under the cars. I resumed my journey later on top of a freight car."

Arriving at a small town, he wired to New York for money for a ticket. But after waiting for about five hours (the reply arrived later), he jumped aboard a slow-passing freighter and went on.

After riding to a small depot, he got a lift on a truck into New York City, arriving tired and dusty, at 6 a. m. on Friday, May 25.

The American Negro Labor Congress made arrangements for his stay in the city during the convention.

Railroad Labor Conference to Meet in Chicago June 2-3 to Prepare Battle

WORKERS FROM ALL SECTIONS TO PARTICIPATE

Meeting to Take Place This Week-End

By H. E. KAYE.

CHICAGO, May 30.—In Chicago, Saturday and Sunday, at Northside Turner Hall, 820 North Clark St., there will gather progressive railroad workers from all parts of the United States and from some points in Canada. Delegates from such far points as Edmonton, Alberta have already signified by letter their intention to attend.

This, the third conference of the International Railroad Amalgamation Committee, two prior conferences having been held in 1922 and 1925, is by far the most important one of all. Grave problems confront the railroad workers. Due to the almost utter disorganization of the railroad unions considered from a fighting standpoint the companies have been able to defeat every strike in the railroad industry since 1910. During the disastrous 1922 strike, company organizations comprising several crafts were set up on many of the country's largest systems. Widespread use of the spy system and blacklist are resorted to, with the result that thousands of our best union men have been driven from the industry.

Unemployment Widespread.

Unemployment, due to the speed-up "efficiency" programs of the companies, but particularly a result of the high development and ever-increasing use of machine technique, has reached the enormous total of [illegible] workers since 1923. More powerful locomotives, both steam and electric, the use of the auxiliary or booster locomotive giving greater tractive power, improved round houses and back shop machine methods, car loading to ever greater capacities, due to better truck spring placements and the use of the "Dalman" truck, improved car building and car repairing methods, the increasing use of such machines as the Jordan spreader and ditcher, shovel cranes, etc., in the track department; the use of the car retarder in hump switching yards; in the telegraph dispatching service the recent development of the "GRS" and "Universal" train control systems, are just a few cases illustrating the use of improved machine technique, among a staggering total of hundreds which a recent careful survey of the railroad industry has elicited.

One Device.

To show what all this means for the railroad workers, let us consider a little more closely but two of the above mentioned machine processes. Firstly, the car retarder: these are power-operated track brakes applied to the tracks of freight classification yards to control the speed of freight cars entering these tracks by gravity. The track brakes reduce the speed of the cars so that they come to a stop without damage to the cars or their contents. Where car retarders are not used, the speed of freight cars is controlled by car riders applying hand brakes. Today power car retarders are in use by which "trains of 100 cars are sorted like stacks of mail!" Their use not only speeds up the movement of classification but dispenses absolutely with the switchtenders and car riders. In some yards alone, as many as 150 workers have been laid off to swell the ever-increasing ranks of the unemployed.

The keynote of the conference, the most important point of the agenda, around which every other problem confronting the railroad worker revolves, is the organization of the unorganized. Of the 1,800,000 workers in the industry, approximately 40 per cent are organized. To the railroad unions, this spells ultimate disaster. Grave struggles are ahead. Straws in the wind are the recent cases of the Western trainmen and locomotive firemen, the C. & O. shop crafts and the wage cuts on some roads in the maintenance-of-way department.

Slogans of Struggle.

The militant progressives in the railroad industry have great tasks ahead of them. Let their slogans be:

Complete organization of the unorganized!

National, not system, agreements!

Closer consolidation toward complete amalgamation of the railroad unions!

A united front for better wages and working conditions all along the line!

A Labor Party!

The signals are clear—the main track beckons—"Throw 'er over, and pull her wide open"—Let's go!

Bored Yale Men Wallop Quite a Few Policemen

BOREDOM! This is the explanation offered by professors in the psychology department of Yale University for the riot here yesterday in which several hundred students took part and which resulted in the jailing of a half dozen.

It all began with a sewer. Awakened from their nocturnal slumbers by the pounding of a sledge hammer, students began to hurl cups, saucers and other bits of chinaware. Several of the collegians hustled down the campus. Within a few minutes, hundreds of others, spurred on by a sense of solidarity joined in the militant throng.

A flying squad sent out by the police department was received with fruit, eggs and bricks. Infuriated by the arrest of six of their comrades, over 200 students later stormed the local police station in effort to bring about their release, but in vain.

A contributing factor in causing today's riot, according to the university psychologists, is to be found in the fact that the freshmen were given a half-holiday, the upper classmen being left out of account.

The half-holiday was awarded to the freshmen for refraining from staging a riot in a theater after elaborate plans for the ceremony had been completed.

Relief Jobs Paid Grafters, Not Workers

The present forced investigation into the Tammany Hall street cleaning service not only shows the distribution of millions of dollars of graft among the appointees of Mayor James J. Walker and Governor Al Smith. Separate hearings now going on before Commissioner of Accounts J. A. Higgins and the Bronx County Court show also how workers of New York were defrauded of large portions of their wages by the Tammany graft system.

The testimony has shown too how many of the so-called relief jobs which Tammany Hall reported it gave out to hungry men at the height of the unemployment crisis last winter existed only on the City Hall propaganda releases and the bank books of the Walker-Smith lieutenants in public office.

J. A. Higgins

C. A. Magee

Testimony before Commissioner Higgins, who is conducting public hearings, and before the Bronx County Court, where Charles A. McGee, assistant general superintendent in the street cleaning department, is being tried for grafting, are to continue today.

Cross examination by District Attorney J. E. McGeehan in the Bronx trial showed that Tammany lieutenants hired a certain number of men for emergency street cleaning service at starvation wages, taking advantage of the unemployment crisis. They made out payroll vouchers for higher amounts, cashed the checks, paid off the workers at the lower rates and pocketed the difference. It was also shown that many dummy names were written on the payrolls, there being convenient loop-holes in the civil service regulations.

"On the last day of the racket I got $200 in cash and $284 in checks as my share," Benjamin P. Stoeber, former assistant foreman of the Cromwell garage, said in pleading guilty.

William J. Oswald, 4th Bronx district superintendent, is standing trial with McGee.

Similar practices are being uncovered in the hearings before Higgins, in spite of all that the Tammany bosses and higher salaried executives can do to keep the lid clamped on the system.

CITY LATE (AS USUAL) IN ROCK DUST PROTECTION

Danger Known 4 Years Without Action

In order to prevent another case similar to the case of the five radium victims suing the United States Radium Corporation for $1,250,000 the board of transportation yesterday declared that it would "take measures" to safeguard the lives of 1,500 subway construction workers, 75 of whom are said to be suffering from silicosis and doomed to die within five years.

Dust masks will be provided for the excavation workers and operators of the rock drills, and hose line connections to lay the dust which rises from the dry drills will be installed, it was promised.

Lungs of workers coated with rock dust are resulting in a death rate of one man a week from silicosis. Among many other harmful substances in the rock dust, chemists have found arsenic.

The cihy officials have known the danger for the last four years, but did nothing about it until public exposure of the danger was made two days ago.

LABOR SPORTS UNION APPEALS

Denounce Attempt To Break Organization

(Special to The Daily Worker)

Calling upon its membership to repudiate the "would-be splitters, Palm Uurtamo and Company," the executive board of the Labor Sports' Union recently issued an appeal condemning the action of this group in its recent attempt to break the ranks of the union.

The appeal follows a meeting of the executive board at which a number of decisions were adopted:

Meeting Illegal.

1. "That the meeting held on May 6, in the home of R. G. Palm, participated in by four members of the Executive Board—R. G. Palm, Ted Uurtamo, V. Wiitala, and V. Mellin—in conjunction with M. Lehto and G. Heimo of Detroit and Toivenen and Ahlrath of Chicago was illegal and that the steps it took were entirely unconstitutional.

2. "That R. G. Palm and Ted Uurtamo took part in this meeting with the deliberate purpose in mind of setting up a new and illegal Executive Board and splitting the Labor Sports Union.

3. "That the participation of Palm, Uurtamo, Wiitala and Mellin in this illegal meeting compels the Executive Board to raise the question of their removal from the committee.

4. "The Executive Board affirms its previous decisions that Paul Cline shall remain National Secretary of the L. S. U. until the convention and asks the National Executive Council to support this decision thru referendum.

Ignore Fake Secretary

5. "The Secretary shall immediately acquaint all clubs, sections and districts with the facts in the present situation, shall instruct them to ignore the new fake Secretary and Office, and to send all communications only to the National Office of the L. S. U. at 453 North Ave.

"The Executive Board is of the opinion that the basis of the present fight is the wrong outlook of the minority splitters of the Executive Board, which has not understood, and does not understand how to work towards the broadening out of the L. S. U. so to include American elements. The minority has shown repeatedly that it is interested merely in physical culture activity as an aim in itself, not in the broader aims of the workers sport movement."

The resolutions were passed unanimously by the National Executive Board at which the following were present: Clemens Forsen, Harry Miller, James Nikrin, Rudolph Sauser, and Paul Cline.

Dogs of War; German Imperialists Recruit Animals

The two dogs shown in the picture are the latest thing in cannon fodder. The German imperialists are training dogs to fight with the men in the next slaughter. The dogs will leap at their enemies and try to tear open their throats. The animals, like the men, are trained to wear gas masks. Every conceivable force is being utilized by the German imperialists in preparation for the next war.

Drive to Begin.

The drive of the membership to again establish the union conditions won after many years of bitter struggle and destroyed by the right wing, will be officially begun at the conference, of the representatives and chairmen of shops here. The conference which is sponsored as the first step in the campaign of the National Organizing Committee will be held in Webster Hall, 11th St. and Third Ave., Saturday morning, 10 o'clock.

Shop chairmen of registered and unregistered shops, and shop delegates elected by the workers in the unorganized and open shops will participate in this conference, which is conceded by all acquainted with the cloakmakers' struggles, to be of historic significance.

YOUNG MINERS PLAN CONFERENCE JUNE 9

By LEON PLATT

(District Organizer, Young Workers (Communist) League of District 8)

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., May 30.—Considerable interest has been aroused in the steps taken by the recent special Belleville convention of the United Mine Workers of America District 12 in calling a conference of the young miners at Belleville on June 9.

This youth conference is to take place in a period when the members of the U. M. W. A. are carrying on a bitter fight against the operators and the treacherous Lewis-Fishwick machine.

In their attack against the United Mine Workers of America of District No. 12, the coal operators have particularly concentrated upon the young miners. The separate mining agreement which is a sort of a Yellow Dog contract is particularly effecting the young workers in the mining industry. After the first step to lower the standard of living of the Illinois miners the operators put through a wage cut of 50 per cent for trappers, couplers, greasers, breakers, flaggers and other young miners. In addition to the problem of equalization of wages for all miners, young and adult, doing the same work, the young miners are faced with many other important tasks.

Machine Revolution.

The introduction of machinery revolutionized the mining industry and created special problems for the miners generally and particularly for the young miners. The first effect that the introduction of machinery had is the introduction of the terrific speed up system. The miners who are not used to working with this machinery are unable to stand the strain of that speed-up system and as a result of that are discharged and thrown out of their jobs by the operators. To work these machines the coal operators are hiring strong physically fit young miners to replace the adult coal diggers. This brings in the youth in ever increasing numbers to the mining industry. However, at the same time the introduction of this machinery under the present system threatens to throw out of the industry thousands of adult miners which may destroy the miners' union. The overproduction in the mining industry and the introduction of machinery absolutely demands a shorter working day.

The young miners must take up the fight for the six hour day and the five day week. The reorganization of the mining industry which is proposed by the Lewis machine and the operators to be carried out at the expense of the workers will in no way solve the present crisis in the industry. The mining industry does not suffer from too many miners, but from too long working hours. With the decline of the miners' union the employers are criminally neglecting the safety of the coal miners. The number of young miners under 18 years of age working under ground is increasing and it will be the task of the newly elected officers of District 12 to fight for the abolition of underground work for all young miners under 18 years of age.

The policy of the Lewis-Fishwick machine in collaboration with the coal operators to split the young from the adult miners resulted itself in the non-participation of the young miners in the present struggle and in the affairs of their union. It will be the task of the conference of the young miners to involve more actively the young miners in the struggle against the operators and the bureaucracy and also to develop an interest in the daily work of the miners union.

Class-Collaboration.

In the general campaign of the coal operators to establish the company union they introduced various features of the class-collaboration policy, such as company controlled sport teams, etc. This proved itself to be very effective to split the ranks of the mine workers and bring the young miners under the influence of the coal operators. It will be necessary for the June 9 youth conference to consider the problem of building the Labor Sports' Union and that it be under the true control of the miners' union.

The present unemployment crisis in the mining industry is greatly effecting the youth and forcing them to enter other even less paid occupations, to join the C. M. T. C., the army, the navy, etc. This conference of young miners will have to discuss not only the general role of American imperialism and militarism but also how to prevent unemployment and starvation from driving the young miners into the C. M. T. C. and the army. Besides the tasks of fighting for the special demands, the conference will also have to devise ways of bringing the young miners closer to the general struggles of the labor movement.

SARAH VICTOR, FORD AND "DAILY"

"Belt" Slaves Will Get Newspaper in Subscription Drive

A WOMAN stands outside the gates of an automobile factory in the streaming rain. Piled behind her and at her side are stacks of leaflets. There are several thousand of them. The rain soaks thru the top papers.

Then a whistle blows, the huge gates of the factory swing open and the long streams of workers pour out into the driving rain. They surround the woman. They want the papers she has. Tall, energetic, she hands them out good-naturedly. The pennies rattle in. The rain pours. Each worker goes off thru the rain with a paper in his pocket.

The Ford Worker.

The woman is Sarah Victor. The factory is Ford's in Detroit. And the paper, for which the men are so eager, is the "Ford Worker," the shop paper issued by the Workers (Communist) Party, and which Sarah Victor has helped to bring from an idea to a paid factory paper with a circulation of thousands.

With the same determination with which Sarah Victor sold the shop paper to the Ford workers in the Detroit rain, she has undertaken another job, this time for The DAILY WORKER.

The business of putting The DAILY WORKER into the home of every working man and woman in Detroit is the supreme task which Sarah Victor has undertaken in the automobile king's city. To the thousands of flivver slaves, Sarah Victor is bringing The DAILY WORKER.

Subscriptions Vital.

"I CANNOT emphasize strongly enough," said Sarah Victor in the business office of The DAILY WORKER following the National Nominating Convention, "the importance of pushing the subscription campaign thruout the country. It is on the basis of subscriptions that The DAILY WORKER must be built. It is The DAILY WORKER sub that brings the paper into the homes and into the lives of the militant American workers, not once or twice, but for months so that they come to understand the importance of their working class organ and of the Workers Party in leading and guiding the workers in their struggles.

"Every effort will be made to push the drive for subscriptions to The DAILY WORKER not only in Detroit but thruout every industrial center and in the poor farming sections of Michigan. We are in this fight to the finish."

COOLIDGE WARNS U. S. WILL FIGHT OTHER COUNTRIES

quility," the president served notice on Haiti, Nicaragua, China and other countries, subject to the aggression of American imperialism, that they need hope for no release from this condition. "Our further interest in these countries," he declared, "is to assist these people in establishing stability."

That the American capitalist class is aware that future events will bring inevitable class conflicts within the United States and that preparations against the certain rising of the working class are being made, was the gist of another section in his address:

"All nations are subjected to more or less domestic tumult. In such cases, the presence of adequate armed forces is the only practical method of protection for life and property."

Iron Necessity.

The same necessity, Coolidge hinted, which would force the suppression of uprisings at home would dictate the stamping out of such disorders even in foreign countries. "Our people are granted free access on the same basis as others into all the countries of the world. As a general policy, they go with the encouragement to engage in all kinds of enterprise. Our government necessarily has rights over its citizens and their property in whatever country they may be. . . . A government of the United States that failed in its duty to protect the lives and property of its citizens would be justly condemned."

Coolidge concluded what is believed to be the most jingoistic speech yet made by an American president, with the expected eulogy of the so-called peace treaties which are now being negotiated between the United States, France, Great Britain, Japan and Italy. These treaties have inaugurated "one of the most impressive peace movements the world has even seen," he declared. "Our government is a government of peace, not of war," he announced within ten minutes of his opening words which described the record military, naval and air preparations for the next war.

Crane Throws Worker Into Water; Drowns

BALTMIORE, Md., May 30.—L. Colefield, 35, was drowned yesterday when he was knocked overboard by a crane while working at pier 4, Locust Point.

According to witnesses of the incident, the man was unloading machinery from a freight car to a scow when the crane, which was being operated nearby, jumped the track causing a part of the machine to strike Colefield, forcing him into the water. Efforts by fellow workmen to rescue him were unsuccessful.

Old 'Wonders' Discovered By Labor Faker

PHILADELPHIA, May 30.—Illuminating sidelights on the reason why William D. Mahon, organizer of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employes was rather listless about a strike on New York's traction lines recently is found in an item in the Progressive Labor World which appeared recently:

"Wonders will never cease! The lion and lamb have decided to play the trolley game together, side by side, and in harmonious agreement and understanding. 'Fighting Bill' Mahon and T. E. Mitton have entered into a peace pact. For the past few years it has been gradually conceded that Mitton, big figure in Philadelphia Rapid Transit and father of the Mitten men and management idea, is a potent figure in establishing right relations between employer and employe.

"It is good for industrial America to see men like Mitten and Mahon working shoulder to shoulder."

The Progressive Labor World is a republican organ edited by Frank Feeney, president of the Elevator Constructors' Union and veteran G. O. P. spoilsman.

Many Injured in New Demonstrations

BELGRADE, May 30.—Several persons were suffering from wounds today as the result of fresh anti-Italian demonstrations here and elsewhere throughout Jugoslavia last night. The Jugoslav press publishes attacks against Italian encroachments in the Balkans.

Students gathered in front of the Diplomats' Restaurant and burned an Italian flag and a picture of Premier Mussolini, of Italy. They were dispersed by the police.

The opposition leader in the Jugoslavian parliament declared in a speech that "Jugoslavia does not fear a declaration of war by Italy."

BELGRADE, May 30. — A new note, protesting against the government's failure to take "effective counter measures to check the anti-Italian demonstrations," was handed to the Jugoslavian government today by the Italian minister.

VIENNA, May 30.—Reports from Belgrade state that disturbances between Italian nationals and Jugo-Slav students are continuing in spite of the efforts of the authorities to end them. A number of students are said to have been wounded during the trouble.

ARREST MANY IN THE ARGENTINE

BUENOS AYRES, May 30. — A reign of police terror has been loosed upon the workers in this city and vicinity under the pretense of an official investigation of the recent bomb explosion at the Italian consulate. A number of arrests of persons accused of anti-fascism have already been made and the prisoners are being held strictly incommunicado by the authorities.

Many more arrests are expected within the next twenty-four hours.

While the names of the arrested men have been kept secret by the police it is understood that one of them is a fugitive from Italy who only recently arrived on the Giulio Cesare.

YOUNG LENINIST LEAGUE CONGRESS

Membership Close to Two Million

MOSCOW, (By Mail).—The Eighth Congress of the Leninist Young Communist League of the Soviet Union is now in session in Moscow.

According to the organizational report delivered at the opening of the congress, the League had 1,936,977 members and 106,233 candidates on January 1, 1928. Twenty per cent of members and candidates are girls.

On January 1st, the league had 67,698 factory and village groups.

THREE DROWN IN COLORADO FLOOD

City Water Reservoir Endangered

GLENWOOD SPRINGS, Colo., May 30.—The Little River, tributary of the Arkansas, today took a toll of three lives near Salida. Two unidentified Mexican quarrymen were drowned when the bridge on which they were standing was washed away.

Alice Virginia Harper, three years old, was drowned when the flood-weakened bank of the stream on which she was standing caved into the water.

The city water reservoir at Salida was threatened by the flood. The Colorado River is at flood stage near here.

USSR Relief Expedition

MOSCOW, May 30. — A Soviet Union relief organization to search for Gen. Umberto Nobile and his 17 companions has been organized by Assistant Commissar for War Unslicht. A search party is being sent from Archangel. A USSR seaplane will fly over the Siberian coast looking for the missing expedition.

TIRED LAWMAKERS LEAVE THEIR TOIL

Sham Election Battles to Start

WASHINGTON, May 30.—Having done their bit faithfully for big business, senators and congressmen today began their exodus from Washington, following the adjournment of congress yesterday. Most of them feel proud of the record of the 70th Congress, which is one of the most reactionary in recent years, and are preparing to continue doing their masters' work in the nomination and election campaigns of the two chief capitalist parties.

The mock mud-slinging battles of the two parties are now expected to start on a large scale. The democrats will probably make liberal use of the revelations that the republican party received $260,000 of the Continental Trading Co.'s oil-smeared liberty bonds thru the hands of Harry F. Sinclair. The republicans are also expected to do their part in "showing up" the democratic party, all leading to the great arena in November, when the two stuffed dummies will engage in a sham battle to determine just what section of big business will loot the country during the next four years.

SEND TROOPS TO BREAK UP STRIKE

Austrian Soldiers Sent Against Miners

VIENNA, (By Mail).—Troops have been sent to suppress a strike by the coal miners in the Obersteiermark and Karnten districts, according to reports received here.

Even the Christian Social Miners Union has adopted a resolution expressing solidarity with the strikers.

NEGRO HELD 13 YEARS ON LIE

Barely Escaped Being Lynched Once

COLUMBIA, S. C., May 30. —Once having narrowly escaped lynching then jailed for thirteen years on conviction of assault on a white woman who now admits his innocence, Ben Bess, Negro, was today freed.

Only July 6, 1914, the husband of the complainant, whose identity has never been revealed, swore out a warrant charging Bess with criminal assault. A mob formed, and a deputy sheriff held it at pistol point while another spirited him away. He was found guilty and sentenced to thirty years' imprisonment. He always averred his innocence.

Yesterday, the woman who caused his imprisonment signed an affidavit:

"Since I have not much longer to live, I hereby declare that my testimony on the trial of Ben Bess to have been false." She gave no reason for her falsity.

MOSCOW, May 30.—The International Red Aid organized a meeting here to protest against the trial of the Communist Party of Italy. Representatives of the Communist International, the Red International of Labor Unions and the International Red Aid spoke.

Mysterious fires have occurred in various parts of Italy. In Ferrara the fascist trade union house was burned, while in Naples the Tramway depot was razed to the ground. In Porto Risa the aerdrome containing five planes burned down.

BUENOS AYRES, May 30.—The Italian consul here, Cappani, who charged that anti-fascists were responsible for the bombing of the consulate, was a former member of the fascist militia who was responsible for the murder of many Communists and socialists in December 1925 in Florence and for the destruction of the Free Masons' Lodge in Toscana.

Cappani persecuted anti-fascists and confiscated their papers.

The Argentine press has published numerous protests against the actions of the fascist consul.

ers, furnished bonds for their later appearance in court.

To Continue Picketing.

In a statement issued later, Murdoch declared, "In spite of the increasing police terror, picketing will be continued in full force."

A mass meeting held by the Textile Mills Committee after the release of the arrested leaders was one of the largest ever held in the strike. All strike meetings held in the past few days have more than doubled in size, over two thousand coming to hear speakers arranged by the T. M. C. and other sympathetic organizations.

With the seventh week of one of the most unanimous big strikes ever affected in American labor history rapidly drawing to a close, the ranks remain as solid as on the first day of the walkout that completely suspended operations in 58 factories.

Stocks Tumble.

Despite the rapid tumbling of the value of stocks in the textile corporations the greatest majority of them still realize that an attempt to open would be mere folly, the only scabs they could hope to get being a few straw bosses and superintendents. A few of them, however, tried to run one or two sample goods looms with the aid of their petty foremen. The daily picket demonstrations halted most of this, however.

The officialdom of the American Federation of Textile Operatives, now part of the United Textile Workers, which claims only a few thousand skilled workers in their membership, still refuses to participate in the picketing.

New Die-Hard Attack

Sir Joynson-Hicks, one of the most notorious die-hards in the British government, has launched a new attack on the Soviet Union. He is attempting to force a complete break in commercial as well as diplomatic relations.

ARREST 9 FOR ALLEGED PLOT

Ecuador Government Fears Revolt

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador, May 30.—Nine men, charged with attempting to overthrow the present regime, are reported to be in jail in Quito yesterday. Several of them were seized as they attempted to cross the Peruvian border, according to the official statements.

While the government refuses to admit that the alleged conspiracy is of any importance, it is known that considerable apprehension exists in official circles as to what action the masses of peons may take in event of a crisis.

It has been officially stated, however, that the government will rely on the army if necessary.

The government, whose finances were recently investigated by an American commission headed by Professor Kemmerer, has won the suspicion of the majority of the peons by its open favoritism of the bankers and commercial classes.

DIES IN AUTO MISHAP.

DETROIT, May 30.—Daniel Trombley, 38, was charged with negligent homicide today following the death of Mrs. Harriette Marie Read, 33, of Chicago, who was injured when Trombley crashed his car into a semaphore. Mrs. Mae Van Zandt, 35, of Detroit, a passenger with Mrs. Read in Trombley's car is in a serious condition.

ARGENTINE PORT STRIKERS STILL TYING UP SHIPS

Police Attempt to Smash Walkout

BUENOS AYRES, May 30. — The strike of the harbor workers at Bahia Blanca was in full swing yesterday with the police attempting to terrorize the strikers by repressive action, according to reports from the port. The authorities are preparing to take further coercive measures.

Picket lines are growing, in spite of the efforts of the local police to smash them in much the same way as at Rosario, the strike leaders report. The lines are holding firm.

Growing sentiment among other industrial workers in the port and town may lead to a general sympathetic walk-out, it is intimated. The railroad men are said to be especially favorable to such action.

A dozen or so vessels lying in the small port are completely tied up and the owners are urging the authorities to act in order that they may not lose thousands of dollars by the delay in unloading.

The Bahia Blanca strike is the latest of a number of harbor strikes which have broken out in Argentine ports within the last month.

SHANTUNG

By H. T. TSIANG.

Don, Don, Don, the drum is calling;
Lun, Lun, Lun, the artillery is roaring
Japan is in Shantung, Shantung,
In Shanghai far away
We can still work for a living.

Hashi, yi, hashi yi, buzzing be, buzzing bee
God has damned me
Hard work comes to me.
My mouth is thirsty
My stomach never so empty
Why don't you teach me to live without bread
Papa, mama.

The whip is cracking;
The click is my ear
A look at the foreman's face
And my heart always blackens
Think ye,
He can stop my tears and my ears
That ring with pain.

Brother, sister, I have a message for you.
Are ye a worker, are ye a farmer?
We are alike then.
Brother, sister,
We have no wrong when we are born
We toil yet have no bread,
We spin yet we have no shirt
We do building yet we have no shed

Awake ye, brother,
Come hand in hand
To their defeat.

Brother, sister, there is a message for you
Japan occupies Shantung
But the toilers of Japan they are with us
Not Tanaka the oppressor
Not Tanaka the murderer
But the toilers of Japan will join us
We together will crush Tanaka

Brother, sister,
You are a farmer, you are a worker?
Hark to the cock.
A new day is coming.

Out of ruthless mass-murder
March to Manchuria
South of Canton
Away with the exploiters
Then the sky with blood is red
We all will have our bread.

May 25, 1928. N. Y. C.

(2) Lun, lun, lun, is the expression for the boom of heavy artillery.

(3) Hashi, yi, hashi, yi corresponds to "heave, ho." It is used by coolies when picking up or pulling at heavy loads.

JOHNSON & JOHNSON FACTORY CORRESPONDENT GIVES 10 COMMANDS TO FELLOW WORKERS

(By a Worker Correspondent)

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J. (By mail).—Here are ten commandments for our fellow workers in the Johnson and Johnson plant. And when we all live up to these, we can better our miserable conditions, and enjoy the fruits of our labor. "Every worker a Worker Correspondent," should be our slogan from now on, and then on with our fight until we win.

The Workers' Ten Commandments.

1. Unite with your fellow workers of all nationalities and fight, together with him, to bring about a better living for yourself as well as for all workers.

2. Do not be a boot-lick, because that only helps one boss' cause and by doing this you are betraying your fellow workers.

3. Do not bring presents for the boss, for you are his slave, and he does not deserve your present. On the contrary, you are the one who should receive the fruits of your labor.

4. Do not spy on your fellow worker. The organized force of the workers will punish you for this. For the interests of the bosses are not the same as yours.

5. Do not spend your time in the saloons and gambling places for by doing this you are ruining yourself and your family, and become easy prey for the boss.

6. Do not let yourself be fooled by the lies of the priests, for they are your most dangerous enemies. They serve not your interests but those of your masters. They do not want you, they only want your money.

7. Do not differentiate between the workers as to whether they are foreigners or Americans, whether they are one nationality or the other. All are workers equally exploited.

8. Instead of the capitalist papers, read the workers' papers, which will teach you how to fight against your exploiters. The capitalist papers are poisoning you with their propaganda not to fight your bosses.

9. Join a labor organization, come to the Workers' Homes, become a fighter for your class by joining hands with your fellow workers who are fighting your cause. For information for joining the Workers (Communist) Party write to 57 Broome St., Newark, N. J.

10. When The DAILY WORKER is given to you, accept it and read it. When you have read it do not throw it away, but pass it on to your fellow worker. Subscribe to The DAILY WORKER, for this is your only weapon in the fight against the bosses. The DAILY WORKER is your paper. Become a Worker Correspondent. Write about the conditions in your department.

Issue Injunction Against Philadelphia Hosiery Pickets, Correspondent Says

AJAX, FEDERAL, EMMET MILLS IN GROWING STRIKE

Mass Picketing Called Urgent Need

(By a Worker Correspondent)

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., (By Mail).—The strike of the hosiery workers of the Ajax and Federal Mills in Philadelphia is receiving attention from the bosses' tools, the judges. An injunction against picketing has been issued at the Federal Mill where the attack of the bosses is the most severe and the strike against further wage cuts is being bitterly fought.

Picketing.

At the Ajax Hosiery Mill picketing is going on, but what is needed is mass picketing and organization of the unorganized.

The boss is sending his work to little country towns like Phoenixville. The union officials should see that these places are organized. This is important as the capitalist owners of the hosiery mills, at their recent conference, mapped out plans to begin operations in small towns, thereby escaping the unions. They hope to transfer some of the most backward unionists to instruct the unorganized workers and when the unions in Philadelphia call a strike, the bosses, having their mills in the country towns, can be independent of the unions and will crush the workers.

Organize the unorganized hosiery workers in all branches of the hosiery industry. A plentiful display of pickets at the Federal Mill is necessary. The boss fears picketing, and mass picketing will help win this strike at the Emmet Mill, 12th and Race Sts. which has just gone on strike. Picketing ought to go on all the time and efforts ought to be made to force all those in the mill to strike.

Those on strike should cooperate with The DAILY WORKER. It is their paper and it will fight for their interests. News of developments will be published by it.

Bosses' Offensive.

The workers must be made to understand that these strikes are but forerunners of an attempt to crush their union. They must fight this attempt and not allow the capitalist exploiters to break down their standards of living.

The fine weather is here. Open air meetings of the strikers should be held near the union hall or in the recreation park in the heart of the workers' district, Kensington. Then the workers affected by the hosiery strike could bring their struggle to the attention of all the workers. This would greatly help to win the strike.

Our slogan should be, mass and militant picketing and organization of the unorganized. The workers who are receiving the fruits of "cooperation" with the bosses, should take a decided stand against the capitalist owners of the hosiery industry or they will see the destruction of their union and be forced into company unions. There should be cooperation among the workers against the bosses of the mills.

MANY JOBLESS IN CALIFORNIA

Ford Plant Was Closed For Year

(By a Worker Correspondent)

LOS ANGELES, Cal., (By Mail).—While employment conditions in Washington and Oregon were seriously affected by unfavorable weather and curtailment of the lumber industry, California had an overwhelming surplus of labor embracing practically all lines of work, according to the monthly report for April just issued by the U. S. department of labor.

"In Los Angeles and vicinity, the largest surplus of labor was in the building trades and oil field work, the government's survey said. During April many plants here operated with reduced forces, but those manufacturing agricultural and irrigation equipment worked full crews, the report stated.

Ford Plant Closed a Year.

There is no unemployment in the United States, Henry Ford told reporters in London, England, a month or so ago. But even Ford's local plant was practically closed for a year previous to the auto king's false statement to the English press. His Los Angeles plant started operation recently; and the line of job-seekers was a block long on the opening day.

Applicants had to strip themselves of all clothing, and an up-to-date medical examination followed. "It takes a strong man to stand the strain of the speed-up system in Ford's plants," a former employe of the richest man in the world said, as he was standing in line waiting for another chance to slave for a living. "In this city of "true industrial freedom" men are found who are willing to scab on scabs, as will be pointed out in another article.

Where Over 200 Miners Perished in Blast

More than 200 miners perished in the explosion in the Mather Collieries mine at Mather, Pa. The picture shows the removal of some of the victims on stretchers. Coal company and state troops patrolled all the approaches to the scene of the disaster, preventing all but the company men from entering the grounds.

RAZOR WORKER GETS $16 AFTER 5 YEARS

(By a Worker Correspondent)

With the season in full swing at the Autostrop Safety Razor Co. many apply for work. Little do these applicants realize under what conditions they will be forced to work.

Beginners receive the nominal amount of $12 per week. For this they work 48 hours a week. Their working day begins at 7:45 a. m. and ends at 5 p. m. with a relief of one half an hour for lunch.

The company maintains a lunchroom at which they claim to sell food at cost price. The restaurant, however, is not any more reasonable than others which the workers would ordinarily patronize. The food is so poor that the majority of the workers bring their own lunches. Those who do eat the food generally leave half of it in disgust.

Murmurs of discontent are heard all around, but because of the shortness of the lunch period little can be done about it. What is the reason for only one half an hour for lunch? So that we workers have no opportunity for coming together to voice our discontent? Or is it so that we will not be able to come into contact with other workers from neighboring factories and so discuss our terrible conditions?

Cut Hands.

There are different kinds of work in this plant, such as blade examining, packing, and machine work. The lot of the blade examiners is indeed hard. They work under very strong lights which we all know have harmful effects on the eyes. Also the work is very dangerous and requires the constant use of peroxide, iodine and other first aid treatment.

It is not at all unusual for us to see girls walking around with bandaged hands or even fainting. The reward for exposing themselves to these conditions is the measly sum of from $14 to $18 per week.

The Autostrop Co. requires its workers to work one hour and 15 minutes overtime. Excuses to be released from working overtime are seldom accepted. If we workers are excused we must work on Saturday to make up our share of the nightly overtime.

Time and a half is paid for the first hour while the other 15 minutes is paid straight. We workers, however, are led to believe that we are being paid for time and a half for the whole time. This adds a bit to our poor salaries of course, but in the end our wages amount only to a few dollars even with the nightly overtime. We workers are certainly exploited to the greatest extent possible.

Pay For Fun.

One of the company's devices is to conduct an annual outing. You would expect to hear that we get paid for the half-day spent on the excursion, but this is not so. The company is mean and cheap enough to deduct two hours pay out of the four. This cut naturally diminishes our already small enough wages.

To add to the above grievances there is the fact that advancement is very slow if at all. As an example, I will take the case of a Miss X. This girl has worked in the Autostrop Co. for five years. As a beginner, she was a packer, earning $12 a week. Now after so many years, Miss X. is still a packer, but receives $16 a week. This is an average raise of less than one dollar a year. Is this what they call advancement?

Knowing that The DAILY WORKER is a paper which fights for the interests of all the workers, organized and unorganized, I am making my appeal thru it. I therefore urge you, workers of the Autostrop Co., to unite and organize. Fight for your interests.

—AUTOSTROP.

MR. JOHNSON TO BUY NEW SLAVES

New Brunswick to Have Rival in England

places. Naturally the women get much less than the men were getting.

In the napkin department the speed-up has become so big that production has almost been doubled. But the wages have remained the same. The workers are revolting against this inhuman exploitation. The napkin department is working day and night. The workers on the night shift work for twelve hours, and as a result of that the work is piled in a short time and the workers will soon be laid off here too. The mothers can then wait in vain for the bi-weekly pay envelope, and the children can cry in vain for bread. Mr. Johnson will not hear them. The interests of Mr. Johnson demand that this be so and the lives of the workers do not matter in this case. Whether they have food to eat or not does not matter, as long as Johnson gets his profits.

Mr. Johnson recently visited England and looked over slaves in his factory there. He also bought a new factory in Canada and one in Massachusetts. The profit he is making now on his workers in New Brunswick is not enough for him, he wants some more from other workers whom he can exploit better than us here. Mr Johnson is so greedy and profit hungry that the workers have given him the name of "cheap Johnson." But this is not the solution of the problem to better our condition.

What we have to do first is to see that the various nationalities do not fight against each other but all unite against their common enemy the boss. All workers of all nationalities are equally exploited and therefore they must fight united against their exploiters.

KIVIATIS.

JAIL UNEMPLOYED WORKERS ON LOS ANGELES STREETS

Industry Stagnant as Thousands Are Idle

(By a Worker Correspondent)

LOS ANGELES, Cal., (By Mail).—Francis I. Jones, director general of the United States Employment Service, who has just made a governmental survey of the unemployment situation in this state, says in part, as follows:

Starvation Record.

The orchard and farm work which began in March will continue, Mr. Jones tells the world. No stop to it at all. So we are led to believe that "prosperity" is here to stay. Herb's hat is in "the ring," and his "starvation" record may be overlooked under such favorable condition of continuous work—paid for in sunshine and G. O. P. promises.

Orange harvesting has begun in Tulare county, and cotton chopping in King county will begin immediately, the government official announces, to offer additional jobs for workmen.

Well, the sunkist orange growers are generally long on climate and short on change around pay day. And King Cotton is likewise a very poor paymaster. The cheapest men on the overcrowded slave market are hired to work in the cotton fields. So it is now up to the workers in the counties of King and Tulare to organize—in order to chase the wolf from the doors of the toilers and into the front yards of fruit barons and "royal" masters.

"Lumber mills have operated with reduced forces and the oil industry remains curtailed," the government report further stated.

The lumber workers are hard hit in the states of Oregon and Washington as well, according to other sources of information. And California oil? Well, numerous workers bought oil stock and paid for same out of small savings made during the war. Some of them are still the owners of artistic-looking slips of paper—but the oil promoter artists, who issued the stuff, are holding the cash. What about the C. C. Julian oil graft case? It has been before the courts for a couple of months—and is still going strong with legal technicalities.

Can't See It, Tho.

"Construction work is steadily increasing now," Director General Jones announced in referring to California generally. Nice. But nothing of that sort to be noticed in this city. Shortly before the St. Francis dam disaster, March 13, Mr. Scharrenberg, secretary, California Federation of Labor made a kick because the state did nothing to provide work for the unemployed. The secretary, besides criticizing the A. F. of L. for its stand on the Box immigration bill, also pointed to a law violation by the board of public works in this connection. The next day Governor Young announced a $50,000,000 road building program to be started immediately. But nothing has been done yet, as far as the writer knows.

"The larger plants here were in full operation recently and manufacturers of agricultural and irrigation machinery were reported working full forces." Good. But where are the "larger plants" in Los Angeles located? That "tire plant," referred to by Mr. Jones, isn't built yet. And the rest regarding large plants is mostly hot air "prosperity" stuff. This city is not a manufacturing center, except for the making of crooks and invisible governments. It is, however, a Mecca for tourists who want to be sharked out of their cash.

"The labor surplus at Long Beach has decreased lately." Glad to hear it. But how much, Mr. Jones? The labor surplus around the slave market in Los Angeles has decreased also. Not because of more jobs, however, but simply because idle workers are either made jail birds, or told to leave this "oasis of abundance" for a healthier climate along the highways and byways of this state and nation. The same thing is done in Long Beach and every other city in this "land of liberty."

Backyard-Cleaning Bookkeeper.

Mrs. Rogers, self-appointed manager of the new free job bureau, 212 South Spring St., continues to talk about success locating jobs at any wage. "Here we have nearly 1,700 heads of families asking for work of any kind," she declared today. Her latest "success," as reported by an afternoon paper, was the location of a woman who "could use a man for a few hours to clean her backyard." A bookkeeper was sent. "He went out and the lady put him to work. He spent the rest of the day at it, without lunch, but he was happy for he was going to feed the kids at supper time," the manageress went on.

The remarkable thing about the institution is the fervor with which men grasp for any opportunity. Mrs Rogers declared. The bookkeeper, she said, when asked "do you want to work?" replied simply, "where is it?"

Mrs. Roger didn't state what kind of luck, if any, the rest (1,699) of those "heads of families" had on that same day. Or was it only one short job for 1,700 job-seekers? Well "there is still considerable unemployment in Los Angeles," Francis I. Jones, director general of the United States Employment Service, said.

City Jails Job-Seekers.

The City Council appropriated $25,000, 14 weeks ago, for the purpose of creating a municipal service bureau for jobless and homeless men at 425 Central Ave. This bureau was a temporary affair. It was operated by the department of social service only for men who had been in the city less than three weeks. Jobs in the city parks were given at the rate of 40 cents per hour. No one, however, was permitted to work longer than a total of three days. After that they were expected to beat it out of the city with the $5 saved up. If they didn't act quick enough they went to jail as "vags."

CALL SHERIFF TO EXPEL MILITANTS OF BLAINE LOCAL

Woman-Jailer Hardesty Turns Trick for Lewis

(By a Worker Correspondent)

WHEELING, W. Va. (By mail).—An example of how the Lewis machine works was revealed at Blaine, Ohio at a recent meeting of the Blaine local.

The sub-district officialdom in a final frantic effort to prevent the sub-district convention at Bellaire, sent telegrams to "loyal" locals, calling special meetings. The purpose of these meetings was to rally the few remaining "loyal" members together for a final effort to confuse the rank and file as to the true purpose of the convention.

The stronghold of the Lewis machine in this district is the Blaine local of some twenty-five well-fed members. Therefore William Robert, secretary of the sub-district, and a gang of international organizers came here with silver tongues to tell the "poor ignorant" people that the leadership of the Save-the-Union Committee is Bolshevistic and Communistic.

However, Roberts and his gang were royally welcomed by the rank and file of the local who showered him with questions and he was a perfect personification of confusion himself.

Calling to his cohorts, who in a drunken orgy the night before were rounded up to attend the meeting, he asked that a motion be passed to throw out all who questioned his policies. Many motions were passed but no action was taken. In the meantime, the meeting of 125 dwindled down to 30 members.

So confused was Mr. Roberts that he almost forgot his friend, Sheriff Clyde Hardesty, erstwhile escorter of the 51 Lansing women to the county jail. Sheriff Hardesty, of Belmont county, nationally prominent as an escort, and notorious as a strikebreaker, was summoned.

Arriving at the meeting, he walked to the platform, shook hands with the sub-district officials (must have met before) and asked what he could do to help them. Mr. Roberts pointed out the men who had held up his eloquent speech for two and one half hours. After the militant rank and file leaders were ordered out, the 22 "loyal" members continued the meeting and Mr. Roberts and the international organizers were left in peace.

CLOAK CHAIRMEN RALLY TO PARLEY

Saturday Conference to Open Offensive

After the enthusiastic meeting of thousands of cloak and dressmakers in Cooper Union Monday night, the attention of the masses of workers in the ladies garment industry is turning toward the coming conference of shop chairmen and representatives, which begins at 10 o'clock Saturday morning in Webster Hall, 11th St. and Third Ave.

While the workers in the cloak trade have had many conferences in the recent history of the struggle against both the bosses and the right wing International Union officialdom, the Saturday conference is assuming a role of extraordinary importance in the discussions at the workers' gathering places.

Representative Meet

Signs multiply rapidly that this conference will be genuinely representative of the overwhelming majority of the shops in the entire trade. This can be seen from credentials already flowing into the offices of the National Organizing Committee.

The official launching of a unionization drive for the industry will be the main work of the conference. The industry, formerly a stronghold of unionism, is almost completely open shop due to the war on the membership carried on by the socialist right wing officialdom of the International, the bosses and the police.

Representatives from hundreds of open shops, as well as chairmen from the few union shops left will participate in the drive to regain good working conditions in the trade.

Hyman Gives Statement

"The bosses saw clearly that their agents, Sigman and Schlesinger were rapidly losing ground and that the cloakmakers' offensive to rid the trade of pogrom leaders was rapidly gaining momentum. They therefore granted the 40-hour week on paper, so that Sigman could use the publicity to throw dust in the eyes of the workers." This was the statement made yesterday by Louis Hyman, chairman of the N. O. C. after the right wing Jewish Daily Forward triumphantly announced that Sigman had succeeded in obtaining the bosses' statement.

"Sigman and the Forward try to make it appear to be a great victory gained by Sigman's prowess," said Hyman, "The 40-hour week was to go into effect on June 1, according to the agreement won by the bitter struggles of 1926, thereby voiding even a paper victory for Sigman." He continued, "Secondly, and most important is the fact that the employers do not intend to allow the 40-hour week anyway."

TAMMANY GRAFT FUND INCREASING

Higher-Ups Are Being Shielded

Disclosures in the Tammany street cleaning graft investigations indicated the existence of additional forms of robbery when witnesses before Commissioner of Accounts Higgins yesterday at the hearing in his office in the municipal building testified that the city has paid $15 for the use of dump scows for which private concerns have hired for $12; that the Street Cleaning Department, among other things has consistently violated the civil service law and has "jumped" the list; that there is no check-up of emergency men employed and other evidences of graft and inefficiency.

Graft Years Old.

At the same time further disclosures at the trial of Charles A. McGee, assistant general superintendent of the Street Cleaning Department and William J. Oswald, superintendent of the Bronx district, showed the existence of graft dating back to 1924 to a total of over $400,000 and that at times 108 fictitious names were carried at the one garage of which William J. Lougheed, self-confessed grafter, was foreman. Lougheed and his assistant Benjamin Stother are witnesses for the state in the prosecution of McGee and Oswald.

Shield Taylor.

In the so-called investigation now being conducted by Commissioner Higgins at which apparently every attempt is being made to shield Alfred A. Taylor, head of the City Street Cleaning Department, from responsibility if not complicity in the graft, it developed that "emergency" sweepers and drivers are appointed individually by the foremen of various districts. The only record of emergency men is on the payrolls where the graft is collected in wholesale fashion.

Planes from the U. S. S. R. are hunting the lost flyers.

URGE WORKERS TO HONOR HAYWOOD

Meet a Demonstration for Class Struggle

Calling on the militant workers of New York to make the Haywood Memorial Meeting on Friday a demonstration for the class struggle, William W. Weinstone, organizer of District 2 of the Workers (Communist) Party, yesterday issued the following statement:

"Dear Comrades:

Friday, June 1, 8 P. M. at the Central Opera House, the workers of New York will honor the memory of the militant champion of American workers—William D. Haywood.

The New York workers will honor the services of that great leader of the American revolutionary movement who was a pioneer in the establishment of the trade union movement and who helped in the economic and political development of the working class of this country.

Haywood stands out as a towering figure in American labor history. The battles in which he has been engaged have been milestones in the development of the toilers. He has been persecuted. He has been imprisoned. He has been hounded by the capitalist class because they saw in him a force for the organization of the workers, for instilling the workers with class consciousness and determination for the overthrow of the capitalist system.

Though Haywood has been the founder of the Industrial Workers of the World which has given to the American labor movement fine traditions of class determination and struggle, he went over from this organization that he founded into the ranks of the Communist Party because he recognized in the Communist Party the real leader of the working class for the emancipation of the proletariat and thus carried over into the Communist Party the best traditions of the syndicalist movement of this country.

It is the duty of every communist, of every revolutionary worker to be present at the meeting to commemorate the services and battles of William D. Haywood for working class emancipation, to honor the memory of a fighter, a revolutionist, a communist. Let this Memorial Meeting be a demonstration for the class struggle, for more determined, for more energetic, for more revolutionary struggle against the class enemy and for the organization of the workers for the overthrow of capitalism.

DOCTORED FOOD GIVEN NEGROES

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., May 30.—Claiming that they were served food deliberately rendered unpalatable, Garland Anderson, Negro playwright, and Louis Fremont Baldwin, a Negro attorney, today joined in a suit asking $5,000 damages from Charles Compton, proprietor of a local hotel chain.

Anderson, former San Francisco bell-boy, whose play, "Appearance" has been running here for more than a month, asserts that employees of one of Compton's restaurants admitted loading the food served him with pepper and salt in order to force him not to patronize the place. Andersen and Baldwin charge violation of the Personal Liberties Act.

Their complaint states that in addition to the salt and pepper, they found a foreign substance that tasted like and in their opinion was epsom salts.

FUR BOSS YIELDS TO JOINT BOARD

Strike Defeated Right Wing Treachery

Definite evidence to prove that the furriers are taking the offensive in their ten months struggle against the right wing officials of the fake Joint Council and the bosses, was given by the leaders of the Joint Board Furriers Union, when they announced that an employer withdrawing recognition from the union was compelled to settle with the Joint Board after a two-day strike.

Lederman and Sobelman, 146 W. 26th St., hitherto an independent union shop having a separate agreement with the Joint Board, was for the last few weeks regularly visited by agents of the right wing Joint Council. The boss could not resist the alluring offers made to him by the scab union. In the hope of securing more intensified exploitation of his workers, the employers joined the bosses' association, thereby automatically breaking the agreement with the Joint Board and signing one with the Joint Council. The bosses' association has "contractural relations" with the fake union. They then told their workers to register in the Joint Council.

Instead of doing this the workers walked out and went to the Joint Board headquarters. After a shop meeting there, a strike was declared. After a two-day tie-up the bosses were compelled to withdraw from membership in the Associated Fur Manufacturers, and again sign up with the Joint Board.

This is one of the most decisive victories to be gained by the fur workers in mony months of bitter struggle. Its effect on the market, where the workers gather, was electrical. The victory gained against the McGrady-Stetsky gangs was the sole topic of conversation. Especially significant is this settlement because of its being an open test of strength. For two days the right wing had mobilized all its followers and machine men to provide scabs for the struck firms. They met with complete failure in these attempts.

BROWN, KREMER FOR TAMMANY

Taxi Drivers to Form a Real Union

Two hundred fifty taxi drivers and owners at a mass meeting at Bryant Hall, 42nd St. and Sixth Avenue, Monday night witnessed the exposure of two would-be betrayers of the cabmen, an attorney and a taxi editor, who in the past few weeks have been vying with each other for the opportunity of turning the taxi vote over to Tammany Hall in the coming election.

Admits Connection

Irving I. Kremer, an attorney with offices in the Paramount Building, admitted before a meeting of his recently formed Taxicab Drivers Mutual Protective Association, Monday, that he has been holding conferences with Judge Olvany, leader of Tammany Hall. Olvany, according to Kremer, has made "the highest kind of promises" to "help" the taxi drivers. Kremer did not say what this "help" was.

When attacked from the floor by H. A. Innes Brown, editor of the Taxi Weekly, a trade paper, Kremer showed that Brown was himself only a tool of Tammany Hall. Brown has only recently announced the launching of a taxi drivers' political party. In the May 21 issue of the DAILY WORKER, a detailed exposure of his game was printed showing that Brown like Kremer is planning, at the last moment, to turn over the votes of the cabmen to the Tammany graft-saturated administration.

Samuel Shapiro, a rank and file taxi driver arose in the meeting with a motion demanding the resignation of fourth deputy police Commissioner Ruttenberg, whose activities in the hack bureau has resulted in the loss of licenses by hundreds of cabmen. Kremer immediately applied the steam roller to silence Shapiro. Another taxi driver arose to demand democracy in the organization, but fared no better than Shapiro.

Brown was interrupted in his talk by Kremer who charged that Brown had demanded $250 for his cooperation through publicity in the Taxi Weekly in carrying out Kremer's plan of getting the drivers' votes for Tammany Hall.

Taxi drivers it has been learned, are quietly forming a trade union which will really fight for the protection of the cabmen. While no publicity has been given to the plan, it is understood, that the organization is planning a mass meeting in the near future.

Committee Named to Soft-Pedal Hoover Fund

WASHINGTON, May 30.—Efforts to soft-pedal the slush fund of Herbert Hoover are seen in the unprecedented action of the house in naming a campaign expenditures' committee when a senate committee is already on the job. The committee, is dominated by republicans known to be decidedly favorable to Hoover.

Hoover's slush fund has been mounting steadily and is now well past. $200,000, a higher total than has thus far been admitted by any of the candidates.

Congress Adjourns

Congress has come to the close of one of its most memorable sessions.

Nearly one thousand new laws were passed, and all were passed with one general dominating principle—to conserve the interests of the largest finance-capitalists and to reinforce these interests with the armed power of the State in aggressive action against all countries of the world.

Not one law was passed in the interests of the working class.

Not one law was passed in the interests of the farmers.

Not one law was passed making the slightest step in the direction of liberation of weaker nationalities now suffering under the iron rule of American Imperialism.

Not one action of Congress was a step toward peace between nations.

Every action of this congress was an action against the working class, against the farmers, for the fastening of still stronger chains upon weaker nationalities, and in cynical preparation for aggressive war with the object of complete domination of the world by United States imperialism.

Suffering on a huge scale is to be found in the coal mining districts sections, but congress did nothing but attempt to break the strike. Brutal rule by injunctions and police clubs was upheld by this congress. Every so-called constitutional guarantee of civil liberties for the mine workers was and is being violated by company gunmen, mine police and state troopers, but congress did nothing but strengthen the hands of the enemies of the workers.

Unemployment having reached close to five million workers who have no means of life, congress had nothing to say except that they should starve. No relief for unemployment but "relief" to big business in the form of a tax cut of $222,495,000.

Unknown millions of farmers on the verge of starvation, their land seized by bankers, with tens of thousands of them threatening to picket the coming republican convention, caused congress only to pass a bill intended only to make records for congressional vote-seekers, its makers knowing and intending that it should be vetoed.

That one-sixth of the earth's surface which is now under the rule of the workers and farmers—the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics—remains outside of the "recognized" world for this American capitalist government, and remains more than ever the center of the target for which the big guns of Wall Street armament are being built.

No one can say that congress did nothing.

It was not an inactive congress, but the most active that has been held in ten years. It was the most active for imperialism, for exploitation, against the working class and the exploited farmers.

The record of this hangman's and userer's congress ought to turn the eyes of the workers and farmers most intently upon the opening campaign of the Workers (Communist) Party. The showing made by the miserable Victor Berger, the "socialist" in congress, is in no essential respect different from the record of a wing of the republican party.

It is more than ever visible to the eyes of those workers who are not blind, that only the party of the working class has anything to offer for the liberation of the exploited and outraged masses of industry and agriculture.

Vote Communist—and join the Workers (Communist) Party.

The voting can be done on election day —but the joining should be done today.

On Guard, Workers and Peasants of Latin America

By SCOTT NEARING

Strenuous efforts are being made by the spokesmen of United States big business to throw a smoke screen over the operations of the American Empire in Nicaragua, Cuba, Panama and other neighbor states. The dramatic staging of the Pan-American Conference at Havana was one part of this campaign. Recent speeches by Charles Evans Hughes, chairman of the United States delegation to Havana, former supreme court justice, former secretary of state for the United States and tireless servant of the United States plutocracy, are of the same pattern.

New York Times reports quote Mr. Hughes at great length, in his reply to the Anti-Imperialist League and other working class agencies that have been fighting the domination of Latin America by United States big business and United States gunboats and marines. Said Mr. Hughes: "The Colossus of the North is pictured to the imagination as the ruthless giant, without conscience and with unrestrained lust.

Uncle Sam—"Angel."

"We make no apology for our prosperity and power . . . . but the notion that we are looking for opportunities to intervene in the concerns of our neighbors and to take upon ourselves the burdens of managing them, that we are animated by a desire to dominate Latin America, is due to vague and unfounded fears, and especially to an utter misconception of public opinion in this country.

"However, it is a persistent notion constantly inculcated, and the illusion is one that interferes with efforts at co-operation."

Mr. Hughes and his fellow exploiters desire co-operation with Latin America above all things. They wish to sing the Latin American masses to sleep with fine words about "independence" and "freedom," while they grab oil, timber, plantations and harbor concessions in the Latin American countries. When the masses wake up, they will find their most valuable resources in the hands of foreign exploiters. They will be working for United States corporations and turning over the surplus of their labor to United States bankers and investors.

On Guard!

What silly nonsense for Mr Hughes to talk about "independent" Latin American States when even United States school histories list seven of these "independent" countries as protectorates of the United States and when the puppet governments set up in other states are maintained in office only through the power of the United States Army and Navy.

On Guard, Masses of Latin America!

The Colossus of the North, the world's richest and most powerful empire is gobbling you down piece-meal —penetrating with loans; absorbing trade; coercing with marines. The spokesmen of the American ruling class will talk to you in soft words but they act with machine guns and with bombing planes.

PROTECTING INDUSTRY

"The efforts made to establish a government . . . where opportunity would be open and industry attended with the largest rewards, all have an important bearing on the subject of national defense."—President Coolidge.

Organizing the Young Workers

It became very obvious that the real purpose of Mr. Sapose was to disrupt the conference. This the Young Workers League was not willing to tolerate, and rather than see the conference disrupted, withdrew its delegates with the statement, however, that the Young Workers League as the only organization representing the interests of the working youth was interested in their organization, and would continue this work regardless of the efforts of Muste, Saposs and similar individuals. They furthermore condemned such activities as that of Mr. Saposs and declared that it would be necessary for the young workers to combat very vigorously such attempts at those which have been seen at the conference, to hinder the activities of the young workers.

The conference then proceeded. However, Mr. Saposs was not to have peace.

Delegates Angered at Exclusion of Y. W. L.

During the discussion which followed, delegate after delegate in discussing some of the subjects on the agenda, expressed his indignation at the procedure and declared that such procedure and such activities were sufficient reason for keeping the young workers out of the trade unions, out of labor organizations.

Even the agenda of the conference indicated that tho little consideration was given to the young workers themselves, very much consideration was given to labor bureaucrats. Of all the reporters, only one was a young worker, namely, Clarence Miller, who reported on the unionization of the young workers in mass industries, such as textile, steel, automobile. Other reporters, including A. J. Muste himself, Mr. Lefkowitz, Tom Tippet and Rose Schneiderman, it is needless to say, contributed very little towards the knowledge of the young workers or towards the unionization of the young workers. The only substantial talk was made by Clarence Miller who took up the basic problems dealing with the activities and the problems of the young workers.

After the report of Tom Tippet on "Facts about young workers in industries," and of Abraham Lefkowitz, about "Legislation effecting conditions and status of young workers," a general discussion was to take place.

Herbert Zam, representative of the Young Workers (Communist) League, immediately asked for the floor stating that he had something specific to present to the conference which he would like to have discussed. Mr. Saposs made every effort to refuse him the floor, although he had himself promised that even if the Young Workers League delegates were not seated as regular delegates, they would be given every privilege to participate in the discussion. He maneuvered for almost an hour and finally was compelled to give the Young Workers League representative the floor.

Y. W. L. Delegate Reports

Herbert Zam pointed out that the report of Abraham Lefkowitz was nothing but a eulogy of the democratic administration of New York City and of the child labor laws of New York State. He gave facts and figures showing the extent of child labor in the United States including New York City, showing that the average wage of young workers in this country was less than $14 a week, and finally he read a resolution on "Legislation for the young workers," (which was already printed in the DAILY WORKER) and which the asked the conference to adopt. When he was thru, he received an enormous ovation. This made Mr. Lefkowitz somewhat hot under the collar and he immediately launched into a tirade against the proposals of the Young Workers League, claiming that they were impractical, utopian, etc. etc. etc., and even resorted to personal muckraking and name-calling.

However, by this time the conference had already reached the point where the efforts of Lefkowitz, Saposs, could not stop it from carrying on its renewed work. Practically every delegate who spoke supported the proposals of the Young Workers (Communist) League.

The character of some of the other reports may be indicated from the following: Rose Schneiderman was supposed to report on the "unionization of the Young Workers in Miscellaneous Industries." Her report started out as follows: "Youth is that period of life when hopes are high and nothing is impossible." Mr. Saposs, was supposed to report on "What the unions can do for the young workers." He spent practically all his time discussing "youth activities and plans," in France, but in that period, quite by accident he failed to mention the existence of the Communist youth League of France, the existence of the C. G. T. U., which is the trade union center that is really organizing the young workers.

The interesting part of the conference was the discussion from the floor. These discussions were very revealing of the state that exists in the trade unions. The discussion of the various youth delegates showed the following:

Bureaucracy Sell-Outs.

Not only are the trade union bureaucrats and their allies not interested in unionizing the young workers, but wherever the young workers themselves take steps to organize, the trade union bureaucrats do everything in their power to smash their organization. Four examples were given by the young workers who were delegates to the conference. First, the Plumbers Helpers. The Plumbers Helpers went out on strike in support of the Plumbers, 4000 strong. Even during the strike they succeeded in organizing a union of Plumbers' Helpers. When the plumbers settled their strike, they sold the helpers out completely. Not only that, but the agreements were made with the building bosses that no member of the Plumbers' Helpers Union is to be employed at his job. Then negotiations were carried on. But all these negotiations did not result in the recognition of the Plumbers' Helpers, did not result in their inclusion in the union. The status now is that the Plumbers' Helpers have a union, a small union it is true, and this union is not even recognized by the Plumbers union.

Urge Solidarity of Chinese, Japanese, U. S. Workers

Appealing to the workers of China, Japan and the United States to unite in their common fight on the imperialist nations of the world, the Japanese fraction and Chinese buro of District 13, Workers (Communist) Party of America has issued the following statement:

The present conflict between the Chinese nationalists' troops and the Japanese troops in the province of Shantung is another phase of the inner struggle of world imperialism. These inner conflicts may lead to an open conflict between the United States and Japan. The advance of the so-called North expedition under Chiang Kai-shek would extend the American and British influence to North China which has been monopolized by the Japanese imperialists as its "sphere of influence" ever since the defeat of China by Japan in 1894-5. In order to safeguard the special privileges of the Japanese capitalist class in China or to "maintain the prestige of the Japanese empire" as the Japanese militarists put it, the Tanaka government is bound to dispatch troops to China to tell Chiang Kai-shek that the advance of the North Expedition must not interfere with the special position of Japan in Shantung and Manchuria. The Japanese imperialists do not care whether Chang Tso-lin or Chiang Kai-shek is going to be the master of Peking. Their main purpose is to protect their property and investments in China.

Must Support Workers' Army.

To support Chiang Kai-shek in his attempt to unify China would mean to set another bourgeois government at the mercy of the American or British capitalism. To struggle against Japanese imperialism alone will lead the Chinese people to become pawns of American and British imperialism. The way of freeing the Chinese masses is not to help Chiang Kai-shek to set up a bourgeois government, a tool of the imperialists, nor to seek help from American or British imperialists, but to support the Chinese Workers' and Peasants' Revolution under the leadership of the Chinese Communist Party.

The movement of 1926-27 against the British imperialists was successful because the Chinese workers and peasants were the driving force of the movement. The present anti-Japanese imperialist movement will not be successful until the Chinese workers and peasants are well organized and fully armed. But Chiang Kai-shek and the imperialist powers are suppressing the Chinese workers' and peasants' movement as they have done before. Chiang Kai-shek has already agreed with the Japanese imperialists that the "anti-Japanese movement" must not become too extreme. The American, British and Japanese imperialists will come to terms as soon as they are aware of an upsurge of the mass revolutionary movement in China, prejudicial to the interests of the world imperialism.

Workers and peasants of China! Chiang Kai-shek and Chang Tso-lin belong to the same class with the Japanese, American and British imperialists. The only hope of freeing the Chinese masses lies in your own hands. You must arm yourselves and overthrow both the Peking and Nanking governments, capture the state power and set up an All-China Soviet government. Only the Chinese Communist Party, the party of the Chinese working class, is capable of consummating the Chinese Revolution.

To Japanese and U. S. Workers.

Workers and peasants of Japan! The Tanaka government has proven as an obedient servant of the capitalist class when it ordered the arrest of hundreds of your fellow-workers and peasants in last March. The dispatch of the troops to Shantung is another often used means of the bourgeois government to avert a revolution at home. The strengthening of the position of the Japanese capitalists in China would likewise strengthen their position at home. You must overthrow the reactionary Tanaka government, set up a workers' and farmers' government; join hands with your fellow workers and peasants in China and smash world imperialism.

Workers and farmers of America! The Chinese revolution is a part of the world revolution. The success of the Chinese revolution would weaken the capitalist rule in America. You must support the Chinese masses in their struggle against world imperialism. Demand the withdrawal of all military and naval forces! Prevent the Coolidge-Kellogg government from negotiating loans with Chiang Kai-shek's government and thus help to tighten their hold in China.

Workers and farmers of China Japan and America, unite! Demand the withdrawal of Japanese troops and marines from China. Hands off China! Down with the Tanaka government! Down with the Chang Tso-lin and Chiang Kai-shek governments! Down with world imperialism! Forward with the Chinese revolution under the leadership of the Communist Party! Unify the labor and peasant movement of Japan! Defend the Soviet Union! Join the Workers (Communist) Party of America!

The man who chose to play baseball in a felt hat is of course none other that Mr. C. Coolidge. Picture is a snapshot of the game between the House Democrats and Republicans played at Washington. Mr. Coolidge threw the first ball but didn't choose to run. This isn't the only work Coolidge does. He picks his teeth, signs legislative bills and referees spelling bees for a living. Older and older men are being used as messengers these days and Mr. Coolidge, though he is quite grown up, is the errand boy for Wall Street. Mr. Coolidge fits as snugly into the hand of the capitalists as the baseball shown above, reading from left to right, fits his own hand. The only difference is that big business has better control.

THE transit moguls besides cramming their passengers into crowded cars so tightly that they occupy about one-third of their normal space, insultingly accuse them of gullibility by expecting them to swallow the following absurdity printed in the Subway Sun under the heading, "Why an Increased Fare":-

"So that the city of New York will get some needed return on the investment in the present subways. This would help to bring about lower taxes, provide more transit, and indirectly more schools and better streets."

It might be added by the same reasoning that, if the money ever got to the city and didn't melt away in graft, what we need is a 27-cent fare. This would eliminate taxes and provide universities.

MURDOCH, TEXTILE STRIKE HEAD, TO SERVE JAIL TERM

Porter, Organizer, 30 Days, 12 Others Fined

BULLETIN.

NEW BEDFORD, May 31.—William T. Murdoch, of the Textile Mills Committee was sentenced to serve three months in prison here, for leading and organizing picket demonstrations of strikers at the mill gates. Porter, another Mills Committee organizer, was sentenced to one month, twelve other strikers arrested were sentenced to pay heavy fines.

The International Labor Defense announced that all the cases would be appealed to higher courts and in the meantime obtain the release of those imprisoned.

BOSTON, May 31.—Just as a widespread relief campaign to aid New Bedford's 28,000 textile strikers is being carried on by the Workers' International Relief, so is a special campaign being organized to keep out of the clutches of "Massachusetts justice," the daily increasing number of strikers arrested on the picketing line. The International Labor Defense, District Boston is calling a conference of labor organizations for this purpose.

The special conference is to be held in Boston Wednesday evening, June 6, at 7 o'clock, at the district office of the International Labor Defense, 113 Dudley St., Room 6, according to the official call issued by Robert Zelms, secretary, which follows in part.

"Since May the 10th, when the first two arrests were made in the big strike of 28,000 textile workers in New Bedford, 20 more militant strikers and strike leaders have been ar-

HAITI DELEGATE AT CONVENTION

Rosemond Tells of Rule of Wall Street

Among the fraternal delegates to the Workers (Communist) Party convention was Henry Rosemond, first adviser to the Haitian Patriotic Union in America, an organization fighting on behalf of the 2,700,000 workers of the Republic, under the heel of Wall Street oppression for the past 13 years. Rosemond told the convention of the misery and bitter hardships to which the Haitian workers and peasants had been reduced as a result of Wall Street rule. He said in part:

Look to Communists.

"I want to tell you that the Haitian Patriotic Union and the Haitian workers and farmers which we represent feel that the program of the Workers (Communist) Party of America is the only instrument by which the Wall Street oppression of Haiti can be overthrown. We know that from the democratic and republican parties we can expect no relief.

"Haiti sent her ambassador to France, Therlien Guillebeau, to see Woodrow Wilson at the League of Nations. He received no encouragement from Wilson. Three of Haiti's diplomats, Thoby, Sannon and Vincent, officials of the Haitian Patriotic Union, in 1920 reported to Warren Harding the crimes which the American marines had committed in Haiti, and the wholesale despoliation of Haiti by Wall Street tools. Harding did nothing.

"In 1925 Pierre Hudicourt came here to see Calvin Coolidge, as a delegate of the Workers Party of Haiti. Coolidge gave him meaningless words and did nothing.

"The only party now known which will help Haiti and all the oppressed small nations, if it wins the 1928 elections, is the Workers (Communist) Party."

Every section of the American working class will be mobilized in the raising of a $100,000 fund to conduct the national election campaign of the Workers (Communist) Party, declared Alexander Trachtenberg, chairman of the ways and means committee of the National Campaign Committee, yesterday.

Centralization Is Aim.

"It is aimed to centralize both the collection and the distribution of all the funds it raises for use in the state and local campaigns.

"There will really be two funds raised: the first to place our Party on the ballot, and the second the actual campaign fund. Our initial appeal will be to the units of the Workers Party and to sympathetic fraternal organizations. But we will rely chiefly for the raising of funds on shop collections, subscription lists and the sale of campaign stamps, certificates and buttons.

CHARGES HOOVER SPENDS BIG SUMS

Iowa Field For Huge Expenditures

DES MOINES, Iowa, May 31.—A request that Secretary of the Treasury Andrew Mellon be subpoenaed before a senatorial committee in the anticipated investigation of activities of the "Hoover group" in Iowa was made today by Milo Reno president of the Iowa Farmers' Union.

Hoover, spending fast

Reno also suggested that Governor John Hammill and former Congressman James W. Good, manager of the Hoover campaign, might be able to shed light on "large sums of money" he alleges is being spent throughout the state to further the candidacies of Hoover and Hammill.

Reno's demands were contained in a lengthy telegram to Senator Frederick W. Steiwer, Oregon, chairman of the special committee investigating campaign expenditures.

BOSSES GREET PIECE WORK WITH DELIGHT

"Now I see absolutely no difference between the union and non-union markets and open-shop centers will have to look out for the competition from the union shops."

With these words of appreciation, J. Friedman, one of the biggest employers in the men's clothing industry, thanked the officialdom of the New York Joint Board of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers' Union for taking the first organizational step toward forcing upon the union membership the hated sweat shop system of piece work. A Beckerman, reactionary Joint Board manager, several days ago granted piece work to about 12 large manufacturers.

A series of interviews with important manufacturers in the New York market, appearing in the columns of an employers trade journal yesterday, present to the betrayed union membership a picture of their bosses gushing with enthusiastic praise for the Amalgamated union officials.

Both the employers and union officials all frankly admit that the membership is strenuously opposed to this vicious and degrading form of the speed up system. The "labor leaders" are quoted as saying that "there is a deep antagonism among the union membership against this system." But the union leaders admit that the union membership is unreasonable, says the clothing bosses organ.

In agreement with the Beckerman dictatorship in control of the workers' organization, the employers' spokesmen cynically declare, "by not agreeing to piece work, the workers plainly show that they have no vision."

The Socialist Jewish Daily Forward, in reporting the sell-out, announces apologetically that piece work will be granted only to the large and responsible firms." Its columns also declare that the union will obtain big prices for piece work performed.

The statements of the leading manufacturers in the past few days brand this as mere patter. The employers announce that the granting of piece work to a dozen large manufacturers by no means settles their demands. Only when the prices are agreeable will they be satisfied, they say. More important than this, however, is the almost foregone conclusion that not only large manufacturers will be permitted to adopt this system but almost the entire trade. It will no doubt be conceded to the trade by Beckerman when he begins negotiations for a renewal of the agreement which expires June 30.

Even if the original prices set by the union are favorable, there is nothing to prevent the boss from lowering prices as much as he desires, when the wages earned are judged by him as too high, the workers declare in discussion. This will lead to a constant inhuman rush of each worker to produce more and more in

'DAILY' IS AIDED BY MOTHER JONES

Aged Militant Helps Moving Fund

Mother Jones, veteran of more than half a century of labor struggles, has sent $1 to help The DAILY WORKER move to its new home at 26-28 Union Square. Bedridden in Washington, this grand old fighter for the workers' cause has answered the appeal which The DAILY WORKER has sent out to the workers of this country.

In a letter to the Daily she writes: "Enclosed find $1 to help you move. Only wish it was one hundred. I have been sick for the last two years and spent four weeks at the Garfield Hospital at $40 a week.

"How I wish I could see you all. Don't fail to send me The DAILY WORKER. It is one great labor paper."

Mother Jones is now 98 years old. For years she was in the forefront of the struggles of the Western Federation of Miners. Despite her age and ill health, Mother Jones continues to aid the revolutionary movement and the fighting organ of this movement, The DAILY WORKER.

Mother Jones has shown the way. Workers, let her be your guide once more. The DAILY WORKER has no money to move; it has hardly enough to exist on. Send your contributions at once to the office of the Daily, 33 First St., New York City.

RADIUM VICTIMS OFFERED PENSION

Frame-Up of Case is Imminent

Continued efforts were being made yesterday to invalidate the cases of the five women suing the United States Radium Corporation for a sum aggregating $1,250,000, by offering to "settle the matter" out of court.

The chief exponent of these latest moves is Federal Judge William Clark of Newark, who, through a former law association with Raymond H. Berry, counsel for the five women, may be instrumental in making them accept the offer of the radium corporation, which provides them with a scanty pension for the rest of their lives. Since they have less than a year to live, a saving of more than $1,000,000 would result for the company.

MORE CONGRESS WHITEWASHINGS

To "Probe" Oil Leases, Slush Funds

WASHINGTON, May 31.—An all-summer series of congressional "investigations" was in prospect today despite the adjournment of congress.

Presidential campaign expenditures government oil leases in the Salt Creek fields, the S-4 submarine disaster, senatorial election contests, cotton market conditions, military and naval affairs and activities of Herbert Hoover as food administrator during the war were among the subjects to be investigated this summer by congressional committees. The proposed inquiries will be used ostensibly to gather information for the introduction of legislation at next winter's session.

The senate presidential funds committee will be the busiest for the next few weeks. It has been divided into two sub-committees, one of which will go to Ohio, West Virginia and probably Indiana, and the other to New York. The Ohio group will consist of Senators McMaster (R), of South Dakota, and Barkley (D), of Kentucky. They will leave tonight for Cincinnati. The other sub-committee, composed of Senators Steiwer (R) of Oregon and Bratton (D) of New Mexico, will investigate campaign expenditures in New York tomorrow. An inquiry into the Iowa primary was under consideration, while a sub-committee may visit California in July.

League Members Active In Chicago Celebration

CHICAGO, Ill., May 31.—Every member of the Young Workers (Communist) League in this city is taking an active part in the relief activities for the striking miners. To the sixth anniversary celebration of the league, which will be held June 9 at the Workers Lyceum, 2723 Hirsch Blvd., a group of young miners from the coal fields of southern Illinois has been especially invited.

The attendance at this affair is expected to be greater than that of any league affair ever held here.

CALIFORNIA CLASS PRISONER RELEASED

Beavert Was Convicted Under Criminal Syndicalism Law

SAN FRANCISCO, May 31.—A slight man of 30 named Jack Beavert has been released from San Quentin Penitentiary. He is sick of mind and body, although he was once a robust lumber-jack of Humboldt county. He probably will be sent to one of the state's hospitals as a permanent ward of California.

He is the last of the 150 political prisoners jailed under the Criminal Syndicalism law of California.

BEAVERT has served his full sentence. He steadfastly refused parole. Much of his time has been spent in the hospital and in solitary confinement. Like the rest of the wobblies who served time under the criminal syndicalism law, his only crime was membership in the Industrial Workers of the World. Not one of the men made felons under the law was accused of an overt act of sabotage or violence.

SIDERS, MUNSEY, MYERSCOUGH, ARE THE NEW LEADERS

Plan Big Drive For Organization

(Special to the Daily Worker)

PITTSBURGH, Pa., May 30 (By Mail).—A new constitution, doing away with one-man power and placing the government of the United Mine Workers of America once more into the hands of rank and file coal diggers, was adopted by the special convention of District 5 which adjourned last night.

Some of the highlights of the new constitution are the removal of all appointive power, provision for a rank and file grievance committee and the reduction of exorbitant salaries of officers to the prevailing Jacksonville scale of $7.50 a day. During strikes, however, no salaries will be paid, and only legitimate expenses allowed.

Expose Officials.

All measures were carefully discussed by the delegates and many changes made before the document was finally adopted. Special care was taken to make election steals impossible. During the course of the conference, conclusive evidence in the form of affidavits and verbal testimony from delegates present, proved that the present official family are illegally holding their jobs.

All district offices were declared vacant early in the session. Fred Siders, as president "Dad" Isaac Munsey, Negro president of the Avella local, as vice-president, Tom Myerscough, secretary-treasurer and Anthony Calamari as international board member were elected temporary officers of the district until the rank and file could vote for permanent officers.

Call Railroad Workers.

Upon request of the Cokeburg local, a resolution calling upon the rank and file of the railroad brotherhood to refuse to haul scab coal, was adopted. Almost every delegate came with instructions to demand a national convention of the United Mine Workers of America and make a reality of the slogan "Lewis Must Go," to change the prevailing policies, to provide for the organization of thousands of unorganized miners into one national union, to establish one agreement.

Bridget Burma, a member of the Children's Strike Club of Burgettstown told the delegates, "The children want to add their voices with yours . . ." Charles Wilson who was sent here by the National Children's Committee for Miners' Relief to bring a thousand dollar donation for relief and promised the support of the children of New York in the great struggle the miners are waging, told the convention, "Our fathers are fighting,

Illinois Miners Begin Real Work of Strengthening Rank and File Union

VOYZEY, COFFEY, SLINGER ISSUE GENERAL APPEAL

Organization to Fight For Standards

(Special to the Daily Worker)

BELLEVILLE, May 31.—Formal taking over of the actual business of the United Mine Workers' Union District 12, following the recent elimination of the treacherous Lewis-Fishwick machine officials by the rank and file, was announced yesterday in a circular letter sent out to all locals in the district calling upon them to unite behind the new leaders, to stop paying dues to the old corrupt machine and to build the rank and file organization.

The letter signed by Dan H. Slinger, newly elected secretary-treasurer and over the signature of George Voyzey president, and Luke Coffey, vice-president of the union, follows in part:

General Circular.

To the officers and members of all local unions, District No. 12, United Mine Workers of America.

GREETINGS:

At a special convention held at Belleville, Ill., May 19th and 20th, the offices of Fishwick, president; Sneed vice-president: Nesbit, secretary-treasurer, and all board members were declared vacant, and new officers elected temporarily, until such time as an election may be held.

You should send your dues which will be 50 (fifty) cents per month, to Dan H. Slinger, secretary-treasurer, Illinois Section, U. M. W. of A., 128A West Main St., Belleville, Ill.

Brothers! The time has now arrived when we must take a determined stand to take control of our organization.

At the present time temporary agreements are being signed at a large reduction in wages thru the introduction of labor-saving machine devices. Men are now receiving $8.04 for loading coal on conveyors which means a cut in the tonnage rate of at least 50 per cent.

Appeals to All.

Thousands of miners who helped to build the U. M. W. of A. now find themselves thrown out and expelled from the organization they helped to build thru many years of sacrifice. We are appealing to the older miners of our union to take action now before it is too late. A year has passed and gone. We find that the mine workers are in a weaker position to combat the operators in their open-shop drive than ever before, and for this failure to prepare we must hold Lewis and Fishwick responsible. They must be driven out of the United Mine Workers—and control placed in the hands of the rank and file—if we are to retain our organization. The way to proceed is to quit paying dues and assessments to those who have destroyed our organization.

As I write to you word comes from the Ohio Rank and File Convention that they have thrown all of the old officials out and elected new ones to take their place. Forty local unions represented by three hundred delegates have again demonstrated their ability to run the U. M. W. of A. for their best interests.

Indiana too has taken final steps and have elected rank and file members to the offices of president, vice-president and secretary-treasurer and members of the board as well. So you may understand this is not a flare in Illinois only, but a real organization. So into the fight! No cessation! Let us go forward! Nothing but determination should guide us in this fight!

SAN FRANCISCO, May 31.—With the carpenter strike cases out of the way, the new trial has begun of four union moulders charged with assault in a case arising from the bay district strike last year.

ARRESTS SWELL TEXTILE MILL PICKETING LINE, SAYS MURDOCH

The results of the recently adopted policy of wholesale arrests inaugurated by the police authorities in the New Bedford strike area, where 28,000 textile workers are ending the 7th week of their fight against a wage cut, are described by the leader of the New Bedford Textile Mills Committee, William T. Murdoch, in the following communication received yesterday.

"The attempt of the police to spread terror amongst the members of the New Bedford Textile Workers' Union (affiliated with the Textile Mills Committees) has only succeeded in drawing more and more workers into picket line activity and to build up the morale of the militants. Previous to the arrests there were never more than 200 on any picket line, after the first big demonstration, this being due to the fact that many workers could not be convinced that there was any great danger of the mills being opened and run by scabs.

"The answer of the workers to the arrest of Beal, Murdoch, and the five others on Saturday was a picket line of over 1,000 in the South end and a picket of about 400 at the Nonquit and Whitman in the North. With hundreds of workers singing Solidarity and "Ramboya," a folk song of the Portuguese, the police attempt to frighten the workers had failed.

"At the Page mill picket on Monday afternoon the police, led by Sergeant McCarthy, pulled Manuel Bernado, a small boy member of the Strikers' Children's Club, off the picket line and then when the boy returned at the invitation of Murdoch, they took him away in their machine to the station, at the same time making a great fuss around the line in an effort to provoke the workers to resist. When Alphonse Lameiras called to the workers to maintain the line and keep order as usual he was immediately arrested for 'disturbing the peace'.

"When the boy was taken away the police were immediately answered by the workers who had previously been only watching the pickets coming over and joining the line, which was then led by the older sister of the boy who had been pulled off the line, who helped Murdoch lead the singing.

"Later as the pickets marched back to the hall the police arrested Murdoch and three others in another attempt at intimidation. . . . The answer of the New Bedford strikers to the latest action of the police will be more and better pickets.

"The answer of the workers in other centers to the attack must be to redouble their efforts to raise relief. The New Bedford workers are putting up a real fight for Labor. Let labor support them in their struggle."

Bandits Take $200,000 from "Swell" Party

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 31.—Ten masked bandits early today held up the Roadmoor Country Club and robbed 200 guests of jewelry and currency valued at between $150,000 and $200,000.

The victims were prominent business and professional men of Indianapolis and their out-of-town guests, here to attend the auto race. The holiday festivities were in full swing when the bandits trooped in like a squad of well-trained soldiers.

They were equipped with submachine guns, sawed-off shotguns and revolvers.

The guests were ordered to line up against the wall. When a few of the men objected a volley of shots roared over their heads and they quickly fell in line.

With the fashionably-gowned women and men in evening clothes lined along two sides of the spacious ballroom, the bandit leader asked for their attention and gave the following orders:

"Drop your money and jewels in the canvas bag that will be passed down the line."

While nine of the bandits stood menacingly with firearms levelled, the tenth bandit went down the line with the canvas bag and took up the "collection." Here and there a woman fainted, but nothing was allowed to interfere with the orderly progress of the robbery.

With the collection completed, the men filed out in military manner, leaped into a large maroon-colored sedan and disappeared in the darkness.

Beckerman's statement that the new system will help the old workers in the trade is unanimously condemned as hypocritical. the Sigmans in New York, just as you are fighting Lewis. We are going to help as much as we can."

"Brothers," the voice of Charlie Glovak, coal digger from Cokeburg, rang out, "I move that we give the young brother a rising vote of thanks." And the delegates rose in appreciation of the solidarity exhibited by the workers of the future.

George Morn of Bentleyville, who had gone to New York to help raise relief described, with great enthusiasm, the work of the children there.

"All those who do not go back and organize children's clubs," Chairman Anthony Minerich declared, "are not fulfilling their duty to the union."

The role of the young miners, and Negro miners were also stressed Fred Gianizco of Wyano, a fraternal delegate from the newly organized field in Westmoreland county, told how the young miners led hundreds of men, women and children on picket lines. He described how 59 coal diggers, the larger number of who were between 16 and 20, who had been in the front ranks, served three and a half days in the jail. "They said they'd release us if we went back to work—release us without bail or bond," he said, "but we said we'd rather rot in jail."

Negro Miners Active.

Isaiah Hawkins, a Negro miner from Fredrickstown declared that the Negro youth was discriminated against first in the schools and later in the mines. All the dirty work and slate picking falls to them, he said "Then they always try to use our boys as spies," Hawkins bitterly said. "If our white union brothers treated them fair and square, they'd be with you, and fighting as well as the best of you."

Four company spies, seated in the visitor's balcony were exposed. "We have nothing to hide," Secretary Myerscough said. "All of our work is done in the open."

"Go back to the operators and tell them that our people are standing together solid," Pat Toohey declared. "Although we are hungry, although we are clubbed on the picket lines, we are still fighting. And we're going to whip the coal company and their agents."

IDLE TEXTILE MILLS ECHO TO STRIKE SONGS

Daily Worker is Vital to Keep Men Singing

The walls of the New Bedford textile mills are built like most New England textile mills of gray fieldstone. Like the walls of a prison they stretch off for blocks, pierced by many windows.

"Nearly every mill is surrounded by a high board or iron-spiked fence. The gates are padlocked for the machinery lies idle. There is no sound in the interiors of these blank building, for the starving men and the women who ordinarily keep the machines running and the profits mounting, are standing in picket lines before the gates..

"As they march they sing," said Elsie Pultur, DAILY WORKER agent in District 1, who was telling us the story in the business office of the paper. "And while their singing drives the police patrols frantic it is the most heartening thing in that New England town.

Paper Encourages Strikers.

"It is to this line of singing men and women and children that the progressive leaders of the New Bedford strike have been distributing The DAILY WORKER. It is The DAILY WORKER which all these days has been encouraging the textile pickets in their struggle. And it is the consciousness that The DAILY WORKER is fighting on their side which has helped to put spirit into the songs of these strikers.

"But tho distribution is invaluable, it is not permanent," Elsie Pultur said. "It is subscriptions which must bring The DAILY WORKER to the striking textile workers day after day.

Must Subscribe.

"If The DAILY WORKER is to become a daily power in the lives of 30,000 textile strikers, it is necessary that the paper be subscribed to by hundreds of textile workers. It is necessary for them to see the progress of their struggle, and the part which The DAILY WORKER is taking in their struggle be made apparent to all the textile strikers in the columns of their only English labor daily.

"It is with the intention of pushing the drive for subscriptions to The DAILY WORKER that I am returning to New England." Elsie Pultur declared. "The importance of the situation in New Bedford cannot be overstated as the basis of a subscription drive. We are going to put the paper in New Bedford," she concluded.

rested. The trial of the first group resulted in stiff jail sentences and heavy fines. Two women pickets—both mothers—received six months and fines. By order of the mill barons, the police are attempting to terrorize the strikers by all possible means. Additional victims are expected as the fight goes on.

"The International Labor Defense has undertaken the defense of those arrested. All forces must be mobilized, or else we are not in a position to carry on successfully the defense of New Bedford strikers. All our members and friends must help and keep the strikers out of jail.

"Your organization is kindly requested to send two delegates to this conference.

"All I. L. D. branches should send two delegates each, one of them may be the Branch Secretary.

"The time is short and the emergency is great. Act immediately. Let your executive committee appoint the delegates if there is no time for full meeting of your organizations. Be sure to send two delegates without fail.

"Send your contribution with your delegates. No contribution is too small nor too big. Act promptly and help to win the strike by keeping our brothers and sisters out of jail."

visited twice. Tag days will be arranged in each city on every occasion they are visited by the two candidates.

"Funds will be also raised by various speakers, who will be routed thruout the country and will combine financial with political campaigning. For this purpose a bus, to be known as a "Red Bus," will be hired in each of the election districts to transport the speakers to various parts of the district.

To Charter "Red Special."

"Towards the close of the campaign a "Red Special" will be chartered, a railroad train that will carry our two candidates to all the main cities. The "Red Special" will also stop at smaller cities and the candidates will speak from the rear platform. Seats on this train will be sold to Party members and sympathizers.

"Our entire aim in this campaign will be to politicalize the raising of funds. We want to establish an inseparable connection in the minds of the workers between contributing to this campaign fund and voting for the candidates of our Party, the only candidates that represent the interests of the American workers."

Widow of Killed Worker Loses Damage Suit

Prof Says Kale from Power Men Not "Unethical"

WASHINGTON, May 31. — Theodore J. Rayson, an associate professor at the University of Pennsylvania, can see nothing "unethical" in receiving pay from the power trust lobby to speak against government ownership.

Rayson so testified at the federal trade commission power inquiry today.

The professor teaches at the same institution fro which Sol Auerbach, 21-year-old instructor in philosophy, was recently fired. "Expressing himself publicly on public questions" was the curious reason offered by the university authorities for his dismissal. Auerbach had given a talk on education in the Soviet Union following a visit with a student delegation.

During the inquiry Rayson who has been on the regular payroll of power interests for propaganda talks against government ownership, attempted to explain his activities by declaring:

"I am opposed to government ownership and business and always shall be."

The University of Pennsylvania has not as yet dismissed Rayson.

HOOVER BEATEN IN PRIMARY

CHARLESTON, W. Va., May 31.—Senator Guy D. Goff, favorite son candidate, and Gov. Al Smith of New York, apparently have won the republican and democratic preference vote in the West Virginia primary with three-fourths of the results tabulated.

Out of 1,800 of the 2,306 precincts, Goff was today leading Secretary of Commerce Hoover by approximately 7,000 votes for the 19 delegates to the republican convention at Kansas City.

Smith's lead over Senator James A. Reed of Missouri was approximately 6,500 in the same precincts for the 16 Democratic delegates.

MINERS OUST ALL LEWIS OFFICIALS IN DISTRICT ONE

Militants Lead Fight Against Brennan

(Special to The DAILY WORKER)

SCRANTON, May 31.—Mine workers of district 1, in the anthracite in special convention here yesterday ousted the whole officialdom of the Lewis-Cappelini machine including all members of the district executive board.

In spite of the opposition and treacherous conduct of the Brennan-Harris forces which sought to protect some of their own favored henchmen on the district board, the rank and file under the leadership of the progressives forced out the whole machine.

The maneuver by the Brennan and Harris forces was an attempt to save John Boylan, a member of the District Executive Board of the first inspection district and also Kmetz, member of the fourth inspection district. Brennan and Harris sought to form an alliance with them tho they have opposed the special district convention and have continually voted and fought against the rank and file of district one. The opposition to this was led by Hogan and Stanley Edmunds and the left wing forces within the convention.

The resolution was referred back to the resolutions committee which brought in a compromise resolution conceding to the progressive forces within the convention and recommending the removal and ousting of the entire Rinaldo Cappelini machine.

To Elect New Officers.

The election of the temporary officers will take place on the first of June when the convention which adjourned for the holiday May 30, will reconvene. The delegates at the convention and the membership of district one are warned to watch the convention and the leaders very closely, especially the Brennan-Harris forces who will do everything in their power to make an alliance with Lewis in order to betray the miners further. Another resolution of importance to the membership which was passed was the resolution that the appointive power of the district office and the district executive board shall be taken away and all organizers and field workers shall be elected by a referendum vote. Also the resolution that in case Lewis fails to recognize the convention, the per-capita tax to the national office shall be cut off until such a time as he does recognize the convention. During the whole convention the rank and file representing the local unions exposed the methods used by Cappelini, coal operators and the individual contractors in suppressing the resentment of the rank and file against the wage cutting and the breaking of the contract by the coal operators.

Expose Cappelini.

It was pointed out that anything that was progressive or in the interests of the rank and file, the Cappelini machine quelches. The left wing is trying to force the leaders of the convention to bring up the question of the Lewis machine and its disruptive tactics before the convention and force the leaders of the so-called opposition, led by Harris and Brennan, to take a stand. So far the machine of Harris and Brennan has been able to suppress any opinion on the question. There have also been several complaints by delegates of several resolutions being suppressed by the resolutions committee, particularly by the chairman of the resolutions committee Harris, who was questioned as to why these resolutions did not come up before the convention.

HOW MUCH MONEY ARE PEOPLE WORTH?

Before the Civil War the Slaves Were Worth Three Billion

By SCOTT NEARING.

WHEN economists say that the wealth of the United States is 400 billion dollars they include railroads, factories, monies, houses, theatres, autos, cattle, sheep, hogs, baled cotton, steel ingots, calico, shoes. These things have been produced by labor, working upon natural resources, using tools and machinery.

How about the people of the United States?

Economists do not count them as wealth.

Before 1863 the 4,000,000 slaves in the southern part of the United States were counted as wealth—they had a value of about 3,000 million dollars. It is not customary to value "free" people on that basis.

Still, people cost money.

Louis I. Dublin, statistician of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company recently wrote a book "Health and Wealth" in which he estimates that in the United States a family with an income of $60 a week spends about $10,000 in raising a boy from birth to age 18.

THIS figure includes actual money outlay. It allows nothing for the work or the time that the mother has devoted to the raising of the children.

Dr. Dublin goes on: "The cost of bringing up a child may be looked upon as capital invested which will produce future returns." How much? At age 18, a man who will work all his life as a skilled mechanic will produce over and above his keep, an average of about $29,000, what Dr. Dublin calls "the present worth of his net future earnings." In other words, each man of 18 years, among skilled mechanics should leave the world $29,000 richer as a result.

Dr. Dublin then capitalizes this future earning power, allows half as much for the net worth of women as for the net worth of men, and reaches the conclusion that "the total capital value of the present population of the United States is about 1,500 billion dollars.

ALL the tangible property (including real estate) in the United States is worth about 400 billion dollars. The capitalized earning power of the population is about four times as great.

By this application of modern accounting to the life of the American masses, Dr. Dublin has pointed out one vitally important factor for the workers of the U. S. A. When it comes to a show-down—even in money terms—it is the working masses and not the property owned by the upper classes that is the real economic factor.

Engineer in Donetz Plot Murdered Workers; Disregarded Safety Measures

RECEIVED SUMS OF MONEY FROM WHITE GUARDS

Carried On Propaganda Against U. S. S. R.

(Special Cable to the Daily Worker).

MOSCOW, May 31.—Under cross-examination, Nashivotchikov, one of the technicians accused of participating in the Donetz sabotage conspiracy to wreck the coal industry of the Soviet Union, broke down and admitted that he had received sums of money regularly from the counter-revolutionary organization.

Donetz miners testified that Nashivotchnikov had mistreated workers and had intrigued against engineers who were loyal to the Soviet Union in order to bring about their dismissal.

Incites Workers.

A Communist specialist proved that Nashivotchnikov had deliberately neglected safety measures as a result of which many workers were injured and one killed. He proved that the accused had atempted to incite workers against the Soviet Union and against Jewish employes.

Lifschitz, an engineer, testified that the conspirators had deliberately sabotaged technical decisions. He declared that Nashivotchnikov had deliberately left a mine cable uninsulated, as a result of which many deaths had been caused.

Abused Prisoners.

Workers employed in the mine testified that Nashivotchnikov had been a member of Czarist organizations during the Civil War and had abused Red Guards captured in the fighting.

Vassilyev, another accused technician, denied the charges levelled against him and declared that he had been a former revolutionist. Krylenko, prosecuting attorney, proved that Vassilyev formerly led a White Guardist band. Numerous witnesses testified that Vassilyev was a counter-revolutionary.

CONTINUE STRIKE IN ARGENTINA

General Tie-Up is Rumored

BUENOS AYRES, May 31.—That a general strike involving all workers in Bahia Blanca, southern Argentine seaport of Argentine, may be called within the next forty-eight hours, is the tenor of despatches reaching this city from Bahia Blanca.

Sympathy for the striking longshoremen is reported to be intense thruout the small port and it is considered probable that other trades will follow the harbor workers out within the next few days.

Following the wave of strike sentiment which resulted in the Rosario and Santa Fe tie-ups, the walkout of the Bahia Blanca harbor workers is arousing widespread interest among workers thruout the Argentine. The spirit of the men is excellent, according to leaders of the strike.

Merchants beseeching the local authorities to end the tie-up by which they are losing large sums of money, have urged the use of repressive tactics, it is reported, but the picket lines are holding firm in the face of the police provocation.

POLICE ALLOW KLAN MEETING

Warren's Statement Last Week Proved False

Although the Citizens' Memorial Association of Queens failed to make its appearance in the Memorial Day parade the Ku Klux Klan organization of 100 percent jingoes held a public meeting, when 500 members gathered yesterday on an open lot near an excavation between Queens Blvd. and Jamaica Ave. Most of the klansmen were in civilian clothes, although a branch of the organization, the Empire State Rangers Inc. of Hempstead, L. I., were wearing military uniforms and carried clubs.

In spite of the bombastic utterances of Police Commissioner Warren a few days before the parade, when he insisted that the klan would be forcibly routed and every member arrested if it made its appearance, the police did nothing yesterday except gape foolishly at the antics of the klan members, who burned a fifty-foot cross in their usual manner. The passiveness of the police is a true indication that Warren delivered his long harangue against the Ku Klux Klan in an effort to gain votes for Tammany's candidates, especially for Al Smith. The police were probably given orders to see that nothing would be done [illegible] the [illegible] demonstration.

VANCOUVER, May 31.—Workers on three railways in the province of Kwangtung (of which Canton is the capital city) have gone on strike for a wage increase, according to a report received here by the Canada Morning News, left wing Chinese newspaper.

The News interprets the strike as a protest against the rule of General Li Chai-sum as well as an industrial walk-out.

Increasing activity of worker-peasant troops is reported in northern Kwantung.

PLAN MORE TALK ON WATER POWER

To Take it Up When Congress Opens

WASHINGTON, May 31. — Three big questions—water power, farm relief and "governmental economy"—are already named by congressional leaders as the prime issues of the next session in December. In the recent session congress functioned more openly in the interest of big business than any other congress since the war.

With echoes of the first session of the 70th congress dying away today, plans were under way to bring these issues to the fore regardless of the presidential campaign.

The widespread ramifications of the power lobby as revealed by the federal trade commission along with the Boulder Canyon Dam bill have combined to make power the outstanding issue.

Increasing pressure for retention of some of the remaining great water-power sites in the nation has followed in the wake of the Muscle Shoals and Boulder Canyon Dam projects. When congress meets in December, a report will be on hand for $15,000,000 development at Umatilla Rapids on the Columbia River in the same manner as is proposed at Boulder Canyon on the Colorado.

Backers of the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill announced that the measure would be introduced on the first day of the next session, and that the fight would run its full course again. Passage of the bill over a veto is now the goal in this fight.

TOKIO, (By Mail).—The murder of the three municipal members of the prefecture of Vakayama by fascists has caused a great sensation in the press. Public opinion is in a state of great excitement.

The "Japan Times" declares that the murder of the three members of the oppositional party "is the most serious political crime of recent years" and demands that the guilty persons be arrested and handed over to a summary court martial.

TWO ARE KILLED IN SERB PROTEST AGAINST FASCISM

Belgrade Police Shoot Down Demonstrators

VIENNA, May 31.—Belgrade witnessed terrific anti-Italian rioting in which at least two persons were killed and 69 others, including nine policemen, were seriously wounded, said advices from that city today. Hundreds were slightly hurt. Sixty arrests were made. Streets were barricaded and gun battles between rioters and police raged in several parts of the city.

Shops Wrecked.

The inner quarter of the city was like a battlefield. Many shops and cafes were demolished and the furniture carried into the streets for the erection of barricades.

The population is embittered against the government for signing a treaty with Italy, and the police because of their passive attitude in the face of the note presented by Italian minister Bodrero demanding satisfaction and damages without mentioning the anti-Jugoslav demonstrations in Italy.

Anti-Fascist demonstrations have been in progress throughout Dalmatia for several days. It is reported that 25 Italian shops were wrecked at Spalato. Italian shipping offices were destroyed and Italian vessels in the harbor plundered.

Fifty persons were arrested at Zagreb where thousands of persons paraded the main street shouting "Down with Italy," and "Down with Fascism" and "Death to Mussolini."

Police fired upon the demonstrators wounding many.

The Jugoslavian cabinet is holding special sessions at frequent intervals, but so far no official statement has been made as to future policy.

Anger between Jugoslavia and Italy dates back many years to the struggle for Fiume. For a time it was allayed. When Italy enchoached on Albania and Dalmatia, it flamed up again.

BRITISH COTTON STRIKE

16,000 Locked Out; Dispute May Spread

MANCHESTER, May 31. — Following a complete break-down in negotiations, cotton mills in Nelson locked out 16,000 workers. The lockout may affect the entire cotton industry.

Workers in the huge mills of thee Ace Spinning Plants threaten to go on strike unless a woman worker employed in the weaving department is reinstated within a week. She was dismissed without cause.

The dispute in the Nelson mills started in the Schoefeld mills when the workers went on strike to protest against the dismissal of a weaver. The manufacturers issued an ultimatum ordering workers to return to work before May 24th. A general lockout followed the refusal of the workers to end their strike.

DEMAND ROSARIO POLICE HEAD GO

Official Is an Enemy of the Workers

BUENOS AYRES, May 31. — A general house cleaning in the police department of Rosario is being demanded by the workers, according to reports from the city.

Under the direction of the local Industrial Union, the workers have sent a letter to the provincial capital, demanding the removal of the chief of police for his activities against workers during the recent general strike. A number of deaths and serious woundings resulted from the attacks which the Rosario police made upon picket lines and demonstration in the course of the strike.

NEW BEDFORD STRIKER, FRATERNAL DELEGATE, STIRRED BY WORKERS PARTY CONVENTION

(By a Worker Correspondent)

NEW BEDFORD, Mass. (By mail).—I want to tell you that I saw the parade on the first of May demonstrating for the working class. And I appreciated it deeply. I love to see any movement that has anything to do with the working class.

I never in my life felt so much joy as on the 25th and 26th of May when I sat on the platform as a representative of the Textile Mill Committee and was nominated as a fraternal delegate to the National Nominating Convention of the Workers (Communist) Party in New York City.

I then had a chance to see with my own eyes what I never expected to see so soon, a National Nominating Convention of the Workers (Communist) Party in 1928. Forward, comrades, to our victory! That convention will remain in the history of the working class.

Comrades, I am asking you a favor. As I am a striker I cannot afford to have some of the objects I would like to have. When I was in New York I saw a book I would very much like to have. It was the Red Cartoon Book of 1927.

3,000 Cantaloupe Pickers Win California Strike, Correspondent Writes

FORCE BOSSES TO CEDE WITH CROP READY TO SPOIL

Women Beaten, Workers Jailed By Sheriff.

(By a Worker Correspondent)

LOS ANGELES, Cal., (By Mail). The Mexican cantaloupe pickers in Imperial Valley have won their strike.

The Miller company was the first to grant the strikers' demands. The Gerard company came next. The rest were forced into line or faced ruin. Cantaloupes must be picked at the right time, and 28,000 acres is a large area to cover. More than 17,000 cars of cantaloupes were shipped out of the valley last year. The crop will probably be about the same this season. On May 16 shipments were "nearing the 200-cars-a-day mark," according to the Brawley News. The strike was partly on at that time. Less than 2,500 cars have been shipped out to date so it is a long way to go yet to reach 17,000.

Imperial Valley also has 5,400 acres in watermelons. Last year's crop amounted to 3,544 cars. The pick of the season is June 10. So the bosses are risking millions if they get into trouble with the workers again. The Brawley News expressed fear along that line recently—editorially at that. Other important crops in the valley are cotton and hay. The low wages and rates in the cotton fields have been a disgrace to California and every other cotton-producing state in the union. Cotton must be picked and hay cut at the right time also. So the workers hold the whip-hand in these fields as well—as soon as they become conscious of their power through organization and solidarity.

2,000 to 3,000 on Strike.

The cultivated area in Imperial Valley is said to be 300,000 acres, and the estimated number of Mexican workers in the valley is 17,000. From 2,000 to 3,000 took part in the recent strike. The majority of these men are members of the new union, according to reports from the fighting front.

Women Beaten by Gunmen.

Sheriff Charles L. Gillett and his deputies, too numerous to mention, went from farm to farm chasing Mexican strikers like wild beasts. Picket-lines and meetings of every description were broken up in high-handed, illegal manners. It was "To hell with the constitution" put into practice by a lawless gang of "upholders of law and order."

When Felix Rodriques was arrested, his wife, Francisca, and Beatriz Cota tried to defend him. These women, poor to the starvation point, were both badly beaten by well-paid and well-fed brutes employed by the county. The sheriff's ultimatum to the strikers was: "Go to work, leave the valley—or go to jail." The workers went to jail by wholesale, but they didn't stay very long, as a rule, for the following reasons:

The sheriff and his gunmen handled the strikers too roughly, over-stepped their authority. Legal grounds to hold the strikers lacking. Fear of general discontent among the Mexicans, not only in the Imperial Valley, but also in other parts of California and elsewhere was general. The crop was ready for picking, so the men were more dangerous to the growers in jail than they were on the picket-line outside. Although underpaid cantaloupe picking is skilled work the growers claim. Mexicans only have been trained to do that kind of work for years, and convictions might mean deportations by the government. Many deportations of "agitators" and "reds," etc., might be used as argument in favor of the Box bill (restriction of Mexican immigration) now before congress. Employers of cheap labor are strongly against that bill. In this part of the world they want the Mexicans to come here to stay slave for next to nothing, breed more slaves and be contented with their "frijoles" (beans) and "tortillas" (pancake-like bread).

Outmaneuver Sheriff.

When the number of arrests reached 48, the labor-baiting sheriff thought he had all the "leaders" in jail. But as a matter of fact, he didn't get a chance to lay his strikebreaking bloody hands on any of them. The Committee of Action was under ground, out of sight. The Mexican workers learned a few things during 18 years of revolutionary struggle in one form or the other.

In Strike Zone.

Five strikers came before Judge A. C. Finney of El Centro on May 15. Bond in the case of 4 was reduced from $1,000 to $500 each, but the release on habeas corpus was denied. The fifth man, Frank Hermandez, was refused reduction of bail. So that one-armed worker must be considered a dangerous character. Well, they had him down as "interpreter" and even as a "director" of the new Mexican Labor Union. The next day May 16, Hermandez appeared before Justice I. Mayfield, entered a plea of guilty to having disturbed the peace, and he received a six-months' suspended sentence on the motion of the district attorney. More than 30 workers refused to plead guilty and received suspended sentences—for fear of the crime record and possible deportation that might follow in the future.

The habeas corpus application filed by Alfred Blaisdell, attorney for Hermolao Torris, Mexican vice-consul, demanded the release of said five workers on the ground of illegal imprisonment, excessive bail and trial date, June 5, unreasonably delayed. Justice Griffin of Brawley fixed the excessive bail. The four whose bail was reduced were: Juan Barcelo, David Lopez, Panfilo Moreno and Joe Diaz. Being unable to make the reduced bail, they were sent back to jail. Release would have absolved the men from guilt and returned them to the standing they had before arrested by Sheriff Gillett.

The Mexican government became interested in this case through a protest by the strikers to the Mexican consul-general in the United States.

Lawlessness "Regular."

"Everything we have done is regular." District Attorney Heald said, intimating that no argument as to illegality could be proven in court of law.

"The strong arm method of preventing meetings of any kind, and of demanding that workers either work or get out, has had its effect," Sheriff Charles L. Gillett declared, according to the Brawley News on or about May 14, 1928. (Emphasis the writer's.)

The Hereafter in the Strike.

An editorial in the Brawley News May 14, reads, in part, as follows:

"Prepare for the future. For the time being the Mexican labor situation seems to have been clarified, although there are not wanting rumors that new troubles will occur in the heart of the season. Had the strike been staged two weeks later, when the laborers were fortified with what is to them abundant money in their pockets, doubtless it would have been necessary to call upon white labor for the field work."

After hinting at the possibility of using members of a "superior" race whites, to scab on workers belonging to an "inferior" ditto, Mexicans, the editorial continues: But "since many years have passed since Mexicans monopolized this class of labor, it would have been difficult to secure Americans skilled in picking cantaloupes."

"The exact cause of the difficulty is not easy to ascertain. Merely to lay the blame on a bunch of agitators isn't sufficient. Use of strong-arm methods may temporarily solve the difficulty, but wherever trouble of sufficient magnitude arises to cause the striking of between 2,000 and 3,000 men, a hereafter is certain if the basic causes are not determined and settled.

"Mind-Reading" Sheriff Jails News Agent.

Jesus A. Avalos, Mexican newspaper agent and reporter, [illegible] St., Browley, Cal., was arrested at his store, May 13, by Sheriff Gillett. Why? Because he "refused to remove a bulletin board advertising the headlines of his papers." The Brawley News. Numerous papers all over the world advertise in the same manner, even the Los Angeles Times, a labor-baiting sheet which had much to say at the beginning, against the "American I. W. W." strikers in Imperial Valley. Guessed wrong again, Mr Harry Chandler!

Avalos had put out the bulletin board with signs that were meant to instigate discontent among the workers, the sheriff said. Unfortunately Mr Gillett isn't the only "mind-reading" "peace" officer in the land.

"Gillett stated today," May 13 "that the bulletin board said, 'Forty-eight Mexicans in Jail—What For—Nothing,' and other inflammatory statements." (The Brawley News.)

"However, attorney for Avalos will contend that the bulletin board contained the following translated from Spanish: 'The consul was here today. Several prisoners released'."

Avalos sent strike reports to the "Mexican Herald," or, to be correct, El Heraldo De Mexico, a Los Angeles daily, which had much to say concerning the strike in the cantaloupe fields.

Avalos Deported and Not Deported.

The U. S. immigration service stated, May 15, that Jesus G. Avalos would be deported. Officials at the border were sure they had discovered "a clear violation of the immigration law." He was reported deported in the papers. The next day, however, those same U. S. officials said that Avalos had the best right in the world to say in the "land of the free" and attend to his newsstand and bulletin board, etc. The arrest and "deportation" of Avalos may be the basis for an interesting court procedure.

The local A. F. of L. organ, the L. A. Citizen, has had nothing to say about the struggle of the cantaloupe pickers. As far as I know, The DAILY WORKER is the only labor paper reporting on it.

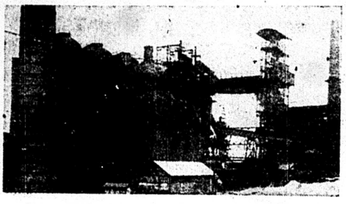
Hostile to Union.

According to the last report to El Heraldo De Mexico, May 25, R. Rio secretary of the new Mexican Union was arrested after all the rest of the prisoners had been released. Although Rio has been turned lose, the workers have decided not to hold any public meetings at present. All underground, if any, for the time being because the sheriff still is very hostile to the union, Jesus G. Avalos says.

It is now up to the labor movement in the southwest to get in closer touch with the Mexican workers than has been the case in the past. Mexicans are far more progressive than many of the Americans. The latter expect to become millionaires some day. The former have no such false illusions. Study Spanish and take the leadership, Comrades! Lack of able organizers is the greatest handicap at present. Efforts must be made to draw the Mexican organizations into the American labor movement. In order to do that—you must go to the Mexicans, the Mexicans wil be slow to come to you. Our brothers from the land below the Rio Grande have nothing against the so-called whites, but they have reason to nourish a dislike for the insult of being regarded as "inferiors." The Mexican class-consciousness is strong.

—L. F. RINDAL.

Heavy Industry with Workers in Control



The towering steel furnaces of the "Tomski" steel and iron mills are shown in the picture. Unlike the slave-driving mills of the United States Steel Corporation where American workers are hounded to labor under indescribable conditions, the workers of the "Tomski" factory control their own shop. The "Tomski" mill is named for the leader of the trade unions of the U. S. S. R.

JONES BILL AIMED AT ALL SEAMEN

(By a Worker Correspondent)

The Jones-White Bill recently passed by congress and signed by President Coolidge, should be of interest to every worker engaged in the marine industry. It is a militarization of the merchant marine for time of war.

The merchant marine naval reserve measure will prove very detrimental to organizations engaged in the marine industry.

Under the cloak of "national defense," the ship owners will sponsor this bill for the express purpose of destroying any organization which may be inclined to fight for better wages and higher standards of living.

The ship-owners claim that the men will not be forced to join the naval reserve. But preference will be given to those who are members of it in securing berths aboard ship and this will practically force men into joining it.

A certain percentage of the crew's being members of the naval reserve allows the ship to fly the naval reserve flag and mail contracts will be given to naval reserve ships. We can easily see that any sign of militancy will be blocked by the seamen unwillingly forced to scab under guise of this bill.

It also enables the shipowners to discriminate against the progressive seamen by having them blacklisted if they should agitate for better standards of livelihood and wages, and this will tie their hands and force them to become unwilling slaves of capitalism.

Parents Protest School Overcrowding

(By a Worker Correspondent)

The Allerton section of the Bronx where the Workers Co-operative is located is growing by leaps and bounds. Within the last year many new and large apartments have been built and occupied. The only public school in the neighborhood is located blocks away from the populated section and mothers have to spend their entire day running to and from school in order to conduct their children through the dangerous crossings.

Overcrowded.

The school was built for 1,000 children and is occupied by 2,000 which makes it extremely overcrowded. They are forced to eat lunch on the floor of a dirty basement and swallow the dirt with their food. This condition forced the parents to organize. A mass meeting was held and a committee elected to visit the principal.

A second mass meeting was held on Monday, May 14, and the committee rendered a report which reveals the autocratic attitude of the principal, Mr. Rado.

Mrs. Gritz, the chairlady of the meeting, reported that, after telling them to wait he said he would allow them fifteen minutes and then repeatedly asked the clerk whether or not the time was up. The assistant principal had already informed them that she herself would not even look at them.

His first comment on receiving them was that he did not believe they represented anybody and then took their names and addresses.

When the spokesman of the committee wanted to explain their grievances, he refused to recognize him because he was not a parent, only a brother of some of the children

The committee then left in disgust but the principal set out to "remedy" the situation. He organized a parent's circle of "100 per cent" Americans to whose children he hands out favors, and proceeded to divide the children by lecturing to them on them on the viciousness of the Co-operators and has succeeded in creating a sentiment against the children of the Co-operative neighborhood.

When the pioneers distributed leaflets for the mass meeting they were threatened. Some were also punished for celebrating May Day. After he read the demand put up for hot lunches to be served in school, he remarked; "I would like to feed you hot iodine." When a boy was hit by his music teacher and the mother protested he showed her a strap which he says he uses for his own child thereby justifying the action of the teacher.

Not Enough Police.

An appeal was made to the police captain for more protection at the dangerous crossings and they were told that there was a shortage of policemen. Incidentally there were enough to break up a meeting of the Grocery Clerks' Union who conducted a strike in some markets in the vicinity.

A new executive committee of the Parents' Association of Ollinville appeals to all parents to join the organization which decided to charge 25 cents initiation and 10 cents a month dues. Only through organized power can we hope to win our demands.

1. For more schools and a seat for every child.
2. Annexes to temporarily relieve the situation.
3. A lunch room for the children.
4. Police protection on the dangerous crossings from 7 a. m. to 5 p. m.
5. The elimination of the autocratic principal who was dismissed from P. S. 6D on the demand of the parents and wished on us.

Parents, organize and fight for the welfare of your children.

The executive of the association has arranged an open-air meeting for June 2 on the corner of Allerton and Cruger Aves., at 3 p. m.

COAL BARONS IN FUTILE DRIVE TO OPEN UP MINES

$250 a Month Bait Gets Nothing But Scabs

(By a Worker Correspondent)

CALDWELL, O., (By Mail).—I enjoy reading The DAILY WORKER very much. While I was visiting in the eastern part of the state, a person told me about The DAILY WORKER. I believe The DAILY WORKER should be read by every working man.

Now a few words as to conditions in this part of the coal fields. The Cambridge Collieries Co. started one mine open shop about three weeks ago. Despite Oral Daugherty's extensive scab herding campaign, the operators are having no success. Only one black sheep was found in Local 624 at Caldwell.

The operators are getting very uneasy in this section. They expected a large turnout when they started open shop. But the few men they've got cleaning up the mines don't know the first principles of mining.

The operators in their frantic effort to break the strike are trying to bait some of their old men. They are offering as high as $240 a month if the men will return to work. Their offers have been rejected.

Judge C. O. Dye has issued two injunctions to the operators in Caldwell. I learned that 150 business men in Caldwell signed a petition for these injunctions.

In Guernsey County the miners are not permitted to hold meetings, according to an injunction issued by the notorious common pleas judge, Turnbaugh, to the Morris Coal Co. and the Akron Coal Co.

I am sending you $3.50 for a six month subscription to The DAILY WORKER. Would I be asking too much if I asked you to send the paper to a couple of my friends who would like to read the DAILY, but have no money right now?

Paul Green's New Play May Be Seen Here Next Season

Paul Green, who will be remembered for his Negro play "In Abraham's Bosom," which was produced by the Provincetown Playhouse last season, has completed two new full length plays. One of these, titled "The House of Connelly," is about an old Southern white family. The other, called "Tima," is a poetical fantasy that rides roughshod over all stage conventions and rules. "The House of Connelly," may be seen on Broadway early next season.

Edwin H. Knopf engaged the Bijou Theatre yesterday for the opening of "The Big Pond," on August 14. Kenneth McKenna and Pierre de Mirande will be in the cast.

What I Saw in China
by TOM MANN
For the past three years the Chinese masses have been struggling for freedom from the clutches of Imperialism.
Everyone nowadays is either talking or writing China.
Tom Mann, "grand old man" of the British labor movement, contributes his observations after a stay of six months in China with the International Workers Delegation.

FIRE TRAPS ARE NEGROES' HOMES

Southern Rail Workers Go On Strike

There is no section of the working class in New York which welcomes the summer season more than the Negro. This may sound strange, but when it is analyzed it will be seen to have a genuine economic basis. It is especially true at this time of widespread national unemployment which always hits the Negro workers harder than the white workers.

It is a well-known fact that the Negroes are the last to be hired and the first during a period of economic depression.

Segregation.

As a result of a well organized system of racial discrimination, the Negroes of New York, as in other sections of the country, are zoned off from the rest of the population.

Harlem is the "black belt" of the city and because the largest Negro urban population in the world is confined to a limited residential section, all the social ills of segregation are thrown upon their backs. Negroes pay the highest rents, live in the worst tenements, buy the dearest food, and get the least civic advantages of all the social groups.

About 90 per cent of the Negro people in Harlem are tenants who are fleeced in the most shameful manner by the landlords, white and Negro. In winter they get little heat in spite of the fact that they pay more for occupying their unsanitary quarters than workers in other sections of the city. Because race prejudice is one [illegible] the "blessings of American democracy," these people compelled to remain penned up like hogs in an overcrowded community year in and year out. If they attempt to move into sections of the city they are met with every form of hostility, even from white workers who are themselves exploited.

One of the most pathetic situations in the labor movement today is the hostility of the white workers towards the Negroes. Unless they unite and learn to be more sympathetic to each other, the ruling class will be able to oppress and exploit them by playing upon their race prejudice. Workers of all races must close their ranks and fight against their common enemy, capitalism.

As the days become warmer, large numbers of Negroes will again take to the open air as a means of escaping from the disease-ridden tenements into which the cold months forced them. They will spend nights in the nearby parks or on roofs, thus helping them to bridge over the hard times.

SOVIET SINGER AT CENTER CONCERT

To Award Red Banner on Saturday

Tickets are selling fast for the great concert and dance to be held in the Workers Center, 26-28 Union Square, on Saturday evening. Workers thruout the city are preparing to make this affair a real proletarian celebration of the acquisition of the Workers Center as the home of the revolutionary movement.

The finishing touches are now being put on the musical program which is under the direction of George Cookley. The two headliners on the program are N. Nazaroff, distinguished Russian baritone, who has been widely acclaimed thruout the Soviet Union, and L. Newell, noted harpist and soloist of the Capitol Theatre Symphony Orchestra. Nazaroff will be assisted by his two gifted children, who have also received high praise from music critics.

Following the concert a dance will be held, music being provided by a jazz orchestra.

The outstanding event of the evening will be the award of the red revolutionary banner now on display at the Center. The award will be made by William W. Weinstone, district organizer of the Workers (Communist) Party and secretary of the board of directors of the Workers Center, to the unit making the highest totals in the drive for $30,000 to establish the Center. The next few days will determine which unit is to receive the banner.

A saving of 25 cents has been made possible on tickets for the concert and dance by the announcement that all tickets have been reduced to 50 cents if bought in advance. At the door they will be 75 cents. They are on sale at Workers Center, 26-28 Union Square; the Workers Bookshop, 26-28 Union Square; United Workers Cooperative, 2700 Bronx Park East; and the Unity Cooperative, 1800 Seventh Ave.

Kenosha Workers Will Meet to Discuss Strike

KENOSHA, Wis., May 31. — The Young Workers (Communist) League, local Kenosha, and the Workers (Communist) Party here will hold a mass meeting June 8 at the German-American Hall at 8 p. m. The meeting will take up the subject of the Allen-A strike.

Along with the Gas and Liquid Fire Throwers

Capitalism is beginning to hoard the relics of its imperialist ventures. The Spirit of St. Louis, the plane in which Col. Charles Lindbergh made his "good will" flight over the machine guns of the American marines in Nicaragua, has been placed in the Smithsonian institute in Washington. The picture shows the plane hanging in the tackle.

THOUSANDS OF WORKERS TO HONOR DEAD LEADER

All attempts by the Veterans of Foreign Wars to stop the huge memorial meeting in honor of the Late William D. Haywood to be held at Central Opera House, 67th Street and Third Avenue tomorrow night have thus far proved futile.

No matter what obstruction may be thrown up the meeting will be held, according to William W. Weinstone, organizer of District 2, Workers (Communist) Party under whose auspices the meeting has been called.

U. S. department of justice agents, who were asked by Commander Jean A. Brunner, of the New York State Department of Foreign War Veterans, to bar the meeting have thus far taken no apparent action. Brunner asked action on the ground that Haywood died a fugitive from a federal court.

Federal authorities, in view of the coming fall elections, are believed to be afraid that any action against the meeting would be heralded, even by the least class conscious workers, as a gross attempt to bar free speech.

Even in the beginning of his fight against the meeting, Commander Brunner conceded that the local police and state authorities could find no excuse to intervene.

The New York district of the Workers Party has completed plans for the memorial. A record attendance is expected as more than 100,000 black-edged leaflets, advertising the meeting, have been distributed among the workers in stores and factories.

Keen interest in the meeting is reported in I. W. W. circles. Hundreds of I. W. W. members and ex-members who followed "Big Bill" Haywood before the war but did not, like their leader, join the Communist Party, are planning to attend the memorial.

Five close associates of Haywood will address the meeting. They are Jay Lovestone, executive secretary of the Workers (Communist) Party; Robert Minor, editor of The DAILY WORKER; James P. Cannon, executive secretary of the International Labor Defense, and Herbert Zam, secretary of the Young Workers (Communist) League. Jack Stachel, national organizational secretary of the Workers (Communist) Party, will act as chairman.

EVEN SCABS HAD TO GO ON STRIKE

LOS ANGELES, Cal., (By Mail). —The following, taken from a recent issue of the local A. F. of L. organ, will help, perhaps, to throw some light on G r e e n i s h, Comperized unionism in Los Angeles:

"Report reaches the office of The Citizen, from the Electrical Workers, of a strike called by non-union workmen employed in that industry. One of the prominent contractors who specializes in residence and apartment work, and who has instituted the iniquitous and baneful system of piece-work in the installation of electrical outlets, had consistently, over a period of time, at every opportunity reduced the piece work rate, until the men employed were forced to labor from 10 to 12 hours daily on a building to install enough work to realize a helper's wages."

Scab Strike.

"The non-union workmen employed by the contractor revolted, and called a strike in protest against further reductions in the already ruinous rates. Being unorganized, these men were unable to make their strike effective and this company succeeded in employing a sufficient crew of men who were willing to 'scab' on the 'scabs.'"

Communist Created Fighting Spirit.

"The Electrical Workers have fought against this institution of this piece-work employment consistently," says the Citizen. That the Electrical Workers' Union used to be fairly active a few years ago is true. But that was before Comrade David Gorman left that organization for Soviet Russia. In Gorman's time the electricians were even strong for the Farmer-Labor Party.

"In those entirely non-union shops where this system has been adopted, the non-union workmen, through this constant lowering of the piece-work basis, has been forced to labor longer hours. . ." What does the term "entirely non-union shops" really mean? It means that union and non-union men work side by side to a great extent in this city. The lion is laying down with the lamb. So does the Citizen, it seems. The reader will notice that the name of the scabby contractor in question isn't even mentioned. No fighting spirit in evidence at all. Class-conscious fighters are expelled right and left by the reactionary officialdom.

"This basis of payment for electrical work has been instrumental in tearing down the standards of construction, to the detriment of the workmen engaged, and to the loss of owners and builders because of the poor class of workmanship. . . ." But why should workers worry about "the loss of owners and builders." They are interested in the welfare of the bosses—big or small.

To a certain extent, however, the workers are interested in "the standards of construction." First, for their own safety and, second, because toilers are eventually going to take everything over and run it for their own benefit anyhow. Why not make an attempt to organize those scabs who were "class-conscious" enough to go on strike? The Citizen didn't touch on that point at all. By all means, let the world know the name of this particular scab herder anyway.

—L. P. RINDAL.

NOTED WRITERS IN 'LABOR DEFENDER'

Barbusse Among Noted Contributors

NOW that the editorial quality is right up to the striking photographs in every issue of the Labor Defender, it is easy to understand the cabled an article on the fascist terror new June issue Henri Barbusse has cabled an article on the fascist terror raging in Italy.

James P. Cannon gives us an intimate introduction to Warren K. Billings in his story of a visit with him. Cannon saw and talked with Billings while going thru California on a national tour on the frame-up system. In the June issue there is also Cannon's interview with the I. W. W. men framed up in Centralia, now at Walla Walla prison.

It is difficult to point out the "feature" article in an issue which includes, in addition to these stories by Cannon, articles by Henri Barbusse and also a letter from Bill Haywood, perhaps the last word to American workers from "Bill" from Russia, where he has just died. There is also an informative article by Harvey O'Connor on the textile strike and a miner's wife writes a story in a simple, homely way that for sheer courage makes one wonder how the miners can ever be defeated with such spirit in their ranks. An article on Bela Kun by Stephen Kennedy is included.

This is a full, interesting and colorful issue. It can, of course, be improved. In fast, the last few issues have been consistently improving. Perhaps more variety, more articles and stories on various phases of workers lives and labor activities would highten interest. As it is now, the LABOR DEFENDER, and particularly the June issue, is well worth having.

REFUSES PERMIT TO YOUTH LEAGUE

Communist Workers Plan Campaign

HARTFORD, May 31. — Mayor Walter E. Batterson, vice-president of the City Band and Trust Company, one of the five largest insurance companies of the United States, and, incidentally, Mayor of Hartford, refused the Young Workers (Communist) League of this city a permit for an open air meeting which the league intended to arrange against the Citizens Military Training Camps and militarism.

The Hartford branch of the Young Workers League has previously been able to obtain permits whenever they desired and this refusal came as a distinct surprise to the organization. It is believed that this attempt to gag the league is a result of the successful campaign it has been waging against militarism. Recently, the Associated Press broadcast the fact that the Young Workers League of Hartford had dared to place on the state capitol and other strategic points in the city placards denouncing the Citizens Military Training Camp and militarism. John Steuben, state organizer of the league, was arrested in New Haven in an attempt to involve him as the one resopsible for the distribution of these placards.

Last year, ex-mayor Stevens also refused a permit for an out-door meeting to be arranged by a Sacco-Vanzetti Defense Committee. Stevens was also an official in the employ of the insurance companies.

"The Young Workers League will not permit itself to be silenced by the mayor who holds an inherited seat with the financial clique which controls city politics," J. A. Rose, of the league said. "The league is planning to utilize its anniversary celebration Saturday evening at the Labor Lyceum, 2003 Main Street, as a means of mobilizing its membership and sympathizers against the autocratic tactics of the mayor. In the approaching presidential elections the league plans to wage an intensive campaign side by side with the Workers (Communist) Party and will not permit the mayor or anyone else to take away its right of assemblage and its right to speak to the workers of Hartford."

BOSSES BLAMED IN DEATHS.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 31.—Explosion of an oil tanker in San Francisco Bay, which caused the death of two workers and seriously injured five, is blamed by investigators of the California Industrial Accident Commission on the use of dangerous electrical equipment on the deck by the owners, the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation. The commission is also investigating the action of the Bethlehem people in barring investigators from the ship, placing a gag on their employes and removing some of the electrical equipment before inspection was allowed.

VOICE PROTEST AT KUN ARREST

Mass Meeting Held By Chicago Labor Defense

CHICAGO, May 31. — Chicago workers assembled in Northwest Hall held one of the most rousing protest meetings ever seen in this city. The arrest of Bela Kun, Hungarian Communist leader, by the Seipel Government of Austria was the occasion for this highly successful meeting.

The meeting was called by the Chicago Local of International Labor Defense. The speakers were Joseph Fisher, secretary of the Anti-Horthy League, Paul Petras, a Hungarian workers' leader, speaking in Hungarian, and Ralph Chaplin, ex-class war prisoner. The chairman of the meeting was Joseph Giganti, secretary of the Local I. L. D.

Fisher gave a realistic account of the atrocities of the Horthy regime, citing facts and cases. Petras made an impassioned plea for a united fight against the murder mis-rule in Hungary.

Chaplin received an ovation lasting several minutes, when he walked up to the platform, urging a tremendous protest which would bend the Austrian government to the will of the working masses.

Chairman Giganti linked the protest against the arrest and proposed extradition of Bela Kun with the general fight against fascism. He pointed out how consistently the International Labor Defense had waged its campaign against the white terror in every country, rallying great masses of workers in this country to support the fight.

At the close of the meeting a worker in the audience arose to introduce a strong resolution, asking for the immediate release of Bela Kun. The resolution was unanimously adopted and ordered sent to the Austrian legation in Washington, D. C.

Reverend Norman Thomas Goes to "the Masses"

Before the Synod of the Evangelical churches at Dunkirk, N. Y., on Memorial Day, the Reverend Norman Thomas, candidate of the socialist party for the presidency of the United States, struggled to win the souls of his fellow protestant preachers for the gospel of Hillquit reformism and away from the reformism of Al. Smith.

Mr. Thomas is having a hell of a time with his flock.

The flock is flocking to Al. Smith. Unable to find any essential difference between the socialist party platform of Smith as candidate for the nomination of the democratic party, large members of the brethren of the Reverend Thomas' party could see no reason for failing to vote for the "good" Mr. Smith.

Where does the Rev. Mr. Thomas go to reclaim the straying souls of his party of piety and efficient capitalist government? There is nothing accidental in the choice of Norman Thomas as the orator of the day for the conclave of provincial protestant preachers who constitute the "key men" of reaction among the most backward sections of the petty capitalist class. The socialist party has lost all semblance of working class basis. Its present basis is correctly indicated by the struggle of the socialist party campaign leaders to present to the small business elements a program more alluring to them than the one Smith promises. Mr. Thomas' program consists of a few glowing promises that the socialist party politicians if elected will administer more "honestly" than all other politicians the capitalist state machinery for safeguarding the system of exploitation of the working class. In Reading, Pa., the socialist party officials headed by Rev. Thomas' running mate, James Maurer, promises the capitalist class to give it "capitalist" government and to protect the property rights of the capitalists against the working class in case of strikes. Mr. Thomas himself uses the official organ of the socialist party to explain that he is not an "orthodox" follower of Marx, which indeed is a necessary explanation of the Reading socialist party leaders' proposal to conduct a strikebreaking government. And all of it harmonizes with the action of the last convention of that yellow party in withdrawing the former requirement that applicants for membership in that party should acknowledge the class struggle.

Indeed, how could the small business men, preachers and lawyers that now constitute the leading frame-work of the socialist party—how could the preachers of the Evangelical Synod—embrace the class struggle of the working class?

There is no essential difference between what the Rev. Thomas' party offers and what the also-pious Al. Smith offers, except one will break strikes with protestant incantations, the other with catholic devotion.

The socialist party platform on which this obscurantist preacher—this enemy of the workers stands—is one which offers nothing that Al. Smith can not equally well promise. Both platforms are platforms intended to win the workers to faith in the capitalist government and capitalist system of wage slavery. But the anti-Marxian, anti-working class platform of the socialist party especially appeals to the workers to believe the lie that through the use of the ballot in the capitalist elections they can liberate themselves.

The workers should watch closely the antics of this obscurantist preacher who betrays more openly than the more astute Hillquit the counter-revolutionary, anti-labor character of his party of piety and strikebreaking.

The Workers (Communist) Party asks the working class to vote for the revolutionary party of the working class. But in doing so it does not lie to the workers by claiming that the working class can be emancipated from wage slavery through the casting of ballots in the elections under the capitalist state. The present election campaign, entered into with unprecedented vigor by the Communist Party, is used by this revolutionary party as an important means of mobilizing the working class for the struggle against the capitalist class and against the capitalist state. The Communist Party frankly tells the workers that it should have no illusions of any possibility of emancipation thru the forms of this state capitalist government or its elections. Only the actions of the masses of workers and exploited farmers, outside of the forms of the capitalist government state machinery, outside of the parliamentary forms, can win their emancipation.

Any revolutionary workers elected to public office will use that office as a tribune from which to denounce and expose the enemy character of the capitalist government, and to mobilize the workers against it.

LABOR DEFENSE AIDS CLASS WAR PRISONERS

Seventy cases in which workers were under attack by the capitalist courts were handled by the New York Section of the International Labor Defense, 799 Broadway, during the past four months. A large number of these cases were successfully fought by the defense organization, while final decision in a number of them is still pending, according to Rose Baron, secretary.

Among the cases that were taken care of during the past four months were many arrested paper box strikers, striking shoe workers, laundry workers, grocery clerks and millinery workers, the strikers of the Eagle Pencil Co., workers arrested for distributing anti-injunction leaflets, workers arrested for protesting against American imperialism's war on Nicaragua, workers arrested for collecting money for miners' relief and workers threatened with deportation because of radical activities, including the case of A. Kobel, editor of Uus Ilm, Esthonian Communist weekly. Kobel was to be deported for denouncing the murderers of Sacco and Vanzetti. Workers arrested for distributing May Day leaflets, workers arrested for distributing the DAILY WORKER in the Bayonne strike and workers arrested for speaking on street corners also were among these defended.

In each of these cases the I. L. D. paid lawyers' fees, furnished bail when necessary, conducted propaganda campaigns to free the victimized workers and paid miscellaneous expenses.

"Our record of activity for four months proves that the I. L. D. is the strongest champion which the workers possess in their struggle against the attacks and frame-ups of capitalist courts, Rose Baron said yesterday. "All class-conscious workers should recognize this fact and help build the I. L. D. into an even stronger fighter for the American working class."

Organizing the Young Workers

The second case was that of the millinery workers. The millinery workers after about two years of hard work had succeeded in building up a local of almost 4,000 members. No help had been given by the bureaucrats in this work, and they themselves previously had never taken any interest in organizing the trimmers.

After this work was accomplished however, they are now making efforts to smash the millinery workers' union under the fake slogans of amalgamation and endeavoring to combine it with another local. The third case was that of the office workers. The Office Workers' Union, the B. S. & A. U., No. 12646, a federal union of the American Federation of Labor, has been in existence for many many years, but in all that time has not yet succeeded in getting at the most more than 10 or 150 members into its ranks. It has had annual expulsions every year. Young workers in the office workers' union who have really shown any interest in organizing the big mass of the office workers were inevitably expelled from the union, as has been the case recently.

Finally, however, those who were expelled decided that they could no longer support an organization like the office workers' union which makes no effort to organize the young workers, which makes no effort to fight for their conditions, but on the contrary, expels those who wish to fight for their conditions.

They organized the Office Workers' League which is rapidly gaining in membership.

Shoe Workers.

The fourth case was that of the shoe workers. The slipper workers, mostly young workers, had heretofore been unorganized. Recently they were organized in a local and as a result of this they gained many concessions from the boss. However, the bureaucrats of the Shoe Workers' Protective Union were not interested in seeing the young workers in the trade organized. Consequently they took out an injunction against the Shoe Workers' Union which had organized the young workers. All these examples very definitely indicated that the part of the trade union bureaucracy is not only away from organizing the young workers, but is actually for preventing the organization of the young workers by themselves or by other forces, and for smashing their organizations wherever they succeed in forming them.

Role of Brookwood.

In this situation, what is the role of Muste and his associates of the Brookwood Labor College? Their role is somewhat similar to that of the left social democrats in Europe. They talk about organizing the young workers, because there is a movement in the ranks of the young workers for organization. But their talk is only intended to side-track the young workers from organization. They are just as much interested in organizing the young workers as is the trade union bureaucracy. This was demonstrated at the conference by their continual abhorrence of the discussion of the concrete questions, such as the Plumbers' Helpers' and the Millinery Workers' Unions. They were much more interested in discussing organizing the young workers as an abstraction, but refused to discuss any concrete situation. This was also indicated by their refusal to take any steps which might have a positive result in the labor movement. Tom Tippet in his speech had declared that the First Brookwood Conference was a conference of hot air; this one would be one of action. But Mr. Muste very quickly disillusioned the delegates. He declared that the conference could do nothing; the conference could only discuss.

When the delegates, however, objected very strenuously to such declarations, he was compelled to withdraw and finally under the pressure of the delegates he even made the concession of permitting the adoption of resolutions, with the result that the resolution introduced by the representative of the Young Workers League on Social Legislation for the Young Workers, and the resolution introduced by Clarence Miller on the organization of the young workers, were unanimously adopted. There was also quite a vigorous struggle over the question of whether the conference should elect a committee or not. Mr. Muste was against it. The delegates were for it. The delegates declared that they must elect a committee which would be able to carry out some of the decisions of the conference, which would be able to reach other trade unions with the message of the conference. And finally again, Mr. Muste was compelled to accede to the wishes of the delegates and a committee was elected.

The conference demonstrated one thing very clearly. The young workers are an important factor. They must be organized. Without the young workers, the struggle of the workers against the capitalist class is so much the harder. To whom will fall the task of organizing the young workers? To the Communists and the left wing. No other force can or will organize the young workers. The trade union bureaucrats will do all in their power to prevent the organization of the young workers. The liberals, like Muste, in between, will talk about organizing the young workers, but actually will act as a brake on this movement. The Communists and the left wing must be the ones to take the concrete measures for organizing the young workers. The Young Workers (Communist) League has for the past three years been in the forefront in this task. This still remains a fundamental task for the Young Workers (Communist) League. The Young Workers (Communist) League looks upon the Labor Youth Conference as a step of progress, not because of the achievements of Brookwood, but because of the achievements of the delegates themselves against them. What must be done now is to follow up, to actually carry out what the delegates expressed at the Labor Youth Conference at Brookwood and to spread this on a national scale.

The role of Brookwood at this conference was clear. His role was to rationalize and justify the betrayals of the bureaucracy and their attacks against the left wing and Communists. At times this betrayal was cleverly marked by the proper phraseology.

An Organized Meeting Is a Successful One

By SIDNEY BLOOMFIELD

With the election campaign getting under way the organization of propaganda meetings will play an important part in rallying the working class to our banner. In the course of my experience in the Socialist Party and the Communist Party campaigns I have seen many meetings ruined because of bad organization of the meeting, lack of organization of literature selling and unsystematic manner of making the collection.

In order to avoid failure of our propaganda meetings, I am offering a working program which may be modified according to the circumstances. With ten ordinary rank and file workers, a meeting can be organized in the following manner:

Four literature sellers; 2 in inside and 2 in outside aisles. 4 collectors; 2 in inside and 2 in outside aisles, women preferred; one literature seller to tend to literature table at entrance of hall; one comrade to act as chairman.

Literature

Before the meeting hall is opened, the literature table at the entrance should be placed so as to have the literature facing the the people upon entering hall. When meeting is on, the comrade in charge shall turn table around or switch the literature around so that people may read and buy upon leaving hall.

A variety of literature may be sold by the sellers and at the table before the meeting opens. A few minutes before opening the meeting, the chairman should call attention to the literature, explain its importance on sale and urge the audience to buy, withdrawing from the platform for a few minutes to allow uninterrupted selling. The sellers should call out and really peddle the various kinds of literature without however, creating any undue noise or disorder.

Aggressive selling will bring results. The speakers should be supported with heavy literature sales, as the major part of the success of any meeting consists in heavy literature sales.

One or two special pamphlets or books, to be sold from the platform by the speaker, chairman or other competent comrade should be set aside until the speaking is over. The sellers are to have an understanding with the comrade who is to introduce the book from the platform in a two-minute speech so as to commence selling as soon as the introductory speech is over.

When the chairman is about to open the meeting, all literature sellers must retire to the rear of the hall very quietly so as to allow meeting to go on undisturbed, check-up their sales and cash in to the comrade in charge of the literature. When this is done, the comrade in charge gives to each seller his or her allotment of the special pamphlets or books (that the speaker will later introduce) and quietly take his seat in the rear of hall, but to come forward to the front after the collection has been taken and the speaker commences to talk about the literature.

Ushers and Collectors.

The four collectors shall act as ushers until time of collection. When tired of walking around, the ushers may sit down occasionally at the rear of hall so as not to disturb the meeting by sitting down and getting up during the progress of the meeting.

The ushers shall act as collectors, and shall have hats or other receptacles ready before the meeting opens. They shall quietly move to the front of the hall and be ready for their work when the speaker or chairman begins to make the collection talk. If there are not sufficient comrades, then the same comrades acting as literature sellers may act as ushers as well as collectors.

If bills are collected first, the collectors are to leave their receptacles on the edges of the platform and go thru the audience for the bills. When the speaker asks for the general collection, then the hats or receptacles shall be used. Collectors should go slowly thru the lines or rows of seats so as not to miss anyone and to give all an opportunity to contribute. In this respect we may take a lesson from the church collectors.

Soon as all money is taken up, collectors shall proceed promptly to an ante-room or other place (to be agreed upon before collection) where the collection may be counted without disturbing the meeting by jingling of coins or the conversation of the collectors. The chairman of the collection squad shall take charge of the collection after the collectors have assisted in counting and have verified the amount.

Free Literature.

Literature for free distribution should not, as a rule, be placed on the seats. People do not buy literature as readily after having received free literature. Some people tear up or scatter the literature, making a mess on the floor. Others read the free literature while the speaker is talking. Many do not even take up the literature from the chair, but sit on it, leaving the literature in a wrinkled state when leaving the hall. On the other hand, if a few comrades are stationed at the door to pass out the free literature when the audience is leaving, very few people will refuse to take it. Many will take the literature home, as they don't wish to stop to read on the street. A piece of literature, taken home is just the desired aim and purpose of distribution. Upon passing out the literature, a few words as "take it home and read it," spoken out loud by the comrades passing out the literature to each individual has a good effect.

All printed matter; whether pamphlets, leaflets, papers or magazines should be stamped with a simple rubber stamp similar to the one used by one of our units bearing the following announcement:

"You are welcome! come to the

WORKERS PARTY
HEADQUARTER

Rooms 224-5 Day Bldg. 4 Walnut St.
EVERY SAT. & MONDAY EVE.

Good Speakers, Lively Discussions and Good Times."

All meetings should be made to yield as much as possible, and full advantage of the meetings must be taken. Announcements should be taken care of by the chairman, and important ones may be repeated at another time. A membership drive at every meeting, if done in a well planned manner so as not to bore the audience is always in order, and many different means can be resorted to if the committee is wide-awake. Subscriptions to the party publications may be taken and cooperation with the speaker or chairman makes this task easier. Various party supplies such as, subscription blanks, information, and membership application blanks as well as party programs should be on hand at all meetings.

[illegible]AVE CRISIS MAY CLOSE THE DAILY WORKER SOON

TO O[illegible]DERS:

COMRA[illegible]

The DAILY WORKER is likely to cease publication within the next few days. The only hope of continuing publication is in receiving very substantial financial help immediately.

So urgent is the need that we are obliged now to put the matter up to the workers and sympathizers to decide whether this, the only daily Communist paper in the English language, is to continue its life.

The paper received an ultimatum yesterday from its printer that unless certain financial demands long postponed, were met, the printing shop would be unable to get out today's issue of the paper. Last night we succeeded in raising one thousand dollars to meet the first requirement, without which this issue of The DAILY WORKER would not have appeared today.

We cannot continue to publish unless the other demands are met. For a long time we have struggled to keep from going to our readers with this urgent cry for help. We are now compelled to take you into our confidence, put the terms before you and let you decide. The terms are:

Five thousand dollars must be raised by Saturday, June 9.

Ten thousand dollars must be raised within two weeks.

Do not misunderstand. If the first $5,000 is not received within the next seven days, we will be compelled to suspend. It may be necessary to reduce the size of the paper to four pages before the middle of the week, if the funds do not come in very rapidly Monday and Tuesday. In any case, if we do not receive $10,000 within the two weeks, The DAILY WORKER will go out of existence.

There appears to be no other choice this time.

We appeal to you, Comrades, Communists, sympathizers, militant workers, for whom The DAILY WORKER has fought in every strike, in every cause of the working class during the last four years, not to let our revolutionary fighting organ fall.

Our Party, of which The DAILY WORKER is the central organ, needs our revolutionary daily more in the next few months than ever before. We are just entering the biggest campaign we have ever faced. The struggle of the fighting coal miners against the open shop bosses and against the treacherous Lewis bureaucracy in the union is at its most critical point. The textile workers, in the midst of battle, and the needle trades workers whose long struggle is one of the bravest in the history of our class, need this fighting paper more than ever before.

And we are determined to live and to fight on, if it can be made possible.

Send help quickly.

Send by telegraph, airmail or special delivery, as large sums as you can possibly spare at any sacrifice. Address DAILY WORKER, 33 First St., New York, N.Y.

MINE WOMEN OF DISTRICT FIVE IN BIG CONVENTION

Report Organization of Many Districts

(Special to the Daily Worker)

PITTSBURGH, May 31 (By Mail).—Militant determination was the keynote of the conference of women delegates to the District 5 convention of the United Mine Workers which concluded here yesterday.

Twenty-one of the 28 women delegates present at the convention remained for the women's conference which represented 12 Ladies' Auxiliaries and women's Win-The-Strike Circles. That the mine women of District 5 have been won over to the support of the progressive mine movement was evident from the reports of the delegates. The women auxiliaries of the United Mine Workers' Union, broken up by the high-handed, reactionary tactics of the "leading ladies," hand picked by Lewis, are now being rebuilt on a democratic basis, the delegates declared.

Organization Increases.

Reports from Renton showed that over 100 women have been organized in one circle. "We meet regularly and everyone is solid for the union," Mrs. Mondale, chairman of the conference reported.

In Bentlyville it was learned the women's auxiliary have a fund of $100 in their treasury to be used for special relief, medicine and so on. Children in the section have been organized for months, the women reported.

Women of Cokeburg and Marianna have likewise been organized into active clubs which are supporting the strike and the progressives. From this section and from many others came the uniform report of beatings on picket lines and police brutality.

"We can't tell you how many times we have been beaten up," one dele-

WHITEWASH FOR MINE DISASTER

(Special to the Daily Worker)

MATHER, Pa., May 31 (By Mail).—Officials of the state bureau of mines who are investigating the causes of the explosion which killed 197 miners here on May 19, refuse to disclose the results of gas tests made in the Mather workings for nearly an hour, Monday, May 28. The tests were made in a section of the mine said to have been rock-dusted a week before the disaster.

No part of the information gained through questioning of mine operators as to ventilation and mine equipment was made public. In the meantime crews engaged in clearing the mine of wreckage have recovered eight more bodies, bringing the total of known dead to 182. Mine officials, it is reported, were questioned concerning the operation of ventilation fans and methods used for the elimination of gas from the mine.

Miners here still insist that the explosion was caused by gas accumulations and that precautions on the part

MICHIGAN READY FOR COMMUNIST CAMPAIGN

Michigan will have a stirring Communist election campaign this year according to William Reynolds, member of the Central Executive Committee of the Workers (Communist) Party, who was recently chosen candidate for governor on the Workers Party ticket.

Reynolds, who was in New York City for the National Nominating Convention of the Party, in an interview yesterday at The DAILY WORKER gave his impressions of the Communist election prospects this year.

"Our presidential candidates, Foster and Gitlow drew a large vote in Michigan in 1924. The Communist vote in this state was one of the largest in the country. This year we will increase our vote record for our Party substantially. The struggles which we have been carrying on especially among the auto workers has brought the Party to the fore."

Reynolds was chosen as candidate for governor at the May 19 state con-

Canton War Lords Kill 6 Railroad Strikers

Appeal the Sentence of Mill Strike Leader

REPEATED ARREST OF LEADERS CAN'T HALT PICKETING

3000 Hear Weisbord At Mass Meeting

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., June 1.—An appeal to the Superior Court has been made by the International Labor Defense for William T. Murdoch, sentenced to 90 days, A. Porter, 30 days, and 12 other active strikers, heavily fined for picketing the mill gates earlier in the week. Murdoch, who is secretary of the New Bedford Textile Mills Committee, was released only after bail of $900 was furnished.

The sharpness of the attack launched by the police all during last week in an effort to halt the regular picketing being conducted by the workers following the Textile Mill Committee, has proved a boomerang. As arrests of the picket leaders continued daily, the number of workers turning out for picket duty increased. Yesterday almost 1,000 workers reported early in the morning to patrol the mill gates.

Hear Weisbord.

Three thousand textile strikers turned out to hear Albert Weisbord, Passaic textile strike leader, and national head of the Textile Mills Committee, at a meeting held yesterday on lots at the South end. While the meeting was in progress the 14 released on appeal arrived. They were enthusiastically cheered by the thousands assembled. Fred E. Beal, Mill Committee organizer, was among the 14. The strike meetings of the Textile Mill Committee are held several times a week and each meeting shows an increase of several hundreds of strikers. The Textile Council meetings, on the other hand, are becoming less and less attended.

While the picketing was going on

NINE MEN DROWNED WHEN VESSEL SINKS

BOSTON, Mass., June 1.—Nine seamen of the Merchants and Miners Transportation company freighter Kershaw were drowned early today, it is believed, when the dollar liner President Garfield, on the last lap from New York to Boston after a cruise around the world, rammed and sunk the Kershaw in Vinyard Sound, off Vineyard Haven.

The Kershaw rolled over and went down ten minutes after the collision, carrying nine of the members of the crew down with it, according to reports, which are not complete as yet.

The ship's papers of the Kershaw went down with the vessel, and the names of the drowned men were not available. But it is known that many of the drowned and lost were Negroes, who made up the bulk of the freighter's crew.

Although the most complete list available at present gives the number of drowned as nine, later reports may reveal that many more died when the Kershaw went down.

40 Workers Jailed by Hungarian Terrorists

BUDAPEST, (By Mail).—Forty Hungarian workers were arrested in preparation for the May Day activities of the Horthy police. Thruout the day, police and troops patrolled the streets, preventing all demonstrations in the capital. Even a number of workers who wore red flowers in the buttonholes were arrested.

DEATH IN LUNGS OF SUBWAY WORKERS

75 New York Union Men Are Beyond the Aid of Science

One a week, New York's subway builders are dying of a baffling disease known as silicosis. Pounding at hard rock with drills, 1,500 members of the Subway and Tunnel Constructors Union breathe in rock dust, coating lungs and giving rise to tumors and abscesses soon incurable. 75 union members are doomed to die, beyond the aid of medicine, within the next five years, asserts President Thomas J. Curtis of the international union.

Dry rock drills are cheaper than drills jacketed with water connections to allay the dust.

SUBWAY builders, working deep in cuts through Manhattan's solid underpinning, carrying heavy automatic hammers and drills, find it nearly impossible to wear suffocating masks throughout the day, as bosses advise. Promises have been made by the city, as the result of the union's expose, to equip drills with water connections.

Granite Cutters Union years ago ordered an investigation of surfacing methods which were sending poisonous dust into lungs of members. Arsenic was found to be a menacing ingredient.

UNION rules were enforced to abate the evil, but even now one-third of Ohio sandstone workers are found to be suffering from silicosis and in New South Wales, 17 per cent of quarry workers were afflicted. In a third of these cases, tuberculosis had also set in.

HONOLULU, June 1.—The monoplane Southern Cross landed here safely at 4:19 p. m. today after a 2,400 mile journey from Oakland, Cal. The four Australian imperialist fliers who piloted the plane and who were for a time thought lost were all reported to be in good condition.

WORKER-PEASANT ARMIES GAINING THRUOUT SOUTH

Take Two More Cities in Drive on Canton

VANCOUVER, B. C., June 1.—In an effort to stem the railway strike which has tied up three of the principal railways in the province of Kwangtung, General Li Chai-sum, war-lord in control of the city of Canton, has executed six railway workers, one of them a leader of the union, according to information received here by the Canada Morning News, left wing Chinese newspaper. Fifteen other railway workers have been jailed.

VANCOUVER, B. C., June 1.—The worker-peasant troops are gaining victories thruout southern China, according to the Canada Morning News, left wing Chinese newspaper.

Many cities in southern China are in complete control of workers, artisans and peasants who have ousted the military and established their governments. In most of the cases the risings were spontaneous. Other cities have been taken by well-organized worker-peasant armies. Armies marching southwest from Hunan province and south from Swatow are approaching Canton, according to the reports.

Recent victories for workers and peasants are reported to have taken place in the city of Chau-Kwan, a strategically important city between Kwangtung and Kwangsi provinces, and in Yuan-shen, a large city in Szechuan province.

CLOAK PARLEY TO BE OPENED TODAY

The conference of shop representatives, called together by the National Organizing Committee opens at 10 o'clock this morning at Webster Hall, 11th Street and Third Ave. The purpose of the meeting is to begin the drive to build the union of the rank and file cloak and dressmakers, and to again reclaim the industry from the morass of open-shopdom into which the Socialist-boss partnership has driven it.

A whole series of such conferences are to be held in the near future in all ladies garment manufacturing centers of the country.

The conference of the National Organizing Committee, sent broadcast to the workers in the entire industry, has been answered by as great a response from the shops, as has ever been recorded at any of the numerous gatherings of cloak and dress makers yet held, according to the preliminary reports coming in.

One of the first tasks of the conference tomorrow will be to give a fi-

Worker Candidates to Run on the Farmer-Labor Ticket in North Dakota

KNUTSON, LOESCH AND BARRETT ARE CHOSEN TO LEAD

Farmers to Join with Industrial Workers

(Special to the Daily Worker)

BISMARCK, N. D., June 1.—Candidates who will fight for the interests of the working and tenant farmers have just been filed in the North Dakota primary to be held June 27 They are the following:

For United States senator, Alfred Knutson, of Bismarck, editor of the United Farmer; for governor, K. P Loesch, of Montpelier, working farmer; for congress, 3rd district, P. J Barrett, of Sanish, working farmer These candidates are running on the Farmer-Labor ticket.

A campaign will be launched as soon as possible to acquaint the farmers of the state with the candidates' program which include such demands as a five-year moratorium on farm mortgage debts, including debts on chattels; protection against monopoly prices; law against foreclosures; abolition of taxes on poor farmers; land for the users; an alliance with the workers in the industries, the organization of farm workers into unions.

This program and the campaign which is conducted by these working farmers' candidates are in sharp contrast to the program and the campaign carried on by the capitalist candidates in the old parties.

A feature of the election campaign will be the carrying on of a drive for members in the United Farmers' Educational League, to organize permanent units of the league which will carry on regular and systematic educational work among the farmers.

It is possible that other state and congressional candidates will be chosen by means of a sticker campaign, the plan being to have as complete a ticket as possible for the fall election.

gate reported, "but they can't stop us."

Mrs. Mondale reported also that ickville organized with 9 women two weeks ago. Fifteen came to the second meeting. In Apollo, 39 women joined. In New Fields and North Bessemer, 12 came to the first meeting. At the second 19 were present. At present it already has 80 members.

The conference, planned for the organization of children in groups, voted to support the "Coal Digger," the official organ of the progressives, for drawing in of the Negro women into the organization and for other important measures.

The executive committee elected at the conference voted to call another conference in six weeks. All communications, it was announced, should be addressed to Mrs. Mondale, Renton, Pa.

Italian Metal Workers Toil 12 Hours a Day

Cuzzeri, metalurgical delegate to the fascist congress, admitted that in numerous cases the working day was eleven or twelve hours.

Cal Hires Cool Little Shanty In the Woods

THE realization of a childhood ambition has been attained by President Coolidge, it was announced yesterday, with the acquisition by him of a little shack up in the north woods of Wisconsin.

Quiet meditation, rest, and study of the manifest destiny of the United States will be interrupted only by leisurely trout fishing outside the little hut.

Latest descriptions of the shanty which the frugal Vermonter has selected include these details:

It took 45 years to build and cost more than $1,000,000. The shack is set down in the midst of 5,000 acres of virgin forest land—six times the area of Central Park.

Appropriately enough, it was built by the late lamented Henry Clay Pierce, oil man and former partner of John D. Rockefeller.

Killed For Publicity

Lieutenant Paul Evert, shown in the picture, was killed when the balloon in which he was traveling in the international preliminaries at Pittsburgh was struck by lightning. The balloon regatta is sponsored by a number of large newspapers who are seeking for publicity in this way.

$653,756 SPENT BY OLD PARTIES

Sen. Heflin is On Klan Payroll

WASHINGTON, June 1. — A total of $653,756 has been admittedly spent so far by the candidates for president in both the Democratic and Republican parties, according to a tabulation yesterday by the Senate Campaign Funds Committee. Herbert Hoover, reactionary ballyhooer of the Republican party, still leads the list with more than half the total outlay. The tabulation follows:

Senator Heflin Klansman

Republicans
Secretary of Com. Hoover	$348,342.61
Late Sen. Wills of Ohio	66,769.52
Sen. Watson of Indiana	30,990.15
Ex-Gov. Lowden, Illinois	58,552.90
Sen. Goff of West Virginia	1,323.35
Senator Curtis of Kansas	6,560.00
Sen. Norris of Nebraska	6.00
Total	$512,544.53
Democrats
Gov. Smith of New York	$100,308.52
Senator Reed of Missouri	37,211.79
Senator Walsh of Montana (withdrawn)	1,001.52
Rep. Hull of Tennessee	845.00
Ex-Senator Pomerene, Ohio	100.00
Ex.-Sen Hitchcock, Nebraska	1,744,86

Senator Heflin, democrat of Alabama, also accounted for the expenditure of several thousand shekels. According to William Zumbrunn, general counsel for the Ku Klux Klan, who testified before the senate presidential campaign committee yesterday, Heflin received payment from the klan for speeches directed against Al Smith, in Ohio, New York, and Iowa.

WHITEWASH FOR MINE TRAGEDY

Operators Will Not Be Implicated

of the company might have averted the disaster.

"The report of rock-dusting is a cloak," one miner declares. "They keep talking about it, as if that was the only thing they could have done to prevent the explosion." Whether the board of inquiry intends officially to fix responsibility for the explosion, none of its members would state.

With memories of their dead still fresh, Mather coal diggers are bitter toward the company and toward the investigating body. The sorrow of the town was brought to a high pitch late last week when the last of the bodies found in the mine were buried in trenches because decomposition had set in and there was no possibility of identifying the corpses.

In the meantime 200,000 miners in Kansas, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Illinois Indiana and Iowa are still on strike for union conditions.

Starvation, new evictions in eastern Ohio and West Virginia, continued police brutality and the dread possibility of disease caused by the warm weather in the unsanitary and crowded barracks all face the miners.

The National Miners' Relief Committee is helping the miners fight. It is the only relief organization which is functioning so widely, regularly and generously. Send all contributions to the National Miners' Relief Committee, 611 Penn Ave., Pittsburgh, Pa., to help the miners win their fight.

THREE BALLOON WINNERS.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., June 1.—The United States Army Balloon No. 1, the Detroit News and the American Business Club entries in the national elimination races here, winners of the first three places in the race, will represent the United States in the international balloon race in Detroit, June 30.

SLINGER URGES ILLINOIS MINERS TO BUILD UNION

Shows How Lewis Acts For Operators

By DAN SLINGER.

(Newly elected secretary-treasurer of the United Mine Workers of America, Illinois section).

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 1.—Miners of Illinois are passing through an industrial crisis which testified to the treachery and failure of the policies and tactics of the Lewis and Fishwick machines.

The convention of the rank and file miners in Belleville May 19 and 20 delivered a telling blow to Fishwick and all of his cohorts by declaring their offices vacant and electing from the floor of the convention George Voyzey for president, who was a candidate for International president against John L. Lewis in 1924. Lewis then had to steal the election to retain his office.

Choose Tried Leaders.

Luke Coffey, who was elected vice-president, is one of the war horses who has consistently fought for the rank and file miners. In order to remove this militant miner, the machine revoked the charter of Local 705, O'Fallon, Ill. They cared nothing for the other men who belonged to this local union, as long as they could wreak their vengeance. In order that the miners might understand what kind of men are at the head of the machine in Illinois, we have but to look toward Belleville, Ill., the home of the secretary-treasurer, Walter Nesbit, who, with a band of thugs entered the Monarch Restaurant before the convention and attacked Freeman Thompson, John Watts and George Voyzey. When the smoke of battle cleared away his gang was in full retreat with Nesbit in the lead.

The coal loading machine and conveyor in Illinois has become a real menace under the separate agreements of Fishwick. At Nigger Hollow Mine No. 1, the miners are loading in some instances as high as nineteen tons on a conveyor for $8.04; this 19 tons of coal at the tonnage rate of 87c would mean $16.53 which is more than twice the amount paid on the conveyor, but the Lewises and the Fishwicks will still insist that they are signing up the Jacksonville agreement with no backward step. This shows how the miners have been betrayed by these bankrupt officials.

Open Shop.

At West Frankfort, Ill., where an agreement was signed up, the miners went out to work and after finding that there was no checkweighman on the tipple and that the company would not recognize a pit committee they returned home and the rank and file called a special meeting which continued until noon when they adjourned to meet again in the afternoon.

At the afternoon session the president of the local union appeared and declared the meeting illegal. The rank and file then called a meeting for June 25th.

While these fakers are signing up these fake agreements which are destroying the miners' organization they further continue their ruinous policy by revoking charters at Wilsonville, Orient, and other local unions. As one miner has stated, these officials had taken everything else but membership away from the miners, and now they are proceeding to take that. The officials elected at the rank and file convention advise the miners to quit paying their dues to this wrecking-crew of the Lewises and Fishwicks and send their dues to Dan H. Slinger, secretary-treasurer, Illinois section, U. M. W. of A., 128-A West Main St., Belleville, Ill. Miners, take control of your union!

Trainer in Circus

BANGOR, Me., June 1.—Cut and torn by the attack of two huge tigers at a circus here, Mabel Stark, tiger tamer, went back into the cage of the beasts for a second time and was struck down by the paw of one of the tigers. Attendants were able to draw her from the cage in safety.

The woman slipped as she first entered the cage and in an instant the other huge cat was upon her, ripping at her clothing with his claws. She made her escape after halting the animal for a minute by firing blank cartridges. She was re-

Pull Strings to Buy Off Radium Poison Victims

Efforts continue to buy off the five victims of radium poisoning who are suing the United States Radium Corporation of Orange, N. J., for $250,000 each.

Katherine Schaub, Albina Larice

Physicians have given the women less than a year to live as a result of the poisoning from the radio-active substance introduced into their system by wetting brushes with their lips while painting luminous dials on watches.

Federal Judge William Clark has stepped into the case as "unofficial mediator" in an effort to save the radium company more than a million dollars. A two-hour conference was held at his offices in Newark between officers of the radium company and counsel for both sides, at which terms of a "deal" were discussed. It is understood that the radium company proposes to give each of the victims $25,000 and a $3,000 a year pension for life. Since the five women, who are in constant great pain, have less than a year to live, their former employers would not have to spend much in pension money.

Quinta MacDonald, Edna Hussman

The fact that Raymond H. Berry, counsel for the five women, is a former law associate of Judge Clark gives the proceedings a rather unsavory tone. In defense of his altruistic efforts in behalf of the radium corporation Judge Clark has issued a statement to the effect that if the cases go to trial, it might take two or three years before a decision is made.

Grace Fryer

The five radium-poisoning victims, whose slow living death is due to conditions which are typical of many factories in this country, are Mrs. Edna Hussman, Mrs. Quinta MacDonald, Miss Grace Fryer, Miss Katherine Schaub and Mrs. Albina Larice. Their damage suits are scheduled to come up in Circuit Court June 11.

A five year old boy, born of a mother who died from radium poisoning, will be the subject of scientific experiments to determine whether such a child is doomed to the same death, it was learned today.

"Sonny" Scott, playing today on a farm in Connecticut, is the child who will be examined by scientists and physicians to determine whether his mother, Mrs. Eleanor Scott, gave him death at the same time she gave him life by transmitting the radium poisoning that was in her bones.

Mrs. Scott died on Dec. 21, 1927, from radium poisoning contracted during her work in the plant of the United States Radium Corporation, Orange, N. J.

Negro in Jury Formed to Try Robt. W. Stewart

WASHINGTON, June 1.—A jury of four women and eight men—one of the latter a Negro—was formed today by Justice Frederick L. Siddons to try Colonel Robert W. Stewart, chairman of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana), charged with contempt of the senate in connection with the Teapot Dome graft and slush fund inquiry.

The oil millionaire declined to answer two questions asked by the Senate Public Lands Committee last February.

MINE, TEXTILE ARTICLES IN NEW LABOR UNITY

Watt, Weisbord Write For June Number

With Weisbord writing on the New Bedford textile strike, and with John Watt, the chairman of the Pittsburgh National "Save the Miners' Union" Conference describing the latest developments in the great fight to drive the reactionaries out of control of the United Mine Workers and win the coal strike, with William Z. Foster explaining and denouncing the Mitten-Mahon agreement in traction, the June issue of Labor Unity appears.

"The miners go on to their district conventions," says Watt, and illustrates by examples, the strategy of the left wing forces, and its growing success. Already the larger districts have unseated the machine officials in meetings representing the locals and sub-districts.

"A most significant strike in the heart of the cotton goods industry, which is the bigger, basic side of the textile industry seldom affected by large scale struggles, though most exploited," is the gist of Weisbord's analysis, and he calls on all labor to rally to the aid of New Bedford strikers.

There are articles on the International Ladies' Garment Workers' convention and the Amalgamated Clothing Workers' convention, on the coming carpenters' convention, on the internal feuds in Chiang Kai-shek's militarist government, and the rising tide of worker-peasant revolution in China, on the textile situation in England, where the employers contemplate a lock-out of 80,000 workers this month, and 200,000 may strike, on the Red International of Labor Unions Congress, on the place of William D. Haywood in American labor history, on the rising militancy of women in the mine fields, on the betrayal of the taxi strike in Newark, and the present situation in the Cleaners' and Dyers' Unions, as well as other features.

Labor Unity is published by the Trade Union Educational League, 2 West 15th St., New York City, and sells for 20 cents a copy.

APPEAL JAILING OF STRIKE HEADS

Repeated Arrests Fail to Halt Picketing

this morning, before the Hathaway and Page Mills, W. E. G. Batty, secretary of U. T. W. Council stood with a few followers on the other side of the street, watching the strikers, their wives and children march up and down the gates.

May Try to Reopen.

Well-founded rumors are rife that the majority of the mill owners will finally make a concerted effort to reopen the mills Monday morning with strikebreakers. The answer of the Textile Mill Committee leadership to this is the rapid mobilization of the largest picket lines yet thrown around the plants.

The workers in the Beacon Mills, one of the few plants not attempting the cut in wages which led to the present strike of 28,000 workers, are threatening to join the walkout. During the last few weeks the owners of the Beacon Mills have installed a new system of production that forces a great increase in the amount of work turned out by the individual worker for the same pay. The workers at meetings declare that the speed-up is so viciously intense, it is unbearable. An immediate walkout is the demand of the men, but the officials of the skilled workers' union are seeking negotiations with the boss in an attempt to avert it.

The great need of the strikers, however, is relief contributions. The Workers' International Relief is extending its fund raising campaign thruout the nation. With support tendered by the other workers the tremendous fighting stamina of the thousands of strikers assures a victorious finish to this struggle, the W. I. R. declares in its appeal for relief.

NO MORE CHICKEN FOR COAL DIGGERS

Company-Unionizing Scheme of Coal Firm Is Abandoned

SCRANTON, Pa., (FP) June 1.—No more free chicken dinners for Hudson Coal Co. employes! The new Hudson president, Mr. Leamy, has decided to save the $1,000,000 spent annually to provide his 22,000 employes with chicken, turkey and squab dinners monthly. These dinners were an important part of the company's "educational" program in its efforts to teach the men how to adopt efficiency methods and use electric labor-saving devices in the mines.

Nowhere in the anthracite has the effort to company-unionize the men been so deliberate as here. Each month the men gathered at a hotel to dine at the company's expense, while efficiency experts told them how to apply brains to their work. The miners, glad to get a good feed occasionally, usually attended these dinners and listened to the engineers.

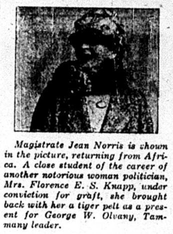
MR. Leamy evidently believes it is not necessary to spend the $1,000,000 annually to convert workers to the efficiency scheme. It is reported that efficiency experts will invade the operations and study conditions with a view to curtailing the number of men employed and speeding up production.

New bookkeeping methods have worked havoc among the clerical staffs with wholesale dismissals. Recess periods of 10 minutes enjoyed by certain employed groups have also been eliminated in the interests of more output.

She Plays the Game



Magistrate Jean Norris is shown in the picture, returning from Africa. A close student of the career of another notorious woman politician, Mrs. Florence E. S. Knapp, under conviction for graft, she brought back with her a tiger pelt as a present for George W. Olvany, Tammany leader.

CLOAK DELEGATES OPEN MEET TODAY

Conference First Step to Real Union

ting answer to the newest swindle the Sigman-Schlesinger gang is trying to perpetrate. This is the proclamation issued yesterday over the signature of Schlesinger which he printed in the Forward and had distributed in leaflet form.

With a once powerful organization, completely shattered by himself, Sigman and their followers, staring him in the face, Schlesinger hypocritically calls for "Peace" and "Unity" on the terms of the fake manifesto issued by the convention of union wreckers held recently in Boston which rules exponents of progressive policies, Communists, who can never hold office. In this leaflet Schlesinger also calls the workers to attend the meeting to celebrate Sigman's "victory" in obtaining on paper what the workers won in the bitter strike of 1926, namely the 40-hour week.

Propaganda For Tax.

The meeting as well as the new Schlesinger proclamation meets with the ridicule of the cloak and dressmakers. They clearly see that the reason for both is to propagandize for the payment of the 3 day tax, which was the outcome of the fake convention.

The conference today effectively answers not only this latest fake manoeuver of the right wing, but will also decide its attitude toward the meeting to "celebrate" Sigman's paper 40-hour week.

The representatives of the tens of thousands of exploited workers in the industry will also erect a permanent functioning machine of shop chairmen, whose task it will be to carry into practice all the decisions passed at the conference. The conference will also produce real plans for the effective enforcement of the 40-hour week and all other union conditions in the trade.

MICHIGAN READY FOR BIG CAMPAIGN

Large Communist Vote is Expected

vention held at Flint, Michigan. Running with him for lieutenant-governor is Wilfred Newman, a Negro worker of Detroit who has likewise played an important part in the struggles of the workers of Michigan and in other parts of the country.

Flint is an auto town, the home of the General Motors Company. "We chose that city," Reynolds declared, "for our convention in order to show the workers; that we, the Communists, come where they are, to the scene of action, for our political as well as our industrial campaigns."

The convention at Flint was attended by about 75 delegates. Before the meeting was held officials of the General Motors Company influenced the owners of the Knights of Pythias Hall to cancel the agreement for the hall on the ground that the Workers Party was an illegal Party. Only after considerable agitation and after the police department was forced to admit that the Party is not illegal was the meeting room opened.

Reynolds worked in the auto industry until 1913 when he was blacklisted by all the companies because of his organizational activities. He has been active in many struggles of the workers since that time.

There is a growing pressure among the auto workers for organization he declared, due to the wage cuts and speed-up. Sporadic strikes and widespread resentment show that the workers are becoming more militant, he said.

BORAH TO KEEP TALKING.

WASHINGTON, June 1. — Senator Borah (R) of Idaho, chairman of the foreign relations committee today was urged to visit Europe in an official capacity this summer. A formal invitation was extended to him to join the American group to the interparliamentary union in Berlin in August.

POWER MAGNATES BUY UP COLORADO SCHOOL TEACHERS

Purchased Profs to Help Spread Propaganda

WASHINGTON, June 1. — Further evidence of the power interests propaganda work in Colorado schools and colleges was adduced at the Federal Trade Commission's power trust investigation today.

George V. Lewis, executive manager of the Rocky Mountain Public Utility Information Committee, who previously testified 24 Colorado professors were on the payroll, resumed the stand. He produced a number of checks which were paid to professors in various Colorado educational institutions. He said they were mostly for "expenses of the professors in attending utilities conferences."

Under questioning by Robert E. Healy, commission counsel, Lewis declared there was no connection between the Denver utilities speaking course and the extension division of Colorado University. He volunteered, however, that a Prof. Copeland of Colorado College conducted the utilities course at Pueblo.

Dr. Charles A. Lory of Colorado Agricultural College was revealed as being a recipient of expense money to a meeting of the utilities education committee.

Several checks for $25 to E. Hofe and son aroused Healy's curiosit Lewis explained that they paid for regular monthly subscriptions to Hofer's news service which, he claimed, was sent to 1,400 country daily and weekly newspapers over the nation.

MORE MINERS ARE EVICTED

Need For Relief Grows Desperate

(Special to the Daily Worker)

PITTSBURGH, Pa., (By Mail).—One hundred and twenty-six new eviction orders, not included in any of the previous reports of wholesale evictions in progress at the Crow Hollow, No. 1 mine in Jefferson county, in eastern Ohio, have been reported to the National Miners' Relief Committee.

The court orders which compel striking miners' families to give up their dwellings were issued by Judge Benson Hough in federal district court at Columbus, Ohio, upon the request of the United States Coal Company which is attempting to re-open its mine on a non-union basis. Fifty-nine houses at the mine which are empty, would be adequate to house as many strikebreakers as the company could import during the next month.

The eviction move is looked upon as an effort to break the resistance of the miners and discourage mass picketing when the non-union miners arrive at the mine. In half a dozen instances where entire communities were evicted in preparation for resumption of mining on a non-union basis, mass picket lines prevented strikebreakers from entering the mine. These picket lines which patrolled the roads regularly for days before the non-union miners arrived, were present in every case to warn the scabs away before they could start work. This picketing method is being used at the Crow Hollow mine.

Star Athletes From Harvard Now Scholars

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., June 1.—The rich men's sons attending Harvard University have vindicated their claim to "scholarship." Goaded into a sense of inferiority because of repeated accusations that the institution was becoming a fashionable country club with incidental facilities for study, a "culture contest" was held recently between Harvard and Yale.

The results of the contest, which consisted of a three-hour quiz in English literature, were made public today, Harvard being declared the winner. The score was 117-93. It was not revealed whether the figures represent brain cells or goals.

The fatuous performance was arranged thru the philanthropy of Mrs. William Lowell Putnam, wife of a long line of New England distinguished exploiters. She donated $125,000.

Hungarian Embassy in Vienna Maintains Forgery Bureau, It Is Revealed

BARBUSSE, HEAD OF DELEGATION IS THREATENED

Demand Release of Bela Kun in Telegram

(Special Cable to the Daily Worker).

VIENNA, June 1.—That the Hungarian embassy in Vienna maintains a secret forgery bureau is the charge made by the Rote Fahne, official organ of the German Communist Party. The bureau is located in a private house and maintains a private telephone.

The Rote Fahne promises the publication of documents substantiating its charges in the near future.

Henri Barbusse, internationally-known French novelist, who is heading a delegation in behalf of Bela Kun, has received a number of threatening letters.

Barbusse has sent Minister of Justice Dinghofer a telegram protesting against his refusal to see the delegation.

DETROIT SPORTS UNION IN MEET

Over 1,000 Witness 75 Participants

DETROIT, June 1.—The Detroit Labor Sports Union track and field meet held Sunday, May 27 at Loon Lake proved to be one of the most successful meets held by worker athletes in this city. Seventy-five athletes participated in the many events on the program. In spite of the fact that the weather was unusually cold for this time of the year, over 1,000 spectators turned out to watch the athletes perform.

The 100 yard dash was one of the most exciting events on the program. H. Lindquist, of the Scandinavian A. C. won this event with J. Koski of the Voima A. C. only three feet behind. The winners of the other events were Geo. Toyryla, R. Lonn, and A. Wilima.

In a well-played baseball game, the members of the Voima proved superior to the team from the Yemas A. C. by a score of 10 to 9.

Plans are being made to hold another meet soon, and the Detroit Labor Sports Union is planning to send about six or more athletes to New York to take part in the national meet of the Labor Sports Union.

STRIKES IN BOSTON.

And structural iron-workers have quit cable and beam for $1.50. Three hundred iron workers have already won their 25-cent increase and are back on the job.

British Misleader

British textile workers, more than 16,000 of whom are now on strike, must not only contend with the new attack of the employers' association but with the reformist union leaders who are trying to prevent strike action. Ben Turner (above) is one of the misleaders of the textile union.

ARREST WORKERS IN BELGRADE; 32 STUDENTS HURT

Demand Resignation of Ministers

VIENNA, June 1. — Thirty-two students have been wounded, and forty-three workers who came to the aid of the students imprisoned in fighting which took place between the authorities and the demonstrators against the signing of the Nittuno treaty, according to reports from Belgrade. Some of the wounded are in a critical condition. Nine members of the gendarmerie were also injured.

The order to fire at the first sign of new outbreaks was issued by Minister of Interior Korosec to all police and troops yesterday. The government is alarmed by the proportions which the disturbances against the signing of the hated treaty have assumed and fears that the discontent of the workers and peasants may cause a general outbreak against the state. Preparations for street fighting are being rushed.

Belgrade looks like a besieged city with the sidewalks torn up and the streets obstructed with debris after the bloody fight between the students and police. The battle lasted from eight o'clock in the evening until daylight.

Wild scenes took place also in the skupchina, or national assembly, following the reading of a writ issued by the minister of defense, General Hadzitt. Shouts of "Down with the blood-stained governmental murderers," were heard from all parts of the chamber. The shouts of "Down with the murderers," and the banging of desks lasted for more than an hour.

Following the demand of the Peasant bloc for the resignation of the ministry, the session was adjourned. No further session is contemplated immediately.

WORKER FLAYS "SOCIALISTS"

Points Out Growth of Communism

(By a Worker Correspondent)

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., (By Mail).—Each week there emanates from the columns of the New Leader a particularly putrid stench. This is only natural in the process of decay.

Last week's issue contains an especially nauseous column, headed "Communism from Within." It is a concoction of clap-trap deceiving no one except, perhaps, a few of the very few remaining leaders of the New Leader. The article states that the New Leader has not found it necessary to devote much of its space to the Communists, "so insignificant has been their progress." This is stated in all seriousness altho to even casual observers, such a statement must appear a joke.

In Philadelphia on May Day, two demonstrations of workers were held. One was under the auspices of the "socialist" party in a large, centrally located hall. Speakers were sent down from New York to address the meeting or May Day "demonstration." And how many workers showed up after being given free tickets, coaxed and bamboozled? Exactly 150, one-tenth of the capacity of the auditorium. Such is the significance of the "socialist" party and its organ, the New Leader, in Philadelphia, as well as thruout the country.

Now as to the insignificance of the progress of the Communists. On the same day, May 1, in the same city, Philadelphia, a Communist demonstration was held. Only one hall was available, and that one not conveniently located, with a capacity of 1,700. No tickets were issued free. The hall was packed to the doors and many workers had to be turned away for lack of space.

Furthermore, the demonstration was one of great proletarian enthusiasm, such as does not exist within the ranks of "socialism," which is today nothing but a petty bourgeois third capitalist party.

In the article, "Communism from Within," are alleged extracts from minutes of a committee of the Workers Party in New York City.

In one of these minutes the International Labor Defense is mentioned. So the editor of the New Leader has seen fit to insert a note explaining that the I. L. D. is a Communist organization. However, the editor of the New Leader and American Appeal, founded by Eugene V. Debs, while permitting the name of Debs to be used on the front page as one of the founders, has not seen fit to explain to his readers the activity of Debs in the founding and the work of the I. L. D. —C. RABIN.

Once Almost Savage

During the years of disintegration and suffering in Soviet Russia, during the war, and while the workers and peasants were re-building industry, hundreds of orphan children took to the forests and got their food by brigandage. The Soviet government has spent hundreds of thousands of rubles to provide state homes for these unfortunate victims of a perishing capitalism. In the homes they are taught trades. One of the "wild children" is shown learning blacksmithing.

Blame Mussolini For Loss of the Nobile

BERLIN, June 1.—Italian scientific circles blame Premier Mussolini, of Italy, for "forcing the Nobile disaster through his rejection of the aid of international experts," German newspapers reported today.

Norwegian newspapers take the same attitude, claiming that Premier Mussolini is ignorant of Arctic conditions and the perils which attend exploration in that desolate zone.

PROPAGANDIST TRAVELS.

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, June 1.—The Canadian trade commissioner, Wylde, has arrived in Tegucigalpa on part of a propaganda trip he is making thruout Latin-American countries. The purpose of his journey is to increase Canadian trade.

AFRICAN POLICE TRAMPLE NEGRO DEMONSTRATORS

Arrest Two Unionists At Capetown

CAPETOWN, South Africa, June 1. — Government police yesterday charged a procession of several hundred Negro workers carrying banners which called to the South African Negroes to end their slavery. Many were seriously injured. Two arrests were made after the charge.

The police raid followed the procession of members of the Independent Negro Workers' Union which was parading thru Capetown preceded by their organization band. Many of the demonstrators carried flags and placards with such inscriptions as "Africans Arise!" "Away with Slavery!" and others.

Along the line of march many South African nationals booed and attempted to interfere with the marching Negro workers. A number of stones and other missiles were flung. Then the police made their charge trampling the demonstrators, and beating them with their clubs. The exact number of those injured is not known as many fled down the side streets to escape the horses' hoofs.

Feeling among Negro and white workers here is intense as a result of the police attack and the authorities are understood to be taking prompt measures to prevent any outbreak especially among the Negroes.

SPANISH FASCIST APES MUSSOLINI

It was stated, however, that it would take some time to effect the change.

POINCARE TRIES TO "PEG" FRANC

Chamber of Deputies in Session

PARIS, June 1.—Stabilization of the franc will be the main issue before the new chamber of deputies which met this afternoon. There is much speculation as to the value at which the franc will be revalorized.

Premier Poincare made his campaign upon the financial issue, promising stabilization of the franc at an unnamed value. There is a belief in some quarters that, as the result of the gigantic shipments of gold into this country from the United States, it may be possible to "peg" the franc at about 10 or 12 cents.

ARREST 400 IN TERROR WAVE IN ARGENTINIA

Bombing is Protest to Crush Workers

BUENOS AYRES, June 1. — Four hundred workers and persons suspected of anti-fascist sympathies have been arrested in the reign of terror which the officals are loosing upon the Argentine workers, using as a pretext the bombing of the Italian consulate recently. Many of those arrested had to be released shortly afterwards owing to the inability of the authorities to find evidence against them and to the growing tide of feeling against the wholesale persecution.

Such an action as reading an anti-fascist paper has been made the grounds for arrest. Pablo Nessi, a worker, one of the government's victims, was jailed, charged of being caught with an anti-fascist paper on the street.

The continuation of the harbor workers' strike in the southern city of Bahia Blanca and the rise of strike feeling thruout the country which took form in the Rosario and Santa Fe walkouts and the general sympathy strike in Buenos Ayres, has alarmed the authorities who are prepared to take any measures in repressing the militant labor movement.

ANOTHER DONETZ PLOTTER ADMITS

(Special Cable to The Daily Worker.)

MOSCOW, June 1. — Belenko, a technician accused of participating in the Donetz counter-revolutionary plot, who had at first pleaded innocence, admitted that he was a member of the sabotage organization. He repeatedly contradicted himself in his answers to the questions put to him by Krylenko, prosecuting attorney.

Antonov, another engineer accused of taking part in the plot, pleaded not guilty. Three witnesses declared that Antonov had participated in the plot.

MINERS DETERMINED TO OUST LEWIS MACHINE

By JAMES E. TAYLOR.

Miners of today who have lived under the protection of a great organization like the United Mine Workers of America once was, especially those who have not been active, and also those that did not work in the mines in America before we fought and won the Miners' Union. Do not realize where they are going.

The placing of loading machines on a day wage scale in the mines by the operators and the signing of separate agreements as low as local agreements by our own officials are contrary to the fundamental principles of the U. M. W. of A. The loading machines mean a greater tonnage production for the operators by a greatly reduced force of employes.

Two-thirds Made Jobless.

Thus one-third of the force under the old system of working can produce all the coal that is required to fill the market demands. What is going to become of the men not needed in the coal industry, which is two-thirds of the amount of total employed before the introduction of loading machines?

We miners know that very few of us can go out and find employment at other trades, for several reasons. One is we are not schooled and practical in other trades. Another is that the same condition is facing the other trades. Improved machinery is causing unemployment in other trades just as in our forces in the U. M. W. of A. Also, only healthy, robust men are wanted by the employers. What are the middle aged and the old, grey haired going to do? The present officials in the U. M. W. of A. have by their actions and deeds deliberately ignored this class in our membership.

This shows that they are using their official positions to aid the operators instead of using it to help the men who have been paying their salaries.

Still this set of auctioneers of the U. M. W. of A. has the nerve to say in the public press that the Save-the-Union Committee is a dual organization because it is opposing the underhand policies handed down to the rank and file of the U. M. W. of A. by this bunch of misleaders.

I ask any union man either in the Mine Workers' Union or out of it to examine the demand of the Save-the-Union Committee and compare it with the package the men got from their officials by signing up these separate agreements. Ask yourself which is the dual organization, so far as protection to organized labor is concerned and which will be the most beneficial to the members of our union.

Determined to Oust Lewis Gang.

We, the rank and file of the Miners' Union have tried to remove this set of inefficient officials for many years. We now know it is impossible to do this with the ballot, so we have taken steps to remove them, and are determined to do it.

We do not intend to ask Lewis, Fishwick or any other of this official family what method we should apply. We will do the deciding ourselves. Now, Lewis, the babies in Pennsylvania are crying for milk, food and clothes, and we have decided that some of that $12,000 per year would fit in there very nicely. It may reduce that pouch of yours a little but we believe it would be best for your own health at that. We are sure it would be a wonderful help to the health of the miners and their families in Pennsylvania and Ohio. You have left very little of our once great union, yet you have the nerve to say you are going to pull some more cards. My opinion is that you have pulled one to many now, and the next cards will be the cards of the official family that will be scratched off the books of the U. M. W. of A. I have read in the papers that you claim that Soviet Russia sent over $20,000,000 and that the operators in the unorganized field are handling out money to the Save-the-Union Committee. Your statement is so rotten and silly that a ten year old schoolboy would laught when he reads it.

Its a wonder some of the operators don't drop dead when they read such bunk. I suppose they consider the source and let it go at that. They know that they are dealing with the weakest set of officials the miners ever had at the head of their union.

A Summer Camp for the Children of the Workers

School will soon be over. Vacation time is at hand. Winter, with its cold winds and snows, is a thing of the past. Summer is here! The children of the rich can now have the time of their lives. Of course their lot was not bad during the winter. The children of the bosses enjoy the good things of life, the year round. They live in fine homes, eat the best food and attend schools where conditions are congenial. But soon there will be no more school, nothing to do all day long, but to enjoy. Away from the city, at the seashore, in the mountains, or at country resorts the children of the rich will enjoy life to the utmost.

Does vacation from school mean anything like that to workers' children? Not at all. Workers' children work hard during the winter. To contrast workers' homes and the homes of their exploiters is needless. Workers' children do not get the best and most nourishing food—usually it is poor food and insufficient for good health. The schools in working class neighborhoods are overcrowded and conditions are not congenial for study.

In many cases workers' children of tender age are forced to work after school and many do not even complete public school to leave for a shop or factory in order to help their families to exist. During the struggles of the workers against the injustices of capitalist exploitation; during strikes, lockouts, during periods of unemployment, the children are the first to suffer.

Do workers children enjoy their vacation from school? Many are forced to look for jobs during vacation time. During the heat of the summer months they have to sweat in some shop, factory or store. Shining shoes and selling newspapers is another alternative to earn some badly needed pennies; workers children do not have much chance to go to the country for the summer, but are left to do the best they can in the stifling streets of the city.

Workers children deserve a vacation. The bosses realize this fact and utilize it to exert their influence and propaganda on the workers' children. The masterclass provide charity camps and various patriotic and religious camps of the type of Boy and Girl Scouts Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A., camps, and their like. Here the propaganda of the bosses against the working class is carried out to perfection and the children's minds already poisoned at the schools are further imbued with militaristic, religious and patriotic ideas to the extent that the workers' children become enemies of the class they are a part of, the working class.

The general conditions in those camps are far from the best in respect to health and enjoyment. Application to a charity camp carries with it also a humiliation no child would care to face.

The sum total of the above mentioned facts is the price the master class exacts from the workers' child in return for a vacation.

Workers' children should not go to camps controlled by the bosses. There are a number of working-class children's camps thruout the United States maintained at a low cost to enable working class parents to send their children for a short vacation in the country. Such camps are the Young Pioneer Camps elsewhere and the Workers International Relief Children's Camp for New York City and district.

In these camps workers' children learn the truth about the struggles of the working class for a better life. Here they find themselves in a working class environment and thru their everyday camp life and activities they learn devotion to the cause of the workers.

To describe all these camps thruout the country would make interesting reading but space does not permit it. We will have to content ourselves with a description of the camp in New York.

This year the maintenance of the New York camp has been undertaken by the Workers International Relief. The camp site chosen is the location of the former Young Pioneer Camp. It is situated amid the beautiful White Rock Mountains at Wingdale, New York. There is a fine lake for swimming and bathing and other facilities for outdoor sports and recreation, which could not be excelled anywhere. The children receive the best food and care for building healthy bodies. The best counsellors obtainable from the ranks of the working class, a trained nurse, the services of a physician and many other facilities, will make the W. I. R. camp for workers' children a most up-to-date camp. The camp opens July 5th and hopes to accommodate at least 400 workers' children for short vacations. A number of strikers' children and children of unemployed workers will have a vacation free of charge. The cost of stay in camp is $8.00 a week. Those interested to obtain more information will apply to Workers International Relief Children's Camp, One Union Square, Telephone: Algonquin 8048.

HELEN MENKEN.

One of the chief players in the Players' Club revival of "The Beaux' Stratagem," opening Monday night at Hampden's Theatre.

Farquhar Comedy First Presented in 1707

A first edition copy of "The Beaux' Stratagem," the comedy by George Farquhar, which will be revived by the Players' Club Monday night at Hampden's Theatre, has been presented to the organization by George Barr McCutcheon, the novelist and playwright.

The book was published a few weeks after the first presentation of the play at the Haymarket Theatre, London, on March 8, 1707, and just before the death of the playwright which occurred in April of that same year. Farquhar wrote the lively comedy in six weeks in the last stage of an illness he knew to be fatal. In the advertisement printed in the book, the author apologizes for any faults the reader may find in the play "which my illness prevented the amending of," while an epilogue in the original version, apparently written by a friend, has to do with this final critical illness and was inserted, no doubt, with the purpose of interesting people in the purchase of the book. On the title page is the following printer's legend: "London—Printed for Bernard Lintott at the Cross-Keys Next Nando's Coffee House in Fleet Street."

Opera Festivals Held At Leningrad

A SERIES of opera festivals was given at Leningrad early this month in which the works of Alban Berg and Ernst Krenek were featured. The week opened with a performance of Berg's "Wozzek." The production stressed the romantic elements of the opera, while the grim episodes dealing with the morasses of life were lightly touched upon. Volotin, Reschdanoff and Bosse played the leading parts, and Donischnikoff conducted.

Krenek's "Sprung Uber den Schatten" is known in German as his most neglected work. Its revival in the "Little Opera" of Leningrad was original and brilliant in its stage settings. The characters of this opera are supposed to be shadows of human beings, leading a life fitting their transcendental state. Employing striking rhythmical effects, and painting with dazzling colors, the composer gives an ironic picture of life. Special devices are required to achieve unusual stage effects. Nikolai Smolish, the producer, used a silver decor made all the more effective by the skillful lighting. The changing scenes unfolded with the quickness and precision of the revolving stage. The performance as a whole was a masterpiece of modern stage management.

Broadway Briefs

Maria Gambarelli, who left the Roxy some time ago to devote herself to the training of troupes of dancers, has two of her units making their New York bows. The "Gamby-Hale Girls," who appeared in Chicago and on tour in "Oh, Kay," played at the Hippodrome, and the "Twelve Tip-Toes" which is playing at the Broadway Theatre this week.

United Artists announced yesterday that the first movietoned sound film to be released by them will be "The Love Song," in which Lupe Velez will sing a theme song especially written by Irving Berlin. "La Paiva" was the original title of the film which deals with life in the time of Napoleon III. William Boyd will be seen in the leading masculine role.

Music Notes

The first of a series of three concerts by the People's Chorus of New York will take place this evening at the Town Hall under the direction of Lorenzo Camilieri. Marie Houston, soprano, will be the soloist. Other concerts will follow on the evenings of June 7 and 14.

A Beethoven Symphony cycle is announced as one of the features next season of the Beethoven Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Georges Zaslawsky, with performances of the nine symphonies, violin and piano concertos and other works of the composer.

"The End of St. Petersburg" A Vivid Story of the Revolution

"Potemkin" came from Soviet Russia to startle the movie world with its greatness. Critics, producers and actors alike gave unstinted praise to the achievement and the world looked to a workers' government for future great motion pictures.

Alexis Davor

"The End of St. Petersburg" now comes to Hammerstein's Theatre fullfilling the promise of "Potemkin." Again here is realistic beauty, action, excellent photography and sheer simplicity of story that grips one in its masterly pictorial telling. Superb technic and direction mould it all into an epic of the collapse of a huge exploiting imperial state and the victorious emergence of the working class. It is all inspiring and tremendous in sweep.

The story is simple. A peasant (Alexis Davor) finds existence impossible on the land. He comes to the city. He is thrown into wage slavery which begins in his scabbing on workers on strike and his unwitting exposure of his revolutionary relatives to the police. Attempting to arrange for justice for his relatives, whom he believes innocent, he is beaten by the police and thrown into prison. Caught in the clutches of the system, the war throws him into the army. Slowly, under the iron heel of Czarism, the simple peasant, suffering, bleeding, starving, awakens with the masses of all Russia in revolution and ends victorious in the Bolshevik victory of October 1917.

The whole story of the Russian masses is here: Oppression, exploitation, revolution. In a contrast that never allows one to forget for a single moment, is the cruelty of the master class, their ever driving desire for profit, their final defeat. In one respect, the sub-titles did justice to the picture: "There is no attempt at propaganda," the Russian Workers' government is "content only in presenting actual facts leading up to the revolution."

Kerensky is the only actual figure of the times pictured. He is presented in ridicule as a leader of workers, mistrusted and finally overthrown. The rest of the story following closely the actual events of the final days of Czarism is beautifully acted. Only a few leading characters are professional actors. The roles are played by workers and peasants without previous movie training, simply, realistically and in startling contrast to the usual chest-heaving ham actors we are plagued with.

There is a feeling of hugeness and power in the presentation. Remarkable effects are obtained by the various camera angles. The horses hoofs and not the horse tell a story. The sweat rolls off the huge, haggard face of the factory worker. The wheel stops revolving—strike. When the war is declared the czarist government functions: Orders are given to diplomats and the army. These scenes are sheer genius. Only the body and legs are shown. The figures are headless (remember Bob Minor's cartoon of the perfect soldier?) and a pointing finger gives instructions. The pickpocket is let out of jail to carry a portrait of the Czar to lead volunteers into the army. War hysteria is brutally exposed. These scenes are so remarkable they are unforgettable.

There are no individual heroes or heroines. Thruout the whole the working class rolls on and on thru suffering and oppression, but as you can sense from the very beginning, to sure, inevitable victory.

The direction of the picture is done by Pedovkin, a former engineer who under the Soviets became interested in motion pictures. His work puts him at once at the side of Eisenstein who directed "Potemkin" and with him, unquestionably, among the foremost directors of the world.

It is a crime that much of the picture has been cut to satisfy the sensitive feelings of bourgeois censors. This is obvious on a number of occasions and absolutely ridiculous in the concluding sub-titles that on the victory of the Bolsheviks speak of a victory for "democracy."

So obvious was this that whereas the audience was swept into repeated applause by the greatness of the different parts of the picture, they were stunned silent by this ridiculous subtitle conclusion. The final scenes picture the former suffering worker and his wife, gun in hand, victorious with a broadening smile of achievement after years of oppression. The men and women who gave their lives, who bled and suffered, who overthrew the Czar, who chased the spineless and treacherous Kerensky, have achieved all this for "democracy"? What sheer nonsense.

It doesn't matter, comrade. We know better. Mutilated as this picture may be, it is still a rare treat for any red-blooded worker. It is rugged, strong, beautiful, and inspiring. It reeks of sweat and blood and of the farm and the factory. It is a magnificent proletarian achievement in motion pictures.

—W. C.

Screen Notes

Beginning today there will be added to the number of photoplays with Russian themes prevailing on Broadway a continental film product entitled "The Living Image," which will have its American premiere at the Cameo Theatre. Emmy Lynn, Jacques Catelain and Roger Karl play the chief roles.

"Fazil," a Fox production, featuring Charles Farrell and Greta Nissen, will open at the Gaiety Theatre Monday night. The picture is described as a romance of northern Africa and Paris, based on the Continental play "L'Insoumise," by Pierre Frondaire.

Two features share the program at the 55th Street Playhouse for the week beginning today, when "Madame Wants No Children" with Maria Corda and "The Slums of Berlin" are to be shown.

Production has been completed on the screen version of the George S. Kaufman play, "Butter and Egg Man." The cast includes Jack Mulhall, Greta Nissen, William Demarest, Sam Hardy and Gertrude Astor.

D. W. Griffith has finished "The Battle of the Sexes." The cast includes Jean Hersholt, Phyllis Haver, Belle Bennett, Don Alvarado, Sally O'Neil, William Bakewell and John Batten.

The regular acts to be presented at the Broadway Theatre next week besides Ken Murray, will be Joe Young with Company; Verona and Thelma Roberts; Burt Shepard and Breen, La Bard and Barry. The feature photoplay will be "A Midnight Adventure," a comedy starring Edna Murphy, Cullen Landis and Fred Kelsey. Arthur Hoerl wrote it.

A SCENE FROM "THE END OF ST. PETERSBURG"

WORKERS PROTECTED IN THE SOVIET UNION

LABOR PROTECTION IN SOVIET RUSSIA. By George M. Price. International Publishers. $1.25.

Reviewed by ROBERT W. DUNN.

THIS is a very valuable book. To those who may think that the Vanguard Press fifty cent series covers the field for the workingclass reader, Dr. Price's book will come as a pleasant surprise. For he handles many subjects referred to only briefly in the other books. He gives us a particularly interesting introductory chapter on the conditions of the workers under the open shop era of Czardom.

One can get more out of this compact little volume than out of the flood of highly selected statistical and descriptive material on Russia that has emanated from the International Labor Office in Geneva during the last few years. Indeed it is a fact, admitted by the agents of this League of Nations enterprise, that the Russian "experts" who write these reports are little more than open enemies of the Soviet regime. Such American economic scientists as Paul H. Douglas of the University of Chicago have expressed themselves very forcibly on this subject. Writing to Albert Thomas, director of the International Labor Office, some months ago, Professor Douglas pointed out that "in many issues of the International Labor Review (issued by the International Lafor Office) I find articles on Russian cooperatives, housing, wages, trade unions, etc., and I always find that the criticisms are stressed very strongly with very scant attention paid to the constructive accomplishments of these movements." Douglas told Thomas that he had read over the large volume, "The Trade Union Movement in Russia," issued by the International Labor Office in 1027, and found "that it presents a very misleading picture." Douglas also wrote:

> "I am informed that the men who are in charge of the Russian section (of the International Labor Office) are former members of the social democratic party who cannot now return to Russia and who feel quite bitter at the present regime. Without wishing to disparage their honest intentions it would nevertheless seem to me to be highly undesirable that on a matter so delicate as this and one upon which the world needs accurate information, the agency for its distribution should be men who have a quite apparent bias. It would be better, I think, for the International Labor Office to close its Russian section and to publish the material which it has in the past."

Dr. Price is not the League of Nations type of reporter on the Russian scene. His impartiality is recognized in all political camps. His competency is undisputed. He has grasped the true significance of the work of labor protection carried on by the Soviet government and the Soviet unions. He tells his story simply and clearly.

Since Dr. Price wrote this book word comes from Moscow that in addition to the general outlay for the protection of labor required by law and collective agreement in Russia, the industries of the Soviet Union will this year set aside an additional 25 million dollars for special measures designed to improve the conditions of work. This will include expenditures for special safety appliances, ventilation, and many sanitary measures. Dr. Price describes what the industries have already done to provide for the safety, health and comfort of the worker.

During the present period of unemployment in the United States it will interest workers here to know some of the facts pointed out in the chapter dealing with social insurance—for example that the unemployed worker in the U. S. S. R. receives about 50 per cent of his regular wages while employed. Also that "sick benefits are paid from the first day of sickness and the rate of payment is full wages." Also that the rate of social insurance contributions from industry "is larger than in any other country, for while in other countries it ranges from two to four per cent of the wages, in Russia it amounts on the average to not less than fourteen per cent, thus giving three and a half times as much protection as other countries." And by other countries Dr. Price means the more progressive European countries. The United States is the most backward "civilized" country in the world in its social insurance and labor legislation. The Soviet Union is easily the most advanced.

The worsted workers of Passaic, where women work nights at the spinning frames, might be interested in this statement on page 74: "As a rule, women are prohibited from working during the night between 10 p. m. and 6 a. m. No women under eighteen years of age, or pregnant or nursing women are permitted to work at night under any circumstances."

What is the effect of reading such an adequate and unbiased book as this? Dr. Alice Hamilton of Harvard University states it in her introduction to the volume: "Through his sober, critical though sympathetic language, we gain the impression not of a 'Paradise of Workers' but of a country that is definitely committed to St. Paul's principal, 'If a man will not work, neither shall he eat' and to the principle that the worker has a right to health and the pursuit of happiness."

Muller and His Choral Society in the Factory

By EDWIN ROLFE.

FAR back in a corner of the cutting room, near the window through which the light of the sun shines in the afternoon, is the table at which Muller works. The silk motes dance like goblins on the fiddle of a Sarasate, in the dazzling sun. Through the window, the bottom of which Muller raises about a half inch every day, the wind steals and plays with the silk stretched on the table, raising the edges of it in a tiny ripple that traverses the length of the cloth. And Muller goes about his work, sometimes whistling to himself, singing old German lieder, sharpening the knife he holds in his pudgy fingers, cutting the silk with deft long-accustomed strokes. Does the knife sometimes slip and cut Muller's hand? Does the wind sometimes penetrate his body sending chills through his frame? Muller does not mind. The bell starts his cutting in the morning. The bell ends his cutting at evening. So has it been for the last thirty years; so, Muller thinks, will it be till he dies.

Muller has a terrible cough. It is dry and convulsive, and the sound of it is like the twang of a bow string after the arrow has leapt into the air. Muller is a quiet man. (Before Ted, the student, came, he was never known to speak to anyone, in spite of the fact that the taboo on conversation was not applied to those in the cutting room.) Only now and then at intervals of amazing length, can one hear Ted speak to Muller and Muller answer.

Ted: "You're always singing, John. Why don't you organize a choral society in the factory?"

Muller: "Choral society, hell! I tell ya, Ted, the best thing for me to organize now is an emergency fund to defray travelling expenses to Denver, Colorado. There's nothing else left for me in life. All I hope for is to see Denver before I die. Yep, that's the best place for people like me to die in."

Muller: "May this lousy country burn to the ground together with the men who first put me into the cutting room! Kid, take my advice. Get out of this stinking factory as soon as you can if you ever want to enjoy anything at all in life. I know, kid, I know. . . . "

Thus does Muller talk when he talks. The rest of the time he works, counting the strokes of the knife, counting the pieces of cloth, counting the breaths of air that he takes, counting the minutes, the long pounding minutes of his life.

LIBERATING LITERATURE

Revolutionary Writers Meet in Moscow

THE rallying of all forces of proletarian literature, struggle against the scornful attitude towards the old cultural inheritance and towards masters of the artistic word, development of Marxian criticism, development of literature which by its form must be national, by its substance proletarian—these were the main tasks outlined by representatives of 30 nationalities attending the first congress of the All-Union Association of Proletarian Writers which has just closed in Moscow.

Within the past two years the organization, which has 4,300 members, has grown into a large literary and public organization wielding considerable influence not only in literature but also in cinematography and the theatre.

The members of the association have enriched Soviet literature with a series of artistic works on modern life, including The Rout, by Fadeyev; Calm Don, by Sholhov; At the Open Hearth Furnaces, by Shvedov; How the Steel Was Tempered, by Bussyguin; Nathalie Taprova, by Semenov and others.

The congress decided to reorganize the association into an All-Union Federation of Associations of Proletarians of RSFSR, Ukraine, White Russia, Transcaucasus, Uzbekistan and Turkeministan.

This federation has been joined also by the writers' association, "The Forge," which had in its ranks a number of the best-known writers, such as Gladkov, Nikoforov, Liashko and others.

Labor and the Machine

REBIRTH OF "NEW MASSES"

Gold Now Editor; June Issue Is Lively

NEW MASSES. June, 1928. $ .15.

Reviewed by A. B. MAGIL.

THE New Masses died in April and has been reborn in June—a lusty infant. The fact that few people realized that the New Masses had ceased to exist shows how feeble its voice had become during its declining days.

Starting a little over two years ago with loud fanfare and an enthusiastic crowd of proletarian intellectuals—ex-Masses and Liberator readers—ready to push from behind, the New Masses soon began hitting the rocks. Too much water had flown under the political bridge. Ten years ago, even five years ago, the orientation of the liberals was towards the revolutionary camp. But class distinctions have become sharper. The attempt to run the New Masses as a coalition between liberals and revolutionists, with the revolutionists pulling the confused and spluttering liberals desperately to the left, ended in disaster. A compromise was effected which was in reality a reductio ad absurdum: Egmont Arens, who was not fervently on either side—neither fish nor fowl—became sole editor. And to prove that he was redder than any of the Reds, Arens went in heavily for Hoch-Politik. And he began to sway unsteadily between open counter-revolution (Dorothy Wong on the Chinese Revolution) to concealed counter-revolution (the neo-revisionism of Max Eastman). Result: worse disaster and complete estrangement of the New Masses from its only real reading public—"the intellectual vanguard of the workingclass."

Personally, I was praying fervently during those last few months that the thing would die and would stay dead.

It died. It didn't stay dead.

THE new editor of the New Masses is Michael Gold. This is likely to mean certain things. One of them: that the New Masses will have more than a nominal connection with the American workingclass. Another: that the liberals have finally been tossed over the wall into the waiting arms of Oswald Garrison Villard and Herbert Croly. Still another: that in the course of time the New Masses may lose a few of its classy wisecracks and acquire something else.

The most strategic reform instituted by the new editor has been the cutting of the price from 25 to 15 cents. It makes a world of difference. That dime is a healthy shove towards the only reading public that matters—the workingclass.

The new New Masses is still a hybrid. Building upon ruins is a tough job. I move that a society be formed for the suppression of Alfred Kreymborg. And Ezra Pound's contribution to Leninism is idiotic. Sentences contradict each other, ideas with a specific gravity below zero gape in midair. Pound should stick to his cantos.

But there are other things that offer hope and point a way. "An effort will be made to enlist the great submerged unpublished voices of America," says an editorial note. Mike Gold makes good this premise in the first number under his direction. There is an entire page of the first published poems of Martin Russak, a young Patterson silk weaver. There is the remarkable Poorhouse Anthology by an inmate of one of these ornaments of capitalist civilization. And then the Letters from America, from workers all over the country—"a sublimated Workers' Correspondence."

Dudley Nichols' description of animal-killing in a Chicago stockyard is superb. Perhaps too well done. The phrases too glittering, their beauty too hard and cruel.

And best of all: Mike Gold's chapter from his book of East Side memoirs, Jews Without Money. Work such as this is in the direction of what may some day be American proletarian literature.

Tires de Luxe

The high power motors purr pleasantly and the pretty ladies purr sweetly in their luxurious limousines, driven by liveried chauffeurs.
The limousines glide smoothly on the well-paved avenue
so that not the slightest unevenness is felt by the pretty ladies seated within.
The limousines move on tires made from rubber grown on the plantations of South America and East Africa, gathered by workers worse than slaves
(some are old, handless ones from the days of Leopold of Belgium) toiling in the tropic heat for a bare subsistance, driven by the whip,
still tortured and hung up.
And the rubber tires
of the luxurious limousines seem to be made of the harassed flesh of these toilers, and the pretty ladies seated in the limousines
purr sweetly and placidly, and the orchids
in the cut-glass vases scarcely tremble.

HENRY REICH, Jr.

FIGHTING THE POLISH TERROR-A NARRATIVE

By S. KAEMRAD.

VERA is fire and flame for her work. Enthusiasm and energy breathes from her letters. Her letters are more than personal, their significance is that of human documents of great power and interest. In order to counter the dangers of the post censorship, Vera wrote her letters in the language of Aesop:

"What shall I write about myself? I am living as before. Life rolls by and I taste of it with eagerness and enthusiasm. Now as before I am tremendously happy, but side by side with the happiness there is pain, so much pain. The circumstances of our existence are so hard, so strict! Little consideration is paid to the plans, intentions and wishes of individual people. Life has become terrible difficult. The emigration which was always considerable has now taken on a tremendous degree. Those near to us and those far away are going, relations and friends are amongst them. They are going in groups and as individuals. It is particularly painful when whole groups go at one time. Life then becomes much more difficult . . .

"The emigration is particularly strong amongst the youth. With the energy and activity of youth, it is particularly difficult for them to remain inactive and wait for better times. They therefore leave us, probably for a long time . . .

"For the present I have no intention of leaving myself. With all my energy and my hunger for life I want to overcome the unpleasant exterior circumstances. I want to live just where I will, and to do that that I want to do. Well, we shall see . . ."

It is not difficult to understand that with "emigrants" Vera means those comrades who have been arrested. And that she is referring to police raids and arrests and other misfortunes so well known to all those who have ever worked illegally.

The Polish secret police were searching for Vera for a very long time. They were only waiting for the opportunity to settle accounts with her.

As though she had a presentiment of her coming capture she wrote in a letter:

"Our life is now more stormy and joyful than ever before. Our days count for months and the months for years. Not according to their length, but certainly according to the fulness of the events contained in them. Think of it, we are already in August 1925. You know what that means. And in this month of August I am writing you a letter. I can hardly believe my eyes and ears. How beautiful! How splendid, unexpected and unusual!"

The following month of September proved fatal for Vera. The wave of arrests which swept over West White Russia in the fall of 1925 drew her too into the vortex. Vera had to go not there where she wanted to go, but there where she was sent by the Polish secret police, in prison. But even there, behind thick prison walls and surrounded by a living wall of bayonets she retained the freshness and the laughter of youth. The agents of Pilsudski could not take that away from her no matter how bad the conditions of life in the prison were.

On the contrary: "The prison is a bagatelle!", she writes in a letter to friends outside. "It not only fails to achieve its aim, but it works real wonders in strengthening us all in our determination and bolshevism."

She writes further: "I am happy, I don't know what boredom is, but I do know what both pleasure and anger are. Sometimes I could grind by teeth in fury. But that is inevitable, and is quickly compensated for by deep pleasure. The thoughts and dreams for the future are dazzling. But in its way the present is also beautiful. I am living this life and love it as it is, it seems to me more than I ever loved life before."

Thus writes a girl who has spent almost three years in prison. Vera has been sentenced to 6 years imprisonment in a trial which has already taken place and in the trial of the "133" she is threatened with a further 8 years.

And despite this prospect of spending the best years of her life in prison she still can find courage enough to joke:

"How I long to see you all again, if only for a moment. Just one little glimpse, but that will come, of that there is no doubt! The time will come and we shall be all together again. I dream of that moment when we shall all meet again and my face is suffused with a great happiness. And then the disturbing thought intrudes itself: but then you will all have beards and moustaches! You will all be Communists still, but old Communists and no longer young ones! How dreadful! My heart aches with an unreasonably and nevertheless terrible pain. I shall never see you again as I know you see you again as I remembers 55 now, as young Communists, never see you again as I remember you and love you. The idea is silly and unimportant, but it hurts me. Very well, grow beards if you like. Despite everything we shall all see each other again!"

In those low-lying gloomy buildings where the windows are barred with iron on the outskirts of the Polish towns there are many young girls like Vera. But there are perhaps only a handful who are so determined and of such character as she. The others are pale faced young girls from the sewing rooms of the towns or red cheeked girls from the country who were arrested and put into prison after having taken only the first few steps on the path of the struggle. For these girls the bond which holds them together is represented by the tales of the leaders of the working class, and they are never tired of listening to them.

"Dearest friends," they write. "We do not know you well, but a little, and that gives us great pleasure. We have even seen the photos of some of you. In our prison came somehow an American magazine, and in this we found the photos of the young poets Utkin, Sharov and Bezymensky, and then our pleasure knew no bounds. Many many hearty greetings and kisses for the young fighting and creative guard of our movement. We wish you success in your work. Go on, be strong and courageous."

Do these girls lose their own courage? No, they do not. Vera writes to her companions as follows:

"If you knew with what impatience we 133 are all awaiting our trial! We shall not stand our trial as repentant sheep. We shall not beg for mercy, not beg for release, but come with pride, our eyes flashing, our heads proudly borne and we shall declare that not all the tortures of the Defensive (Polish secret police) and not all the years in prison can frighten us or turn us away from the struggle in whose victory for us we firmly believe.

"Just think how happy I must be. I think of the coming trial as of some day of great holiday. It will be a day of triumph for us although we shall receive many years of imprisonment. But what does their sentence matter to me! What power have they over us? The day is not far off when we shall pass sentence upon them. And our sentence will be harder than years of imprisonment which come to an end."

They are wonderful words. Words of a revolutionary, words of a real Bolshevik! Think of those words this evening when the dusk falls and the stars begin to show silver in the evening sky, then these young girls sing their revolutionary songs. Let us think of them in that moment when the hateful Polish reaction passes triumphant sentence upon Vera and the other 132 revolutionaries!

We shall not be passive witnesses of this process. We shall read the sentences in the newspapers with hard lips. It will give us greater strength. We shall swing the hammer with still greater energy in the building up of the future. We shall carry on the struggle with still greater intensity not only in Poland but in the whole of the capitalist world!

A Visit to W. K. Billings, Victim of the Frame-up

By JAMES P. CANNON.

VISITING Folsom Prison is not facilitated or encouraged. Few go. I left the stage and walked towards the main gate with a depressing feeling of loneliness.

I was given a seat in the warden's office to wait for Billings—there appeared to be no special visiting room. The warden's secretary went out of his way to make me comfortable. Made a litle conversation about the weather. Offered me a copy of the Saturday Evening Post or perhaps it was Liberty—I didn't read it.

The warden returned soon. Billings was with him. A rather slight man, somewhat less than medium height. Reddish hair and sandy complexion. A friendly boyish countenance with lines carved in it which seemed strangely out of place. I had never met him before, but I am sure I know him now. His character is all written in his face and manner and his ready, engaging smile. A warm personable fellow, without guile or subtlety. The kind that mixes well and makes friends easily. He is thirty-five years old now. There are lines in his face that usually come only to later years, but his manner and appearance on the whole are those of a younger man. He was only twenty-three when he was caught with Tom Mooney in the frame-up trap and he has been in prison the whole intervening twelve years—all his years of flush young manhood and ripening maturity. In many ways he suggested a youth of twenty-three, as though the characteristics which belonged to him at that age when he was first imprisoned had frozen in him and become a permanent part of his personality.

Marxist Philosophy of History

"UPON the different forms of property, upon the social conditions of existence, as foundation, there is built a super-structure of diversified and characteristic sentiments, illusions, habits of thought, and outlooks on life in general. The class as a whole creates and shapes them out of its material foundations, and out of the corresponding social relationships. The individual in whom they arise through tradition and education, may fancy them to be the true determinants, the real origin, of his activities.

(Marx, "Eighteenth Brumaire")

"THEORY becomes the greatest force in the labor movement if is indissolubly bound up with revolutionary practice, for it alone can give to the movement confidence, guidance, understanding of the inner relations between events; it alone can help to make clear the process and direction of class movements in the present and near future. Lenin himself has many times said that 'without a revolutionary theory, there can be no revolutionary movement.' He understood better than anyone else the extreme importance of theory."

WERE SCABS; BUT EVEN THEY JOINED THE NEW BEDFORD PICKET LINE ONE MORNING

(By a Worker Correspondent)

NEW BEDFORD, Mass. (By mail).—Two second hands were on the picket line one morning last week that were working rather late in getting home the night before. They got there long after all "respectable" people had left their places of toil. Only the scabs kept working in the Hathaway Mill, overseers and second hands, most of them. The pickets were watching the scabs, a long, noisy picket line; and the cops were watching the pickets.

The strikers began to wonder why nobody used the gate. A trio of pickets left the line to investigate. Sure enough they found a special exit, a personal and private way for the use of scabs. It was a hole dug under the fence, rather large for a rathole. So they judged it must have been made by scabs. They sat down on the curbstone opposite the hole and waited for the scabs to come out.

The picket line patrolled the gate, but these three sat head in hands, crouched like cats, ready to jump at the first sight of their prey.

And when two second hands did crawl thru the hole, the cops were watching, so they couldn't approach the scabs, only follow them. The pickets followed them into a street car, walked over to their seat and said: "We have a proposition to discuss with you. If you don't want to make fools of yourselves before all these people get off the car and we'll meet in private." The fellows thought it was good advice, and the pickets followed them into a dark alley, where they could persuade them. They rolled up their sleeves but their hearts were softened. One of the fellows; it appeared from his plea for mercy, had a wife and five kids. So the pickets made them a proposition. "Lay off scabbing, and join the Textile Mill Committees. Come on the picket line tomorrow morning."

It took a good deal of persuasion of a gentler nature before all five were seen walking into union headquarters that night.

The two second hands were on the picket line next morning.

Mitten Praise of Philadelphia Hosiery Leaders Arouses Mill Correspondent

SPEED-UP KING'S COMMENDATION IS WARNING TO MEN

Bosses Get Injunction At Federal Mill.

(By a Worker Correspondent)

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. (By mail). The Hosiery Worker in a recent issue plays up the part taken by the officials of the Hosiery Union in the Mitten-Mahan pact, out of which the workers slaving for Mitten get nothing and never will get anything until they come together and organize into an industrial union, not a craft union.

Mitten "Benefits."

Mitten, who always shows his love for the workers by firing any leaders caught by his company spies attempting to organize those slaving for this exploiter, has given Philadelphia one-man trolleys thru his speed-up system. He has also given us company unions together with fake stock opportunities for the workers whereby in a few centuries they may become a regular Mitten exploiter themselves.

Mitten shows his contempt for the officials' intelligence by getting the Hosiery Worker to print his ad. He hopes that it will make the workers an easy prey to his stock selling scheme, so that they will deposit their miserable savings in Mitten's bank to form more capital for him to further exploit the workers.

And these are the very hosiery workers who are now beginning to feel the effects of the suggestion which the officials, whom Mitten praises, made to the hosiery manufacturers to get together on a national scale. They did and the hosiery workers are locked out on a strike against wage cuts and speed-up.

Betrayal.

Mitten realized that the hosiery union officials were knowingly or unknowingly betraying their fellow workers, for the capitalist and the worker have nothing in common and the hosiery officials advocated co-operation with the boss.

And are the bosses co-operating with those on strike? O, yes,—by securing injunctions, by hiring thugs, as in the Allen A strike at Kenosha, and by arresting pickets as here at the Ajax strike. At the Federal mill an injunction has been issued. Yes, this is the bosses' co-operation with the workers in their struggles against the breaking down of their union.

The officials of the hosiery union should be responsible to the rank and file of the workers in the union and, when a man of the Mitten type, one of the worst labor haters and exploiters in existence, commends the heads of any union, those belonging to the union should know that the heads of the union are knowingly or unknowingly handing over the union to the exploiters.

Insane Speed-up.

Yes, as the Hosiery Worker quotes from Mitten, a proper psychological attitude on the part of the worker is necessary to insure the maximum production (which Mitten advocates and the capitalists desire). To be sure this will create additional profits for the boss, and the workers will be driven almost insane in the effort to keep up with the speeding machines. The elimination of workers which follows will force many into the ranks of the unemployed. Then these unemployed will be forced by starvation to scab on their employed fellow workers in their later struggles against wage cuts.

These are a few of the problems which leaders, whom Mitten commends, should study, or the rank and file of the workers, who are mostly Americans, may decide that these "leaders" are misleaders and dangerous to the interests of the workers. Then will be the turn of the leaders who will build the unions and use them against the capitalist owners of industry in their fight to end strikes and the killing, arrest and wounding of strikers.

SHIP CHILDREN WEST AS SCABS ON FARMS

(By a Woman Worker Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, D. C. (By mail).—Last week there was organized in Washington, D. C., a big society called the U. S. Federation of Justice. It is composed of all manner of persons in any way connected with the administration of the law. This includes judges, jurists, lawyers, prosecuting attorneys, law-makers, both national and state, deans of law, presidents and professors of universities and colleges, police commissioners, wardens of penitentiaries, of reformatories and corrective institutions, heads of asylums, psychiatrists, alienists, and like court experts, besides officials in the executive branches of the government such as governors, lieut.-governors, mayors, etc. The list comprises some of the best known names in the land.

$10,000 Spent.

Judge Ewing Cockrel, of the circuit court of Warrensburg, Missouri, started the organization. A Mr. William Walker of Kansas City, Mo. made the enterprise possible by donating $10,000 to commence the initial work. This money has been consumed in the preliminary arrangements. One hundred fifty thousand invitations were mailed out to all important individuals all over the United States, its territories and possessions. Five thousand joined and 1,800 of these offered help.

A tight little inner circle will run their affairs, appointing persons agreeable to itself to act on commissions in gathering the information and deciding on what shall reach the membership at large regarding the "successes" of justice. Right here appears the joker in the proposition. Who is it that is in control? And what do they consider to be the "successes" of justice?

The meetings in Washington, D. C. leading up to the session were attended by Judge Cockerell, Judge Harry Holzer of Los Angeles, and again Doctors Healy and White. These are the names of the prime movers of the organization.

We have already pointed out in these columns the wholesale exploitation of our disabled veterans under Dr. White. The scandals in connection with his institution shook congress for several sessions. But White in being at the head of such associations as this new federation maintains his government job against all clamor for his removal. He and the Dr. Healy mentioned, were the men who saved Leopold and Loeb to the tune of $250 per day. But what are they doing for the poor and needy?

Dr. Healy got up at the session on May 24th and told of his success in shipping into the western states the delinquent children handled through the juvenile court of Boston. He cited the instance of one "bad" boy sent out to the Rocky Mountains through an employment agency.

Child Labor.

I arose and asked who had the responsibility over the care of these children. Nobody in that leaned body could say exactly, but Dr. Healy stated that hundreds of children were being sent west that way and the plan was "entirely successful." I pointed out that very serious complaints have been made about the employment of these children in the grain-fields in the eastern part of Washington state. They are used in child-labor to replace men and are worked under vile conditions of slavery, poorly fed and live in squalid misery, with seemingly nobody to see to it that they are properly cared for or to take the responsibility for their treatment.

Dr. Healy maintained the "success" of his work. He was "successful" at saving the killers of little Bobby Franks for a fat fee. He is successful in giving children of Massachusetts into slavery to replace men in their jobs. Massachusetts may consider it a "success" to get rid of hundreds of its little waifs by sending them far away from observation of how they are being handled. This is what he calls the scientific methods of his juvenile court.

It will be well to watch such an organization which has at its head two such men who would sell their talents to the murderers of innocent childhood.

KEITH THEATRE CHEATS USHERS NEGROES, PUBLIC

Employes Work 11 Hrs. for 7 Days; Get $15

(By a Worker Correspondent)

CLEVELAND, O., (By Mail).—As one of the several million unemployed I find it difficult indeed to locate some of this "prosperity" stuff we hear so much about.

Keith's Show.

Recently, anxious to get any work at all, after a long stretch of enforced idleness, I managed to get in as an usher at the local B. F. Keith's Palace, the finest theatre in the state of Ohio.

Here one sees raw exploitation, particularly of the youth. Here are a few of the regulations. The ushers work from ten to eleven hours a day and seven days a week at the tremendous wage of $15. The least infraction of the many rules or a moment's tardiness means instant dismissal. On many occasions the boys must work extra shows for no extra pay. Tips are forbidden on charge of being fired.

Exploiting these young workers on one hand, the management milks the public of thousands of dollars by misrepresentation, on the other. As often happens, the orchestra seats are sold early and late comers continuing to purchase these tickets, are afterwards told to sit in the balcony where the seats are cheaper. Thus hundreds of people pay additional quarters for seats they never get.

Balcony for Negroes.

But the greatest wrong is done to the Negroes of Cleveland, who are so discriminated against, that, regardless of the number of seats empty, in the orchestra or loges, no Negroes are allowed except in the balcony, even tho they pay the regular downstairs prices.

To top all this evident and rotten system of exploitation, discrimination and graft, the feature picture recently shown, "We Americans," is the highest type of flag-waving, glorifying the world war. A typical subtitle is a definition of a Socialist wherein one of the characters says, "A socialist wants all the money divided up." Of course, the usual slush, about Fifth Avenue's uniting with the East Side in marriage, ends the film and the moral we are expected to get is that America is a land of opportunity and we should be glad to fight for Morgan, Rockefeller and Co.

War Danger.

It seems that, what with Kellogg peace plans and peace conferences, and war films we are being rapidly prepared for a new world war, presumeably against the workers' government of the Soviet Union.

It is interesting to see the class struggle in its various forms all in a central spot. No one will deny that the theatre is one of the greatest means of educating the people and that education under the capitalist system is one of misinformation and partial to class.

Yes, the class struggle is still with us, even tho the "socialist" party thinks it is not.

BEAVERT, CALIFORNIA VICTIM TO BE FREED

LOS ANGELES, Cal. (By mail).—Jack Beavert, the last of the I. W. W. workers held under the criminal syndicalism law of California, will be released from San Quentin on Saturday, May 26, according to a report from San Francisco. On that date the "red scare" in California will become history.

Beavert, a lumber worker from the Humboldt forests, was railroaded to the dungeons of San Quentin three years ago at the age of 27. He went in apparently healthy and sane. Now at 30, he is said to be sickly of mind and body, and may become a permanent ward of California as an inmate of one of its hospitals, a report stated. He steadfastly refused parole, spent time in hospital, and his rebellious spirit caused "solitary" to be his home part of the time.

William Burns, the last of the federal prisoners jailed under the "C. S." law, was also freed from Leavenworth recently by a commutation order from President Coolidge.

"The men who served as felons under the 'C. S.' law were an exceptionally clean, hard-working body of men, mostly Americans," said Attorney Austin Lewis, the well-known labor lawyer, in a statement to the press. "Their incarceration is nothing for which California should be proud."

WOULD EXPEL ANY LOCAL 1 PLUMBER OPPOSING PACT

Unregistered Helpers to Bring $5 Fine

(By a Worker Correspondent)

The officials of the Queens County, N. Y., Plumbers Local No. 418 announced recently that all plumbers who work with unregistered helpers will be fined five dollars. Many of the helpers are not registered and are still working.

The plumbers themselves do not take this very seriously. It is only a plan to help the plumbers' helpers from organizing.

There is a great sentiment in all the plumbing locals in New York City to unite into one local. The officials are bitter enemies of his plan, however.

Expulsion Clause

One clause of the new agreement between Local No. 1 and the Brooklyn Master Plumbers' Association states that any member of Local No. 1 who speaks against the agreement will be expelled from the union. This scheme means that Local No. 1 is becoming a company union.

According to the terms of the new agreement the bosses are allowed to install new machinery that would throw many plumbers out of work. The hours, however, remain the same.

This agreement has not been signed because of the rank and file opposition to it in Local No. 1. The officials are trying their best to urge the plumbers to accept the agreement.

The acts of the officials have resulted in the slashing of the wages of many of the plumbers. Many are already working below the scale. The plumbers must fight against the wage cuts.

To remedy the unemployment situation, the officials propose that many men should leave the trade. "There are too many men in the trade today," they say.

Where are these men going to find employment? To really remedy the situation the plumbers must fight against the speed-up system and for a shorter working day.

Silas B. Axtell, Slanderer of Soviet Union, Exposed as Ambulance Chaser

ADMITS SHYSTER PRACTICES AT BAR HEARINGS

Seamen Are Robbed by Ambulance Chasers

Silas B. Axtell, notorious as an ambulance chasing lawyer, yesterday admitted in the ambulance chasing inquiry before Supreme Court Justice Wasservogel that he has a house in Staten Island in which he keeps his clients from the time they leave hospitals until he has obtained his fee from them. Axtell's clients are workers who have been injured while in the course of their occupations.

Complaints from many of these injured workers charge that ambulance chasing lawyers, thru collusion with unscrupulous doctors and hospital employes, have succeeded in grabbing the lion's share of awards given the injured workers in court.

Axtell, besides making a reputation as an ambulance chaser, has also made himself notorious as a result of attacks upon Soviet Russia. His attacks were called falsehoods by members of the American Trade Union Delegation to the Soviet Union, to which Axtell attached himself, claiming to be the delegation's "legal adviser."

Barred From Hospital.

Axtell made himself so notorious as an ambulance chaser, it was revealed at the hearing, that the Shipping Board had broadcast a warning to bar Axtell's "runners" from all hospitals. Axtell, it was shown, maintains a staff of solicitors in many other American ports besides New York. The Shipping Board had gone so far as to bar one of Axtell's solicitors from a New Orleans Hospital.

It was also revealed that Axtell wrote letters to injured seamen, soliciting their cases, and wrote articles for unscrupulous maritime publications, in which he advertised his "skill" in seamen's damage suits. Axtell is counsel for several reactionary seamen's unions, such as the Eastern and Gulf Sailors' Association, Firemen's and Water Tenders' Association. Axtell admitted that these unions prevailed on their members to use his services.

Axtell recently earned notoriety thru his action in lobbying in Washington to aid the shipping bosses' demands for a federal ship subsidy.

BEGIN OFFENSIVE IN CLOAK PARLEY

Shop Delegate Confab Opens Saturday

Plans have been completed for the shop delegates conference to be held tomorrow, under the auspices of the National Organizing Committee of the cloak and dressmakers. The conference promises to be one of the largest gatherings of workers' representatives ever held in the ladies garment industry, according to the discussions among the thousands of workers, among whom the conference has become almost the sole topic of conversation. The conference has been called as the first step toward rebuilding the union, and will be held in Webster Hall, 11th St. and 3rd Ave.

In calling the workers to elect delegates the National Organizing Committee declares:

"The work of rebuilding the union begins. In accordance with the decision of the National Organizing Committee, conferences of this kind will be called in all cloak and dress manufacturing centers. The New York conference is the first to be held.

"All cloak and dressmaking shops, registered and unregistered, organized and unorganized, must send their chairmen, or elected representatives to the conference.

"The time for protests and for resolutions is past! The moment has now arrived for practical and effective work.

"Plans on how to begin the tremendous task of rebuilding our union shattered by the reactionary Sigman and Schlesinger clique, will be formulated at the conference."

The Russian-Polish branch of the Cloakmakers Union will hold a membership meeting this evening at 7 o'clock, at 315 East 10th St. Problems of great general importance as well as of the branch will be taken up, according to an announcement issued by its secretary yesterday.

GRAFTERS PLUNGE ON STOCK MARKET

Tammany Henchmen in Big Deals

The man whom Frank C. Gannon last week forgot appeared yesterday on the stand at Commissioner of Accounts Higgins' investigation into graft proceedings of Tammany Hall officials and disclosed in some detail why Gannon's memory had so mysteriously failed him.

W. E. A. Wheeler was the man. He is a stock broker. On the stand Wheeler likewise had unexpected lapses of memory but what he did recall was sufficient to disclose that Gannon, suspended Brooklyn street cleaning superintendent, had plunged heavily into Wall Street stock speculations totaling sums far larger than his yearly salary of $4,200.

Pays By Check.

Wheeler, whom Gannon couldn't remember, though he gave him a check for $1,250 on July 30, 1926, came to the stand and testified in halting, frightened sentences that the check was given him for the purchase of stock from the Kings County Realty Corporation, and that Gannon, whose income has been the object of considerable investigation, owns much more stock in the same corporation.

Gannon in his earlier sworn statement had made no mention of any dealings in such stocks. In addition $4,300 worth of checks issued by him during 1926 and 1927 could not be accounted for at all, when Gannon was on the stand last week.

Wheeler, the man who yesterday helped him to remember suggested that this sum represented the purchase price of the rest of the stock. Gannon's salary is entirely inadequate to cover the purchase of such large amounts of securities, the obvious inference being that Gannon had secured the money from graft.

Graft Fund Grows.

Graft of about $25,000 during a short period of three months in one garage alone in the period preceeding the graft investigations, was disclosed yesterday at the trial of Charles A. McGee, assistant general superintendent of the department, and William J. Oswald, Bronx district superintendent, for grand larceny and forgery at Bronx County Court.

This disclosure was made by Benjamin Stoeber, who with William J. Lougheed have pleaded guilty to grafting and are now state witnesses in the prosecution.

Estimates of the total Tammany Hall graft funds reach a figure of $200,000,000.

Wilkes-Barre Cave-in Almost Causes Deaths

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., June 1.—Several persons narrowly escaped death or injury today when a cave-in at the workings of the Glen Alden Coal Company in Newport Township caused a section of Newport Ave. to drop 200 feet. The company, like others in the anthracite has been violating its agreements with the miners and has been operating under the contractor system and under excessive speed-up which is said to be responsible for the accident.

Occupants of an automobile riding on the avenue became alarmed upon the first quivers of the ground and leaped out of the machine to hurry for help. When they returned, the car had already been engulfed in the cave-in.

SCHOOL HEAD IS UNFAIR AT TRIAL

Teachers Say O'Shea Is Aiding Altman

In a protest to President George J. Ryan of the Board of Education regarding the recent hearing by the Law Committee of the Board of Education of complaints by public school teachers against the board's medical staff, Henry R. Linville, president of the Teachers' Union, asked yesterday that Superintendent of Schools William J. O'Shea be excused from sitting with the committee at future hearings.

O'Shea Unfair To Teachers.

Throughout the hearing on May 24, Linville charges, O'Shea seemed to be acting as "attorney" for Dr. Emil Altman, head of the medical board, "and seldom, if at any time, as an impartial listener to the statements that were being made by the teachers."

The retention of Dr. O'Shea as a member of the investigating committee at future hearings, Mr. Linville continued, "will, it seems to us, hamper the investigation and weaken any decision the committee may make."

New York Groups Send Relief

Responding to the urgent call for tents for the evicted unorganized miners on strike in western Pennsylvania, many workers' organizations have voted sums of money from their treasuries for miners' relief, according to Fannie Rudd, secretary of the New York office of the National Miners' Relief Committee, 799 Broadway. Many other organizations have taken up collections among their membership and raised relief funds through concerts and entertainments.

The Novo-Alexandrovsker Branch No. 396, Workmen's Circle, donated $55, collected at a banquet. Lists distributed among members of the Scandinavian Workers' Club, 267 52nd St., Brooklyn, were returned by one of the members with the sum of $51.

The Downtown Jewish Workers' Club, of 35 East 2nd St., turned over to the National Miners' Relief Committee the sum of $25, part proceeds of an affair recently run. Camp Nitgedaiget, the workers' camp at Beacon, N. Y., allowed a collection to be taken among the vacationists there and the amount of $32 was collected.

Will Be Maintained for Workers Children

The Workers International Relief has announced that applications of workers' children for a vacation at its children's camp are now being accepted.

The camp is located in the White Rock Mountains at Wingdale, New York.

"The Young Pioneers of America are not running their own camp this year. They are giving their support and cooperation to the W.I.R. children's camp.

"It is the aim of the W.I.R. to give as many workers' children as possible a chance to spend their vacation in this camp. The rates are very low and even then special arrangements will be made for children of strikers, unemployed or any other workers who are unable to pay full rates."

Further information can be obtained from the Workers International Relief, 1 Union Square, N. Y., it was stated.

WORKERS PARTY GIVES SUPPORT TO INSPECTORS

Urges Workers To Keep Up Wage Fight

Expressing the full support of the Workers (Communist) Party in the efforts of the city inspectors of New York to obtain a living wage, William W. Weinstone, district organizer of District 2, Workers (Communist) Party, has sent the following communication to the Allied Departmental Inspectors' Union, Local 17997:

"We have received your communication and brief in support of a resolution to adjust inspectors' salaries in New York City.

"We wish to express our complete support for your efforts to increase the salaries of inspectors which, as you correctly state, have practically remained the same as they were during 1920 and which are entirely too low for your character of work.

"We have turned over your brief for the study of our committee and shall forward to you any further resolution that we may adopt on the matter which we shall be pleased to make public in the press.

"We trust that you will do everything in your power to battle out your right for increased wages and better working conditions and that you will join in with other workers of the city that are likewise struggling to increase their wages and make one joint fight of the municipal employes of the city. Only such a united fight can force the hand of the city of New York that is dominated by the anti-labor Tammany Hall machine, which will provide adequate wages only if compelled to do so by the force and power of organized labor."

Coolidge's General Declaration of War

Coolidge's Gettysburg address on Memorial day might be called a sort of general declaration of war against a series of nations, with the exact date of hostilities not fixed.

The exact date of opening of hostilities is yet to be filled in with a special declaration of war at a later time.

Also to be filled in are the names of the specific nations against which war is to be made, except the twenty-one nations of Latin-America, China, and the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics, which Coolidge has virtually specified already in his Memorial Day talk.

Cooldige's speech is one of the most ominous warnings of the policy of blood and iron of American imperialism—warnings of impending aggressive war—that the world has ever seen. It utters a threat exceeding anything that could have been expressed before the year 1928, or that could be uttered now by any other nation; it is the language of the imperialism of 1928 from the imperialist nation which at this time assumes the role of mastery by force over all other nations.

There is a certain degree of frankness in Coolidge's pointing out to his less understanding associates that preparedness for the coming war consists in something more than accumulating war instruments already made. The shrewder preparation consists in possession of the means to manufacture the latest war instruments at the time they are needed, rather than loading up with instruments which would be partly obsolete a few months later when hostilities open. This is a correct reminder that the unprecedented military and naval equipment already provided for is only the material with which to begin hostilities.

But of course that is only a very limited degree of frankness, and Coolidge's talk is covered over with a slather of thin, ambiguous words of "peace" and of outlawing war by means of the Kellogg plan. Of course the purpose of this drivel is plain; it is to supply the liberals and pacifists a sufficient basis on which to deceive agricultural and working class masses, while the war-making program proceeds to execution.

What results can Coolidge secure with this hypocritical talk of "peace" attached to his general declaration of war?

Excellent results. An outstanding voice among "liberal" daily newspapers is the New York World, whose "peace" policy so ably helped Woodrow Wilson to plunge the United States into the "war for peace" in 1918. The New York World yesterday responded to Coolidge's general war declaration with the following incredibly dishonest talk:

> In a later part of his address Mr. Coolidge spoke most effectively about the obligation of American citizens abroad to respect the laws and institutions of the country in which they reside. This is a wholesome addition to the conventional doctrine, which he has preached so often before, that foreign Governments must respect American property rights. They should respect American property rights, but American property owners should respect foreign sovereignties. The President has learned something from his experience with Mexico, for obviously the warning he issues at Gettysburg is based on what he has learned from the new phase of American relations with Mexico. It is a warning which was issued once by Elihu Root. It was repeated, we believe, by Ambassador Morrow in one of his first talks after his arrival in Mexico City. It is very good to have it repeated once more by the President of the United States. If the warning is heeded it will make our relations with our neighbors much pleasanter.

The New York World's apostles of peace, then, are Elihu Root and Dwight W. Morrow!

Who is Root? As the secretary of war in the McKinley administration, Root was the man of blood and iron chosen for the post in 1899, just after the Spanish-American war which inaugurated the period of active American imperialism. From the time he served as McKinley's secretary of war, through his service as Roosevelt's secretary of state, Root's name has expressed nothing so much as ruthless violence and wholesale plunder and murder directed against Latin-America. Root is somewhat of a "father" to the despicable imperialist project of the World Court, a member of the imperialist Security League, president of the Carnegie endowment "for international peace" which is really for aggressive war, a leader of several imperialist schemes against Latin-America, and was the head of the diplomatic mission which went to Russia during the world war to try to overthrow the revolution.

Morrow, the Morgan bank partner, is the incarnation of the imperialist subjugation of Mexico, the most outstanding apostle of violence against all Latin-America.

Coolidge's Gettysburg address is a serious warning to the masses of this country, of Latin-America and of the world, that the colossus of American imperialism plans war against them all, plans war against the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics, against China, and against its rival imperialist powers for the division of the world for exploitation.

But Coolidge spoke for the American ruling class, not for his administration alone. He spoke for both the republican and the democratic parties, for both the tories and the liberals of both capitalist parties, in his general declaration of war.

In this election campaign of 1928 the largest possible masses of workers and exploited farmers must be roused to support the platform of the Workers (Communist) Party, which is the only party which stands against imperialism and impending war.

SITTING ON TOP OF THE WORLD

Oil Wars---The Old Kind and New

By SCOTT NEARING.

VENEZUELA is the latest oil "find." That country has replaced Mexico as the second largest oil producer of the world, and the "oil rush" there is like that which took place in Mexico twenty years ago.

Three great economic units are engaged in the struggle for oil: Standard Oil (United States); Royal Dutch (British) and the Soviet Naptha Trust, whose interests are confined to the Soviet Union. Outside of the Soviet Union the struggle for oil is a struggle between Standard and Royal Dutch—the business interests of the British Empire.

"Oil wars" are the latest phase of the imperial struggle for natural resources in this age of iron, coal, copper and oil. The struggle for oil is new. The struggle for mineral wealth dates back for at least six thousand years. At the dawn of written history empires were struggling for natural resource supplies.

During the age of copper and bronze the copper supply was as important to imperial survival as is the iron supply today.

One of the richest copper deposits in the Mediterranean basin lay in the Sinai Peninsula. This copper deposit was a source of conflict between the Chaldeans and the Egyptians. Finally about 4,000 B. C. the Egyptians under the Fourth Dynasty gained the day and took over the mining operations. The Fourth Dynasty, which lasted 284 years, drew its chief wealth from the Sinai copper mines and from the monopoly of trade routes into Mesopotamia.

This copper and trade monopoly combined gave the Egyptians of the Fourth Dynasty an income which speedily made Egypt the center of economic and political power. The Nile was thronged with ships. Trade routes were covered with caravans. Egyptian business men ventured out into the Mediterranean. Egyptian artisans working in bone, ivory, wood, stone, copper and gold turned out products that found their way into the remotest markets.

This age of early Egyptian wealth and prestige lasted from about 3998 to 3714 B. C. Flinders Petrie in his "History of Egypt" describes the building enterprises of the period by saying: "the simplicity and vastness, the perfection and the beauty of the earliest works place them in a different level to all works of art and man's devices in later ages."

Minerals Mean Power.

Minerals as a source of early Egyptian wealth are recognized by Brooks Adams in his "New Empire": "The Egyptians were god metallurgists," he writes, "and certainly worked wood, copper, iron and bronze before the Fourth Dynasty. The gold and iron came originally from Nubia. According to Diodores the Nubian gold mines under Rameses II or in the 14th century B. C. yielded annually bullion to the value of $650,000,000." Seti I (1314-1292 B. C.) wanted to endow a temple. He improved the road across the desert, added to the workings in the gold mines of the mountains in the Red Sea region, and thus was able to provide for the temple's upkeep.

Egyptian imperial power lasted intermittently from 4,000 B. C. down to near the Christian Era. It groups itself in three main imperial cycles, each one of which drew its main sources of income from the mineral deposits of Nubia, of Sinai, or of some area of lesser importance.

Through the whole course of history imperialists have struggled for the control of natural resources—minerals, fertile lands, waterways, timber. Usually the key to success has been the control of a mineral or fuel supply. The control and exploitation of natural resources has been one of the chief sources of imperial competition for at least six thousand years.

New Fascist Terrorism Will Not Halt Communists

Declaration of the Central Comittee of the C. P. of Italy.

For more than five years there has been prevailing in Italy the Fascist regime, a regime the establishment of which was preceded by a fierce class struggle. The agrarians and the industrial bourgeoisie had conducted this struggle with every possible means, with persecution, plunderings and murder, in order to crush the organized force of the proletariat and to bring terror among the masses. For more than five years, since the seizure of power by Fascism, the fight of the ruling classes of Italy against the working class, against the toiling peasants and finally against all categories of the working population has been continued in the most cruel and merciless manner, it becomes intensified with every turn of events, with every worsening of the economic situation of the country.

For the great mass of the toiling population the Fascist regime has meant a constant and unbearable deterioration of their subjection to a tyranny and a fearful terror. The atrocities and enormities which the working masses of Italy have suffered since the Fascists seized power are firmly implanted in the consciousness of millions of proletarians. The sufferings of these masses and the fearful situation in which they have been placed are a serious accusation against Fascism, against all its confederates, against all who have supported, promoted and upheld it.

Misery Under Fascism.

Italy today is the country of misery and starvation of the workers. Present-day Italy is a country in which the workers groan under the most hateful tyranny. The already miserable wages of Italian workers have sunk to nearly the half in the course of one year. Whole categories of peasants are living in misery. In Italy there are one million unemployed. For those who work in Italy there is no well-being, no freedom, no right of organization, no right to strike and no right of representatives. The fascist court passes savage sentences on workers who raise their voice against these conditions, who attempt to organize the workers and peasants in order to put an end to this regime, and on workers who agitate for the demand: bread, and freedom. In the prisons of Italy there are six thousand political prisoners. The political prisoners are bestially tortured; they are driven to suicide or murdered because they belong to the advance-guard which has not and does not bow to fascism, which conducts and will continue to conduct the obstinate fight of the proletariat against fascism.

In this situation the Milan outrage must be regarded as an elementary expression of indignant protest and of class retribution against the regime of misery, of slavery and of terror, against a regime which the working class and the working population of Italy can no longer endure. The Milan outrage is a tragic sign and a direct consequence of the serious situation of the acute economic and political crisis arising in Italy; of the indignation to which the social contradictions in Italy have led and which an enormous apparatus of suppression and terror is vainly endeavoring to conceal. It is fascism and all who support it and who have brought it to power, all who agree with it: the big industrialists, the bankers, the agrarians, the king, the church, all who for the sake of their own interests have caused and promoted the misery and enslavement of the Italian workers—it is these who are responsible for the outrage in Milan.

It is believed in certain quarters that the outrage was a provocation on the part of the fascists. Even if this were true, it would only be a proof of the difficulty of the situation which fascism can only master by such actions.

Try to Crush Communists.

The bomb explosion in Milan is now being made use of by the fascists as a pretext for accomplishing fresh crimes, for rendering still worse the political situation of the working class and in order to let loose the offensive of reaction. The object of this offensive was clearly indicated at the first moment. It is the Communist Party, the organization of the advance-guard of the working class which fascism is again attempting to crush and to tear away from the masses.

During the year 1927 and in the year 1928 the most important episodes of the proletarian resistance to the offensive against wages were inspired and led by the Communist advance-guard. The Communist advance-guard inspired and led the economic struggles and the anti-fascist movements of the peasants. The Communist Party is devoting all its forces to renewing the trade union life of the Confederacione Generale del Lavoro (Italian Federation of Trade Unions). Everywhere in the agitation and in the movement the Communist champions stood at the head of the masses.

The fact that fascism now considers it necessary to conduct a fresh offensive against the Communist Party shows that the class struggle, the organizing and mobilizing of the masses are the only successful means, the only weapon by which fascism and the capitalist regime in Italy can be given a deadly blow. The fact that fascism, after seven years reign of terror, places on the order of the day the necessity to crush the Communist movement, shows that the Communist Party—which has continued its activity among the masses even under the exceptional laws, which has scorned to desert the field of battle—is the only force remaining which fascism and the capitalist regime today have serious cause to fear, is the only organized force which is capable of conducting the fight which can lead to the overthrow of the present regime.

Communists Fight On.

In view of this new campaign the Communist Party declares its inexorable will and its readiness to continue the fight, in which it is today leading the best forces of the Italian proletariat. The Communist Party will continue the fight for wages, in the defense of all workers against the capitalist exploitation, for the liberty of the working class and of the entire working population of Italy.

The Communist Party will not permit that its true character of a class party, of a party which expresses the requirements, desires and demands of the great working masses, which is bound with indissoluble bonds to these masses, be distorted. The Communist Party is not a sect of terrorists divided from the masses; and it will never allow itself to be converted into such a sect. It preserves its activity among the masses, it fights for the masses and it will, undeterred, lead the masses from the present episodes of resistance and class struggle up to the armed revolt which will shatter all the supports of the regime and emancipate the Italian workers forever from the yoke of the fascist and capitalist regime.

The new campaign against the Communist Party is intended to serve fascism as a pretext for the imposition of the severe penalties provided by the exceptional laws, and in order to be able to condemn the best fighters of the working class to ten and twenty years' imprisonment and ever to death. As the threats, persecutions, deportations, prisons and torture have not been able to check the movement, steps are now being taken to annihilate in a "legal" manner the advance-guard of the proletariat.

The Communist Party opposes this fresh infamy with all its force and calls upon all workers in Italy and abroad to protest and to fight against it.

It must be demanded that the searches for those responsible for the outrage should be controlled and conducted in a completely open manner. It must be brought to light what is happening in the Italian prisons. A fight must be waged against the application of capital punishment for the fighters of the advance-guard of the workers.

A fight must be waged for the abolition of the exceptional laws.

A fight must be waged for exposing and thwarting the crimes of fascism. The Communists and revolutionary workers of Italy in emigration and in exile must join in this fight. Even if the fight which the working class in Italy is conducting becomes ever harder, it will not be interrupted. The Italian working class, in close alliance with the proletariat in all countries, will overcome all obstacles, defend its bread and its wages, rewin its liberty, build up its organizations again, develop a tremendously powerful mass fight, place itself at the head of the anti-fascist forces and lead them forward without hesitation up to the overthrow of the capitalist regime and the victory of the revolutionary proletariat.

In the little town of Winslow, N. J., American Legionnaires on a Memorial Day parade discovered school was in session. They marched double-quick to the school board and arranged to have the principal, Mrs. Frances Galloway, and all the pupils sent home, as a demonstration of patriotism. There is a rumor around Winslow that the Legionnaires had arranged to use the school room for a crap game.

A dispatch yesterday carried a rare example of perversity. Alarm clocks are usually used to wake men up. But a certain jewelry store boss used his alarm clock to put himself into a deep sleep. Tying a piece of string to the clock to connect with a gas jet, he died, a suicide. The alarm rang at 1.15 a. m., filling the room with gas.

Of course it is too bad. But it seems like a lot of trouble. It's not so hard to die as all that.

Contention that you can retain your purity and still accept a few gifts on the side is made by Mrs. John D. Sherman, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, in answer to the charge that the federation is a victim of commercialism.

Amongst other things Mrs. Sherman admitted that contributions had been received from the National Electric Light Association, a magazine and other commercial organizations. She showed that the skirts of the organization were clean by adding that the gifts were received "only after a definite understanding had been reached which made it certain that the contributing organizations were gaining no special privileges from the federation."

The revolutionary program which is expected to be proposed to the congress and which is hoped to go a long ways toward lightening the burdens of the working class is as follows:

1. Perfume salts and warm water for baptism.
2. Prompter results from God following prayer.
3. More one-armed deacons for taking collections.
4. Solidarity between preachers and choir singers.
5. Defense fund for pastors jailed for murder, rape and shop-lifting.

The militarists of Germany whose preparations for the next war were exposed to the world when a few draughts of phosgene gas escaped and killed a dozen workers were quick to explain that the gas was not for war purposes and was merely a household commodity. Now Captain George H. Wilkins finds that he can buy all the flame-throwers he wants in the Berlin stores. Wilkins wants them to melt passageways in the snow to be used as runways for his plane in his antarctic expedition. The flame-throwers are one of the most deadly instruments of war. The militarists are quick to explain that the flame-throwers are in reality nothing but "insect killers."

FALL OF PEKING NEAR AS CHANG EVACUATES CITY

Japanese, American Troops On Watch

SHANGHAI, June 3.—With a Nationalist army reported to be 500,000 strong advancing on the city and with the northern war-lord, Chang Tso-lin in full flight for his Mukden stronghold, it is expected that Peking will be in the hands of the southern war-lord, Chiang Kai-shek, within a few days. American troops, hovering at Tientsin, and Japanese troops, at Tsinan, are reported to be eagerly awaiting developments. The American fleet on its summer cruise is now on the coast.

Retreat Prepared.

The abandonment of the northern capital appears to have been decided on when news of the defeat of the troops of Chang Tso-lin at Liuliho one of the outposts of the city, reached Peking. In spite of the assurances posted everywhere thruout Peking that the dictator intended to remain and defend the town, every energy has been bent on preparing for the retreat during the last few days.

Not only the northern railroad station, from which Chang himself departed, but all the roads north from Peking are filled with the retreating soldiery of Chang Tso-lin. The dictator abandoned the city in a special train, leaving the government of Peking to a council of elders. Wang Si

FIND TORTURER IS "INNOCENT"

Indo - French Officials Crippled Natives

MANILA, June 3.—The investigation of the case of the French colonial official, Durupt, in Indo-China has resulted in a complete justification of all his acts, according to reports from Hanoi. Durupt's practices in the torturing of natives were the subject of the investigation.

In spite of the findings of the investigators, which revealed that Durupt had used the most frightful methods in trying to extort confessions of guilt from innocent natives the investigators freed him.

Twisting limbs until the ligaments snap, tearing teeth out of the gums are only two of the ingenious practises which Durupt devised for the torture of natives. The witnesses against Durupt looked like an assemblage of cripples with warped arms and legs and teethless heads. The physicians' testimony held Durupt entirely responsible for the tortures.

At the head of the government in French Indo-China is Varenne, the "socialist."

FASCIST VICTIM IS LUNATIC NOW

Blackshirt Tortures Drove Him Insane

VIENNA, June 3.—First reports of the trial of the Communists by the fascist tribunal at Rome, which are now leaking thru the Italian censorship, reveal that during the time of their imprisonment the accused had no opportunity to make a statement of their innocence nor were they informed of the reason for their detension.

In spite of the opposition raised by the prosecution the court upheld the defense in its demand that documents bearing on the case be read. The reading occupied the first and second session.

The prosecution further opposed the motion of the defense that Azzario be sent to an insane asylum as a madman but the court was compelled to uphold the defense in this point also.

Azzario was arrested in 1927 when he was the representative from Panama to the Red International of Trade Unions. He was deported from southern Italy but landed again at Genoa. Azzario was in good health at the time he arrived in Italy but the terrible tortures which he underwent in prison caused him to lose his reason.

MENDOLA FACES MURDER CHARGE

Trial Follows Case of Sam Bonita

(Special to the Daily Worker)

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., June 3.—Steve Mendola of Local Union 1703 is on trial and being framed up for the murder of Frank Agati. Already Sam Bonita, the militant leader of Local Union 1703, and its president, has been railroaded to the Eastern Penitentiary. The machine led by Cappelini and John L. Lewis, not satisfied with sending of Bonita to the penitentiary is proceeding to prosecute Mendola. Yesterday Board Member August Lippi, International Organizer Anthony Figlock, Traveling Auditor John B. Gallagher, testified in court and as usual these officials of the Mine Workers' Union are assisting with the frame-up.

The trial is going on before the same vicious, coal operators' Judge McLean, who presided at the trial of Sam Bonita. District Attorney Lewis, is the one who is trying the case. Other international organizers and representatives such as Bursarello are also testifying in the case. It is feared that the very same verdict that was handed down in the Bonita case will be handed down in the case of Mendola.

CLOAK CHAIRMEN MEETING IN N. Y.

Conference Opens New Era of Struggle

A turning point of historic significance in the struggles of the needle trades workers against their betrayers and bosses was reached when the conference of shop delegates, representing thousands of cloak and dress makers, concluded its all day session at Webster Hall Saturday evening.

The closing of the highly enthusiastic conference officially launches the drive of the workers in the ladies' garment industry to regain bearable living standards by the rebuilding of a union which was smashed by the attacks of the socialist officialdom, the bosses and police.

Action Started.

Permanent machinery for the prosecution of this campaign in New York began their respective functions soon after election of workers' shop delegates. They include: a committee of executives called the Shop Council, composed of representatives from the Joint Board, the Tolerance Group and from the Chairmen's Committee, of 50; a Resolutions Committee of 11; a Press and Propaganda Committee of 9; and an Organization Committee of 11, whose first task is to set up an organization committee of 500 rank and filers.

The conference was held in answer to the call of the National Organization Committee, which is rallying the cloak and dressmakers thruout the country to a struggle against the Sigman-Schlesinger clique for the reconstruction of a union in the industry.

Approximately eleven hundred shop representatives, representing about 800 cloak and dress manufacturing shops, according to an early report by the credentials committee, participated in the proceedings with an enthusiasm seldom equalled in the union's history. The delegates came from registered and unregistered shops, from organized as well as open shops. Even shops of leaders of the Industrial Council, which is the bosses' association lending the great-

TO OUR READERS!

COMRADES:

As we regretfully announced in Saturday's issue, The DAILY WORKER will cease publication within the next few days unless the workers and sympathizers with the workers' cause who read the DAILY WORKER come to its rescue with very generous support.

As we told you frankly, we are faced with an ultimatum under the terms of which $10,000 must be raised before June 16, and $5,000 of this must be obtained during this week. before Saturday, June 9. These terms are impossible to meet from any resources within reach of The DAILY WORKER. The paper must cease publication unless this money can be obtained from its readers.

The danger is that you will not understand this urgent need until it is too late. Last Friday at three o'clock in the afternoon, the shop was scheduled to close, stopping the publication of Saturday's paper. We obtained three hours' grace—an extension of the time limit until six o'clock. At five-thirty a friend came to the rescue with $1,000. With this it was possible to make an arrangement with creditors which kept the doors open until Monday, so that this issue of the paper could be gotten out. On this Monday morning we are awaiting telegraphic and airmail answers to our appeal. If they don't come, we know that we shall have to close.

We are not going to close if it can be made physically possible to keep on. We will fight and go hungry as long as we can get a line of type set. We know that the Workers (Communist) Party, of which we, The DAILY WORKER, are the central organ, needs us now more than ever before. The greatest political campaign ever undertaken in the United States was launched by the National Nominating Convention of our Pary which put Foster and Gitlow into the field as candidates for president and vice-president. This revolutionary campaign in the capitalist "democratic" election marks an epoch in the history of the American working class and a turning point in the life of our revolutionary Party. We don't want to go down just at this of all times. We know that our Party depends upon The DAILY WORKER now more than upon anything else to make a struggle to advance our cause. We know that if we fall, the hundreds of thousands of coal miners who are now in the turning point of their big fight for freedom from company agents in the union and from the scab conditions, as well as the textile strikers and also the needle trades workers whose fight is now just at its most critical point,—we know that all of these valiant members of our class will be hard hit if we are driven to the wall.

We won't quit as long as you give us a chance.
But make it quick. We are sinking.

The conditions are: $10,000 must be obtained before June 16. But at least half of this must be obtained THIS WEEK, before Saturday, June 9. Otherwise there will be no more DAILY WORKER after that June 9. It may be necessary to reduce the size of The DAILY WORKER to four pages immediately unless the financial help comes in very rapidly in the next day or two.

But we will fight on and win if you will help generously and quickly. Adress DAILY WORKER, 33 First St., New York.

RICH TOBACCO COLLEGE FIGHTS LABOR

Magnate's School to Train Political and Industrial Bosses

DURHAM, N. C., June 3.—Wages have been lopped from 25 to 50 per cent on the campus of Duke University since the building trades unions were ousted last fall. A survey by the Durham Central Labor Union tells what the open shop plan is doing in the construction of the most richly endowed school in the United States.

Groups of mechanics show their discontent by petty strikes, but unorganized they lose, and thus independent workers are weeded out. Unqualified men cause accidents on the job. Only the other day a dynamite foreman overcharged and a reserve supply went off, tearing down a concrete wall 100 feet long, 21 inches thick and 20 feet high at its higest point.

Duke University is a monument to its founder, James Buchanan Duke, the tobacco and water-power multimillionaire, who died in 1925. Duke was raised in Durham, going into tobacco manufacturing, as a boy, just after the Civil War, with his father, a discharged Confederate soldier. Using the new cigarette machines of the 80s, the family became enormously rich, and in 1890 Duke combined some of his competitors into the American Tobacco Co. Later his wealth flowed into hydroelectric development in the south and in Canada and today the Duke Power Co., through its subsidiary, Southern Power Co., drives the spindles of 300 cotton mills in the Carolinas. CROP OUTLOOK GOOD IN U.S.S.R.

Will Draw Peasants Into Farm Plans

MOSCOW, U. S. S. R. (By Mail).—The spring field work in the Soviet Union has been somewhat delayed in view of the late spring. The spring is from two to three weeks late and in some places even four weeks. Owing to the slow melting of snow, considerable quantities of moisture have accumulated. This is very important, especially for the districts suffering from droughts. On the whole, according to the People's Commissariat for Agriculture, the state of the spring crops is satisfactory.

In this year's spring campaign all peasants who manifested great activity have been drawn into the scheme of planned farming and increasing the arable soil. The sale of agricultural machinery has considerably increased.

It is worth mentioning that the state has given considerable aid to the poor peasants in the way of seeds. In the RSFSR alone, the peasants have been given this spring in the way of a loan 437,350 tons of seeds of different kinds, and about 7,700,000 roubles in money.

In the Volga, south-eastern and Siberian districts, the winter crop is better than average; in the Crimea, North Caucasus and the Far East, somewhat below the average.

PRAGUE, (By Mail).—Scores of workers and peasants were injured and many were arrested, including the editor of the Communist Rude Pravo, during May Day demonstrations in the hinterland of Czecho-Slovakia when the police attacked the demonstrators with gun-butts and bayonetts.

May Day thruout the country was characterized by extreme police brutality, meetings were forbidden, Communist newspapers and literature confiscated, and placards and banners torn down.

MILL COMMITTEE IN SPECIAL CALL FOR NEW MEMBERS

Start Drive As A F of L Union Stops Dole

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., June 3.—A special proclamation to all the members of the New Bedford Textile Council of the United Textile Workers' Union, is about to be issued by the Textile Mills Committee, a DAILY WORKER representative was told yesterday. The proclamation will call upon them to join the Mills Committee along with the thousands of unskilled and semi-skilled workers who have signed up with that organization since the strike of 28,000 textile operators began more than 7 weeks ago. The Textile Council membership consists of about 6,000 skilled workers.

Funds Exhausted.

Although the membership drive conducted by the T. M. C. in New Bedford also included a campaign to enroll the council members, this special call is forthcoming, it was learned, because of the announcement made by the officialdom of the Textile Council that the distribution relief doles to the union members will be stopped due to exhausted funds.

The Loom Fixers' local declared that the last benefit payment of $4 to a family was made last Saturday, and that further payments for the strike's duration are not to be made. The other locals may end benefits by

INDICTED MINERS ARE DISCHARGED

Mine Justice Admits It Was Illegal

(Special to the Daily Worker)

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, Ohio (By mail).—Seventy-five striking miners, indicted on charges of rioting as the result of attacks on picket lines made by Belmont county police authorities and mine guards, will never be brought to trial, the National Miners' Relief Committee was informed yesterday. The indictments pending against the pickets were quashed in common pleas court here yesterday on the request of County Prosecutor Paul Waddell. In making his request the country attorney said frankly that he did not believe that "The charges could be sustained in most instances." Waddell is the same gentleman who, in reflecting on the abrogation of all civil rights in Belmont county, declared: "We have had to forget what we were taught in school about rights."

None of the 51 women pickets arrested in St. Clairsville April 21 were included in the set of charges set aside at Waddell's request. None of the 51 women had ever been indicted and it is assumed that the county authorities will not press the cases against the women demonstrants.

Concurrent with the report of the quashed indictments, the National Miners' Relief Committee received the information that the last detachment of the Ohio national guard had been withdrawn from the eastern Ohio mining section. Ten officers will remain stationed in various parts of the field as "observers," it was announced. The exact functions of the National Guard "observers" have never been defined. Several of the "observers" have, however, participated in and directed attacks upon picket lines made by deputies and United States marshals in the past month.

FASCIST MURDER JAILED MILITANT

Case Like That of Sozzi; Plan Protest

ROME, June 3.—Carlo Riva, whose murder in the prison of Genoa has now been established, suffered a fate similar to that of Ruota in the same prison, a week or two previously and of the well-known victims Sozzi and Sanvito.

The same report—that he had committed suicide in his cell—was given ot, but, as in the previous cases, the body was refused to his relatives and was buried secretly with a strong guard.

The DAILY WORKER regrets its inability to supply the full six pages of matter today. Facing the danger of immediate suspension, which can be avoided only if the comrades and sympathizers send us financial help in the quickest possible time, we may be compelled to reduce the size of The DAILY WORKER to four pages tomorrow. Sorry, but we are in the fight for the life of the only revolutionary daily newspaper published in the English language.

THE DAILY WORKER.

WILL AMERICAN LABOR LET THE DAILY WORKER DIE OR SAVE ITS PRESS AT ANY COST?

New subscriptions will help The DAILY WORKER greatly in its present financial crisis, declared A. Ravitch, business manager of the Daily, yesterday.

"A flood of new subscriptions," he said, "would go a long way toward placing The DAILY WORKER on a permanently sound financial footing. Increased circulation means increased advertising and higher advertising rates. It means a general increase of income and the possibility of eliminating permanently the financial crises which are constantly threatening the life of The DAILY WORKER."

"The American working class is faced today with the prospect of losing its only militant daily labor organ," Ravitch went on. "What this will mean to the American workers cannot be overstated."

"The American working class is confronted with a struggle against the powerful capitalist tyranny on earth. Day by day, year in and year out, thru the speed-up, laying-off, wage slashes, union-smashing and the ever growing thousands in the army of unemployed workers, the American working class is made to suffer from the talons as well as from the burden of the American capitalist system.

"Against the sufferings imposed by the persecutions launched by the American capitalists, The DAILY WORKER, alone among American daily newspapers, has lifted its voice to protest, to guide the workers in their struggle, and to fight firmly side by side with them against the bosses.

"The readers of The DAILY WORKER," Ravitch continued, "are now being asked to come to the aid of the paper in order to prevent its suspension. In addition to sending funds they can aid the Daily in still another way by securing subscriptions.

"Every class-conscious American worker should consider himself a DAILY WORKER agent and work among his friends, his shopmates, in his trade union and fraternal organization to secure new readers for the organ of the militant American workers. Only in this way can The DAILY WORKER grow into a powerful weapon of the workers in their struggles against capitalism."

STRIKE OF 3000 TIES UP PORT IN ARGENTINE

Expect Big Sympathetic Walk-Out

BUENOS AYRES, June 3.—At least 3,000 harbor workers are on strike, and workers in all trades are expected to join them within the next few days, as the port tie-up at Bahia Blanca, on the east coast of the Argentine continues unbroken, and dock and ship owners are openly admitting that they see no end to the present situation. It is believed that the strike will continue indefinitely, is the latest report from the southern port.

In spite of provocation on the part of the authorities, who are being urged to repressive action by the owners, for whom the strike is losing thousands of dollars, the workers are maintaining a firm front.

Police charges on demonstrations and picket lines, while less frequent than at Rosario and Santa Fe, where police interference in the dock strike cost a dozen lives, are the order of the day, and a number of workers are reported to have been injured.

There is a growing sentiment for a sympathetic strike among the workers of other industries and it is expected that the walk-out may come within a few days. Rank and file pressure is being exerted upon the union officials.

The tie-up of Bahia Blanca harbor, where a number of vessels have been lying for a week, unable to load or unload, is the latest of a series of harbor strikes which have been tying up Argentine shipping. The former strikes took place in the northern group of ports along the Plata River. Bahia Blanca is the largest port south of Buenos Ayres.

CLOAK CHAIRMEN MEETING IN N. Y.

Conference Opens New Era of Struggle

est aid to the right wing, were represented by shop delegates.

Hyman Speaks.

After election of a conference chairman, Louis Hyman, chairman of the National Organization Committee delivered the opening speech. Particularly sharp was the attack he launched against the "hypocritical appeal for 'unity' issued Friday by Benjamin Schlesinger."

"After admitting that the union is shattered, and that it cannot be rebuilt unless all elements are again taken in," Hyman declared. "Schlesinger hypocritically states that all but Communists will have full membership rights to run for office." Hyman then stated that "first Schlesinger lies! The decision of the fakers' convention is that all members of the Communist Party, their sympathizers and followers shall not be permitted to hold office. Who is to decide who is or is not in any of those categories?" Hyman asked. "The bosses, Sigman, Schlesinger and their gangsters," he said.

The climax of his speech, received with great applause, was reached when he declared: "When union officials are made leaders by the bosses as Sigman and his gang were, no union they control can ever come to the employers and ask for the improvement of conditions, therefore we must build a union controlled by the rank and file."

"If Schlesinger were honest," Hyman concluded, "he would back up his call for 'unity' by calling general elections, so that the membership can themselves choose their leadership."

Gold Cheered.

Ben Gold, leader of the furriers' union, then addressed the conference in the name of the thousands of fur workers who were going thru the same struggle as the cloakmakers. He received a great ovation. His speech also centered around the Schlesinger proclamation. He declared that the Sigmans and Schlesingers were shrewd enough to estimate this movement of the shop representatives at its real value. "Their fear of the unquenchable spirit shown by the workers in preparing for this conference, which spells their doom, forced them to issue their fake unity proclamation," he stated.

"But the needle trades workers have not gone thru 19 months of union wrecking without recognizing this proclamation of Schlesinger's as a piece of sheer hypocricy," Gold declared, adding "Schlesinger and Sigman are an excellent team for the [illegible] Jewish Daily Forward [illegible] statements softening the blows rained on the workers' heads by Sigman."

Opened by Wortis.

The conference was officially opened by Rose Wortis, secretary of the National Organizing Committee, who briefly explained its purposes and then opened the floor nomination and eventual election of Harry Berlin of Cutters' Local 10 as the chairman of the conference. Lena Goodman and F. Holtzaker were elected secretaries at the conference. A Deutch, a former member of the executive board of the Sigman right wing local who resigned when the Tolerance Group joined the N. O. C. and Ben Kaplan, the former chairman of a right wing local, also spoke.

Pressers Meet Tonight.

A general membership meeting of the Pressers' Local 35 will be held tonight immediately after work at Manhattan Lyceum, 66 E. 4th St. Plans offered by the National Organization Conference will be discussed and passed on. All members are appealed to in an announcement from the union headquarters to attend the meeting without fail.

CHINESE SEAMEN HERE ARE BEATEN AND JAILED

Nineteen Chinese seamen who demanded shore leave at Stapleton, Staten Island, following months in the blistering fireroom in the British tramp steamer "Comerit," were beaten up by police and later locked up in the St. George police station.

The "Comerit" had made fourteen ports on the present trip prior to its arrival in the United States. Its last port had been Liverpool, England, and the seamen declare they were promised shore leave on their arrival here.

When the demand of the seamen became very emphatic, the captain of the ship called the police of the St. George station who attacked them with clubs and then hustled them off to jail in four patrol wagons.

The resentment of the seamen was increased by the fact that four of their comrades who demanded leave Friday night were locked up by the captain in the warehouse on the pier.

The jailed seamen will come up for hearing in Stapleton court this morning.

U. S. Troops Patrol.

WASHINGTON, June 3.—A sweeping change in American policy in China in view of the victorious advance of the troops of Chiang Kai-shek has been unofficially indicated by persons in the state department.

The fifteenth infantry under command of Brig.-Gen. Joseph C. Castner is already patrolling the Peking-Tientsin road and is preparing to cooperate with the American marine forces under the command of Brig.-Gen. Smedley D. Butler.

Reiterated statements that the American government remembers the Nanking rupture are understood to mean that the American officials are awaiting an untoward happening to justify whatever aggressive action they may be intending.

GRAFTERS TIPPED OFF, WITNESSES TESTIFY AT TRIAL

Given Opportunity to Alter Records

An organized and systematic method of "tipping off" all departments whenever an inquiry into payroll padding was scheduled has been revealed in the testimony of William J. Lougheed, on trial in connection with graft in the New York City street cleaning department.

Lougheed testified Saturday that millions of dollars have been grafted in this department and that he alone had participated in $700,000 in graft since 1915. The trail of graft has already reached many higher-ups in the Tammany Hall municipal administration, but none of them has been arrested.

Alter Records.

Lougheed, who was foreman of a streetcleaning garage in the Bronx, testified that in addition to the "tip-off" system it was possible for high officials in the department to gain access to records and alter them just as steps were being made for an investigation of grafting charges. Lougheed and William J. Oswald, a district superintendent, specifically named Charles A. McGee, assistant general superintendent, as being guilty of these practices. They testified that McGil's office was adjacent to that of General Superintendent James W. Isip in the department headquarters in the Municipal Building and that borrowing the records for the purpose of altering them had become a matter of simple routine.

Tammany Officials Relieved.

Great satisfaction was expressed at the close of the last session of the trial because Lougheed, while declaring that graft prevailed in the streetcleaning department thruout the city, nevertheless refrained from naming specific jobholders.

At previous sessions Lougheed had declared that grafting on a wide scale extends to the Tammany commissioner himself and to Deputy Street Cleaning Commissioner James Nugent.

Formal "Housecleaning."

It is expected that a few minor scalps will be gotten within the next few days in an effort to give Tammany Hall an opportunity to announce that it had completed a "housecleaning" as a fitting preliminary to Al Smith's nomination for the presidency.

Judge Albert Cohn, before whom the trial is being held in Bronx county court, has announced that he may call night sessions soon in order to speed the proceedings.

COLLECTIVE FARMING INCREASES IN U. S. S. R.

MOSCOW, U. S. S. R. (By mail).—Collective organization has greatly developed in the Soviet Union during the last few months. Reports are coming from all districts concerning the organization of new farm communes, cartels and other collective organizations.

During the six months since October 1st, 15,849 new collective farm organizations of various types have been organized in the U. S. S. R.

In the Ukraine, eight new farm communes, 142 agricultural cartels and 1,505 societies for the collective tilling of land, have been organized during the same half year.

From the Far East it is reported that the mass of collective farm members, mostly poor peasants number over 50%. The balance sheet of some communes is as high as 100,000 roubles. The communes have 11 tractors, a thing which never existed before in those areas. The arable land of the collective farms will be increased by 50%.

MILL COMMITTEE OPENS NEW DRIVE

T M C Relief Machinery to Aid Unionists

the end of this week, the mule spinners' officials alone saying that payments are still to be made for a considerable time.

The Textile Mills Committee, highly successful in enrolling many thousands as the strike progressed, has extended and widened the scope of its activities on all fronts, mass picketing, strikers' legal defense and especially in the field of strikers' relief.

Fail to Furnish Aid.

Despite the fact that the officials in control of the Textile Council paid relief only to the union membership not making any provisions to furnish aid to the tens of thousands of strikers not in the union, they even failed to organize machinery to raise funds to provide regular relief for their own members, the council membership complain.

The Workers' International Relief a nation-wide organization gathering relief for the Mills Committee is, however, rapidly spreading its campaign for funds and food on a nation-wide scale.

The members of the Textile Council are bitterly critical not only of their own local leadership, but also of the heads of the United Textile Workers Union, to which they recently affiliated in a body, dissolving what was formerly the American Federation of Textile Operatives.

Prior to the affiliation, McMahon president of the U. T. W., loudly declared that his union and the American Federation of Labor would be an unlimited source of aid for the council membership. Now, after having distributed only $24,000 in benefits comes the bland announcement of the union administration that the dole will be stopped for the duration of the strike.

Rank and File Dissatisfied.

The opinion of the leadership of the Textile Mills Committee is that a recruiting call to the council members would be very popularly received, due to the intense dissatisfaction with their organization. It was also pointed out by the T. M. C. that membership in their organization does not necessarily mean that the council members would have to abandon membership in the council.

This is readily explained by the fact that the T. M. C. is a form of industrial union that is organized on the basis of a committee comprising all crafts in each mill, thus forming a unit of the union.

I. L. D. HASTENS FIGHT FOR KUN

Urge Workers to Save Communist Leader

Hundreds of working class organizations of New York City and vicinity are being mobilized by the New York Section of the International Labor Defense, 799 Broadway, in the fight to save Bela Kun, Hungarian Communist leader, now imprisoned in Austria.

Copies of a resolution demanding Bela Kun's immediate and unconditional release are now being sent to these organizations, which are being asked to adopt it. In a statment pointing out the importance of having this resolution adopted by as wide a section of the working class as possible, Rose Baron, secretary of the New York Section of the I. L. D., declared yesterday.

"The movement to save Bela Kun has already begun in this city with a mass meeting held recently in Union Square under the auspices of the International Labor Defense. This movement must go forward with greater power. The adoption of this resolution by hundreds of working class organizations will mean thousands of new voices added to the great cry of the workers of the world demanding freedom for their leader."

ALL Duke industries are open shop. Duke interests are today the chief foe of organized labor in this state, and the new movement forward of the still weak unions in this part of the south is severely menaced by Duke opposition.

Duke University is privately owned, but supported by the public. Its income is drafted from the people through a public utility, the Duke Power Co., as well as through industrial companies, whose securities are held by the Duke Foundation, the organization the millionaire created to administer his benefactions.

THE foundation started with $40,000,000 while James Buchanan Duke was still alive. His will left it more millions, and its principal is being further increased by additions from income. The university will eventually have $160,000,000 behind it.

The trustees at the beginning did not challenge labor sentiment. The unions lack many members in North Carolina but there is more sentiment for unionism than membership numbers would indicate. But last fall, the trustees called in Southern Power Co., a Duke concern, to carry on with the rest of the 10-year program.

Union leaders and most of the union rank and file soon lost their jobs. Wages fell: the Durham Central Labor Union survey shows common laborers getting 25 cents an hour, concrete men and dynamite men, 35 cents; electricians, 65 cents; rock setters, 40-70 cents; bricklayers, 80 cents to $1; engineers, 85 cents. Plumbers held their union but pay fell from $1.25 to $1.

CHILDREN STARVE IN THE MINE FIELDS

11-Year-Old Miner's Son Writes of Tents, Evictions, Hunger

The hardships suffered by the children of the striking miners of Pennsylvania, Ohio, and Illinois can be seen from the following letter written by the 11-year-old son of a miner. The letter follows:

Dear Comrades:

Do you know that the miners' children often die of hunger while their fathers are fighting for a living wage? The bosses do not give us money to live, because we are fighting against them. It is up to the workers to help us. The miners' children go barefoot and they have ragged clothes. The children have to fight so they can live. The miners' families have been put out of their homes by the coal operators we have to live in tents. This is the way miners' children live. Many of us will die if we do not get help from the workers of America.

Worker Correspondent Tells of Treachery of Sigman, Schlesinger Cliques

GARMENT BOSS USED COMPANY UNION TO WIN

Workers Militant in Spite of Treachery

(By a Worker Correspondent)

As a reader of The DAILY WORKER I wish to tell through your paper the conditions that prevail in a shop under the rule of the right wing clique.

When the pogrom was waged upon the Cloak and Dresamakers' Union by the Sigman gang, with the aid of the bosses, the shop of Rosenbaum and Hauptman, 126 W. 27th St., was no exception.

Every means of violence were applied in order to compel the workers of the shop to register in the scab union. I want to tell you of the special activity that was carried on by a right wing flunkey who worked in the shop.

The workers of the shop refused to obey the order of the bosses and their agents, the right wing, and did not register. They went down on strike and stood militantly for five weeks Gangsters, police and scabs were used against the workers. The right wing flunkey then became the chairman of the shop.

The bosses certainly knew what they wanted. The working conditions in the shop changed entirely after the registration. The wages went down to 30 per cent. Every worker became enslaved and did not dare to say a word.

Finally something happened in the shop which proved the real character of the company union run by the Sigman and Schlesinger gang. The boss after completing his job feared for nobody for he was sure of his company union. Hence he gave out work to contractors who produced the garments for half the price. The wages of the inside workers were cut.

The chairman called a shop meeting on a Friday in the Sigman union office. On Monday when the workers returned to the shop the boss refused to let the chairman work. The boss utilized the right wing slave only when he needed him.

The workers, however, were angered by such action and refused to go up to work without the chairman, but to the great astonishment of the workers, when they came into the scab union and reported that they were on strike because the chairman was turned out by the boss, the right wing chiefs told them to go back to work immediately. "If you won't go back to work within 24 hours we shall send up a new set of workers." We could hardly believe our own ears Was this a union? The chairman felt very exasperated for he was betrayed by his own bosses. The workers disobeyed the order of the company union and struck 3 weeks. They had to fight against the bosses of the shop and against the right wing union.

When the chiefs noticed that they had gone deep into mud, they tried to do something. And they certainly did a great thing. The chiefs of the bosses' union succeeded in getting the boss to take the chairman back to work. In return the boss gave a new 15 per cent wage cut per garment. Furthermore the Sigman pogrom chiefs agreed that the reduced price, which was set for the garment, should apply to every style and every kind.

This means that the boss can order dresses which require twice as much labor, the price is going to be the same. Of course, the boss was jubilant, having his company union working for him. On these terms the boss took the chairman back to work.

Less Spent For Liquor In England Last Year

LONDON, June 3.—There was a net decline of 400,000 bulk barrels in the consumption of beer in England during last year, according to statistics issued by the United Kingdom Alliance. There was an increase of 11,500 proof gallons in the consumption of spirits and of 136,000 gallons in the consumption of wine.

The amount spent on intoxicating liquors for 1927 was 298,800,000 pounds, as compared with 301,300,000 pounds for 1926. The per capita expenditure has fallen from 6 pounds 17 shillings in 1926 to 6 pounds, 15 shillings, 3 pence last year.

SEATTLE WORKERS AID COAL MINE STRIKERS

(By a Worker Correspondent)

SEATTLE, Wash. (By mail). Seattle workers have answered the call of the National Miners' Relief for assistance once again. In spite of the cool weather and in spite of the salvation army band right around the corner, which attempted to drown out the voices of our speakers, a successful meeting was held on the Skid Road under the auspices of the National Miners' Relief. The speakers were George Ohanrahan of the Workers (Communist) Party and George Ritchie of the International Labor Defense. Both told of the wonderful fight put up by the miners back east for against the coal barons and Lewis-Cappelini machine, which is fighting in the interests of the capitalist class.

After the talk was over, George Ohanrahan took the platform again and asked for a collection for the miners. He himself started it off with a dollar, all the money he had with him, which is not surprising since he is a good Communist. The collectors then went around with collection boxes using the slogan "Help smash the Lewis-Cappelini machine."

We got a generous response from the workers. In all about $52.20 was taken up and about $10 worth of relief bulletins were sold, which is extremely good in view of the thousands of men out of work here in Seattle.

And right now I want to announce to both the friends and enemies of the labor movement that the workers of the northwest are going to stand solidly behind the miners from now on in their struggle for better conditions and the right to organize.

CALL FOR FIGHT ON IMPERIALISM

Chinese Students' Group Outlines Policy

SAN FRANCISCO, June 3.—A call for unceasing struggle against Japanese imperialism as well as the imperialism of the world has been issued by the English propaganda department of the San Francisco Chinese Students' Anti-Japanese Imperialist Federation. The call reads in part:

"The Japanese imperialists in the last 40 years have tried by all means to dominate North China (Manchuria and the province of Shantung). They presented the notorious "Twenty-one Demands' on May 7, 1915, with the domination of Shantung as one of their many objects. It was this event which aroused the nationalist movement four years later, on May 4, 1919

Aggression of Japan.

"In the early part of this year, the decision of the aggressive policy, for the purpose of annexing Manchuria by the Japanese premier, Tanaka, and the negotiation of the Morgan loan again proved the greediness of the Japanese imperialist.

"Recently, because of the capture of the city of Tsinan by the Southern Army, the Japanese troops, more than 20,000 in number, bombarded the city and killed hundreds of innocent Chinese on the pretext of protecting Japanese life and property. When the exploited and oppressed people began to wake up and revolt against the imperialists, they send their immense warships and troops to do their brutal slaughtering.

Policy.

"We must take the following as our correct and definite attitude:

"1.—Do not ask for the aid of any imperialists. 2.—Fight not against Japanese imperialists alone, but against world imperialism as a whole.

"Our immediate task is: 1. Carry on a widespread propaganda in order to make the Chinese understand imperialism. 2. Encourage the Chinese to participate in this anti-Japanese imperialist work. 3. Get the help of those Americans who are enemies of imperialism. 4. Get the help of those Japanese who are also enemies of imperialism and who are fighting against the action of their government. 5. Appeal to the enemies of the imperialists of the world to come to our aid. 6. Revive the boycott and give the Japanese imperialists a good shock."

Urges Labor Ticket For Workers

(By a Worker Correspondent)

SPARROW'S POINT, Md., (By Mail).—In time of war, reports are sent to newspapers all over the country reporting on the details of the war, number of killed and wounded, etc. But not many people know or read about the vast army of workers who go daily into the mills never to return again, or to come out badly burned or injured. These workers undergo the real horrors of war daily for a starvation wage of $3.70 to $5.50 per 10 or 12 hour day.

To show you what real war means. Look at the following table and notice the comparison between the two columns as taken from a report of the Sparrow's Point, Maryland, Bethlehem steel plant where there were an average of 15,000 workers throughout the year of 1927. On the original report, the columns were headed hours worked and in the next column days lost. The column marked days lost was marked days so as to belittle the appalling number of hours lost in comparison with the hours worked.

This table does not include the hundreds of deaths that occur each year, nor is there included, the thousands of workers who stay home for a few days and don't care to go through the red tape to file a report. Then there are the thousands of minor accidents treated right in the department dispensary and the men go right back to work. Bandage mechanics, what they call doctors, take care of the thousand and one burns, cuts, minor wounds, infections, and smashes that occur in steel mills. Then there are the thousands of workers who during the course of the year stay home for a few days to a couple of weeks to recuperate from the effects of speed-up work, heat, gases, indigestion that is typical here where the men have no time to eat. Then there is the fatal "cramps" that furnace workers get by the hundreds during the summer months. None of these are mentioned in the table otherwise the "hours lost" would be double in number.

In many departments, the jobs are of such a nature that the workers can't stay more than a month causing a complete turn over of sick and crippled unaccounted for workers who have just quit. For example at the *Coke ovens, where mostly Negroes are employed, (notice last dept. on table) there was during 1927 991,833 working hours and 438,144 hours lost that were reported from major accidents only. For this extremely dangerous job, these poor exploited workers are forced to work eight hours at 50 cents an hour, which is the maximum paid, making about $24 for six day week and for a seven day week the amount of $28 that is if there lungs and air hold out that long.

POWHATAN MINE CO. HAS YELLOW DOG AGREEMENT

Scab Herding Trick Gets Small Results

(By a Worker Correspondent)

POWHATAN, O., (By Mail).—Here is the sort of rotten yellow-dog contracts that the bosses of the Powhatan Mining Company are trying to get the men to sign up with. But there are very few signing.

Employment Agreement.

This employment agreement, made and entered into between the Powhatan Mining Company, owner and operator of the Powhatan Mine, at Powhatan, Ohio, hereinafter called the "Operator," and John Jones, and all other persons who, by executing the same, or a counterpart hereof, elect to become parties hereto, hereinafter as a class designated "Employees."

Witnesseth: 1. That the Operator hereby employs said Employees to work at said mine;

2. That said Employees hereby severally accept such employment, and agree to abide by the following regulations in reference to work and compensation:

(a) The total compensation of all such Employees as a class shall be 60% of the sale price, f. o. b. mines, of all coal produced and shipped from said mine during the period of such employment, such sale price to be without deducation of sales commission but subject to such adjustments as the Operator shall be required to make to customers, particularly adjustments due to improper mining or preparation of coal by Employees.

(b) The Operator agrees to pay, and the Employees agree to accept, a wage fixed with reference to the sales price of coal produced. Such wage shall be computed for each half monthly pay period, and the wage shall be that percentage of the base wage which a sum equal to sixty per cent of the sales price, f. o. b. mines of all coal produced and shipped from said mine during such period bears to the total wages of all Employees as computed on the base wage scale. Such base wage scale shall be the wage scale adopted and approved on June 29, 1927, by the Ohio Coal Operators' Association, Inc., but shall be subject to revision and amendment by the "Mine Committee" by filing with the Operator in writing a schedule of any changes which the majority of such "Mine Committee" shall agree upon. It is mutually understood that no guaranty is made as to the actual wage which will be paid, same being dependent solely on the sales price of coal produced.

(c) Wages shall be paid semi-monthly as heretofore, to-wit: on the 10th of each month for the last half of the preceding calendar month, and on the 25th of each month for the first half of the current calendar month; provided, however, that, if on any date of payment the sales price on any coal produced during the period covered by the settlement shall be undetermined, such sales price shall be estimated at the average sales price of the coal, the price of which is determined, and a proper wage adjustment shall be made with the wage payment next following determination of such sales prices. Employees in their relations with the Operator shall be represented by a committee of five, to be known as the "Mine Committee." Samuel Pursglove, or such other person as the Operator may from time to time designate, shall be chairman of and a member of said committee. The remaining four members, three of whom shall work at the face of the coal and one of whom shall be a day laborer, shall be selected by the Employees in such manner, under such rules and regulations, for such tenure, and with such duties as such Employees shall determine; but, prior to the selection of such Mine Committee, Samuel Pursglove, or such other person as the Operator may from time to time designate, and the four Employees individually named in this agreement shall constitute such committee. Members of the Mine Committee shall receive no compensation for their work on said Committee. The Operator shall pay the salaries of the superintendent and office clerks. The Operator will file each two weeks with the mine superintendent a statement showing the sales prices of coal sold during the preceding two weeks, so far as ascertained, which statement shall be open to the inspection of the remaining members of said Mine Committee.

(d) Employees shall furnish their own tools and powder, as heretofore. Any employee occupying a company house under license agrees that the rent therefor may be deducted from his pay, and further agrees to vacate such house within three days after his employment terminates.

(e) Each employee by signing this agreement agrees to purchase from the Operator one share of the Operator's capital stock at a price of $100.00, payable $5.00 per month without interest, deductable at such rate from such employee's pay. Any employee quitting his employment before said share is paid for, forfeits the amount paid in, as liquidated damages for ceasing employment. A share paid for will be issued to the purchaser at the next pay day thereafter, and the company will repurchase such share at a price of $100.00 from any employee quitting the company after twenty months' employment, or who shall become disabled in body or mind to such extent as to make it impossible for him to engage in any gainful occupation for a period of sixty consecutive days. No cash dividends shall accure to any purchaser until such stock is fully paid for.

(f) The Operator agrees to commence mining operations at said mine as soon as a sufficient number of employees shall have signed this agreement to make operations hereunder practicable. If at any time the price realized from the sale of coal produced at said mine is such that the employees deem their compensation insufficient to remain longer at work or the Operator deems its return insufficient to net it a fair return, the Operator and the Mine Committee of the Employees shall confer together and endeavor to agree as to whether said mine shall continue in operation but, in the event that the Operators and said Mine Committee shall be unable to agree, the employees shall have the right to discontinue work or the Operator shall have the right to close down said mine.

WITNESS the signatures of said corporation, by Samuel Pursglove, its agent, and of the undersigned employees, this 29th day of May 1928.

DRAMA

"Grand St. Follies" Covered by the Motley of Aristophanes

HERE is the newest thing, and one of the oldest. The Grand Street Follies of 1928, at the Booth Theatre, follows directly in the good tradition of the Attic comedy-drama. Not that there is any musty odor of history about it, but the idea of putting up a few good actors and a chorus to satirize the current philosophy and literature, and lambaste the current politics which so delights huge crowds at the Booth, was equally appreciated when the Athenians saw Socrates, Euripides and the war-mongers kidded on their marble stages.

Albert Carroll

IN O'NEILL DRAMA.

Lynn Fontanne wh ois appearing in "Strange Interlude," Eugene O'Neill's lengthy play at the John Golden Theatre.

Trader Horn comes in with his angel, and desiring to see the way of the new world, is shown a "Southern Drama" (with "Old Mammy" singing lullabies to the tune of Volga Boatman), and a mystery play, in which "He-Fang killem all English actors" and Count Dracula, the man "who has a way with women" turns detective Then the Vitaphone (the "Fighta moan") by simply reversing itself with a squawk and a yell, puts over some terribly risque scenes.

The political angle develops in "Marked Millions," wherein Trader Sinclair, Trader Fall, G. O. P., Willie Hays (Chairman Repnatcom) and the cabinet show up Teapot Dome. Each of the cabinet has his little black bag and the pumping station is right handy. After the deficit is properly met, the cabinet marches out to the tune of "We are, we are the Dutch police." Mayor Walker steps in as Fall's competitor at the last minute. he has banana oil for sale.

The "aside" beginning, "My three men" from Strange Interlude is later put on, in "The Strange Inner Feud," with Columbia as the wife (Vera Allen), Cal as the mother-fixed sissy, Hoover as the successful business-man but impotent husband, and Al Smith as the secret father of the baby. It won't be long now until we know whether this is prophesy.

Romeo and Juliet is propaganda for the seven-cent fare. Aristophanes too was a conservative. The extra two-cents is represented as the ideal of the progressives for some reason the Montagues. Romeo comes in on the library steps, where the lions wear monocles, and takes off Reinhardt's Moissi. Juliet says, "Where the hell are you, Romeo!" and immediately you hear Albert Carroll as Romeo, singing "Du bist wie eine Blume," "Die Lorelei," etc. Finally they compromise on a six-cent fare, all who have not fallen into Queen's Sewer.

Every act is good, of its kind. The dancing is neat. As part of the political propaganda, unless it is an accident, one might mention a South Sea cannibal dance by Blake Scott, which incorporates the U. S. army setting up exercises.

66,080 CLASS WAR PRISONERS KILLED IN A SINGLE YEAR

103,370 Arrested in 1927, Says Report

In 1927, no less than 66,080 workers were murdered for political reasons, according to the International Red Aid. 52,740 were wounded and 103,370 arrested. There were 41,576 searches, and 2,526 prohibitions of working class organizations.

China stands at the head of the list for murders with 62,770. Arrests in China are also the highest—46,268. Italy is a proud second with 11,352 arrests.

The figures of legal persecution are equally illuminating: 2,347 political trials of workers, 21,256 convictions, 11,688 death sentences, 96 sentences of life imprisonment. The average sentence for political "offenses" in various countries works out at about 3 years. (This average excludes China, where, of course the figure is much higher.)

HEARINGS REVEAL UPS IN GRAFT CASE TAMMANY HIGHER

Longheed Explodes $260,000,000 Steal

Taking off the lid completely from the vile-smelling Tammany street cleaning scandal from which in the past few weeks escaping odors have already penetrated thruout the city administration, William J. Lougheed, self-confessed grafter, yesterday exposed the whole nauseating mess in the $200,000,000 steal, the full story of which will, it is believed, leave no important high official in the democratic party untouched.

In the course of his testimony Lougheed, who is a witness for the state in the prosecution involved Alfred A. Taylor, head of the street cleaning department; "Big Bill" Edwards, commissioner of the department in 1911, and suggested that even Mayor William J. Gaynor who was elected to office in 1913 had profited from the payroll padding. He did not say whether the present mayor was also implicated.

More than $230,000 have been grafted during the past three years in the one Cromwell Avenue garage alone of which Lougheed was foreman. Of this sum William J. Oswald, district superintendent in the Bronx, received at least $84,000. Another $20,000 went to Charles A. McGee, assistant general superintendent of the department, who with Oswald is on trial in the Bronx County Court on charges of grand larceny and forgery.

Graft now extends to every bureau in the department, Lugheed charged. That Alfred A. Taylor, the present commissioner was one of the principal grafters was indicated by Lougheed when he testified that Oswald has made frequent demands for additional "splits" with him for those "higher up." Specifically he mentioned James Minchin, borough superintendent, whom he accused of receiving at least $5,200 a year. Lougheed refused to state on cross examination that Taylor was not involved.

Several weeks ago, The DAILY WORKER charged Taylor with being the principal grafter in the department. At the time Mayor Jimmie Walker who has been trying desperately to prevent the disclosure of the facts rose to the defense of Taylor. "I am not a thief myself," Walker declared, "and I believe that Taylor is just as honest as I am!"

Taylor yesterday issued a statement denying that anyone had ever given him any graft.

Only once during the past three years have the regular graft and payroll padding activities been interrupted, Lougheed testified. This was in 1926 when a "little trouble" in Brooklyn made the ring cautious.

A sort of tentative list of the main grafters was drawn up by Lougheed, as follows:

Oswald, $84,000 in three years: McGee, $20,100 in three years; Minchin, $5,200 a year; Benjamin P. Stoeber, assistant foreman, who has also pleaded guilty and turned state's evidence, $13,000 a year; J. P. Leo, checker for the commissioner, $1,500 a year; Lougheed himself, from $12,000 to $15,000 a year; Max Schmellowitz, a foreman, $80 to $150 a week; Charles Zankel, $30 to 90 a week.

WELCOME GERMAN WORKER AT JAIL

BERLIN, June 3.—Delegates from a number of factories waited at the gates of the Olenshausen Jail to welcome the newly liberated Ludwig Koledzig, a member of the German Communist Party. Koledzig had served 46 months of his term.

Surrounded by Red Front Fighters the prisoners was escorted from the penitentiary. The whole German working class is reported to be rejoicing over the release of Koledzig.

At least 300 other political prisoners are still behind the bars.

Haifa, Palestine, Has 2,691 Jewish Workers

HAIFA, Palestine, June 3.—There are 2,691 Jewish workers in this city, according to recent statistics. Of the workers registered, 2,487 are 19 or over and 189 are below the age of 18. Of the 2,224 men workers, 127 are below the age of 18 and of the 452 women, 62 are below that age. 69 per cent of all the registered workers are members of the Histadruth (Federation of Labor) and 100 per cent of those working in the cooperatives are members of this organization.

The wages of the workers range from five pounds sterling to 26 and over per month. 35.5 per cent earn 5 pounds, 34.8 per cent earn between six and ten pounds, 21.3 per cent between 11 and 15 pounds, 6. 2 per cent between 16 and 25 pounds, and 2.1 per cent between 26 and 45 pounds.

The average worker's day is less than nine hours. Fifty-six per cent of the workers work eight hours or less, 29.1 per cent work from 9 to 12 hours, and 14 per cent work more than 12 hours a day.

3,000 WORKERS HONOR HAYWOOD

Speakers Trace Career in Labor Movement

Over 3,000 workers crowded into Central Opera House, 67th St. and Third Ave., Friday night to honor the late William D. Haywood, the Communist leader who died in Moscow on May 18. Present at the memorial meeting were miners from the strike areas of Pennsylvania, Ohio and Illinois; silk workers from Paterson, N. J., whom Haywood once led in a strike; textile strikers from the picket lines in New Bedford, besides hundreds of Young Pioneers, Young Workers, members of the International Labor Defense, the Trade Union Educational League, and Industrial Workers of the World whose organization Haywood founded. Delegations from the needle trades and many other unions in New York were present.

Among the speakers were James D. Cannon, secretary of the International Labor Defense; Benjamin Gitlow, candidate for vice president of the Workers Party; Martin Hendrickson, an associate of Haywood in the labor movement of the nineties; Robert Minor, editor of The DAILY WORKER and Herbert Zam, of the Young Workers League. Jack Stachel, organization secretary of the Workers (Communist) Party, was chairman.

Antithesis of Gompers.

"The turning corner in the revolutionary movement of today in America grew out of the efforts of the pre-war revolutionary leaders," said Cannon. "Most of these leaders did not keep step with the advance of the movement; many turned renegade and many left the movement. The significance of Haywood lies in the fact that he grew with the growth of the revolutionary movement. He was a bond between the old and the new labor movement. In the old days he stood out as the antithesis of the traitorous Gompers group in American labor."

Describe Services.

The speakers described Haywood's long record in the service of the American working class, tracing his life from the period of Haywood's youth in which the legal murder of the Haymarket Martyrs determined his course as a militant, thru his career in the mines, as leader of the Western Federation of Miners, the founding of the Industrial Workers of the World, down to the time when he finally joined the Communist Party, after many terms in jail on behalf of the American workers. The speakers described the attempt to frame up Haywood, Moyer and Pettibone, following the murder of Governor Steunenberg of Idaho in 1907, and his leadership in the famous Lawrence, Mass., textile strike in 1912.

I. L. D. Forms Haywood Branch.

The memory of William D. Haywood, American Communist leader who died in Moscow, has been honored by the formation of a new branch of the International Labor Defense bearing his name.

The new branch, which will be known as the Bill Haywood Branch, is located in Brighton Beach and will hold its first meeting next Friday evening at 227 Brighton Beach Ave. Prominent speakers will address the meeting and point out the significance of the I. L. D. and of Haywood's life time of service to the American working class.

Thirty-eight workers have already joined the new branch and a membership drive will be launched under the slogan: "Every class conscious worker a member of the I. L. D." Samuel Borun is acting secretary of the branch.

Commenting on the formation of the Bill Haywood Branch, Rose Baron, secretary of the New York Section of the I. L. D., declared yesterday:

"It is fitting that the memory of our great working class fighter and leader, William D. Haywood, should be honored by the International Labor Defense, the organization which he helped to found. Workers living in Brighton Beach can pay no greater tribute to their dead leader than by joining the I. L. D. branch that bears his name and is pledging itself to follow in his path. The ideals for which Haywood struggled all his life are the ideals which are embodied in the International Labor Defense."

WORKERS' HEALTH BUREAU TO CLOSE

Has Accomplished Much For Labor

The Workers' Health Bureau of America will be discontinued July 1, according to the announcement made by the executive committee of the bureau in a letter to all affiliated unions.

"It will be just seven years since the work was organized," states the bureau, "during which we have accomplished much in the field of health and safety, such as the completion of national trade union standards for health protection in garages, building trades, bakeries, the painting industry and scientific studies of painters, textile workers and automobile refinishers, which laid the basis for the control of hazardous conditions in these trades.

A. F. of L. Denies Support.

"The reason for the decision is the failure of the American Federation of Labor to give the bureau the direct support which its activities on behalf of the entire labor movement warranted with the result that trade union income is not sufficient to maintain the bureau.

"In recommending the discontinuance of the bureau the letter sent to affiliated unions states: 'The executive committee wishes to make clear that this step in no way significes that the work is not essential to the labor movement. On the contrary we feel its need with particular keenness at the present time, when unemployment enables the employers to undermine trade union standards of hours and wages and when competition for world markets sharpens the struggle for cheaper goods which the employers will make every effort to produce at the expense of the health and strength of the workers. Every new tool, every chemical innovation, needs to be watched by labor and rejected where safety and health are threatened.'

"At the same time reports from state departments of labor show a continuous increase in accidents. Building trades accidents increased 23 per cent in one year in New York State. Michigan reports 32,420 accidents for 1925-26, the highest number in the last four years, with 2,310 workers permanently injured and 315 deaths.

Called Labor Health Conference.

"It will be recalled that the Workers' Health Bureau called the first National Labor Health Conference in June of last year to confront the trade union movement with the startling increase in industrial deaths and diseases in this country so that a nation-wide, concerted attack could be made by the unions against this ruthless destruction of their ranks.

"Until labor is strongly organized on the political field, workers have little to expect from labor legislation. In the absence of a Labor Party in the United States, and with practically no labor control or representation in any state legislature, labor legislation becomes the political football of the republican and democratic parties. Until labor obtains majority representation on state departments of labor and committees appointed by these departments, time spent in committee negotiations is largely wasted, as employers will continue to vote down measures which are essential to the life and health of workers. In any event, labor must make the most of its organized strength in gaining protection through trade union agreements, while at the same time continuing the fight for political power.

"'We believe,' concludes the bureau in its announcement, 'that the membership of the 257 unions, which have been affiliated to the bureau, have been taught to understand the hazards in their trades, that the time and energy put into the building up of the bureau has not been wasted, and that the time will come when a strongly organized and united labor movement will make use of the work we have started to win safe working conditions for workers in every industry in the United States'."

Rise in N. Y. Mortality

The total number of deaths in New York City reported from January 1 to Saturday, May 26, was 36,141, compared with 32,225 in the corresponding period of 1927, an increase of 3,916. During this period the death rate was 14.93 as compared with 13.41 in the same period of 1927, an increase of 1.52 per 1,000 of population.

REVEAL DONETZ PLOTTERS' LIES AT HEARING

Hindered Communist Appointments

MOSCOW, U.S.S.R., June 3.—The trial of the counter-revolutionists in the Donetz coal case has continued with a contradiction of the testimony of the defendant Kalganov by the defendant, Antonov. Antonov denied that he ever received money from Kalganov for the purpose of committing sabotage against the workers in the mines.

Further examination brought out that Antonov has persistently hindered the appointment of Communist specialists in the coal fields.

During the session a letter from the son of Kolodub, one of the defendants, disowning his father as a counter-revolutionary. The reading of the letter caused great excitement in the court.

MCMAHON APING LEWIS REACTION

Wants Surplus Men Put Out of Industry

PROVIDENCE, R. I., June 3. — While the 28,000 textile workers in New Bedford are engaged in a bitter struggle to force the return of a ten per cent wage slash, President Thomas McMahon, of the United Textile Workers, in a statement issued here declares that he heartily endorses the Rockefeller plan to close "inefficient" coal mines, and thereby rid the industry of "excess" coal miners, and calls on the mill barons to do likewise.

Instead of offering as a remedy to the crisis in the textile industry the organization of the hundreds of thousands of unorganized, and a subsequent campaign to shorten hours, thus providing work for all, McMahon, aping Lewis of the mine union, declares that the bosses should drive out of the industry 20 per cent of its workers.

WORKERS HELD IN RUMANIAN PRISON

VIENNA, June 3.—Kaloman Muller, the president of the unitary trade union council, is still being held in jail by the agents of the siguranza, according to reports from Bucharest. A number of other trade unionists are also in the jail.

Muller was arrested recently with a number of workers at the instigation of the siguranza. After a fourteen day hunger strike, in protest against the terrible tortures they were called upon to endure, the greater number of the workers were released since there were absolutely no grounds for holding them any longer.

It is believed that the siguranza will make every effort to retain Muller in prison.

The propaganda machine includes a large number of well-known publishing companies located in New York, Chicago, Cleveland and other cities.

Ormsbee, who described himself as "Washington contact man" for the Business Papers' Publishers Hoover-for-President Committee, testified $1,794.68 had been raised by this committee to further the Hoover campaign and $1,376.16 had been expended.

SOCIALIST IS LAWYER OF DYE UNION THUGS

Gangster's Bail $1,000; Injured Worker, $2,500

The case of the progressive members of the cleaners and dyers union who were brutally slugged by a squad of thugs led by their union officials, comes up for a hearing this morning in the Harlem Magistrate Court, 121st St. and Lexington Ave. Among the assailants of the workers are the president of the union A. Hammer, Business Agent Weintraub and the business agent of the drivers' local Sam Goldberg.

A hearing will also be held at the same time on the framed up countercharges made by the reactionary union heads on the worker who was the most seriously injured in the thugs' attack. The worker Abe Maposhick, appearing in court with bandages covering the eight wounds in his head, to press charges against the gangsters, was held under bail of $2,500, while his assailants were freed on $1,000 bonds.

William Karlin, high in the councils of the socialist party, appeared as counsel for the thugs. The case grew out of an attack made by the union officials leading a band of thugs armed with pipes and hammers on a meeting of the progressive group in the organization. The meeting was held in the Hungarian Labor Home.

'Bigger and Better' Imperialism

It is not often that murderers speak publicly of their forthcoming crimes.

Imperialists usually conceal the cold-blooded calculation with which the coming world war is being approached. Because the imperiaists and their pacifist allies conceal the truth, many workers are slow to believe when a Communist paper declares that the finance-capitalists who rule the United States through the puppet Coolidge and the puppet congress are systematically planning a world war for the conquest of Asia, including not only the subjugation of China but also the displacement of Great Britain in India, and an unprecedented holocaust of blood and destruction in an attempt at conquest of the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics.

But once in a long time the enemy speaks openly. On May 8, under the title "Mother England," the Wall Street News published an editorial intended to show that the imperialist United States will soon displace the British Empire in the entire world with an American empire far surpassing the British, to be established "by the sword." The editorial says:

> "Great Britain's is a task in diplomacy the like of which the United States has never known, because, say we, we have "wisely" refrained from attempting to exercise control over any such body of distant foreigners. We have exercised a protectorate here and there, but over isolated island peoples capable of comparatively easy subjugation. We have kept as clear as possible of entanglements in the internal affairs of the great untutored masses of Asia proper.
> "Born in the philosophy of democratic rule, steeped in the fallacy that all men are created free and equal, we have with ease pointed an accusing finger at the motives back of the far-flung domain of the British Empire, forgetting that self-interest has been as much the motive of our own seclusion as of British colonization. And in our temporary self-sufficiency we have ever been ready to belittle the world-wide significance of such achievements in law and order as have grown from England's extension of authority to the uttermost parts of the earth.
> "On our part, in attempting to make the world safe for democracy we have made it safe for the brigands who perpetually prey on China's millions, for the money-grabbing military chieftains who roam at will over the vast territory of that great nation, plundering and killing as did the wild tribes of India prior to the advent of Britain's rule. But we pride ourselves on our hands-off policy. Temporarily safe in our own prosperity, geographically protected by thousands of miles of ocean from Russia, India, China and Japan, relieved by the exterminating process of murder and robbery from any retaliation by the aborigines of our own continent we survey with generous self-complacency our envied position among the peoples of the earth.
> "We too easily forget that the history of modern civilization has just begun; that continually knocking at the Eastern door of Europe are over one-half the world's people—in Russia, some 141,000,000, openly antagonistic to our whole system of economics; in India over 300,000,000 religious fanatics; in China over 400,000,000 so ground down in poverty as to make them the logical prey of Bolshevist propaganda; and in the islands of Japan a cramped 80,000,000, advanced in science but Oriental in ethics, forced by economic circumstance to spread their sphere of influence on the mainland.
> "We forget that if we are to inherit England's preeminence among the nations of the earth we shall inherit also a lion's share of the responsibility to direct, by the sword if necessary, the latent energy of these many millions along paths which make for our own and Europe's safety, as well as their own advancement."

The American imperialists assume "the responsibility to direct, by the sword . . ." "some 141,000,000" people in the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics. The Red Army of the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics will answer with cold steel that will drown the invading armies of Wall Street in their own blood; but the workers of the United States and the world must help the Red Army to do so. This Wall Street organ says American imperialist armies will conquer the 400,000,000 workers and peasants of China, the 300,000,000 of India, the 80,000,000 of Japan. It is the earnest duty of the American workers and exploited farmers to see that the Wall Street armies are defeated in the attempt to do so.

Are the workers of the United States ready to believe that they must organize to fight the viper of imperialism?

Let us make the red revolutionary election electoral campaign of the Workers (Communist) Party such a vigorous exposé of the murder plots of the imperialists as will draw tens of thousands of intelligent workers into the ranks of the Workers (Communist) Party.

Only in the ranks of the Communist Party can you, fellow workers, put up the fight of your class against the million-fold crimes of imperialist war which are being deliberately plotted under your very eyes. Join us for war against imperialist war!

Mine Women to Increase Work

(Special to the Daily Worker)

TRIADELPHIA, W. Va., Jan 3.—Twenty-two women of Triadelphia, wives of the striking coal miners of the Vallep Camps Mine No. 2, owned by the Paisley interests, organized themselves here recently for the support of the union and the strike.

Mother Guinn and some of the other fighting women from Lansing, Ohio were here to help set the organization going. Committees were elected at once to collect relief and to open a children's kitchen.

Miners in this territory went on strike 27 months ago. The union was destroyed through the betrayal of the officialdom and the strike was never called off. Some miners have actually been without work during all this time. The majority, however, came out on April 16 at the call of the Save-the-Union Committee.

"Picketing will receive a great stimulus from the women's organization," Mrs. Calgeri, the newly elected president declared. "I want to see every woman get out with me on the line and help pull the scabs out of the mine."

DOWN WITH THE YELLOW DOG CONTRA CT!

Getting Ready for Another War

By SCOTT NEARING.

President Coolidge picked out Memorial Day to tell the world:

1. That the ruling class of the United States has an economic stake in the planet. He spoke of "the world-wide interests of the United States" and added: "our investments and trade relations are such that it is almost impossible to conceive of any conflict anywhere on earth which would not effect us injuriously."

2. That the ruling class of the United States proposes to have peace if they have to fight for it. "One thing that we want above all else for ourselves and for other nations is a continuance of peace. Whether so intended or not, any nation engaging in war would thereby necessarily be engaged in a course prejudicial to us." The world wide interests of the United States "makes us view with peculiar disfavor not only any danger of being involved in war ourselves, but any danger of war among the nations."

War Preparations.

3. That the ruling class of the United States has been making and is continuing to make the necessary preparations to carry out such a program. "Our country is making outlays in excess of those ever before made in time of peace for the purpose of national defense....Our naval forces necessary for the protection of our commerce, which is world-wide and not exceeded in importance by that of any other country; while of very respectable proportions, needs to be strengthened in cruisers and other accessory craft. Such construction is already under way, and plans are maturing for the necessary increases. Our air forces are being steadily improved and enlarged." A few moments later President Coolidge characterized this unprecedented military preparation by stating "our country in all its history has never made preparations to atack any other country....While others hav [illegible] that they were forced to prepare for war, our situation is such that we have always been preparing for peace."

4. Already American imperial policy is utilizing military and naval forces in order to protect American investments and to enlarge American spheres of interest. President Coolidge said "though we have at this time some of our forces in Haiti, Nicaragua and China, they are in none of these places for the purpose of making war, but for the purpose of insuring peaceful conditions under which the lives of our nationals and their property may receive that protection which they are entitled under the terms of international law." Mr. Coolidge added rather pointedly: "Our further purpose in Haiti and Nicaragua is to assist the peoples of these two countries to establish stability and to maintain orderely and peaceful institutions in harmony with civized society."

Maintaing "Peace."

Early in 1927, Mr. Coolidge told congress that the "American investments and business interests" in Nicaragua demanded the use of the marines. Now he informs the world that the American empire with the aid of the marines, is establishing and maintaining orderly and peaceful institutions "in harmony with civilized society." Thus far the atempts of the American empire to stabilize the planet have been confined primarily to the Carribean. Recently, however, they have been extended to China. Perhaps in the not distant future Europe will also come in for her share of attention.

All of these things were said by Mr. Coolidge at Gettysburg on the famous battle field where Lincoln announced his old line about "government of the people, by the people, for the people." Mr. Coolidge quite properly overlooked the sentiment in his analysis of American imperial preparations to conquer and exploit the world. The executive officers of the American empire are quite evidently getting down to business.

"Unclean Hands" in the Sandino Stamp Case

By MANUEL GOMEZ

A decision in the "Sandino Stamp" case has at last been handed down. This case, in which the All-America Anti-Imperialist League sought to restrain the postal authorities from interfering with its stamps reading, "Protest Against Marine Rule in Nicaragua," involved questions of fundamental importance in the development of American Imperialism. So concerned was the government in this case that personages of such official dignity as Postmaster-General New and Secretary of State Kellogg felt called upon to participate in it. Of course the decision is against the Anti-Imperialist League. The wording of the decision and the circumstances surrouding it teach a lesson of such obvious significance that even the most naive believer in American institutions cannot fail to be impressed by it.

"Unclean Hands"

No one seriously insisted that the Sandino Stamps violated any law. The government's defense against the All-America Anti-Imperialist League was that no writ could be granted because the League had not come into the courts with "clean hands." Why? Because our Sandino stickers said something about marine rule in Nicaragua, whereas Secretary of State Kellogg had entered an ingenuous affidavit stating that there was no marine rule in Nicaragua at all and that everything was quiet and gentlemanly there. Federal Judge Thomas D. Thacher was much impressed by this contention of "unclean hands."

In setting forth his decision the worthy jurist delivered himself of the following:

"It is not enough to say that the stamps are not within the statutory prohibition upon which the defendants relied in excluding them from the mails — a question which is not decided. At the threshold plaintiff is met with the defense of unclean hands. This court will not aid the perpetration of falsehoods. One of the stamps is designed pictorially to characterize the acts of the armed forces of the United States in Nicaragua as ruthless, oppressive and in violation of international law. Both carry the false implication that the United States, through its armed forces, is ruling Nicaragua, whereas the truth appears from the affidavit of the Secretary of State.. The rule which confines the doctrine of unclean hands to misconduct connected with the subject matter does not preclude consideration of the plaintiff's use of these stamps in connection with a campaign of falsehood and villification against the American forces in Nicaragua, which is frankly designed to encourage desertion of United States Marines to the forces of Sandino, with whom the American forces are in armed conflict. An analogous situation is often dealt with in the trademark cases where courts of equity refuse to enjoin infringement of a lawfully registered trademark which is shown to have been used upon goods sold under false representations. In such cases the Court looks beyond the character of the mark to its unconscionable use. (Manhattan Medicine Co. v. Wood, 108 U. S. 218.) And so in this case, looking to the use which has been and is intended to be made of these stamps, it is clear that the plaintiff is seeking the aid of the Court in the pursuit of its own iniquity. It has no more right to such assistance than the Highwayman of Houslow Heath. (McMullen v. Hoffman, 174 U. S. 639, 654.)

"Plaintiff has no standing in a court of equity, and the motion is therefore denied."

"No Marine Rule" Pretense.

Stripped of all its ferocious epithets against us, this decision of Judge Thacher's says two things. First, that Mr. Kellogg's affidavit is more real than the marines, gunboats and bombing planes now terrorizing Nicaragua and that the Courts will maintain the pretense that there is no marine rule in Nicaragua. Second, that even if you disagree with Messrs. Kellogg, Coolidge, & Co., about this you may not say so. It does not demand that you refrain from seeing the facts of marine rule. No doubt that will come later. Because the All-America Anti-Imperialist League was so indiscreet as to publicly characterize the situation in Nicaragua as one of marine rule, it is declared to have "come into court with unclean hands." And no one with unclean hands can expect to have any rights in the exclusive, lily-pure circles of the federal courts.

Free speech is all right, presumably, so long as you agree with the powers that be. No unfamiliar dictum in this land of the government-strike-breaker! Long ago we were made to understand that we could not rely upon the constitutional guarantee of free speech, to encourage overthrow of the established government, to agitate in strikes, etc., etc. Now we are told that we may not even express an opinion different from that of the secretary of state.

Courts Defend Imperialism.

The significance of Judge Thacher's decision is that it shows what a web of constituted authority surrounds and defends the most arbitrary acts of government. We try to create protest against the sending of marines to Nicaragua by President Coolidge, and against marine rule there. The Post Office Department, ostensibly a mere technical arm of the government for distribution of the mails, immediately steps in. We go to the courts for a writ against the postal authorities. The courts turn to the secretary of state, who enters an affidavit to the effect that there is no such thing as marine rule in Nicaragua. That is final. And the court turns savagely upon us with the statement that we have "unclean hands" and that we have no rights "in equity" anywhere until we stop saying that there is marine rule in Nicaragua.

It is a vicious circle. There is no way out. Our lawyer tells us an appeal to a higher court would be useless, for no judge will call into question the affidavit of the secretary of state.

Thus we are shown how absurd it is to attempt to fight against American imperialism as the private misdemeanor of some individual official sinner — the president, the secretary of state, or someone else. Imperialism cannot be fought without fighting the whole imperialist government. The government functions as a unit or it does not function at all. President Coolidge sends marines to Nicaragua, the military commanders carry out his orders, the state department, the courts, all other branches of the government combine to break up any attempt to interfere with the enterprise. There is more than an official esprit d'corps behind this, a response to what is in the last analysis the pressure of class interest and a pretty thoroughly unified ideology, to say nothing of actual direction from Wall Street.

There are some liberal gentlemen in this country who blame the whole invasion of Nicaragua on Coolidge, as if it were some private affair he was carrying on behind the back of congress. But is this true? Can congress pretend that it is innocent in the matter? Only to an ignoramus, or to some fool who is so involved in legalism and legal technicalities that he cannot cut through superficialities to the reality.

Record of Congress.

Here is the record of congress in the Nicaragua affair. The house of representatives. Absolutely nothing. The senate. The senate foreign relations committee, headed by the pseudo-liberal political sleight-of-hand performer, William E. Borah, rejected the only resolution submitted to it which called for the immediate withdrawal of marines from Nicaragua. The senate as a whole defeated the Norris-Blaine proposal against maintaining the marines in Nicaragua after the Nicaraguan elections. This was as late as April 25, 1928. Way back in January the senate adjourned abruptly for three days by special arrangement between the republican and democratic leaders in order to prevent discussion of any resolutions criticising the government's policy in Nicaragua.

The explanation for so extraordinary a maneuver was that the discussion would "embarrass" President Coolidge at the Pan-American Conference at Havana. The explanation itself is an admission.

Fascists Jail Workers

PARIS, June 3.—Scores of Italian workers, who dared to attempt May Day celebrations in defiance of the fascist decrees, were arrested and thrown into jails in a number of cities, reports which are beginning to slip thru the fascist censorship state. In spite of the fascist prohibition, May Day feeling ran high in all the factories of the industrial centers it is stated.

HANdOuTS

THE well-known Shakespearean student and litterateur, Gene Tunney, has just written a letter to the smug penguin Professor William Lyon Phelps of Yale in which the ex-prize fighter maintains that words are a medium of expression. The letter follows:

Dear Professor Billy:—

There comes to every man during his life a few occasions when words, the medium of expression, are altogether inadequate to convey the deep feelings of his heart. I am now experiencing one of these occasions. Nothing has ever surprised me more or touched me deeper than the receipt of the lovely set of Shakespeare sent me by the boys of your Shakespeare Class. . . Therefore, Billy, I wish you would read this to the boys or post it on a bulletin board that they may see by my words, though insufficient, how appreciative I am of their generous thought of me.

I wonder if the boys, who were as much a party to the shock given the public by the Boxing champion lecturing on Shakespeare as we were, got as great a kick out of the public's action as I did.

With deepest gratitude to you and the boys for my most precious treasure (the autographed set of Shakespeare) and with kindest personal regards, believe me

Always sincerely,

GENE TUNNEY.

Coolidge, Fisherman

President Coolidge will be able to establish a reputation as a fisherman without much trouble this summer.

H. Clay Pierce, in whose summer house the president will spend his vacation, spent over a million dollars to make it an ideal fishing resort for flaby-muscled fishermen. There are fifteen artificial pools on the estate, each one containing different kinds and weights of trout. The fish are forced into the pools and allowed to grow fat on liver. Then just before the president is brought on to fish the pools they are starved for a few weeks. When the anglers come the fish are hungry enough to snap at red flannel underwear or a silk top-hat.

APRIL WHOLESALE TRADE.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—Trade of wholesale firms declined in April by more than the usual seasonal amount and was smaller than in April of last year, accoding to statistics of the Federal Reserve Board. Sales of firms in the nine lines of trade included in the Federal Reserve Board's index of wholesale distribution averaged nearly five per cent smaller than in April a year ago and reflected declines in all lines except meats and drugs.

DA[illegible] WORKER APPEALS FOR LIFE AS CRISIS GROWS

TOM MOON[illegible]AS FRAMED, SPORT WRITER DECLARES

Fitzpatrick Supports New Affidavit

CHICAGO, June 4.—Another theory of the origin of the San Francisco parade bombing for which Tom Mooney and Warren K. Billings were framed up was today supported by John Fitzpatrick, president of the Chicago Federation of Labor.

Today Fitzpatrick made public an affidavit bearing the signature of Alfred H. Spink, a sports writer, who died last week, which declares that the explosion was caused by agents of the German Imperial Government. This fact, according to Spink,—was known to him at the time.

The affidavit declares that Mrs. Spink became acquainted with Mr. and Mrs. Powell Mertz while they were living in Oakland, Calif., and on the day of the explosion the latter warned that "something awful" was going to happen in San Francisco. Spink says that Mertz was "reputably a German agent."

It further declares that Spink kept the information to himself because of the ill health of his wife, and when she died he informed Fitzpatrick, exacting a promise from him that he would not make it public until Spink's death.

STRIKE TIES UP ARGENTINE PORT

Police Attacks Fail to Weaken Men

BUENOS AYRES, June 4.—With picket lines and demonstrations interrupted now and again by police attacks, the strike of the 3,000 harbor workers at Bahia Blanca continues with the same determination it began with, according to reports from the southern port.

The spirit of the striking longshoremen is excellent, the leaders of the strike report. A one hundred per cent turnout on the picket lines has been maintained since the beginning of the walkout and in spite of the terrorism of the authorities, there is no symptom of weakening among the men.

On the contrary, the leaders assert, strike sentiment is growing among the rank and file of other industries in the city and it is expected that the longshoremen will be joined by other workers in a sympathetic walkout that may tie up the whole town.

A dozen vessels have been lying in the port since the strike was called, unable to discharge their cargoes or take on freight. Strikebreakers, which the owners attempted to import, have proved a complete failure.

LEAGUE APPLIES THE WHITEWASH

To Cover Up Fascist Gun Shipment

GENEVA, June 4.—Two dominant delegates were absent today when the fiftieth session of the League of Nations council met at noon. They were Foreign Minister Aristide Briand, of France, and Gustav Stresemann, foreign secretary of Germany. Both were kept away by "illness."

Gen. Bettancourt, of Cuba, opened the session with a speech reviewing the work that has been done.

A report will be made by the committee which investigated the secret shipment of machine guns from Italy into Hungary.

The Polish-Lithuanian boundary dispute will again be brought forward, but there will be no definite settlement. Premier Waldemaras, of Lithuania, will explain the obstacles which have arisen "in the way of a solution."

The security and arbitration committee of the preparatory disarmament commission will meet on June 27.

Slow Response Thus Far Threatens Shutdown; Only Immediate Help Can Save Militant Paper

COMRADES:—

The funds for which The DAILY WORKER appealed to you in order to keep our revolutionary working class paper alive are not being received as rapidly as we had hoped. Therefore The DAILY WORKER may very likely go out of existence on next Saturday, June 9. This is inevitable unless you come to the rescue quickly.

Circumstances of the immediate present have forced us into a situation where it appears that we will be destroyed. Yet if we could pull through this immediate crisis, we could then say that the prospects for The DAILY WORKER were better than ever before. We have more collectible advertising and subscriptions than we had a year ago, and every prospect of an increased income if we survive the present crisis. It would be a tragedy of the worst kind for the paper to go down to destruction now. The Workers (Communist) Party, of which The DAILY WORKER is the central organ, needs this paper as never before. The fighting coal miners will be without a daily voice in the language of the country, if The DAILY WORKER is compelled to suspend. The textile strikers will be weakened, the heroic needle trades workers heavily injured in their fight, if The DAILY WORKER'S voice is silenced. The destruction of The DAILY WORKER will be an irreparable loss to every worker in the United States.

Unless unusually heavy contributions come into this office today (Tuesday, June 5), the next day's issue will have to be reduced in size, to four pages. Unless $5,000 is received this week, there will be no more paper after Saturday, June 9. A total of $10,000 must be had by the following Saturday—June 16, or we must close altogether.

We have told you that we are faced with an ultimatum which forces these demands. This is in deadly earnest. We have no choice. We will fight as long as you will make it possible.

But make haste. Send all possible funds, by telegraph, airmail or special delivery, to The DAILY WORKER, 33 First Street, New York City.

Verdict is Involuntary Manslaughter

(Special to the Daily Worker)

WILKES-BARRE, June 4. — A verdict of involuntary manslaughter was handed down late Saturday against Steve Mendola, friend of Sam Bonita, who has already been railroaded to the Eastern penitentiary, at a trial in which the treacherous officials of the Lewis-Cappelini machine cooperated with coal operator justice to convict the innocent miner. The case of Mendola like that of Bonita arose through the shooting of Frank Agati, mine contrator and personal body-guard of Cappelini.

The jury was out only five hours in a case marked by all the prejudice and injustice present at the trial of Sam Bonita. Tried before the same operator-controlled judge McLean, it was known that Mendola was doomed before the trial began. The case began last Thursday and for over two days officials of the United Mine Workers took turns in giving their testimony intended to "frame" the innocent miner.

The defense is planning an appeal.

'BEST FRIEND' AIDS WORKERS IN FIGHT

Urge Readers to Spread 'Daily's' Influence

"The DAILY WORKER is the miners' best friend," writes the wife of a striking miner in Ohio.

Thousands of striking miners have learned the truth of this. They realize that in their struggle to save their union from the combined attacks of the bosses and the Lewis bureaucracy there is only one newspaper that is fighting on their side—The DAILY WORKER.

The miners are not the only workers that have learned that The DAILY WORKER is their best friend. The New Bedford textile strikers are also discovering this important truth. Thousands of copies of the Daily have been distributed in New Bedford during the last few weeks. Distribution of the paper has also been going on in other New England textile centers, where workers are beginning to turn to the Daily for guidance and moral support in their struggles.

Workers in many other industries are ripe for The DAILY WORKER. All that is necessary is to bring the paper to them and to acquaint them with it. Here is a great opportunity for readers of the Daily. By securing new subscriptions they will be doing a twofold service: they will be strengthening the workers in their fight and they will be aiding The DAILY WORKER in its efforts to become a more effective and more powerful organ of the militant workers of this country. And in the present financial crisis of the Daily every new subscription is of especial value.

Readers, get busy. Help the workers' cause and the workers' press by spreading The DAILY WORKER. Canvass your friends, your shopmates, your trade unions and organizations. Every reader a DAILY WORKER agent, must be the slogan!

DISEASE TOLL IN CALIFORNIA BIG

SACRAMENTO, June 4. — Circulatory system diseases took the greatest number of victims in California last year as they did in 1926, according to the report of the State Department of Public Health.

Victims in 1927 numbered 13,571. In 1926 they numbered 12,254. Deaths last year totalled 61,427, compared with 58,427 in 1926.

Tuberculosis ranked higher than cancer in both years in the number of deaths. Both these diseases increased their death toll in the past two years.

Measles, pneumonia, digestive disorders and nephritis increased their death tolls.

Detachments of the worker-peasant troops are reported to have aroused the nearby districts to the verge of insurrection and it is predicted that the whole region will join with the main body of the worker-peasant armies within a short time.

ALL-UNION COMMUNIST PARTY WARS ON WASTE

MOSCOW, U. S. S. R., June 4.—In face of the increasing pressure of the imperialist powers outside the Soviet Union, and the resistance which the rich peasants are creating within, together with the recent disclosures of treason practised by various technicians now on trial, the Central Executive Committee of the All-Union Communist Party has issued an appeal to all its members to aid in the elimination of errors, treason and waste. The full text of the appeal follows:

"To all members of the All-Union Communist Party: In its intensive reorganization work, the Soviet Union is encountering increased pressure from international capitalism, together with resistance from the kulaks, rich peasants, and the sabotage and treachery of certain specialists.

"The tasks of reconstruction before us cannot be achieved without the assistance of the masses who must control and watch the whole apparatus from which the useless elements must be eliminated.

"Our main slogan must be: 'Self criticism regardless of persons.'

"The main tasks before our Party at this time are: Free criticism within the Party and application of the free election principle within the Party without exception, severer punishments for offenses committed by Communists, and increased work among the masses, especially among the youth and in the village. We must also wage an energetic struggle against the violation of trade union democracy, and for the gaining of new cadres for trade union work, and the extension of control commissions thruout industry and transportation as a whole.

"We must furthermore carry on a ceaseless fight against bureaucracy within the administration of the Soviet Union."

TEXTILE STRIKE BEGINS 8TH WEEK

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., June 4.—Despite the large number of pickets already arrested, and disregarding the announcement of the authorities that further arrests will be made, several thousand pickets turned out this morning, in answer to the rumors circulated all last week that the 56 cotton mills which closed down over seven weeks ago by the strike of 28,000 workers, will make a concerted effort to reopen. The mills did not reopen.

Several workers arrested on the picket line last Friday are to come up

BETRAY SUITS OF RADIUM VICTIMS

NEWARK, N. J., June 4.—The radium suits filed by the five young New Jersey women, Edna Hussman, Quinta McDonald, Albina Larice, Katharine Schaub and Grace Fryer, who are doomed to early death, were "settled" out of court early this afternoon.

Under the settlement, arranged by Federal Judge William Clark of Newark, each will receive $10,000 in cash from the United States Radium Corporation, an annuity of $600, and doctors and hospital bills will be paid for the rest of their lives. This settlement, considering the fact that doctors give them less than one year to live, makes the settlement one of the most absurd in the history of United States legal procedure.

For past medical expenses each will be paid $2,000, less than half of the money which each has expended on doctors' bills in the past. The corporation also magnanimously states that it will meet counzel fees and court expenses.

WORKERS ROUT FASCISTS

Socialists Police Help the Steel Helmets

HAMBURG, June 4.—Scores of workers, many of them seriously wounded, are lying injured in their homes in Hamburg today as a result of the police protection which the social democratic police commissioner afforded a demonstration of 50,000 Steel Helmets here.

The Steel Helmets, the German fascist organization, began their parade thru Hamburg by acts of violence against the workers, provoking the silent masses who lined the streets in every possible way, and finally tearing down a number of red flags. The workers defended their flags while the police aided the Steel Helmets in attacking the workers.

The scores were wounded during the combined police and fascist onslaught, the fury of the masses of workers increased with the outrages and the Steel Helmets were finally compelled to retreat to the railway station under police guard.

POWER TRUST "SCHOOLS"

Dope Factory Maintained by Big Utilities

WASHINGTON, June 4. — Details of the systematic propaganda machine maintained by the Power Trust are seeping into the Federal Trade Commission's power inquiry now being conducted here. The technique used is now revealed as one of the most brozen in the history of American public utilities.

Documents now in possession of the commission describe the elaborate "dope factory" maintained by the Power Trust and which reached into hundreds of colleges and schools thruout the United States. In Colorado alone two schools were maintained, one in Denver and the other in Pueblo, to train speakers to spread the gospel of private ownership. The latter school is conducted by the University of Colorado, a public institution.

Following a course at these schools during which the "students" are provided with the stock argu-

LAHEY, LITTLE COLEMAN OF AMALGAMATED, PLANS BETRAYAL OF STREET CAR WORKERS

The scheduled strike of the 200 traction workers of State Island due for yesterday noon has been postponed until tomorrow according to an agreement put over for the men by Edward J. Leahy, President of the Staten Island local of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway employes.

The traction workers whose demand for a 10 cent an hour increase in wages was rejected by the Richmond Railways Co. which operates the surface lines of Staten Island, were ready to strike yesterday noon when informed by Lahey that he had entered into negotiations with John A. Lynch, Tammany Hall president of the Borough of Richmond. Lynch will meet with Lahey this morning and the results of the meeting will be conveyed to the workers tonight.

Lahey is a small edition of James H. Coleman, who with the other representatives of the Amalgamated recently betrayed the New York traction workers for Tammany Hall and the Interborough.

While a younger man than Coleman, Lahey is no more honest and militant; he has adopted the same bombastic and deceptive manner towards the rank and file which is used by Coleman and Fitzgerald, the vice-president of the Amalgamated. It is known that the workers have nothing to expect from the activites of Lahey, who is a Tammany tool.

Lynch, president of the Borough, has appeared as the friend of the workers but his activities are best known from a number of grafting park schemes he has put over on Staten Island and from his bitter opposition to the popular demand for an island park at Great Kills, which would provide an amusement place for millions of workers during the year.

Only the rank and file control of the Staten Island traction local and a 100 per cent strike for the 10 per cent increase can be relied upon to win for the workers.

Hoover Won Florida Delegates by Holding Fake State Convention, Charge

BUILDING TRADES WORKERS FACING WORSENING EVILS

Unemployed, Speed-Up, Graft Are Rife

Conditions in the building trades are rapidly getting worse, according to testimony of rank and file union members who yesterday gave a detailed picture of what the workers in these trades have to contend with.

"The building trades today are facing a basic depression," one of these workers declared. "Unemployment is general and severe and thousands of building trades workers are walking the streets seeking employment which is nowhere to be found.

Graft and Speed-up.

"Graft, the speed-up system, collaboration between the bosses and the union officials, are dominating factors in the present situation of the building trades workers," he charged. "The plumbers are especially hit by this wave of unemployment, and class-collaboration policies of the bureaucracy of the plumbers' locals."

"Local 14 of Jersey City, consisting of 2,100 members, has as the secretary of the local, the city plumbing director. To any rank and file plumber this is sufficient to convince him that such a man cannot represent his interests. Ask any plumber and he will tell you of the thousands of dollars of graft that is collected by these inspectors. How can such a man represent the interests of the workers?

"Local 418 of Queens has a group within the local that is fighting the class-collaboration schemes of the officials. This group has succeeded in bettering the conditions of the men and improving the conditions on the jobs. However, the officials are doing their utmost to stop the progress of this group. Whenever a member of this group takes the floor and fights the officials he immediately becomes a marked man. He is reported to the boss by the official of the union and immediately fired from the job. This is the way these misleaders of labor 'protect the interests of the men'."

Confirming these statements, another building trades worker declared that a member of the above group who has frequently taken the floor to fight the policies of the officials, got into a heated argument with Flannagan who is the delegate of the local. Flannagan immediately took steps to get rid of this member by endeavoring to railroad him out of the local, he charged. The executive board, which consists of a clique of the officials, took up the question of getting rid of this member by transfering him to another local. The rules of the plumbers' locals state that no transfers can be issued at the present time. By transfering this member they are trying to get rid of him, and deprive him of earning a living. When the matter was brot before the rank and file about two weeks ago, Flannagan stated that he would take the name of every member who voted against the suspension. This was a scheme to scare the plumbers in voting for the recommendation of the executive board. In this they succeeded as most of the plumbers were afraid to vote against the suspension as it would probably mean that they would be blacklisted. Nevertheless the progressives voted solidly against the suspension.

This is only part of the scheme, this worker said. Others complete the treachery.

"While Flannagan is carrying on his dirty work inside of the local, Mc-Adams, another delegate, is carrying on the outside work. He reports to the boss any man who dares to oppose the policies of his clique."

While the progressive group has succeeded in bettering the conditions in a great number of jobs, due to the fact of the weak forces it has not succeeded in installing strict union conditions on all the jobs. There is a job on Merrick Road, Long Island that is being done by Gross & Sons. Most of the building trades workers on the job are non-union men, and working below the scale. The plumbing on this job is unsanitary and is a violation of the city plumbing code. The builder has police protecting the job and refuses to let either union men or the delegate on the job. It is the duty of the delegate to inspect every plumbing job that is done.

"Plumbers' Local 1 of Brooklyn are faced with a different situation [illegible], he declared:

"The officials of Local No. 1 are trying to drag over the [illegible] the new agreement, until after the elections which take place [illegible]. This is but a scheme to [illegible] agreement until the fall [illegible] there will be more un[illegible] will [illegible] any agreement which is submitted to them by the bosses. There is no doubt that this new agreement will never live up to promises that the officials made during the last strike. The plumbers must defeat the schemes of the officials by electing honest rank and file members as officials, who will take a militant stand and really fight for the interest of the men. The plumbers must also fight for the recognition of the helpers, as this is very necessary to them in order to improve their conditions. If the helpers are organized it will prevent them from scabbing on the plumbers if another strike situation arises.

"Plumbers support the progressive groups in your locals!

"Do not be fooled by the false promises of your misleaders!

"Fight for one uniform agreement for all locals!

"Fight against the installation of [illegible] saving machines on the job!"

VINDICATION of the promise of the U. S. Navy to train its recruits in many fields has at least been partially realized for Harlo Hamilton Harding, 29, honor graduate of Annapolis in 1920, for three years ensign in the navy.

for trial in a local court today. They will be defended by attorneys of the International Labor Defense.

The Workers International Relief sent out an appeal to workers to respond immediately to their appeal for funds for strikers relief. This is especially urgent now, the Workers' International Relief states, in view of the heavy increase of applications for aid coming in.

In addition to the normal increase coming from the new members of the Textile Mill Committee, the fact that the skilled workers' unions are stopping the relief doles due to exhausted treasuries, is putting heavier burdens on the W. I. R. station.

An announcement was also made yesterday by the Citizens' Relief Committee, composed of local politicians and endorsed by the A. F. of L. union here, to the effect that the amount of food orders given to strikers will be reduced by 20 per cent. This order goes into effect to-day.

A. F. of L. Treachery.

Not only have the A. F. of L. bureaucrats failed to organize suitable relief machinery for the great masses of strikers, but they have even failed to provide ample aid for their own small membership, the workers here declare.

In view of these events the Workers International Relief intends to prosecute an energetic campaign to enlarge their resources. Plans are speedily being pushed to carry on a textile strike relief thruout the country.

DISPUTE MAY END IN CUBAN STRIKE

HAVANA, Cuba, June 4.—The disagreement between the Cuban railway workers and the owners of the United Cuban Railroads over the question of the eight hour day continues in spite of the proposal, which both parties have tentatively agreed to accept, submitting the dispute to a government board of arbitration.

Resentment is high among the railroad workers, owing to the persistent refusal of the railways' administration to listen to their demands that an eight hour day be enforced, and there is growing suspicion that the government's interference in the dispute is the official forerunner of a victory for the roads.

Leaders among the men assert that strike feeling is strong but that the ruthlessness with which the Machado authorities have shot down Cuban strikers in the past are influencing the railroad workers against any precipitate action.

SEE U. S. HAND IN COLOMBIA'S OIL LAW CHANGE

Concession May Go to American Interest

BOGOTA, Colombia, June 4.—Following the sudden announcement that the Barca petroleum concession had become the subject of serious discussions between the government of Colombia and the United States with a view to transferring the concession to the latter power, the important announcement that a presidential decree suspending the operation of the law regulating petroleum output and ownership has just been issued. The regulatory law was approved by the last congress.

The petroleum law has been consistently attacked since the time of its passage by the legal advisers of all the Colombian and foreign oil companies on the grounds that it is unconstitutional and confiscatory.

Commenting editorially on the suspension of the oil laws by the president's decree, El Tiempo, one of the largest papers in Colombia states, "It must be confessed that the first impression is that the decree is unfortunate for us and excellent for the petroleum interests. It is the first blow struck against the nation in petroleum affairs. The annulment of the petroleum laws by the supreme court is possible."

The Barco oil field, which will, it is intimated, shortly come under the control of American interests, is in the extreme north-eastern section of Colombia near the Venezuelan border. The field has been in the hands of a number of petroleum companies until in 1926 the Colombian government decreed that the field should be returned to the nation since Barco, the original concessionaire, had failed to comply with the conditions of his contract.

It is believed that the American interests, which have been considering the Colombian oil prospects for some time, will obtain possession of the Barco field within the next few months.

MINE POLICE IN NEW TERRORISM

Continue Clubbings, Gas Attacks

CALDWELL, Ohio (By mail). — A mass picket line of two hundred stood fast in front of the entrance to the Belle Valley mine near here Thursday, dsepite a tear gas attack directed by Sheriff Byrop Schaefer and a dozen deputies who had ordered the pickets to disperse. The strikers had gathered near the mine, owned by the Cambridge Collieries company, as non-union miners were leaving work late in the day.

Disparaging remarks addressed to non-union workers caused the calling of the police officers by the mine superintendent. Sheriff Schaefer commanded the crowd to scatter, insisting that it was assembled in violation of an injunction granted to the Cambridge Collieries by the Noble county common pleas court. When the 200 greeted his order with derision and defiance, Schaefer threatened to club them.

"Come ahead," yelled the pickets. Determined to break up the line, Schaefer and his deputies hurled tear gas bombs into the crowd without warning. Saved by a favorable wind, the majority of the pickets suffered no ill effects from the tear gas though smarting eyes and choking throats caused the picket line to waver for an instant.

Caldwell, at the edge of the Hocking Valley, has been waging its struggle against the coal operators without stopping for breath since the beginning of the strike. Isolated by the high hills and poor transportation facilities the Hocking Valley had had little relief all winter. Battling against the bosses and the police on the picket line becomes harder every day, hunger wins back the ground lost by the mine operators in the fight.

Caldwell has had no relief shipment for a month. "We must go on with the fight, and we've got to have food to do it," is what Caldwell thinks of its present situation. "We'd have been licked long ago if it wasn't for the National Miners Relief Committee," say the strikers. "They've got to keep their relief shipments going if they expect to see us win the strike."

Can't Find Job; Asks for Cell

SPARTANBURG, S. C., June 4.—Released from the South Carolina Penitentiary after serving five years there, Robert L. Thomas has asked penitentiary officials to permit him to return to complete his maximum sentence of ten years.

When Thomas left the penitentiary recently he returned to his home here. He sought employment but has failed to find a job. After months of walking the streets in vain efforts to find work he walked into the office of Sheriff Sam K. Miller and requested that arrangements be made for him to return to the penitentiary.

He was told that it was impossible to grant his request. He communicated with officials of the penitentiary but there his request was also turned down.

Thomas is still searching for a job.

At the same time it has been revealed that employes of Colorado utilities are rated on their ability to spread the propaganda of the Power Trust among the general public.

SAY LABOR FAKER GETS GENEVA GOLD

Believe John Walker is Paid Observer

CHICAGO, Ill., June 4. — Disclosures that Geneva gold is at this moment lining the pockets of "Honest" John H. Walker, president of the Illinois State Federation of Labor are expected here to result in a rank and file demand by union members for an investigation when Walker returns from his European mission to the International Labor Office conference now in session at Geneva.

Walker who is an "unofficial observer" to the conference called by the labor section of the League of Nations, undertook the journey at the invitation of the League of Nations Non-Partisan Association of Illinois which is known to have paid all his expenses and is believed to have made him an additional "consideration" the amount of which is not yet ascertained.

Was "Persuaded."

In this connection it is interesting to note that the first intimation that Walker had been "persuaded" to undertake the trip came from Director Magnuson, the American representative of the International Labor office, who early in May announced that Walker would be the American "representative" to the conference. This announcement was immediately denied in a statement by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor. Green denied that the Federation had sent any representative and conveyed the impression that Walker was not even an "unofficial observer."

From this it is now uncertain whether Walker in addition to receiving Geneva gold for the mission has also misrepresented himself as the delegate of the A. F. of L. Officials of the Illinois Federation of Labor are now seeking to cover up the tracks of Walker by declaring that Walker does not represent the A. F. of L. but only the Illinois Non-Partisan Association. Walker carries letters of introduction from Governor Len Small, the Insull traction magnate tool of Illinois, to whom Walker and a number of other labor fakers sold out in the 1926 and other elections.

The International Labor office has for several years sought to secure the closer cooperation of the A. F. of L.

HERBERT PACKED CONVENTION WITH OWN SUPPORTERS

Lenroot Lawyer For All Contesting Delegates.

KANSAS CITY, June 4.—Charges that Hoover won nine delegates to the G. O. P. national convention by fradulently packing the Florida state convention at Daytona Beach were made in the contest over the Florida delegates which started here today.

The contest involved nine delegates, one set headed by National Committeeman George W. Bean and uninstructed; the other by ex-Senator L. Y. Sherman of Illinois, and now a resident of Florida, who is pledged to Hoover.

Charles F. Cummings charged that the Hoover supporters packed the state convention at Daytona Beach and in the absence of the regular chairman, George P. Wentworth, held an unauthorized session presided over by Glenn B. Skipper, vice-chairman of the state committee. This was the session that instructed Florida's delegates for Hoover.

The fact that Hoover is willing to go to any expense and make use of any trickery in order to ensnare the republican nomination for the presidency was also made evident when it was announced that he had hired Ex-Senator Irvine L. Lenroot of Wisconsin to act as general counsel for all Hoover contesting delegates. Lenroot will have several lawyers for assistants.

MACHINES FIGURE IN DON SABOTAGE

Useless Iron Imported By Technicians

MOSCOW, U. S. S. R., June 4.—During yesterday's session of the trial of the Donetz plotters, Eliadze, a technician accused of sabotage, denied that he participated in such activity, but admitted that he had sheltered the counter-revolutionary, Kurkin.

He admitted further that he had received graft money from Kalganov but "not for sabotaging."

Bashkin, another accused technician, testified that foreign engineers took great interest in the sabotage plot. He said he had received sabotage instructions from Beresovaki, Kalganov, Samoilov, and Gorletzki, for which Kalganov and Kusma had paid him 6,000 roubles.

Regarding the plotters activity in the Donetz fields, he testified that useless machinery was imported from abroad and that the plotters invited him to travel thruout Europe and report to the former owners about sabotage work.

Gorlov, another technician, testified that when protesting to the chief engineer, Kusma, about the useless machinery, he was threatened with dismissal and a report to the political police.

Gorlov also admitted receiving 600 roubles and added: "I felt I was doing something adventurous."

AIRMEN NEARING END OF SUVA HOP

HONOLULU, T. H., June 4. — The Southern Cross was today on the last 600 miles of its 3,100-mile hop across the South Pacific from the Hawaiian Island to Suva of the Fiji group.

Had the plan faltered or the fuel supply run short, Captain Charles Kingsford-Smith, commander of the great publicity stunt, had planned to make an emergency landing on the Phoenix group, a few tiny specks, representing the only land on the path of the airmen.

The islands were reached and passed, however, indicating the four men on board the big tri-motored monoplane were certain of their ability to carry on to Suva. Last reports said the airmen were battling a storm.

COMERIC'S CAPTAIN PACES THE BRIDGE

But in the Firehole Are 19 Stokers Bruised By Police Clubs

SCARRED and bruised from the blows of police clubs and exhausted from the beating and a week-end in a Staten Island jail 19 East Indian stokers were sent back to the fireroom of the British freighter Comeric under guard yesterday.

Encouraged by the attitude of the police and Magistrate Croak in New Brighton, S. I., the officers of the ship used brutal tactics in herding the 19 workers back into the stoke hole. Capt. Ardus Livingston is the ship's master.

Municipal and special private dock police were called Saturday by Capt. Livingston when the stokers demanded the fulfilment of a promise of a day's shore leave. The police attacked the defenseless and weary workers with clubs, threatening them at the same time with pistols. The workers were then taken ashore in irons and locked under heavy guard in a warehouse until time for arraignment.

AT the request of Capt. Livingston, Magistrate Croak ordered the 19 imprisoned in police headquarters at St. George until shortly before sailing time for the Comeric yesterday.

Today the Comeric is steaming toward Liverpool, its sixteenth port since the present trip began.

The stokers had fired the Comeric on its rounds in and out of 14 ports, beginning with Liverpool, when the agreement for shore leave in New York was made, the spokesman of the 19 informed the court.

The working conditions were unbearable and the food was inadequate. In the court room as well as in the black hole of the Comeric the defendants had the status of chattel slaves. They had great difficulty in court in making themselves understood. And it was of no use for them to show the court that humanly and legally they were entitled to a day on shore.

THEIR insistence on the day off caused the captain to charge them with "attacking" him, the specific charge in court being disorderly conduct.

The "crime" of these under-paid stokers, bleeding and bruised from police clubs in a strange land, as their spokesman laboriously explained to the court, was wanting to go to a circus here.

Rumania Journalists Who Criticize Gov't. to Face Life Terms

Among the many incredibly repressive measures contained in the new penal code which is being prepared in Rumania are laws which completely abolish any freedom of the press which now exists. Confiscation is sanctioned for the publication of even the mildest anti-government articles or news items.

Sentences from 5 years to life imprisonment will be dealt out to journalists responsible for such items. Although this has not yet become law, journalists have already been threatened with prosecution if they write anything objectionable to the government.

Arrest Workers Who Picket Philadelphia Carpet Mill, Correspondent Writes

BOSSES COMMAND MEN TO GIVE UP UNION OR JOBS

Injunction Won By Fetterolf Company

(By a Worker Correspondent)

PHILA.,(By Mail).—A friend of mine give me this letter and asks you to print it in The DAILY WORKER. The strikes in the textile industry in Philadelphia are bitterly fought. Here it is:

We are hearing again the slogan of the bosses, "the open shop," or to speak more truthfully, "the shop that is closed to union men."

About twelve weeks ago the district council of textile workers in conjunction with organizer White endeavored to organize the Wilton carpet workers. This so incensed their employers that upon this knowledge coming to the owners of the Fetterolf Mills, they ordered quite a number of their weavers to come to the office. About twelve or thirteen men presented themselves, but the firm was not taking chances with a large delegation and insisted that all repair to their private office in single fashion.

The first man questioned was asked if he belonged to this new union. He answered yes. He was told by Mr. Fetterolf that he would either give up his union or his job. The man refused and on the balance of the men hearing the ultimatum delivered that they could not work as union men, a strike occurred.

The usual course was followed and the plant was closely picketed. At no time was there violence, no one was injured, no property destroyed. Two men were arrested for picketing, they were charged with a breach of the peace. The case was heard before Magistrate Boylan as they charged was a makeshift one. The magistrate discharged them. The firm being annoyed by the pickets sought an injunction in the Common Pleas Court No. 1; Judge McDevitt presiding. After a hearing which took place on two afternoons, an injunction was given against the union workers, restraining them from any further picketing around the mill or the vicinity.

Quite a number of these workers had years of service in Mr. Fetterolf's employ. Mr. Fetterolf admits that they are skilled workers. These workers have been denied their constitutional rights to belong to an association of their choosing, and Mr. Fetterolf who has been assisted by the injunction will hasten the day when men battling for their wives and children, cannot be enjoined in striking against tyrannical bosses who assume full dictatorship over their very lives.

Picture in your mind these skilled workers without a say regarding conditions, their wages, hours of work, all fixed by their bosses, no voice raised in their behalf, treated like a piece of machinery. You read of the feudal days, well the owners in this particular industry are again living in this period. For men and women have been bullied and threatened, who work in their employ.

But a weapon must be found to crush men and women who, being strikers are looked upon as lawbreakers when they rebel against servile conditions imposed by their taskmasters.

Horthy Officials Try to Frame Up Workers

BUDAPEST, June 4.—Attempts to construct a new "Communist plot" are being made by the Horthy police against John Nass, a worker, recently arrested in a police raid and thrown into a Budapest prison.

Nass who is an Austrian subject, was removed from Budapest to the new jail at Ofen, where an effort was instituted to prove that he was engaged in a huge conspiracy to overthrow the Horthy regime.

RAW MATERIALS OUTPUT.

WASHINGTON, June 4. — The production of raw materials in April 1927, according to statistics of the Dep't. of Commerce, declined as compared with the previous month, declines occurred in the output of minerals and in the marketings of animal products and crops, while the output of forest products increased. Contrasted with last year, all groups showed declines, except crop marketings which registered no change.

The output of manufactures, after adjustments for working-time differences, was larger in April than in either the preceding month or April of last year.

CATHOLICS O. K. REJUVENATION

PARIS, June 4.—Prof. Serge Voronoff, discoverer of the famous gland operation for rejuvenating men and women, declared today that the Catholic Church approves his work. His statement was called forth by an attack made upon him by Dean Inge of St. Paul's Cathedral, London, who called gland grafting "an insult to religion."

Preparations For Next Imperialist War Go On

Regular soldiers of the Sixteenth Infantry at Fort Jay are here shown rehearsing for a military tournament to be held June 16. To stimulate the soldiers' interest the wives of officers, munitions makers and Washington officials will sit in the gallery to watch the shooting.

COMMUNIST SECTION HOLDS CONFERENCE

(By a Worker Correspondent)

At a conference of Section One of the Workers (Communist) Party held recently at 60 St. Marks Place, New York City, which was attended by all the 30 delegates elected from the units on a proportional basis according to the number of members in good standing, Bert Miller, who made the principal address representing the district, outlined the work before us. He pointed out that we may expect in the near future an even more severe crisis than the one now facing American industries.

Bowery and Wall St.

Section One has many peculiar problems. Besides being an industrial and a residential section it contains the Bowery in which congregate the unemployed from other sections of the country in search of jobs, and Wall Street which is the greatest financial stronghold in the world. The Bowery offers opportunity for agitation among workers who come and are later diffused among all industries and all parts of the country, for you may find miners, textile workers, agricultural slaves—all looking for work, ready to go anywheres to serve a master. In Wall Street are the offices of all the financiers, the Morgans and the Rockefellers. A demonstration in front of Rockefeller's office is news which spreads around the world and is excellent publicity.

We may look for new and greater attacks on the unions in an effort to further lower the living standards of the workers. An increase of class collaboration may be expected on the part of union officials. To answer these attacks will mean struggle and in every struggle relief is a vital factor. Therefore, a strong and permanent relief organization must be built. Relief for the miners is of utmost importance and that work must be pushed vigorously.

America, which is so much behind all other industrial countries in the matter of social legislation, needs an unemployment bill. Such a bill has been offered by the Council of Unemployed and it is the task of the Party to bring this bill before the workers so that its adoption may be pressed by the millions of working and unemployed masses.

Distribute Paper.

In outlining more definitely the immediate task of the Section, Comrade Miller stressed the importance of concentrating on particular shops for the distribution of The DAILY WORKER and for support of the Miners' Relief. A feature which must not be overlooked is that a metal worker is a valuable contact since all the metal industries become key industries in time of war. There are a good many metal workers as well as needle trades workers, paper box makers, printers, traction workers, and seamen in Section One.

Section One is also the stronghold of the "socialist" party and the effort to hold it up to the workers in its true light is a task especially for this section. The light emanating from torch is intended only to deceive workers and the hand bearing the torch belongs to a body devoted to a program which serves Capital by confusing Labor.

The Section will be mobilized 100% for the election campaign. The first task of obtaining necessary signatures will be a test for the energy of which the largest section in the district is capable.

Literature Distribution.

Comrade Hofbauer, the section organizer, stressed the importance of literature distribution. Since the establishment of section headquarters, the sale and distribution of literature has been notably improved, but there is room for much greater improvement in that field. The need for open forums and speakers for open air meetings was brought out in the course of his speech. Educational meetings, which are now regularly held in the units, should include shop talks and industrial reports.

In order to carry on more effectively the work in the shops, a re-organization of Section One is necessary. For this purpose the section was divided into nine factory districts with a street nucleus in each factory district. In addition, there will be a Printers' Unit, and a Seamen's Unit, also two International Branches and the Night Workers' Branch. The organization plans are all completed and the section will commence working on the new basis very shortly.

Comrade A. Gusakoff, the Section Agitprop director, who also presided at the conference said, "the Party's face must be towards the factories, seamen and Wall Street." The election campaign must be used to build the Party as well as to popularize it.

A section bulletin is about to make its first appearance. This bulletin will reflect the life in the section, and should be of great value.

All of the department heads of the section reported, and then there was a lively discussion from the floor, in the course of which there were pointed out possibilities of noon hour open air meetings in the Wall Street vicinity, the fact that the Bowery is a recruiting center for the army, navy and marine corps, and the fact that the Battery is one of the principal points from which American troops are sent to all parts of the world.

After Comrade. Miller made his brief closing speech, and the new section executive committee was elected, the delegates left with a determination to bring the spirit of the conference back into the units and to carry on with renewed vigor the struggle for the emancipation of the enslaved workers. —NORMAN SILBER.

G.O.P. HEADS SELL MASTERSHIPS

Suicide Correspondence Reveals Graft

WASHINGTON, June 4.—An exhaustive investigation of charges that postmasterships have been bought and sold in the south was promised today by Senator Brookhart (R) of Iowa, chairman of the special investigating committee named by the senate.

The committee will get under way shortly after the republican national convention and will continue its inquiry all during the summer, Brookhart said.

The investigation, resulting from the joint demand of Senators Harris and George, democrats, of Georgia, will be the first ever conducted in this field.

It was brought about largely by the sensational suicide of L. S. Peterson postmaster at Douglas, Ga., who left correspondence on which the Georgia senators based charges that the job was bought and sold.

Republican national committeemen especially will come under the scrutiny of the committee.

The first witness probably will be Postmaster-General New. After a conference with the postmaster-general, Harris and George announced that they had asked for full cooperation in the inquiry and promised that they would exert every effort to give a "square deal" to everyone involved.

The Georgia senators will present the Peterson and other cases, while other southern senators and congressmen are expected to appear before the committee. After a hearing at Atlanta, the committee probably will go to Nashville, Tenn., Brookhart said.

LIVED LONG ENOUGH.

LONDON, June 4.—A century is long enough for anyone to live in the opinion of most of the centenarians in England and Scotland. A newspaper interviewed 13 persons aged more than 100 to see if they desired to take advantage of a Voronoff gland operation that would add 40 more years to their lives. Ten of them said they were ready to give up the cares of life right now.

PLUMBER HELPERS START CAMPAIGN FOR UNIONIZING

American Association Would Aid All

(By a Worker Correspondent)

The plumbers' helpers of New York City are not the only ones who have been refused admittance into the Plumbers' Union. In Philadelphia the same problem exists.

Unorganized.

There are about 4,000 plumbers and helpers and steamfitters and their helpers in Philadelphia. Only about 200 plumbers, steamfitters and steamfitters' helpers are organized. The plumbers' helpers are not organized.

The officials of the Plumbers' Union there don't give a damn about organizing the plumbers' helpers into a union. The plumbers' helpers, however, think that they have a perfect right to become union men.

A Plumbers Helpers' Club has just been organized in Philadelphia. The club has at present about 30 members. More and more helpers are joining the club.

They have asked the American Association of Plumbers' Helpers, with headquarters at 7 E. 15th St., New York City, for copies of their official organ, "The American Plumbers Helper." Their request was granted.

Aid Organization.

The American Association will help all helpers to organize as much as it possibly can.

News also comes from Boston, Mass., that the plumbers' helpers there have organized a club.

The plumbers' helpers in New Haven are not behind in organizing themselves. They, too, have organized a Plumbers' Helpers Club.

The various helpers' organizations should unite and fight together for admittance into the U. A., our parent body. In unity there is strength.

This is a very good beginning. The plumbers' helpers of other cities and towns should follow the example of their brothers in New York, Philadelphia, Boston and New Haven.

Now is the time to organize. It is never too late. For organized we will be for all that.

BARBERS' UNION OFFICIALS NEVER REMOVED SIGNS

Rank and File Disgust With Leaders Spreads

(By a Worker Correspondent)

As a member of Local 913 of the barbers' union, located in Long Island City, I would like to disclose the conditions prevailing in this town.

About two years we were organized with the slogan, "Only thru organization can we stop the master barbers from doing injustice to the journeymen barbers." Today, in my opinion, it has become a joke, for the Master Barbers' Association has the upper hand in every respect.

The only time the rank and file knows the union exists is when dues are to be paid. The last meeting was held about eight months ago when I introduced a resolution forbidding the display of union signs in non-union shops. This was passed by the members and the officials promised to send out a delegate the next day to remove the signs. But they never did this and they never explained why not.

The members of this local are thoroughly disgusted with these actions of their officials. They are further disgusted with the unjust overtime they are forced to put in and the reduction in wages. —A.

PAPER MERGERS, PRICE WAR LOOMS

Canada Price Fixing Groups Breaks Ranks

MONTREAL, June 4.—Dissolution of the Canadian Newsprint Export Association, which is expected to lead to a price war and gigantic mergers with smaller companies going under, is seen today from the announcement of the withdrawal from the association of important members.

The Anglo-American Pulp and Paper company and the Brompton Pulp and Paper company have withdrawn and Price Brothers have given notice of withdrawal. Overproduction of newsprint has forced the break in the ranks of the association. Formation of mergers which will enter the price cutting competition now that no definite selling figure will have to be met, is expected to start immediately.

MARBLE WORKERS DEFY FASCISTS

Burn Black Shirts in Market-Place

PARIS June 4.—In spite of official fascist terrorism, serious disturbances have broken out among the marble workers, in Carrara, reports from Milan state. The workers are compulsory members of the fascist marble workers' union.

Open demonstrations of the workers have offered frank defiance to the fascist authorities. The men demonstrated at the quarries and on the streets of the town.

One group of marble workers is reported to have burned their blackshirts in the town square at Carrara.

So serious does the situation appear at Rome, that premier Mussolini is reported to be taking extreme measures to suppress the outbreak of the marble workers.

Fascist militia will occupy the section and compel the workers to return to the quarries and accept the fascist orders immediately, it is intimated.

TRYING TO PASS FOR "COLORED"

Girl Fights to Live Among Her People

Bq WILLIAM PICKENS.

White Negroes are usually thought especially by white people, as always trying to "pass for white." Well, here is the case of a colored girl who is fighting hard to pass for colored and to avoid the embarassment of being forced to be "white."

The case is not unprecedented, but the person in question is so well known to so many colored people of the East, and her predicament in the West is so peculiar, that it is interesting. All the colored people of Baltimore, Maryland, know Maude Lane, her mother and her sister and her brothers. Many of the colored people of Washington, and many others also know the Lane family, and know that they are all "colored," as colored people go in the United States. Even many white people of Baltimore and Washington know this family, and one of them would find it difficult to pass for anything else, as he is almost brown.

It is also well-known to thousands of people in the East that Maude Lane married E. L. Booker, a young colored man of the American expeditionary forces, who is brown, and who, after the war, studied dentistry and lived and worked for a while in Yakima, Washington, and now lives and works in Portland, Oregon.

Fights To Be Colored.

Well, in Portland, Ore., where the Lane family is not known, Maude Lane Booker, wife of the colored dentist, has been fighting an almost losing battle to be and be understood as a colored person. Among the hardest nuts she is having to crack are some of the colored people themselves. Cannot you hear them now, taking advantage of her husband's occupation as a dentist? "I wouldn't go up there to that Negro dentist: he's married to an old white woman!"

And when Mrs. Booker turns up at a club, and the discussion turns about the common interests and struggles of colored people, and she endeavors to contribute an item from her experience as a colored person—can not you see them transfixing her with their eloquent eyes, saying by their looks: "What do you know about it? What right have you to be interested in colored people's troubles? Only this colored man has interested you! What do you want here anyway?"

And some of the white people are of the same kind. Dr. Booker is greatly interested in interracial affairs and the efforts for interracial peace and justice. And when he is speaking on this subject to white audiences or to audiences partly white, you can see the white people's eyes cross-questioning and rebutting: "Is that what you want?—Maybe that is what interracial harmony leads to!"

We are not discussing the merits of these questions nor the merits of what these attitudes imply. We are simply describing a situation. Here is a colored girl, known to thousands of colored people ever since her birth, who is finding it an awful uphill fight to be what America decrees that she should be. And yet white peopel wonder that at least a million mulattoes have passed over into the white race, and colored people say that the "white Negroes" are always trying to "pass." We know many colored people from the East, who are now white people in the West—but we also know the force of circumstances. The situation of Maude and her husband and her two beautiful little brown children is one of the anomalies of democratic America.

FORBID "LEVINE LIFE."

BERLIN, June 3.—Max Schultz, a German political prisoner in the Luttringhausen jail, has announced that the prison authorities have ruled against his receiving a copy of Paul Werner's life of Eugen Levine, and the political cartoons of the great French cartoonist, Honore Daumier.

They Call This a Workers' Playground

This shows a section of Coney Island last week-end when hundreds of thousands of workers and their families left their tenements for a breath of air. Coney Island is maintained not for the masses of men, women and children who spend their dimes there but for the business men who make huge profits from the commercialized amusements.

Butler, Coolidge Aide, Fighting Mill Strikers

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., June 4.—William M. Butler, chief strategist in the cotton mill owners' war on the living standards of 28,000 of their workers, forced to strike to defend themselves against a 10 per cent wage reduction is still playing the role of strikebreaker-in-chief, master of labor spies and bitter foe of trade unionists that he assumed in 1918-1921?

The wealth of the chairman of the national republican party is still based on his vast holdings in New Bedford cotton mills. His anti-labor policies have become intensified. His reactionary sympathies are far more notorious now, that he is a principal adviser to President Coolidge, than they were in 1918.

Butler's record in those years has been bared by A. M. Donahue, hired by Sherman Service, expert labor espionage concern, to head a crew of union wreckers to operate in New Bedford at the behest of the Manufacturers Assn. just organized by Butler. Donahue years later told Fred Moore the whole story. Moore was chief counsel for Sacco and Vanzetti and the man who made their case a world-wide labor issue.

"We were paid," Donahue related, "to discourage those who were members of the union, so they would not join, and to breed into the minds of the union men that they were simply being imposed upon by a bunch of professional labor organizers who were getting a good living out of their hard labor in the mills. At times of strike we were to encourage those who were striking to return to work and those who were not striking to stay in."

Q. As I understand, you continued to see Butler approximately once a month during the course of the years 1918-21? A. Yes.

Q. Those meetings with Butler were either at the Wamsutta Club in New Bedford or at Butler's office, 77 Franklin St., Boston?

A. Yes. Mr. Moore, of the Sherman office, saw Butler more frequently than I did. He invariably repeated the conversations he had with Butler to me so that I was always advised as to Butler's position in regard to the operation.

Q. Can you outline the essential subject matter of your conversations with Butler? A. He was anxious to learn who active union leaders were, who the radical element were and the extent of their activity and the sentiment at large in the city regarding wage reduction.

Q. At that time how many men did you have there? A. 25. Q. Do you have any specific conversations with Butler relative to wage reduction? A. Yes. At one time I objected to a 20 per cent wage reduction because I felt from the reports of the men that it would bring about a strike. Already there had been two or three reductions varying from 10 to 12½ per cent and another 20 per cent on top of it would be too much. When I objected to it, Butler laughed and said the workers of New Bedford would be glad to work for nothing before he got through with them.

Q. Did you know how much the Manufacturers Assn. paid the Sherman Agency for industrial work in New Bedford? A. $250,000, my own estimate of it, which I was in a position to figure to a penny because I knew how many men were working at all times and the length of the job.

DETROIT TO HOLD HAYWOOD MEETING

Last Speech in America Given in Detroit

DETROIT, June 4.—The workers of this auto and aircraft center will honor the memory of William D. Haywood Wednesday evening at a mass meeting in the New Workers Home, 1343 E. Ferry Ave. "Big Bill" Haywood was well-known to countless numbers of workers in this city and there will be a record crowd to pay tribute to his years of activity as a working class leader.

The last speech delivered on American soil by Haywood was in Detroit, just before his departure for the Soviet Union, where he died, an exile from American capitalist class vengeance.

The meeting at the New Workers Home will be addressed by H. M. Wicks and other speakers. A musical program has also been arranged, which will be featured by chorus singing and instrumental music.

2 Workers Killed; Train Leaps Embankment

MOUNT CARMEL, Pa., June 4.—Two were killed and seven other persons injured when a Lehigh Valley passenger train bound from New York to Mount Carmel was wrecked two miles east of this place.

The engine and tender went over a 75-foot embankment, carrying the engineer, Neal Gonahan, 50, of Hazelton and fireman, F. P. Hoffman, 38, of Mount Carmel, to almost instant death. Gonahan was scalded to death in the cab and Hoffman was literally cut to pieces. Eight years ago Hoffman's father, a Lehigh Valley engineer, was killed in a similar accident at Lehighton, Pa.

Decrease of Disease in New York During May

A decrease in the number of the communicable diseases that have been prevalent in New York City this spring is reported by Commissioner of Halth Louis I. Harris. There has been an especial letup in influenza, whooping cough and cerebrospinal meningitis, he states.

"The number of deaths in New York during the first four weeks of May," Commissioner Harris' report continues, "was 1,941, 1,920, 1784 and 1,671 respectively. The present rates are, however, higher in the corresponding weeks last year, but the decrease in general mortality and good weather point to a return to normal soon."

W. I. R. CHILDREN'S CAMP OPEN JULY 7

Will Train Youngsters For Class Struggle

Because the children of workers need a summer vacation in the country and to satisfy the craving for a camp atmosphere, the Workers' International Relief has established a camp for them in the heart of the White Rock Mountains at Wingdale, New York, where four groups of one hundred children from the ages of 9 to 15 will vacation for two week periods. The camp will open July 7 and close after Labor Day.

"All forms of sports, craft work, arts, nature-study and other educational classes will be provided under competent supervisors," stated Fred Biedenkapp of the W. I. R. yesterday. "An understanding of the present struggles of their working class parents, to be gained at camp, will send them home better members of their own class. The rate is eight dollars per week, with special arrangements for those unable to pay the full rate. A certain number of children of strikers and unemployed parents will be invited free. These terms are made possible only thru the support of other labor and fraternal organizations who recognize the importance of establishing such a camp for workers' children.

"An ample, supervised children's diet; comfortable quarters in uniform eight-cot tents set up on wooden floors and lighted by electricity; a new children's dining room; and an attractive casino, are some of the feature that will insure the greatest comfort and physical benefit to the children. A free physical examination will be given to every child before he or she goes to camp.

"Organizations and individuals interested in making it possible for larger numbers of children to go at reduced rates and free should send donations to Workers' International Relief, Camp Committee, Room 604, 1 Union Square, New York City. Registration and further information may also be secured at the above address."

MINERS DEFENSE PICNIC ARRANGED

Cleveland Workers Aid Strikers

CLEVELAND, June 4. — A picnic for the Miners' Defense has been arranged by the Cleveland local of the International Labor Defense, to be held June 24, at New Sachsenheim Gardens, 7001 Denison Ave.

An interesting program is being arranged. In the afternoon there will be athletic contests and speaking. The principal speaker of the afternoon will be Robert Matusek, president of the Bellaire sub district of the United Mine Workers, elected on the "Save-the-Union" program. Matusek will speak on the situation of the miners and the work of the defense organization in the mining section at the present time.

In the evening supper will be served and there will be dancing to the music of a fine union orchestra. The picnic grounds have been remodelled and redecorated, and it is expected that hundreds of members and friends of the International Labor Defense will attend this third annual picnic of the I. L. D.

Workers Delegation to Visit Strike Regions

DETROIT, Mich., June 4.—Workers of Detroit are raising money for the relief of striking miners and getting their entries into the contest for the workers' delegation to visit the strike area, September 1, 2 and 3.

Thru an error the contest was announced as ending July 21st, when it should have been August 21st, which gives Detroit workers just one more month to gather funds and work to send a large delegation to the mining fields.

All organizations should select candidates and hold affairs during the summer months to raise money.

Seven Injured in San Francisco Accident

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., June 4.—Seven passengers on car 52, California St. Cable Railroad, were injured last night when the grip struck the underground bumper of the intersecting slot at Pine and Hyde Sts., abruptly stopping the car, and hurling its passengers into the ragged edges where the glass had been shattered.

TEACHERS FACING CONTRACT CRISIS

Seattle Case to Confront National Meet

CHICAGO, June 4.—Organized teachers, meeting in Chicago in national convention June 26, face the gravest menace in the history of the American Federation of Teachers through the successive court decisions against their Seattle local of high school teachers. The Washington state supreme court has upheld the lower court ruling that a yellow dog contract forbidding affiliation with any union may be legally forced on teachers that want to hold jobs in the Seattle schools.

Appeal to the U. S. supreme court is the only recourse at law left to the teachers, but direct action by a vigorous strike, reinforced by the pupils from organized labor families, is also open to them if all else fails.

San Francisco Teamster Dies of Fractured Skull

SAN FRANCISCO, June 4.—James H. Malcolmson, 45, a teamster was found unconscious in his room in a lodging house at 1941 Mission St. and died shortly after being removed to the Mission Emergency Hospital, of a fractured skull.

It is believed that Malcolmson's skull was fractured before he entered the lodging house, in a fall from the wagon which he was driving.

CHICAGO YOUTH PLAN BANQUET

Many Unusual Features to Be Presented

CHICAGO, June 4.—The program arranged for the sixth anniversary banquet of the Chicago Young Workers (Communist) League at the Workers Lyceum, 2733 Hirsch Blvd., June 9, will also include a tableau play illustrating the six years of struggle of the league. Especially invited coal miners from southern Illinois and textile workers from Kenosha will attend. This banquet will be the most interesting affair ever given by the revolutionary youth movement in Chicago. Old members of the league who are now participating in the struggles of the Workers (Communist) Party will be there too.

SPORT MEET TO SEND MINERS AID

DETROIT, June 4.—Detroit workers, members of the Labor Sports Union have pledged support to the miners in their heroic struggle and will hold a dance and athletic exhibition Tuesday, June 12, 8 p. m. at Finnish Labor Temple, 5969 14th St., near McGraw.

The athletic program will consist of apparatus work, boys' and girls' calisthenics and two wrestling matches.

Detroit workers sympathetic with the struggle of the miners are expected to attend this affair. All proceeds go to miners' relief.

The Lowdown on Lowden

A drift of sentiment away from Hoover is reported among delegates arriving early at Kansas City for the republican national convention. Defeated in Indiana and in West Virginia, Hoover begins to look more and more like the helpless "fat fellow" that Taft was in the 1912 campaign, when it became impossible to elect Taft and the large contributors of campaign funds switched over to Woodrow Wilson and the democratic party. Correspondents already talk of an analogy between the republican convention of 1912 and that of 1928, and the supposed possibility of a split this year in the republican party, as in 1912, and the election of the democratic candidate for president.

But the chances of the nomination of Frank O. Lowden as the republican candidate are considered brighter. Why? Because the revolt against Hoover, Wall Street's "ideal candidate," comes mostly from the farming districts, and —"Mr. Lowden is a farmer!"

Lowden, palmed off on the exploited, swindled, bankrupt farmers of this country as "a farmer"—is about the most idiotic and incredible joke ever played on the rural toilers. This bloated, reactionary multimillionaire industrialist and financier has invested some of the ill-gotten gains of the Pullman estate in a few palatial country-houses, golf links and polo grounds—various palaces to loaf in during the various seasons of the year—and the capitalist press has used barrels of ink in telling the gullible dirt farmer that this makes Lowden "also a farmer." The reactionary ex-governor, who never would have been heard from if he had not married the daughter and the dollars of George M. Pullman, carefully adds to the structure of fiction by uttering a few words now and then in behalf of this or that so-called farm-relief bill. Lowden is not a friend of the farmers—he is a friend of Frank O. Lowden's presidential candidacy.

Lowden is flesh of the flesh and bone of the bone of the highest stratum of finance-capitalists of the United States. If Hoover is a fat Hoover, Lowden is a lean Hoover. Lowden represents the highest ranks of the capitalist class, and Hoover represents the highest ranks of the capitalist class, and each would serve that class in precisely the same way. If Hoover got caught unfortunately in being exposed as the piratical enemy of the farmers which he is, and Lowden had the chance to pose with the McNary-Haugen bill in his breast pocket, this was only the luck of politics.

No political party can serve both the capitalist class and the exploited farmers, and the republican party, including both Lowden and Hoover, is the biggest party of finance-capital. The capitalist system cannot offer the farmers any solution of their problems except the solution which is already in process—the confiscation of their lands by the bankers. Hoover has been in the presidential cabinet and there performed the function of aiding the banking interests to crush and expropriate the farmers. Lowden, in bidding for Cooldige's seat, is only bidding for a chance to do the same thing that Coolidge and Hoover did.

The high financial circles which rule the country have a beautiful prospect this year: Two equally zealous servants, Hoover and Lowden, as leading candidates of the republican party, one of whom can pose as a farmers' friend just when it is necessary; and if the republican party is to be split and if the democratic party profits thereby, the same high financial circles have an equally zealous Al Smith as the leading democratic candidate.

The fact that a class of working farmers rapidly being expropriated of their land and being dumped into the cities to become a part of the army of unemployed, can be played with by such frauds is an inevitable result of their following the lead of, and allying themselves with, the capitalist class parties. Such an "alliance" is, of course, only their submission to destruction.

The working farmers must learn that the capitalist system has nothing to offer them. Only the party which seeks to destroy capitalism can offer the farmers relief. There is only one such party—the Workers (Communist) Party. It alone offers the exploited farmers the only effective class alliance—that with the working class. The impoverished farmers must learn the meaning of the demand for a "workers' and farmers' government."

The red election campaign with Foster and Gitlow as the standard bearers must be carried not only to the masses of workers, but to the farmers who are beginning to stir.

Where Is Comrade Azario?

By A. LOZOVSKY.

ONE of the leaders of the revolutionary trade union movement in Italy, the railwayman Isidoro Azario was arrested in the beginning of 1927 at Panama. He was arrested at Panama, in spite of the fact that he was only a transit passenger through that "republic," upon the demand of the fascist government of Italy ,and with the friendly assistance of the government of the United States. For a long time it was impossible to obtain any information why Comrade Azario had been arrested, how long he was going to be kept in jail, whether there was going to be a trial, and so on. Now we find in the organ of the Argentine Communist Party "La Internacional" of March 17 a statement by a lawyer from Panama to the effect that Azario had long since left Panama, as he had been extradited to the Italian government "soon after the arrest." And here a whole number of highly important questions arises:

1. Why was this "friendly service" of the United States government to the Italian government kept such a strict secret for a whole year?

2. Why and on what grounds was this political emigrant handed over to the fascist murderers?

3. Finally, the most important question, what became of Comrade Isidoro Azario after he was handed over to Mussolini's government?

The last question is all the more important since no one in Italy knows where Azario is at present located. Had he been brought to Italy and imprisoned or exiled to any island, it would have become known to the political prisoners. The Communist Party of Italy, the revolutionary Confederation of Labor, and the political prisoners know nothing about the fate of Comrade Azario. Consequently, Comrade Azario, extradited to the fascist government in the beginning of 1927, was not taken to Italy. If so, where is he? What has become of him? What have the fascist murderers done with the victim who has fallen into their hands? Azario has vanished on the route between Panama and Italy. Since Azario was handed over to the representatives of the Italian government, it is obvious that the latter have organized this mysterious disappearance. We know sufficient about the tricks of the fascist bandits to realize that it is here a case of premeditated murder. This dark affair should be elucidated in every way, an answer must be obtained at all costs, when and how Comrade Azario has vanished.

Call the fascist murderers to account!

Shortness of funds with which to pay for engraving makes it impossible for The DAILY WORKER to publish the cartoon of Fred Ellis today.

Opening the Election Campaign

By JAMES P. CANNON.

THE awakening of all the leading forces of the Party to the importance of the election campaign was demonstrated in the most dramatic and convincing manner by the national nominating convention. No one who took part in the convention, or watched its three days' deliberations could have the slightest doubt that the Party has at last made a real beginning with election activities.

It was our first national nominating convention and for many new members and sympathizers it was the first effective demonstration of the Party's national scope and organization. The convention itself and all the preparations for it were excellently organized and the high points effectively dramatized. This was no mere happen-so. The Party machine is nine years old and the experience of our past work is bearing its fruit in every phase of Party activity. The successful organization of all sides of the convention preparations augurs well for the 1928 campaign.

Party Growth Reflected

The convention reflected the growth and development of the movement in a striking manner. We have held many conventions in the past nine years. Even in the period when the Party was outlawed, we held a number of underground conventions where as few as thirty or forty delegates from ten or twelve states struggled and argued for days over disputed points of the program.

The convention we have just held had 296 voting delegates from 39 states and the District of Columbia. In addition to that one hundred fifty fraternal delegates were present. Prominent and distinguished people in the labor and revolutionary movement, such as Anita Whitney and Lucy Parsons gave added importance to the convention by their attendance. There was a strong delegation of Negroes, strengthening the fraternal bonds of solidarity between the races in the common fight. Striking miners, textile workers and the embattled needle-trades workers were there as well as delegates from the solid south and the far west. The composition of the convention deserves a special article. It showed a picture of a national organization.

THE character of the delegations and the burning issues of the class struggle dealt with in the platform and the speeches were convincing proof that the Communist Party does not approach the election campaign from the standpoint of the capitalist and reformist parties. The election is for us a field of the class struggle and we raise there the issues and slogans which animate the struggles of the workers on every front, developing them further and tying them together.

The success of the convention was so pronounced as to justify the opinion that we are nearing the accomplishment of a most essential task, that is, to establish our position as a political party in the general and national sense of the word. In recent years, the Party has developed greatly along the line of partial and sectional struggles of the workers. It is now gathering its forces for a general fight on the broader field. Herein lies the great significance of the turning point marked by the opening of our national election campaign.

The Party has already made a good name for itself as a fighter for the interests of the workers on the economic field. The hatred and fear of the exploiters and all their labor agents for us is the outcome of the heavy blows we have dealt them.

Communists Heart of Mine Struggle.

Many workers have a good opinion of our work in the trade unions and think it represents the sum total of our activity. We made a good fight at Passaic. We, together with the Workers, fought and are fighting the bosses, the police, the A. F. of L. and S. P. traitors to a standstill in the needle trades. At the present time our Party is the heart and soul of the epic struggle of the coal miners.

Some erroneous conclusions have been drawn from these activities, partly because our work in the past has been somewhat one-sided. Many workers who see our Party in these fights and who support it in them have not yet come to recognize us as a general political party, fighting effectively in the political arena.

IS it not a fact that many workers in New York who support us in the needle trades against the socialist party traitors vote for these same charlatans on election day? What is the explanation of this anomaly? It arises primarily from our failure up to now, because of the passivity of the Party members in this respect, to make a sufficient impression in the election field, with the result that we are regarded in some circles of the sympathizing workers as a "trade union party" only. This confusion must be overcome in the 1928 campaign. It is one of our great tasks in the coming election period to deal a death-blow to all such misconceptions.. The convention was a big help to this end.

The convention dramatized the entrance of the Party into the presidential campaign and focused the attention of the Party on it even more effectively than we had dared to hope. The lackadaisical approach to this form of work which has been so noticeable in the past was entirely lacking. The spontaneous enthusiasm which greeted nomination of our candidates, Foster and Gitlow, and other high points of the convention was inspiring to see. It swept over the whole gathering and took possession of all. The comrades who attempted to prolong it unduly and artificially, however, should be reproved for their overzeal. Gold needs no gilt and proletarian enthusiasm needs no claque.

With our great nominating convention as the starting point, we must now proceed to the development of our election activity with all forces and all speed. The entire work of the Party in the elections must be organized as a fighting campaign, discarding all routine and desultory methods. The regular apparatus of the Party must be keyed up for this task and, as with all campaigns, a special auxiliary apparatus throughout the Party, from top to bottom, must be constructed.

WE should aim high, because the prospects and possibilities are great. The election campaign this year ought to bring out all the latent powers and resources of the Party, concentrating them all,—for the first time in a single general struggle. We should aim at ten-fold greater propaganda with hundreds of speakers, with thousands of meetings on the street corners, and with our participation in the campaign dramatized in every possible way.

The Communist Parties of Germany, France and Poland have utilized the elections this year to extend and consolidate their influence. The elections gave a remarkable demonstration of the stability and growing strength of Communism in Europe and showed that Communists know how to exploit elections in the capitalist state for revolutionary purposes.

For us in America the election campaign, as a means of revolutionary propaganda and mobilization for struggle, has an extraordinary significance. It offers us the opportunity to bring the message of Communism and its platform of daily struggle to tens of thousands of workers and farmers with whom we have not yet established contact and who know nothing of our aims.

The Party must see this opportunity clearly and mobilize all of its forces for the fight. The nominating convention showed that all the leading circles of the Party are ready to plunge into the work of the campaign with energy and confidence. It remains now to carry the message of the convention to all the Party ranks and inspire them with its spirit and enthusiasm.

"Unclean Hands" in the Sandino Stamp Case

By MANUEL GOMEZ.

Havana Farce Conference.

At the Havana Conference the American delegation not only defended U. S. intervention in Nicaragua but actually insisted on recognition by the Latin-American delegates of the right of U. S. intervention and police power throughout Latin America.

It is generally ignored in this country that the Pan-American Conference — ostensibly a "good-will" conference of the nations of the Americas — opened in an atmosphere of police-terrorism. The obedient Wall Street-owned Cuban government arrested or deported some 200 people, many of them representative Latin-Americans who went to Havana to protest against American imperialism. (In this atmosphere of police brutality, which amounted to a conspiracy to smother the true voice of Latin-American opposition — the unperturbed U. S. delegation delivered its widely press-agented homilies on "western democracy" as opposed to European institutions delicately insinuating the superiority of the United States, and intended to bring about a tacit acceptance of U. S. leadership.)

When, therefore, the government tells us that we may not circulate stickers reading "Protest Against Marine Rule in Nicaragua," we look upon it in a much more serious light than do those who see it only as an interference with certain personal liberties. We are not astonished at the interference. A government which is doing the will of a financial oligarchy cannot be expected to observe the rules of the game. Imperialism and liberty are incompatible. We look upon the whole matter as a phase of the struggle between the forces of imperialism and the great popular opposition to it. Imperialist governments are notoriously very touchy on the subject of their "colonial policy" and the government of Wall Street and Washington is no exception.

Workers Oppose Imperialism

There is a reason why the government was unwilling to meet our head-on challenge by criminal prosecution. The imperialist policy of Wall Street and Washington is not popular among the American masses. The great majority of American workers and farmers are opposed to the imperialist adventure in Nicaragua. Fearing too much publicity, the government felt that it could not afford to allow us the public platform of a criminal trial. Workers and farmers are disturbed enough as it is.

Workers and farmers have no interest in assaulting the people of Nicaragua or of any other country. The profits that are derived go to Wall Street, whose soldiers shoot down American workers in Colorado or Pennsylvania just as they shoot down the opponents of Wall Street in Nicaragua. Imperialism and imperialist war mean only suffering for the great mass of Americans. The All-America Anti-Imperialist League is founded upon the conception that the common people of the United States are bound by ties of fundamental interest with the peoples under U. S. imperialist rule. Our faith is in the common people of America, especially the workers—not in the government. We are trying to build the U. S. section of our League upon the primary basis of working class support. The Sandino sticker case proves conclusively that our outlook is the correct one.

To Continue Fight.

We shall continue our fight to defeat the war against Nicaragua. We shall continue to oppose imperialism at every point. Courts of "equity" may decide that we have unclean hands, but workers will know that if this is the case it is merely from fingering the affidavit of Mr. Kellogg.

American imperialism is powerful, but the forces of opposition to it are great and growing. Thruout the American empire there are important elements who will fight to the end against imperialism, which is not simply "foreign policy" but a whole system of domination by a financial oligarchy based upon exploitation and suffering both at home and abroad.

Imperialistic Powers Fall Out Over Their Plunder

By SCOTT NEARING.

Cartels in Europe, international finance corporations, price agreements, tariff adjustments, "multilateral" treaties, floods of honeyed publicity have led millions to believe that the great empires will not fight again, but will organize a world plunderbund and exploit the earth cooperatively.

The idea is logical. Wisdom would demand such a step by the imperialists. Can the imperialists take the step? Will they take it?

Imperialism needs an administrative machine to protect and advance its interests. Within the last month Great Britain has ordered a fleet into Egyptian waters in connection with a 48-hour ultimatum to the Egyptian government. Japan with 23,000 troops concentrated in China (15,000 of them in Manchuria) has fought a war with the Chinese Nationalist army in an effort to maintain "peace and order" in territories where Japanese interests are involved. The U. S. army and navy continue their war in Nicaragua as a means of "insuring constitutional elections" in that unhappy country.

It is impossible to coerce Egyptians, Chinese and Nicaraguans without bombing planes, machine guns and warships. Such exercise of the police power is a traditional form of imperial activity.

Thus far no statesman has proposed a plan by which the imperial ruling class in one country, for example Great Britain, will be able to maintain imperial law and order in Egypt, protect itself against the aggressions of other imperial ruling classes, for example of Italy and France, and at the same time safeguard the interests of the ruling class in Egypt. Imperialism apparently contains at least two drastic contradictions. One results in colonial war, the other in world war.

If an agreement could be made regarding the exercise of police power, there remains the problem of dividing the loot. Who will formulate a ratio? Will one imperial ruling class be willing to take less than another? Recent conferences on naval ratios furnish an emphatic negative answer.

The 3 negative answers to these 3 questions negate the possibility of imperial cooperation for world plunder.

HANDOUTS

The effect of yacht racing and selling tea on the human organism can be judged from the following words of Sir Thomas Lipton:

Tammany Hall, the only New York political organization which is so corrupt it vies with the Chicago stockyards in odor, has just been described by Judge Olvany, its head scavenger, as not a political organization at all but merely an "ancient patriotic society." Fido is merely standing behind a fence."

Ingenious Preacher

It is to be expected that preachers who have made special arrangements with God for immunity should have less morality than ordinary men. Murder officially sanctioned by the heads of the church has of course been common. It remained however, for the Rev. Driver of Paterson, N. J., to gain notoriety for the religious leaders of the land in a new way. He is accused of a very serious charge. Chris Valamis, cafe owner, who is said to have kept the pastor's daughter prisoner for three days is charged with criminal assault. Chris the preacher's friend, is shown above with a detective.

Six O'clock Bell

SUDDENLY there is confusion. The workers, who till now have been silent, quiet as the machines are quiet, arise in a bee-like commotion at the first clang of the bell. There are so many people here suddenly, one notices. Each one rises, dons his coat and hat, and the mass surges from all directions to the time-clock, past it, and through the factory doors. If one could look down on the workers from a half mile overhead, they would seem like a river system on a map, streams of black and gray and dullness, moving noisily and sluggishly; a main stream and a hundred tributaries. Out of the doors, into the streets, home.

WHEAT FLOUR OUTPUT.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 4. — The department of commerce announces statistics on wheat ground and wheat-milling products, by months. For April, 1928, 873 concerns reported 1,047 mills, of which 119 with daily capacity of 45,056 barrels were idle during the month. Of these 873 concerns, 852, which were in operation in 1925, produced approximately 91.6 per cent of the total wheat flour (114,689,930 barrels) reported at the biennial census of manufactures for that year. On the same basis, the revised percentage for March, 1928, is 92.1.

APRIL BOXBOARD OUTPUT.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 4. — April production of boxboard based on reports to the Department of Commerce by 91 firms operating 118 plants, was 91.2 per cent of capacity, as compared with 87.7 per cent in March and 82.3 per cent in April, 1927.

NA[illegible]ON-WIDE SEAMEN STRIKE HITS JAPAN PORTS

WORKERS OUT AS BOSSES REFUSE MINIMUM WAGE

Hundreds of Ships Tied Up by Walkout

TOKYO, June 5.—All but three steamship lines in Japan are completely tied up as the result of a nation-wide strike called by the Seamen's Union last night. Seventy ships are being held in Yokohoma alone.

The walkout occurred at midnight after the steamship companies had refused to accept the union's demand for a minimum wage. Virtually every ship is idle as the result of the strike. Scores of vessels of all nations are tied up in a number of Japanese ports unable to load or unload due to the extremely rapid spread of the walkout.

In spite of unusually provocative tactics on the part of the police, the spirit of the men is unbroken according to reports received here from Kobe, Osaka and other shipping centers. Even such an extreme northern port as Hakadati has been affected by the strike and a number of smaller ones are expected to join the strike within the next twenty-four hours.

The three steamship lines which have not yet been affected by the strike are the Nippon-Yusen, the Osaka-Shoshen and the Kwasaki.

MORE FUR LOCALS CALL FOR PARLEY

Locals 53, 40 Demand End of War

PHILADELPHIA, June 5. — A membership meeting of the Furriers' Local 53, held here last week, unanimously adopted the recommendation of their executive board to endorse a demand on the general executive board of the International to call immediately a conference of locals as a first step to halt the war being conducted on the New York membership by the International officials.

The original demand for a conference was made several weeks ago by the Boston local and was embodied in a resolution which declared that all the smaller locals of the union are being rapidly destroyed by the bosses because of the chaos in the New York market. The resolution appeared in these columns at the time it was made public. It was then sent to all locals of the union to be endorsed.

TORONTO, June 5:—Endorsement of the Boston local's demand upon the International Furriers' Union general executive board that a conference of all locals be called, was unanimously endorsed at the last meeting of the executive board of the Toronto Local 40. This is the third important local of the International to register their demand for a conference which will take up the question of ending the destructive war against the New York Joint Board.

The executive board announced that a membership meeting is to be called to secure the membership's endorsement of their action. Thus far the general executive board of the International has not replied to this demand, made originally several weeks ago by the Boston Furriers' union.

WARBLES PRAISE OF POWER TRUST

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 5.—Warbling a paean of praise of power monopoly, H. T. Sands of New York City, president of the National Electric Light Association, today asserted his faith that the Federal Trade Commission's "investigation" would leave his organization pure and unsullied.

Sands denied that the power trust is flooding the public schools with its propaganda injected into textbooks and distributed in special pamphlets. "No industry has a greater concern than ours in the integrity of our educational institutions," he piously stated.

He also denied that the $1,144,000 annual budget of the association had all been spent for propaganda. Only [illegible]00,000 has been spent for "public information," he declared.

Dress Rehearsal For Next Slaughter of Workers

The battle of Fleville, in the world war, will be reproduced in detail at the military tournament on Governor's Island on June 16. The picture shows the rehearsal held at Fort Wadsworth. An appeal for goats, sheep and fowls has been issued by the military authorities in order to add the last touch in realistic detail to the imaginary slaughter.

DISTRICT 7 MINERS TO OUST KENNEDY-MATTEY

(Special to the Daily Worker)

HAZELTON, Pa., June 5.—Steps for elimination of another section of the treacherous Lewis machine were taken by the rank and file mine workers when 150 union members, local union presidents and secretaries representing over 25 local unions gathered here Sunday evening at a nominating conference to name a progressive slate in opposition to the well known corrupt Lewis-Kennedy-Mattey officialdom in District 7, United Mine Workers of America.

Biggest Meeting Ever.

The meeting was the biggest the opposition forces ever held in District 7. Gebert spoke on the national situation, also on the tri-district fight against the Lewis machine, and very severely criticized the Brennan-McGarry-Harris forces in District one for their steam rolling tactics in District 1 convention and for their lack of a program.

William Gaffney, an outstanding leader of the opposition in District 7, made a very rousing talk and presented the progressive program. After a

ANTI-STRIKE LAW REPORT IS MADE

Communists Are Only Opposition

Only the Communists are opposed to anti-strike legislation, according to a report of a proposed law by the American Bar Association Committee on Commerce which held a series of hearings in this city on the subject last January.

The report which has just been made public is a forty-eight page document to be submitted at the associations annual meeting to be held in Seattle on July 25, 26 and 27.

Labor Officials Cited.

The report summarizes statements by officials of the American Federation of Labor, Green, Woll, and others who have been working with the Bar Committee to put over the anti-strike law. The opinions of others are cited in favor of the proposal. The only voice raised against the law, the report states, was "an official of the Workers (Communist) Party."

At the hearings last January, Wm. Z. Foster, national secretary of Trade Union Educational League, appeared to testify against the proposal. In spite of the frantic attempts by Julius Henry Cohen, chairman of the Bar Committee, to prevent Foster's denunciation of the move from being made public, a fairly good statement against the enslaving proposal got on the record.

Only Opposition.

It is to this dissenting voice that the report refers. The Workers (Communist) Party is vigorously opposed to such schemes as the anti-strike proposal of the Bar Association and is understood to be pleased that it is recorded in the opposition.

HOOVER MACHINE GRABS DELEGATES

Pulls Strings to Win Contested Seats

KANSAS CITY, June 5.—With the Hoover machine prepared to steamroller all opposition, the republican national committee today settled down to its task of settling the remaining contests for seats to the national convention. The three chief contests involve the state delegations of Texas, Louisiana and Mississippi and indications are that they will be settled to the satisfaction of Hoover.

George W. Bean, veteran national committeeman of Florida, today paid the price of opposing Hoover when he was excluded from the convention. Bean has charged that Hoover won Florida by holding a fake state convention, packed with his own henchmen.

Woman Flier Delayed

TREPASSEY BAY, Newfoundland, June 5.—A leak in the gas tank and high winds today delayed the hop off of the Fokker monoplane for England with three flyers on board including a Boston woman, Amelia Earhart.

MINERS MAY NOT PLANT GARDENS

Operators Act to Increase Hunger

(Special to the Daily Worker)

DILLONVALE, Ohio, June 5.—"It doesn't matter how hungry you are, if you're a union miner living on company property, you can't plant a garden." This is the order issued by the Wheeling Township Coal Company to all strikers living in company houses.

Preparing to start large-scale operations on a non-union basis, the Wheeling Township Company, as well as several other coal companies, are preparing the ground for further evictions which will be necessary if the importation of non-union miners is successful.

Permitting a miner to plant a garden would be giving them too much of a claim to his home in case it becomes necessary to throw him out to make room for a scab. At the Wheeling Township mine, a handful of non-union miners are already employed. These have been permitted to plant gardens. The miners feel that the discrimination is a move on the part of the company to make them feel more keenly the hunger which they are suffering in their struggle to save their union.

The National Miners' Relief Committee, 611 Penn Ave., Pittsburgh, has appealed for funds so that it may continue its help for these and other miners.

UP-STATE NAMES PARTY DELEGATES TO CONVENTION

State Nominating Meet Saturday

The units of District 2 and District 4 (up-state New York) of the Workers (Communist) Party are electing delegates to the State Nominating Convention of the Workers (Communist) Party of New York state, to be held Sunday at 10 a. m. at the new Workers Center, 26-28 Union Square, New York City.

Several hundred delegates are expected. In addition to the delegates directly from the Party organizations, fraternal delegates are expected from other workers' organizations, including shops in New York and immediate vicinity.

The convention will last throughout the day. Workers' organizations have been invited to send delegates.

All units are to pay $1 per delegate and fraternal organizations $2 as a fraternal fee, regardless of the number of delegates sent.

District 2 and 4 have made arrangements for a tour of upper New York in order to obtain signatures, county by county.

The Party intends to get the necessary quota of signatures to put the ticket on the ballot, 6,000 for up-state New York and 6,000 for New York City and vicinity, William W. Weinstone, district organizer, said last night.

Plans are being made for an intensive campaign throughout the state which will include the sending out of a squad of speakers to "soap box" the main cities of the state.

All these arrangements will be completed at the State Convention. The convention will adopt the state platform and put forward the state and local candidates.

"CRISIS NEAR BEING FATAL"; "SEND HELP"

To All Members of the Workers (Communist) Party,
All Units of the Party,
All Sympathizers,
All Militant Workers.

Comrades:

The Central Committee of the Workers (Communist) Party appeals to you to send financial help in the quickest possible time to The DAILY WORKER, central organ of our Party, which is in imminent danger.

The loss of The DAILY WORKER at this time would be the worst disaster that could come to our Party. We do not wish to create a panic. We are determined not to let The DAILY WORKER go out of existence. But we must face the cold reality, and must frankly tell you that your immediate help on the most generous possible scale is absolutely necessary. We are confident that you will give it.

The Party members and sympathizers, the militant workers who depend upon our revolutionary fighting paper, must understand the reason for the present crisis which comes so near being fatal. The DAILY WORKER is not in an unhealthy condition; it is improved in quality, in circulation and in mass support; its income from both subscriptions and advertising is larger than a year ago. But The DAILY WORKER has been compelled in the past few months to undertake tasks and expenses greater than it was able to bear. Thousands of striking mine workers are receiving The DAILY WORKER and are unable to pay for it. These miners must continue to receive The DAILY WORKER. Textile workers on strike have been supplied and must continue to be supplied with The DAILY WORKER even though it is impossible to pay. Unemployed workers in many thousands cannot be thrown out of the subscription lists at the time when, more than ever before, they need their fighting paper.

The prosecution of the paper and of its editors placed a very heavy burden upon the "Daily" which is still upon it.

The situation is this: Before next Saturday, June 9, The DAILY WORKER must receive not less than $5,000 to keep it from suspending. Before the following Saturday, June 16, The DAILY WORKER must receive a total of $10,000. This is the nature of the present crisis, as it is put up to us in ultimative form by creditors of the paper. We are confident that you will understand and will respond.

On its own part, the Central Committee pledges itself to make any sacrifice to keep our daily fighting organ alive. The DAILY WORKER is the face of our revolutionary Party. It is the daily voice with which the Workers (Communist) Party speaks to the masses of the workers. We will not, we cannot let it be destroyed. It would be impossible to wage an effective election campaign without our daily Party organ in the English language. We are determined to see The DAILY WORKER through this crisis at any cost. Anything can be sacrificed rather than The DAILY WORKER.

But you must do your part. Send all possible financial aid by telegraph, airmail or special delivery, to The DAILY WORKER, 33 First Street, New York City.

UNION BUREAUCRATS EXCHANGE FAT JOBS

CLEVELAND, June 5.—In a handsome exchange of official positions, William G. Lee, president and A. F. Whitney, secretary-treasurer of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, took over each other's jobs in the organization under what is believed to be a little private arrangement between themselves in order to suit the convenience as well as to continue the high salary of Lee.

Lee was "defeated" for re-election to the presidency of the union and Whitney was "elected" to that office at the triennial convention Monday. Immediately, he was chosen to the office which Whitney is now occupying. Lee, who has been president for 19 years, is now 68 years old and the "duties" of office weighed heavily on him, so to speak. Now he can continue to draw his salary as secretary-treasurer while the work will be done by the accountants. Whitney, who is 55 years old, can still maintain the pretense of being "active."

The fact that both Lee and Whitney have both resigned from their present offices to take effect July 1, one month before their terms expired, to take up their new "duties" is only another confirmation that the arrangement had been made beforehand.

Lee was one of the labor fakers who worked to defeat the great shopmen's strike in 1922.

Seven firemen and another man were injured when a fire engine responding to a false alarm turned in by the 4-year old son of a policeman collided with a coal truck at 69th St. and 6th Avenue, Brooklyn, on Monday. The force of the impact hurled the firemen to the street, where all sustained serious lacerations on their heads and legs. Fireman John Coffey, 29, received a broken leg and cuts on the head. They were taken to the hospital.

NEEDLE WORKERS IN CANADA MEET

Thugs Fail to Break Up Rally of 4,000

MONTREAL, June 5.—Despite the attempt of a squad of hired gangsters to break up the mass meeting of needle trades workers held here several days ago, four thousand workers successfully concluded their protest demonstration against the bureaucracy in control of the needle trades unions here.

The strong-arm squad which tried to break up the meeting was led by I. Rabkin, an official in the Amalgamated Clothing Workers' Union. They were driven from the meeting by the angry workers.

Enthusiastic ovations were accorded Sam Lipsin of New York, and Morris Spector, Communist leader. The meeting was one of the largest ever held in the local labor movement.

Resolutions condemning the expulsion policy of the reactionary needle trades union heads, and demanding reinstatement for those expelled were unanimously passed. The resolutions also called for condemnation for the officialdom for installing the hated piece-work system in the clothing trades and for transforming the unions into ordinary company unions. They also proposed the inauguration of a campaign to organize the unorganized in the industry, and the amalgamation of the needle trades unions in Canada.

NEGRO DELEGATE TO WORKERS PARTY CONVENTION DRIVEN FROM INDIANA RESTAURANTS

(By a Worker Correspondent)

OMAHA, Neb. (By mail).—W. Davis, of Omaha, a Negro delegate to the National Nominating Convention of the Workers (Communist) Party, was several times reminded of the position his race occupies in capitalist America while returning to his home.

Comrade Davis, together with six other delegates, including myself, returned from the convention to the middle west by car. When we arrived in Richmond, Indiana, we decided it was about time we should eat. We all entered a restaurant and sat down to order our dinner.

The proprietor came up to us and informed Comrade Davis that, due to the fact that his skin was of a different color than the rest of ours, he could not be allowed to eat in that restaurant.

We all stood by Comrade Davis and left the restaurant, much to the surprise of the proprietor, without eating.

We then went to another restaurant and were accorded the same treatment and again we all walked out without eating. By this time we had had enough of that Ku Klux ridden state and we drove into Illinois before eating.

Comrade Davis is very enthusiastic over the planks adopted by the convention on the Negro question and intends to rally great numbers of Negroes in Omaha to support the Communist ticket.

Kenosha Picket Shot Down in Cold Blood, Mill Correspondent Reports

ALLEN-A FIRM THREATENS TO MOVE FACTORY

"Can't Scare Us That Way," Strikers Reply

(By a Worker Correspondent)

KENOSHA, Wis., (By Mail).—Thanks very much for publishing regularly our letters on the Kenosha strike situation. I am now sending you a copy of the Kenosha Hosiery Worker as you may want to print some of it.

"In no uncertain terms the citizens of our city have indicated their sentiment toward the quartering of professional strikebreakers from Pennsylvania in the mill.

Vote for Expulsion.

"Not only did 5,000 unanimously vote for the expulsion of these thugs from the city. A committee of 1,000 visited the city council last Monday and presented a resolution of the 5,000 to that body.

"The Pennsylvanians, a shiftless lot, were furnished to the Allen-A Co. by 'yellow-dog' MacDonald. That industrial spy, as soon as he was exposed to the people of this city, ran out of the state to do his dirty work from a distance. He sent in "hard-boiled" Diehl and his crew to serve as an intimidation to the workers.

"The Kenosha Trades and Labor Council warned the City Council on Friday, May 4, that the armed strikebreaker menace would lead to bloodshed in Kenosha. The council did not seem to take that menace seriously at the time. And yet, on that very night one of our men was shot down in cold blood by a crew of armed strikebreakers, led, we understand, by Pennsylvania thugs from inside the mill.

Latest Allen-A Bluff.

"Evidence of the desperate situation in which the Allen-A Company finds itself without its experienced workers is indicated by the latest rumor which the company has set afoot. It is to the effect that the company will move out of the city.

"That is an old story in labor disputes. When a company finds that it cannot drive its experienced workers back to work, it sends out false alarms of that sort. The intent is to worry the local merchants into action in the company's behalf and to frighten the workers back into the mill.

"We wish to say emphatically that the bluff will not make any headway in this situation. The company's machines are too expensive to be moved about at will. New machines are being slowly put in the mill. It would be the height of business folly to move from Kenosha.

"How eagerly the company wants its union workers to return is further shown by the stories it sets going about this man and that man and this group and that group returning to work. The latest tale was that 13 were to go to work on the following morning. Not one went back that day, just as our ranks have held firm from the beginning. Sometime before that, it was rumored that 8 would go back on a certain Monday morning. Dawn came—and not one returned. We wish to state that none will return—until they can be assured of decent conditions in the mill.

Fire Striker's Sister.

"Miss Gertrude Lawler, industrial nurse for the Allen-A Co., has just been discharged. Her services were always satisfactory. She happens to be the sister of a locked-out worker. The company's campaign for involuntary servitude therefore continues."

Miss Earhart Is Nutty, Her Old Man Says

LOS ANGELES, Calif., June 5.—Parental tolerance reached its dizziest height today when Edwin S. Earhart, local lawyer, announced that he would not interfere with the attempt of his daughter, Amelia, to fly across the Atlantic.

At the same time he described it as "a foolhardy sporting venture that will not advance aviation in the slightest degree."

BLACKMER DIDN'T PLAY THE GAME

Fall's Oil Leases Still Good In Court

Notice of tax liens amounting to $6,442,455 were filed yesterday in the U. S. district clerk's office against Harry M. Blackmer, oil magnate of Denver, Col., and missing witness in the recent Teapot Dome graft investigations.

He committed certain tactical errors in the oil racket and is in bad odor with certain politically influential groups.

The tax liens are for unpaid income taxes, interest and penalties for the years 1916-23. Government authorities have notified twenty-two financial institutions here, said to be holding Blackmer's securities, that the holdings are not to be disposed of until further notice. Officials believe that Blackmer, who has been residing in Europe for the last two years, may be induced to return to the United States because of the tax lien action.

Homesteads vs. Oil.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—In the face of all the showing of the corruption in the leasing of oil fields by the republican Coolidge government, the supreme court has granted a court order halting the development of the land of a homesteader on the petition of the Kinney Coastal Oil Co.

Michael F. Kieffer, the homesteader, had taken up land in the Salt Creek Field, near the Teapot Dome field, in Wyoming. The Kinney company decided it did not want him there and went to the supreme court. The Kinney company's lease was issued by Albert B. Fall, former Harding-Coolidge secretary of the interior, who got $235,000 from Harry F. Sinclair at the time of the leasing of Teapot Dome. But a homesteader is only a homesteader.

LEAGUE COUNCIL OPENS SESSION

GENEVA, June 5. — The fiftieth Council of the League of Nations opened here yesterday with several hours' discussion on the problem of "the child whose environment is bad." Fifty thousand dollars has been donated by an American hygienic society for research in this field.

The real issues confronting the league, prominent among which are the disagreements between Hungary and Rumania on the question of reimbursement to Hungarian citizens for lands alleged to have been taken under the Rumanian agrarian changes, have been pushed forward until the various national delegates can be brought into line by Sir Austin Chamberlain and representatives of the other powers.

The Polish-Lithuanian controversy will also come before the league.

Italia Believed to Be In Franz Joseph Land

MOSCOW, June 5. — Continued broken messages received here today led Soviet wireless operators to believe that the crew of the Italia is still alive and trying with a broken outfit to reach the outside world for aid. Other reports intercepted state definitely that messages from the Italia were received giving the position of the ship as Franz Joseph Land.

A relief expedition, including Russian scientists, is expected to depart from Archangel for Franz Joseph Land on the ice breaker Percey immediately.

RED AID APPEALS FOR VICTIMS OF FASCIST TERROR

Urges Big Protest For Communists On Trial

MOSCOW, U. S. S. R., June 5. — Appealing in behalf of the victims of the Italian fascists now on trial in Rome, the International Red Aid has called upon the international working class to come to the assistance of their fellow workers who are suffering under the tyranny of fascism. The full text of the appeal follows.

"The trial of the leading members of the Italian Communist Party, now being conducted in Rome, is a criminal attempt to annihilate the revolutionary proletariat and its representatives for protesting against the fascist terror.

"The court, in which these innocent workers are being tried, is sitting behind closed doors and public opinion is carefully muzzled. The courtmartial is preparing to hand down heavy sentences, probably even death sentences, for the activities of the accused Communists during the legal period of the Communist Party in Italy.

"The deepest brotherly sympathy of the workers of the whole world goes out to the accused men who for two years have been suffering in fascist prisons.

"The intellectuals in all countries should raise stronger protests against the fascist terrorist regime and demand an open trial with the liberation of all the prisoners now in fascist jails.

"Down with Mussolini's bloody terror and fascism! Long live the international solidarity of the workers!"

MINER EXPOSES MENDOLA CASE

Frameup By Judge and Labor Traitors

By ANTHRACITE MINER.

WILKES-BARRE, June 5.—Steve Mendola, who went on trial last Thursday in the Luzerne County Court, on a frame-up charge of murder of Frank Agati, a contractor, the same charge on which Sam Bonita was convicted and found guilty of manslaughter by a prejudiced jury before a coal operator judge, Judge McLean, who it is known has stock in the Lehigh and Wilkes-Barre Coal Companies here in the anthracite.

Though the rank and file in District 1 have expelled the reactionary officials, yet the officials are still persecuting the rank and file. Not satisfied with the conviction and sending to the Eastern Penitentiary of Sam Bonita, they insisted on the persecution of Mendola, who after 3 days' trial was convicted by the jury which was out only 5 hours. Though Bonita also took the stand and exonerated Mendola, yet the jury brought in this verdict.

It is seen how prejudiced the judge is. According to the capitalist newspaper here, the district attorney did not want to persecute the case because of the verdict in the Bonita case but Judge McLean, who tried the Bonita case, and this time tried the Mendola case, insisted on the persecution of Steve Mendola and of Moleski, another militant fighter, who will go on trial in a few days.

DuPont Officials Say Deaths Don't Stop Profit

Officials of the DuPont Viscoloid Company plant at Arlington, N. The section destroyed, they said, was used in a special operation. Resumption of regular production is scheduled for tomorrow, according to the officials.

HROMADA TRIAL BRINGS PROTEST AT CHICAGO MEET

Demand Release For 8,000 Prisoners

CHICAGO, Ill., June 5.—At a meeting of workers held at Schoenhoffen Hall here last Thursday to protest against the Pilsudski government of Poland and the persecution of the Hromada the following resolution was drawn and unanimously adopted:

"We, workers of Chicago, assembled at Schoenhoffen Hall, Thursday, May 31, protest against the persecution of the farmer labor party Hromada, and other national minorities of Poland. We protest against the arrest and sentences of the deputies of the Sejm (parliament) and other members of the Hromada who were sentenced to a total of 102 years of hard labor. We are calling attention of the workers of America to the fact that the fascist government of Pilsudski, which is making loans in the United States, is crushing every attempt of cultural activity of self-determination of the White Russians, Ukrainians, Lithuanians and other national minorities in Poland.

"There are 8,000 political prisoners in Poland. We demand the right of self-determination of all the oppressed national minorities in Poland. We demand the liberation of all the members of the Hromada!"

M. Lichota, was chairman of the meeting.

GAIN BY FILIPINO MILITANTS SEEN

MANILA, June 5.—General elections held in the Philippine Islands are expected to show heavy gains for the militants, who are demanding complete and immediate independence from the United States, and correspondingly heavy losses for the "nationalist" party chiefs, Quezon and Osmena, who have dropped the independence slogan by which they formerly sought to win votes.

Quezon and Osmena's open friendship with the administration of Governor-General Stimson is expected to lose them large sections of votes thruout the islands where the American regime is unpopular.

Pacific Fliers to Take Off From Suva Friday

SUVA, Fiji Islands, June 5.—The four members of the crew of the Southern Cross, who arrived here yesterday, are looking for a suitable place for a take-off for the next leg of their trans-Pacific flight.

The take-off will probably not occur until Friday, reports said.

Maria Conesa, celebrated Mexican stage favorite, shown in the picture, has been implicated in the huge silk smuggling plot in which General J. Alvarez, former chief of the Mexican presidential staff, is also involved. Maria Conesa is accused of being Alvarez's aide.

SERBS REINFORCE GARRISON.

BELGRADE, Jugoslavia, June 5.—Although the anti-fascist disturbances in this city have now been quieted, the government is bringing heavy masses of reinforcements into Belgrade to strengthen the garrison.

GERMAN POLICE CHIEF CLUBBED BY HIS OWN MEN

Officers Thought He Was Only Communist

BERLIN, June 5.—During a police attack on a Communist demonstration here chief of police Weiss was handed a severe beating by the clubs of his own men.

The disturbance began when the German police, or schupos, charged a demonstration of Communists who were passing in orderly fashion along the street. The police brandished their clubs and began beating the Communists.

The Communist deputy to the Reichstag, Hoffman, seeing police chief Weiss sitting in civilian clothes in his auto pleaded with him to stop the attack on the unarmed workers.

Weiss did attempt to interfere, but his action met with a prompt clubbing from his own men who did not recognize him. He was severely pounded.

The incident is causing great excitement and some amusement in Berlin where the provocative actions of the schupos are the source of constant criticism.

Shakespeare's "Taming of the Shrew" to be Set to Music

SHAKESPEARE set to music and with musical comedy trimmings, a Broadway chorus, and modernized to the nth degree, is a novelty promised by Lee Shubert for the early fall season.

Following the modern dress version of "The Taming of the Shrew" by the Garrick Players, which proved so successful at the Garrick Theatre, Mr. Shubert has commissioned a well-known composer to write a score for this play, and the libretto will be done by an author equally well-known. These will be announced later.

This is the first time that a play of Shakespeare's has been done with music, lyrics and modern dances and the forthcoming presentation of "The Shrew," it is promised, will be treated in the same manner as the up-to-date musical comedy. What more can be said!

A. L. Jones and Morris Green are getting ready their new production "Tampico," Bartlet Cormack's dramatization of Joseph Hergesheimer's novel of the same name. The try-out of the piece will take place early in August.

The new Chopin operetta, to be produced shortly by the Shuberts will be known as "The Charner." It has been booked at the new Forrest Theatre in Philadelphia beginning June 18. The cast includes: Odette Myrtil, George Baker, Charles Croker-King, Ernest Lawford, Lumsden Hare, Marion Marchand, Leo Henning, Allan Rogers, Louise Beaudet, Martha Mason and Hugh Chilvers.

When Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne return from next season's tour of the Theatre Guild Acting Company, they will be seen in New York in Sil-Vara's "Playing at Love." The play was scheduled for the Guild's current season but fell through somewhere.

Show Italian Communist Trial Is Based on Lies of Fascist Police Spies

ALL INDICTMENTS PROVED ILLEGAL BY DEFENDANTS

Expect Decision Within 48 Hours

admitted having collected 100,000 lire for the British miners and declared that there is no law, even in Italy, forbidding such a collection.

Fabrizio, organizer of the labor delegation to the Soviet Union, declared later that the Italian workers sympathize with the U. S. S. R. in spite of the fascist terror.

The testimony of Terracini definitely proves all the indictments to be illegal. The entire prosecution is based upon legal business letters in the hands of the fascists, it was demonstrated.

During the testimony of the witnesses against the defendants, all of whom were police agents, it was brought out that all the indictments are based upon the reports of provocateurs.

It is expected that a decision will be handed down within the next forty-eight hours.

HARLEM MASS MEET FOR MINERS

Hawkins Will Tell of Struggle

Isaiah Hawkins, militant Negro mine leader of Fredericktown, Pa., who has been in the thick of the mine war for over a year, will tell the story of the reaction and corruptoin of the officials of District 5 of the United Mine Workers at the united mass demonstration in support of the strikin gminers to be held at St. James Presbyterian Church, St. Nicholas Avenue and 141st st., on Friday, June 8th at 8 p. m. Other speakers will be Harold Williams and Grace Campbell, organizer and chairman, respectively of the Negro Committee for Miners Relief, Robert Minor, Editor of The DAILY WORKER and Reverend Wiling miners to be held at St. James Presbyterian Church. Richard Moore, of the American Negro Labor Congress, will preside.

The struggle of the miners' union against reactionary officialdom, now entering its fifteenth month of starvation, exposure and disease, is of special significance to the large masses of Negro workers, many thousands of them unorganized. The militant leadership given the striking miners by their Save-the-Union Committee on which the two Negroes Charles W. Fulp and Isaac Munsey represent the thousands of striking Negro miners, is organizing the unorganized miners of Western Pennsylvania, among which are many Negroes. The Negro Committee for Miners Relief has called on the masses of Negro workers in this city, unorganized and organized, to support the striking miners in their attempt to save their union. The Negro committee points out that Negro workers, who are being discriminated against, can find a remedy only in organization along militant lines, and emphasizes the fact that should the miners' strike be lost the whole American labor movement will suffer, and organization for the vast army of unorganized Negro workers will be much more difficult to achieve.

An excellent program of speakers has been arranged and admission will be free of charge. Although smaller meetings for miners relief have been held throughout the Negro section of Harlem, the united mass demonstration of Fridday night will be the first mass meeting for miners relief among the Negro population of this city.

JOINT DEFENSE CARNIVAL, JUNE 9

Soccer, track and field events, swimming events and other sport events by labor sports clubs will be among the features of the Joint Defense Athletic Meet, Carnival and Jamboree, to be held Saturday, June 9, for the benefit of the 9 imprisoned Mineola furriers and the 18 leaders of the Joint Board of the Cloakmakers Union, who face prison terms. The Hungarian Workers Symphony Orchestra, composed of 50 musicians, and led by Alfred Kugel, will render a classical program. Mass calisthenics will also be a feature of the program, as well as a parade by athletes, young Pioneers and children of the Nonpartisian Workers School. The latter will also perform in a ballet.

WHY NEGROES SHOULD JOIN WORKERS PARTY

By GEORGE PADMORE.

As a Negro worker in the ranks of the only revolutionary political party in America, the Workers (Communist) Party, I feel at liberty to appeal to the workers of my race to join with me, and help to make possible the emancipation of the twelve million Negroes in this country.

Urges Solidarity of All Workers.

This can be accomplished by making common cause with the millions of exploited white workers and farmers. Together we will be able to form a mighty army which will abolish the capitalist system, the cause of all social evils, race rejudice, segregation, lynching, disenfranchisement, etc.

The victory of the oppressed can only be achieved under the leadership of a revolutionary party and not as the yellow socialist misleaders would have us believe through the ballot box.

Nothing to Lose.

Of all groups in America, the Negroes have the least to lose and the most to gain by a change in the social system. For centuries we have borne the brunt of capitalist exploitation. Our forefathers made possible the foundations for the present-day industrial prosperity of America, and amidst all this great wealth which is in the hands of a few we find ourselves outcasts and penniless.

The time has come for us to be up and doing. For instead of things becoming better they are daily getting from bad to worse. If we do not act immediately we will soon find ourselves and our children exterminated. As things are today, Negro children are dying at a much faster rate in the big industrial centres than whites.

Do you know why? Because Negroes are zoned off in the worse sections of the cities and have to live in the most unsanitary houses for which they pay the highest possible rent. Then again our opportunities for adequate employment are limited.

Discrimination by Reactionary Union Leaders.

Negro workers are discriminated against in most of the unions by the reactionary leaders like William Green, Matthew Woll and John L. Lewis, thereby creating a division in the ranks of the working class which makes it possible for the capitalists to play one race against the other to their advantage. Only the Communists, supported by the left wing trade unionists, recognize the danger of such practice and persistently fight for an open door policy to Negroes in the trade unions.

It is therefore the duty of every militant and class-conscious Negro worker to join the Workers (Communist) Party and help us in our fight against those who would debar black men and women from the opportunity of making a decent living.

Desert the Old Parties.

The Workers Party is one of action and not of empty phrases. On the economic field it fights for equal opportunity for black and white workers alike and against all forms of discrimination within the ranks of the working class movement. Its political platform deserves the support of every Negro who longs for the freedom of his race. The Party demands the rigid enforcement of the 13th 14th and 15th amendments; the adoption of an anti-lynching bill and its enforcement, as well as full economic, political and social equality for the Negro.

It is time for Negroes to cease being duped by the two old parties—the political organizations of the capitalist class. They have done nothing for us in the past, and will do less for us in the future, for both the republicans and the democrats are today twin brothers of reaction. Negroes should have no illusions of getting any of their problems remedied by either Smith or Hoover. They are both the tools of Wall Street.

We Negroes must cease doing so much praying and more fighting. In this respect we can learn a valuable lesson from the early American capitalist class. They had enough horse sense to drop their prayer books and take up their guns to get George III out of the colonies. We have to do the same if we don't want to starve to death. This means revolution, and the Workers (Communist) Party is the only party that can lead us to victory.

SHIPPING BOARD SEAMEN'S ENEMY

Blacklist is Maintained On U. S. Ships

WASHINGTON, (FP) June 5.—In spite of bland denials by Chairman T. V. O'Connor of the U. S. Shipping Board, once president of the Longshoremen's union, the board is steadily tightening the screws of its hostility against seamen. Week by week the number of passes held by union men, to go aboard government ships in port, is being cut down. At the same time, union men are gradually being excluded from permission to visit injured sailors in the marine hospitals.

In both cases the immediate cause of punishment seems to be the advice given by union men to injured sailors, as to prosecution of damage claims against the board.

I. L. D. IS AIDING FASCIST VICTIMS

Stamps Now Distributed Thruout U. S.

Stamps bearing the slogan; "Help the Victims of Fascism," have been issued by the International Labor Defense and are now being circulated in the mails. The stamps, which are sold at five cents each are being distributed thru the various branches of the I. L. D. in this city.

The stamps also bear the pictures of Matteoti and Sozzi, who were murdered by Italian fascism. The I. L. D. has appealed, thru its secretary, Rose Baron, to all class conscious workers to support the fight against fascism by purchasing these stamps and pasting them on letters, packages and other mail.

Seek Support For Big Business Canal Project

ALBANY, N. Y., June 5. — Five hundred business men from eight states met here today and adopted a resolution urging the republican and democratic national conventions to incorporate a plank in their respective platforms pledging support for the All-American ship canal from the Great Lakes to the Atlantic ocean.

The All-American ship canal by way of the Hudson river has been put forward under a thin veneer of patriotism by New York state business interests whose profits would be considerably diminished if the counter-proposal, whereby the canal would be built thru the St. Lawrence river and jointly controlled by the United States and Canada, is adopted.

They have securedly the support of business men from other states and yesterday's meeting marked the first annual convention of the Great Lakes-Hudson Waterways Association. Col. Edward N. Carrington of New York, president of the Hudson River Navigation Corporation, is the organizer of the association, which is understood to have the endorsement of Governor Smith.

HYMAN, LEADER OF CLOAK UNION REFUTES LIES

Right Wing Aids Lies of Bosses

The Industrial Council of Cloak Manufacturers, co-partners of the Sigman-Schlesinger clique, who have destroyed the International Ladies Garment Workers Union, have taken another step in an effort to injure the growing movement that threatens to eliminate right wing control.

The first step was taken within the last few days, when the bosses granted on paper the 40-hour week which was called for in the agreement won by the cloakmakers in the 1926 strike.

This latest Slander Hyman move is the issuance of a long statement in a trade journal in which Louis Hyman, leader of the left wing Joint Board, is maliciously slandered by the bosses. They say that Hyman, in a visit to the shop of I. Grossman, head of the Industrial Council had declared that he would permit piece work and over time at single time in his effort to destroy the Sigman scab union. The rest of the statement is taken up with a declaration that, due to the open shop condition in the industry it cannot be expected that the members of the Industrial Council will bear the burden of the 40 hour week. They therefore appeal to the Impartial chairman to call a conference of the bosses and Sigman.

Discussed the statement as a whole Hyman later branded it as "another manoeuver to serve as a prop for the rotting Sigman structure." Referring to the mention of himself, Hymar declared that the only time he was ever in the shop of I. Grossman was when he called to stop the employer from locking out his workers for refusing to register in the right wing union.

Hyman said that if he had been prepared to allow the destruction of union conditions, there would not have been any desire on the part of the bosses to break their agreement with the Joint Board and sign a fake one with Sigman's "Union."

Even the call upon the impartial chairman for a conference and hearing, with which the statement ends, is a fake, Hyman said. "The impartial chairman will no doubt grant this hearing and rule that the bosses must abide by the 40-hour week point in the agreement. Thus giving another fake victory to Sigman in his attempt to decieve the workers.' He added that none of the bosses intend to observe the fourty hour week, whether it is on paper or not." "Even Grossman, who is president of the Industrial Council, makes as many wage cuts as he desires, having only recently enforced a 20 per cent reduction in wages," he said.

"The association bosses will continue to enforce the existing 60 and 70 hour week," Hyman concluded.

CHILDREN PLAN MINERS' PARTY

Workers' children of New York raised $4,453,43 for miners' relief in less than five months, according to an announcement made by Sophie Melman, organizer of the Children Committee for Miners' Relief, 799 Broadway. More than 3,000 children have participated in this work.

A get-together party is now being arranged for the children who helped raise this money. It will be held at the Workers Home, 347 E. 72nd St., at 2:00 p. m., Sunday.

Charles Wilson, 14, a member of the children's executive committee, who recently spent some time in the strike area, will tell of the hardships being endured by the miners' children in the strike barracks and of the part they are playing in the great struggle.

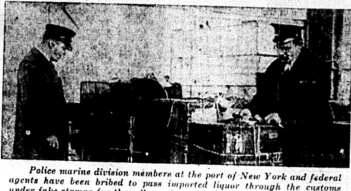
A one act play, "Help the Strikers' Children" will be produced by members of the Young Pioneers of America. Members of the Non-Partisan Workers' Children's Schools will offer dancing and singing. A miner from the coal fields will speak.

The Electric Lobby

WASHINGTON, (FP) June 5.—Disclosure that the National Electric Light Assn's member companies spent $28,000,000 in newspaper and magazine advertising, last year, to influence public opinion against demands for public ownership or lower rates, has been made.

The U. S. Chamber of Commerce last month demanded that American business clear itself of corruption and intrigue. Judge Edwin Parker of the Chamber, author of this moral cry, was himself found to be active in secret intrigues to defeat the Boulder Dam Bill.

Prohibition Law is For the Workers



Police marine division members at the port of New York and federal agents have been bribed to pass imported liquor through the customs under fake stamps for the cellars of employers and government officials. The photograph shows federal inspectors at New York going through the motions of looking for whisky in the baggage of wealthy passengers, to satisfy one of the periodical complaints of professional prohibitionists who themselves make a good living out of prohibition. Eighteen customs guards have been suspended in the latest pro-publicity shakeup.

OPEN PARLEY FOR NEW TAILOR PACT

Officials Ready to Give Piece Work to Trade

Negotiations for an agreement to replace the one about to expire are to be begun in a day or two, according to information made public by the New York Joint Board of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers' Union and the New York Clothiers Exchange.

The granting of the vicious piece-work system to about a dozen large mens' clothing manufacturers by Beckerman just prior to negotiations and despite the protests of the membership makes it a foregone conclusion that the negotiations for the employers' association will demand this system for the entire industry.

Despite statements by the Beckerman machine at the time piece-work was permitted to the 12 employers that only "large and responsible" bosses would be favored by this sweatshop method of exploitation, it is learned that they "look favorably" on the demand of the entire association for this system.

With the 40-hour week demand of the membership thrown into the discard by the Hillman-Beckerman administration, with the degrading piece-work system foisted on the membership and with the employer having a free hand to discharge workers indiscriminately, the once militant Amalgamated assumes the role of a mere company union.

The exact method of granting piece-work to the employers in the new agreement may take the form of the appointment of a commission to work out plans for the adoption of this system.

THE BUSIEST CORNER.

CHICAGO, June 5.—John Wohl, wealthy jeweler, was kidnaped by two bandits as he left his Oak Park home early today, forced to drive to his company's store on Madison St., near the "world's busiest corner," admit his kidnapers, and watch them flee with thousands of dollars worth of gems.

HEARINGS SHOW TAMMANY POLICE IN GRAFT MIRE

Republican Customs Men Also Bribed

The Tammany graft trail yesterday led to the police department when forty patrolmen including nearly a dozen sergeants faced investigation on charges of bribe-taking in connection with the smuggling of liquor into New York City from trans-Atlantic liners.

As a result of the same disclosures eighteen customs guards were promptly fired in the usual attempt employed by the government to convey the impression that only minor officers were responsible. A hurried call for two hundred additional federal operatives was sent out for the district.

Wholesale bribery of police officials and custom guard employes, the smuggling in of cascades of booze, and even of narcotics, a threatened shake-up of the police department greater than that of any in years, were the developments which were yesterday made public.

The customs officials are republican controlled. This fact now brings the republican party neck and neck with the corrupt Tammany democratic machine in the race for graft laurels.

While these revelations were taking place in the police department continued disclosures at the trial of Charles A. McGee and William J. Oswald, street cleaning officials, brought out that only one honest street cleaning officer has been on the city payroll during thirty years.

This admission was made by William J. Lougheed, self confessed, grafter who is acting as states witness at the Bronx County trial of McGee and Oswald. In all these years Lougheed declared he had known many honest drivers and sweepers but only one honest official. When the list of fictitious names on the payroll appeared to be getting stale, Lougheed testified, Oswald and McGee would order him to substitute new names. Lougheed would then order Charles Stoeber to obtain new names. Stoeber would pass along in the Italian section and copy off names from letter boxes and door bells.

Price of a Worker's Life

The nature of capitalist society is shown in the case of the nineteen workers, once employed by the United States Radium Corporation, fourteen of whom have been killed to provide profit for that corporation and five of whom are slowly dying.

The fourteen who died—are dead. The Radium Corporation has cashed in on their lives, and the profits are long ago distributed in dividends. The Radium Corporation gains by the high quality of its radium.

But for the last five, long and troublesome lawsuits were in order.

Knowing that the five dying women workers whom it had poisoned would not live long, the Radio Corporation tried to delay the lawsuits as long as possible with the help of the courts. With death slowly creeping upon them, the poison crippling them limb by limb, the five remaining women workers "listened to reason" and settled by taking what cash they could get from the corporation.

What is the price of a working woman's life? In this case the women workers receive $10,000 each in payment for being killed by their employers, together with $12 per week until they die. And, yes—the company pays the doctors' bills.

So much for the price of the life of a woman worker.

For dying, the working women get $10,000 each from the corporation which trapped them to their death for profit, while the lawyer gets $15,000 for representing them.

The capitalist newspapers are busy "congratulating" the Radio Corporation and its victims on the "satisfactory settlement." We take the words from the New York World, which prides itself as having played an active part in the case. The World is a good example of smug liberal respectability in capitalist society. It speaks editorially of the "welcome news" of an "amicable settlement." The fact that five working women victims of their employers' greed must slowly die on a weekly pension of $12 per week—is glossed over by this flunkey-liberal paper with the assurance that "if the $10,000 is invested at 5 or 6 per cent. each invalid will have an income of $1,100 or $1,200 a year, with medical cost paid."

The World points out that the wages of the women victims of the Radio Corporation amounted to only $900 per year. This fixes the standard of living for the class to which the women belong, the World thinks. And therefore it concludes that the $12 per week which the women are to receive while dying is "a living income for persons in their state." And then—as though to expose its own hypocrisy—the World assures the bosses that "the corporation might have fared much worse before a jury."

Intelligent workers are reminded by incidents of this sort that capitalist society, based upon the exploitation of labor, is the most ruthlessly cold-blooded system that has ever been known in human society. The workers who die because their employers found it more profitable to tell them to shape the poisonous radium-paint brushes with their lips, are not an unusual, but only a picturesque example of the deadly nature of capitalist exploitation. The killing of thousands of miners underground, the result of disregarding all considerations except cheap production, is only another picturesque example. The slaughter of ten million men in the past world-war—which the capitalist rulers are deliberately planning to repeat on a much bigger scale—is an example in truer proportion. For imperialist war is only the continuation of "business competition" with a change of instruments. Bayonets or radium poison—all mere instruments to increase profit-making, in the eyes of capitalism.

The capitalist system is a system of murder for profit.

Only the destruction of the capitalist system can place human life—the life of the working masses—as the first consideration.

The capitalist system has been destroyed in a territory comprising one-sixth of the surface of the world—the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics.

It will be destroyed here, too.

COAL COMPANY ISSUES DOPE SHEET TO SCABS

(By a Worker Correspondent)

WHEELING, W. Va. (By mail).—Enclosed you will find a leaflet which the Wheeling Coal Co. puts in every strikebreaker's envelope on pay day. This is the kind of half threat and half appeal that the scab companies hand out to their employees. Needless to say that "the 25th day of April" didn't find the miners rushing back to the Wheeling Coal Company's mines.

NOTICE.

There has been a lot of agitation among our employees in the last few days because, we think, mostly through a misunderstanding. It has been brought to our attention by some that they are of the opinion that coal is being marketed and sold at a very much higher price than it really is. The facts are: Coal has been marketed and sold in the last year or more at prices never dreamed of.

If we could at any time have paid any more money to our employees for their labor, we would have done so. The reason that we have been able to work steady is because of the fact that we have worked very hard getting the business men operating the large manufacturing concerns in the country to go along with us. We all, including yourselves, have worked hard to get where we are, to be able to sell the product which we manufacture or mine. We appreciate that you have done your part, but also feel that we have done our part.

Now what is the use of giving away to another section or far-off land that which we all have worked for? We have already purchased several hundred cars of coal to fill the orders that we have running at the present. In face of the facts, do you want this business to be placed elsewhere? We want all our old employees to reason this out for themselves. We ourselves are not going to permit this to happen.

We expect all our employees to be at work on the 25th day of April, 1928, and if not out on the job we demand that you at once go to the mine, get your tools, and a check will be ready at the office on that day for the balance due you. If you do not show up on that day we will proceed to remove your tools from our property, placing same on public property near the mine. We intend to go along minding our own business and expect and demand that everyone else do the same. We believe there is a law in this country which will protect us in our rights and we intend to see that this law is carried out.

IMPERIALIST PEACE

Are There Too Many Mouths?

By SCOTT NEARING.

"Too many mouths," is the cry raised by Professor E. A. Ross of the University of Wisconsin in his recent book: Standing Room Only? The immediate answer to Professor Ross's warning is: "Too few machines; too often idle."

Professor Ross cites numerous cases of poverty. There is no economic reason why a single man or woman or child should suffer from poverty in any one of the great industrial countries,—least of all in the United States.

How to End Poverty.

Run the existing machines full time!

Cut out duplication; waste; meaningless competition; industrial inefficiency!

Bring the members of the ruling class to a working class standard of living. Give them jobs. Let them support themselves and live on their earned incomes. Pay business managers and executives; governors, senators and judges the wages of skilled mechanics.

Effect these and other savings. Poverty will be still less easily excused.

To these demands Professor Ross makes a detailed answer:

> "In those very countries where machinery has been introduced; where wages and standards of living have been raised, population has been increasing most rapidly during the past two or three generations."

This is true of Germany, of Britain. It is especially true of the United States which has half of the machine capital of the world, and which, in the past century has recorded a population increase that has never been equalled by any other country in modern time.

Such facts may be met in one of two ways:

On the one hand it may be contended that these great population increases have occurred, not among the low-paid, unorganized, unskilled workers; that they have occurred on the frontier; that they have occurred in the uninformed mass; that they have occurred chiefly among those workers who have had no opportunity to learn about or to practice birth control. This is an argument in avoidance of the main issue.

Birth Control.

On the other hand it may be frankly admitted that there is a "population problem" which must command the attention of social engineers:

(1) The physically unfit must not breed at all, while the physically fit must be encouraged to mate and reproduce their kind.
(2) Birth control methods must be made a part of popular education: in the press; over the radio; on the stage: through the film, and birth control appliances must be made generally available, at prices within the easy reach of the poorest.
(3) Children must come only where there is food, clothing, shelter and a welcome.
(4) The problem of birth control must be handled just as scientifically as the problem of public health or as any other branch of the problem of public education.

And then?

Then the natural resources must be converted into food, shelter, clothing, comforts and cultural opportunities with all of the technical skill and all of the mechanical power that is available.

Too many mouths?

Not yet! Too few machines!

Correspondence Schools in the Soviet Union

By E. OSTERMAN,
(Moscow).

The outstanding feature in the first years of self-education work in the sphere of Party education was total absence of a systematic program. On the whole, the work was limited to questions in which people were particularly interested. There were, for instance, a circle and individual comrades who studied the history of the Party, trade union matters, political economy, and the history of the class struggle, etc. In a word, it was a system of special subjects which certainly has some positive sides; for instance, greater elasticity, better individualization possibilities, etc., but does not give an opportunity to go through a full course of Party education by means of self-education.

The first steps in this direction were our elementary political circles of the first and second grade, which are nothing but elementary political correspondence schools "in the home." Whereas in the first year this experiment was not carried out to the full, and slightly different textbooks and syllabi were used for the political self-education circles, they work this year in full harmony with the schools: they have the same syllabus, the same program, and the same textbooks, etc. The difference is only in the methods applied for the elaboration of the material and also in the methods of guidance.

No Direct Guidance.

Both rest here on maximum self-activity. The work goes on without direct guidance, or, to be more exact, under episodic guidance or guidance by correspondence; questions which students find particularly difficult are explained orally (oral consultation) or conferences are organized for summing up the results of the work done.

We have already mentioned that the self-education circles of the first grade which correspond with elementary courses of the first grade, are looked upon as a transitory form. In regard to this question, the resolution of the First National Conference of the U. S. S. R. on self-education contains the following statement:

"One of the main reasons of the former non-success in the sphere of political self-education is that the syllabus was drawn up to suit comrades not accustomed to read. Therefore the lowest grade of Party education (elementary courses of the first grade) are to be as a rule transferred to the schools, whereas political self-education is to be looked upon as a continuation of the most elementary Party education, i. e., the elementary courses of the first grade. But this rule must not do away with the necessity of furthering the Party—self-education of comrades who for objective reasons cannot participate in the Party education schools—for instance railwaymen, a number of other comrades in the post, telegraph and transport service, and above all the rural cadres of active workers, for in the rural districts even Party and Y. C. L. members cannot be fully provided by us with elementary political schools (elementary political courses) next year. On the other hand, it has come to light that a considerable number of workers and peasants who have gone through political education schools were for various reasons unable to thoroughly assimilate the knowledge imparted there. As it would be inexpedient to make them participate at a repeat-course in the same schools, the organization of self-education work among this category is essential.

Must Practice Reading.

"All these reasons show the necessity of keeping up, to a certain extent, self-education work also in the lowest grade of Party education, at least in the immediate future, particularly for the rural districts but on condition that the participants should practice reading, etc., for instance, with the help of village reading rooms, schools for semi-literates, etc."

In the current school year, our Marxist - Leninist self - education circles are a replica of the Marxist-Leninist circles working under the guidance of instructors. They are divided, as the latter, into circles for Party history, Leninism, historical materialism, history of the labor movement, political economy and economics. They use the same syllabi and textbooks, and the number of lessons is the same. The only difference between these two kinds of circles is that which arises out of the special conditions of the methods of self-education work, special methodical elaboration because of absence of direct guidance by the instructor, more home work and control questions, etc.

We give below the rules of these Soviet Party schools "in the home" which give a full picture of this first experiment of a 'school in the home."

The University of Pennsylvania in Power Trusts' Pay

(Special to the Daily Worker)

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., June 5.—In a stinging denunciation exposing the hypocrisy of the officials of the University of Pennsylvania from which he was recently dismissed for expressing views favorable to the Soviet Union, Sol Auerbach, instructor in the department of philosophy of that institution, yesterday attacked the methods of "higher educators."

Auerbach will appear as one of the speakers at a protest meeting under the auspices of the Young Workers (Communist) League, which will be held Friday. His statement follows:

Another Professor

The investigation of the Federal Trade Commission into the activities of the Public Utilities Corporation representing 17 billion dollars of privately owned public utilities reveals some interesting outside activities of University professors. Professor Theodore Grayson, Director of the evening school and extension school of the University of Pennsylvania and professor of finance in the Wharton School, has been paid by the Utilities Corporation to carry on propaganda publicly and within the University against Government ownership of public utilities. I am positive the Professor Grayson will not be dismissed because of his outside activities.

While Professor Grayson is serving the financial interests which support the University the nature of my views do not seem to please these same financial interests. As he claims, it is perfectly "ethical" for a professor of finance to help boost the interests of a selfish financial group. It seems, however, that it is "unethical" for an instructor in Ethics to openly express favor with the Workers and Peasants Government of the Soviet Union.

Speaks at Protest Meet.

To protest this very evident class discrimination I have consented to speak under the auspices of the Young Workers (Communist) League at a meeting arranged to protest my dismissal, to be held at Grand Fraternity Hall on Friday, June 8, at 8 P. M.

Professor Grayson, who according to his testimony before the Federal Trade Commission had received $250 per lecture to take a stand favoring private ownership of public utilities, is to remain on the teaching staff of the University of Pennsylvania. Sol Auerbach, an instruct in the same institution of "learning," is being expelled from the university because he dared publicly to point out that in Russia the workers control the government and that it is the only country in which the government is used to help the workers. Sol Auerbach spoke at a meeting the proceeds of which were sent to the relief of the children of the striking miners.

The Young Workers (Communist) League of Philadelphia is arranging a mass meeting of protest against the expulsion of Auerbach from the teaching staff of the U of P. The meeting will take place on Friday, June 8 at 8 P. M. at Grand Fraternity Hall, 1626 Arch St.

Amongst the speakers will be Auerbach, Scott Nearing who was expelled from the U of P for his radical views in 1925, Bertram D. Wolfe, director of the N. Y. Workers School and a member of the Central Executive Committee of the Workers (Communist) Party and Clarence Miller, district organizer of the Young Workers (Communist) League.

AUSTRIAN SOCIALISTS FAIL TO BREAK STRIKE

VIENNA, June 5.—In spite of the efforts of the social democratic press to throttle the strike of the workers in the factories of the Alpine Mountain Company, the workers are showing the greatest determination in continuing their struggle.

Suggestions, issued thru the press that Prime Minister Seipel be called upon to arbitrate the strike have met with ridicule by the strikers who are aware that Seipel is in the closest personal relations with members of the board of directors of the Alpine Mountain Company.

The spread of the strikes thruout the Huettenberg and the Steiermark works has been extremely rapid and the Communist Party of Austria is urging the carrying of the movement into the other Alpine Mountain works.

The constant dismissal of workers, shop stewards and even entire committees in various shops has not dampened the spirit of the men who are eager for the struggle.

HANDOUTS

Indication of the growth of leniency toward fat boys can be seen from the fact that $350,000 has been admittedly shelled out for Herbert Hoover by generous citizens. It may be added that 360 business publications have dedicated themselves to the task of shouting "Hooray Hoover." This has been without remuneration. It is explained that the few thousand dollars in advertising that the papers have received is merely the routine of business.

The German elections were a sad blow to the capitalist newspaper correspondents who had proved that Europe was swinging away from Bolshevism toward "sanity and normalcy." When the German workers proceeded to plug these capitalist theories with 3,500,000 votes, even the correspondents had to admit that something was wrong—not with their theories but the German situation.

The peculiar looking commodity on the right, which slipped into the country despite the tariff wall, is Baron Von Huenefeld. His face has been broadcast throughout the press of the United States. He is one of the intrepid airmen who flew across the Atlantic Ocean. While Captain Koehl operated the plane, the baron made his contribution to the success of the venture by sitting in one of the back rooms drawing pictures on a gasoline tank with his finger nail. If there is any credit for such flights it should go to the workers who build the planes and not to the puppets of imperialism who drum up interest in a weapon of warfare. Of course the baron will be remembered for some time to come in scientific circles as the first man to wear a monocle across the Atlantic Ocean by air.

FARME[illegible]T' UNDER CONTROL GOES REPUBLICAN

Mellon Silent As Hoover Organizes

(Special to the Daily Worker)

KANSAS CITY, June 6.—By the time the republican national convention opens here the so-called farm revolt will be under the control of safe republicans, developments here in the convention city indicated today.

When President Coolidge vetoed the second McNary-Haugen farm relief bill and congress sustained the veto, a farmer opposition developed against the Coolidge administration and the republican party. The opposition was directed equally against the presidential candidacy of Herbert Hoover, the big business secretary of commerce. Newspaper reports were highly charged for a few days with predictions of a "tented city" of farmers bivouacked in a rebellious mood outside the republican convention, come there to stick their pitch-forks into the Hoover boom.

This farmer movement has been derailed. Sen. James E. Watson, of Indiana, himself a candidate for the presidential nomination and a crafty observer of the wishes of the industrialists and financiers, is chairman of the committee which will draft the farm plank in the republican platform. Elmer E. Billis, of Chicago, chosen at an agriculturalist meeting in Chicago last week to act as impresario for the farm protest here, had come to terms today with the old line republicans, including Watson. The nature of the terms may be indicated by Billis' own pronouncements on the status and plans of the movement he represents. The farmer has been told to leave his pitchfork at home.; It was never intended that the tenant farmer or agricultural wage earner who really weilds the pitchfork in producing America's food would be present.

Business Men.

"The farmers are business men," Billis said today. "They will drive their own automobiles to Kansas City to make an orderly protest against being left out on the protection scheme arranged for big industries."

This particular farm movement, in other words, is in control of the Grange organization and other groups of the wealthy employing farmers, together with politicians from the agricultural states, like Sen. Watson, who have used the interest of the farmers as a stepping stone to personal power and gain.

Slush Fund Operates.

Meanwhile preliminary skirmishes in the pre-convention sessions of the republican national committee have

I. W. W. VICTIMS TO GET HEARING

Parole Board to Hear 8 Prisoners June 13

The eight I. W. W. class-war prisoners confined in the Walla Wall Washington, Penitentiary, for eight years are to be given a hearing before the parole board on June 13, according to a telegram received yesterday by James P. Cannon, secretary of the International Labor Defense.

Central labor bodies in the northwest and hundreds of local organizations of labor thruout the country have started an avalanche of protest to the authorities of the state of Washington against the continued incarceration of the men.

I. L. D. Conducts Drive.

The I. L. D. is now conducting a campaign to draw anew the attention of the working class of the United States to the case of these eight men who are serving sentences of from 25 to 40 years.

Those who will appear before the parole board on June 13 are: Eugene Barnett, Bert Bland, O. C. Bland James McInerney, John Lamb, Britt Smith, Loren Roberts and Ray Becker.

Patriots Led Assault.

They were arrested on Nov. 11 1919, Armistice Day, after defending their headquarters from a murderous assault made by the rabble of the American Legion under the direction of the lumber barons. Their trial was conducted in an atmosphere of terror, armed forces of the state being moved into the town where the trial was held.

All working class organizations are urged by the I. L. D. to adopt resolutions demanding unconditional pardon for the Walla Walla prisoners.

Daily Worker Can Be Saved If Contributions Double; Must Get $5,000 By Saturday, $10,000 By June 16

To the Readers of The DAILY WORKER.
Comrades:

The DAILY WORKER today appears for the second time reduced to four pages as a result of the crisis in the finances of the paper which threatens its existence.

We assure the loyal and militant workers who are the friends and supporters of The DAILY WORKER that we will spare no effort to keep our revolutionary paper alive and to restore it to the regular size.

In yesterday's issue we published a statement of the Central Executive Committee of the Workers (Communist) Party which, while calling upon the masses of workers and sympathizers to come quickly to the rescue of The DAILY WORKER with financial help, at the same time declared that the Central Committee of the Workers (Communist) Party would make any sacrifice to keep our revolutionary "Daily" alive. We affirm today that we are determined to keep our paper afloat, and we can do so if you will respond quickly and generously. The DAILY WORKER, the central organ of our Communist Party, the one and only daily newspaper in the English language which fights the battles of the American working class in every strike, in every struggle, has a right to call upon you to fight for it. The impending Communist election campaign, which cannot be conducted effectively by our Party without its daily organ in the English language, and the tremendous struggles of the workers in the coal fields, in the textile mills and in the needle trades which depend upon us to voice their fighting demands—these make it our duty to demand that you help The DAILY WORKER out of this crisis.

Contributions are coming to this office at a rate which gives some hope that enough will be obtained by Saturday to prevent the closing of The DAILY WORKER. But this hope will be justified only if the funds come in at least twice as rapidly between now and next Saturday (June 9), when we must have $5,000 if we are not to suspend. A total of $10,000 is absolutely necessary before June 16. The ultimatum from creditors leaves us no choice.

The danger is imperative. Please do not delay.

Send all funds by telegraph, airmail or special delivery to The DAILY WORKER, 33 First Street, New York.

—THE MANAGEMENT COMMITTEE.

PULLMAN PORTERS READY TO STRIKE

Government Likely to Intervene

A national strike of nearly 6,000 Pullman porters and maids in 66 districts from coast to coast is a possibility for tomorrow.

The national officers of the Pullman Porters' Union announced last night that unless an emergency board is created by President Coolidge the strike will be called. The creation of the board has been recommended, under the terms of the Watson Parker Act, by a federal mediator who recently visited New York to verify the tabulation of the union's national strike vote.

The porters and maids empowered their executive board by a vote of approximately 5,750 to 25 to call the strike.

If an emergency mediation board is created the union will demand that it award them union recognition, a minimum wage of $150 a month and the elimination of the workers' dependence on tips, the eight-hour day and the 240-hour month.

Strikebreakers Hired.

If the republican party administration at Washington through President Coolidge does not appoint the board, the workers will go on strike to enforce these demands directly on the Pullman organization.

The Watson-Parker Act, supported by the officialdom of railroad labor unions, places these unions by statute at the mercy of the federal government in their dealings with the employers. The federal government in arbitration or in times of strike has never failed to support the employers against the workers.

In the meantime Pullman is congregating hordes of southern strikebreakers in yards in New York, Chi-

COMMUNISTS TO NOMINATE STATE TICKET SUNDAY

Delegates From All Parts to Attend

In the heart of the "empire state," the home of the corrupt Tammany Hall machine, the Workers (Communist) Party will hold its State Nominating Convention Sunday at 10 a. m. at the new Workers Center, 26-28 Union Square.

According to an announcement by the campaign committee, this convention proposes to launch a campaign which is to be a definite challenge to the forces of Tammany Hall in this state as well as to the equally corrupt forces of the republican party.

In view of the fact that New York state will provide at least one presidential candidate this year, the convention assumes particular importance.

The Workers Party is planning to utilize this campaign to expose before the American workers the actual conditions in the state over which Al Smith has ruled.

Delegates to the convention are coming from all sorts of working class organizations, including labor unions, fraternal organizations and clubs. The convention will take up, in addition to the general work of the campaign, the specific aims of the campaign in this state in the field of social legislation. Nominations will also be made for governor, lieutenant-governor, attorney-general, United States senator and other state offices.

All working class organizations have been urged to send fraternal delegates.

IMPLICATE MORE IN DONETZ PLOT

Suppressed Complaint After Getting Bribe

(Special Cable to the Daily Worker).

MOSCOW, June 6.—That the engineer, Kusmas, had participated in the Donetz sabotage conspiracy was revealed yesterday when Prosecutor Krylenko questioned Gorlov, another accused technician.

Kusma had rebuked Gorlov when the latter had protested against the sabotage and had threatened him with dismissal if further complaints were made. Gorlov denied being a member of the counter-revolutionary organization but admitted having received six hundred roubles after which he made no further complaints.

MUST INCREASE FUNDS TO SAVE THE 'WORKER'

A total of $1,182.84 has been contributed during the past three days by class-conscious workers of this country to save The DAILY WORKER from complete extinction.

These contributions, while they represent great sacrifices on the part of the workers, are still far from sufficient to assure the continued existence of the paper. Five thousand dollars must be raised by Saturday, and this means more than a $1,000 a day during the remainder of the week if the Daily is to be saved.

An encouraging sign has been the increase in the contributions from day to day. Monday's total was $161.99, Tuesday's $464.55 and yesterday's $556.30. Today's, tomorrow's and Saturday's total must each go over $1,000 to keep The DAILY WORKER afloat.

The following is a list of the individual contributions received on Tuesday. Yesterday's contributions will be printed in tomorrow's issue.

CANTON STUDENTS OUT ON STRIKE

Protest Arrest of 40 Militants

CANTON, June 6.—Students in a number of Canton schools went on strike to protest against the arrest of forty students charged with addressing anti-government meetings. General Li Chai-sum, war lord in control of the city, is making every effort to suppress the growing protest.

Peasants are particularly active along the Si-kiang river above Canton, where they have expropriated large landholders and taken over control of the villages.

An appeal outlining instructions for an anti-Japanese boycott has been issued by workers and students.

MINE TERROR IS UNABATED

Women Slugged, Beaten Mercilessly

(Special to the Daily Worker)

SLICKVILLE, Pa., June 6.—State troopers yesterday morning viciously attacked two picket lines of newly organized striking miners and their wives who marched from opposite directions upon the Bethlehem Steel Corporation's mine near here. Sylvia Morella, militant woman picket who ran for shelter to the store of a sympathizer nearby, was pursued by mounted troopers and mercilessly beaten.

The state troopers have patroled the roads ever since the coal diggers in the unorganized field struck at the call of the Save-the-Union Committee April 16. Strikers who venture out of their homes are clubbed and terrorized by the cossacks who are "preserving order." As soon as they left the pits, the miners immediately organized themselves into the Westmoreland County Miners Union.

Women Organized.

The women, who are among the most militant fighters in the entire strike area, also organized into auxiliaries and march by the side of their men on the picket lines.

These gallant fighters are receiving absolutely no aid from the United Mine Workers Union. They are entirely dependent upon the National Miners Relief for enough food to keep them alive. And the relief organization depends upon donations from workers the country over to buy food with.

The National Miners Relief Committee divides what it has among thousands of families. Sometimes there is barely enough food for one meal a day—more frequently there is no food in the house for days, sometimes week.

The striking miners are appealing in hundreds of letters flocking into the relief headquarters: "Don't let the marvelous fighting morale be beaten by famine! Help the miners win their strike by sending as much as you can to the National Miners Relief Committee, 611 Penn Avenue, Pittsburgh, Pa."

NEW BEDFORD JAILING SEEN AS PLAN

Butler, Republican Chief, Guiding Arrests in Mill Strike

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., (FP) June 6.—In police and court hounding of radical leaders and singing pickets in the mass strike of 27,000 cotton mill workers can be seen the guiding hand of William M. Butler, leading mill owner and chairman of the Republican National Committee. With repeated arrests and jail sentences of 30 days to six months imposed on leaders and pickets, Butler's privately-owned city administration carries on Butler traditions of 1919-1922 when his Manufacturers Association paid out $250,000 a year to Sherman Service, expert labor spies and strikebreakers.

Butler's intimate interest in radical workers was laid bare by A. M. Donahue, chief of a Sherman Service union-wrecking crew of 25 operatives during the post-war deflation period. Donahue in 1924 revealed to Fred Moore, counsel for Sacco and Vanzetti, Butler's role as hirer of labor spies.

"You kept a file of what were known as radicals in New Bedford," Moore asked Donahue.

"Yes," responded the ex-Sherman chief, who had quit the business when interviewed by Moore. "While they were classed as radicals by us, it was merely to impress Butler with the idea that New Bedford was filled with radicals and there was great need for the Sherman Service."

Q. Did you ever have conversation with Butler about the so-called list of radicals?

A. I received word from Butler some time in 1920 to go to him and bring my index file. I went with it

WORLD PROTEST AGAINST TERROR NOW UNDER WAY

Militant Trade Union Leaders Sentenced

(Special Cable to the Daily Worker).

MOSCOW, June 6.—Thirty-seven members of the Italian Communist Party, many of them members of the Central Executive Committee, were sentenced to terms of imprisonment ranging from six to twenty-seven years after a secret trial which started last week, according to information received here. Among those sentenced by the fascist terrorists are such leaders as Gramschi and Terracini, who have given the best years of their lives to the struggles of the working class.

Terracini was sentenced to twenty-seven years' imprisonment, while Gramschi, editor of the Ordine Nuovo, was sentenced to seventeen years' imprisonment. Among those jailed were organizers of the Italian General Confederation of Labor, militant working class trade union organization, which has fought against the fascist terror.

Altho the trial was held in absolute secrecy, reliable reports received here declare that statements by Terracini, Rebo and Scoccimaro, other accused working class leaders, showed that the indictments against them were groundless. The witnesses were all police agents. When the agents were called upon to produce proofs, they appealed to "professional secrecy."

Most of those sentenced have spent the last two years in jail, where they were brutally tortured by the police officials.

An international protest, which is expected to assume the proportions of the protest against the murder of Sacco and Vanzetti, is under way.

LAUNCH CAMPAIGN AGAINST FASCISM

Red Labor Int'l Urges World Wide Protest

MOSCOW, June 6.—A call for a world-wide protest against the fascist terror and the brutal jail sentences meted out to the leaders of the Italian General Confederation of Labor has been issued by the Executive Bureau of the Red International of Labor Unions.

Referring to the sentences against the leaders of the confederation, the appeal says, "For the last twenty months, during which period many thousands of revolutionary workers have been sentenced, the above-mentioned comrades have been kept in prison, suffering cruel tortures, awaiting their trial which has up to the present been put off by Mussolini, the hangman of the Italian working class."

The reformist labor leaders have been aiding Mussolini's murderous campaign against the working class leaders, the appeal states. "The trial of our heroic Italian comrades is taking place at a time when Albert Thomas, one of the leaders of the Second International, chief of the International Labor Office in Geneva, is the guest and admirer of Mussolini, and has the audacity to praise the fascist trade unions and Mussolini's regime."

U.S.S.R. TO FIGHT AGAINST WASTE

To Train Workers For Technical Jobs

(Special Cable to the Daily Worker).

MOSCOW, June 6.—The Central Committee of the Soviet Union has issued an appeal urging workers to participate in the task of socialist construction and to eliminate all hostile elements.

Only thru the working class will the resistance and sabotage of counter-revolutionary technicians be overcome, the appeal states. The appeal points out the necessity of free inner party criticism, the absolute maintenance of the electoral principles within all party bodies, the application of Lenin's principles, the more severe punishment of offenders who are members of the Communist Party, the simplification of the state apparatus, the promotion of workers to leading positions and the training of Red specialists.

SAYS ALLEN-A STRIKE LEADERS ARE SPINELESS; YOUNG WORKER EXPELLED BY BUDENZ

KENOSHA, Wis. (By mail).—I am one of the Allen-A Hosiery strikers. Several months ago I saw the film, "Passaic," at one of the downtown shows in Kenosha. I certainly admired the splendid fight put up by the thousands of Passaic textile strikers under the leadership of Albert Weisbord, who, I understand, is a member of the Workers (Communist) Party.

When I compare how the leadership of Passaic strike led that struggle with the leadership of our strike, I notice an awful difference.

Albert Weisbord organized mass picketing daily and was himself on the picket line and got arrested dozens of times. Our own leaders refuse to have us violate the injunction by having mass picketing. Once in a while they let us picket for a few minutes but even then they do not help us on the picket line, but go elsewhere.

They have refused to call out the rest of the workers at the Allen-A such as those known as the "seamless" workers and the hundreds of others who work in the other plant across the street from the mill the scabs are in.

Sometimes I wonder if our leaders are without backbones. A Young Workers League representative, who helped us picket and gave us bulletins, pointing out that we must have picketing daily and must call out the unorganized, was barred from attending our strike meetings by Budenz.

I certainly oppose such actions on the part of the leaders. I think it is a shame to bar from our meetings anyone from the Young Workers League. The League has certainly championed our strike and told us how we can win out.

Kindly print this.

Rallying of Textile Workers to Picket Lines Keeps Mills from Operating

STRIKERS IN NEW BEDFORD CARRY VICTORY SYMBOLS

Mill Strike Spirit High Despite Great Need

By GRACE HUTCHINS.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., (FP).—With a spray of lilac in each picket's buttonhole and the longest picket lines since the strike began, New Bedford strikers answered the bosses' move to open the mills, and the mills did not open. Portuguese workers remembered that flowers have always been their symbol of victory, so lilacs picked in the country yesterday were handed out today when the pickets first came on the line.

At least 2,000 strikers at the south end and 3,000 or more at the north end picketed or watched at the gates of the Hathaway, Page, Nonquit and other mills. As the long line of pickets, marching two by two, moved up and down past the big red brick buildings, police watched silently and crowds of other strikers across the street stood unmoving for an hour and a half.

Antonio Adao, speaking in Portuguese, keeps the strikers laughing and applauding. He is a former I. W. W. man and led 5,000 Portuguese strikers once before.

William T. Murdoch, whose sentence to 90 days for "disturbing the peace" is appealed to a higher court, goes back and forth with Fred Beale from north to south end speaking at the hall and then at Saulnier's lot. Ann Craton of the Workers' International Relief visits relief stations and holds the fort at headquarters.

But the lines for relief grow longer as the strike enters its third month. As Textile Council funds run low, the citizens' relief committee cuts relief by 20 per cent and the loom fixers discontinue relief payments at all, many come over to the T. M. C. relief stations.

Portuguese strikers who are also fishermen, stand ready to go out for fish if only money can be sent for schooners. To hire two schooners for a trip takes $14. The last trip brought in 8,000 pounds of fish, all distributed in two days.

David Jones, young Welsh fellow worker, was arrested recently and fined $35 in court. He has been driving out into the country for milk, given by farmers for strikers' children. To take his place while he was in jail, three other strikers volunteered to drive out for milk.

This relief work for foreign-born unorganized workers does not duplicate anything done by other relief agencies. If workers all over the country could watch those lines of strikers file into relief stations, they would soon see that empty shelves were refilled with groceries and provisions. Workers' International Relief, 12 Rodney French Blvd., New Bedford, Mass., is in charge of these stations.

PLAN AUERBACH PROTEST MEET

Scott Nearing, Ousted in 1915, to Speak

PHILADELPHIA, June 6. — The Young Workers (Communist) League of Philadelphia has arranged a meeting to be held at Grand Fraternity Hall here tomorrow at 8 p. m. for the purpose of protesting against the recent dismissal from the University of Pennsylvania of Sol Auerbach, 21-year-old instructor in philosophy, for having spoken publicly in favor of the recognition of the Soviet Union.

Among those who will address the meeting will be Auerbach; Scott Nearing, former professor of economics at the same university, who was expelled in 1915 for his radical activities and teachings; Bertram D. Wolfe, director of the New York Workers School and a member of the Central Executive Committee of the Workers (Communist) Party of America, and Clarence Miller, district organizer of the Young Workers (Communist) League of Philadelphia.

7 Children Killed

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 6.—Seven children, six of them members of one family, were killed at Auburn, twelve miles south of here, last night when their automobile was struck by a northbound Illinois Traction System interurban train enroute from St. Louis to Springfield.

Well-Known Shoreline Where Rum Flows Free

From five to eight thousand cases of rum are landed weekly at the Chelsea piers in the North River alone, according to the latest revelations of liquor graft in New York harbor. The picture shows a section of the new "rum row."

WORKERS SLAVE FOR 12 CENTS A MONTH

WASHINGTON, June 6.—Few who see the captain in his immaculate military-looking uniform on the bridge or who see the expensively dressed vacationists on deck or who see the bank account of the ownership realize what the conditions are in the lower recesses of the boasted Dollar Line ships.

Much of heavy or dirty work for the Dollar Line profits is done by men already beaten down to a starvation level in the colonial or semi-colonial countries of the far east. Chinese workers in the fireroom of the Dollar Liner President Wilson, named after the late crusading so-called "spokesman of oppressed peoples," are paid 12 cents a month, the vessel's articles show, according to a report to a senate committee.

FARM CAMPAIGN GOES REPUBLICAN

Pershing Called Home; Coolidge Waits

given the Hoover crowd supposed victories in 35 out of the 37 contests over the seating of southern delegates, all anxious for lucrative patronage control. In one instance seven Hoover campaign managers with proxies voted as national committee members. One of these was Rush L. Holland, assistant attorney general under Harry M. Daugherty. He was recently shown in the senate to have paid Perry W. Howard, Mississippi Negro politician and Washington job-holder, $2,000 in cash and $200 a week to line up Hoover votes. Holland sat through the committee sessions with Howard's proxy.

Hoover's campaign has appeared more extravagantly financed and better organized in the machine sense than the campaign of Frank O. Lowden. Hoover has controlled the national committee at times against the opposition of its chairman, William M. Butler. But Andrew W. Mellon, secretary of the treasury and boss of the republican industrialist group, has not arrived on the scene and has remained non-committal, as has Butler himself on main issues.

The "drafting" of Coolidge is still a possibility, in case Mellon, Butler and others believe it is advisable.

Gen. John Pershing also has been summoned from Paris for political reasons, probably on the grounds that he could swing many hoodlum jingo votes that might be wavering. The open shop interests of the United States would even like to have such a fascist for president, though it is only Pershing's uniform that distinguishes him in this respect from Hoover, Lowden and Coolidge.

HUGE PROFITS FOR U. S. POWER TRUST

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 6.—The gross earnings of public utility trusts during the month of April, exclusive of telephone and telegraph companies, were $184,000,000, according to statistics of the Department of Commerce, gathered from reports of 95 companies or systems operating gas, electric light, heat, power, traction and water companies. This is an increase of more than $7,000,000 over the gross earnings for April, 1927, which were $176,467,300. The gross earnings in March of this year were $189,990,494.

and was instructed to turn it over to the office of the Department of Justice at the post office and to give the department officials the files. I think they took a copy of all names and addresses. Butler told me his intention was to arrest and deport all of the radicals that we had anything on in New Bedford.

Q. WERE you in New Bedford at the time of the raid on the I. W. W. headquarters? A. You mean by the Sherman men? Yes.

Q. What prompted the raid? A. The thought in the minds of the mill men that the I. W. W. was getting too strong and they simply wanted to put them out of business.

Q. With whom did you make plans for conducting the raid? A. It was talked over with Dexter of the Beacon Mills and Kerwin, another mill owner.

Q. Was the raid actually made by the police? A. No, no. It was a midnight visit, breaking and entering practically, surreptitiously done. There was only one man who did it. He was a New York operator. His story to me was that he had bought a knife and cut out a space in the latch sufficiently large enough to insert his hand and turn the catch to let him in. He then said he built a large bonfire in the middle of the floor of the books and had cut the pool tables and broken everything he could lay his hands on. He had broken the frame which held the I. W. W. charter and taken the charter away. He destroyed all the office records.

THE story was afterwards changed so that the public were led to believe that the break was made by the American Legion men, who were incensed with the idea of the I. W. W. men being in New Bedford. The same thing happened in another city and it was to let them think the same thing happened over again.

Q. In determining policies and the amount of expenditures and methods to be pursued, was Butler the directing genius of this work?

A. So much that the last year, 1921, I got orders to cut my force down, so that the total cost to the manufacurers would be less than $50,000 for that year. I personally conferred with Butler at that time and showed him how it could be done by eliminating certain operatives who were not holding executive positions. I cut it down and he was satisfied.

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the second of a series on strikebreaking activities of William Butler, head of the Republican National Committee and personal adviser to Calvin Coolidge, in previous New Bedford strikes. The next story will tell of Butler's control of police and city administration.

$325,000,000 Contracts In Flood Control Bill

KANSAS CITY, June 6.—The flood control bill signed by President Coolidge will mean the distribution of more than $325,000,000 in contracts on the Mississippi River. This is one reason why many Mississippi Valley contractors are watching the republican national convention here with great interest with a view to "investing" in the campaign of the most likely candidate.

MINERS LEAVE HALL EMPTY AT WOLL MEETING

Sheriffs On Hand to Aid Lewis Machine

(By a Worker Correspondent)

LANSING, (By Mail).—Matthew Woll and Lee Hall were announced to speak at this place on Saturday, and although the secretary of the local was not notified, the membership of the local was present to hear these two men. The miners were waiting especially for Woll, for they know his policy and methods, and were determined to make it hot for him.

Neither Woll nor Lee Hall, the president of the district, showed up. In their place came an international board member and all the sheriffs and deputy sheriffs in the county. It was a great sight, but one to which the miners have got used. Del Guzzo, international organizer, took the platform and announced that he was going to be chairman of the meeting, that speeches would be made, but that no questions would be asked or answered.

Bob Sivert, newly elected sub-district board member, immediately rose to ask a question. Hardly did he get a word out of his mouth before a deputy sheriff seized him and pushed him down into his seat, but not before he had torn his shirt to pieces.

"Sit down and stay there and keep your mouth shut," was the command of the deputy.

"Like hell, I will," said Bob. "I'm going to get out of here."

He rose and went out, followed by almost the entire body of men. About 40 men remained, made up of reactionary suckers, rats, etc., gathered from all over the sub-district.

Thus again we see the function of the international officials of the Lewis machine. Sheriffs, marshals, national guard and Lewis machine: what is the difference between them? None—and the rank and file will continue to learn from these gentlemen.

The same thing happened a few days ago at Robyville to which deputies also came.

"We hold our meetings only with members of the United Mine Workers present," said one of the men. "What the hell are the sheriffs doing here? Come on, boys, let's go!" Everybody left and the old reactionary sub-district board members were left high and dry, and without an audience.

The same thing happened in Duncanwood.

Sheriffs, reactionary officials, rats, stool-pigeons, strikebreakers — they are all there for the same purpose—to break up the organization.

"Gentlemen of the Press" Set For August at Henry Miller's

ONE of the first of the new crop of productions scheduled for the coming season is definitely set. This will be a new opus by Ard Morehouse, titled "The Gentlemen of the Press," and is announced for August 27 at Henry Miller's Theatre. The play will have its try-out at Long Branch on August 13, and will then play at Asbury Park and Atlantic City, before its New York premiere. The cast includes John Cromwell, Hugh O'Connell, Harold Walbridge, Carlotta Irwin, Helen Flint and Russell Crome.

"The Domino Parlor," a new play by Lynn Riggs, will be presented by Lee Shubert in Newark on June 18 with a New York engagement in September. Irene Fenwick is featured, and others in the cast include Warren Williams, Alan Goods, John Brawn, Edith Arnold, Zelma Tiden, Marius Rogati and Pacie Ripple.

Schwab and Mandel have arranged to keep their "Good News" company now current at Channin's 46th Street Theatre intact for the balance of the New York run. Gus Shy, Inez Courtney, John Sheehan, John Price Jones, Zelma O'Neal, Don Tomkins and Ruth Mayon are the principals in the production.

Although Agnes Morgan is responsible generally for the book of the "Grand Street Follies," two important sketches in the edition which opened recently at the Booth Theatre were contributed by members of the cast. Marc Loebell wrote the musical comedy burlesque of Coquette and Albert Carroll wrote the Laurette Taylor skit in the manner of Zoe Akins.

JAPANESE PORTS PARALYZED WHILE SEAMEN STRIKE

Thousands Out; Harbor Workers May Follow

TOKYO, June 6.—Thousands of seamen are out on strike today and hundreds of ships, are idle in all Japanese ports as the result of the general seamen's strike which has virtually paralyzed shipping in the Islands.

Osaka, Nagasaki and Yokohoma are the centers of the strike. In these three ports alone thousands of men walked out and the huge international shipping is unable to take on or discharge cargoes.

Rapid mobilization of police effectives by the government has interfered with picketing, and demonstrations of the seamen are being prohibited in many places, but the leaders of the strike declare that picketing along the waterfronts will be begun shortly.

Belief that the harbor workers who receive wretched wages and work long hours, may follow the seamen out in a sympathetic strike gained ground yesterday with the growing unrest among all classes of stevedores on the Osaka and Yokohama docks.

Further spread of the strike to Japanese controlled ports on the Asiatic mainland is also considered probable within the next few days. Seamen in Dairen, Port Arthur, Tsing Tao and Formosan harbors are being called upon to join the walkout in the islands.

Reading, Impeached, Resigns From Office

BOSTON, June 6.—Following his impeachment yesterday by the state house of representatives, Attorney-General Arthur K. Reading resigned today. Reading, notorious as one of the officials responsible for the legal murder of Sacco and Vanzetti, was proved to have accepted a $25,000 fee from the Decimo Club, at the same time that the club was under investigation in several states. Reading's resignation may not be accepted, and he may have to stand an impeachment trial in the senate.

Railroad Porters Await Call for Strike

ALL WORKERS ON PULLMANS MAY SOON WALK OUT

Strategy is in Hands of Two

cago, Kansas City and other railroad centers. Pullman has its spies working assiduously within union ranks and even entering the national office in Harlem. A. R. MacDonald, professional strikebreaker, has been retained to fight the union.

Thirty-seven union meetings held in every important railroad center heard the result of the strike vote. Enthusiasm reigned at these meetings, for porters and maids felt that at last they were within striking distance of freedom from the generation-old serfdom imposed by Pullman. "We'll get down and we'll fight," they shouted. "And we'll see that no scabs get on."

At national headquarters, Organizer Randolph, Secretary Lancaster and five members composing the executive board, are in charge of union strategy. The members identity is kept secret to prevent their discharge. One is a maid.

WORKERS IGNORE SIGMAN MEETING

See It as Attempt to Get 3-Day Tax

The mass meeting called by the Sigman-Schlesinger gang for tonight is so completely disregarded by the masses of cloak and dressmakers in the market that their agents are feverishly mobilizing all their henchmen in the other trade unions to attend the meeting.

Ostensibly, the meeting is called to "celebrate" the beginning of the theoretical 40-hour week with the cloak bosses.

The latter practically admitted this in a statement issued yesterday that since Sigman had failed to destroy the influence of the left wing Joint Board, the bosses cannot be held responsible for the inauguration of the shorter week. This curious statement, it is pointed out, is made when the union shattered by the right wing is unable to prevent these same bosses from running their shops on a 70 hour week basis.

The meeting is merely an attempt to secure payments of the three-day tax which was the sole outcome of the recent convention of fakers in Boston, many workers declare.

Built By the Workers and For the Workers

This huge dam and spillway is part of the electrification projects which are being carried on by the workers and peasants of the Soviet Republic of Georgia, one of the federates of the Soviet Union. When completed the dam will form part of a system bringing power over vast stretches of country to thousands of workers and peasants.

"HORSES" WIN TAMMANY GRAFT

And Choir Singer Lies Only Mildly

Race horses that always brought home the bacon for him, presumably because he regularly sang sweet music in a church choir, was the explanation adopted by William J. Oswald, indicted district superintendent of the street cleaning department to account for the sums of money varying between $125 and $150 per week which William J. Lougheed, self-confessed grafter and state witness, regularly handed over to him.

Oswald, who sings in a Catholic church choir, is on trial with Charles A. McGee, general superintendent of the department on charges of grand larceny and forgery. He did not deny having received these sums which aggregated more than his salary. The money, he declared, came from winnings on races as a result of an "air-tight system", Lougheed had worked which brought in three or four hundred dollars a week.

Oswald under direct examination testified that he had been assigned to the fourth Bronx district in January 1925. In March of that year, he declared, Lougheed first made known to him his acquaintance with prancing steeds by showing him a bankroll the size of the proverbial horse. Oswald did not say that this was how he came to believe the money had been obtained through playing the ponies. He insisted, however, that Lougheed had offered to let him in on the game of beating the bookmakers—and he, Oswald, fell for it. Thereafter, Oswald testified, the "horses" won regularly with only one exception.

Another remarkable fact about these uniformly winning "horses" was that Oswald never was asked to put up any money for his bets. They just ran knowing in advance that they would win for Oswald, McGee, Lougheed, and the others higher up whose grafting activities in the great Tammany scandal is believed to have reached $200,000,000 in the past decade.

LEWIS MAN OUSTS MINER FROM SHED

National Relief Pays His Rent

(By a Worker Correspondent)

GLEN ROBBINS, O. (By mail).—The corrupt officials of the Mine Workers' Union are not satisfied with expelling us progressives and cutting off our relief. They use sneakier tricks when they can get a chance. Here is what they did to Steve Grgich, a progressive in Glen Robbins, Ohio.

When they evicted us from the houses of the Dun Glenn mine, we all went to work building barracks. Steve Grgich has a large family with eight children and he worked like everything to build enough rooms in the barracks for him and his family.

After he worked for nearly a week and he was almost finished, Adolph Pacifico, sub-district official and a Lewis man came along when Steve was working and sent him away. When he came back the next day, he found another family moved into the place on the orders of Pacifico.

Steve's time was up and he had to move out. He didn't know where to go, so he asked Jim Vall, another progressive what to do. Vall found a house for him and the National Miners Relief Committee paid for his moving and a month's rent.

We miners would be in a hell of a shape if it were not for the National Miners Relief Committee. Lots of men would go back to work if they didn't get food from them. Not because they are yellow or because they are not good union men but because you can't stay out on strike for 15 months without anything to eat.

Matthew Woll Praises the Fascists

By NICOLA NAPOLI.

MATTHEW WOLL, vice-president of the American Federation of Labor, has taken the opportunity at a fascist banquet held recently in honor of Mr. Sansanelli, the latest publicity agent sent to America by Mussolini, to praise fascismo and to insult the Italian proletariat.

In honoring fascismo, Woll has also praised the Italian "Charter of Labor" with which the Italian capitalists have tried to destroy every organizational liberty for the working class and have succeeded in enslaving it.

Not satisfied with joining hands with the bosses on many occasions against the interests of the American workers, Woll has revealed again his reactionary character by exalting the exploiting regime in Italy.

Here is what Mr. Woll wrote to Mr. P. Vaccareli, a fascist organizer of the A. F. of L.:

"My dear Vaccarelli: Please mention in your speech the greetings of six million workers, members of the American Federation of Labor to Hon. Sansanelli and also tell him that the representatives of our federation who are present in this hall, have come to honor him."

Thus, according to Woll, the three million members of the A. F. of L. have rendered honor to Sansanelli and consequently to fascismo and to Mussolini.

We believe they cannot permit Woll's insult made in their name against their Italian comrades and brothers who are being murdered, tortured and jailed by fascismo. They cannot ignore the ties of international solidarity of the working class.

WOLL'S new attitude towards fascismo characterizes the reactionary attitude of the leaders of the A. F. of L. who receive earnest support from the socialists. These leaders are following the path of the Amsterdam International which is strengthening its alliance with the capitalist class against the working class in every country. After the recent visit of Albert Thomas to Italy, during which this representative of the reformist International praised the "fascist reforms," now comes the statement of Mr. Woll.

Do the workers of America need any other proof of the degeneration and corruption of the socialists and leaders of the A. F. of L.?

If they do not want to be considered as accomplices of fascism they must protest against Woll's unauthorized statement. They must vote resolutions to this effect and against fascismo at their next local meeting. They must actively participate in the international campaign against fascism in order to prevent other victims. They must extend their solidarity to the Confederazione Generale del Lavoro (Italian Federation of Trade Unions) the only organization in Italy which represents the workers, which is organizing and preparing them for the conquest of their trade union rights. They must also condemn openly the Italian "Charter of Labor."

The American workers cannot acquiesce Woll's statement indifferently and quietly.

Let this serve as an incentive to renew the fight of the militant workers in their organizations against the corrupt leadership of the American Federation of Labor and against the fascist penetration in the trade unions.

CHICAGO WORKERS RESPOND TO CALL FOR MINE RELIEF

Special Campaign to End On Sunday

CHICAGO, June 6.—A great number of volunteers have already responded to the special miners' relief drive in Chicago. Scores of blocks have already been covered and substantial sums have been collected.

Volunteers are to call at the respective stations and get their blocks and collection material and finish the job. Next Sunday all of the stations will be open. All those who are going to participate in the work are urged to get an early start in the work Sunday—it is easier to find the workers at home. Buttons, boxes, stamps and collection materials will be supplied.

This will be the last call on the honor roll, and the participants will have the honor of being at the Volunteer Banquet at the close of the week's drive.

REVEAL HOW RUM GRAFT IS HIDDEN BY REPUBLICANS

Politicians Use Power To Stop Exposure

The rum smuggling graft disclosures which threatened Monday to splash over half the republican party's New York face and as a result of which fifteen customs guards, two roundsmen and an inspector were Saturday suspended, appeared yesterday to have been sufficiently stemmed to be called a "petty affair" by those responsible.

The reports were "grossly exaggerated," these officials declared. No one really doubts that millions of dollars of high priced liquor has been "bootlegged" in from trans-Atlantic liners to find its way into the cellars of New York society. As much as $40,000,000 is the amount estimated thus to have been smuggled into this city. The graft to officials is also said to have run into millions.

Coal Miners, Take Control!

The emergency district conventions of the United Mine Workers Union are proceeding one by one with the imperative job of putting the control of the districts into the hands of the mine workers. The complete and final ousting of the company agents who have so long controlled the districts for John L. Lewis is of course the unconditional necessity. The special district convention in Illinois, in Ohio, in Indiana, in District five of Pennsylvania have ousted these traitors and elected new officers who represent the mine workers.

But the establishment of the mine workers' control of their Union in these districts cannot stop with the mere declaration of the conventions that these representatives are the new officers of the Union. The elections cannot be allowed to remain on paper, but must be put into actual force by the whole rank and file of the Union, who must function now more actively than ever before. The old traitors will not give up their strangle-hold without a fight, not without resorting to police agents and company gunmen in claiming still to be the official heads of the Union. The slightest weakness on the part of the newly elected and true representatives of the Union, or the slightest slacking up of the militant activity of the rank and file, would result in stagnation and chaos. The new district leadership of the Union must be the leadership in every sense of the word.

There is no doubt whatever that the company agents of Lewis will still claim office, will still claim that they and their henchmen constitute the Union, in spite of the district emergency conventions. They will try to hypnotize the mine workers with the claim of "regularity" for themselves and will declare the newly elected officers to constitute a "dual" framework. The mine workers must meet this new form of treachery and deceit with a strong and fearless hand. To fail to uphold the results of the emergency district conventions by a ruthless breaking up of the treacherous bureaucratic machine, would mean to betray the hundreds of thousands of mine workers whose will must prevail.

In the Anthracite districts the situation is more complicated. The Brennan machine, which has come out as a "new leadership" selected by the emergency district convention of District No. 1, is only an evidence of the inability of the mine workers of the anthracite at that time to eliminate another crew of traitors of the Lewis type.

Brennan, McGarry and Harris do not mean a victory for the mine workers. The Brennan crew in opposing Cappelini has used exactly the same trickery by which Cappelini got power—that is by pretending to fight for the real interests of the miners, only to fasten upon them a company of bureaucrats essentially no different than the Cappelini machine.

The Brennan crew will either sell out to Lewis, or will betray the mine workers by the dastardly scheme of separating the anthracite miners from the bituminous miners in a so-called "anthracite union" which will be little else than a company union and which will weaken the miners on a national scale. The mine workers of the anthracite have not yet gotten rid of the vermin of the coal operators. Their experience with the trickery of Brennan must be regarded only as a signal to fight on until the mine workers themselves secure control and make the anthracite an integral part of a completely organized industry on a nation-wide scale.

Throughout the mine fields, as the emergency district conventions reach their climax, the fight must be intensified and a complete smashing of the Lewis bureaucracy must be realized. Disregard all fake cries of "dual unionism" from the mouths of Lewis' company agents. Mine workers! Go ahead full speed and take control of your own Union!

Miners Applaud Relief Speaker

(By a Worker Correspondent)

OLYPHANT, Pa., (By Mail).—National Miners' Relief Organizer Ida Weitman has broken the ice at last. At a meeting of Local 795, U. M. W. of A., that met in Olyphant May 31, Ida Weitman asked permission to address the meeting despite the fact that Board Member Boylan was present. She meant to encourage the many sympathizers of the N. M. R. C. and she succeeded.

Dire Need.

She simply explained the dire need of the striking miners who go in their 14th month of the great struggle. "If they lose you are all lost, the whole working class of America will be beaten," she said. Enthusiastic applause from the 700 miners present, and the faces of our sympathizers were aglow at the close of her appeal.

Then Board Member Boylan got up and praised the wonderful work of the investigating committee which J. L. Lewis collected in the course of the strike for which he is paid $40 a day. The N. M. R. C. was also doing more damage than the coal operators in breaking the U. M. W. of A., he said.

Then the fun began.

Organizer Ida Weitman took the floor for a half hour and with all her fire and vigor she told the miners everything they want to know.

"Miners, union men, our brother Boylan says that the N. M. R. C. is a worse enemy than the coal operators, and he tells you these are the facts. He praises the senate investigating committee.

Relief Is Unionist.

"In the history of U. M. W. of A. or any other labor union in the country we never won a strike with the help of any government committee. Do not we know that they always help to kill our strikers? The National Miners' Relief Committee, every man jack of them are 100 per cent union men, made of the very same stuff as you fellows. Their union cards are paid up to date of the strike. They are fighters. When they organized the relief, they knew what they were doing. Instinctively they felt, that Lewis with his $30 or $40 a day, was not hungry. Miners were facing starvation. It took Lewis seven months to realize it before he made you pay the assessments.

"Some fellows were telling me before I came to this meeting, that J. L. Lewis and the rest of the gang are taking a big rake off. It may be true for all I know. And now men let us look into this situation with open eyes. Who are our friends and who are our enemies.

Militants.

"Every active man in the National Miners' Relief Committee has been beaten up for fighting on the picket lines. Could they be enemies? No. 100 times no! Keep your eyes open, they are trying to break you and they start where you are weakest.

"Should our brothers in the soft coal region lose the strike in less than three months, then the coal operators and their trusted friends will start the same monkey business in the anthracite. They want to smash you. Are you going to let them? Every dollar you give tonight will help the brave men and women on the firing line to win."

Cheers, yells and applause. As a result $29.41 was collected. The Miners' Relief Bulletin was simply torn from the comrade who distributed them.

Sympathizers are organizing a house-to-house collection in Jessup, Olyphant and Dieson City. —SID.

After the Fall of Peking---What?

This remarkable and timely article on the significance of the fall of Peking, written in advance of the event by Earl R. Browder, will be continued in the next two issues of The DAILY WORKER. Readers are advised not to miss the instalments.—EDITOR.

By EARL BROWDER.

THERE is so much blood smeared over the Chinese scene that it is not always easy to see what is going on behind this red screen. Workers, peasants, youths, have been and are daily being slaughtered in the most horrible ways, in numbers running into the hundreds of thousands, in order to carry out the declared program of Imperialism in China. The war of armies, between Chang Tso-lin and Chiang Kai-shek, Feng Yu-hsiang and Co., is child's play compared to the class-war that rages over the countryside. This class-war is announced as an "anti-Communist" movement to purge China of a small group of heretical fanatics, whose fantastic program is supposed to endanger the Chinese revolution. This pleasant myth is camouflage to hide the complete treachery to the revolution by the Kuomintang and Chinese Bourgeoisie. The long-heralded capture of Peking, now in the headlines as imminent, has lost its revolutionary significance, and almost everyone now realizes that it makes little real change in China. That is because the Kuomintang occupies the same basis, plays the same role today, as that of Chang Tso-lin. Let us examine one by one the most conservative formulation of the objects of the Revolution in China, and see how in each case these objects have been abandoned by the so-called nationalists.

Unification of China.

In the beginning of 1927, there was a real hope for the unification of China. Two-thirds of the country had overthrown the old militarists and arisen with enthusiasm in support of the Kuomintang. For the first time the masses of the people were aroused, actively participating in political life; an organizing center had been given them in the Wuhan Kuomintang Government. The so-called anti-Communist campaign, the signal for which was given by Chiang Kai-shek on the command of foreign imperialism, completely smashed this unity, destroyed the Kuomintang as a mass party, and divided the Nationalist territory into autonomous fragments. China today is more divided than ever before in modern times. The taking of Peking which was to have been the sign of complete unification, has now, when it seems about to occur, become an empty thing without any profound significance. "When Peking falls," says the Shanghai Times, on May 4, "internal strife will by no means be concluded." A new era of militarist wars will begin.

Regaining National Independence

BEFORE the bourgeoisie betrayed the revolution, great strides had been made toward regaining national independence for China. The measure of this progress was the fear displayed by Japan, Great Britain, France, and the United States, who are the powers that have destroyed that independence and who have ruled China for decades. But within the year, that old fear of an independent China has dissappeared from the foreground of the imperialists. One and all, the imperialists proclaim that they are quite satisfied with the policies of the present Kuomintang. Is it possible for anyone to believe that the imperialists would be content to lose their control of China? Is anyone so simple-minded as to think it possible to win freedom by "friendship" (which means capitulation) with the oppressors? Yet that is today the official program of the Kuomintang. It is no sign of progress toward independence, when the imperialist press can praise the latest economic program of the Nanking Government, proclaimed by Mr. Kung, Minister of Industry, saying: "One who recognizes that China needs expert assistance, and is willing to go where that assistance can be obtained, deserve well of us all." If Mr. Kung and the Kuomintang are going to the imperialists for their expert assistance, if he "deserves well" of all the international pirates of imperialism, then the most stupid can see that Chinese independence has been sold out completely.

Abolition of Militarism.

"Down with Militarism" was one of the most powerful slogans in rousing the Chinese people to revolution under the Kuomintang. Since the early days of the so-called Republic, the burdens of militarism have been growing ever greater and more intolerable, nourished by the support of foreign imperialism whose tool it has always been. But when the Chinese bankers, merchants, landlords, and intellectuals became frightened by the mass movements of the people last year, and began the anti-Communist movement within the Kuomintang they immediately surrendered all power to a set of new militarists more rapacious and bloodthirsty than the old. Today it is possible for one of Kuomintang's new "friends," the British newspaper Shanghai Times (April 16) to say: "Was there ever a time in the history of China when there were so many marshals and generals as there are now? The Kuomintang bristles with them, and seems to an outside observer as thoroughly militaristic as any known party throughout the world." Even the pretense of civil government has been abandoned by the Kuomintang, and the military reigns in the center, in the provinces, and in each city, by means of the most outrageous terror.

Rehabilitation of Finance.

One of the great boasts of the Kuomintang is the rehabilitation of China's finances, which have been completely disrupted under the old militarists. During the so-called "Communist period," up to 1927, the Kuomintang was actually making appreciable progress in this direction. But since the rise of the new militarists to power, the Kuomintang has become even more destructive of finances than the old rulers. The income of the Nanking Government goes 85 per cent to the generals (not to pay the soldiers, of course), while every normal administrative function, specially education, is starved. The recent general strike of the Nanking school teachers, who demanded their unpaid wages of $10 Mex. per month, is typical of a general condition, worse than formerly existed. Yet more and more taxes are collected, the Kuomintang proving expert at least in raising money, collecting two to four times as much as the old militarists were ever able to do. An interesting comparison on this point was published in the Chinese newspaper, Central Daily News, Shanghai, March 26, from which we take the following figures:

Taxes collected:

Hupeh Province—Under Wu Pei-fu, $25,000,000 per year.

Under Kuomintang, $40,000,000 per year.

Kiangsu Province:

Under Sun Chuang-fang, $20,000 per year.

Under Kuomintang, $72,000,000 per year.

Kiangsi, Anhui, and Fukien Provinces:

Tax income doubled under the Kuomintang.

In addition to taxes, enormous sums are being raised by loans, which was formerly a negligible source of income.

Only the most nominal centralization of finances exists. Each general in his locality collects taxes and spends them, without even reporting to the Nanking Government. Currencies, which are on a local basis, are in complete confusion, and rapidly become worthless, a point already reached in Hankow.

The new militarists of the Kuomintang have completed the demoralization of China's finances.

Commerce and Industry.

COMMERCE and industry in China are rapidly sinking into bankruptcy. It is hardly necessary to cite details of the thousands of shops, banks and commercial houses that are closing their doors, the deterioration and financial collapse of railroads, factories, steamship companies, etc. The situation was summed up by Mr. H. H. Kung, Minister of Commerce in the Nanking Government, on April 23, when he said:

"China today is actually facing a crisis which for the lack of a more appropriate name might be called economic suicide."

Mr. Kung issued a long document which he called a program to meet this crisis. It is impossible to find anything beyond vague generalities in this "program," except on two points; first, it pledges to do nothing without the concent of the bankers and merchants, and second, it relies entirely upon foreign (that is, imperialist) technicians and capital. In short, it is a complete confession of bankruptcy by the Kuomintang on all economic problems. They acknowledge their utter inability to move a single step except by consent and with the support of the imperialist powers. (To Be Continued)

China Workers Have No Illusions About "Democracy"

By SCOTT NEARING

Chinese workers have two great advantages over their Western fellows in the struggle that they are waging for emancipation. First—the Chinese bosses have no central economic or political organization. Second—the Chinese workers have no illusions about political democracy.

Business and professional interests in Western Europe, Australia and North America have been welded together through generations of struggle. They have built great trusts. They have concentrated industrial control in the big banks. They dominate the machinery of government. They hold in their hands the newspapers; the radio; the movies, the schools and universities. A web of power has been woven across every important source of exploitation, deception, misdirection.

Western business has co-ordinated itself. Western business men have learned that strength comes through unity.

Chinese business men have never learned the lesson of solidarity; have never built a united front beyond the boundaries of an individual city or of an individual province. Their old business structure did not allow of such a development. The new business system. that has grown up around the Chinese treaty ports, is barely 30 years old.

Since Chinese business interests possessed no central organization, they failed after the Revolution of 1911 to establish a modern type democratic state. Instead China drifted into a period of civil war that has continued to the present day,—a civil war that has called into existence armies totalling somewhere from two to two and a half million soldiers, a civil war that has devastated great sections of China and reduced millions of Chinese farmers and workers to starvation.

Nine-tenths of the Chinese farmers and two-thirds of the wage workers cannot read and write. Most of them have no access to movie or radio. Only a few of their children go to school. There is no state church in China. China has no general system of organized athletics or horse racing. Literally no mass means exists for poisoning the minds of the Chinese workers with daily appeals. They only know banditry; of war; of hunger; of appalling working and living conditions. The Chinese masses suffer from exploitation and oppression as severe as anything Western society can imagine. But the Chinese business class is impotent to tell them that through the development of political democracy lies salvation.

Hence Chinese workers are resorting to direct action.

Capitalist papers constantly describe the Chinese masses as "Communist." They are not Communist. They have no Communist theory. Their experience does not extend beyond the limited communal life of the Chinese village. Until a few years ago they have been quite unaware of the existence of a proletarian movement or of a labor struggle. They do feel economic pressure, however, and their traditions tell them explicitly that when living conditions become unbearable revolution is not only the right, but the duty of the masses.

Western exploiters are united and equipped with a system of loud speakers that reach the ears of the entire working class. Chinese exploiters are divided; they have no incantations or diversions that will meet the insistent demand of he working masses. Hence the insistence of the Chinese revolution. Hence the probability that the Chinese masses will continue their struggle until they have crushed the fragmentary Chinese capitalist society and through practical experiment and experience laid the foundations of a Communist state.

HANdOuTS

GROWTH of the class struggle in the church with anarchistic tendencies is indicated by the announcement that the rank and file preacher, J. H. Woodward of New Brunswick, Georgia, has just completed shooting and seriously wounding one of the leaders of the industry, Bishop William A. Guerry of the South Carolina Diocese of the Protestant Episcopal Church.

Our competitor who conducts the humorous column on the New Leader, the Rev. Norman Thomas, leads his most recent effort with a paragraph so funny it deserves being reprinted. His defense of presidential integrity should be as amusing to J. P. Morgan as his own naivete is to class-conscious workers. The excerpt follows:

"Seventy-five per cent of what President Coolidge had to say in condemnation of the McNary-Haugen bill. . .sounds like amazing hypocrisy . . .Yet the president is not consciously hypocritical. . .Subsidies and special favors to business men do not look to him like subsidies and he is not aware that he has provided sharp arguments against his own closest political friends and supporters."

The Times: A mob of Nicaraguan bandits, bent on looting the homes of American citizens, were fired on by marines. Several of the bandits were killed.

A Modern Fable.

EDWARD M. FULLER and W. Frank McGee were two fine lads, full of pep and ambition, who decided they could best serve their fellow-men in the brokerage business. The two boys worked hard and soon found their business was one of the most respected in Wall Street, where the great thinkers of the country congregate. But jealous enemies discovered that, in the course of serving their fellow-men, Edward M. and W. Frank had piled away about $4,000,000 of their fellow-men's surplus cash all in neat piles that nobody could find. This was in the year 1922.

After three juries had refused to say that Edward M. had done a bad deed a jury finally decided that Edward M. and W. Frank had done a very bad deed indeed and so they were sent on a vacation of from 15 months to four years at a rest-home called Sing Sing. But because both Edward M. and W. Frank had been so devoted to their fellow-men and their services could not be spared any longer, they had to end their vacation after being away only one year.

The first words of W. Frank, who had been chafing so all the time of his vacation, were: "Well, I've been here 12 long months. Now to get down to business once more."

G[illegible]EEN CALLS OFF NATION-WIDE PULLMAN STRIKE

New [illegible]edford Textile Striker Is Given Jail Sentence for Calling, "Scab"

JUDGES OF MILL BARONS JAIL PICKET LEADERS

Police Trying to Halt Fall River Meeting

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., June 7.—Another sentence of thirty days in jail has been imposed upon Alfred Texeria, a picket leader of the Textile Mills Committee, for "disturbing the peace" by calling "scab." Joseph Darosa, a striker arrested at the same time, was fined $20 on a similar charge by Judge Milliken. Both workers were picketing the Hathaway Mills where a handful of straw bosses [illegible] attempting to put out a sample [illegible]er.

As week by week goes by without the slightest sign of a break in the ranks of the 28,000 textile workers on strike here—becoming more solidified, on the contrary, by the Textile Mills Committee work in conducting picket lines,—the city government becomes more vicious in its attempt to crush the influence of the T. M. C. The six months, three months, and 30-day jail sentences imposed upon the leading members of the T. M. C. show that the mill barons' real fear is the growing power of this organization, strikers here declare.

All the jail sentences thus far imposed have been appealed by the International Labor Defense, who placed its resources at the disposal of the strikers, who immediately returned to the picket lines upon their release.

LEWIS GANG MAY AID CAPPELINI

Some Believe Move Is Trick Maneuver

(Special To The DAILY WORKER.)

INDIANAPOLIS, June 7.—The special convention recently held by members of District No. 1 of the United Mine Workers at Scranton, Pa., which ousted the Cappelini district officers, was illegal and its actions and charges therefore have no standing, John L. Lewis, international president of the United Mine Workers of America decided here this afternoon.

These officers, headed by District President Rinaldo Cappelini came here to lay their "cases" before Lewis. After conferring with the ousted district officers Lewis this afternoon issued the following statement:

Gang Speaks of "Legality."

"The International officers of the United Mine Workers of America have carefully gone over the situation in District No. 1 with the executive board of the district. It is clear that the convention recently held in Scranton was not legally called in conformity with the rules of the United Mine Workers and in consequence its actions and charges have no standing.

NEED MORE FUNDS TO SAVE DAILY WORKER

Estimate Contributions Will Be $1,800 Short of Minimum Needed Tomorrow

To All Friends of The DAILY WORKER.

Comrades:

Yesterday we told you that the hope of keeping our revolutionary daily paper alive depends absolutely upon our receiving a total of $10,000 before Saturday, June 16, and that at least $5,000 of this must be had not later than TOMORROW—Saturday, June 9.

We said that the rate at which the money was coming in would have to be doubled. It has been increased, but it has not been doubled. We are in danger of falling short by about $1,800 of the minimum amount required tomorrow.

Tomorrow will be the last day for meeting the first obligations amounting to $5,000. Although many friends and comrades have loyally come forward with contributions, there is a dangerous gap between the amount we have received and the $5,000 which we must have tomorrow at noon. We are compelled to let you know that with all the fine response that many comrades have made, the contributions do not yet sufficiently guarantee the passing of this first danger point. Can you not make a special effort to get every possible dollar into this office—quickly—before 12 o'clock Saturday, tomorrow?

You must make it possible for us to meet the ultimatum of creditors. Because of the urgency of the need we request every comrade, friend and sympathizer to rush funds by telegraph, airmail or special delivery.

Address DAILY WORKER, 33 First Street, New York.

Again we assure you that we will make any sacrifice to keep our revolutionary paper, the only daily Communist paper in the English language in the whole world, from going out of existence. We can do it if you will help us. But you, comrades, must do your part as never before.

—THE MANAGEMENT COMMITTEE.

Poisoned on Radium Job

The United States Radium Corporation recently hustled out of court suits of five New Jersey young women who are slowly dying of radium poisoning contracted on the job. Fearing exposure of the deadly conditions existing in their plants, the corporation settled with the young workers. Mrs. Marian C. Valese (above) has just discovered infection in her gums and doctors corroborate her claim that it resulted from her six months' work in the radium factory. She is planning immediate suit.

INSTRUCTED DON PLOTTER TO SPY

Czarist Mine Owners Gave Orders

MOSCOW, June 7.—The accused engineer Kusma worked the dilapidated Pastushka mine because the former mine owners instructed him to do so, while leaving the profitable Berestovka mine idle, according to evidence brought out at the trial of the Donetz plotters here yesterday.

Further evidence revealed that Kusma had dismantled valuable machinery in the Berestovka mine, and in a number of others under his direction.

Kusma is one of the engineers who imported expensive machines from Germany in order to drain the appropriation funds. The imported machines were absolutely useless in the mines.

WAR DANGER IN BALTIC DISPUTE

GENEVA, June 7.—The recent proclamation by the Lithuanian government which declared Vilna to be the capital of Lithuania aroused caustic comment from Austen Chamberlain, British secretary of foreign affairs, yesterday. The British government has consistently supported Poland in its dispute with Lithuania.

The bitter denunciation of Lithuania's new move indicates the extreme danger of the Baltic situation. The Soviet press recently pointed out the danger of war lurking in the situation.

REPUBLICAN GANG TO HOLD SWAY AT G.O.P. CONVENTION

"Grand Oil Party" Is Ready for Spoils

(Special To The DAILY WORKER.)

KANSAS CITY, June 7.—While scores of labor officials in the industrial centers of the United States were planning to turn over as many labor votes as possible to the republicans in return for money or favor, Andrew T. Mellon, William M. Butler, Herbert Hoover and President Coolidge loomed more conspicuous and sinister today as the big four of the G. O. P.—the "Grand Oil Party."

These four men are doing most of the large-scale practical work of organizing for the convention so as to guarantee control over nominations and the republican platform to the open shop industrial and financial interests which now dominate the government and its foreign and domestic policies. SMITH AIDS GOT FAT CONTRACTS

Interpretation of Tammany "Good Will"

Corporations controlled by William H. Todd and William F. Kenny, two of the "good will" contributors to the campaign of Gov. Al Smith for the democratic nomination for president, have profited to the extent of hundreds of thousands of dollars from New York City contracts alone in the last few years.

This fact was disclosed before the senate campaign funds committee late yesterday, dispatches from Washington said.

Albert Goldman, city commissioner of plant and structures, said that of a total of $12,522,102 contracts let by his department, Todd had been awarded $2,290,926. Testimony showed that Kenny received $40,511 in contracts on the New York traffic control system and $224,537 in fire department contracts. In fire department contracts the Todd Dry Dock Corp. got $293,559. The senate was told also that Kenny had a monopoly on all gasoline tank wagons sold to the city.

Kenny has given $50,000 to Smith's campaign thus far.

SHANGHAI, June 7.—Reports of outbreaks of thousands of soldiers in Shantung and the evacuated parts of Chihli province are giving rise to the belief that the forces of the Kuomintang generals may not be able to retain the territory which its success against the northern war-lord has opened to its armies. WORKERS MUST SPEED FUNDS TO SAVE 'DAILY'

A total of $576.60 was contributed yesterday to save The DAILY WORKER from suspending publication. This brings the total received thus far to $1,759.44. While yesterday's contributions were the highest that have been received for any single day, they were far below the rate at which they should have come in in order to raise the $5,000 that is needed by tomorrow.

More than $3,000 must be raised before tomorrow evening to keep The DAILY WORKER from going under.

Workers, redouble your efforts! Make every possible personal sacrifice; solicit your friends, shopmates, organizations, trade unions! Save The DAILY WORKER!

Contributions received yesterday were as follows:

BRITISH DYERS DEMAND STRIKE

LONDON, June 7.—A general sell-out by the union leadership is foreshadowed by the decisions of the council of six trade unions involved in the dyeing trades dispute, according to reports from Manchester. The council was called to consider the threat of the mill owners to lock out all the workers if the unions call a strike in any of the mills.

Every effort has been made by the union officials to keep the minutes of the meetings secret, but rumors that the leaders have decided to have the unions act separately are gaining credence.

The rank and file of the workers, especially in the Huddersfield section and in the Lancashire Yarn Finishing Works are demanding a strike.

COMMUNISTS IN ELECTION FIGHTS

Many States Begin An Active Campaign

Active preparations for the launching of the Workers (Communist) Party election campaign are now taking place in a score of states throughout the country according to information released yesterday at the national headquarters of the Party.

In addition field organizers from the national headquarters will be sent out into a number of states where special work is necessary.

Ella Reeve Bloor, veteran campaigner and Party worker, center of a hundred struggles in behalf of the workers of the country, will be sent out on a national tour very shortly, it is understood. "Mother" Bloor is a charter member of the Workers (Communist) Party.

Other States.

Field organizers will be sent into Maine and New Hampshire and one into Montana. In Milwaukee the Wisconsin campaign will be officially launched with a large labor picnic. A large attendance is expected. A representative of the national campaign committee will be present from Chicago.

A hot preliminary battle is now taking place in Oklahoma under the leadership of Senator Stanley Clark where the fight centers around the task of getting the Party on the ballot. The close division of forces between the republican and democratic machines in this state makes both old groups particularly opposed to the entrance of a working class political party in the race.

The New York state nominating convention which opens Sunday at the Workers Center, 26-28 Union Square is expected to usher in one of the most representative and active forces in the struggle of the Party to win over the American working class.

The opening and developments at Kansas City, scene of the republican national election convention June 12 will be watched with the greatest attention and the greatest advantage wil be taken of the evidences displayed by this as well as by the democratic party of their betrayal of the interests of the workers.

He is survived by a wife and child.

SENDS LAST $2 TO SAVE DAILY WORKER

Workers Rally to Paper Despite Unemployment and Poverty

HE WAS sick and hadn't been working for some time. Even when he did work, the wages he got were hardly enough to keep him from starving. The mills at Fall River, Mass., where he lived, give their slaves only what they must to keep them alive.

A copy of The DAILY WORKER stared him in the face. Quick help was needed. The "Daily" was on the verge of suspension. Unless $5,000 was raised by the workers of the country by Saturday, there would be no more DAILY WORKER.

There was $2 in his pocket—the only money he had. But The DAILY WORKER must be saved. He sat down, wrote a letter and enclosed the $2. The letter he wrote was as follows:

"Dear Comrades:

"I'm enclosing you $2 to help support The DAILY WORKER in its crisis. These $2 are the only money I have. I only get small wages, but now I don't work because I'm sick. But I won't forget The DAILY WORKER. If every worker would do the same, our paper would be the strongest revolutionary paper of the world."

The name of the worker who gave his last $2 to save The DAILY WORKER is F. A. Graca. His letter is typical of many others that The DAILY WORKER has received during the past few days from workers who are making extraordinary sacrifices to save the only news-

ADDS ONE MORE TO LONG LIST OF LABOR BETRAYALS

Porters' Officials Share In Sell-Out

The strike of the 12,000 Pullman porters and maids scheduled to take place at noon today has been called off through the request of William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, according to announcement of A. Philip Randolph, general organizer of the porters' organization.

Randolph today made public a copy of a telegram which he said he yesterday received, from Green requesting the "postponement of strike action and the substitution therefore of a campaign of public education and enlightment."

Branded in some quarters as a long prepared for sell-out by the officials of the porters' organization, in conjunction with the A. F. of L. labor officials, the present move postponing the strike was declared to be not unexpected. Even the wording of the telegram, it is understood, was prepared in New York by the local officers and was either transmitted to Green or was never sent by him at all.

Rank and file pressure had forced the decision to call the walk-out which has been delayed on several occasions. By a vote of approximately 5,750 to 25 the porters and maids authorized their executive board to call the strike. The order for the walkout was sent to all of the locals of the organization this week.

Hold Union Meetings.

Thirty-seven union meetings held in every important railroad center in the country heard the results of the strike vote and vowed fight to the end in their struggle against the Pullman kings. Years of merciless exploitation have laid the basis for what is expected to be a militant fight on the part of the strikers.

Fight on Union.

Recognition of the union is the fundamental demand of the workers. They also seek a minimum wage of $150 a month, the elimination of the workers' dependence on tips, the eight-hour day and the 240-hour month.

"We are being pushed into the strike by the pressure of the rank and file," said Milton Webster, western organizer, on the eve of the strike. "Naturally the brotherhood would prefer to achieve its aims without a strike but the members are tired of waiting and tired of fruitless diplomacy. Strike sentiment is particularly strong in Chicago, Oakland, Los Angeles, Portland and Seattle."

SELL OUT SEATTLE TEACHERS UNION

Green Approves Giving Up of Fight

SEATTLE, Wash., June 7.—After a long fight the local high school teachers have been defeated in their attempt to keep their organization. Attacked consistently by business interests, the teachers have voted to withdraw from the American Federation of Teachers.

At the same time they were forced to accept a contract renouncing their right to belong to a union while teaching in the Seattle schools. Demands for an increase in pay were also lost by the teachers.

Pressure against the union was exerted by anti-union city authorities. E. E. Schwartzrauber, national vice-president of the American Federation of Teachers and William Green, president of the A. F. of L., ran true to form in their approval of the surrender. The local union officials, whose tactics throughout the struggle were subservient, recommended the agreement and then resigned their union posts.

Children Under-Fed

PITTSBURGH, June 7.—One out of every three children in the western Pennsylvania strike area is undernourished, if a group of 685 youngsters in six school buildings are typical. Two hundred thirty-three of these children were found underweight and 80 on the danger line.

REVEAL HORRORS OF SLAVERY IN IMPERIALIST TIMBER CAMPS IN SOUTH AMERICA, SUMATRA

RIO DE JANEIRO, June 7.—Recalling the horrors of the treatment of native workers in the rubber forests of the Amazon by their British employers, as Sir Roger Casement in the days before the world war disclosed them by his investigations, a report on conditions in timber-cutting camps in Brazil, Argentina and Dutch Sumatra has come into circulation.

American capitalists are investing in timber projects in South America or the Dutch East Indies.

In Sumatra it is rich Chinese who exploit their own countrymen, virtually all of whom die in the camps, since they are enslaved to pretended debts and can escape only to the jungle which is guarded by tigers and huge serpents. In Argentina it is the Creole capitalists, with the aid of British capital, who wield the lash on the Indian toilers. In Brazil the slavery is maintained by international capital, administered by men of many nations, and its victims are likewise drawn by brazenly false stories of opportunity from their homes in a dozen countries.

The much-discussed plan for a Pan-American railway, to connect New York with Buenos Aires, 10,000 miles of new construction down the backbone of two continents, is really designed to open up the tropical forests, oil and rubber to quick exploitation.

"Lack of drinking water, of medical attention and decent housing even according to local standards is the first indictment of conditions in the Argentine lumber camps. Over 70 per cent of these people are illiterate, marriage is virtually unknown, and workers die usually before the age of 45, due to ceaseless toil and diseases arising from conditions of work. Government is corrupt and employers cheat the workers of a large part of their pay. When an "election" is held, the workers are taken in cattle-cars to the polls and are handed ballots marked for the government candidates, who are backed by the timber companies in return for protection. The last trade union organizer to appear was promptly sent to prison for 25 years on a false charge of murder.

Conditions in Brazil differ from those in Argentina by being worse. Here 85 per cent are illiterate, and the government spends big sums in inducing foreign workers to come in, only to leave them unemployed until they sink to the depths of degradation found in the timber camps. Labor unions have been stamped out by soldiery and police with violence.

New Bedford City Government Is Dominated by Butler, Republican Head

MAYOR ASHLEY IS PAID BY TEXTILE FACTORY OWNERS

Voice Raised Against Scabs Means Jail

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., June 7 (FP).—Strikers must not sing on New Bedford's picket lines. Bluecoats have been given orders to "run in" singing and shouting pickets. From Police Chief Sam McLeod, newly appointed, also came orders to arrest the milkman who was serving the relief stations of the Textile Mills Committee. Patrolmen carry out orders from higher-ups to jail cousins, friends and former schoolmates. Who inspires these orders?

A. M. Donahue, former labor spy, throws light on the ruling forces in New Bedford in a recorded interview in 1924 with Fred Moore, then chief counsel for Sacco and Vanzetti. Donahue from 1919 to 1922 was in charge of a Sherman Service crew of 25 with orders to break the unions, deport radicals, corrupt union leaders and demoralize resistance of 35,000 workers to wage cuts in the textile mills.

Butler Controlled Fund.

William B. Butler, chairman of the republican national committee, was Donahue's boss. Butler supervised expenditure of $250,000 a year, detailing each move. Butler even wanted Donahue, expert strikebreaker, to be chief of police in New Bedford.

"I believe you mention that you were offered the position of chief of police by Butler, Kerwin and Exter (other mill owners)," asked Moore. "Was there any conversation with Butler about it?"

"It was stated by Kerwin," Spy Donahue answered, "that any obstacles to my taking the position could be overcome because Butler would have a special law passed in the Massachusetts legislature authorizing the city to have a safety commissioner."

Ashley Still Mayor.

Q. You had a conversation with Dexter and Kerwin about this job?

A. Yes. They said Mayor Ashley (still New Bedford's mayor) would give me the position if he were told so. That they wanted a man holding that position that they could depend on. What they meant by "depend on" was that he would do what he was told to do. During the several strikes—three in all—there was picketing, and the police were very active in suppressing picketing. They wouldn't allow any picketing at all and in several instances they beat up strikers.

Had So Many Men.

Q. Did you at any time come in contact with police officials?

A. I was investigated when I came there because I had so many men scattered around town and they all said they were employed by me. Two inspectors came to my office and asked me what my game was, and what the men were supposed to be doing, and as soon as they went away I got in touch with Dexter and I was never bothered any more.

Q. How much salary did Dexter offer you as chief of police?

A. $3,500 a year, and I refused to accept it at that figure because I was getting more where I was. He said that they would see to it that I would lose nothing by it. By "they" was meant the Manufacturers' Assn.

The Mayor Knew.

Q. Did you come in contact with Mayor Ashley? A. Yes.

Q. He knew what you were doing?

A. Yes. He is president of the Textile Bank now.

Q. You stated something about a conversation with Dexter of the Beacon Mills in which he made a statement to you relative to a gift made to Mayor Ashley by the mill men. What was said?

A. It was said that the salary as mayor wasn't sufficient to allow Ashley to continue as mayor because his private interests were suffering and he was losing money by continuing as mayor.

Ashley Gets $20,000 Check.

Dexter told me that the mill men the previous year had induced Ashley again to become a candidate, promising that they would make up to him any monetary loss and at a banquet that the mill men had tendered him at the Wamsutta Club, they had presented Ashley with a $20,000 check.

Q. Do you understand that that was done publicly or privately?

A. Privately. It was a very exclusive club where it was held. Nobody but mill men belonged to it.

Victim of Phone Co.

When 5-year-old Thomas Miranda (above) reaches the age of 12 he will become totally blind, deaf and dumb, and his mind will be shattered. This was the testimony yesterday of doctors in Brooklyn supreme court. The boy was run down by a car of the New York Telephone Company two years ago. His father is suing the corporation.

Texas Feller Mistakes Toad for Coolidge

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 7.—Reports that Col. Charles Lindbergh's recent flight to Texas had deep political implications are being whispered in every blind-pig on Pennsylvania Avenue today.

It is the "gentlemen" from Texas who tell the story. It all began, they say, when these two Texans dug up that horned toad which had lived without air and water inside a corner-stone for about twenty years.

"The little horned feller was a public curiosity," says the senior "gentlemen" with a drawl, "an' so they brought it up hea' to see its president, Calvin Coolidge."

"They took it up to the White House and went inside and there was Coolidge. So the feller with the toad just put his hand in his pocket and brought out the toad and the president and the toad just stood and looked at each other. Neither of 'em said a word. So after a while the Texas feller just put it back in his pocket and went back home.

"An' do—you know," asks the gentlemen, "they'd got all the way to Houston before he put his hand in his pocket again and pulled out Calvin Coolidge."

paper in the English language that fights for their interests.

JOSEPH LOMBARDT, a worker of Easton, Pa., writes as follows:

"Enclosed please find check for $2. I can't afford to send any more because I work only three days a week and make only $12 a week. I don't make enough to support my family.

"I just got my citizen papers and can vote this year for the Workers' Party to help the workingclass."

The Save-the-Union Committee of Bicknell, Ill., has sent $5 with the following letter:

"This small donation is sent by the Save-the-Union Committee of Bicknell to help get the best paper in America out of the bad financial condition it is in. There is no work here or the donation would have been larger."

"I am very sick and just home from the hospital," writes K. Wynne, of Chicago. "I will not be able to work for many months. Enclosed you will find $1 which I must spare to save The DAILY WORKER."

These letters are only a few that have been received. Space limitations do not permit the publication of all that we should wish to print. Workers, keep up this spirit. No sacrifice is too great to save your fighting Daily.

Boston Labor Refuses To Help Red Cross

BOSTON, June 7.—Red Crossers won't get the Boston Central Labor Union's endorsement in their next drive for money from workers' pockets. The union approved unanimously the Kansas Federation of Labor resolution denouncing the Red Cross for its refusal to help thousands of striking coal miners' families, half starving in Pennsylvania and Ohio.

LEWIS MACHINE THREATENS MINE STRIKER'S WIFE

Pay Thugs $100 Per Day to Slug Militants

(By a Worker Correspondent)

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., (By Mail).—In a statement issued by the Peabody Coal Co. in the Illinois State Register of May 28, the company proposed wage cuts. They say that they have opened seven mines out of their 21 mines.

The mines are only working one and two days a week, and the men say that conditions are worse than ever before. The boss tells them to lay their track and clean falls for nothing or go home.

The company is now sending out notices of expulsions to all of the militant fighters. Lewis says we have 300,000 too many miners and he is taking means to decrease them.

Now I am only a rank and file miner and have never written a story before, but as I am now sub-district secretary of the Save-the-Union movement here, I feel it is my duty to let the working class know the difficulties that the miners are working under. And I will continue to write stories to The DAILY WORKER as long as the news comes in.

We are hold a sub-district convention on June 17 in Springfield, right under the nose of the district machine and we expect some trouble. I will write you about what takes place there.

Please send me a bundle of DAILY WORKERS for the striking miners of this section and I will try to sell all I can.

—R.

Chinese Militants Here Expose Kuomintang Murderers At Demonstration

OLD GANG SWAYS G.O.P. CONVENTION

"Grand Oil Party" Is Ready for Spoils

New Bedford strikers, is chairman of the republican national committee. Hoover, secretary of commerce and candidate for the republican nomination, has thus far controlled the voting strength of the national committee in the pre-convention contests over the seating of delegates.

Boss Mellon.

Mellon, secretary of the treasury, is the industrial and political boss of Pennsylvania. He controls its large delegation to the convention and can swing it to any candidate at a moment's notice. He has just completed forcing upon a subservient congress an appropriation and taxation program more to the advantage of Wall Street and the heavy industrialists than the program of any previous peace-time congress. President Coolidge, who himself is still a possible nominee, is continuing to pursue his non-committal policy as to his availability so as to hold in reserve for an emergency the important political prestige of his position as White House incumbent. In an emergency on a close ballot his word would carry the convention.

As a further indication of Hoover's strength as a machine republican, Sen. William E. Borah, chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, was today reported chosen to second Hoover's nomination next week. Idaho's eleven votes are pledged to Borah. Moreover, Sen. George H. Moses of New Hampshire, the first senator openly to espouse Hoover's candidacy, is being touted for permanent chairman of the convention.

Hoover's managers, through control of the national committee, have won 65 out of 71 of the contests over the seating of delegates, which ended today.

Gang Will Control.

Whether Hoover is ultimately nominated, it appears that the Mellon-Hoover-Coolidge-Butler combination will in any event control the naming of the next presidential nominee of the anti-labor party of imperialism now in power—the party which is using the marine corps as a private police force in Nicaragua to shoot down the worker-opposition to Wall Street dictatorship in Latin America. This combination appears to have the largest campaign chest.

Gov. Alvan T. Fuller, of Massachusetts, who represented that state in the organization of the frame-up which ended in the execution of Sacco and Vanzetti, is conspicuous among possibilities for republican nomination for vice-president.

Willard Mack Has Three New Plays Ready for Next Season

WILLARD MACK, who recently left these parts after appearing in "The Scarlet Fox," which he had authored, is planning to present three other plays early the coming season. One of these, titled "Bad Debts," goes into rehearsal soon. It will be done by the Shuberts. Another play written by Mack and his wife, Beatrice Bauyard, "Fancy Work," will be brought out by John Nicholas, while the third, "We All Steal Something," is promised by David Belasco for early production.

"The Scarlet Fox," which was shown at the Masque a few weeks ago, will go on tour in September, reopening in Washington about Labor Day. Mack may continue in the role of Sergeant Devlin. London, we hear, may also see the play the coming season.

"A Man with Red Hair," a melodrama, was given its first presentation last night at the Springdale Theatre, Stamford, Conn. under the supervision of A. H. Woods. This is the dramatization of Hugh Walpole's novel, by Benn W. Levy, which was produced originally at the Little Theatre, London, early this season. After a short tour the play goes on to Chicago for a run.

"My Maryland" following a run of 38 weeks closes its engagement at the Casino Theatre this Saturday night. The operetta has been booked for Chicago this Fall.

"Coquette," in which Helen Hayes is starring at Maxine Elliott's Theatre, plays its 250th performance tonight.

The local and national leaders of the Textile Mills Committee have been working several weeks here, and have already succeeded in developing a powerful movement for a general strike. The tens of thousands of textile workers in Fall River were compelled to suffer a 10 per cent wage slash a number of months ago. The officials of the Textile Council had at that time declared the result of a strike vote to be 11 votes short of a two-thirds majority, and refused a recount despite the almost unanimous demand for it.

BOSSES REFUSE TO RECOGNIZE DENTAL UNION

But 43 Owners Come to Terms Individually

At a meeting held yesterday at the Labor Temple, 2nd Ave. and 14th St., the dental workers, who have been out on strike over three weeks, decided to adopt a policy of individual settlement with the different laboratory owners who are willing to recognize their union and yield to their demands. This move was made after the Dental Owners' Association had repeatedly stated that recognition on its part of the Dental Mechanics' Union was "impossible."

Thus far, 43 laboratory owners have settled with the union, signing agreements whereby they recognize the union, guarantee the installation of the closed shop, a 44-hour week, time and one-half pay for all overtime work, and double pay for work on holidays. They have also accepted the union's demands for a minimum scale of wages, which means a general increase in the standard of pay. Those who accepted the demands of the striking dental mechanics include bosses outside of the Dental Manufacturers' Association as well as within it.

The meeting of the bosses' association last Saturday for the purpose of "considering" the strikers' demands ended in a complete fizzle when the association decided to grant every demand except recognition of the Dental Workers' Union.

Centralia Victims Hail Labor Defense Drive to Free Them from Prison Cells

WORKERS THRUOUT U. S. NOW DEMAND THEIR RELEASE

Bland, Barnett Sad At Haywood Death

TWO letters received recently by the International Labor Defense from the Centralia class war prisoners imprisoned in Walla Walla penitentiary, express the indomitable spirit of those brave fighters and their hope that the workers of the United States will rally to win freedom for them.

Both letters are addressed to James P. Cannon, secretary of the I. L. D., who visited the Centralia prisoners on his recent coast to coast tour with a lecture against the frame-up system in the United States.

One is signed by two brothers, O. C. Bland and Bert Bland, the other by Eugene Barnett.

Grateful For I. L. D. Aid.

The Bland brothers write:

Comrades, one and all: As well as acknowledging receipt of the check for prison relief which always comes handy for the many little articles not furnished by the state we wish to extend our thanks and appreciation to the members of the I. L. D. for their efforts in the campaign to free the Centralia victims.

James P., you came at the right time, a time when we need the aid of your organization most and we are not forgetting it. We have been crossed and double-crossed so much that we have become a little discouraged tho our spirits have always been brightened by the courage and indomitable fighting persistency of one who has constantly fought our fight thru the eight and one-half years of our incarceration in prison.

Tho he has been greatly hampered all those years by lack of cooperation he has never ceased his efforts for our release and we must revere and respect that man above all else in the world. We are speaking of Elmer Stuart Smith.

Last week we received a letter from him in which he said he was receiving splendid cooperation from the I. L. D., which also has a Centralia committee in Seattle. You may wager your last penny that it did our hearts good to know this. We welcome the I. L. D. to our aid because from observation we have found that this organization is broad enough to leave out all pettyness and large enough to accomplish its aims.

We expect great things to come from such an organization and in fact we are now a bit optimistic of gaining our freedom because of its fight in our behalf. These eight and one-half years haven't been short ones to us, locked away for a crime which was committed against us. Already we have seen the fine work done by the Seattle local of the I. L. D. Thru this action and others we are promised that our case will be reviewed by the board of parole which will meet next month. But we don't put much faith in such as yet for we have been viewed and reviewed by them before. So we ask your united strength on this humanitarian issue to release the victims who are guilty only of organizing to better the conditions of the workingclass. We are yours for a united front.—O. C. Bland. Bert Bland.

Barnett Writes.

Eugene Barnett, whose number in Walla Walla is 9414, writes:

Well, Jim, I suppose you are aware of the success of the Centralia Publicity Committee in its canvass of Centralia with the petition for our release. Out of the 3,000 voters in the town 2,200 signed the petition.

I was very sorry to hear of the death of Comrade Haywood. The time will come when the American people will be ashamed of the way they persecuted him and forced him to die in exile. 'Tis men like him that keep the spark of hope alive in the breasts of the workers.

Yours Fraternally,
—EUGENE BARNETT.

Labor bodies of all kinds thruout the United States are now passing resolutions urging the governor of the state of Washington to grant an unconditional pardon to those victims of the Washington lumber barons. They have already served eight and one-half years of terms ranging from twenty to forty years. They must not be allowed to languish in prison any longer.

Every worker must demand their release at once.

Mother Collapses After Seeking Job in Vain

Mrs. Jennie Codyn, a widow, collapsed yesterday after tramping the streets all day vainly searching for work. Neighbors took a collection and bought some food for the family. The hard-boiled cops are shown putting on a performance in an effort to embellish the myth about the kindliness and generosity of the "city's finest."

GOMEZ NAILS LIES OF IMPERIALISTS

Misstatements on Aid to Sandino Answered

Replying to statements reported to have been made by U. S. Minister to Nicaragua Eberhardt, and General Logan Feland, commander of U. S. marines in Nicaragua, to the effect that first aid equipment being sent to the Sandino forces by American workers, Manuel Gomez, secretary of the All-American Anti-Imperialist League yesterday issued the following statement:

"The story appearing in this morning's New York Times under a Managua date line is merely another indication that the United States' government and its representatives wish to do everything possible to prevent even first aid equipment from reaching the Nicaraguan liberation forces under General Sandino. Like the insinuation of Senator Gillet made a few weeks ago, the present insinuations produce no proof. When Senator Gillet made his statement, we challenged him to prove what he said—whereupon the worthy senator relapsed into silence. We give the same challenge now.

"The All-American Anti-Imperialist League (U. S. Section) is cooperating in this country with the campaign being carried on in all countries of North Central and South America under the general auspices of the Hands-off-Nicaraguan committees to raise funds for bandages and medical supplies for Sandino's wounded. We are prepared to produce a receipt for shipment of medical supplies. This receipt is signed by Senor Froylan Turcios, personal representative of General Sandino.

"The purpose of such charges as those now emanating from the marine publicity department at Managua is to hinder our campaign to raise funds and thus prevent the sending of further supplies from this country."

Reorganization of Labor Defense in Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, June 7. — The Philadelphia local of the International Labor Defense, at its last monthly conference held on June 4, decided to reorganize the Kensington, English Downtown and Northwest branches. For that purpose, the following section meetings have been called. In Kensington on June 14, at Kensington Labor Lyceum. In South Philadelphia, June 18, at Workers' Cultural Club, 8th and Rittner Sts. In West Philadelphia June 18, at the Progressive Library, 4035 Girard Ave.

All meetings will begin 8 p. m. Members and sympathizers are asked to take notice and to appear in large numbers. Speakers will be announced later.

N. Y. WORKERS TO PROTEST AGAINST POLISH FASCISM

I. L. D. to Sponsor Mass Meeting

An appeal has been issued by the New York section of the International Labor Defense, 799 Broadway, calling for support of the meeting to be held Friday evening, June 15th, at Irving Plaza, 15th St. and Irving Place, to protest against the savage sentences imposed upon the members of the White Russian Hromada Party in Poland. The meeting is being arranged under the auspices of the Committee Against Polish Fascism.

The appeal, signed by Rose Baron, secretary of the New York section, follows:

"Polish fascism has condemned 37 members of the White Russian Hromada Party to a total of 209 years at hard labor and torture in Pilsudski's dungeons.

"The White Russian Hromada Party has fought against the Polish terror, against government in the name of a handful of rich capitalists and militarists at the price of the blood and sweat of the workers and peasants. It has fought for self-determination of the White Russian people, for land for the poor peasantry and for a workers' and peasants' government. It is for these crimes that its members have been persecuted and it is for these crimes that 37 of them are now being condemned to years of torture.

"The fight of the Hromada victims is the fight of the workers everywhere. The struggle against Polish fascism is the struggle against oppression of workers and peasants thruout the world. The sentencing of these brave fighters against Pilsudski's terror is a blow at the toiling masses of the world.

"The movement which has been started in this country by the Committee Against Polish Fascism" is a movement that concerns every worker of every trade and nationality. A great protest meeting has been called by this committee for June 15 at Irving Plaza. This meeting must be supported to the utmost by the workers of New York. The International Labor Defense, which fights to defend the victims of the class war in this country, calls upon all its members and all other class-conscious workers to protest against Polish fascism and express their solidarity with their persecuted comrades of the Hromada by attending this meeting en-masse."

Glossing Over the Slush Funds of the Campaign

In an effort to make clear sailing for the candidates of the two old capitalist parties, perfunctory "investigations" are being conducted into campaign funds. It has been repeatedly revealed that the candidate with the biggest slush fund wins, and that influential corporations contribute to both parties. Photo shows (left to right) Goeorge Gordon Battle, New York lawyer, who testified recently, and Senator Sam Bratton (D) of New Mexico, a member of one of the phoney senatorial investigations.

HARTFORD HOLDS LEAGUE AFFAIR

Delegates From Many Groups Present

HARTFORD, Conn., June 7.—Three hundred young and adult workers jammed the Labor Lyceum here at the sixth anniversary celebration of the founding of the Young Workers' (Communist) League. The hall, which had been prepared for a banquet, could hardly accommodate the number present.

The program consisted of choral recitals by the Laisve Chorus and the Freiheit Gesangs Verein, a violin trio, a boxing exhibition, and many other features. Jack Rosen, city organizer, spoke on the significance of the league anniversary.

The hall was placarded with slogans: "Free Bela Kun," "Vote Communist in 1928," "Defend the Soviet Union," and other posters. Delegates from a score of workers' organizations were present. The league orchestra supplied the music for dancing.

JAPAN'S SEAMEN STILL ON STRIKE WITH PORTS IDLE

General Harbor Walk-Out Believed Likely

YOKOHOMA, June 7.—The nation-wide strike of Japanese seamen is continuing with nearly 100,000 sailors idle on the waterfronts of every Japanese harbor of importance. Reports from a number of smaller ports in the north and east state that the men have struck there also.

The rapidity with which the strike spread from port to port thruout the islands has amazed even the leaders who declare that the strike sentiment among the sailors is unusually strong and that they are prepared to wage a determined struggle for their demands. The ship owners, taken almost completely by surprise, are suffering heavy losses as the ships lie helpless at anchor. The tie-up in Yokohoma, Osaka, Nagasaki and Kobe is complete.

Strong sympathy for the seamen is expressed among all classes of harbor workers and the probability of a general harbor strike is looming up.

The strike was called when the Japanese Shipowners' Association refused the Seamen's Union a small wage increase.

Kneeling to Reaction

Capitalist imperialism in its operations in the territory of a weaker nation invariably recruits every force of reaction, every anti-social force, every superstitious residue of the past that can be welded into an instrument of support for the conquest of its intended subjects. As England, in the conquest of India, busily fans to white heat both sides of religious fanaticism and carefully allies herself with the autocratic feudal princes—just so the United States in the present stage is occupied with re-fastening the chains of the past upon Mexico. Dwight W. Morrow, ambassador of J. P. Morgan & Co. and of the United States to Mexico, is now forcing upon the Mexican nation the handcuffs of the Catholic hierarchy which that country has learned to hate and fear.

The kneeling of Calles and Obregon before Morrow, the "cardinal" of the Wall Street vatican, has long been apparent. Now, at the command of Morrow, Calles and Obregon are kneeling before the smaller vatican of Rome. After some very obvious pressure from the Morgan partner in the United States embassy, Calles and Obregon sent an emissary to declare at a public festival that the Mexican revolution, which they say has been converted into their government,

> "is completely respectful of religious faiths. It is absolutely false that it pretends to uproot in the hearts of Mexicans the beliefs they have had for so many centuries. It is completely false that it wishes to obliterate the religion we inherited from our ancestors, least of all that it pretends to efface the adoration for the Virgin of Guadalupe, that divine image that nestles in the hearts of all good Mexicans and inspires them with infinite eagerness for betterment."

Only a few months ago the Mexican workers and peasants courageously crushed out in battle the bloody counter-revolution of the semi-feudal landlords conceived and led by the church hierarchy. Now Calles and Obregon are busy selling these same workers and peasants, through the broker Morrow, into the slavery to these same landlords and priests.

The Washington government knows that every power of superstition and the assistance of every petty privileged tyrant will be needed in the next years to help in the conquest of Mexico, the destruction of its national independence and its complete enslavement.

The Mexican workers and peasants must see through the honeyed "liberalism" of Calles and Obregon toward the landlord-and-priest reaction. Their "tolerance" for reaction goes hand in hand with an increasingly sharp depression of the conditions of the working class. The workers of Mexico must rally to support and to build up their revolutionary Communist Party of Mexico which alone can be trusted to guide the industrial and rural toilers in the long and sharp struggle to drive United States imperialism out of Mexico.

And the workers of the United States must become the staunchest allies of the revolutionary forces of Mexico in doing this. The Communist electoral campaign of 1928 in the United States has this as one of its objects.

Waiting for "Inexpensive" Seats for "Strange Interlude"

By SCOTT NEARING.

RECENTLY I waited in line for five minutes at the John Golden Theatre, on 58th St., near Broadway, New York City, to be told that if I wanted a "cheap" seat for Eugene O'Neill's Strange Interlude I could get it for the week of June 30th. "Expensive" seats were available after June 18th.

Scott Nearing

Cheap seats were $2.20. Expensive seats were $4.40 each.

On the day that I visited the theatre "Strange Interlude" was being performed for the 101st time. The play begins at 5:30 p. m. and runs for about 5 hours.

* * *

The book makes good reading. O'Neill has a quintangle—an attractive, highly strung, parasitic woman who surrounds herself with a "father," a "husband," a "lover" and a "son" upon whom she lives from Act 1 to Act 9.

* * *

It is significant that O'Neill has picked this setting for his drama. Professional and business men begin poor and end rich. Parasitic, neurotic women live on their men. The scene is far enough from the setting of The Hairy Ape or Desire Under the Elms. All of the leading characters in Strange Interlude, like all of the leading characters in the Saturday Evening Post, get rich. Act 9 is staged on the terrace of a millionaire's estate on Long Island.

But that does not explain why the bourgeois world pays $4.40, weeks in advance, to see the play.

The dialogue is clever, but not un[illegible]. The plot is so jerky and melodramatic that it produces a sensation much like the roller coaster. Many other plays in New York this winter have excelled in both dialogue and plot.

The Strange Interlude is the period in life when sex passion no longer drives and before senility has actually set in. The chief incidents of the play center around this period. Idle, dilletante, ineffective men and women whimper plaintively as they seek happiness. They do not find it, but in the last act the handsome, athletic young hero marries the beautiful, enthusiastic heroine. The "old man" dies in the nick of time, scattering millions in his will, and the couple flies off in an airplane to live happy ever afterward.

The drama presents a striking picture of bourgeois decadence in this American center of bourgeois strength.

1. Life is aimless, almost purposeless.

2. Sex provides the center of all interests.

3. As sex recedes, life recedes.

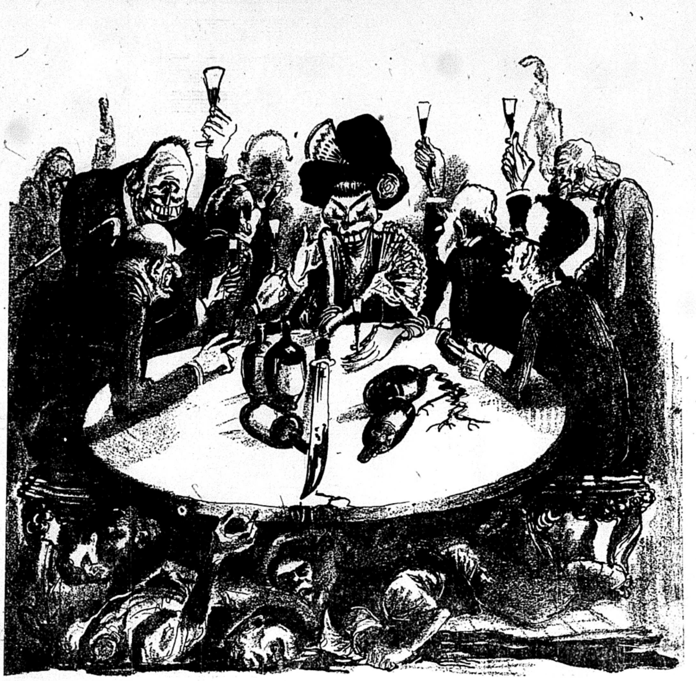
4. Hence, the mothers and grandmothers strive to perpetuate life by staying "young" or by acting "young"—still playing at the sex game after sex drive has lost its force.

Strange Interlude suggests some of the ways in which people who have no further excuse for living can strike a temporary bargain with pessimism and despair. Multitudes of ruling class Americans are fascinated by this play because it tantalizes their fancies with the possibility of these temporary bargains.

That is where O'Neill has played his $4.40 followers false. If he were fair to them, he would have his aviator, at the end of Act 9, writing across the sky: "First class funerals, the only hope!"

THE KUOMINTANG ENTERTAINS

By Fred Ellis



The Kuomintang, with its imperialist admirers, has been responsible for the death of hundreds of thousands of workers.

After the Fall of Peking---What?

This remarkable and timely article on the significance of the fall of Peking, written in advance of the event by Earl R. Browder, is concluded in this issue of The DAILY WORKER.—Editor.

By EARL BROWDER.

The Inner Political Developments.

The question arises, is the present demoralization of the Kuomintang simply a temporary crisis, resulting from the expulsion of the workers and peasants and their suppression, and will the bourgeoisie be able now to stabilize its rule and gradually bring orderly development along the classic lines of capitalism?

While it is impossible to answer this question with finality, there is much evidence to show that the answer must be no, that it is impossible for Chinese nationalism to develop on the model of the United States, Japan, or Turkey. Imperialism is too strong, and is pressed too hard by its inner necessity for expansion, for it to leave China opportunity to work out over a period of years a national bourgeois regime. And in addition to the pressure from outside of imperialism, China is also tormented internally with such a tangle of social and economic problems, that the bourgeoisie is already breaking down in its first attempts to seize supreme power in the land. It is unable to lay down the first foundations of civil order.

To establish this point, we will again turn for witnesses among those who have every interest to testify exactly contrary to what they are forced to state by the hard facts of their difficult situation. Such testimony, coming from the most hostile sources, carries tenfold weight.

Consider, for example, the report of General Ten Yin-wah, in charge of the military expedition against the peasant Soviets in the East River districts of Kwangtung (Swabue, Haifeng, Lufeng), which was printed in the Chinese newspaper Shunpao, Shanghai, April 4, 1928. Reporting on the results of his operation against the revolting peasants, General Teng declares to the Kwangtung Provincial Government that even successes in a military way are futile, and predicts that the peasant revolution will overwhelm the present government. Following are a few items, translated from his report:

> "In my campaign to suppress the Communist-bandits in Haifeng and Lufeng by your order, I feel from what I have seen all along the way, that there is a part of the Hailufeng people who accept the Communists' propaganda, believing in their vicious talk of burning land-deeds and rent books, destroying landmarks, refusing to pay taxes, debts, and rents, etc. They think this is of great benefit to them immediately and that plebianism can be realized. The general mass of ignorant people really have the tendency and desire to rebel."

General Teng then cites several historical examples, the fall of the Ching and Tsung dynasties, etc., to prove that when such a condition exists among the masses, "then the rebellion cannot be quelled." He declares that the Kuomintang is constantly becoming weaker, that the only remaining barrier against revolution among the masses is the ancient morality "which is moaning in its death-pangs." The teachings of the Kuomintang are practically unknown to the people, because "the Communist-bandits have created a false theory which has penetrated into the deeper mind." He describes the weakness of the Kuomintang in the following words:

> "The Communist-bandits are resolved to set up a series of local powers surrounding Canton, and there is such a possibility for them. I have fought in many places, but only in the city have I seen any virile organization of the Kuomintang, but never in the rural districts. Also I have never found any people who can understand the general view of our party doctrines. In other words, our party has some connections with the masses in the city, but it is separated entirely from the masses in the rural districts. It is not difficult to win military successes against the Communist-bandits, but unless we can strengthen our party organization and educate our party members, we cannot succeed in destroying the Communists."

Comparing Kuomintang and Communist Party.

General Teng has a desperate remedy to propose. Finding his army rather useless, he requests the government to send "hundreds of able party members to engage in propaganda work," men who are well-grounded in such scholarly works as "those books pointed out in the will of Sun Yat-sen," and also "The National Revolution, by Mr. Chun Po-shu, the Theory of Chinese National Revolution by Mr. Wang Ching-min, the Philosophical Foundations of Sun-yatsenism by Mr. Tai-chi tao, and the books of Mr. Sun Chin-ya, and also understand the mistakes and correctnesses in these books." This seems a pretty large order, even for the latter-day Kuomintang which delights in grandiose paper-programs. One wonders how many propagandists General Teng found, who not only were familiar with the books mentioned, but also "understood the mistakes and correctnesses" in the same fashion as the general. And the unfortunate general wrote his report from the field, just about the time the men to whom he addressed it had repudiated the will of Dr. Sun as a "Communist forgery"!

In pointing out what he wants the Kuomintang to do in the way of propaganda to support his armies, General Teng finds it necessary to describe with admiration how the Chinese Communists work, with unified propaganda and program. Going into this matter with much detail, he sums up:

> "The Communists educate their members even in the small things. When they are to be executed then they sing the International song and cry the slogan 'Overthrow the Kuomintang,' in order to make propaganda and education among the masses. All such kind of education and discipline are much better than the Kuomintang. Under such conditions, when we wish to destroy them, how difficult is such a task!"

This report of General Teng Yin-wah is so much more to the point than anything I can write, that comment seems superfluous. It is quite evident who are the bandits in Kwangtung; the bandits are precisely these militarists who use the banner of the Kuomintang, but who are not longer a party in the true sense, but simply a gang of military cutthroats under the domination of foreign imperialism.

What the Imperialists Think About It.

In a previous article I quoted at length the article by Sokolsky, in the North China Daily News, which judges the Kuomintang position as very precarious. Many other such witnesses could be called to the same effect. For example, we have the Peking & Tientsin Times of April 14, in which a long editorial is devoted to the trouble in Hankow between the Kuomintang militarists and the French consul. What is of immediate interest is the conclusion of this influential organ of British imperialism. It says:

> "However, the measures taken by the anti-Reds in order to intimidate the French authorities into surrendering two women who were certainly not being permitted to pursue any political activities while being given refuge in the French Concession, constitute a precedent, as does the actual surrender itself, which may yet be used by the so-called Communists themselves when the new turn of the political wheel comes. We should not be far wrong in saying that the measure of the wrath of the Wuhan authorities against the French consul-general is the measure of their fear of the Communists. It is known that they have been in a panic ever since the recent troubles in Hunan.
> The time may come sooner than many people expect when the militarists at present reigning in Wuhan will be running into the Concessions for the preservation of their skins, and the Communists will be demanding their surrender as traitors to the revolution."

Mr. H. G. W. Woodhead, editor of the Peking & Tientsin Times, gave an interview to the Japan Advertiser in Tokyo, the latter part of April. Regarding the advance of the northern expedition, he was asked:

"What will happen if the Nationalists fail?"

"It will mean chaos," was his brief reply.

"What if they win?"

"That will also be chaos."

The imperialists know quite well that by their success in dominating the Kuomintang, they have also succeeded in completely separating it from the masses of the people, and rendered it indistinguishable from the old northern militarist combinations. The Peking & Tientsin Times of April 23, speaks of "the universal feeling that the fiery enthusiasm of the Kuomintang has grown cold, if it has not been extinguished."

REPORT SHOWS WORKERS SWELL JOBLESS RANKS

(By a Worker Correspondent)

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. (By mail).—Employment is steadily declining in Pennsylvania, according the Federal Reserve figures, which again prove that the capitalist system cannot stem the over-growing evil that is slowly but surely causing the workers to starve like rats.

There is no hope for the workers under capitalism. Strikes, lock-outs, wage cuts, speed-up are their lot. The workers must starve while the owners of the industries, the capitalists, admit that their profits are increasing.

In the report from four hundred and seventy-four factories there was a decline of seven percent from March to April, with another decline from February to March, which clearly shows that the worker is due for a ride into the starving, but proud ranks of the American unemployed.

The writer, an American ex-serviceman, marvels at the lack of resistance of the mass of suffering workers. If they would only organize and overthrow the cause, the capitalist makers of their misery, they could, by establishing a workers' and farmers' government, enjoy the prosperity that their oppressors and capitalist masters enjoy now.

And for future generations they could establish a system of society where, by owning the resources and the industries, the workers would receive the full value of their toil.

N COMMUNISTS LAUNCH RED ELECTION CAMPAIGN

Bos Big Business, Prepare Quick Change Act as Hoover Strategy Gains

MAY NAME CURTIS AS VICE PRESIDENT TO GAG FARMERS

Pledge Hoover N. Y. Votes at End of Farce

KANSAS CITY, June 10.—With the republican nominating convention but little more than forty-eight hours away every political knot has been tied which can bind Herbert Hoover, secretary of commerce and pet of the big business interests, to the presidential nomination. With the proposal to nominate Senator Charles Curtis of Kansas, for vice-president, taken in conjunction with the announcement by George K. Morris, chairman of the New York state delegation, that the state's sixty votes will be cast for Coolidge as soon as the balloting begins but that, if he refuses, the entire block will go to Hoover, the nomination of the Secretary of Commerce passed more or less certainly into the realm of certainty.

The Big Bosses.

The promise of the New York state votes to Hoover is the last step in a series of maneuvers by which Andrew T. Mellon, and William M. Butler, political bosses of Pennsylvania and Massachusetts respectively, have kept Coolidge as a political "ace in the hole" for use in last minute emergency.

But the process of clearing the "draft Coolidge" camouflage has already been begun with the statement that the Hoover forces will ask Charles D. Hilles, Coolidge fanatic and New York member of the republican national committee to take up a Hoover position at once. Should he refuse for political reasons, measures will be taken, it is intimated, to have him unseated from the committee.

Lowden Arrives.

The arrival of Frank O. Lowden in Kansas City has not materially changed the situation for the "allies," as the anti-Hoover forces are called. Apparently unable to make an inch of progress, the anti-Hoover candidates are awaiting for a miracle to stop Herbert Hoover's march toward the presidential nomination. Just how the miracle may happen is a conjecture which added to their general uncertainty and consternation.

No real effort to satisfy the demands of the farmers is being made by either of those groups which are exploiting the demands for political purposes. The latest sop to the farmer element is seen in the move to nominate Senator Charles Curtis for vice-president. The Hoover leaders hope by this maneuver to gag the farmer element since Curtis is a Mississippi Valley man. He has, besides, made a very pretty political play, first voting for the McNary-Haugen bill and then, in the interest of republican solidarity, refusing to vote against the president's veto.

It is believed that this final maneuver will definitely throw the nomination into the Hoover camp.

SPLIT AMONG WAR LORDS LOOMING

Feng and Yen in Clash for Control

TIENTSIN, June 10.—A split in the Nanking forces is seen as the result of a dispute which has arisen between Yen Hai-shan and Feng Yu-hsiang, Kuomintang war lords, concerning the control of the Tientsin-Peking territory. Feng, who has 70,000 troops outside of Peking, is said to be preparing to take over the city from the Shansi vanguard of 5,000, despite the fact that General Yen, governor of Shansi and head of the Shansi army, had been named to control the Tientsin-Peking area.

Feng is also reported preparing to take Tientsin, where 30,000 northern troops are now looting the city. Five thousand troops of Chiang-Kai-shek, Kuomintang commander-in-chief, arrived this morning at Machang, 20 miles south of Tientsin, under officers of Feng Yu-hsiang. It is believed that Chiang will side with Yen Shi-shan in his dispute with Feng.

'DAILY' FACES DANGEROUS CRISIS

To the Readers of the DAILY WORKER:—

An extremely dangerous stage in the campaign to save The DAILY WORKER was reached Saturday when the funds received for the week fell short by $1,839.79 of the $5,000 which, according to the ultimatum of creditors, alone would prevent suspension last Saturday. Late Saturday we obtained the consent of the printing establishment to extend the time for payments due them to Monday night.

The shortage of $1,839 for the first week has placed the paper in a precarious position. As previously announced, the total which must be raised by the end of this week, June 16, is $10,000. That means that the amount which The DAILY WORKER is compelled to raise by next Saturday is $6,839.

The life of our revolutionary Daily depends on this. The DAILY WORKER is determined not only not to die but to become stronger than ever as the revolutionary voice of the militant workers of America. We are sure that you, the militant workers, who are the readers and supporters of the DAILY WORKER, will see us through this crisis.

Some of the things that make us think so, are such letters as the following:

Dear Comrade:—

Nucleus 2 of the Workers Party of Pittsburgh put the DAILY WORKER on agenda at our meeting, held on Tuesday, June 5.

At the meeting we collected $55 and a committee of the comrades, M. Jenkins, Fred Carew, James Sofakis, Rebecca Horowitz, and I. Bay were elected to collect $95 more. This will make $150 for our nucleus. You know, comrades, that conditions in this district are very bad at present, and this is the best we can do now. I hope that the Daily will come out stronger from this crisis, and we appeal to all the Party units to do the same as our nucleus. Our good standing membership is Twenty-Five.

Fraternally,
M. JENKINS, Chairman of the Committee.

To The DAILY WORKER:—

The members of Branch 9, Workmen's Circle, although they have given to DAILY WORKER on previous occasions, consider that it would be calamity if our organ of struggle, The DAILY WORKER, would suspend. We give $14.00 tonight and promise to collect $25.00 at our next special meeting.

I. SMOTRICH.

And the following:—

"Please accept this money, $10 (ten dollars) for DAILY WORKER immediately. Let our comrades know I am sacrificing a new summer hat and coat to give this to help save The DAILY WORKER. Send it to them as soon as possible. May other comrades of the country give until it hurts, also.

Yours for the DAILY WORKER,
MARTHA A. BIEGLER.

This is the spirit which will keep our paper alive.

But, Comrades, we must ask you to speed up your help. Today and tomorrow will be danger points. And we must have nearly $7,000 by next Saturday. Contributions are increasing—each day's mail and telegraph brings more than the day before. But they are not increasing rapidly enough, and the danger is great.

Send help quick to The DAILY WORKER, 33 First Street, New York City.

THE MANAGEMENT COMMITTEE.

Imperialist Troops Guarding Tientsin

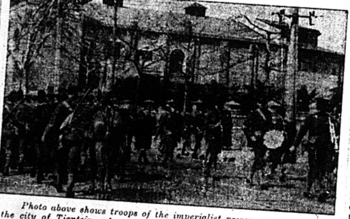

Photo above shows troops of the imperialist powers concentrated in the city of Tientsin, whose capture is threatened by the Kuomintang forces. A battle between the rival armies of Chang Tso-lin and Chiang Kai-shek, rivals in the service of imperialists, will probably be fought in the next few days.

FIVE MORE DONETZ ENGINEERS GUILTY

MOSCOW, U.S.S.R., June 10.—The accused technicians in the huge Donetz conspiracy against the Soviet Union, Natov and Bratanovsky, testified today that engineer Ovtcharek had been an active member of the saboteurs' organization.

Kalnin, also one of the engineers accused of participating in the plot, declared that he had been a menshevik before the war. He pleaded guilty of having had full knowledge of the sabotage and of having taken no action in preventing it. Upon further examination, he admitted that he had received money from engineer Nekrasov to keep silent concerning the plot.

Nekrasov was then examined. At first he denied that he had participated in the sabotage work, and declared that he was in complete sympathy with the Soviet Union. His testimony was proven false. It was proved that he had not only robbed the Soviet while working, but also the former czarist owners.

The testimony of further witnesses characterized Nekrasov as a bully who treated the workers under his control like animals. The former chief of the Okhrana, reactionary police organization of the czarist government, in the Schachty district, testified that Nekrasov had collaborated with that organization.

Later in the evening, Kuwaldin, former menshevik who had been arrested in 1924 as an enemy dictature, denied having committed any counter-revolutionary acts. He claimed that he had only criticised some leading Soviet officials.

Odrow, another of the accused engineers, admitted that he had several times received money from counter-revolutionary organizations

TEXTILE DEFENSE PARLEY IN BOSTON

Appeal for Aid to Keep Strikers From Jail

BOSTON, June 10.—At a well attended conference called by the International Labor Defense in Boston, enthusiastic reception was given to the New Bedford strike leaders Antonio S. Adao, president of the newly organized New Bedford Textile Workers Union, J. C. DeMello, vice-president, Eulalia G. Mendes, secretary, Fred E. Beal and others who came to address the conference. All speakers praised the good work of the I. L. D. in conducting the defense of the strikers and they promised to continue the militant fight in New Bedford for a complete victory against the mill owners.

The report of Robert Zolms, I. L. D. district organizer, stated that up to this date 22 strikers have been arrested in New Bedford and tried in the district court under the most flimsy and ridiculous charges. The most usual charge being "singing on the picket line" and "making faces" at the police and company officials. The 22 militant workers, including a number of elderly women, were sentenced by Judge Milliken to the total of 510 days in jail and $365.00 fines. All cases have been appealed by the I. L. D. attorney to superior court and the defendants are out on bonds amounting to $7900.00 so far. The bail being from $300.00 to $900.00 in each case. The International Labor Defense is sending out urgent appeals to all its members and sympathizers for contributions and loans to be sent to the I. L. D. district office, 113 Dudley St., Room 6, Boston, Mass., so that the defense in New Bedford can go on.

PROTEST FASCIST TERROR, CALL OF WORKERS PARTY

Freedom for Communist Leaders Is Demand

Denouncing the savage prison sentences meted out to Italian Communist leaders the Central Executive Committee of the Workers (Communist) Party, in a statement issued Saturday, calls upon the workers of this country to protest against fascist terrorism and to demand the immediate and unconditional release of the victims of Mussolini's rule. The statement follows:

"Fellow-Workers:—

"Thirty-seven militant leaders of the Italian working class have been condemned by Mussolini's fascist government to long-term imprisonments, ranging from six to twenty-seven years. The bloody hand of Mussolini's regime, for which the American capitalists have repeatedly expressed unbounded admiration, and to which they have given repeated financial support, has delivered another bastardly blow at the Italian working class.

"What is the crime of these thirty-seven working class leaders?

Fought Against Fascism.

"They opposed the Fascist regime militantly and consistently and organized the masses to struggle against it.

"They stood loyally by the working class and the trade unions when the fascist murderers launched their attack upon the trade unions in order to destroy them.

"They continued to build labor unions and develop a labor press, despite the fascist law and at the risk of their lives, after Mussolini had outlawed the trade unions.

"They fought bravely against Mussolini's so-called industrial charter, which cut wages, lengthened hours, outlawed strikes and bona fide unions and aimed at reducing the Italian workers to virtual slavery.

Opposed Imperialism.

"They stood in the forefront of struggle against the imperialist machinations and war conspiracies of Mussolini's regime.

"They waged an uncompromising battle against capitalist exploitation,

MAKE SACRIFICES TO SAVE 'DAILY WORKER'

An example of determination and self-sacrifice in the efforts to save The DAILY WORKER has been shown by the members of Unit 2B 2F, Workers (Communist) Party of New York. Despite the fact that most of the 23 members of this unit are unemployed, they have decided to raise $100 for the "Daily."

"Every comrade took the floor, stressing the critical condition of our 'Daily' and the vital importance of its existence," writes a member of this unit, in describing its last meeting. "Everyone was determined that something must be done to raise funds to overcome the crisis. A motion was made that the unit raise $100. Since most of the comrades are unemployed, it was quite a hard thing to accomplish. But where there is a will there is a way. We finally hit upon a good idea, that is, that we secure a loan of $100 from a loan society at once, the money to be paid back during a period of 10 months.

"I believe that if every comrade would have the same determination and proceed in a like manner, The DAILY WORKER would be saved in no time. Party units, follow our example."

Philadelphia, which is so often referred to as the sleepy city, has shown itself by no means sleepy in coming to the aid of The DAILY WORKER. A. Sokolov, DAILY WORKER agent of Philadelphia, has sent in $77.50, contributed by class-conscious workers of that city, and writes that "more will come later."

Finnish Workers Aid "Daily."

The Finnish workers are also rallying to the aid of the only newspaper in the English language that fights militantly for all the workers of all nationalities. Thirty dollars has been collected among the Finnish workers of Superior, Wis., and sent in to the "Daily" thru Joe Polin of The DAILY WORKER committee of Superior. Polin also writes that more funds are being raised.

Contributions received on Saturday were higher than on any previous single day, tho still behind what they

NANKING'S AGENT SEEKS U. S. HELP

Dr. Wu Makes Atack on Communists at Meet

A tirade against the Communists and an appeal for support, financial and otherwise, for the Nanking nationalist government were the chief burdens of an address by Dr. C. C. Wu, former foreign minister of the Nanking government and at present its special emissary to the United States, at the Chinese Theatre here yesterday afternoon.

Dr. Wu, who was the chief speaker at a welcome arranged for him by the counter-revolutionary Kuomintang blamed the Communist "agents of Moscow" for all the troubles of the reactionary Nanking regime and asked that it be supported in its efforts to drive the Japanese out of Shantung.

The meeting, which was attended by most of the leading Chinese business men of this city, greeted the speaker warmly. Dr. Wu is in this country to negotiate loans that will enable the Nanking government to continue the wholesale murder of Chinese workers and peasants.

2,000 BEG WORK ON ONE WALES JOB

Gather at 4 A. M.; Suffering Is Acute in Numerous Districts

PENARTH, Wales (By mail).—An example of the seriousness of the unemployment crisis in this district and the suffering in the working class districts was shown in the assembling here of more than 2,000 men and youths for work on the Cardiff Union Hospital, beginning at 4 a. m.

When the superintendent arrived at 7 a. m. to choose workers for the job he declined to take responsibility for making the selection. The workers had arrived not only from Penarth, Cardiff and Barry but places farther away.

The superintendent saw desperation in many of the faces of those who offered themselves for the long day's work for little pay and sent word to the contractors to get men from the local employment exchange.

He is a former school teacher and is the chief judicial officer of the Pineville district.

MINOR NOMINATED FOR U. S. SENATE, DUNNE, GOVERNOR

Fort-Whiteman, Poyntz, Brill, Also Named

Amid enthusiasm second only to that which exactly two weeks ago marked the great national nomination convention of the Workers (Communist) Party, the state nomination convention meeting yesterday at the Workers Center on Union Square, nominated its candidates, framed its platform and launched its campaign for the 1928 elections. Two hundred delegates from every section of the state were joined by over a thousand members and sympathizers of the Party in a demonstration for the candidates chosen for state offices.

In a platform which in its basic principles, followed the outline of the national platform recently adopted by the Party, the state nominating convention again indicated its outstanding characteristic as the sole Party of the American working class, the Party which takes its stand on the class struggle. Ringing out their challenge to the capitalist masters with an unmistakable tone of battle, the New York delegates by their enthusiasms, by their youthful energy and courage, by the manner in which they discussed the immediate tasks as well as the ultimate issues of the Party, proved conclusively their right to be the leaders of the workers' struggles in the vanguard of the proletariat.

Name Candidates.

Robert Minor, editor of The DAILY WORKER, in acceptance speech for office of U. S. Senator, struck the keynote of the convention with the declaration that when candidates are chosen by the Communist Party, the Party itself becomes the real candidate. The office for which the Party asks the workers' support, said Minor, is the office of overthrowing the capitalist system.

William F. Dunne, assistant editor of The DAILY WORKER was nominated for the office of governor; Juliet Stuart Poyntz received the nomination for lieutenant governor; Franklin B. Brill of Buffalo was nominated for attorney general and Lovett Fort-Whiteman for state comptroller.

The New York state campaign of the Workers Party which is expected to develop into its leading national campaign brought together delegates from practically every city in the state. Among these besides the five boroughs of Greater New York were represented Buffalo, Rochester, Albany, Syracuse, Binghamton, Troy, Utica, Yonkers, Schenectady, Elmira and other cities.

Welcome Delegates.

In his opening speech of welcome to the delegates Wm. W. Weinstone, organizer of district 2 of the Party, emphasized the great importance of the first state-wide nominating convention of the Party following immediately upon the formal launching of the national Party campaign. "The campaign in New York state," he declared, "here in the center of world imperialism, in the state in which we find Al Smith, the hero of Tammany Hall, in which the tool of big business, the republican party, works out its international schemes for the exploitation of the workers, here in the city where the socialist party with its betrayers to the working class, its Thomases, its Hillquits, its Sigmans and Hillmans—here in this state the Communist Party will fight its most aggressive battle.

The state platform endorsed the demands of the national platform and pointed out that the republican and democratic parties alike are both servants of the oppressive capitalist class of the country. The platform pointed out that the Smith and republican legislature has done nothing to relieve the hundreds of thousands of unemployed workers in New York state, that it has used the police and the courts to break strikes and to disrupt the unions of this state. The Walker administration has been particularly active in preventing any organization developing among the traction workers at the same time that it has been in collusion with the Interborough Rapid Transit, in order to increase the fare from five to seven cents and lay the basis for a still higher fare. This has been done by the Walker administration in collusion

Scab Wins Suit for $300 Because Militant Mine Women in Ohio Egged Him

MASS PICKETING GOES ON DESPITE MANY ARRESTS

Bosses Try Intimidation of County Officials

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, Ohio, June 10.—A decision has been handed down by the Belmont County Common Pleas Court awarding $300 to Emroy E. Brewer, scab miner employed in the Florence mine of the Y & O Coal Company in a damage suit against the Belmont county commissioners. The suit grows out of an alleged attack on Brewer by strikers last August 2. The institution of the proceedings and the favorable decision rendered to Brewer is looked upon by Belmount County strikers as an effort of the Y & O Coal Company and the courts to intimidate county authorities and to spur them to greater strikebreaking efforts. Emroy alleges that he was a target for eggs and stones flung by wives of strikers as he attempted to reach the mine.

Mass Picketing Goes On.

The action of the company, the real power behind Emroy's suit, according to the strikers here, will have no effect on the mass picket lines which continue regularly here. "We have established our right to picket," says John Barto, veteran of the mass arrests at Lansing and St. Clairsville, which attracted nation-wide attention late in April. "We will keep on picketing till we close down every mine in the county. The only thing that worries us is food. We can't expect chicken dinners when we are on strike but we've got to have enough to feed the children once in a while. The carload of food sent us early last week by the National Miners Relief Committee is the only thing we will have to keep us going until they send us more."

TEXTILE STRIKERS FIGHT BETRAYERS

Textile Workers Union Issues Appeal

The New Bedford Textile Workers Union has issued an appeal to all workers to leave the misleaders of the American Federation of Textile Operators and to join in a militant struggle against the wage-cut:

For eight weeks now the textile workers of New Bedford have conducted a militant struggle against the 10 percent wage cut and for a decent standard of living.

The mill owners thought that New Bedford would be like Fall River that the officials of the United Textile Workers and the American Federation of Textile Operatives, Mr. Batty and others would be able to strangle any strike move by the workers. However, this was not to be. The entrance of the Textile Mill Committees changed the entire situation. Under the leadership of the Textile Mill Committees the hitherto unorganized textile workers were organized and led into the fight.

At first the mill owners and their agents thought that the new union would soon collapse. They sent Mr. Batty to try to break up the picket lines and beat up one of the workers' organizers. But instead of being frightened the workers answered blow for blow and Mr. Batty retired. Now the mill owners will use the police and courts and the usual strike terror will begin. Detective agencies will be hired to frame up the leaders of the strike. Nothing will be left undone in the attempt to crush the new union.

In order to meet this terror more effectively, the textile workers have decided to reorganize themselves into the New Bedford Textile Workers' Union affiliated with the National Textile Mill Committees. This union will be based on the slogan: One factory, one branch—One industry, one union!

At a recent conference the workers elected their new strike committee and officers. The following are the officers:

President, A. S. Adao (weaver, Portuguese); first vice pres., F. Willett (French-Canadian, spinner); second vice pres., J. De Mello (Portuguese, unskilled); third vice pres., J. Porter (American weaver); fourth vice pres., E. Mendes (American, unskilled); fifth vice pres., J. Gomes (a Negro worker), and financial secretary-treasurer, A. Izyk (Polish loom-fixer, formerly of the A. F. T. O.).

All the funds of the New Bedford Textile Workers Union will be deposited to be drawn out by the president and secretary-treasurer only.

This new union is here to stay. During the past eight weeks the workers have learned the lesson that whether the strike is won or lost, only a union of their own can protect them. The union accordingly now raises the following demands:

1. Abolition of 10 percent wage cut.
2. 20 percent increase in wages.
3. 40-hour, 5-day week.
4. Equal pay for equal work.
5. Abolition of speed-up.
6. No discrimination against union members.
7. Recognition of the union.

The New Bedford Textile Workers Union will fight for these demands to the last. It has no illusions. The mill owners do not yet wish to settle the strike. The indications are that the strike will be long and bitter. The New Bedford Textile Workers Union calls on all the textile workers to leave the misleaders of the A. F. T. O. and join the New Bedford Textile Workers Union and to carry on a militant fight till all the demands of the union are won.

RED CAMPAIGN OPENS IN STATE

Minor, Dunne, Brill, Fort-Whiteman, Poyntz

with Governor Smith and his lieutenants.

Strike-Breakers.

In the needle trades struggle, lasting over twenty months, Governor Smith and Mayor Walker together with the A. F. of L. officials and the socialists have been working with the forces for the disruption of this once powerful union and for the establishment of sweatshop conditions and increasing the hours and worsening the conditions of labor.

The republican and Tammany Hall administrations were indicted by the platform for the high rents and miserable housing conditions in the city, for congestion in the schools, for the segregation of Negroes in Harlem and their being forced to pay higher rents and live under miserable unsanitary conditions, for youth and child labor in New York state.

War On Capitalism.

The platform calls for a struggle for the overthrow of the capitalist system and the establishment of a proletarian dictatorship in order to free labor from the misery of wage slavery and from the oppression of the capitalist government.

The platform denounces the socialist party as working hand in hand with the American Federation of Labor bureaucrats whose policy of class collaboration and surrender is responsible for the plight of the unions and no struggle against the offensive of the bosses, for the masses of workers of New York city and state being unorganized and at the mercy of the trusts and big business and banking interests.

Demand Low Rents.

The platform calls for the establishment of independent political action of the working class, calls for the abolition of laws discriminating against Negroes, for a minimum fixing of low rents for workers, not to amount to more than ten percent of their wages, for unemployment insurance to all unemployed workers with full wages, against child labor, for the maintenance of the five-cent fare and free transportation for all children to and from school as well as free transportation for all unemployed workers, for equal pay for equal work for male and female workers, for the prohibition by law of night work for women and youth workers, for the abolition of all indirect taxes and for the exemption from all kinds of taxes for wage earners, for the abolition of government by injunction, for the freedom of all class war prisoners as a result of the needle trades and other trade union struggles, for the repeal of the criminal-anarchy law, for free lunches to children. It declares in favor of the organization of the unorganized workers, as a central task in New York city and state and emphasizes particularly the need of organization of the traction workers, the marine workers, the food workers, the shoe workers, for the support of the needle trades workers in building up their union.

The platform endorses the national demand of "Not a man, not a cent for imperialist wars," for complete independence of the American colonies, for the defense of the Soviet Union, for the withdrawal of troops from China, Nicaragua and Haiti, etc.

The appearance of Benjamin Gitlow, Communist candidate for vice-president, was greeted with an ovation. In his reply, Gitlow likewise stressed the importance of the New York state campaign to the Party as a whole.

1,000 HURT THIS YEAR AS SHIP CO. SPEEDS UP MEN

Allow 1, Instead of 2 Planks On Scaffolds

(By a Worker Correspondent)

CHESTER, Pa. (By mail). — On May 17th, at a banquet given by the officials of the Sun Shipbuilding Company some very important information was disclosed. The real purpose of this affair is not known, but the foremen, the high officials and the representatives of the "company union" were present.

The Vice President, Mr. Haig, spoke on the prospects for greater activity in the yard in the way of work and didn't hold out anything encouraging for the workers.

One foreman in my hearing said that the speech fell flat, which was confirmed by the representative of the "company union."

The rest of the speech along this line had to do with the possibility of the ship subsidy bill's going through on the 26th of May. This failed to pass to give relief to the poor ship owners.

The remainder of the speech had to do with "safety first." According to the "vice president," the monthly expense to the company through accidents and deaths since the first of the year has been $6,000. The total accidents since the first of the year has been 1,000 and some odd cases. This month's "company union bulletin" emphasizes the importance of "safety first."

The bosses are driving the men to greater speed and where two ten-inch planks were formerly used on the inside scaffolding the men are told that they can get along with one. One riveter tells me that this is not enough as they have heavy tools and hose to drag along.

Why all this noise about "safety first" when men are driven at high speed and compelled to work under such conditions?

The Sun is getting dry dock work (short jobs); a few car-floats on the ways is all the work in sight at present.

A fellow asked the company "stool" when the notice for closing was going to be posted, his reply was, "Is that the rumor?" —S.

DECLARE WALL ST. CAUSED COLOMBIA OIL LAW CHANGE

Loan Follows Repeal and Lease Dickering

BOGOTA, Colombia, June 10.—Declaring that the presidential repeal of the protective petroleum legislation was made "under pressure of Wall Street and the White House," Deputy Dell Valle of the Colombian liberal party yesterday launched an attack on the administration.

The influence of American interests in securing the suspension of the petroleum laws in Colombia was recognized when the president signed his repeal.

Negotiations for the leasing of the Barco oil field near the Venezuelan border are at present in progress between the minister of the interior and the American investors.

A substantial loan to the Colombian government from American bankers was announced directly after the suspension of the petroleum legislation.

TO HOLD AFFAIR IN CHICAGO MINE RELIEF DRIVE

Will Hold Mass Banquet on June 17

CHICAGO, June 10. — The local Miners' Relief Committee has called upon every worker and friend of the struggling miners to devote this Sunday to collecting relief funds. Many have co-operated with the committee during the past week, but it has determined to extend its activities another week in order to bring the campaign to a fitting climax.

The money collected during the drive will be used to supply the starving miners and their families with food and medicine.

The local committee has decided that after the closing of the campaign week to arrange a list of all of those whose names will be on the honor roll of active co-workers of this drive. They will be invited to a mass banquet to be held Sunday, June 17th, at the Ashland Boulevard Auditorium.

POLICE CALLED BOSSES' TOOLS

New Bedford Striker Urges Right to Sing

(By a Worker Correspondent)

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., (By Mail).—We all know what to expect from an officer of the law. He is sent out "to maintain law and order." And in such a crisis as we here in New Bedford are facing, it seems than they are more than ever called on "to enforce law and order." Truly we know in the strike center now that the officers are told to "enforce the law." And we also know that their superiors are there to enforce the law for the benefit of the capitalists.

It is plain, what is happening in New Bedford. The mill owners, being capitalists, pay the head officers and these pay the lower officers. And the capitalists hide behind the old expression, "maintaining law and order" in order to protect themselves.

Every American citizen and foreigner who has been in this country for any length of time has to pay a poll tax. It is clear, I think, that by paying this poll tax, a citizen has the right to walk the streets or settle down. In other words he buys his liberty in this country.

Why then, with this as a basis, do the officials and mill owners forbid the textile strikers to sing while picketing at the mill gates when they are not even on the mill grounds? Is that disturbing the peace? If so why don't the officers go out and tackle a bigger job, the makers of Mack trucks, or some other manufacturers of the heavy types of truck, which certainly make more noise when going, than do a mass of singing pickets? It is true that the noise the truck makes is just for a short while, but still it makes a noise, if that's the question.

Still if this country is a land of liberty and land of freedom, why don't the officials see to it that liberty is enforced by calling in the policemen and leaving the pickets at the mill gates. If the mill owners go for help to the police they should tell them to fight their own battles, and not to resist the working class which exists in every part of the world.

It is as plain as day to everyone who is not dumb, that the whole world is dependent on one group, that is, the working class. In every part of the world north, south, east and west, we find workers of every kind. The crop-growers, the miners, the steel workers, the lumberjacks, the textile workers and numerous other workers without whom the world could not go on. For going on without these would make the world like a man without money, who, to survive, has to turn thief.

To keep the New Bedford textile strikers at peace, so that they will go back to their jobs, why donit the textile mill owners and the mine owners, too, let them earn a reasonable pay, so that they don't have to live in poverty?

To prove our loyalty to all of the working class, let us call all the workers to help one another and not to scab on their brother workers. Fellow worker, you, too, may not know when you are going to need help yourself.

SCABS, WOMEN IN OPEN SHOP MILL

Allen-A Plant Houses Sex Orgies

KENOSHA, Wis., June 10 (FP).—Pennsylvania gunmen shooting up Kenosha residents and indulging in sex orgies with imported women at night in the Allen-A Hosiery Co. plant where they are quartered, are no boost for Kenosha. The committee of 1,000 demands that the males and females in question be run out of town. But the council, which sees the police giving migratory workers the city gate every day, is unable to find legal sanction for an expulsion order against the company gunmen and prostitutes.

The reason is that the town is controlled by the open shop Nash Motor Co., whose vice president is mayor and whose labor department supplied the hosiery company with strikebreakers in the early days of the 3½-month lockout. The lockout came when members of the American Federation of Full Fashioned Hosiery Workers refused to run 2 machines instead of 1 and refused to quit the union.

JAPANESE SEAMEN STRIKE STILL ON DESPITE TERROR

Predict Walkout In Asiatic Ports

YOKOHAMA, June 10. — Progress of the strike of thousands of Japanese seamen which is tying up all the important harbors in the islands is reported to be considerable in many centers yesterday.

Not only have the men come out with unusual unanimity in Yokohama, Kobe, Osaka and Nagasaki, but in a number of smaller harbors, besides. Vessels are reported to be tied up in the port of Hakodate in the extreme northern part of the islands.

Spread of the strike to the Asiatic harbors controlled by the Japanese, is declared probable by leaders of the strike here. It is their belief that seamen in Dairen, Port Arthur, Tsing Tao and smaller ports in Formosa may walk out within the near future.

In spite of the terrorism with which the police are attempting to curb the rapid growth of the strike sentiment, the seamen are firm and the authorities have failed to force a single sailor back to his ship to date.

LOWDEN MAKES FARMERS PAWNS

Fears Movement May Get Beyond Control

(By a Worker Correspondent)

KANSAS CITY, June 7 (By Mail).—The atmosphere surrounding the pre-convention activities of the republican party shows that the capitalist interests have the situation well in hand. The republican politicians from the farming sections of the country, who have promised to stage a revolt in and outside of the convention against Coolidge administration, which is dominated by the big business interests of the country, are surrendering their positions and are running away from the battle fields actually before the battle has started. Every presidential aspirant including Lowden, Senator James E. Watson, of Indiana and Curtis is making frantic efforts to win favor with the big capitalists, whom they term as "eastern business."

Lowden, before the convention, was parading as the great champion of the farmers. He and his campaign managers went from one farmers' gathering to another, pledging themselves to champion the cause of the farmers, speaking about agricultural equality, farm relief, etc.

Today Clarence F. Buck, manager of the Lowden campaign committee issued the following statement. "The Lowden campaign is not an anti-anything movement and is in no way based on an antagonism to any interest. The Lowden movement which has gained headway everywhere," he said, "is not in favor of any interest. It is not anti-Coolidge nor anti-administration. Mr. Lowden's strength is national. He is acceptable to business interests of the east as well as of the agricultural of the west."

The majority of the statements issued by the Lowden campaign committee aims at nothing but to convince the Wall Street bankers that Lowden is a fellow who is in no fit condition to defend the exploited farmers or workers. The committee issued a statement that the business achievement of Lowden is very high He is a successful business man, he founded the American Radiator Company, the National Biscuit Company and is related to the Pullman interests.

At the same time the smaller fry of the Lowden and Watson camp are putting the brakes on the protest movement that has lately developed in the farming region. Two weeks previous to the convention, Adam McMullen, governor of Nebraska, issued a call to the farmers urging them not to march to Kansas City to stage a revolt expressing their disapproval of the Coolidge agricultural policy. Now Governor McMullen issues a statement declaring that he does not expect that the farmers march will materalize. This is nothing but an attempt to stab and cripple the protest movement of the farmers. At the beginning the Lowden forces and the republican party planned to utilize the farmers' march in order to force the republican party convention to accept Lowden as republican nominee. The farmers have enthusiastically accepted the call and in great masses began to prepare for the march. This apparently scared the republican capitalist politicians of the Lowden camp lest the movement might get out of their control and word were given to reduce the numerical strength of the demonstration as far as possible. Even the anti-Lowden newspapers could not but report that the farmers in every town were organizing On to Kansas City Clubs.

Nevertheless the farmers are organizing and determined to proceed to Kansas City. C. C. Talbott, president of the North Dakota Farmers' Union issued a statement at Jamestown declaring that the farmers will start their march on Saturday morning to be joined along the route by other farmers from South Dakota Minnesota and Nebraska. Talbott declared that he hopes that the farmers will leave Omaha, Nebraska for Kansas City on the leadership of Governor McMullen. Governor McMullen in rely to this stated that the farmers' march will not be a militant protest nor will it be a Coxey's Army but will simply be an attempt on the part of the farmers 'to explain to the delegates the farm conditions.'"

SEE OUTBREAK IN PORTUGAL SOON

May Try to Overthrow Carmona

OPORTO, Portugal, June 10.—Two army officers high in Portuguese political circles are reported to have been arrested yesterday, according to despatches from Lisbon. The authorities are keeping secret the identity of the two men.

The secret arrests are said to have the alleged discovery by government agents of a quantity of arms and ammunition which were to serve in arming civilians for a new outbreak scheduled to take place in Lisbon within a few days.

Active preparations for an outbreak have been under way for some time, according to charges of the government. An attempt to overthrow General Carmona, the recently elected president, is said to be at the bottom of the trouble, and it is freely stated that conflicting British and American rubber interests are behind the happenings in Lisbon.

UNION OFFICIAL LIVES HIGH

Barbers Find It Hard to Eat On $20 a Week

(By a Worker Correspondent)

ROCHESTER, N. Y., (By Mail).—I have watched your expose of the many labor fakers masquerading as leaders. I wish to see you portray the general secretary-treasurer of the Journeymen Barbers' International Union who does not know that the Volstead law was ever passed, especially since the dubs raised his salary to $10,000 per year while the average journeyman barber has all he can do to make about $30 per week. There are more barbers working for $20 per week guarantee than there are who are working for $30.

May I depend upon your making a little investigation on this subject and give us the benefit of your judgment? This "general" secretary-treasurer, is also on the council of the A. F. of L. and it is well-known that his brilliant mind is the most outstanding on that executive.

Some time back, a comrade from Detroit mailed you a communication protesting against the czar methods of the officers of the Barbers' International Union and now he is out of the union, so are a number of comrades from Chicago. I can be of better service to the workers by holding my membership and exposing from within and without the "high financiers" who ride the poor starving barbers while they bake down in Florida at $10,000 per year, plus.

Punishment Asked For 7 N Y Ambulance Chasers

The preliminary report on the Brooklyn ambulance-chasing inquiry, which has been held behind closed doors for more than two months, was submitted yesterday to the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court. Altho the report was not made public, Meier Steinbrink special counsel in the inquiry, indicated that there would be recommendations for disciplinary action against 7 attorneys for their alleged participation in ambulance-chasing activities. Another attorney has consented to have his name stricken from the rolls.

These lawyers prey upon the workers by planting agents in hospitals to discover cases of workers injured in industrial and traffic accidents, for the purpose of retaining themselves the bulk of any damages won in suits.

No hint as to when the report will be made public was given, but it is expected to be acted upon either this week or the early part of next.

Philadelphia Will Hold Picnic for Mine Relief

PHILADELPHIA, June 10. — A committee has been formed to make arrangements for a picnic scheduled to be held at Maple Grove Park on July 29 under the auspices of the Philadelphia Committee of the National Miners' Relief.

"Mother" Bloor will come to Philadelphia to speak at the picnic on the situation in the coal fields. Many other speakers of national prominence will talk. In addition, a big program of entertainment has been arranged.

Workers are urged to get their tickets in advance, because the antiquated "blue laws" of Pennsylvania prohibit the sale of them at the gate.

NEW MINE BLAST CAUSES DEATHS

Coal Capitalism Continues Havoc

By ED FALKOWSKI.

(Federated Press.)

POTTSVILLE, Pa., June 10—Seven miners were burned by a gas explosion at the Repplier colliery near here. Three will probably die.

The explosion occurred in the No. 8 slope, 500 feet underground, in the east Mammoth gangway, and was the biggest blast in years. Anthracite mines are considered safe. Daily inspections take place as fire-bosses commence at 4 a. m. to make their rounds with safety lamps, prying into every breast and manway for signs of gas. If gas is present, the place is marked and the men warned as they come to work to take required precautions.

Death Always Present.

Sometimes the amount of gas is slight. The miners often drive it out of their workings by fanning with their coats. But an unsuspected pocket of gas may suddenly be tapped. Or a loose spark dropped. Or a pick may strike a spark out of a rock and set off the gas. Any trivial speck of flame is likely to blow the place up.

It is a belief among miners that when one large explosion takes place somewhere, two more are certain to follow. The Mather holocaust made them feel creepy and careful. Two days later seven miners were killed and five seriously injured at the Conyngham shaft of the Hudson Coal Co. at Wilkes-Barre. The Repplier blast is the third in the last few days.

Capitalism!

Any one watching the casualty lists in mining, without knowing they are occupational and regular, would wonder where the war is. Day after day men smashed, blown to bits, blinded, gassed, their bones broken. Healthy men reduced to utter wrecks within the stretch of a normal working day.

Yet little is done to make coal mining safe. One wonders if the fact that there are "too many miners" encourages this ruthless slaughter of human beings as a means of controlling the human surplus!

It May Be True . .

BUT---

A St. Louis librarian finds that workers read the best literature. In this best category, he includes the Greek classics and so-called "advanced" modern poets.

The class-conscious workers know better. They too read the best. BUT—who will deny that what is best for the capitalists is worst for the workers. We carry a selection of books that are best in the sense that they help the workers in their struggle for emancipation from the shackles of Capitalism—which the Greek classics and "advanced" poets do not!

NEWS AGENCY IS TOOL OF TRUST

14,000 Papers Receive Magnates Propaganda

WASHINGTON, June 10.—A huge vein of power trust propaganda was opened here at the Federal Trade Commission's inquiry with the revelation that an industrial news agency, serving about 14,000 daily and weekly papers in every one of the 48 states, is being directly supported by the power interests.

The news service, which is conducted by E. Hoffer & Sons, Salem, Ore., has been backed by a large number of power corporations, and it has given wide distribution to propaganda against Muscle Shoals, Boulder Dam and municipal power plants, George E. Lewis, a Colorado publicity man, testified.

SCABS FAIL TO END ARGENTINE HARBOR STRIKE

Picket Lines Firm in Spite of Police

BUENOS AYRES, June 10. — Attempts on the part of the wharf and ship owners to smash the two weeks' strike of the port workers at Bahia Blance by introducing strikebreakers is meeting with no success, according to reports from the southern port.

Scores of strikebreakers rushed from northern cities have failed to accomplish anything and have in many instances walked off the job.

Picketing of the harbor front is continuous in spite of the efforts of the police to break up picket lines and demonstrations. The owners are making desperate appeals to the authorities to take repressive measures to prevent the heavy losses which the continuance of the strike means to them.

DEATH SENTENCE FOR FOLSOM MEN

SACRAMENTO, Calif., June 10.—Six prisoners, made scapegoats by the authorities following the mutiny at Folsom prison, were sentenced to hang in superior court. At the same time motion for new trial was denied.

They were convicted recently as the "ringleaders" of the uprising which took place at the prison last Thanksgiving day as a result of abominable food and repeated cruelty on the part of keepers. Fourteen hundred prisoners kept the prison authorities at bay for more than 24 hours until the arrival of state militia.

Huge Overcrowding In Federal Prisons

The Voice of Red New York

The New York State Nominating Convention of the Workers (Communist) Party, in choosing its candidates yesterday for the 1928 elections, opens the fight on the biggest sector of the national electoral struggle.

The State of New York is called, not without reason, the "Empire State" of American capitalism. For it is not only the heaviest population center, but contains within it the gilded metropolis of the most powerful capitalism of the world. New York City is the modern Babylon of finance-capitalism, the center from which every phase of American life is controlled for the perpetuation of the system of exploitation, for the extension of the iron rule of United States capital into all of Latin America, into Asia and throughout the world. If Washington is the nominal capital of the United States, New York is the source of the orders which Washington executes.

It is no accident that the phenomenon known as Al Smith originates in New York amidst the filth of Tammany Hall's organization of corruption, gambling, prostitution and police graft. Al Smith has been tested by the topmost leaders of American finance-capital in its "home state." Wall Street knows its Al Smith at least as intimately as it knows its other agent, Herbert Hoover. If in the coming developments of republican politics, it turns out that Hoover is another Taft who cannot preserve the illusions of capitalist "democracy" among the farming population of the West—then the highest lords of American finance-capital have another candidate and another party equally acceptable—as the chief executive of United States imperialism, in the person of Al Smith and the democratic party as led by him. Then the cesspool of Tammany Hall becomes more than ever the mirror in which the capitalist Narcissus admires its image.

The New York district of the Workers (Communist) Party, the biggest section of the Party, would in all events be obliged to give the working class of the entire country and the other districts of the Party an inspiring example of the revolutionary use of the electoral campaign. And the fact that the fight is clearly dramatized as a struggle against the Tammany machine when that Tammany machine is assuming national leadership in capitalist politics, adds to the obligation and opportunity of the Communist Party to make a record in this district.

The fight of the Communist Party is against the capitalist state, the capitalist government itself. Being so, it is equally against all of the capitalist parties. Against the imperialist party of Coolidge and Teapot Dome, against the party of Tammany, the struggle must be directed also against that other party of capitalism—the so-called socialist party.

As a fight against the socialist party, the agency of the capitalists among the workers, the task of the New York comrades is also especially to be emphasized. In New York the yellow heart of the socialist party beats to send its thin blood to the other parts of the country. Though living on the spoils of office in Milwaukee and in Reading, Pa., the socialist party has its real corporeal center in the yellow daily newspaper in New York City—the Jewish Daily Forward. This paper, the organizing center for strike-breaking in the needle trades of New York, furnishes the financial support for most of what is called the socialist party in the United States. In New York City the best fight can and must be fought against the poisonous Hillquitism, which the workers have learned to understand.

New York workers who have in large masses come under the leadership of the Communist Party in the trade union struggle, must be made by our revolutionary campaign in this state, to realize that the class struggle is a political struggle, and that they cannot successfully conduct their splendid fight against the employers without giving their full political support to the Party they have learned to know as their best champion on the picket line.

In no state in the United States is the trade union bureaucracy more corrupt than in the New York state, and yet the advanced sections of the working class are exceptionally advanced in the same state. This ought to give the basis for early tremendous successes in the coming election by the New York comrades.

Our national campaign, with all of its international importance, ought to receive a tremendous impetus from the launching of the New York state campaign.

WALKOUT OF 600 WAS SMASHED BY FAKER

(By a Worker Correspondent)

BOSTON, (By Mail).—The building trades agreement expired April 1, 1928. A new agreement was supposed to be signed granting an increase of wages for almost every craft. At present, two months after the expiration of the old agreement, none of the crafts have got any increase, nor did they renew the old agreement and the old wage scale. The only ones that were promised a raise of 6¼ cents per hour, going into effect July 1, 1928, and another 6½-cents beginning April 1, 1929, provided any one of the crafts from now until April, [illegible] get an increase from the employers, were the painters. Two months after the promise to the painters, no agreement has been signed yet, and the chances to sign a new agreement are slim. The Master Painters' Association is cleverly fooling the painters' district council 41, delaying the meeting date from one week to another.

Strike in the Air.

Things have been in the air until now. Some two weeks ago, the iron workers went out on strike for an increase. On May 27, about 8,000 carpenters voted to strike. On May 31 at an overflow meeting, the Bricklayers' Union 3, almost unanimously voted to strike for a ten-cents per hour increase. Many other crafts are preparing to strike. It looks as if a general strike will be called of the Boston building workers.

About five months ago 600 workers of the building trades returned J[illegible] 9, 1928 back to work after a two week progressive strike. On the second week of the strike, it was settled by the general business agent, E. E Graves, of the Boston Building Trades Council, sending back the men to work by selling them out to the L. P. Soule & Son Co. The strike was caused when the company refused to pay the cement workers the 12½-cents per hour increase their agreement called for. The cement workers then struck on the Keith-Albee Theatres and John Hancock's Building.

The chief agent of the building trades council, Mr. Graves, who, by the way, has a very bad record as a betrayer of the Upholsterers' Union, Local 37, Boston, when called to court with all the other agents got scared for reasons best known to himself. He called on lawyer Marberry, the building trades' council lawyer and told him to settle the matter of libel before it came to court. So the lawyer, together with the agents, settled the case with the Soule & Son Co. satisfactory to both of them but bad for the workers.

Lack of funds again compels the omission of the customary cartoon by Fred Ellis. The contributions expected Saturday, although larger than on any previous day, were not sufficient to meet the demands of creditors. We hope the workers' support will enable us to continue Ellis' splendid cartoons tomorrow.

Imperialists Plunder and Divide

By SCOTT NEARING.

"Just see what we have done for the people of Haiti" is an argument running far back into history. Every great empire has done its best to render colonial territory prosperous because of the importance of colonial markets.

The Roman world in Western Europe was a case in point. The territory known as Gaul was covered by a network of Roman roads. These roads were extended as rapidly as the Roman conquest proceeded. Immediately, of course, they corresponded to a military necessity. In the last analysis, however, they were intended to provide avenues for commerce. They tapped resources and opened markets.

Scott Nearing

Roman imperial policy in Gaul may be taken as a model even by the most successful imperialists at the present time,—the British.

The peoples of Gaul lost their liberty. The Romans inaugurated law which was enforced by the Roman military machine. At the same time Roman citizenship was held out as a prize which the Gauls could win through faithful service to the empire. Partnership in the most powerful state of the period was the substitute for lost tribal freedom.

The tribes were persuaded by the Romans to abandon their rugged hill fortresses, to move to the valleys and to occupy the new towns which were being build up along the lines of trade. The Roman government offered every encouragement to agriculture and to industry. Banditry was suppressed. Trade was protected. As security increased and capital was amassed, interest rates fell. The more enterprising among the native population got into the commercial game and within a generation became members of the rich local business class. Gaul was not only one of the richest districts of the Roman empire. In many respects it rivalled Italy itself. Its great cities, its rich merchants, its mining enterprises were sources of vast profit to the local business class as well as to the business elements in Rome. There were, to be sure, a number of outbreaks after the "Roman Peace" had been imposed on Gaul, but on the whole its provinces enjoyed an era of almost continuous business prosperity.

As a result of this business prosperity, the farmers were pushed steadily from their farms, the wealth was concentrated in the hands of a small, rich class. The workers who left their farms and emigrated to the cities were employed there, or helped to make up the unemployed city slum population. The same system of exploitation which had been established in Italy was established likewise in Western Europe. With this exception, that in Italy the profits went almost entirely to the Italians, while the profits in the provinces were divided, part going to the local business class and part to the Roman rulers.

What the American empire does for Haiti, Panama and Nicaragua, the British empire has done for India, Egypt and the Straight Settlements and the Roman empire did for Gaul and for Asia Minor. Each imperial ruling class selects the territory where it proposes to carry on exploiting activities, constructs roads, exploits natural resources, builds up trade and utilizes the native labor as the basis for its business prosperity. If the imperial class is foolish it insists on hogging the spoils, and inevitably the colony revolts.

If the imperial class is wise it shares the spoils with the local exploiters, using local resources and local labor as the basis for the mutual enrichment of the imperial and colonial capitalists.

European imperialists in China like American imperialists in the Caribbean area are making a huge mistake. They are assuming that it is possible for an imperial ruling class to take everything. They might profitably turn the pages of their Roman histories and discover that the ruling class of the greatest empire of classic times was content to plunder and divide.

Militant Miners Rout Fishwick's Thugs

By JOE PETERS.

There was a big fight in the Monarch restaurant located on Main St. in Belleville, Ill. The gangsters had just been routed. As I looked around, the place appeared somewhat demolished; table cloths, broken chairs, cups and glasses littered the floor. The frightened customers, who had fled to the rear, again came forward. The waiter telephoned for the police.

After the Battle.

There nearest to the door stood Freeman Thompson with a gashing wound on his forehead, his scalp split from the blow of a stump instrument, face and shirt front covered with blood. But there was blood in his eyes too.

Next to the wall stood George Voyzey, his hands yet clasping the remains of a chair. Further back stood John Watt. He had just hurled a sugar bowl through the glass door as the gangsters fled. I felt just a slight pain in the left knee. It must have been struck by a chair.

Outside amongst the gangsters was Walter Nesbit, then yet secretary of the Illinois Miners' Fishwick administration. They were waiting for the police to rescue them. Nesbit sported a beautiful black eye. Some of the gangsters carried bruises. They had felt the heavy paws of the coal miners, made strong by heaving big lumps of coal.

That night the cells of the basement of Belleville city hall were filled. Although the whole affair was obviously framed by Walter Nesbit, he was not there.

There was political significance in that battle. It happened after the first day session of the Illin is Miners Speci. Convention about 1.30 in the morning.

I had just met these coal miners, old friends of mine. George Voyzey who stands well over six feet high of athletic built. He enjoys a good scrap. Freeman Thompson, tall and wiry, carrying the scars of many battles of the past. John Watt, slender built but quick in action and with some experience in the ring.

With John Watt, I went that evening to the Save-the-Union headquarters on Main street. He wanted to get some material. We noticed a gang across the street calling us names. When we again left the headquarters and made for the restaurant, the gang followed hollering after us. In the front of the restaurant another gang was loitering around. It was apparent they were all working together.

Coming inside the restaurant, we met Freeman Thompson and George Voyzey sitting by the counter. They joined us at our table as we told the story of what had happened. Voyzey seemed to be in fine shape and feeling good in anticipation of a scrap. Needless to say, having met them we felt better too.

Gang Attacks.

Walter Nesbit then came into the restaurant, calling Watt aside, telling him to leave as a gang was outside waiting to beat him up. We then understood the whole situation. Walter Nesbit was the one who had organized the gang to frame up these coal miners. After a minute he came back in once more, telling John Watt that the gang was now coming, and then as a cyclone they busted in on us from all sides; some of them having previously been placed at the counter and some of them coming from the outside.

The gangsters were of the type accustomed to quick work, but they counted without the heavy blows of the miners. Freeman Thompson and John Watt had obviously been pointed out to them in advance as they particularly ganged-up on these two. As I am not a coal miner and apparently not picked for a victim, altho kept busy, I could get a better view of the battle. Walter Nesbit tried his hand in helping his gang and on top of three or four others tried to land on Watt. George Voyzey had meantime kept himself busy hitting right and left and hitting heavy. I just saw him swing at Nesbit and later witnessed the result—a swollen black eye.

Chairs, cups, glasses and sugar bowls were flying in all directions. Such a reception was much hotter than the gangsters expected. Rapidly they made for the door and kept outside until the police arrived.

The police appearing on the scene, Walter Nesbit stepped forward, pointed the four of us out to be arrested and we were marched off to jail. Two of the gangsters were taken along so as to give an appearance of impartiality. They were the Taggert brothers, one of whom the year before stole milk and eggs at the Lyric hotel.

The Beans Are Spilled.

After being securely locked up, one of the Taggert brothers, the younger one who was not quite such a hardened sinner, spilled the beans. Obviously he had not expected to land in jail. He cursed Nesbit and hollered, "Tell that s———— to come down and get me out." His brother, fearing that he would give the whole story away attempted to quiet him down, but that further aroused his anger and he said, "What the hell. It is easy for you to talk. You received $100 from Nesbit."

Next morning our friends on the outside got busy and demanded our release. The police commissioner appeared in front of the cells telling us in a manner of lecture that they wanted law and order to prevail in the city; he had no objection to free speech and to the convention continuing with its work. He added: "Mr. Nesbit has not filed any charges against you." This brought a hearty laugh from the four of us. We asked him to please to go to the restaurant where he could get the whole story from the owner, and from the people there of how the gangsters had assaulted us and how the whole thing was clearly organized by Nesbit. At this report the police commissioner did not seem to care to enter into further arguments, but quietly unlocked the doors and we were again free.

Arriving at the convention hall where the next day's session just started the coal miners told their story, challenging Nesbit to prove that they did not hire gangsters to make a deadly assault upon them, admonishing the delegates that this was not merely an assault upon the three miners mentioned but upon the movement which was now struggling to free the union of all the corrupt influence, to free it from the control of the tools of the operators. The convention spirit rose to tremendous heights. The delegates pledged that there would be no let-up until this battle was finished, until the rank and file had taken complete control of the miners' union, not only in Illinois but throughout the country.

MILITANT COAL MINER TELLS OF RELIEF WORK

To the Editor of The DAILY WORKER.

Dear Mr. Editor:

I wish to say a few words in reference to the National Miners' Relief, formerly the Pennsylvania & Ohio Miners' Relief, how it was formed and what benefit it has been to the miners and their families.

It was on or about the 15th day of August 1927, that the question of forming a Sub-District Relief Committee was taken up in Local Union 971 of Yorkville, Ohio and of which I am president.

I myself called a mass meeting for the purpose of forming a Relief Committee. To this meeting I invited our Sub-District Officers.

Vice-president Pacifico, and some members of the sub-district board came to the meeting. There it was decided to wait until after the A. F. of L. Convention was held for the purpose of giving relief to the striking miners and families.

Call Second Meeting.

After the convention was held and we did not get relief, we called another mass meeting in Yorkville as our sub-district officers had never taken any action in forming a relief committee. At that meeting Yorkville Local Union No. 971 and Local Union No. 397 decided to work together for the formation of a relief committee of both locals. At that time the Pennsylvania miners had already formed their relief committee and learned that we in Ohio were also forming a committee. They sent representatives to Ohio to ask us to unite with them and form one committee. This we decided to do, and the coming together of these two committees was the means of forming the Pennsylvania and Ohio Miners' Relief Committee. This committee was the means of bringing the miners closer together.

Learn of Each Other.

We in Ohio began to learn the true conditions of our brothers and sisters in Pennsylvania and they also at the same time began to get to know what their striking brothers and sisters in Ohio were suffering. This was the means of bringing a higher and better understanding among our people. And even in the non-union field there arose a better feeling. In that field there are many men who were at one time some of the best fighting men that our organization has ever known, but who were driven out by the clique that were in the office, because the gang could not break the noble fighting spirit of these men.

On the 1st day of April 1928, in Pittsburg, these same men who had been driven from our union came to the Save-the-Union Convention to fight for the principles which they believe in. And when this convention was held in Pittsburgh, a high and noble feeling existed there as the men were all in harmony with one another, and all believed in the action that was taken there. And since that conference was held, the Save-the-Union Committee has been doing all it possibly can to aid the Pennsylvania and Ohio Miners Relief Committee.

Broaden Work.

Since our convention we have had to broaden the scope of its operations, as we have taken in every state in the union and Canada where miners are on strike. We have changed the name of our committee to the National Miners' Relief Committee. Our committee has had stiff opposition from all reactionary organizations. But we are glad to know that there are more progressive workers in the country than reactionaries, and we are glad to see our progressive brothers and sisters of other crafts and unions and many good friends come to our aid. They feel that the Save-the-Unionists are the most active, and are the first that they can depend upon for assistance should they in turn need assistance themselves, and therefore they are eager to assist them because they are altogether progressive and class conscious.

The National Miners' Relief Committee have done and are doing wonderful things in aiding the miners families and it has all been brought about by the generous assistance of the good and conscious workers of the land, who realize that the fight of the miners is their own fight, and our many supporters can rest assured that when this warfare is over, and the miners of the progressive United Mine Workers of America have the means we promise to help to repay a little of the kindness that has been shown to us in our time of need.

—JACK BELL, Tiltonville, Ohio.

HANDOUTS

An extremely entertaining exercise in naivete is noted in the latest issue of the Nation where its policy of "applauding" and "deploring" reaches newer heights of humor.

This week it lauds: Mr. Rockefeller's action in calling for the resignation of Robert W. Stewart as chairman of the board of the Standard Oil company of Indiana. Also: The endorsement by the German electorate of Premier Stresemann's peace policies.

Only political lethargy could account for its oversight in not praising Coolidge's superb Gettysburg address, Kellogg's home-made peace proposal, and the destruction of workers in the Mather collieries.

"How does he know they will be interested in having his statute?"

"He doesn't. But he's going to be on the safe side. He'll have his statue already for them in everlasting marble."

MINERS LAUGH AS CHIEF THREATENS EXPULSION

(By a Worker Correspondent)

PITTSTON, Pa., (By Mail).—I want to write and tell you about a meeting which was held in my Local Union 1376, of the United Mine Workers at the Roseland Hall, Hazelton, on Friday, June 1st.

Two organizers, district and international, were present and demanded that we expel two of our brothers who were delegated by our local union to attend the Pittsburgh National Save-the-Union Conference. The organizers threatened that they would revoke our charters and made all kinds of other threats. We refused to take these threats seriously and told them to go ahead.

Then our district president, Andrew Mattey, arrived. Everybody was so surprised to see him that the whole membership began hollering and asking him, "Andro are you drunk today?" as a greeting. Mattey, of course, told them that he was not drunk and that he merely came to take his transfer from the local union. We, naturally wanting to see him go, gave him his transfer. This, of course, is a preparation to expel our local union, but we should worry. We are going to take away the union from Mattey, Kennedy and the whole bunch.

Then, also, the district officials sent a letter to the local union at Eckley that they must expel from their union two very active members because they dared to collect money from the rank and file in our district for relief of the rank and file in the soft coal and send it to the rank and file direct in the striking districts.

I just want to add that Friday at Local Union 1376, when Mattey was leaving the hall, he made the following statement: "I will be elected no matter what you do." Meaning that he would be elected president no matter if the rank and file is against him or not. Well, he is making a big mistake because we are going to kick out the whole machine and elect our brothers who are running on a program and a slate.

Blast on Commandant's Yacht Injures Sailor

Machinist's Mate Floyd Plutter, 23, of Elizabeth, N. J., was still in a critical condition yesterday as a result of a blast on the Admiral, yacht of Capt. Frank Lyon, acting commandant at the Brooklyn Navy Yard Wednesday. The yacht was an old model but three sailors had been ordered to condition it for the enhancement of the commandant's pleasure and prestige. Navy yard officials attempted to conceal the seriousness of Plutter's injuries. Two others narrowly escaped. The gasoline tank blew up.

KLAN IS WORKING FOR HOOVER FOR U. S. PRESIDENCY

He Has Promised to Champion Open Shop, Keep Marines in Nicaragua

But the Mellons and Butlers Always Have a Dark Horse in the Party Stables

(Special to The DAILY WORKER.)

KANSAS CITY, June 11.—No little part of the support that has placed Herbert Hoover far in the front as candidate for the republican nomination for president in the pre-convention maneuvers comes from the Ku Klux Klan.

Grand Dragons, Kleagles and other professional klansmen are here in strength and Hoover is their favorite. The klansmen are buttonholing everybody who will talk with them to urge votes for Hoover. There are many klansmen, also, among the convention delegates. With the exception of those who are still holding out for the re-nomination of Calvin Coolidge the klan delegates are for Hoover almost to a man. The only factor that has caused anything resembling a split in the klan ranks is the favorite son campaign of Senator James Watson of Indiana. Watson is a klan senator and klan candidate and naturally the Indiana klansmen see more to gain from Watson's nomination than from Hoover's.

Coolidge and the Klan.

The support which Hoover is deriving from the klan shows indirectly also a close relationship between the klan and the Coolidge administration, since Hoover is running on a pledge to continue the open shop policies at home and the imperialist policies abroad of Coolidge's Teapot Dome government.

The convention is due to open tomorrow. And by the time the final ballot is cast the workers may see another demonstration of the fact that public school glorification of United States presidents is a myth. United States history shows that so-called dark horses have often been

I. L. D. DENOUNCES FASCIST TERROR

Workers' Leaders Are Tortured

The sentencing of 37 members of the Italian Communist Party to prison terms aggregating 300 years is denounced by the New York Section of the International Labor Defense in a statement issued yesterday. The statement, signed by Rose Baron, secretary of the New York section, follows:

"Mussolini's black-shirted despotism has again run true to form. 37 members of the Italian Communist Party—37 of the best fighters for one of the most oppressed working classes in the world, have been doomed to prison terms ranging from five to twenty-seven years. No one has any illusions concerning the dungeons of fascism. These 37 leaders of the Italian workers and peasants are being sent to torture and death.

"But not in Italy alone does the black hand of Italian fascism reach out to strangle every voice that is lifted in protest. Throughout the world, including the stronghold of capitalist 'democracy,' the United States, the agents of Mussolini are busy hunting down their prey with the active cooperation of the capitalist governments.

"The direct hand of the United States government in this bloody work was recently laid bare by A. Lozovsky, secretary of the Red Trade Union International, in connection with the mysterious disappearance of Isidoro Azario, a militant leader of the Italian trade union movement. Azario, while passing thru Panama, was arrested at the demand of the fascist government of Italy and turned over to Mussolini's agents. More than a year passed and no one knows what has been done with Azario. There can be little doubt that he was foully murdered before he ever arrived in Italy, a murder of which the United States was a direct abettor.

"The fight against fascism can only be waged on an international scale by workers of the entire world. In this country the International Labor Defense, the central defense organization of the American workers, has been in the forefront of this fight. The workers of New York, the capital of American finance capitalism, which works hand in hand with Italian fascism, can aid this international struggle in no better way than by supporting to the utmost the work of the International Labor Defense."

Police Terror Devises New Torture

(Special to the Daily Worker)

WHEELING, W. Va., June 11. — Laura Calegari, coal digger's widow who is leading the strike of unorganized miners at the Elm Grove and Triadelphia mines of the Valley Coal Company, is threatened with permanent separation from her two children as a result of strike activity. Laura, as everybody in Triadelphia calls her, will have to appear in a Wheeling court in answer to a warrant charging neglect of her babies.

New Form of Terrorism.

"If I promised to stay off the picket line they'd be glad to drop the charge against me," Laura says.

Laura Calegari is the moving spirit in the strike which tied up all three mines and involved some 1,500 miners. It is she who keeps the picket lines moving daily before the three mines.

In a letter to the National Miners' Relief Committee, Mrs. Calegari reports that police told her, "We'll take that picket line habit out of your head even if we have to knock it out with a club."

SHANGHAI, June 11.—A definite split, which may be accompanied by open warfare, is believed to be impending between General Feng Yu-Hsiang and General Yen Hsi-shan as the gradual investment of Peking brings the opposing, the cooperating forces face to face. The capital which has been partially occupied by the troops of General Yen is surrounded by Feng's troops on three sides.

Announcement that the Nanking government has ordered the Generals Pe Chung-si and Li Chung-yuen to desist from cooperating with Feng Yu Hsiang against General Yen, substantiates the earlier report. Chiang Kai-shek is understood to be supporting Yen.

Workers from Coast to Coast Rally to Save Militant 'Daily'

To the Readers of The DAILY WORKER:

Your militant spirit and self-sacrifice will save The DAILY WORKER. Of this we are convinced. Our revolutionary paper is not out of danger, but each day's mail and telegraph are bringing more encouraging response.

The score yesterday was $1,660.40.

Read this inspiring telegram:

"LOS ANGELES, June 11.

"Under no circumstances lost faith in the power of the workers to save the Daily. We will stand by at this end, and united we will weather the present storm.

"At a mass meeting last night $900.000 was collected and will be wired tomorrow. In spite of poor health I am back at my post.

"Let the Daily be a beacon light of the workers towards victory!

PAUL C. REISS."

And then read this letter:

Dear Comrades:

Enclosed find check for $110.00. This is only the first of a series that we hope to be able to send in. We had meetings of a number of nuclei last night and had a representative of the District Political Committee attend each of them. This $110.00 was brought in by Comrade Phil Raymond who was assigned to Street Nucleus 9 where he secured $60.00 in donations and to Shop Nucleus 5 which met in the same building, where he secured $50.00 in donations to save the Daily.

He is the only member of the District Executive who has reported thus far and we are rushing the money to you, hoping it may aid in keeping the paper alive.

All our forces are on the job for the Daily and every other campaign is held in abeyance until the crisis is passed. Our Daily Worker agent is also working to raise funds and you will receive remittances from that source independently of the District office.

With Communist Greetings,
H. M. WICKS,
District Organizer, Detroit.

P. S.—While addressing the envelope to you Street Nucleus 5, Section 3, came in with an additional 22.00, which I am also sending with a separate check. Other units will report during day or this evening and we will rush it in as fast as it comes.

Total $132.00.

Now another letter, from Sam Hammersmark, Daily Worker agent at Chicago:

Dear Comrades:

Enclosed find a check for $107.25 covering the following donations.

Kindly make mention in the Daily as soon as possible so others in Chicago will get the habit.

Street Nucleus 32, Chicago—collection taken after I spoke—$40.00; Martha A. Biegler, emergency fund, $10.00; Charlie Christian, emergency fund, $4.00; Street Nucleus 29, emergency fund $5.00; A. Vallentin, Street Nucleus 24, Ruthenberg Sustaining Fund, $1.00 John Maes, emergency fund, $4.00; Strete Nucleus 29, emergency fund for Daily Worker, $14.00; Street Nucleus 29, Ruthenberg Sustaining Fund, .50; Ed. Wasserman, emergency fund, $1.00; A. J. Vallentin, emergency fund, .50; John Siroka, emergency fund, $1.00; Milton Gibbs, emergency Fund, $1.00; Andrew Stelpbuk, emergency fund, $1.00; Robert Smith, Ruthenberg Sustaining Fund, $1.00; John Mokosh, emergency fund, A. L. D. L. D.—Branch 86—I.L.D. Lithuanian Branch 3, L. W. W. Ass'n of Am. Branch 29, $24.00; Dena Van Hecht and Dora Udutz, Street Nucleus 22, $2.25.

Total $107.25.

I expect to make a few nuclei in the next few days and will rush in whatever I can as soon as received.

S. T. HAMMERSMARK.

The record of help which you, Comrades, have thus far given The DAILY WORKER during the present crisis is:

Last week.	Monday	$161.99
	Tuesday	464.55
	Wednesday	556.30
	Thursday	576.60
	Friday	695.00
	Saturday	705.77
This week:	Monday	1,660.40
Total to last night		$4,820.61

This means that yesterday, Monday, we were still short by $179.39 of the first $5,000 which were to have last Saturday. So we are behind the schedule. Of the total $10,000 which we must have by the end of this week, we will have to raise $5,179.39.

It is no easy task to raise this sum which yet remains to be gotten. The danger is no smaller today than it was at the end of last week, when we succeeded in postponing some of the payments until yesterday. We must secure more funds very rapidly if we are to succeed. We are in no panic; we are sure that you, Comrades, will work harder than ever today—this week—to make up the total which still is necessary if The DAILY WORKER is to remain alive.

We apologize to the militant working class readers of The DAILY WORKER for the temporary omission of many splendid articles and much workingclass news which we are unable to print while we have but four pages. We assure you that with your continued help through this crisis we will restore our paper to the larger size and fight on stronger than ever.

But we must depend on you to send every dollar that you can possibly contribute immediately by telegraph, airmail or special delivery to The DAILY WORKER, 33 First St., New York.

YOUNG MINERS IN FIGHT ON LEWIS

Conference Adopts Plans for Struggle

(Special to The DAILY WORKER.)

BELLEVILLE, Ill., June 11.—An enthusiastic conference of young miners' delegates from nine mining camps of District 12 concluded its session here yesterday with a militant demonstration for a fight against wage cuts, and for greater participation of the young miners in the activities of the union.

The conference which was called at the recent special, district 12, convention of the United Mine Workers of America at which the treacherous Lewis-Fishwick machine was ousted from control, followed the lead of the older miners in adopting a program of struggle against the Lewis machine. Resolutions were also adopted against the citizens' military training camps, against underground work for young miners before eighteen years of age, and for a six-hour, five-day week.

U. S. STRANGLEHOLD GRIPS CANADA

Investments Now Exceed Those of All Other Nations Combined

By LELAND OLDS (Fed. Press).

The strengthening of the investment chains holding Canada to the American financial empire is shown in a U. S. department of commerce report entitled The American-Canadian Financial Frontier. The title is misleading for the figures indicate that any frontier has been all but eliminated so far as the investment bankers are concerned.

The total investment of U. S. capital in Canada now exceeds that of all other nations combined, including Great Britain. This is a great change since 1914 when British investment in Canada exceeded that of the United States more than four times over.

The preliminary estimate of the Financial Post Year Book of Canadian business for 1928 places the total of Canadian securities owned in the United States at $3,031,000,000 compared with $417,100,000 in 1914. In the same interval British investment in Canada has increased from $1,800,000,000 to $2,110,000,000. Investment of other countries in Canada was $139,600,000 in 1914 and $236,000,000 in 1928. The share of the United States in the total foreign investment in Canada increased from 17 percent in 1914 to 56 percent in 1928.

Of the $2,711,242,015 of Canadian securities purchased by American investors since 1914 $740,000,000 were direct obligations of the Dominion government, $535,860,750 represented obligations of the various provinces and $185,749,170 obligations of Canadian municipalities. Practically all the remainder represented investment in Canadian corporations.

Between 1914 and 1928 U. S. investors put $498,255,000 into Canadian railway companies, $346,769,450 into the Canadian paper industry and $191,669,500 into Canadian public utilities. There also were investments on a smaller scale in banking and credit, steamship companies, harbors and docks, grain elevators, iron and steel, industrial machinery companies, chain stores, mining and smelting, lumber, hotels, oil companies, automobile companies, textile companies, etc. Altogether the figures afford a striking picture of the close affiliation of Canada to the financial system which centers in Wall Street.

WEST IS ACTIVE IN ELECTION CAMPAIGN OF WORKERS PARTY

N. Y. State Convention Fires Largest Cannon in Big National Communist Drive

Oklahoma and Idaho Against Great Obstacles Putting Militant Party on the Ballot

Reports of increased activities are reaching the national headquarters of the Workers (Communist) Party from the various districts engaged in the national election campaign. With the launching of the New York State campaign Sunday when nearly two hundred delegates from every section worked out a program and nominated a slate of state officers, the national election drive may be said to have got entirely under way.

Western States Active.

Particularly active steps are being taken by districts in the western states, it was learned. District organizer of Seattle is now touring Idaho in an aggressive campaign to put the party on the ballot in that state.

From Kansas come reports that in spite of the difficulty and the many handicaps to be overcome due to the election laws intended to eliminate minor parties, and in spite of the open opposition of the state officials, there is a good chance of obtaining the necessary number of signatures which must be obtained in at least twenty counties before the 18th of June.

Drive In Oklahoma.

In Oklahoma the drive to secure the necessary 5000 signatures to put the Party on the ballot is going on systematically. The final date set is June 16th.

Chicago reports that arrangements are being made for a campaign picnic to be held on July 4th. Milwaukee has arranged a picnic to be held July 8th.

Minnesota is actively engaged in a great drive to build the Labor Party of that state and at the same time to defeat the third party elements masquerading as leaders within the Labor Party of the Shipstead camp.

TEXTILE STRIKE RANKS SOLID AS 9TH WEEK BEGINS

T.M.C. Tighten Lines to Prevent Mill Reopening

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., June 11.—The ninth week of the great strike of the 28,000 textile workers here, begins with every one of the 56 mills still completely shut down and with the strike ranks presenting a more formidable front than at the beginning of the anti wage-cut struggle, due to the growth of the New Bedford Textile Workers Union, a branch of the National Textile Mills Committee.

The T. M. C. union is rallying all its forces to mobilize the strikers for the inevitable attempt of the mill owners to reopen the mills with wage cut schedules.

The mobilization to fight this move will be, according to the strike leaders, heavily fortified picket patrols at all the mills, and the speeding up of plans of the Textile Mills Committee to spread the textile strike wave to other centers, particularly to the 25,000 workers in Fall River.

In addition to this, work for raising relief for strikers and their families, and the raising of funds for defense against the daily intensifying police terror, will also receive primary attention of the T. M. C. strike machinery. The national organizations of the Workers International Relief, and the International Labor Defense, are at the disposal of the textile union for these campaigns.

FORM MILL UNION IN FALL RIVER

Mills Committee Opens Permanent Office

FALL RIVER, Mass., June 11. — The "Fight-the-wage-cut" struggle and organization drive, inaugurated here by the Fall Rvier section of the Textile Mills Committee, gained added impetus as the leaders of the Mills Committee movement announced that they had established permanent local headquarters here at 161 So. Main St.

Despite the frenzied attempts of the mill barons and the officialdom of the American Federation of Textile Operatives to halt the progress of the Textile Mills Committee, that organization thru its leaders, James P. Reid and Peter Hegelias, announces the tide of strike sentiment rapidly rising. They also declare that large numbers of mill operatives are daily recruited into mill committee membership.

In a day or two the time and place of another mass meeting will be announced, a statement issued by the T. M. C. heads declares.

Ried Veteran Fighter.

James P. Reid, at the head of the work in Fall River, is known by young and old among the textile workers as an old fighter in the New England labor movement, the Union of Textile Workers, later the United Textile Union.

3 Dead, 2 Hurt in Destroyer Blast

NORFOLK, Va., June 11.—Three men were killed and two injured when the steamline in the U. S. destroyer Bruce exploded here today.

The dead, civilian workmen of the Norfolk naval yard, were: E. H. Munden, Charles H. Bryan and Joe Joyce, all of Norfolk. They were scalded to death.

Two members of the crew of the destroyer were scalded when they attempted to rescue the victims.

PROTESTS URGED AGAINST FASCISM

I. L. D. Scores Jailing of Italian Communists

The International Labor Defense, in a resolution being circulated, urges its local organizations thruout the United States and all labor bodies to protest against the sentencing to long prison terms of the 37 leaders of the Italian Communist Party.

Pointing out that their only "crime" consisted of opposition to the criminal and anti-labor fascist regime of Mussolini, the resolution urges unity of all workers and other anti-fascist elements in the fight against the blackshirt rule.

At the same time it demands an investigation by an impartial committee to ascertain conditions of political prisoners in Italy, and that trials of members of the Italian Communist Party and the victims of the Milan frame-up be conducted in the open.

The resolution charges that the fascist regime has imprisoned tens of thousands of workers and has been responsible for the death of thousands.

FIVE CLEVELAND WORKERS FINED

Arrested for Booing Counter - Revolutionary

(Special to The DAILY WORKER.)

CLEVELAND, June 11.—The five men and women arrested here recently on charges of having disturbed the speech of the counter-revolutionary Milyukoff at the peace conference, came before Judge Beebe of this city. Each was fined $20.00 and costs and sentenced to 5 days in the workhouse.

The men and women on the stand openly stated that they were sympathizers of Russia and had no use for such people as Milyukoff, who were thrown out of Soviet Russia ten years ago, and who are rank imposters working in the name of Russia. Betty Gannett, district organizer of the Young Workers League, stated that Milyukoff had lied against Russia, and that everyone knows that the workers and peasants of Russia support their government, which Milyukoff tried to disprove.

Young Workers League Representative Calls Kenosha Strikers to Mass Picket

7,000 APPLAUD HERMAN'S WORDS AT HUGE MEETING

Steele, Reactionary, Fails to Halt Speech

(By a Worker Correspondent)

KENOSHA, Wis., (By Mail).—On Monday evening, June 4, there was scheduled outside of the city hall in Kenosha a monster demonstration of workers. The great gathering of 7,000 workers was organized by the "Committee of 1000" composed of trade unionists and sympathizers. The occasion for the gathering was the presentation of a petition calling upon the city council to prohibit the out-of-town gunmen who are housed inside the Allen-A Co. from continuing to make the mill their sleeping quarters. The petition also called for the expulsion from the city of these thugs.

Huge Demonstration.

Slowly the "Committee of 1000" marched through the city from the vicinity of the striking hosiery workers' headquarters, with numerous flares lighting up the posters carried by the marchers. Some of them read: "The Gunman Must Go!" "City Council Do Something For the Welfare of the Kenosha People," and "Remove the Gunmen Menace From Our City." At last the parade reached the square around the city hall, where the huge crowd of ten thousand workers had been patiently waiting. Cheers greeted the arrival of the "Committee of 1000." The strikers began to shout their enthusiastic locomotive call: U---N---I---O---N; U--N--I--O--N; U-N-I-O-N, which was greeted by the applause of all workers present.

It was then that several workers and strikers began to urge the representative of the Young Workers League of America, Samuel A. Herman, to mount a chair and say a few words. They had previously heard him speak at open air meetings arranged by the Young Workers League, Local Kenosha, in the center of the downtown section of the city. The league member mounted a chair and the monster crowd gathered close about.

Fight Open Shop.

The league speaker called upon all those present to help the strikers picket the Allen-A Co. whenever they have the opportunity before work, during their lunch hour, or in the evening after through with work. He called upon the trade union workers to help the strikers financially and to help organize the hundreds of unorganized workers in the mill. When he finished speaking there was a deafening applause. Many workers urged the league speaker to again mount the chair and continue speaking. He again addressed the workers briefly and called upon them to give a powerful locomotive cheer for the striking union workers. This was done with thousands of workers participating and the cheer could be heard for blocks away.

As the league member stepped off the chair, the vice-president of the American Federation of Full Fashioned Hosiery Workers, Harold Steele, jumped up and addressed the workers. He told them that the previous speaker was not a striker and was not called upon to speak in an official capacity. The crowd could not make head or tail out of his remarks, as the league speaker had announced when speaking that he was speaking in behalf of the Young Workers' League.

When Steele had finished, the crowd of workers everywhere remained silent. They were extremely puzzled as to the cause of Steele's statements. Samuel A. Herman attempted again to mount the chair, but Steele and an official of the carpenters' union held the chair and would not let the league speaker get up. A slight tussle for the chair ensued in which the two officials, seeing the crowd surging about and demanding that the league representative be allowed to speak, thought discretion the better part of valor and released their grip on the chair.

Herman Shows Up Steele.

Herman told the audience how Steele and Budenz would not allow him to attend strike meetings and how they tried in every possible way to hinder the distribution of The DAILY WORKER, a real militant working-class paper. But though the leaders kept away League members and DAILY WORKER correspondents from the strike meetings, they could not keep them away from marching upon the picket line together with the strikers. Herman pointed out how regretable it was to have a leader of a union, at such a splendid occasion of working-class solidarity, attempt to cause dissention by denouncing the League. In conclusion, the League speaker stated that his faith was in the workers present and that if the workers asked him as a member of the League to address them, he would listen to them and not to any individual who tries to go against the wishes of the rank and file workers present. His remarks were greeted by tremendous applause.

"Shorten Push Carts" Is New Graft Edict

PETTY graft in the New York police department has just taken on a slightly different form, according to hundreds of East side pushcart peddlers who were yesterday ordered to reduce the size of their carts from seven and eight feet to 54 inches.

At a meeting of resentful peddlers it was charged that the order was made so that officials of the department of public markets would have more pushcards on which to collect tribute. Market officials accept thousands of dollars yearly from illegally licensed East side pushcart peddlers and auction off licenses and desirable positions, the speakers said.

Acting Markets Commissioner Neal "innocently" denied the existance of graft in his department. "We had to make the change," he said, "because of the new order forbidding pushcart vending within ten feet of a fire hydrant."

MINE WOMEN MAY LOSE CHILDREN

New Form of Terrorism By Coal Police

mine where she is now leading the strike, Mrs. Calegari has kept boarders for a living. Her one-story shack houses five roomers beside herself, her two youngsters and a large family of a striking miner which was recently evicted. The woman who is charged with neglect of her own two children feeds and prepares three meals daily for 65 children of strikers, "my little pickets" as she calls them. In addition she prepares breakfast for every member of the picket line each morning.

Sheriff—Snake.

"They've tried everything they know to keep me off the picket line," this miners' Joan of Arc confided to a representative of the National Miners' Relief Committee last week. "That snake Frank Muth (a deputy sheriff), came to my house one night and said he thought too much of me to see me get into trouble on the picket line without warning me. He said that they would try to take my kids away, but I told him they'd do it only over my dead body. They said that I'd get in trouble and finish in the electric chair, trying to scare me. They think I'm green. I told them, good, that's what I want, to die for the workers here, if I have to. They didn't like that."

Two nights after Muth's "warning" the widow was arrested on a charge of disorderly conduct. She was later discharged. Mrs. Calegari's house was raided a month ago by six state policemen. The excuse was a search for liquor.

Laura's little shack, which is the center of workers' activity in Triadelphia, is now security for a $2000 bond which she signed last week to release Phil Schatz, publicity representative of the National Miners' Relief Committee who was arrested while interviewing pickets last Monday, June 4.

Needs Help.

The first news of the redoubled persecution directed against the widow strike leader was received Saturday, June 9, in a letter sent by her to a member of the National Miners' Relief Committee, 611 Penn avenue, Pittsburgh, Pa. "You see what they are trying to do. I only wish you were to help me."

The National Miners' Relief Committee will help Laura. But it costs money. The workers who cannot accompany Laura to court and on the picket must get into the fight with money. Send whatever you have, immediately, to the National Miners' Relief Committee, 611 Penn Ave., Pittsburgh, Pa.

OUST CAPPELINI GANG AT MEETING

Collect Relief Despite Machine Opposition

(By a Worker Correspondent)

PITTSTON, Pa. (By mail).—At our meeting on June 4th, I want to report that we were able to kick out the whole Cappelini crowd which was headed by George Moleski, who was working hand in hand with the contractors, and who has continually thru actual force had control of our union and who at times used thugs, state police and county police to keep control.

It is very important that this local union should kick out the whole Cappelini crowd. We elected the following officers: Tony Mancino, president; Dan Cavanaugh, vice-president; Sam Latona, secretary.

It is of great significance that Brother Sam Licata and Ray Walasky were elected on our grievance committee. Not so very long ago when we were to overthrow our officials, the contractors beat up Brother Licata, splitting his head, etc. We are slowly but surely kicking out the whole Cappelini machine and I want to advise the brothers to clean out the local officials no matter where they are and only to elect brothers who are for a program and will fight for the rank and file.

Thomas Kennedy, secretary-treasurer of the Mine Workers Union, has again issued a slanderous statement against the local rank and file leadership in the anthracite tri-district, who are mobilizing their forces to gather relief for the bituminous miners.

He condemns the miners for gathering relief for the rank and file in the bituminous coal fields and claims that no collection can be made unless they have a credential from him or from William Green. He points out that the American Federation of Labor has also condemned sending relief to the rank and file in the soft coal field.

The statement does not have very much effect on the anthracite miners as they are going ahead gathering relief for their soft coal brothers. They well know his strikebreaking activities. His district at this time is in open revolt against him and his lieutenants, A. Mattey and Yourishin.

PIECE-WORK AND SPEED-UP DRIVE CANNERY SERFS

$12 Per Week is Usual Pay At Can Belts

(By a Worker Correspondent)

OAKLAND, Calif., (By Mail).—I wish to give other workers a few glimpses into the lives of us workers who slave every year in the canneries of California.

Long Hours, Small Pay.

California to us means the same long hours and the same small pay as any other state regardless of all the advertisements to the contrary about our gold and sunshine.

There is some sunshine here, but we only see the fruit which it blesses, except when we are out of a job, when we get plenty of sunshine but do not enjoy it.

One of the basic industries here is agriculture, and many men and women are engaged in the canneries during the summer months preparing fruit and vegetables to be shipped out all over the world.

The conditions of these workers are the worst in the land. At present asparagus is being prepared and canned on a piece work basis. We have a minimum wage here, but those who cannot make it on piece work don't last long. Only the fastest are kept.

The hours are from eight to twelve a day, mostly over eight hours with regular pay for overtime. We only make from $12 to $15 per week. The work is very hard and must be graded in about seven different varieties, with foreladies constantly at our elbows.

Speed-Up.

Fruit salad is also being made at this time and, altho this is not piece-work, everything is speeded-up as fast as possible with $18 a week pay.

Tin cans run on belts from six to eight inches apart and girls put in a certain number of pieces of fruit. Girls next to the belts cut and grade the fruit. From the cutting tables to the belts, girls carry pansful of fruit, sometimes two pansful in each hand. These girls are constantly on the run as they have to keep the girls supplied. The girls on the belts cannot even look around from their places without missing a can.

Nearly all of these workers have just barely existed during the winter and are depending on this work to catch up with payments.

There is no limit to the hours of the working day.

There are nurseries so that there will be an abundance of young women to be had easily. We are required to buy a uniform apron, a rubber apron and cap from the company and whatever working implements we need, such as knives, peelers, corers, pitters and also a numbered button, so that one slave can be distinguished from another. These things, of course, are paid for from our first pay no matter how badly we may need it.

The California state law also says that every woman shall sit whenever possible. The place where I work has an adjustable seat in each place that swings under the table. But no one is allowed to sit on these during working hours. This proves that the law is no good without the organized power of those whom they were made to protect behind them.

VILLAGES FALL TO NICARAGUANS

Army of Independence Makes New Gains

MANAGUA, June 11.—Reports of fresh successes won by troops cooperating with the Nicaraguan army of independence, under General Augusto Sandino, are admitted by the American authorities here. Unfamiliar with the country, and hampered by the rainy season which has virtually ended any organized American offensive, the United States marines are now totally unable to make headway against the forces of General Sandino.

Reports from the interior state that two villages have fallen to the army of independence.

Want Jobless to Help Them Rake in Shekels

DES MOINES, Ia., June 11.—Iowa contractors are trying to use the unemployment situation to feather their own nests. The widespread unemployment in this state is being used as a plea for the adoption of a $100,000,000 bond issue for grading, draining and surfacing of the Iowa road system during the next 10 years. The propaganda factory of the altruistic backers of this project has begun pouring out large quantities of literature professing great concern for the condition of the unemployed. No mention is made of the millions of dollars, "legitimate" and illegitimate, that would accrue to the contractors and their flunkeys.

Sinclair's "Singing Jailbirds" to Open New Playwrights Season

An early announcement by the New Playwrights Theatre lists Upton Sinclair's "Singing Jailbirds" as one of the early productions for next season. The play was done in Berlin a short time ago by the Communist director Piscator, and received most excellent reviews.

Of the other productions being considered by the group are: "Airways, Inc.," by John Dos Passos; "Picnic," by Francis Edwards Faragoh; "The American Beauty," by Paul Sifton, and Dawn Powell's "Women at Four O'clock." There may be two or three other plays which are now being considered.

"Her Unborn Child," the play by Howard McKent Barnes and Grace Heyward, which played at the Eltinge Theatre some six weeks back, and recently showing on the Subway circuit, reopened last night at the 48th Street Theatre. Effie Shannon still heads the cast.

There is a rumor to the effect that John Erskine's "The Private Life of Helen of Troy," will be made into a musical comedy. Harry Wagstaff Goribble will make the adaptation, and Eugene Berton and Edward Eliscu will handle the score and lyrics.

James G. Peede's production of "Gold and Dust," a drama of modern life by Alura Farrell, opened at Werba's Brooklyn Theatre last night. The cast is headed by Thais Lawton and Roger Gray. Broadway may see the new opus later this season.

IN "GRAND STREET FOLLIES."

Bituminous Coal Production Lower

WASHINGTON, June 11. —The output of bituminous coal during the week ended May 19 was lower than in either the previous week or the corresponding period of 1927, according to statistics of the Department of Commerce. Lumber production continued to average lower than in either the previous week or the same week of 1927, while carloadings continued to reflect declines from last year.

Receipts of wheat at primary markets were higher than in either the previous week or the same week of last year. Cattle receipts, on the other hand, showed declines from both periods, but hog receipts registered increases over both the previous week and the same of last year.

TROOPS TO STAY IN NICARAGUA

WASHINGTON (FP), June 11.—Secret conferences at the state department regarding Nicaraguan finances have been followed by announcement of the resignation of customs collector Ham and high commissioner Hill, Americans.

This step indicates that an American receiver or financial adviser is to be named when the new loan is made by American bankers.

nominated by both republican and democratic conventions. And the nomination of a dark horse shows as well as anything else that it is the determination on the part of a certain group of industrialists and financiers to dominate and not the pure personality of an individual which swings conventions, over all being the idea of the perpetuation of the capitalist system at the expense of the working class.

Klan Is Non-Partisan.

The two-party system of capitalism and the Ku Klux Klan is shown by the career and the presence here of M. O. Dunning, capitalist and klansman. He was a democrat in 1924 and one of those who tried to nominate William Gibbs McAdoo, who was the favorite also of many labor officials at the democratic national convention of that year. After the re-election of Calvin Coolidge, however, Dunning made a deal with the republican party and was given a job as snooper and raider by General Lincoln C. Andrews in the prohibition service. When Andrews quit his job the republican party continued to take care of Dunning and President Coolidge made him collector of customs at Savannah, Ga. Dunning is every inch a republican now and is busy here for the administration forces. So far he has been working for Hoover on the theory that President Coolidge will not again be a candidate.

Dakota Farmer-Laborites Select Their Candidates for Primary Campaign

PLAN TO BATTLE THRUOUT STATE; HIT OLD PARTIES

Knutson is Speaker at Vital Meet

WILTON, N. D., June 11.—Legislative candidates to run on the Farmer-Labor ticket in the primary elections on June 27 were selected here at a recent meeting. Following are those chosen to make the fight in the coming campaign:

State senator, Oscar E. Anstrom, Baldwin; representatives, Andy Erickson, Bismarck; Hans Nelson, Baldwin; David M. Boat, Wilton. Plans were made for the immediate distribution of thousands of leaflets and stickers, and for the appointment of committees to interview voters, urging them to register Farmer-Labor. The sticker method is employed for the purpose of getting the candidates on the general ballot in the fall.

In a stirring speech, Alfred Knutson, editor of "The United Farmer" and candidate for U. S. senator on the Farmer-Labor ticket, emphasized the importance of putting up workers' candidates. "The candidates of both old parties are pledged to uphold the private banking and business interests." This was especially true of the I. V. A. and the N. P. L., Knutson said.

Another meeting to be held Sunday, June 17, will discuss further plans for the campaign and take steps for the organization of a unit of the United Farmers' Educational League. A committee composed of Frank Erickson and Oscar Anstrom was selected to make the necessary arrangements.

LEAGUE CLOSES; SETTLES NOTHING

GENEVA, June 11.—Complete failure to decide any of the more important issues facing it, characterized the closing of the fiftieth session of the League of Nations Council here. The critical situation engendered by the Japanese invasion of China was not even touched upon. The only question of moment to receive consideration was that of the Hungarian claimants against the Rumanian government for lands confiscated under the Bratianu agrarian policy. This question, which has been on the agenda of the League for five years, was left unsettled.

FRENCH PERMIT SYRIA ASSEMBLY

BEIRUT, June 11.—The Syrian assembly opened here yesterday with 69 delegates attending. The assembly will draw up a constitution for the country under the guidance of the French authorities who have chaperoned the movement from the beginning. Until the constitution has been framed, the government will continue to be chosen by the French high commissioner.

Chicago Bakers Renew Annual Agreements

Chicago bakers joined the national procession of locals that have renewed their annual agreements when 530 shops fell in line. The standard wages and hours were continued by Local 2. The Bakery and Confectionery Workers' International Union reports the vast majority of its locals signed up and several strikes settled. The Spokane lockout is hurting the boss more than the unionists who are boosting union bakeries and finding jobs for a good proportion of their locked out comrades. Strike trouble in the east has been largely settled.

Cleveland Workers Will Hold Picnic Soon

CLEVELAND, June 11. — The Workers (Communist) Party of Cleveland, District 6, will hold its first picnic of the Party this season, the ninth annual picnic, to be held on July 15, at Lakelands, 14711 Lakeshore Boulevard, Cleveland. (Take St. Clair-Euclid Beach car only.)

The picnic is scheduled to start at 11 A. M., and to last until late in the evening. Dancing and athletic exhibitions are being prepared for the early afternoon program, while at 2:30 there will be speaking.

CLEANER FORCED OUT OF UNION

Was Mysteriously Fired Next Day

(By a Worker Correspondent)

After the window washers have been on strike since January of this year against the conditions of slavery imposed by the Building Managers' Association, Local 34, of the Building Service Employes' International Union at a regular meeting held on May 30 was faced with the question of what to do to make this strike a success.

Passive Strike Harmful.

The passive strike which we have had since the beginning of our attempt to organize the unorganized is doing as much harm as a passive strike usually does.

The fight is of such a nature and the Building Managers' Association is so powerful financially, that unless we put up a militant fight, we cannot expect to win against our enemy who is protected by all the forces of the state and our reactionary labor fakers who advocate a passive strike.

At our union meeting I advocated that we let our enemies know that we are conducting a permanent strike against them, that we elect a live strike committee, who will see to it that this strike is intensified. Should we fail to win the strike before Labor Day of this year, we should call a general strike of all window washers in the city of Chicago.

Bars General Strike.

Our president, Czar Wills, who is also first vice-president of the International Union objected to this, stating that "never, as long as he was president would there be any general strikes of window washers."

I then pointed out that, to my knowledge, his record as president of the Window Washers' Union proved that he never did at any time encourage or advocate real strong militant fights against the bosses and that he was principally interested in having anyone who did this kicked out of the union. I said also that he was chiefly interested in getting us to cooperate with and support the bosses' policies, programs and political parties, as in the last primary elections when he urged the workers thru the Wage-Earners' League, of which he is secretary-treasurer, to support Len Small for governor of Illinois. Small helped to break the Illinois miners' strike. Crowe, whom he also supported, has a notorious strikebreaking record.

Favors Bosses.

I said further that Mr. Wills could not possibly be any good to us as president since his policy at all times was more in favor of the bosses than of the window washers.

In the course of the charges presented by me against Mr. Wills, he insists that I accused him of petty larceny. Now if this is so, I should like immediately to retract the charge, for the meaning of the word "larceny," could not possibly cover the great harm he has done to the window washers, the workers and the union.

As a matter of fact, I had no intention at this meeting, or at any other meeting, of accusing him of petty larceny. On the contrary, I wished to charge him instead with the worst type of yellow labor fakery and betrayal of the trust placed in him by the window washers of Local 34.

Scabs Sanctioned.

In this strike we have had more than one instance of his treachery. Now, while the strike is in progress, he permits scab labor to wash the windows of the First National Bank.

At the meeting of May 31, Mr. Wills commanded me to prove charges of petty larceny before a trial committee which would meet at 5 p. m., on June 1, for the purpose of proving that such a charge was impossible.

I appeared before the committee as requested. Mr. Wills, when he arrived, informed us that, in the absence of Oscar F. Nelson, president of the Building Service Employes, he, Mr. Wills, was now acting president and had used the power of his office to suspend me without trial or hearing. Then Wills requested the committee to approve his actions and take my card from me, claiming that he had the power to do this since at the last meeting I had made remarks reflecting on his character as an officer and unbecoming for a member of Local 34.

Now, as I was already suspended the committee could not very well try me and I retired from the meeting.

The next day I was informed by my employer that I was fired. I asked my employer who had fired me, and he informed me that he was not at liberty to say but he had received orders to put me off the job. He added that as far as he was concerned, however, my work was quite satisfactory.

MINER EXPOSES DISTRICT 7 GANG

"Progressive" Paper Betrays Workers

By A DISTRICT 7 MINER.
(Special to the Daily Worker)

HAZELTON, Pa.—"The Freeland Press," a paper which was built up because of its opposition to the Lewis-Kennedy-Mattey machine in District 7, came out on June 1 in an open attack against the opposition in this district. They have singled out two outstanding leaders of the opposition in that district, and have come out openly slandering them in every way possible without any reason whatsoever.

These are Gaffney and Ward who are leaders of an expelled Silver Brook local union which the officials of District 7 have been prosecuting for a couple of years and at the present time have an injunction pending against them.

Expose Stand.

In the same issue that attacks these militant leaders they also support the Brennan group in District 1, advising the miners of District 7 to follow the road of the Brennan forces in District 1. The miners and local unions who are at the present time with the opposition have built up the "Freeland Press" in that district as an opposition paper to the district machine. W. E. Joyce, editor of that paper, together with a few others, has betrayed the opposition and has tried to use all kinds of blackmailing in order to discredit the leaders of the opposition against the Lewis-Mattey-Kennedy machine.

Open Sell-Out.

It is becoming clear that Joyce, who by the way is not a miner, and the rest of the leaders without a program are trying to make an alliance with the officials of District 7 and with the Lewis machine. We miners know Joyce for what he is and his blackmailing will not go very far. We have had others who have betrayed the rank and file in District 7 and we will not let him discredit our leaders whom we, the rank and file, trust.

Many Books Read by Palestine Workers

TEL AVIV, Palestine (By mail).—The Central Library of the Histadruth (Jewish Federation of Labor) reports that it obtained between October 1927 and March 1928 a total of 1,902 new volumes. 977 volumes were purchased with funds supplied by the cultural department of the Histadruth. The other volumes were gifts. Of the books received as gifts 41 percent are in Hebrew, 28 percent in German, 12 percent in Russian, 10 percent in Yiddish, and 9 percent in English, Polish and other languages.

The Central Library loaned during the year 2,678 books to the branch libraries in the province. 60 percent of those books were in Hebrew. Two branches were closed and four new ones were opened within the last 12 months. In the main branch of Tel-Aviv there were read last year 20,693 volumes. 72 percent of these were in Hebrew, 19.4 percent in Yiddish; 4.6 percent in Russian, 2.8 percent in German, 1 percent in other languages. 89.7 percent of the books consisted of fiction, poetry, drama, and magazines; 17.6 percent of juvenile literature; 10.3 percent of works on science. Of the scientific books read 46.2 percent were on sociological and economic subjects.

DETERMINED TO WIN ARGENTINE HARBOR STRIKE

Strikebreakers Prove Total Failure

BUENOS AYRES, June 11.—Entering its second week, the strike of harbor workers which has been tying up the port of Bahia Blanca continues to hold nearly a dozen vessels idle at the wharves.

The spirit of the men is as firm as when the strike began, leaders of the strikers report, and in spite of police provocation, smashing of picket lines and demonstrations, the determination of the men to win is strong.

The government's attempt to introduce strikebreakers has been an almost total failure. Some of the men imported from northern cities stayed on the job a few hours, nearly all deserted shortly after their arrival.

The owners, who are losing thousands of dollars every day that the strike continues, are still unwilling to make terms with the men but are urging the government to interfere in their interest by suppressing the strike.

Sentiment among the workers in Bahia Blanca is thoroughly in favor of the strike and the recent twenty-four-hour general walk-out greatly helped to stimulate the enthusiasm of the longshoremen.

OHIO STRIKERS PERSUADE SCABS

BELLAIRE, Ohio (By mail). — A group of would-be scabs bound for the Webb mine near here to get jobs were stopped and prevented from entering the mine by a mass picket line early on the evening of June 5.

The men were accosted by strikers who demanded that the strangers explain their business. The spokesman of the group of scabs replied that they were going fishing. When they continued in the direction of the mine, they were followed by the entire picket line and after argument, were persuaded not to apply for work.

Walsh, superintendent of police, three of his police inspectors, five ward chairmen of the republican party, two police magistrates, and twelve police lieutenants. Besides these, scores of liquor peddlers, "fix" men, "go-betweens," politicians and patrolmen are among those who must go on trial in federal court.

MINERS' RELIEF BODY IS ACTIVE IN STRIKE AID

Sends 100,000 Pounds of Supplies

(Special to the Daily Worker)

PITTSBURGH, Pa., June 11.—Approximately 100,000 pounds of groceries were rushed into Eastern Ohio Friday morning by the National Miners Relief Committee in response to urgent calls from numerous local unions of the United Mine Workers of America there. This shipment, which includes corn meal flour, rice, tomatoes, herring, sugar and beans, will be distributed among 5 thousand families.

The locals have been notified by Jim Vall, secretary of the district relief and Jack Bell of Tiltonville, the chairman, to send their relief committees and trucks to the railroad siding of the Old Wabash Railway in Yorkville to claim shares of the groceries. Almost a score of locals who have received no relief from the union since their charters were revoked for participating in the progressive "Save the Union" movement, will also be aided by this shipment.

"We haven't had a bite to eat in days," a letter forwarded by Jim Vall says. "Our boys are standing it—holding out solid, but we must get something for the children. Please, we don't want to be starved into scabbing!"

Relief committees in 150 large cities throughout the country are raising funds through fraternal, church and labor organizations.

Many locals of labor unions, from almost every state in the union have contributed to strikers' relief generously through the National Miners Relief Committee.

But this shipment, distributed among 5,00 families, will last only a very short time—no matter how skillfully it is managed. In spite of the intense hunger, Eastern Ohio is holding out. Only actual starvation can force them back. Make another shipment possible by sending your contribution to the relief headquarters at 611 Penn Avenue, Pittsburgh, Pa.

From John Brown to Andy Mellon

The republican party was born amid terrific class struggles over three-quarters of a century ago. It cut its teeth on the cannon of Lincoln's armies.

The republican party came into existence playing a role that was not reactionary—a role that had a revolutionary phase. "Free Soil, Free Speech, Free Labor and Free Man" was inscribed on the banner of the Free Soil party which can more or less be called the father of the republican party. In the year that the convention of left-wing Whigs, Democrats and Free Soldiers at Jackson, Michigan, gave the name "Republican" to the party that was to lead the country through civil war to modern capitalism, many of the same forces were making civil war against the United States government in "Bloody Kansas." The names of John Brown and James H. Lane in Kansas were the "sacred relics" of the republican party.

The republican party played one of the biggest world parts in the bourgeois revolution.

This morning the republican party meets in national convention in Kansas City, not far away from the Kansas that was once bloody. Not John Brown or Jim Lane carrying rifles on the backs of wild mustangs, but Herbert Hoover, the efficiency engineer, and Andrew W. Mellon, finance-capitalist, sipping gin rickeys in private cars, are the symbol of the republican party.

Jackson, Michigan, birthplace of the republican party, now has no further claim to fame than as the location of the prison where C. E. Ruthenberg was jailed.

The republican party, the classic party of the American capitalist class, has led the capitalist state through the cycle of development from an infant republic that still had a revolutionary task to perform to the fat and brutish imperialism of today which is the most colossal force for counter-revolution in the world. Civil war there is still—and the republican party and the class it represents are on the opposite side of civil war—the reactionary side, the slave-owners' side. The class it represents, and the state and federal governments of that class, are sending marines to drop bombs on the John Browns of Nicaragua, and troops and "ministers" to shoot and swindle striking wage-slaves. The United States government, which functions through the bureaucracy of the republican party and the democratic party (which is now only another "republican party"), is entirely and completely a force for reaction, for stagnation of all social development, for exploiting, enslaving, crippling, poisoning the life of the masses—for the capitalist class, whose government it is, is entirely parasitic, reactionary.

Andrew W. Mellon rolled into Kansas City in his private car, in his vest pocket the decisions which will become the program of the republican convention. Behind Mellon are the greatest bankers and overlords of industry who control the United States and who manipulate its government as though by push-buttons. These finance capitalists will decide or have already decided who the candidate of the convention will be. If it is not Coolidge, that is because these overlords believe that this fish of the white house can no longer preserve the illusions of the masses in the clowning which is called "democratic" government. In all probability it is Hoover—and the question there also is whether or not this ideal chief strike-breaker and slave master can preserve sufficiently the illusions of the slave-masses he is to whip.

The republican party convention is the convention of the highest bureaucrats on the payroll of the biggest bankers and trust magnates. It may not be feasible to keep this set of republican bureaucrats in office, even with the selection for the vice-presidency of a scavenger-politician of the West who has made a profession of playing "farmers' friend." And if it is not feasible—then this set of bureaucrats will largely pass out of active service in the governing apparatus, and another set of servants of the same masters—the democratic party, will obtain the job of suppressing the masses of the United States and conquering the world for the same ruling class.

Since 1860 no political party has ever won a national election in the United States except that party that had the largest campaign corruption fund. This has usually been the republican party. The only instances when the democratic party carried a national election were also the only instances in which the largest bankers and industrialists turned their contributions mainly to the democratic party instead of the republican.

The republican convention is busy trying to carry out the orders of the masters back in Wall Street so skilfully as to preserve the blind faith of the working class and the agricultural population in the government of Wall Street which is rapidly strangling that population.

If the republican convention, under Mr. Mellon's guidance and with the help of a few Curtises, can't do it, the masters will fall back on Al Smith for four years of service just as good.

A plague on both of the political houses of Wall Street!
Vote Communist!

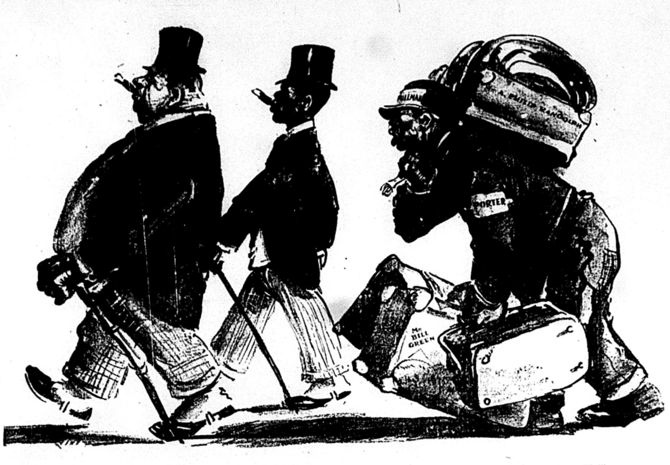
HISTORY

By HENRY GEORGE WEISS

The pendulum swings so far, and then
Return on itself it must,
And the moment comes when the beggars ride
And the kings lie in the dust.

Ever and ever the clock strikes one
After the longest hour,
And the whirlwinds of revolution sweep
The workers into power.

"NO STRIKE, GEORGE, THIS IS THE HIGHER STRATEGY OF LABOR." By Fred Ellis



PULLMAN PORTER: "Yes, Mr. Green and Mr. Randolph, but I am going to have something to say about this!"

Score Pullman Strike Betrayal

Statement of the Central Executive Committee of the Workers (Communist) Party

The strike of the Pullman porters was called off by leaders of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters. The movement of the Pullman porters, which created the largest single trade union of Negro workers, is of great significance, and the betrayal of the militant strike movement of these Negro workers is of great import for the whole labor movement and for the entire working class of this country.

The very existence of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters belies the slander of the corrupt white bureaucracy of the American Federation of Labor that Negro workers cannot be organized. The splendid fighting spirit shown by the practically unanimous strike vote of the organized Pullman porters is a flaming indictment of the Randolph-Webster leadership of the Brotherhood and of the bureaucracy of the A. F. of L. which choked the strike before it could develop.

Is the Strike Necessary?

The conditions of the Pullman porters are unbearable. They work 400 hours a month. The wealthy Pullman Company forces the porters to work under a disgraceful, humiliating tip system. A fight against the 13-hour day and for the establishment of an 8-hour day, a struggle against the tip system and for the establishment of decent wages is an imperative, pressing necessity for the Pullman porters.

Determined struggle—strike—is the order of the day for the workers on the Pullman cars. OnOly by means of a powerful mass organization, of a militant leadership, of a fighting policy will the Pullman porters be able to extract any improvement of their conditions and the recognition of their union from the Pullman capitalists.

The Treachery of the White Bureaucracy.

The organization of the Pullman porters is handicapped in many respects in entering into the struggle with the Pullman Company. The Pullman Company is one of the most powerful trusts in this country, follows the most ruthless open-shop policy, and applies the most brutal, crushing methods against the railroad workers. The unification of all trade unions of the railroad workers and the organization of the unorganized railroad workers is necessary to combat the powerful Pullman Company. The craft organization of the sixteen "standard" railroad unions are unable to carry on a really successful struggle against the centralized Pullman capitalists. The trade union bureaucracy within and without the A. F. of L. is responsible for the criminal split of the railroad workers and for the unorganized status of the overwhelming majority of the slaves of railroad capital. The white prejudices of the labor aristocracy and its corrupt leadership are responsible for the fact that the Negro railroad workers are excluded from the trade unions of the white railroad workers.

Narrow-minded craft and race prejudices are the leading principles of the "standard" railroad trade unions. But it must be stated that the present Randolph-Webster leadership of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters shares the responsibility with the white bureaucracy of the railroad unions. The Randolph-Webster leadership did not make any serious effort to combat the craft and race prejudices of the white labor aristocracy. Quite the contrary. They accepted craft isolation and accepted race segregation. The basic shortcomings of the organization of the Pullman porters are that it is a craft organization and that it never put up a sincere struggle against race segregation.

Strike Bluff or Strike Struggle.

The strike call issued by the present Randolph-Webster leadership of the organization was not for a moment meant seriously. It was only a bluff. It was only a speculation on the Watson-Parker law. It tried to induce President Coolidge to declare a state of "emergency" and set up a committee for arbitration. The treachery of the Randolph-Webster leadership consists in the fact that they want to build a movement based on the "emergency" of the capitalist railroads instead of basing the movement on the emergency of the dire situation of the Pullman porters. The present leadership of the Pullman porters called for the "intervention" of President Coolidge and the capitalist government instead of calling for the solidarity of all railroad workers. They based their strategy on the infamous Watson-Parker law, which institutes compulsory arbitration and makes all strikes illegal for the railroad workers. The present leadership of the Pullman porters has only played with the weapon of the strike, using it only as a bluff, and did not make serious preparations for a determined strike struggle. Randolph and Webster are the accomplices of Green and the other corrupt leaders of the white labor aristocracy. The wire of Mr. Green, advising the Pullman porters to call off the strike, was pre-arranged and is but a miserable alibi for Randolph and Webster. The present leadership of the Pullman porters is no better than the leadership of the white labor aristocracy. They accept the craft isolation, race segregation, and no-strike policy of the A. F. of L.

The Pullman porters must realize that the calling off of the strike and its "indefinite" postponement constitute a serious defeat and endanger the very life of the union. The powerful Pullman Company will now begin a merciless drive of extermination against the union. The policy of the Pullman porters must be: industrial union, solidarity of the Negro and white railroad workers, organization of the unorganized, and militant, sincere strike preparations.

The Communist Party and the Negroes.

The Workers (Communist) Party of America considers it its duty to expose the treachery of the corrupt bureaucrats of the white labor aristocracy and to fix responsibility on the Randolph-Webster leadership of the Pullman porter organization.

The Communist Party considers the organization of the Negroes into trade unions as one of its foremost historic duties. In the existing trade unions it fights for the admittance of Negro workers. If the white labor bureaucracy refuses to admit Negroes, the Communists help to form new Negro trade unions. At the same time we fight for the principle: One trade union for each industry for white and Negro workers.

The Communist Party proposes to organize inter-racial committees on trade lines for the purpose of organizing Negro trade unions and to work for the solidarity of Negro and white workers. The Communist Party demands the immediate removal of all restrictions in all trade unions against the membership of Negro workers. We fight for equal opportunity for employment, wages, hours, and working conditions for Negro and white workers.

Our slogan is: Equal pay for equal work for Negro and white workers.

The Communist Party is not only the party of the working class generally but also the champion of the Negroes as an oppressed race and especially the organizer of the Negro working-class elements. The Communist Party is the party of the liberation of the Negro race from all white oppression. The Communist Party considers it as its duty to unite all workers regardless of their color against the common enemy, against the master class. The Negro race must understand that capitalism means racial oppression and Communism means racial, social, and political equality for all workers. The employing class deliberately arouses the racial prejudice and hatred of the white workers against the Negro workers with the sinister aim to split and divide the ranks of the working class, thereby maintaining the oppression and exploitation of white and Negro workers alike. The white workers must realize that "labor in a white skin cannot emancipate itself as long as labor in a dark skin is branded." (Marx.)

The Communist Party—the Champion of the Negro Race.

The democratic party is the traditional party of Negro slavery. The republican party boasts that it liberated the Negro from chattel slavery, but reality shows that the republican party perpetuates the peonage and contract labor of the Negro tenant farmer and share-cropper in the South and the wage slavery of the Negro industrial worker in the North. The republican party, the party of Lincoln, has sunk so low that it has provided for measures to segregate the Negro delegates in its 1928 Kansas City nominating convention. There is the most dishonest and disgraceful "gentleman's agreement" between the two capitalist parties against the political rights of the Negroes. The Negroes are disfranchised. Lynch law is the law over the Negroes. The terror of the Ku Klux Klan is the constitution for the Negroes. The white masters try to reduce the Negroes to illiteracy. The socialist party accepts, without any serious resistance or struggle, the oppression of the Negro race. The bureaucracy of the A. F. of L. refuses to organize the Negroes into trade unions. The narrow white labor aristocracy refuses to recognize the Negro worker as its equal. The Communist Party is the sole party which fights for the liberation of the Negro race from racial oppression and for the emancipation of the Negro and white workers from capitalist exploitation and oppression.

The National Nominating Convention of the Communist Party, held on May 25-27, was the only political convention in which the Negro workers participated on a basis of complete political and racial equality. The southern states, as well as the working class Negro population of the north, were represented by numerous delegates. The platform adopted by the national convention is not only a platform of the working class generally, but it is also the platform of the Negro race. The Communist Party will carry its election campaign to all the states of the south, will present its complete program of emancipation of the Negro race, will challenge the rule of lynch law, the terror of the Ku Klux Klan, and the despicable dictatorship of the big southern landowners and capitalists.

The Communist Party calls upon the Negro workers to organize trade unions. It calls upon the white workers to help their Negro brothers in their struggle.

The Communist Party calls upon the Pullman porters to prepare for a big organizational drive, to carry out serious preparations for a future strike, to combat their present leadership, and to fight for rank-and-file control in the Pullman brotherhood organization.

Long live the common struggle of the Negro and white workers against their common enemy—capitalism!

GROWERS GRIEVE OVER WORKERS' LEGAL COSTS

(By a Worker Correspondent)

LOS ANGELES, Calif., (By Mail).—According to a recent report, the new Mexican Mutual Aid Society of Imperial Valley has filed articles of incorporation proposing to promote the general welfare of its members and other persons of Mexican descent in the valley. Headquarters will be established at El Centro. Filemon B. Gonzales and 8 other El Centro workers are named as directors.

The Brawley News (May 25) says, in part, as follows: "Attorneys for the new society will be Harry Horton and Kendall B. Perkins, who drew up the articles for the Mexican society and will be legal advisers."

These men were criticized by growers and shippers, etc., and "investigated" by the authorities at the beginning of the strike in the cantaloupe fields, as reported in The DAILY WORKER at the time. Why? Because, in the opinion of exploiters, gunmen and prosecutors, etc., said legal lights charged the new organization too much for their work. So the bosses shed crocodile tears over high cost of labor organization. On the other hand, the same bosses thought that it was alright to arrest workers of both sexes by wholesale, beat them up, and fixed their bail at $1,000 each.

"The society is a non-profit organization," said Horton today, "a welfare body, merely to benefit the many Mexicans of the valley. It has nothing whatever to do as a labor organization, but is on the order of a lodge or fraternal body. There is no capital stock. It is a sincere effort for betterment of conditions of its members and others of the Mexican race, and an earnest purpose for better observance of the American laws," Horton declared.

It is up to the reader to figure out the real meaning of "better observance of the American laws" in connection with the brutalities and strike-breaking activities of the authorities during the strike.

K. Torira, ranch manager, and a large fruit packer, were fined each $125 recently for the offense of packing unripe melons. Justice Griffin of Brawley, who refused to lower the bail of jailed pickers, set the same fine for the boss and the worker, declaring that an expert packer of cantaloupes should know instantly when fruit was unfit for export, even if the field men had been uncertain. Testimony showed that about 100 crates of unripe melons had been packed.

HANdOuTS

THE following bit of hilarious writing domes from the pen of Dr. John Haynes Holmes, pacifist minister:

"I am supporting the socialist ticket in the present presidential campaign because the socialist party is now the only political party in this country pledged to constructive principles of reform.... for all the people."

Th doctor who is so anxious to reform conditions for both bed bugs and sleeping men under the same blanket has gotten himself all flustered trying to prove the socialist party is not a class party like the democratic, the republican or the Communist parties. He will serve out his reforms to all without embarrassing any class. This is his pledge. But pledges mean very little. The socialist party, like every other, is really a class party. Make one guess. Right!

ADVICE to pedagogues of the capitalist system on how to manufacture good slaves is handed out by a Wisconsin business man in the following words:

"Our process of home training and education must build into the consciousness and soul of the child a new philosophy of life, the philosophy of unselfish service, service without hope of reward, except that reward that comes from unselfish service."

That's the kind of reward on which workers find it very difficult to rear families.

Defenders of the No. 1.

The perplexed face above belongs to William Hale Thompson, one of the nation's leading clowns, now resident in Chicago. His most famous parlor trick is to shake one fist so violently at King George that the workers won't notice him sticking the other out into the city's treasury. No sooner has he managed to keep the British monarchy at bay long enough for a breathing spell than a new enemy confronts him. This time it is the thirteen-month calendar. This has thrown William Hale Thompson into such a panic that he has overlooked entirely his private Chicago-British war that rages so violently between his mouth and his imagination. His terror is due to the fact that when the calendars are changed the dates will be so shuffled that the Fourth of July will be wiped out entirely and will probably fall on August 5 or some other ineffective date. Without any Fourth of July there won't be any patriotism and the Communists will take the country, Thompson believes.

A PICTURE of a fat and hypocritical business man scurrying around to meet the demands of all brands of ethics and morality, to get in good with god and at the same time get his mitts on all the cash that can be drained out of exploiting the working class, comes to mind on reading the following clauses from the pledge of the Rotary Club, the bourgeois business men's international:

"Fourth: To hold that the exchange of my goods, my service and my ideas for profit is legitimate and ethical provided that all parties in the exchange are benefitted thereby.....

"Seventh: To understand that one of the greatest assets of a professional or of a business man is his friends and that any advantage gained by reason of friendship is eminently ethical and proper."

MINE CONFERENCE PLANS NATIONAL CONVENTION

A. F. of L. Is Scheduled for Cold Reception from the Republican Politicians

OFFICERS FROM ALL DISTRICTS IN PITTSBURGH

Conference Takes Up Future Programs

PITTSBURGH, June 12. — Responding to a call from the new officers of district five United Mine Workers of America, officers and representatives of all organized districts as well as representatives from unorganized territory assembled here tonight for a second historic meeting to consider the situation in the union and to plan for a great national miners' convention in the near future.

Wide Representation.

The meeting which opens at six o'clock at Walton Hall will be attended by the new officers of district 12 of Illinois in which the Lewis-Fish-Fagan machine was recently ousted. Officers of district 5, from which the Fagan machine was recently ousted are already here. Representatives from the Ohio districts, from Indiana from Kansas are reported on the way.

Information that representatives of districts 1, 7 and 9, the anthracite are likewise on the way, came early today to headquarters.

In addition there will be representatives of district 2 of Pennsylvania. Officers and representatives of rank and file forces in other districts, from the unorganized and formerly unorganized fields, especially of western Pennsylvania will attend.

Plan National Convention

The conference is called for the purpose of considering the situation in the whole union and to lay plans for calling a national miners' convention.

Called a little over two months after the great rank and file April 1 conference which was attended by nearly twelve hundred delegates, the present meeting brings together the regularly chosen officers of nearly the whole of the United Mine Workers. The conference will again make history for the American labor movement by taking the next step in offsetting the employers' national open shop drive against the workers and in ousting the corrupt officialdom from the union.

RIOT GUNS SET AGAINST MINERS

Militants Stand Fast Despite Police

(Special to The DAILY WORKER.)

WHEELING, W. Va., June 12. — Riot guns manned by state police threatened the lives of more than 100 strikers who had come here from Philadelphia to demonstrate against the arrest of Oscar Guynn, Lansing Ohio miner. Guynn was taken into custody while addressing a mass meeting of the strikers at Triadelphia Monday.

One hundred and fifty men, women and children who marched on the Triadelphia number 2 mine of the Valley Camp Coal Company, and were listening to Guynn when he was arrested, piled into trucks and sped to the Ohio county jail at Wheeling to demand his release. The procession turned into a race when the auto bearing Guynn and his captors, sped to Wheeling in an effort to warn Ohio county authorities of the demonstration.

When the strikers arrived they found riot guns mounted on the steps leading to the sheriff's office and the jail.

The miners were ordered to disperse. Frank Henderson, young Ohio coal digger, then stepped forward and demanded Guynn's release.

Henderson, Betty Gannet, also from Ohio, with six others, were arrested when they refused to disperse and told police that "you will have to arrest all of us unless you release Guynn."

The meeting at which the arrest took place was held on private property not belonging to the company.

DANGEROUS EBB IN FUNDS FOR THE "DAILY"

Average of $1,100 Each Day This Week Required to Save Revolutionary Organ

To the Readers of The DAILY WORKER.

COMRADES:

The funds contributed yesterday in the campaign to save The DAILY WORKER fell to a dangerously low ebb. From the high point of $1,660.40 received Monday, the amount of contributions received yesterday sank to $661.20—the lowest level since last Thursday. Since the campaign started this is the first time the receipts for any day have failed to be larger than those of the preceding day.

The amounts received up to last night are:

Last week.	Monday	$161.99
	Tuesday	464.55
	Wednesday	556.30
	Thursday	576.60
	Friday	695.00
	Saturday	705.77
This week:	Monday	1,660.40
	Tuesday	661.20
Total to last night		$5,481.81
Still required by Saturday		$4,518.19

This is a danger signal. The DAILY WORKER positively must complete the raising of the $10,000 required by the ultimatum of creditors on or before next Saturday, June 16. There is still to be raised $4,518.19 BEFORE NEXT SATURDAY NIGHT. This means that an average of more than $1,100 must be raised on each remaining day of this week, today included. We do not wish to create undue alarm, but the ultimatum stands before us that the DAILY WORKER will be closed unless the funds are forthcoming. It is very doubtful whether we can obtain any further leniency in regard to the time allowed for further payments.

Comrades, we are sure you will stand by us. We are determined not to let our revolutionary fighting paper die. Our Party's revolutionary campaign in the national elections is just getting under way. The fighting coal miners will need The DAILY WORKER during the coming months more than at any previous time. The textile workers, the needle trades workers, the unorganized and the unemployed workers now of all times must not lose their only daily which speaks in the language of the country.

Communists, sympathizers, militant workers, we are confident that you will not fail us. We will not fail you. Our Party Central Committee has declared that it will sacrifice anything rather than let our revolutionary central organ go out of existence. But in order to put this determination into reality, it is necessary that you act quickly—TODAY.

You are urged to redouble your efforts and to send all possible funds to The DAILY WORKER, 33 First Street, New York, by telegraph, airmail or special delivery.

TRIAL OF BELA KUN ON JUNE 26

Horthy Regime Has Spy Agency in Vienna

(Special Cable to the Daily Worker).

VIENNA, June 12.—The trial of Bela Kun, internationally known Communist leader, arrested several weeks ago, will be held here June 26th, it was announced today. At the same time it was revealed that the entire proceedings will consume but a single day.

Bela Kun

Meanwhile the Horthy fascist government of Hungary is continuing its demands upon the Austrian government for Kun's extradition which would undoubtedly result in his execution.

Startling revelations have just been made of the existence of a systematic spy agency and forgery mill maintained by the Horthy regime in Vienna where Kun was arrested.

Millions of workers thruout the world are continuing to hold protest meetings against the extradition of Kun and are vigorously demanding that he be set free at once.

One of the charges which the indictment is expected to list is "plotting to overthrow the Austrian government."

NY AMALGAMATED BARED AS CENTER OF GRAFT SYSTEM

Hillman to Pick Goats; Other Grafters Get By

One of the most astoundingly elaborate systems of organized graft ever found operating in an organization was discovered to be infesting the New York Joint Board of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers Union.

The general national office of the union is trying its utmost to stifle the sensational disclosures of a graft system that includes the setting and collecting of official graft prices for assistance to scab shops, for discharges of workers, for permission to put over wage cuts, and permission to inaugurate more and more vicious speed-up systems.

Share in Spoils.

The detailed facts were learned from a series of formal charges against the officialdom of the Knee Pants Makers Trade Board, and are sufficient to show that the bosses in the highest positions in the New York Joint Board also participated in the subdivision of the spoils. The charges were brought to President Hillman, who was compelled to choose a few scapegoats in order to shield his valuable henchmen who are the heads of the Joint Board. Hillman is preparing a decision requesting 3 of them to kindly vacate their berths. These are Louis Stern, manager of the Knee

PARKER TEXTILE WORKERS STRIKE

Another Attempted Wage Slash Fails

WARREN, R. I., June 12. — The Parker Mills were again forced to shut down their plant when every operative to a man remained away from work, in a renewal of the strike against a 10 percent wage cut.

The strike was renewed when the company, which had recently rescinded a wage cut order to end a strike of several months' duration, again posted notices declaring that the reduction goes into effect next Monday.

The mill owners, who also operate plants in Fall River, state that the original settlement reached with the officials of the United Textile Workers was not for an unconditional withdrawal of the reduction order but called for negotiations for a final "solution" of the wage question. Apparently, the result of the "negotiations" with the union heads resulted in their concurrence with the new wage cut attempt.

MELLON AND BUTLER APPROVE OF HOOVER

KANSAS CITY, June 12.—With Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon and William M. Butler, chairman of the republican national committee, publicly committed to the candidacy of Herbert Hoover, it looked today as if the convention would be organized tomorrow for his nomination.

Hoover's name has been seldom mentioned in recent exposures of corruption in the republican party and the Harding and Coolidge administrations. He has kept himself busy in the secretariat of commerce as an efficiency man for big business, increasing profits for the industrialists and bankers. But one of the strongest workers for his candidacy here is William S. ("Boss") Vare, senator-elect, of Pennsylvania, whose campaigns in Philadelphia have long been considered models in vote buying and slush-funding by the republican party officials. Vare's espousal of Hoover's candidacy preceded Mellon's by several hours.

Mellon, one of the nation's richest men, liaison man between the republican party and the government and big business, and the most important politician at the convention, will see to it that money is put out

FESS IS MUM ON OIL GRAFT MESS

Keynoter Sings the Old "Prosperity" Song

(Special to The DAILY WORKER.)

KANSAS CITY, June 12.—Careful skirting of the notorious oil scandals of the Harding-Coolidge administrations and lavish—almost hysterical—praise for the present incumbent of the White House featured the keynote speech of Senator Simeon D. Fess of Ohio at the republican convention here today.

Defeated in his aspiration to be a delegate to the convention, Fess acted as keynoter upon the invitation of William M. Butler, chairman of the republican national committee.

Unblushingly, Fess whose overlord, Coolidge, vetoed even the fake "relief" McNary-Haugen bill, handled the present plight of the farmers extremely gingerly. "Sound relief," he said, "will avoid artificial stimulous such as government price fixing or government buying and selling."

Daughterty, Fall.

The merest hint of the oil thievery with which the present administration bought its way into the White House was suggested when Fess innocently announced at the conclusion of his speech:

"While moral delinquencies are to be found in all political parties, and while they sometimes reach places of influence, the general rule is a high type of character in our public service, and never more so than at the present time."

KELLOGG GRANTS US AN INTERVIEW

"Nicaragua Nothing to do With Peace," Secretary Declares

By SENDER GARLIN.

"WILL the peace proposals of which you just spoke stop the present war in Nicaragua?" I asked the pink-cheeked, doddering old man who was being escorted out of the Grand Ball Room of the Hotel Pennsylvania last night by the Honorable Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, former United States Senator from New Jersey.

"That has nothing to do with Nicaragua," he chirped irritably.

A Churchman.

Frank B. Kellogg, L. L. D. and secretary of state in the Coolidge administration was the principal speaker at the Tercentenary dinner of the Reformed Dutch Church of New York. He had spent half an hour reading from a prepared manuscript and spoke cheerlessly about the multilateral peace treaties which he, as a member of the Reformed Dutch Church, was sponsoring.

The orchestra was playing "I Dreamt I Dwelt in Marble Halls, when the DAILY WORKER reporter and an unshaven companion entered. Enquiring for the press table, we were escorted by an obsequious waiter to No. 61. We had finished the fruit salad order when a thoughtful churchman enquired militantly: "What papers do you represent?" The police card with "Daily Worker" engraved brought the response that the place was being reserved for a representative of the New York Times.

Slinking to a prominent position in the principal balcony, we sat diametrically opposite to the honorable secretary of state. Derisive laughter resulted in our being invited to the rear of the Grand Ball Room where

"NON-PARTISAN" POLITICS IS DUE FOR KNOCK OUT

Secretary Davis Urges Tariff Support

(Special to The DAILY WORKER.)

KANSAS CITY, June 12. — Five minutes of groveling before the resolution committee of the Wall Street henchmen of the republican party after which they will be unceremoniously shunted out, is the program which Wm. Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, and his so-called non-partisan political campaign committee are expected to go through when they appear here some this week to present their terms of surrender to finance-capital.

"Crown Prince" Ill Received.

In 1924 when old Sammy Compers was still alive, his young "crown prince" Matthew Woll, vice president of the federation, received ten minutes from the committee in which to present what the yellow bureaucrats called the case of over three millions organized workers. Even with a third party then looming, little was feared from the obedient servants of big business. This year, it is understood, the A. F. of L. committee will receive five minutes.

Nineteen planks are contained in the program which the A. F. of L. declares it wants both the republican and the democratic parties to adopt.

Many Jokers.

Included in the A. F. of L. list of "demands" is one seeking the regulation of injunctions in labor disputes, one urging the acceptance of the "principle" of high wages and prosperity; another speaks of "constructive legislation" for the coal industry. This last demand is contained in a short paragraph of five lines embodying an issue which has practically led to the destruction of the mine workers' union and the most bitter struggle in labor history. A gesture is also made towards the five-day week, freedom of speech, against industrial conscription, etc.

* * *

KANSAS CITY, June 12. — Secretary of Labor James J. Davis, millionaire, labor hater, today echoed the words of Wm. Green, president of the American Federation of Labor when he declared for "good wages", and a protective tariff. This is seen as a challenge to the labor fakers to fall behind the republican program or remain silent. Davis also committed himself to the fact that "the right of labor to bargain collectively cannot be denied." Even more remarkable was his statement that "there is widespread complaint against the use of the injunction."

WORKERS' GROUPS AIDING THE 'DAILY'

Paper Again in Danger As Contributions Drop

Contributions to save The DAILY WORKER are being received from many progressive workers' organizations, including Workmen's Circles, councils of the United Council of Workingclass Women and other fraternal groups.

But despite the efforts of these organizations, as well as hundreds of individual workers, contributions are still far from what they should be. With only $661.20 received yesterday, the danger of suspension facing The DAILY WORKER becomes more imminent. The total of contributions thus far, $5,456.81, indicates that only $456.81 has been raised towards the second $5,000 that the "Daily" must have by Saturday.

Yesterday's contributions were as follows:

Emil Turins, West Allis, Wisc., 25c; Gokol Modrich, West Allis, Wisc., 25c; L. Burman, Baltimore, Md., $2; Nils Gustofson, Bklyn, N. Y., $2; I. Epstein, Chicago, Ill., $2; Walter P. District 5 Miners Twice Defeat Treacherous Moves of Lewis-Fagan Gang

REJECT MOVE TO OUST MILITANT UNION LEADERS

Fagan Machine Again Routed

(Special to the Daily Worker)

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., June 12. — Rank and file miners of Local Union 2086, Pike Mine twice administered a crushing defeat to the Lewis-Fagan machine here when they refused to carry out the orders of Lawrence Dwyer, international organizer for Lewis, calling for the expulsion of miners who attended the special district No. 5 convention recently held at Pittsburgh.

Report Meeting.

At a regular meeting of local 2086 held at West Brownsville, L. C. Knight, secretary and Mike Kovack treasurer of the union both of whom attended the special convention which turned out the whole Fagan machine in district No. 5, reported to the meeting.

These delegates were elected by a special meeting called by the rank and file against the wishes of Dwyer. After the delegates were elected a stoolpigeon named Thomas Beabans reported to Dwyer the action of the rank and file of L. U. 2086.

This stool pigeon was defeated at the meeting where the report of the delegates was made and accepted by the rank and file, when acting under the instructions of Dwyer, he made a motion to bring charges against the delegates.

Thomas W. Golden, another Lewis henchman acting secretary, and under Dwyer's instructions, posted a notice for a special meeting held June 8, 7 p. m. at the same hall for the purpose of expelling the delegates to the special convention. The meeting is said to have been called by orders of Pat Fagan, former district president. Here again stoolpigeon Thomas Beabans, in order to prove his loyalty to his Boss Dwyer, brought into the meeting as many supporters of the Lewis machine as possible to expel Knight and Kovack. After a hot fight the rank and file, demanding a standing vote, again won by 21 votes to 10 against the machine.

MOBILIZE BRITISH NEEDLE WORKERS

Make Many New Demands on Bosses

LEEDS, England, June 12. — A draft of demands of the 200,000 needle trades workers upon the Wholesale Clothing Manufacturers' Federation of England was drawn up at an all-day conference of rank and file representatives held here June 7. The conference issued instructions to their national officials to demand from the employers the signing of an entirely new national agreement, and to accept no compromise settlement until the union membership had ballotted.

Agreement Ends Soon.

The needle trades unions' membership had at meetings last month instructed their officials to inform the employers' association that the old form of agreement, now in existence, would be terminated on the day of their expiration, June 20. The old contract with the bosses has as its basis the signing of district settlements. This instruction was carried out by the officials because of the tremendous pressure of the rank and file.

Some of the demands made in the draft worked out at the conference include: a week's holiday with pay for all workers; men's and women's wage rates to be advanced by one half penny and one penny respectively; rates of pay of several categories of those working on a cheaper line be levelled to the rates paid to workers on certain specified better lines and national instead of district agreements.

Shopkeepers in U.S.S.R. Given Land by State for Hoover just as it was for Coolidge in 1924 and Harding in 1920.

The keynote convention speech by Senator Simeon D. Fess was warning to all second and third string delegates that Mellon, Butler, Coolidge and Hoover expect them to go down the line in the balloting for the imperialist and open-shop policies of the present administration. Mellon, Varc, Harry F. Sinclair, who was the oil slush funder for the republican party in the Harding-Coolidge campaigns, and all the rest of that ilk have passed the word around that to vote for Hoover is to vote for a perpetuation of the present Teapot Dome government.

EXPOSE GRAFT IN NY AMALGAMATED

Permit Open Shop, Wage Cuts, etc., for Price

Pants Board of Trade, Patsy Contoro and Barnet Levine, business agents.

Try Whitewash.

It was also learned that many former participants in the graft scheme, edged out by the machine, have furnished Hillman with a large number of affidavits purtaining to the collection of graft. Whether these will be made public when resignations will be in order, is not known.

Several choice examples of the graft ring's operations were also obtained. Back pay for the employees of the firm of J. Klein, to the tune of $3300, was collected and pocketed by the grafters. The money was to have been divided among the workers. The deal with the boss was made by a worker in the shop who had close friends in the machine. He was later given a paid organizer job. Permission to bosses to send work to scab shops was given at a generally known (among the bosses) and official price.

Fired Militants.

The price paid for permission to discharge a worker, because of slowness, militancy' etc., was $200 a head. J. J. Price, a large firm, paid $400 to fire two workers. One of these was a friend of the grafters, but grafters are generally known not to sneeze at $200, even if a friend stands in the way.

A boss contractor is known to have been the collecting agent for the Amalgamated officials.

One of the chief witnesses is a contractor, who was formerly himself at the head of the ring, one B. Levy. He had been ousted by his colleagues of the A. C. W., and had become an employer. Probable refusal to "come across" led to his being prevented from operating his shop. Finally he squealed.

Stein, who will probably "resign" was one of the ruling triumvirate composed of A. Beckerman, joint board manager, and J. Orlovsky, manager of the cutters' local. All the available evidence shows conclusively that the system of graft could not have been operating without its being known by the ruling clique in the organization.

BUILDING TRADE CHIEFS BETRAY UNION WORKERS

Scab Jobs Increase; Wages Below Scale

(By a Worker Correspondent)

BOSTON, Mass., (By Mail).—An open shop treat is contained in a statement issued by the board of councillors of the building trades employers after a meeting held May 31. The statement also openly asserts that they intend to start an employment agency and hire non-union men for all construction work and that no member of the National Building Trades Association will grant any increase in any craft whatsoever. It has been said that since the iron workers are on strike about 18 emergency jobs have been replaced by non-union iron workers. There is no question that after the successful trial of strength on the bosses' part on June 9, the employers are not going to sign any agreements.

Wages Are Cut.

In reality, if we were to analyze the conditions in the building trades we would find that about 75 per cent of the workers are working under the union scale of wages. This is true from electricians down to the painters.

The unemployment situation has the workers scared and the bosses have exploited this to their own advantage by promising to employ them steadily if they will work for less than the union wages. The workers, knowing the situation, are accepting this offer because they have to live.

Non-union Jobs Increase.

Every day non-union jobs are increasing. No attempt to organize the unorganized building trades workers has been begun by the building trade workers. High initiation fees are on the upgrade. The door is closed to adult, and especially to young workers. The ranks of the non-union army are swelling.

The Boston Building Trades Council is in a bad situation. As far as unity among the trade is concerned there is none. The carpenters are on the verge of breaking away. The other affiliated crafts are not on good terms either. Should a general strike break out, as is very likely, the strike would not be successful. One trade would scab on another on account of the misleadership, as was demonstrated in the big 1925 painters' strike.

The struggle in the building trades in Boston started with the iron workers going out on strike. We know that the leaders will look for every opportunity to settle this strike at the expense of the workers as happened on January 9, with the L. P. Soule & Son Co.

The workers in their respective union should insist on setting up strike committees of the rank and file. We must watch closely every move of the bosses and the union officials.

The building trades workers should make the following demands:

1. Increase of wages.
2. A uniform agreement for all trades expiring at the same time.
3. Enforcement of union conditions and scale of wages.
4. Control of jobs.
5. Active picketing should be established by the rank and file.

Unless we do this, unless the rank and file takes over the situation into their own hands, the case will be lost.

Entire Mill Villages Bought By Companies

RICHMOND, R. I., June 12.—Two entire Rhode Island mill villages, Arcadia and Millville, were bought recently by N. Hendrick, according to information made public by the town clerk's office. The purchase includes forty tenement houses, several mills and all other property of the 250 acres involved.

Although the purchaser denies any other intent but speculative ones, information is available to the effect that big industrial interests are preparing to establish the same feuda' system of manufacture as exists now in the company owned coal towns in the Virginias. This is done in order to hold the whip of eviction over the workers occupying company owned tenements, and also to prevent union organizers from getting anywhere near town.

Automobile Deaths Exceed 1927 Total

WASHINGTON, June 12.—Automobile accidents caused 530 deaths in 77 large cities of the United States in the four weeks ended May 19, as compared with 530 during a like period a year ago. For the 52 weeks ended May 19, the total of automobile fatalities in the same cities was 7,206, compared with 6,938 during the year ended May 21, 1927.

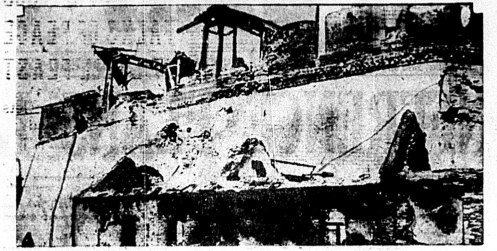
"Impregnable Wall" Gives Way Before Onslaught of Japanese Troops



The Tsinan wall, which has stood up for centuries against the attacks of enemies, both native and foreign, proved vulnerable when battered by the guns of the Japanese imperialist army which has seized Shantung. The picture above, one of the first to reach this country, shows a section of the wall which suffered most from the fire of the Japanese guns.

Irish Guild Players Present Three Tidbits at Playhouse

Of the three plays presented at the Provincetown Playhouse by the Irish Guild Players, "The Rising of the Moon" by Lady Gregory is the only one that gave the impression of having been adequately prepared for. The other two, "The Betrayal" by Padraic Colum, and "The Building Fund" by William Boyle, contained potentials for the stage which were not only left undeveloped but were even massacred by the poorness of the presentation and the flabbiness of the acting.

All three plays were written during the Irish literary renaissance, when the spirit of insurgence had gripped the younger literary men. It is because of this fact that the plays were revolutionary enough to have aroused expectations for something a bit more vital than the dilettantish offerings of the other little theatre groups now enjoying the heydey of their season. But this vitality, though pregnant in every word spoken last night, somehow missed birth, and suffered strangulation in the throats of the actors.

In "The Betrayal," a play depicting the domination of the Irish workers by the English agents in the eighteenth century, there was implicit in the plot a thread that, in spite of the awkwardness of the actors, kept the audience's interest to the end. But this interest was no credit to the Irish Guild Players. Padraic Colum, the author, should be thanked for it. "The Rising of the Moon" fared better at the hands of its actors. Sean Dillon as the sergeant and Joseph Smart as the ragged man did full justice to their parts.

Perhaps if the outworn expressions included in the dialogue had been eliminated, we might have enjoyed the plays far more than we did. Surely such sentences as "No word o' that shall e'er pass through my lips" are unconvincing to a modern, especially when they are supposed to be uttered in a moment of passionate anger. They give a certain stultifying and melodramatic effect to the presentation, which on the whole, hovered between a preventable mediocrity and a fresh genuineness.

A word should be said about Betty Deely, whose rendition of Mrs. Grogan in "The Building Fund" was the most thoroughly sustained and well-acted part of the evening.

YOUTH PROTESTS NEW DISMISSAL OF INSTRUCTOR

Pennsylvania Students Fill Hall

PHILADELPHIA, June 12. — The staid provincial burghers of Philadelphia saw something they did not expect to see when students and a large number of young workers turned out to protest against the dismissal of Sol Auerbach, instructor of philosophy at the University of Pennsylvania.

Auerbach was fired for praising the treatment of students in the Soviet Union, which he visited as a member of a recent student delegation.

The hall was filled as it had never been before. Many were turned away through lack of seats.

At this meeting Auerbach reviewed in detail his expulsion. Clarence Miller, district organizer of the Young Workers (Communist) League spoke on behalf of the young workers. Juliet Stuart Poyntz, of the New York Workers School, emphasized the class character of institutions like the University of Pennsylvania and told of her experiences in the educational field. Anita C. Whitney, formerly of Leland Stanford University, also told of her experiences. She has served time in California jails for her opinions.

With great enthusiasm a resolution was adopted protesting against the Auerbach ouster.

German Communists Appeal to Workers to Fight Coalition Government

SCORE SOCIALIST COALITION; URGE RULE OF WORKERS

Protest Tax Robbery, Militarism

(Special Cable to the Daily Worker).

BERLIN, June 12.—The Central Committee of the German Communist Party has issued an appeal to all the workers, including workers affiliated with the Social Democratic Party, to form a fighting bloc against a coalition and to struggle for a workers' and peasants' government.

The appeal protests against tax robbery, compulsory arbitration in industrial struggles, reactionary class justice and the militarist war policies.

BERLIN, June 12.—The resignation of the government headed by Dr. Wilhelm Marx was accepted today by President von Hindenburg. Hindenburg has requested the Social-Democrat Herman von Mueller to form a new coalition cabinet. The coalition will include a number of conservative parties.

The chief opposition to the new coalition in the Reichstag will come from the Communist Party which elected 54 members in the national elections held recently.

NEGRO WORKERS' CONDITIONS FOUL

Thousands Jobless As Construction Stops

(By a Worker Correspondent)

It is true that there are at least 5,000,000 people out of work in the United States today. It is true that the advent of machinery is continually throwing more people out of work. It is true that the prospects for the workers in this country is becoming glummer and glummer and the fact of their oppression and misery a startling reality.

But it is also true that too often we forget the Negro worker, the Negro comrade, who is on the lowest rung of the ladder, who is the first to suffer by any depreciation in industry and who is oppressed both as a Negro and as a worker.

I wish to give you a slight glimpse into the life of the Negro on Poplar Street, Philadelphia, a Negro "section," because so few of us have met the Negro on an intimate footing and have spoken to him as worker to worker. Capitalism in seeking to prevent class solidarity, has made the Negro mistrustful of the white man. In this way the Negro forgets that he is a worker, that he suffers because of lack of a united effort with his white brother against the boss, and to him his problem looms up as a race problem.

The Negro is religious. In order to be able to undergo this hell on earth, he has accepted the white man's heaven and hugged to himself the fripponeries of the white man's religion. The capitalist class knew what is was about when it imbued the Negro with religious fervor and so was successful in making him a servile slave.

In Philadelphia today, thru the machinations of a city beridden by Vare politicians and Mellon subscribers, all plans for construction are being laid aside. The city treasury is bankrupt. The greatest percentage of the Negroes are engaged in labor work. Practically their only means of making a livelihood has been taken from them. That is why one sees hundreds of them lined up early mornings in front of the "slave markets" downtown.

That is why one sees hundreds of disconsolate men lining Poplar Street today. Many firm, able-bodied men have been reduced to the alternative of picking rags and paper for 40 or 50 cents a day or starving. Their women, in most cases with large families, pregnant, with child at the breast, are forced to take in washing or go to scrub floors for the class that put their men out of jobs. The children are ill-fed and ill-clothed. They often feed themselves by picking food from the garbage cans of small storekeepers.

The greatest problem that the Negro must face is the rental problem. This Negro section is, as usual, the most dilapidated, oldest and unsanitary in the city. It abounds in reeking, stinking alleyways where are the miserable hovels they call homes. In a large number of these there are no toilets and, in many more, no running water. Their only means of getting warmth is an oil stove, and a lamp is the only light by which thousands of these families live.

Where the houses are of stone they are beginning to cave in and large numbers have been condemned by the public health authorities. The owners of these hovels are usually rich politicians so that the Negro keeps on existing in them as they are, since the city is loath to punish its favored children. Only a few months ago several Negroes were killed and others wounded in just such a place but the matter was hushed up after its first appearance in the newspapers. The Negro is forced to pay higher rent, comparatively, than any other worker in the city. Very often his rent amounts to one half of his week's wages. Bad housing conditions and high rents are two serious problems that face the Negro worker.

There are many others. All of these are supplementary to the Negroes' position in industry. The boss doesn't give a damn about the Negro's color if he is willing to work for less pay. Fellow worker, you are being exploited as a worker. Bridge the chasm of resignedness. Your only struggle is the struggle between master and slave. Enter the ranks of the militant workers in a common fight against a common enemy.

LUMBERMEN SUFFER HUGE WAGE SLASH

By LELAND OLDS (Federated Press).

The sharp deflation suffered by the unorganized lumber workers of northern Wisconsin and Michigan since 1920 is revealed in a report of the Northern Hemlock & Hardwood Mfrs. Assn. on mill and woods wages. These wage slaves of the north woods have been forced to accept cuts ranging as high as 50 percent. The trend of wages, already inhumanly low, continues down.

Loggers have been handed the sharpest cuts in wages. All but 2 of the 8 occupations in this group have been cut more than 40 percent since 1920 and as usual the biggest reduction hit the lowest paid workers. Swampers' wages, averaging $72.75 a month in 1920, have been cut in half. For May 1928 their average wage was $36.47, Engineers who averaged $142.12 a month in 1920 were cut only 10 percent. They got $111.86 in May 1928.

Out of 13 occupations in the sawmills 8 have been forced to accept wage cuts of more than 25 percent and only 2 were cut less than 20 percent. In this group common laborers were cut 32 percent, from $4.50 a day in August 1920 to $3.08 a day in May 1928. Lumber handlers have suffered almost as severely with wages reduced 31 percent, from $4.79 to $3.32 a day. At the other extreme are the relatively few skilled band sawyers whose wages have been cut only 12 percent, from $8.63 in 1920 to $7.65 in 1928.

SHINGLE WEAVERS UNION ORGANIZED

Demand Freedom of 8 Centralia Victims

HOQUIAM, Wash., June 11. — The International Shingleweavers Union held its first international convention here on May 21 to 23. The union now numbers 900 shingleweavers thruout the northwest. It is independent, having no affiliation with the American Federation of Labor.

Nine delegates attended the convention. The international organizers reported that even though the organization is only a year and a half old, many members have joined in districts where there never was any form of organization, and that every mill in the United States and Canada would soon have union members working in it.

The union went on record for the 40-hour week; for the organization of every section of the industry under the name of the International Shingleweavers' Union of America; for the immediate release of the 8 Centralia victims now in Walla Walla penitentiary.

POLICE DESTROY MEXICAN PAPER

Authorities Deny What 50 Witnesses Saw

(By a Worker Correspondent)

LOS ANGELES, Cal. (By mail).—During the last 6 months I have had a lot of trouble with the police of this city in connection with El Machete, organ of the Mexican Communist Party. One of the paper's sub-agents, Taboada, was arrested several months ago; copies of the paper have been confiscated twice; intimidations are numerous.

On March, 1928, 50 copies were destroyed at the Plaza by Patrolman Geo. Lungu, No. 903. Instead of sending me to jail, he took me on a trip for rough handling in Chinatown—with its dens of protected vice.

On May 7, 1928, I outlined the case, in writing, and sent the same, including a bill amounting to $2.50 to Chief of Police James E. Davis. The chief's answer, dated May 16, 1928, follows:

"Dear Sir: Referring to your communication of May 7, 1928, against Officer Geo. Lungu, No. 903, alleging that he has destroyed papers belonging to you to the extent of $2.50

"We have investigated this case thoroughly and are in receipt of reports from the two officers who were concerned in this incident. Our investigation has disproved your allegation that Officer Lungu destroyed your papers.

Yours truly, James E. Davis, chief of police. By C. A. Hodson, deputy chief of police."

Professor Pedro Robles, Mexican naturalist, was speaking at the time said destruction took place. Robles and at least 50 other people were all eye-witnesses to the illegal act committed by Officer Lungu. He is however, too much of a coward to admit his lawlessness.

Although the chief didn't communicate with a single one of my witnesses, he has the nerve to falsely state: "We have investigated this case thoroughly, etc."

Klan Bombs Homes of Negroes in St. Louis

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 12. — The forty-second bombing of Negro homes by the Ku Klux Klan and its hoodlum sympathizers or employes injures Mrs. Anna Holliday, 4035 Evans Ave., and her 10-year old daughter. It was the second time within four months the Evans home had been bombed, apparently by dynamite. Four other families in the neighborhood received threatening letters.

OLD MAN KELLOGG TALKS OF PEACE AT SWELL FEAST

But "Daily" Man Gets Only Fruit Salad

we waited impatiently for the discourse of the old man.

We warmed to the inspiring words of the Reverend Edgar Franklin Romig, D. D., chairman, General Synod's Tercentenary Committee. "And now that we have presented the wonderful ladies of the arrangements committee, we will now ask everybody to drink to the health of the President of the United States in frozen, crystal water."

They all stood.

Mr. Kellogg was introduced by the former Senator Frelinghuysen who quoted bodily from "Who's Who" about the great man's achievements.

Lo, the Peace Maker.

"He is a prime mover in the cause of world peace. His usefulness and service is unsurpassed by any statesman in the world . . . He has been ambassador at the court of St. James . . . He participated in framing the Dawes Plan . . . He . . He . . He has received honorable degrees from six universities . . He . . He . ."

And Kellogg began.

His hands trembling, the pink-cheeked statesman read about the glorious history of the Dutch Reformed Church and the Coolidge administration. "The whole world is sick of war and are dedicated to the hope of renouncing conflict as a means of settling international disputes," he chirped. "Church fabric of civilization . . far-flung influence . . real opportunity . . peculiar responsibility . . preservation of peace . . grand conception . ."

"There are cynics," Kellogg reported contemptuously, "who underestimate the possibility of world peace, who refuse to listen to the plans being worked out by us."

An Historical Moment.

Applause. The chairman said he would entertain a motion "that the church approves every word of the speaker." Made, seconded and carried. The Old Man is preparing to leave. He looks flushed, frightened. He is coming to the door. Escorted by the huge Frelinghuysen. I approach. "How do you do, Dr. Kellogg." He accepts my hand modestly.

Innocently, I ask: "Will the peace proposals of which you just spoke stop the present war in Nicaragua?"

"That has nothing to do with Nicaragua," he chirped irritably. The pillars of the church forced me aside, and the big Jersey senator frisked the Old Man away to the elevator.

A great man!

It was a good dinner. The pious church people had a fine appetite. On the menu was found:

Coupe Carmen
Consomme Julienne
Sea Bass Sauté Meuniere
Breast of Chicken, En Casserole
Maison
(With Vegetables)
Salad Moderne
Mousse Pennsylvania
Cakes
Café

And then we joyously sang:

"We gather together to ask the Lord's blessing;
He chastens, and hastens His will to make known;
The wicked oppressing cease them from distressing;
Sing praises to His Name; He forgets not His Own!"

Massachusetts Old Age "Pension"—$.35 a Year

BOSTON, Mass. (FP), June 12.—Massachusetts legislature mocked aged penniless workers when it approved a measure establishing a public bequest fund. When $500,000 has been put into this fund by private donors, the interest becomes available for the relief of dependent old people.

Seventy-three thousand people over 65 years old in Massachusetts have neither property nor income. If the fund ever reaches the $500,000 mark, but $25,000 in interest would be available for the aged, or about 35 cents a year. Foreign born workers would not be included.

KENTUCKY JAILS STARVE CONVICTS AND FAMILIES

Prisoners Earn $23.40 Per Year

WASHINGTON, June 12 (FP).—How poverty and suffering are forced upon the helpless families of men convicted of crime in Kentucky is graphically told in a report "Welfare of Prisoners' Families in Kentucky."

Until 1920 the laws of Kentucky did not provide payment to prisoners for their labor. Now the wage for convicts employed in contract shops is usually 10 cents, but in some cases is 15 cents a day. The maximum that a prisoner can earn and send home to his family is $23.40 a year, unless he is employed on road work. In that case he may get 50 cents to $1 a day. But no prisoner is required to send any of his earnings home. Families apply to the mutual welfare league, established by state reformatory inmates in 1920, through their breadwinner in prison, and he contributes 50 percent of his earnings as a part of the aid they render. This aid cannot be more than $5 a month for the mother and $1 for each child.

Three-fourths of the families studied were compelled, after the man went to prison, to leave their homes for cheaper quarters. Mothers found it "extremely difficult" to get employment. Most of them did domestic work or farming, while a few got into factories. One mother earned $9.65 a month in a cannery, to which she walked daily two miles while keeping her four children in school. When there was no work in the cannery she occasionally got a job as laundress.

More than four-fifths of these families had been self-sustaining before the father was imprisoned; after losing the breadwinner only one-fifth of them were self-sustaining.

Wall Street Nominates Two Candidates

"Wall Street is against Hoover."

With these little words, among a thousand other things, Wall Street is nominating Hoover in the republican convention. Several months ago the "open secret" went out—from Hoover's headquarters—that "Wall Street considers Hoover unfitted temperamentally to be president."

But is there anyone so childish as to believe that Wall Street is against Hoover? Unfortunately there are tens of millions who believe it. This sort of stuff is effective in bewildering and neutralizing the minds of millions of the small capitalist elements as well as farmers and the most backward elements of the working class.

All the time Herbert Hoover was, as he remains, the first choice of the colossus of finance-capital—Coolidge's continuation in office being inexpedient.

To doubt that Hoover is the candidate of Wall Street would be to doubt that Coolidge is the highest servant of finance-capital.

"I am satisfied that such a course (the nomination of Hoover) . . . meets the approval of our beloved president," says Bill Butler, chairman of the republican national committee. Does anyone think that the chairman of the republican national committee, who is also the big open-shop boss now trying to starve and strangle the textile workers of Massachusetts, is fighting Wall Street?

Andrew W. Mellon, the personal example of the merging of the highest finance-capital with the government apparatus, has thrown the 79 delegates of Pennsylvania to Hoover. Is Andy Mellon fighting Wall Street? Andy Mellon is Wall Street.

The fact that the New York delegation is the scene of a sham battle with Charles D. Hilles in the role of "holding out" against Hoover, indicates only the same political strategy of putting Hoover over as a candidate unapproved of Wall Street.

The other fact—that the American Federation of Labor is begging at the door of the republican convention with proposed "planks in the interest of Labor"—together with the outright endorsement of Hoover by sections of the trade union bureaucracy, is but another indication that Hoover is the candidate of Wall Street. The American trade union bureaucracy, which today does not even support the second layers of capitalist society, but gives its support outright to the biggest trusts and banks, to finance-capital, inevitably seeks to support Hoover or Smith. The bureaucracy of the American labor movement makes the support of imperialism the center of its creed.

Hoover, the candidate of Wall Street, may not be elected—and yet Wall Street will not be defeated even in this event. For Wall Street has captured both conventions.

Finance-capital plays both of the big capitalist parties and wins both games. If it cannot put over Hoover, it can put over Smith with no further disadvantage than a shake-up of personnel in the apparatus of government.

When William Green appeals to the two large imperialist, open shop political parties, the gist of his purpose is indicated in his promise, as couched in his own slavish language, that a few dickerings with such treacherous bureaucrats as himself will tend "to create a feeling of hope and satisfaction among the masses of the people"—hope in, and satisfaction with, the brutal oligarchy of capital exploiting and ruling over the masses of workers and farmers.

Never before has the world seen such complete power in the hands of so small a group, as is exercised by the potentates whose candidate and alternate candidate are Hoover and Smith. But never before has there been such clear certainty that this oligarchical power will be destroyed, nor has ever before been so clearly visible the generating of forces that will destroy it. For never before have the masses been so completely in the position of subjection where there is no way out but the struggle against the capitalist power, centralized in the merger of finance-capital and government.

The duty of all militant workers and exploited farmers is to make this election campaign the means of developing and strengthening the influence of the revolutionary party of the working class—the only anti-capitalist party—the Workers (Communist) Party. To vote Communist, yes—and to build the Workers (Communist) Party by ripening and drawing into its ranks all of the courageous and class-conscious workers who can be made to understand its revolutionary program of struggle.

Fine Militant Carpenter $200

One of the most treacherous tricks ever played by John Halket, president of the New York Building Trades Council and his henchman, Sam Wilson, is the $200 fine recently imposed upon Brother J. Alchibigar of Carpenters Local No. 1164.

This case is more than a year old and has been fought out time and again in the local union, District Council and with General President Hutcheson.

The case in brief is as follows:

This brother was the shop steward in the Forest Trim Mills in Greenpoint, Brooklyn. The shop was signed up by the labor officials, but non-union men were permitted on the job. In some cases wages were increased from 25 to 50 per cent, due to the efforts of Alchibigar. Brother J. Alchibigar objected to hiring non-union men and the boss tried to bribe him, then offering him money and a better job. But failing to corrupt this union brother, the boss called upon Wilson, the General Shop Agent to help him. This servile tool of the bosses, Sam Wilson, induced the local business agent to prefer charges against Alchibigar for violation of Section 18 of the district council trade rules, against making false and slanderous statements regarding working conditions in the shop.

In charging Alchibigar with violating Section 18 all fundamental rights of a union member were violated, the charge not making any specifications, as to when, where and at what time such "slanders" were made. If these "slanders" were made at the local meetings then the local should have tried Brother J. E. The trial board should have consisted of five men, but this rule was also violated. No opportunity was given the union member to challenge the three members of the trial board as the rules provide. "Czar Johnny" Halkett was partial, as may be expected. Among other things he declared:

"The question is not as to conditions in that shop, but as to slanderous statements, which you made against the Business Agent."

What does this highly paid labor faker care for union conditions in the shops? He is concerned that his henchmen and business agents should not be "slandered." The charges at the same time grew out of bad shop conditions against which Brother Alchibigar objected to and tried to remedy.

District 7 Miners Adopt Militant Program

(Special to The DAILY WORKER.)

WILKES-BARRE, June 12. — The Tri-district Save-the-Union Committee of the Anthracite has adopted the following program of struggle against the corrupt Lewis machine officialdom and in solidarity with the soft coal miners.

* * *

To All Local Unions and
To All Members of District 7, U. M. W. of A.
Greetings:

This program is issued to the members of District 7 to call attention to certain glaring evils and dangerous developments which threatened the very life of our union.

The whole mining industry is in a crisis. In the soft coal fields mines have produced twice as much coal as can be absorbed by the market. This has caused unemployment and suffering for thousands of our members.

This situation affects the anthracite industry as well. The anthracite industry is only beginning with these crises while the soft coal industry has been going through them for a number of years. We here in the anthracite are seeing the introduction of machinery, the speed-up system, by which the coal companies have increased production; on the other hand in cutting wages, undermining of working conditions and the elimination of thousands of miners from employment. We also notice that such substitutes as oil, electric power and coke are narrowing down the market for anthracite coal.

A New Situation.

All this presents to our union a new situation which must be solved. Instead of trying to solve the problem our union officials of District 7, led by Kennedy and Mattey, are adopting the policy of John L. Lewis and the Consolidation Coal Company in the soft coal fields and excluding miners from the industry as they are trying to exclude 250,000 in the bituminous field.

Our district officials have done nothing to meet the speed-up, the introduction of machinery, the special mining contract system and unemployment.

The district board, led by Andrew Mattey, did not see fit to mobilize the miners of District 7 in preparation to fight against the coal companies who are taking advantage of this situation and are preparing an open shop drive as in the soft coal fields, and who have already proceeded with wage cuts in violation of the agreement, undermining working conditions and trying to get control of local unions.

The Lewis-Kennedy-Mattey machine in our district has concerned itself with only the question of how to get rid of fighters in our union, as in the case of the Silver Brook local in McAdoo, and with threats to take the charters from other local unions which refuse to expel from their ranks members who fight and stand with the rank and file.

Stand With Soft Coal Miners!

Immediate and concentrated action based on a program which will restore the union to the membership is needed:

(1) The fate of the union in the anthracite and our district is bound up with the struggle of the bituminous miners who have been so heroically fighting for fifteen months against the open shop and industrial slavery. If the operators succeed in smashing our union in the soft coal field, the anthracite operators will undoubtedly launch a desperate onslaught to break our union in Districts 1, 7, and 9. The same companies for which we are working in our district, own mines in the soft coal region and they have repudiated the agreement there. Our interests are bound up with the bituminous miners. We must stand by them 100 per cent.

Repudiate Lewis.

We repudiate the policy of John L. Lewis and his associates, who have carried on the policy of separating anthracite miners from bituminous miners, and who are at the present time dividing the soft coal miners by making separate agreements. In doing so they are helping the coal operators in destroying our union. Organize the unorganized is our slogan. John L. Lewis refused or has failed to do so. This alone is sufficient proof that John L. Lewis and his International Board cannot lead our union.

(2) Injunctions against striking miners have been used by the coal operators through their servants in court, which the Lewis machine have helped to put in by their so-called non-partisan policy. The Lewis machine has refused to carry on the fight against injunctions by mobilizing the masses of strikers on the picket line and by leading the picket lines themselves, and by working for a Labor Party, which would unite the workers to carry on the fight on the political field. The Lewis machine cannot fight against injunctions when here in our district it has used injunctions against the Silver Brook local union because the membership wants to build up and restore our union to the rank and file. How can he support the Labor Party, when he is a member of the party, whose judges and other public officials use their power to break the soft coal strike?

A Company Device.

(3) The Conciliation Board is a means used by the coal companies in our district to put the grievances of the miners on the shelf and not to solve them, to fool the miners and to postpone action.

We pledge ourselves to fight against the Conciliation Board and declare that the only way of settling differences is directly between the miners and the coal operators. We further declare that we do not favor the Anthracite Co-operative Association. Instead of unity with the coal operators, chambers of commerce, and other such organizations of the bosses, we are in favor of unity of action and solidarity with all workers in all trades for common action of the workers.

(4) It is a matter of common knowledge that grievances are almost never adjusted by district officials. Thousands of contract violations, refusals to settle grievances, underpayment of mine workers, actual wage cuts, unemployment, is all a part of the bosses' offensive against our union and working conditions, yet our officials do nothing.
